Dr. Stevenson

It was with regret we heard Tuesday that Dr. William P. Stevenson would no longer conduct the Wednesday morning chapel services. Dr. Stevenson has won many friends by these services.

Knowing that Maryville needed a pastor but that it could not afford to pay him a salary, Dr. Stevenson resigned his pastorate in Yonkers, New York, and volunteered his services. Dr. and Mrs. Stevenson came here in 1917, and last June celebrated their twentieth year at Maryville.

When money was being raised for the Contennial fund in 1919, Dr. and Mrs. Stevenson contributed $20,000. With Mrs. John Walker, Dr. and Mrs. Stevenson joined in providing the endowment for the College cemetery.

But Maryville's deepest debt of gratitude is caused by the unselfish personal service of Dr. and Mrs. Stevenson during their twenty years here.

We have all admired Dr. Stevenson for his genuiness, orthodoxy, unconquerable spirit, and ready wit. We shall miss his sermons.

SOME OBSERVATIONS

We suppose there there are those who for their own selfish ends purposely misconstrue the motives or remarks of others.

We suppose that there are unthinking students who tear important portions from books or periodicals in the library, or deface other property in an equally unthinking way.

We suppose that there are types of students known familiarly as chronic gripers whose unwarranted belly-achings reveal their poor taste and sour dispositions.

We suppose that there are those who continually sponge from their classmates, depending upon them for their needs, their notes, lessons—borrowers who waive their obligations as casually as some countries their war debt.

We suppose that there is another type of sponge, the deadbeat who refuses to help his group but insists upon its privileges, and who places heavier burden upon his class or organization by failure to pay dues.

We suppose that there are those whose narrow perspective of education causes them to overlook any extra-curricular activities, those who never take advantage of the opportunities provided by their activity fee.

We suppose that there are students who feel most natural in flyblowing somebody else who for the moment fails to agree with them on some given issue.

We suppose that there are killjoys who look upon any freedom of the sexes as immoral; on the other hand, those who confuse indecency with frankness, promiscousness with modernity.

We suppose that there are know-it-alls who gripe to other students, or hiding behind their anonymity, leave deadcat notes to newspaper editors.

In fact, we know it.

Credenda... Polonius

"MEN HAVE HONESTLY BELIEVED that women are willing to dethrone their intellectual accomplishments when they marry and to make men their sole life work." This interesting statement is a part of a revealing article by Eudora Richardson entitled "Intelligent Husbands Wanted" in the October FORUM. The author contends that women have been placed by men "on pedestals both unbecoming and uncomfortable". Defending the intellectual woman Mrs. Richardson states that "The woman who thinks deeply can also feel deeply".

IN THIS NOTEWORTHY ISSUE of an outstanding magazine there are other articles worthy of the thoughtful reader's attention. Try, for instance, "Must We Have Sermons?" and find Bruce Barton's conclusion. Or read the unstated defense of Senator Black and the Ku Klux Klan in Ben Cothran's article: "Ousting Judge Lynch" in which he opposes anti-lynching bills. Try James Myers' "Notes from the Diary of a Modern Circuit Rider" and view the relation of the church to the labor situation in Eastern Arkansas; Fairmont, West Virginia; Knoxville, Tennessee; Cincinnati, Ohio; Bethlehem, Pennsylvania; Tampa, Florida—the home towns of many of us.

EMIL LUDWIG, whose brilliant biography, THE NILE, we have just finished, writes of Hitler's imitation of Mussolini in "The Two Dictators". "Science Whispers of Immorality" is a searching article by Barclay Newman. Not at all the least is Sutherland Deninger's proof that "LaGuardia Will Win." And, for those rural Southerners who don't dream of conditions with which we urban Yankees are familiar, turn back to the September issue and read "Immorality in our Schools" by Geraldine Courtney.

OF ALL THE PERIODICALS worthwhile and otherwise now in circulation we select TIME, READERS DIGEST, FORUM, SCRIBNER'S, LIFE, and ESQUIRE in that order as being the best balanced periodical diet we could choose. And for those who complain of being too busy to read, (who are stating in reality that they are too busy going to college to become educated) Polonius read all of the articles in the October FORUM listed above in the space of two vacant periods the other morning.

LUCREZIA BORI is the Metropolitan Opera soprano who will sing tomorrow evening on the Ford hour. In three successive weeks we have heard John Charles Thomas, internationally known baritone, who is to sing here in February; Richard Crooks, Metropolitan tenor with whom every lover of music is familiar; and last week Kirsten Flagstad who is generally considered the greatest living soprano. Last Sunday the General Motors Symphony began its winter season.

Sadly mourning the loss of the late personalities column of yesteryear, we feel constrained to do our feeble bit to insure some of our campus moguls a niche in the annals of prosterity by immortalizing them herein. (Sh-h-h, really it's the editor's idea.)

News item: "Athenian sponsors girls-we-left-behind beauty contest. Enter your home-town favorite now." And here is your precocious correspondent with red-hot flashes of the contest's progress to date:

Number 134—, classified as type ZQ6, an entry of Rinford Woss, was leading the field with scattered returns available. 134—is a charming young thing with a solid tinorium frame and plush back.

Close behind 134—, however, is No. 83x, of type KY6 classification, submitted by Cill Bollins. Bollins admits that 93x is handicapped by a cardboard back, but thinks her 10-strand platinum wire for hanging will pull her in ahead of Woss, 134J, when the final votes are tabulated.

A black horse may upset the current favorites, however. Ston Deven's entry, Number 265H, classified as type QY2, has been climbing steadily toward the leaders during the day's balloting. Devens denies that his position as guardian of the ballot box has anything to do with 265H's surprising rally. To quote Mr. Devens: "What ballot box?"

An entry of Muce Brorgan's was outlawed by the committee on the following grounds: a—Brorgan had never seen the lady off the screen; b—ten other men submitted the same girl; c—everybody knew Brorgan never knew a good-looker like that.

When a freshman brazenly kidnaps a sophomore's date from under the very schnozzle of said sad soph, 'tis time for George to acquaint Harold with the score in this league.

"Good evening, folks. Walter P. Woofensnoofle bringing you a play-by-bite description of this football game. And believe me, no description could do justice to the luscious sweets for sale at the college Y store. There's the whistle, folks! And you'll whistle, too, when you see the tempting array of ice cream flavors at the Y store. The ball is snapped; it's a kick! But you'll have no kick coming if you patronize the Y store. Fincklewinckle carrying the ball through the line. And what a line of candies, sodas, and cookies is carried by the Y store. They're in the huddle, now. So why don't you get into a huddle with a cold bottle of milk after the game? It's a pass, folks! But don't you pass up a visit to the Y store after the game. Dillywilly gets credit for that pass. No credit at the Y store, folks."

TALK OF THE WEEK . By Arlene Phelps

Barbour Conducts Chapel Service

On Wednesday morning Dr. Clifford Barbour, pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church in Knoxville, addressed the student body and faculty in Voorhees chapel. In addition to holding degrees from the University of Pittsburgh, Western Theological Seminary, and the University of Edinburgh, Dr. Barbour is an alumnus of Maryville college and serves on its Board of Directors. For the past ten years he has been one of Knoxville's most popular ministers.

The subject of Dr. Barbour's address was "What is the True Nature of Man?". He laid special stress on the idea that while the social and physical sides of life have their place, it is the spiritual side of life that really counts and that makes for purposeful living.

Echo Vacancies to be Filled Monday Evening

Tryouts for the Echo staff will be concluded Monday evening at a meeting of the Student-Faculty Committee of Publications. Two vacancies, in the sophomore and senior sections, will be filled, and twelve freshman apprentices will be selected.

Freshmen trying out met Wednesday evening with the editor, J. T. Hunt, to receive instructions and suggestions for their tryout stories, which were due today at 3:00.

Miss Rich Supervises Drawing and Painting Work in Art Department

By specializing in drawing and painting, the art department of the college began its studio courses Monday, under the supervision of Miss Frances Rich, graduate of the Museum School of Fine Arts, Boston, Massachusetts. It is hoped that after the art students have painted still life pictures for a while, they will draw portraits with fellow students acting as models.

Color theory and design are the aims for the second semester with students becoming thoroughly familiar with color especially. Within a few years e art courses will most likely be so built that a major will be offered in these subjects.

Colbert to Conduct Music Clinics Soon For Voice Students

One of the newest methods of teaching music will be started soon, according to Ralph R. Colbert, instructor in music. The new method is that of the music clinic, which has proven very successful in a number of schools.

The clinic will be conducted at the present exclusively for voice students. All voice students taking lessons from Mr. Colbert will meet regularly to hear each other sing and to receive criticisms from the instructors. Mr. Colbert believes that the clinic will give the students experience in singing before audiences as well as help them discover flaws in technique and phrasing.

Four Remain in Hospital

Miss Geneva Hutchison of the Personnel office is still in the hospital because of an injured knee. Elizabeth Blankenship has recently been confined there with a cold. Ed Lorenz has been in the hospital for almost a week because of an infection in the leg. Lincoln Johnson has the flu.

Social Committee Planned Formal Dinner Wednesday

The social committee planned the first formal dinner of the year last Wednesday evening in Pearsons hall. The dining room was attractively decorated in the college colors, orange and garnet.

This dinner marked the initial appearance of Mr. Ralph Colbert's Jazz band, which played several popular pieces. Ruth Woods and Russell Hirsh, accompanied by Louise Felknor and Gerald Beaver, sang solos. One of Hirsch's songs was "Goodnight My Dearest Darling," by Lois Black and Gerald Beaver. Ralph Reed, trumpet, and Bob Rankin, accordian, played a medley of old popular tunes.

German Club Meets

The German club had its first meeting of the year in Alpha Sigma hall Tuesday evening. Helen Lady was elected chairman of the club for the first semester and two program committees which are to serve alternately were elected: Marjory Orcott and Marian Garwood, and Bob Koch and Edith Gillette.

The Billboard

Prof. Colbert put his proteges through their tricks at the Hiwassee-M. C. game last night and 'twas said by those present at the game that they were quite proud of them. How many realize the time put in by the band in preparation for these games? This week Ivan Elder was made an assistant in the Music Dept. Ivan has a big job ahead of him.

Friday at 4:30 many met in the Fine Arts Studio for the first meeting of the Disc Club. Edward Brubaker was the commentator. The subject was Dvoark's "New World Symphony."

Can you swing? The college dance band has the right idea about it. One's presence at the formal dinner Wednesday evening proves this without a doubt. "Happy" Colbert was the Master of Cermonies.

From time to time in this column in going to be presented "Who's Who" among the new students in the musical circles of the college. First on our list is Sam Cornelius who hails from Pittsburg, Pa. Sam is a freshman, brother of Max Cornelius (stage hand, carpenter, mathematician etc.) and has filled in a very capable manner the position left by Claude Riley in the band and "Little Symphony". Quite a feat for any first year man.

A great many good violinists feel it beneath their diginity to play second violin. Not so with "Fiddler" Dottie Haines, who nearly had to be forced into a first desk position with the "Little Symphony" this year. Bouquets to peanuts: Mack, Vance, and Felknor, who are going places as accompanists, have made places for themselves in the musical life of the College.

This year Misses Mack and Vance have been chosen to accompany Miss Horne and Mr. Colbert in the faculty recital Oct. 16, and Miss Felknor will be the pianist in the College String Trio replacing Elizabeth Moore, who did not return this year.

THE SPORTS EDITOR

MIGHT HAVE BEEN WORSE

Last night's grid performances was in our humble opinion almost as dismal as the weather is today.

It seems the Scots adopted a cat-canary attitude toward the heretofore-clawless Tigers. If that be the case, then they probably won't make the same mistake again. Hiwassee showed all that could be expected of a junior college of less than 200 enrollment and then some.

Their pony backfield, featuring the pugnacious Sanderson boys, generated more offensive power in the first half than did the Highlander backs. They showed in Smith a punter that continually had the Scots in hot water.

That element, more than any other one thing except Maryville's mental attitude, prevented any first half offensive on the part of the Scots. Smith's kicks, the long end-over-end variety, were continually fooling the safety men and forcing a too-careful handling of all Hiwassee's kicks.

Credit and blame for a somewhat lax performance by the Highlanders should be evenly divided between said Highlanders and the sadly under-rated Tigers, who showed why they gave the Carson-Newman Eagles such an unexpected fit.

That twelve point margin isn't so bad, maybe. We are just used to seeing little Hiwassee trampled by five or sixtouchdowns. If they are able to snap out of it once in a while, more power to them.

Then, too, just think for a moment what might have been. If Hughes had not made that tackle on the twelve yard line after a forty yard pass had almost tied the score, and if the same Hughes had not intercepted another Tiger pass and converted it into a 93-yard touchdown jaunt .....?

GONE COMMERCIAL?

Had you noticed the rather bizarre canvas covering which has been set up on the end of the student section of the Wilson Field bleachers? It bears an inscription, amply illustrated, something like this: "See the world's champion lady whip cracker."

Who would have dared to think it? Cheap exhibitionism!

VERY RANDOM

We predict that the Giants will score ten runs in the series game scheduled for today.....did you see our old East Tenn. Teacher's baseballing friend Wild Bill Anderson in the stands last night?.....seen and heard at the game....."Mr. Gillespie, your house is burning,".....a prudent freshman in house slippers at the half.....a large freshmen girl hanging on to the shirt tail of a small freshman boy also at the half.....a whole mess of freshman on the field .....Bill Young on the field.....Two sudden touchdowns.....a sad lack of extra-points .....empty field..... lights out.

INTRA MURAL ITEMS

By ROY TALMAGE

Fellows! Meet Gene Orr, member of the Y. M. C. A. Athletic committee replacing Russ Stevenson.

Juniors: Greet Bruce Morgan, newly elected class athletic director replacing Gene Orr.

Tennis

The undaunted Maryville spirit has been shown time and again on the tennis courts the past few weeks: We speak especially of Ted Gillingham, who after losing two straight sets in the finals came back to win three and make it two consecutive years as tennis singles champion; but we can't help but admire the pluck of Sophomore John Fisher, who played two matches off in one afternoon and came away smiling despite the fact that he hadn't won a single game.

The athletic committee wishes to acknowledge the co-operation given them this fall in their tennis program. Never before, to our knowledge, has the fall tournament run off so smoothly, even our constant companion, old man rain, cooperated with us until it came time to play off the finals—but that's another story. The committee would also like to show its appreciation to these students, not participating in the tournaments, who have so willingly given up the courts for the use of those playing off matches.

Doubles Tournament

This is the first time in several years that a doubles tournament has been attempted; its up to us to make it a success. Lets take advantage of the breaks the weather gives us and try to get it completed. Speaking of the tournament, we wonder what would happen if Dr. Lloyd and Van Cise were to defeat Gillingham and Marrow? And would we like to see that match between Fischbach-Kosloski and Colombo-Augustine. Yes, sir, there is plenty of excitement awaiting us in that tournament!

How can we talk of tennis when football is in the air? Already Dave Woodring is to be seen warming up on the sidelines. Everything seems to point to great games ahead. With last year's overwhelming seniors out of the way, who is going to take their place? The writer makes no predictions as to the outcome, but keep an eye on those Juniors. We might even be persuaded to place a bet on the Seniors if and when their team becomes composed of eleven men instead of six. In six-man football out? We leave it up to you. If enough of you show sufficient enthusiasm in response to your athletic director's call next week, this year's battlefield will be arrayed with the customary number of men; if not, then?

Remember! Football begins a week from Monday. Watch the bulletin board for your class notices.

POINT SYSTEM

Point System under the direction of Janet Talmage began practices this week. The classes are now playing soccer and will have their soccer tournament in about three weeks. There are many girls out to earn their letter, but there is still room for any others who would like to come out.

The women's tennis tournament, which is under the direction of the Y. W. C. A., began Wednesday and the first round of matches are now being played. These matches must be played off by Thursday or the game will be forfeited and no points will be awarded toward a letter.

Milligan Offers Test of Scots' Chances in SMC

Lead Strong Array of Conference Foes

One of the most attractive sport dishes to be served up for local enjoyment this season will be presented on Wilson Field Friday night when the Milligan Buffaloes come to town.

The Highlanders will be well pleased if they are able to repeat last year's 7-6 win, garnered by virtue of Jack Overley's placekick for the extra point at Johnson City. Incidentally, the Scots' lack of a dependable extra point converter may cause trouble, though Junior Odell's toe should do the opposition lots of damage before the season ends.

Odell and Jim Etheredge are in for a full evening if the Buffs 1936 performance is any indication of their present mode of attack. They really make life miserable for the defensive ends when they turn loose such backs as all-conference Bob Sturgill.

Milligan's 1937 record already bears a blot in the 20-0 licking absorbed from King last week. But even that fact doesn't offer any great amount of comfort, because, according to our most reliable information, King comes mighty close to being the class of the Smoky Mountain circuit.

Whether or not the Scots escape the

Gillingham Grabs Five-set Battle For Net Trophy

Morrow's Lead Overcome In Finals

For the second straight year Ted Gillingham defeated Frank Morrow Wednesday in the finals of the fall tennis tournament to win the cup as champion of the college. The match went to five sets, 3-6, 3-6, 6-3, 8-6, 6-2.

The match began last Saturday with Morrow winning the first two sets fairly easily. Then Gillingham came back in the third set to win 6-3 and when the games had to be stopped because of rain the score was tied at 8-8 with Morrow needing only two more games to win the match. Rain in the early part of the week prevented the completion of the match until Wednesday afternoon. Then a new set was begun, instead of finishing the one tied at 8-8 and Gillingham won 8-6. He breezed through the last set comparatively easily to win, 6-2.

On Thursday of last week Gillingham and Morrow reached the finals by defeating Keith Augenstein and Russ Colombo. Gillingham won 6-3, 7-5, 12-10, and Morrow won over Colombo 6-3, 6-1, 2-6, 7-5.

To gain the semi-finals Gillingham defeated McCammon, Augenstein beat Czepial, Colombo won over Morgan and Morrow defeated Lloyd. All four of the semi-finalists were seeded players, and three of the four played numbers one, two, and three on the tennis team last fall.

Sophs Suffer 5-0 Tennis Defeat By Frosh Racketmen

Freshman-Junior Final Is Forecast

The freshmen tennis team defeated the sophomores 5-0 on the college tennis courts last Thursday afternoon winning all of the matches comparatively easily.

McCammon, Number one freshman beat Stevenson; Akana defeated Fisher; Lloyd won over Borg; Talmage beat Etheredge; and the doubles combination of Akana and Talmage beat Stevenson and Etheredge.

This is the first year that a tournament of this kind has been planned and it is arranged so that every class team will play every other class team twice.

The freshmen team and the juniors with Van Cise, Morgan, Czepial, and Proctor are highly favored over any of the other teams to win the tournament. The deciding match will likely be played next Saturday when the juniors and freshmen clash. This afternoon the seniors play the freshmen and the sophomores meet the juniors.

A complete revised schedule follows:

Seniors vs. Freshmen—Oct. 9 Saturday.

Juniors vs. Sophomores—Oct. 9 Saturday

Seniors vs. Juniors—Oct. 12 Tuesday

Seniors vs. Sophomores—Oct. 16 Saturday

Juniors vs. Freshmen—Oct. 16 Saturday.

Every man has an appointment with success; few remember to keep it.

Third Quarter Drive Gives Scots 12-0 Victory Over Improved Tigers

Intercepted Pass by Hughes Brings Second Score After Dull First Half

By WARREN ASHBY

After being held scoreless in the first half by a lighter but faster Hiwassee college team last evening the Scotties opened up in the third quarter to score two touchdowns and to win the second home game of the season. 12-0.

It was Maryville all through the last half, especially the third quarter, and it was J. D. Hughes, freshman back, at the same time. After playing a better offensive game than is usually seen on the Maryville gridiron, Hughes in that scoring quarter intercepted a Hiwassee pass on his own three yard stripe and ran the length of the field, behind what perfect interference was neded, to complete the longest run so far this year and to score the second Highlander touchdown.

The Scots got off to a poor start during the first few minutes of play and neither team seriously threatened to cross the others goal throughout the first half. Odell kicked off to the Tigers twenty yard line and on the second play of the game, Smith of Hiwassee, put Maryville on the spot by quick-kicking to their ten yard marker. Odell punted out of danger and for the rest of the quarter play see sawed back and forth with Maryville attempting four passes, none of them clicking.

In the second quarter Morton fumbled on the Maryville 28 yard line and it was recovered by Hiwassee. But on two successive plays Jim Proffitt, alternate captain, threw the Hiwassee backs for a total loss of twenty-two yards. The half ended after Hiwassee had been thrown for another twelve yard loss.

The Highlanders came out with renewed spirit in the third quarter to score the two touchdowns. Maryville kicked over the goal line and play was resumed on the twenty yard line. Hiwassee punted to mid-field and after two running plays Burris carried the ball over for a first down to the Hiwassee 38 yard line. Morton made a good run of fifteen yards for another first down and Hughes picked up five through the line.

On the next play the Scotties completed the first pass of the game to the one yard marker, with Hughes tossing and Etheridge on the receiving end. After three unsuccessful plunges through the line, two by Burris and one by Hughes, the ball was put right on the goal line. Then on the fourth attempt Hughes carried it over for the first score of the game. Odell's attempt via placement for the extra point was wide.

Odell kicked off again, this time to the Hiwassee twenty-five stripe. And it was Hughes, playing a fine defensive game as well as offensive, who made the tackle. Later in the third quarter, O'dell didn't get his chance to boot the ball.

Maryville kicked to the Hiwassee 31 and Hiwassee punted to the Maryville 25. Burris gained nine as the quarter ended.

On the first play of the final quarter Burris made a first down and then Hughes followed this with a fifteen yard run to place the ball on the Scot's 45. After an incomplete pass Maryville punted to the Hiwassee twenty yard line. Maryville was penalized fifteen yards and then Taylor threw Hiwassee for a ten yard loss. Hiwassee was penalized on the next play and then they punted to Burrris on his own 18.

Hughes made a first down and Maryville was again penalized fifteen yards for holding. The remainder of the quarter was more or less of a punting duel and the play ended in mid-field just after Burris had made another first down.

Although the Scots were highly favored over the Hiwassee team last evening it took just about all they had to score those two markers and for a short while in the first half it seemed that the visitors might pull another upQuillan, of Hiwassee, completed the Several changes have been made in football rules this season. Among the most important changes:

1. The goal posts were moved back from the goal line to the end line, thus leaving the playing field the same length and the goal line the same as heretofore but putting the goal posts ten yards back of the goal line.

2. On all shift plays all players must come to a full stop and remain motionless for one full second. This has almost completely done away with the shift play.

3. Any backward pass, other than one from the center, which strikes the ground is a dead ball and is put in play by the side making the pass, at the spot where the ball hit the ground. Heretofore it was a free ball and might be recovered by either team.

Frosh Keeps Door Locked Now

By GEORGE L. HUNT

Richard Olewiler keeps his door locked now.

It all happened like this:

Dick and two roommates, Dale Matthias and Harold Dysart, live in a large corner room on the fourth floor of Carnegie hall. A few doors up, on the other side of the hall, lives Bill Mooney. One night last week, Dick left the door to his room unlocked for roommate Matthias and went to bed. It was late, and lights were out. Dick was just going off to sleep, when he heard the door open. Then he felt someone get in bed with him. Thinking it was Dale in a prankish mood, he told him to get in his own bed. But there was no answer. So Dick, being too tired to bother ejecting his bedfellow by force, started to go back to sleep. But just when he was dozing off again, he heard the door open a second time. This woke him up, and he looked out of his bed to see roommate Dale standing by the desk. But there was still a large form beside him in the bed!

Now Dick is an impressionable freshman, and he didn't like this newest Maryville custom. So he shouted to Harold in the top bed and Dale in the middle of the room, but to no avail. Whoever it was that was sleeping there, he did not awake. So the three roommates forcibly pushed the person out of the room and locked the door.

Where does Bill Mooney come in? Well, if one wanted to be facetious, he could say wherever the spirit moves him. For young Willie is an unfortunate sonambulator—or sleep-walker, if you must know. All his life he has been subject to midnight prowlings, but this was the first time he had succumbed since coming to Maryville. And just when he had no roommate to guide him! It was a sad case, but, as Bill remarks, it has its compensations. Suppose, for instance, that it had happened in a hotel?

But Richard Olewiler keeps his door locked now.

THE LENIOR-RHYNEAN

Students of Lenoir Rhyne college have ratified an amendment which provides for a new method of selecting nominees for various Student Body offices. The nominees will hereafter be selected by a student-faculty committee composed of five students and five faculty members. The students on the committee will be composed of one freshman, one sophomore, one junior and two seniors.

Maryville Ranks High

There are also some interesting notes about Presbyterian colleges in general which the Board passed on to us. There are fifty-four colleges, universities, and academies under the jurisdiction of the Board. Twenty of them are approved by the Association of American universities, and forty-two are sanctioned by the American Medical Association, Maryville, of course, is in both these groups.

There are twenty-one thousand students enrolled in Presbyterian colleges, and eight thousand of them are Presbyterians. In the matter of equipment and supplies, Hamilton college, in Clinton, N. Y., heads the list, being the most heavily endowed, containing the most expensive equipment, and having the largest library.

was called back for nine encores. His longest pass of the game for forty yards to the Maryville 15 yard line. Again it was Hughes who saved the night for the Highlanders, by making a beautiful tackle, when such a tackle seemed impossible.

The Hiwassee eleven attempted three running plays for no gain and it was the next play that Hughes intercepted the Hiwassee pass on Maryville's three yard marker, to make the longest run of the game and to score the next six points. On the attempt for the extra point the pass from center was bad and set, because of their speed. It was heads-up football all the way through for both teams and the light Hiwassee team put up a game fight.

Etheredge and Burris both played their usual outstanding game but both of these lettermen, and the playing of all the other lettermen, was overshadowed by a freshman who should go far in the football circles-none other than J. D. Hughes. If his playing keeps up for the remainder of the season, plus the playing of the remainder of the team, perhaps the Scotties will be on the way towards another Smoky Mountain conference championship.

Artists Series

rendition of the "Toreador Song" from Bizet's "Carmen" will always be one of the high lights of the Maryville College Artist series.

And this year will be no exception. Once more, Professor George Howell, chairman of the Artist Series committee, has secured three famed artists for concerts. Near the middle of November, Moritz Rosenthal, Polish pianist, will appear before the Maryville audience. Rosenthal, the last living pupil of Franz Liszt, was once court pianist to the king of Roumania and the emperor of the Austro-Hungarian empire. Last year, on his first tour of America in ten years, the seventy-four year old artist won nationwide acclaim in concerts from New York to Los Angeles and from Boston to St. Louis. Many will recall his appearance as guest artist on the General Motors Symphony program last winter over the NBC network.

Orlando Barera, youthful Italian violinist, came to America last winter for his first appearance in the new world. After his first concert in New York's Carnegie Hall, critics acclaimed him as one of the greatest violinists of all time, ranking with Spaulding and Kreisler. So well received was he that he was called back for a second performance in Carnegie Hall the same season—an unusual distinction for any artist. He returns to America once more and one of his first appearances will be on Voorhees stage, sometime in January.

Two years ago, in Soldiers Field in Chicago, a young American baritone sang to one hundred thousand people. For four consecutive years the same baritone voice has thrilled crowds averaging forty-five thousand in Forbes Field, Pittsburg. In February, that same voice—the voice of John Charles Thomas, of the Metropolitan opera—will be heard in Voorhees chapel. Widely heralded as the "Aristocrat of Singers", John Charles Thomas opened the current series of Ford Sunday Evening hours as guest singer.

Those representing the Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. in presenting the Maryville College Artist series are already hard at work filling orders. Don't miss any of these concerts.

Milligan Here Friday

Buffaloes' onslaught unscathed, the trouble is just beginning.

Steve Lacey's outfit heads a list of the really tough ones, the conference big boys, who must be downed before any loose talk about SMC laurels may be indulged in. After Milligan there comes Lenoir Rhyne, the last of the outside foes, then in order Cumberland, King, East Tennessee Teachers, and Appalachian.

That's a tough row to hoe in any man's league, and Friday night should give a pretty accurate measure of what to expect.

Morgan Announces Chilhowean Plans And Names Staff

Definite Saving in Price Of Annual Planned By Committee

Bruce Morgan, Chilhowean editor, announces that plans for the 1938 Chilhowean have been approved and are in progress.

The officers of the four classes, the student council officers, Weldon Baird, Chilhowean business manager, and Bruce Morgan, editor, met Wednesday evening with Professor Verton M. Queener to discuss plans and to arrange for raising a one-hundred-dollar deposit by both the senior and junior classes. Each class member is to pay a one-dollar deposit, which will be returned at the end of the year.

Including the one-dollar deposit, two dollars for class dues, a dollar-fifty for each picture, and four dollars for the Chilhowean, the estimated total cost for seniors will be about eight dollars and fifty cents, or about seven thirty-five if last year's picture is used. The cost last year was approximately eleven dollars. Juniors, with class dues a dollar, will pay seven-fifty.

The present contract with Benson Printing Co. at Nashville will probably be torn up and a new one made.

Besides Bruce Morgan and Weldon Baird other staff members are Helen Bobo, associate editor; Fred Rhody, athletic editor; Kenneth Van Cise, photographic editor; George Felknor, subscription editor; Arlene Phelps, art editor; and Etta Culbertson, club editor. Other associate editors and the assistant business managers will be elected later.

Fifth Founders' Day to be Oct. 30

Addresses to be Given on Maryville's First Teachers

President Ralph Lloyd released recently the plans for the fifth annual Founders day to be observed October 30. The program will be held in Voorhees chapel and will feature a choral composition by Mr. Ralph Colbert, director of the vesper choir, and addresses by two relatives of men whose lives and work in the interest of the college will be commemorated by the service.

The speakers are Paul W. Terry, M. A., Ph. D., professor at the University of Alabama, whose great grandfather, the Rev. William Eagleton, worked with Dr. Isaac Anderson as the first teacher at Maryville college; and the Rev. Darius Hoyt, was the second member of the college faculty.

The Colbert composition is the twenty-ninth psalm set to music, and is to be dedicated to Dr. and Mrs. William Patton Steveson.

Miss Ethel Davis Secured As Part-time Instructor in Piano

Miss Ethel Davis, sister of Dr. E. W. Davis, head of the foreign language department has been secured for part-time service as an instructor in piano. She began her duties last week.

Miss Davis received training in piano and organ at Missouri Valley college, from which she holds the Bachelor of Music degree; under Ernest Kroeger of St. Louis; at the New England Conservatory of Music; the American Guild of Organists, and she holds the degree of Associate of the American Guild of Organists.

In addition to a number of years of private teaching, Miss Davis has taught piano and harmony at her Alma Mater, Missouri Valley college, for eight years, and at Wilson college, Pennsylvania, for four years. Also she has had considerable experience as a church organist and for five summers was an accompanist in Chautauqua work.

Mrs. Snyder Returns

Mrs. Grace Pope Snyder, supervisor of women's residence, returned Tuesday morning from her home in Champaigne, Illinois, after a week's visit with her mother, who is seriously ill. Her condition is slightly improved.

Faculty Gives Several Rules For Initiations

The faculty has released the following rules to govern initiations:

1. No organization is to conduct any initiation which has not been approved in detail by the faculty sponsor of the organization, or, if there is no direct sponsor, without approval of either the Supervisor of Men's Residence or the Supervisor of Women's Residence.

2. All initiation ceremonies must be completed at, in, or during one regular closed meeting. They cannot extend over a period of days.

3. All hazing (any act which might possibly result in physical injury) is forbidden.

4. Initiates are not to carry out in public (i. e., outside of the organization's own meetings) any instructions designed to embarrass or humiliate them.

This is published because evidently some student organizations of last year did not understand these regulations. If every group complies with paragraph No. 1, above, there should be no difficulty this year.

Campaign Begins To Secure Organ

Several Donations Already Have Been Made

A campaign has been inaugurated to secure money to purchase a fifteen hundred dollar Hammond Organ for the Chapel. This will make possible the offering of lessons in pipe organ, and will also supply an organ for the chapel services.

Several persons have expressed the opinion that the money could be raised, and also a willingness to contribute if the fund were started. Mrs. R. W. Lloyd will act as chairman.

Mrs. Carl Michel (Edna Dawson '16) of Kansas City, Kan., was the first donor, and gifts from Mrs. John Walker of Morningside and Dr. Lloyd have given the fund a splendid start. It is hoped that many people, including faculty and students will wish to have a part in this needed addition.

Gifts or pledges may be given to Miss Katherine Davis of the Fine Arts department, or Edward Brubaker and Harriet Barber of the student body.

It has been hoped that the organ might be installed by Christmas.

30 Freshmen Try For Debate Under Queener

Thirty freshmen are now enrolled in Professor Verton M. Queener's freshman debate classes. This number will be reduced to about twenty within the next week by means of competitive speeches. At the end of the first semester tryouts will be held, and eight debaters will be selected to compose the squad for the second semester.

Plans are under way for another Freshman Debate tournament to be held at Maryville in the spring. This tournament was organized and held for the first time at Maryville last year under the direction of Professor Queener. This year the tournament will be enlarged, and freshman teams from outstanding colleges in Kentucky and Virginia, as well as Tennessee, will be invited to participate.

Many Graduates Expected Friday For Homecoming

Arrangements for Program Are Made by Alumni Association

A large number of Maryville alumni will return to the college next Friday to observe the annual Homecoming day. Contrary to the announcement in the college catalog, Dr. Ralph W. Lloyd stated this week that Homecoming day and Founders' day will be observed separately, next Friday and Saturday, respectively.

Mr. Joe Gamble, prominent local lawyer and president of the Alumni association, is in charge of the arrangements for the day. Miss Geneva Anderson is vice-president of the association and Mrs. Sara Moore Traylor is recording secretary. Miss Nancy Hunter is the acting executive secretary at the college.

The program for the returning alumni will begin as in past years with registration in the Alumni gymnasium at five o'clock Friday afternoon. The group will assemble at five-thirty at the barbecue pits which will be dug at the west end of the baseball diamond, for an old-fashioned barbecue supper. Mr. Gamble is in charge of a brief program of entertainment to be held in the gymnasium following the supper. The entire group will assemble again at their section of the stands on Wilson field at seven-thirty for the Homecoming football game with Cumberland university.

Because of the coincidence of Homecoming with the annual meetings in Knoxville of the East Tennessee Education society, an unusually large number of alumni is expected to return. More than a hundred graduates of Maryville college hold teaching positions in the eastern part of Tennessee.

Alpha Sigma Passes Amendment to Constitution At Its Last Meeting

The Alpha Sigma Literary society passed an amendment to their constitution at the regular meeting held last Saturday evening .

This amendment was passed by a unanimous vote, and states that a president shall be elected three times yearly, said president to appoint a program committe to serve for two weeks.

Preceding the program new members who had submitted their names for approval the previous week were sworn in. Julian Flores and Parker Santiago sang several songs native to their county, Puerto Rico. John Guigou and Donald Killian gave readings.

Studio Teas Sponsored By Dramatic Art Dep't

A studio tea, a new project sponsored by the dramatic art department, will be held the evening of November 20 in the Fine Arts studio. A one-act play, "For Distinguished Service" by Katherine Knox, will be presented with a cast composed of Carol Ward, Katherine Warren, and Louise Allen. Lois Black will give a reading at this program.

Studio teas will be held monthly in the Fine Arts studio. The program will usually consist of one-act plays.

Theta Alpha Phi Works Out Plans For College Year

Suggestions For Judges To Be Prepared by Fraternity

At a business meeting of the Theta Alpha Phi, honorary dramatic fraternity, held October 8, a brief outilen of the work for the year was passed on by the members, according to an announcement by Edward Brubaker, president.

It was decided to have a combined meeting of the four literary society committees for the mid-winters. The purpose of this combined meeting will be to solve the misunderstandings concerning the societies' plays, and to present to the committee facts about the Theta Alpha Phi cup, presented to the society with the best mid-winter. The committee will be informed as to what the judgment is based upon, and information concerning the selection of the plays and the selection of the cast will be given.

Theta Alpha Phi also plans to make out a list of suggestions for the benefit of the critics and judges of the mid-winters. The fraternity will present several one-act plays during the year.

Answers were received as to the vote on the type of plays that the students desire most. The trend seems to be in the direction of modern instead of historical plays, and so it is doubtful that any of the historical type will be produced this year. The trend also seems to be in the direction of comedies, preferably modern.

Committee Fills Echo Vacancies

Fifteen Students Added To Paper Staff

At a meeting October 12, the Committee on Publications filled fifteen vacancies on the staff of the Highland Echo. This election followed a series of competitive tryouts for the various positions.

Mary E. Haines, senior, and Mignonne Myers, sophomore, were elected to replace John McIntyre and Rupert Woodward, who failed to return this year. Miss Haines has been appointed activities editor, and Miss Myers will serve as reporter.

The twelve freshmen apprentices elected are the following: Aline Campbell, Samuel Cornelius, Patricia Criley, Lula Wade Diggs, Philip Evaul, Bill Felknor, Miriam Nethery, Mary Orr Douglas Steakley, J. Edward Thomas. Jean White, and Tommy Woolf. Bob Moore was elected freshman assistant on the business staff.

Two of these freshmen, Felknor and Steakley, will cover sports; the others will write general news.

Brown Speaks At Forum

Mr. George Brown spoke at the meeting of the Peace Forum in the philosophy classroom Friday evening on "What the College Student Can Do About War." An Armistice Day program is being planned by the Forum, details of which will be announced later.

McClelland Assumes Duties Of Director Of Personnel

Dr. Frank McClelland

New Faculty Addition Will Also be Manager of Bookstore

Dr. Frank D. McClelland, prominent young educator and former Maryville college student arrived last week to assume his new duties as Director of Personnel and manager of the book store. Dr. McClelland comes to Maryville from Pikeville Junior college, Pikeville, Kentucky, of which he has been president for the past five years.

He holds an A. B. degree from Grove City college where he graduated in 1921, the degree of Master of Science, and an honorary Doctor of Laws from his Alma Mater conferred in 1936. His freshman and sophomore years were spent at Maryville, but were interrupted by the World was, at the termination of which he matriculated in Grove City, his family having moved to Pennsylvania in his absence. After graduating he was for two years principal of the Plain Grove high school, Pennsylvania, and for the next 14 years, successively instructor in science, dean, head of the department of chemistry, and president of Pikeville college.

Dr. McClelland is interested in various activities. He is a member of the Rotary club, the American legion, and the Junior College Testing Committee of Kentucky. He has been an elder and the clerk of session in the First Presbyterian church of Pikeville. He also writes concerning his varied interests, an article on "Education Progress," in the Louisville "Courier Journal," several in the laymen's series of Sunday School lessons in the Louisville "Herald", and articles in the "Journal of Chemical Education", being among his most recent publications.

Dr. McClelland has distinguished himself in every field in which he has been engaged. While an undergraduate at Grove City he was manager of the College annual, editor-in-chief of the student weekly, member of the debating team and the Y. M. C. A. cabinet, commencement orator, and president of the senior class.

During the war, he enlisted for two years in the United States Marines, a year and a half of which was spent in France. He saw front line service at Verdun, Balleau Wood, St. Mihiel, Champagne, and Argonne, and was cited for gallantry in action. He rose from the ranks of a commissioned office, serving as corporal, sergeant, platoon leader, and commissioned second lieutenant at Rheinbrahl, Germany, and remained with the army of Occupation until his return to the United States in May, 1919.

Medical Aptitude Tests to be Given

Students Must Register by November 5

The Medical Aptitude Tests as administered for the past seven years by the Association of American Medical Colleges has been scheduled for December 3 and all students planning to take the test must register by November 5, according to an announcement by Dr. E. R. Hunter, director of curriculum.

Each year these tests are given to the pre-medical students in the undergraduate colleges of the United States and now the test is one of the normal requirements for admission to medical schools. All those planning to enter the medical school in 1938 should plan to take the test on December 3. However, it is not necessary to have all of the entrance requirements for the medical college finished at that time.

Last year eighteen students in Maryville college took the tests. They were taken by 10,853 students in 627 different colleges.

Recent Issues of Two Publications Contain Stories on Maid Shop

Two articles about the Maryville College Maid Shop have appeared in recent issues of two magazines published by the Publication Department of the Board of Christian Education of the Presbyterian Church. Both articles are accompanied by pictures of the maid shop and some of the girls who work there.

On the cover of "Forward" of October 9, is a picture of Thaw Hall with a group of students on the steps.

"College Maids" by Grace Miller in the same magazine tells the story of the origin and work of the maid shop. The pictures and part of the articles stress the fact that some of the most influential women of the college may be found working in the maid shop.

"College Mades by College Maids" is the title of the article in "Pageant, A Preview". The same pictures as those in "Forward" are found here, but the content is not the same. This shows how Maryville finds jobs for its students and markets for the goods they make, tells the methods of advertising for College Maid, and the number of places which order from them.

Plays For Midwinters Considered by Societies

Though no definite decision has been made concerning the selection of a play for the two Midwinters to be given jointly by Bainonian-Athenian and Theta-Alpha Sig Literary societies, several are under consideration.

Among those suggested for the Bainonian—Athenian Midwinter are "The Fool" by Channing Pollock; "Quality Street" by Sir James Barrie, a recent vehicle starring Katharine Hepburn and Franchot Tone; and the two Broadway productions, "Red Harvest", and "First Lady."

Alpha Sigma and Theta Epsilon are considering Massingham MacDonald's "The Lake," an English drama which has just recently been released.

Freshman Class Elects Donaldson President

James Donaldson defeated Robert Lamont for the presidency of the freshman class in the election held last Thursday. Other officers elected are Lily Pinneo, vice-president; Sue Stevenson, secretary; and Charles Baldwin, treasurer. Representatives to the Student Council are Thelma Ritzman, Mary Orr, David Talmage, and Dale Russell.

The regular election was held Wednesday but since no candidate secured a majority of votes, another election had to be held Thursday between the two receiving the highest number of votes.

Musical Groups Climax Activities in November

The college little symphony and the band will climax their fall activities early in November. The band will take its annual football trip November 13, to Johnson City where the Maryville-East Tennessee Teachers college game will be played. The orchestra will play in chapel. Nov. 10 has been set as a tentative date.

The band has been practicing the "Washington Post March," "Under the Double Eagle," "The New Colonel March," and "The National Emblem," for the occasion. The orchestra will play Beethoven's "Egmont Overture," and the Strauss waltz, "Tales from the Vienna Woods."

Fireman's Job Keeps Him Always Busy

By OTTO PFLANZE

Ask students what the most important spot on the campus is and you'll get a variety of answers. Some will say the library; the more practical will say the treasurer's office; while the more romantic will tell you it's any place where there happens to be a convenient bench. But they're all wrong, for the most important place on the campus is that low brick building in the middle of the campus known as the college heating plant.

I ventured down into the gloomy pit beneath that peaked grey roof last week and interviewed the chief fireman, Tom Hutsell. Tom's job is the dirtiest, the most back-breaking on the campus. Ten hours a day he travels back and forth in front of a row of four fire doors. His shovel bites into the pile of coal, and with a practiced, rhythmical swing he sends the lumps flying into the flames. On an average of every three minutes he goes down that row and stokes the fires. On the coldest days of the year Tom says he does it oftener than that. He no sooner gets through with the last door when the first one demands attention again. On such days Tom shovels from five to six tons of coal into the fire.

Tom does his job so well that the complaints are few and far between. Mrs. Queener, college athletic instructor, told him one day that the gym was too cold for her classes. Next day she came back to inform him that he was overdoing it somewhat. One of the girls in her class had fainted. On another occasion one of Tom's assistants unknowingly shut off the heat to Carnegie. That night the weather turned extremely cold, and Carnegie was like an ice box. Mr. "Mac" came down the next morning and drawled good naturedly, "Um, I think we'll save now, Tom. You can give us a little heat."

Accidents happen once in a while down there. One day about two years ago Tom climbed up on top of one of the huge boilers to make an adjustment. He was standing on the edge of the boiler with the open pit in front of him and a complicated jungle of pipes, gauges, and valves at his back, a check valve on which he was working suddenly came loose. The scalding steam came rushing up into his face. Tom found he must either jump forward into the pit some twenty feet below or go back over the pipes. He chose the latter. With his hands protecting his badly burned face he climb-

THE 1938 CHILHOWEAN

There has been much discussion this year as to whether Maryville would continue publishing its Chilhowean. After many committee and class meetings, it has been decided to put out a yearbook on a new plan.

A deposit of $200 is to put up jointly by the two upper classes. A written agreement between the junior class, and the business manager and editor, holds the latter accountable to the class. The class agrees to pay the editor and business manager the sum of $100 each, after all obligations have been met, whether or not a profit results from the publication.

The book is to cost not more than $2000, on the basis of 400 copies. Last year's book cost about $3600. The difference in cost has led some to think that a good annual cannot be published at that price.

One senior who doesn't want a book and apparently doesn't want anyone else to have one, made the specious statement that the '38 yearbook will "cost half as much and be twice as expensive as last year's book", whatever that means.

One of the most important changes in the new system is that those who receive yearbooks will be the ones who will pay for the publication. That has not been the case before this year. Formerly, about 700 or 800 students paid a large part of the expenses, but only about 400 received books. Most of the class dues went toward the Chilhowean.

Now, the senior class dues have been cut from eight dollars a year to two dollars, and the other class dues have also been cut considerably. Only a small part of the money obtained by dues will be used for the book. The cost of individual pictures will be paid for by the four dollar purchase price and not by the class.

We take issue with those who say that the proposed book will look like a theism syllabus with a picture or two of the campus in it. Of course the book will be somewhat smaller, but with good management, this year's Chilhowean should be a book of which we can be proud.

Two Hundred Dollar Deposit

In order to publish a Chilhowean this year, a deposit of two hundred dollars, ten percent of the total cost of the book, must first be made. It was agreed by the two upper classes that each would put up half of this amount.

The dollar deposit that is being asked of each upperclassman is not a part of his dues or a down payment on his book. It is a deposit that will be returned to him, except in one case of a deficit, at the end of the college year.

Someone will be around to see each junior and senior. You voted to raise this money. Now give your share.

Remember that if this deposit is not made by November 2, the plans for publishing a Chilhowean will be dropped, and for the first time in thirty-two years, Maryville will not have a yearbook.

TALK OF THE WEEK by Arlene Phelps

Credenda... Polonius

If, unknown to anybody but yourself, you could press a mysterious button which would cause the death of a solitary Chinese peasant and thereby receive ten million dollars, would you do it? Consider first the fact that Christian ethics forbids murder. Consider then the number of lives that could be saved by the use of that money for flood control, hospitals, food and clothing, education. What is your answer?

Now confuse yourself with this. Would you be willing for someone to press a button which would cause you to die tonight, if by that sacrifice the one you love most would receive ten million dollars to be used however that person saw fit? Answer the first problem alone, then work the second. The problems are old, but your answer to them is more significant to yourself than you think.

— M. C. —

Someday some young scholar will get a Ph. D. in psychology for making a study of the relation of intelligence, achievement, and contentment of adults to the use of their leisure time in their college days. To see intelligent looking college women go down day after day to spend the afternoon in the booth of a drug store doing absolutely nothing is really amazing to the busy student. What the conversation of people who read no books, no magazines, find no time for studying, who are bored by their classes and their classmates, is hard to imagine. College men have, for the most part, been so ridiculed as "drugstore cowboys" that they no longer loiter in public. Whether the Maryville "drugstore dolittle" is a passing fad similar to the light-headed flapper of a decade ago or not, it is certain that she is her blood relation.

Fits and Fizzles

By FRED RHODY

We feel quite proletarian today. A sob escapes our lips and our eyes dim with tears when we think of that great body of common, ordinary college students—the forgotten men and women of the campus. How unfair to them is the present system of things: unequal distribution of grade points which permits the accumulation of vast sums of points on the grade cards of a very few students, while the great masses barely survive on an almost flunkation average. Do you realize that three percent of the students here control ninety nine and forty-four one-hundredths percent of the grade points? Shame, thrice shame, for the injustice of it all!

To the new director of personnel we suggest a five-point program to help the down-trodden group of college students gain its rightful heritage:

1-Redistribution of grade points now possessed by students, flowing the great principle that the last shall be first.

2-Extensive revision of the grading system, so that students who in the old obsolete capitalistic era flunked out will now get A's, and the present bloated plutocrats now flaunting high averages will grovel to get F's.

3-Immediate expulsion from college of anyone making over 70 per cent in a test, on grounds of such persons being out of harmony with the new program and purposes of this institution.

4-Prompt discharge of any faculty member found guilty of leaning toward the capitalistic system of favoritism by giving certain students higher grades merely because they are better students than the others.

Conferring the following degrees upon distinguished graduating students who merit them: L. D. (Doctor of Leisure); M. M. (Master of Moonshining); LL. D. (Doctor of Love Letters); O. S. M. (Master of Over-Sleeping); L. D. D. D. (Doctor of Dozing During Lectures); B. B. (Bachelor's Button); S. T. D. (Darn Tired Studying).

We present little-known campus personalities—people who hold unusual jobs around the campus:

Wilbert Yoohooloian-noted mathematician, surveyor and lawyer. He has the absorbing job of computing exactly just what boundaries and limits constitute the well-known central area of the campus.

Armature—Someone on Major Bowes' program.
Sugar daddy—A form of crystalized sap.
Project—New name for job. Invented by PWA.
Optimist—The guy who still hopes to see an armless fan dancer.
Taxi trip—Longest distance between two points.
Airplane cocktail—One drop and you are dead.

YMCA Issues 150 Cards To Maryville Students

One hundred and fifty Y. M. C. A. membership cards, which signify that their holders are members of the national organization, have been issued this year by the college chapter of the Y. M. C. A. Marvin Minear, president of the "Y", said that twenty other applicants for membership are to be voted on this week.

Any student willing to subscribe to the requirements of the organization may become a member by asking for an application blank. Those members who have not yet received their official membership cards may get them by calling at the Y. M. C. A. office.

75 Men Are Now Working On Campus Improvements

Mr. E. C. Brown, who is in charge of campus work, reported this week that seventy-five men students are now employed on the college campus.

A number of students are employed in the carpenter repair shop, and are now constructing new cabinets for the biology department. Others are employed in keeping the tennis courts in good condition, in mowing the grass, building new sidewalks, planting shrubbery, taking care of the golf course, and in other necessary improvements.

Members of Fine Arts Faculty Give Recital

Members of the Fine Arts faculty appeared in recital last Saturday evening in Voorhees chapel. Miss Katherine Davies, head of the Fine Arts department, contributed four piano compositions.

Mr. Ralph Colbert, director of the choir and glee clubs, sang a number of concert selections. Violin numbers were performed by Miss Dorothy Horne, music instructor. The program was brought to a close with "Sonata or Violin and Piano, Op. 100" by Brahms, played by Miss Horne and Miss Davies.

Evan Renne Wins Honors At Princeton Seminary

Evan Renne, who graduated from Maryville college last year, was one of eight men who passed the Greek placement examination at Princeton Seminary. Forty students took the examination. Those who pass the examination are not required to take Greek during their Seminary course.

Mr. Renne has also been selected as a regular member of the Princeton male choir. The twenty-four who make up the choir receive private instuction once a week from Mr. Baumgartner, baritone soloist of the Westminister choir school.

Juniors Will Go "Dutch" On Theatre Party Nov. 1

The Junior class will give a Dutch Treat party Monday, November 1. The evening will begin with a chicken dinner banquet prepared by the Eastern Star women. Later the Juniors will see "The Prisoner of Zenda" at the Capitol Theatre. The cost of the party will be eighty cents per person, forty cents which will be assumed by the Junior class treasury. This leaves forty cents to be paid by each Junior attending the party. The party will be Dutch Treat, each Junior paying for his or her ticket. Mary Chambers, chairman of the party committee, has asked that reservations for the banquet be made by Thursday, October 28.

Notice

All music students, whether those taking private lessons, or appearing in any musical organization, who have not taken the seashore musical ability tests will meet Monday evening at 6:45 in Dr. Briggs classroom. Bring a pencil.

Y. W. C. A.

Miss Clemmie Henry will address the Y. W. C. A. tomorrow afternoon at its regular meeting in the Y. W. room. Miss Henry has chosen as her subject, "The Marks of an Educated Woman."

Initial Frosh Program Addressed by Proffitt

Mr. F. L. Proffitt, college treasurer, spoke to the freshman class Wednesday morning following chapel in the first of a series of meetings as a part of the freshman orientation program. Dr. Ralph W. Lloyd presided at the meeting and introduced Dr. Frank D. McClelland, new personnel director.

The second of these meetings will be held next Wednesday morning. The subject will be "How To Study."

Hospital Notes

Miss Geneva Hutchison, who was recently confined to the hospital because of an injured knee, has returned to her work in the personnel office. Margaret Hodges and Marvin Nichols who were in the hospital a few days last week have recovered from their colds. Joy Corrigan is now confined with a cold.

A prohibition has been made that no radios should be brought to the hospital.

World of Health Will Be Feature Of New York Fair

NEW YORK (Special).—In a million-dollar medical and public health project of the New York World's Fair of 1939, man will be able actually to see himself in a way never before possible. He will be able to watch the operation of the various intricate organs which give him life. Also he will learn what science is doing for his bodily welfare and for that of the community in which he resides. He will be told in new and dramatic manner how to take advantage of the means, already at his hand, to insure his health and that of his family.

In no other international exposition than the New York Fair has a separate building been assigned for presentation of the story of medicine and public health. This structure, solely devoted to such a story, will be in the heart of the main exhibit area. Although not yet definitely named, it will house "A World of Health."

The exhibits for it are being planned by a General Advisory Committee composed of 101 national, state and local New York authorities in medicine and health already appointed by Grover Whalen, President of the Fair Corporation. Chairman of this Committee is Dr. Victor Heiser, whose reputation in these fields is international.

Animated Displays

There will be assembled in this building displays both colorful and animated which will portray man's anatomy and physiology and the workings of his numerous organs. In other words, visitors to the building will have an opportunity to see just what "makes them tick". Even one round of this building will tell them more about themselves than they have ever known before. Exhibits of the buildup and operation of human digestive, nervous and breathing apparatus will be so simply and understandably shown that descriptive matter will be practically unnecessary. The eye will be able to read the "story" without difficulty.

The building to be erected for these exhibits at an estimated cost of $360,000, will be divided into three main chambers of great size to be designated as "The Hall of Man", "The Hall of Medical Science" and "The Hall of Public Health."

A notable novelty in the presentation of exhibits in this building is that the visitor, in addition to seeing many which have never before been shown in public, will be able to manipulate several of the complicated models to produce, himself, the effects they were contrived to demonstrate.

Skull in Large Size

It is contemplated to construct a model of the human eye of such great size that visitors will be able to get inside it in groups and look through the giant pupil and, by adjusting levers, see what the outer world looks like to the far-sighted person, to one nearsighted and to one who may be cross-eyed or have other defect of vision.

Another exhibit in prospect will be a skull of such proportions that visitors may likewise get inside it and walk about to make themselves familiar with its structure, the cavities in which the eyeballs rest, and how the teeth are set in the jaws. Also they will be able to go to the rear part of it where there is the large opening through which breath passes on its way to the lungs and food on its journey to the stomach.

As Mr. Whalen pointed out in announcing the creation of the Fair's Advisory Committee on Medicine and Public Health, "the exhibits are not for doctors, but for the average man who often gets into trouble because he doesn't know the dangers nor even the danger signals when it comes to matters of health preservation."

INTRA MURAL ITEMS

By ROY TALMAGE

At its last meeting, the athletic board of control passed on the proposed plan of the Y. M. C. A. athletic committee to award class numerals to those participating in the interclass program. The awards will be made on a point system; participation in each sport credits to the individual a varying number of points, these determined by the quarters played (as in football or basketball), or the games played, plus a given number of points for the rank of his class in that sport. Thus a member of the champion football team playing in twenty out of twenty-four quarters will receive ten points plus an additional ten due to the class championship, making a total of twenty points received for football. Those making seventy-five points or more for the year will receive a set of the numerals of their respective class. The numerals will be orange and garnet, suitable for wearing on a sweater. If possible, there will also be awarded to those making sixty or more points an abbreviated numeral. The total number of points required is subject to change as it is the plan to award a minimum of fifteen and maximum of twenty-four sets of numerals to the four classes. To obtain a numeral, the student must be a consistent participant in the program through out the year. In the case of close decisions, sportsmanship and class spirit will be the deciding point.

The first half of the football schedule is as follows:

October 26—Juniors vs. Freshmen
October 28—Seniors vs. Sophomores
October 30—Freshmen vs. Sophomores
November—2 Juniors vs. Seniors

German Club Meets

The German club met Tuesday evening at 6:45 in the Alpha Sigma clubroom. The program was devoted to the singing of German songs. About fifty were present.

Next week "Little Red Riding Hood" will be given as a German play.

Sophs Have Party

A Circus will feature the Sophomore Halloween party to be held in town Monday evening, November 1. Officers of the class are trying to secure permission to use the Maryville High School Gymnasium which will be decorated to carry out the circus idea. Two high spots of the program will be the performance of ring master Warren Ashby and the chorus girl section composed of several male members of the sophomore class. This party is closed to all other classes.

Y. M. C. A.

This Sunday afternoon the Y. M. C. A. will have a dedication program honoring Dr. J. Kelly Giffen. A painting, da Vinci's "The Last Supper," has been purchased in memory of Dr. Giffen, and Dr. Ralph Lloyd will discuss the picture with the men at the meeting. Dr. Lloyd saw the original da Vinci painting when he was in Europe several years ago.

Presentation of the painting to the men and a few remarks about Dr. Giffen will be made by Winford Ross, vice-president of the Y. M. C. A. Dr. Giffen was Bible professor in Maryville college for the first semester last year and tragically met his death at the beginning of the second semester.

THE SPORTS EDITOR

In the absence of the most worthy sports editor one of the scribe aspirants must needs take up his pen and fill the "bosses" column with the weekly tripe. We mention this not for our own glorification but so that you won't, under any circumstances, consider this his work.

0-0. That was the score last night. We don't know yet any of the details of the game. When we heard it this morning we were, quite naturally, disappointed. But we must remember that Lenoir-Rhyne has a strong team. Or had a strong team before we played them. And then there is always next week to look forward to.

Which reminds us, that unless we miss our guess, the Highlanders will win the "Homecomer" next Friday night. At the same time defeating a team that beat us in 1935. Anyway we are hoping for the first Homecoming victory in recent years.

Next Tuesday marks the opening of the 1937 interclass touch football season, directed by Roy Talmage and the class athletic directors. We wouldn't dare make any prediction as to the outcome, but if we did we think that the Sophs have a pretty good team. Maybe we're prejudiced.

Everyday we let opportunities to do and see great things slip by. Such it is with the Women's soccer season which begins next week. For the past several years we have had the opportunity to see those games and we have neglected that opportunity. So now prepare to follow the crowds to the soccer games. (p. s. This was requested but it's true.)

Interclass Football Begins Soon

Interclass football, sponsored by the Y. M. C. A., starts again in a week or so. The teams this year are all sporting big names, and there promises to be a spirited battle for the class championship.

In the line-up for the seniors we see that Bill Young, Roy Talmage, Bill Irwin, George Brown, and "Nosey" Peterson, head the list. The two Literary Society president, "Spenny" Spencer, and Win Ross, have also decided to combine forces to defend the honors of the Class of '38.

The juniors have a powerful team this year, and are the favorites to annex the championship honors. Such stars (?) as Russ Colombo, "Waterboy" Bert Chandler, Red McCaskie, Bruce Morgan, and "Drummer Boy" Crane, comprise the nucleus of their eleven.

When Les Luxton leads the sophomore aggregation onto the battlefield (fifth green) Dick Woodring, Gibby Smith, and "Racquet" Morrow head the list of his valiants.

The "freshies" have an inexperienced squad out, but what they lack in experience they have made up in number and spirit. Numerous freshman, including Jim Miller, Dave Talmage, Gordon Findlay, Joe Magill, Harold Lawson, and Johnny Miller, are ready to let the upper classmen realize that there will be some tough opposition from the underdog.

Interest in touch football has been high this year. With all the classes having promising material, there ought to be some good games played this fall. The heavy favorites are the juniors, who were runners-up last year. Despite the fact that the odds are on the juniors, there should be plenty of competition from the seniors. However, with so many chances for an upset, no one can be certain of the final results. At any rate we look forward to an exciting season of interclass football.

Scots, Cumberland Clash Friday Night In Homecoming Tilt

Maryville Favored To Win After 21-0 Defeat In 1935

Seeking their first homecoming victory in recent years, Maryville's Scots will line up against Coach Nig McIlwaine's Cumberland university Bulldogs next Friday night.

Chances for a win this year are good, too, Cumberland being weak if the scores which come in are any indication. The once-powerful Bulldogs have been bumped three or four times already this season. They lost to Carson-Newman 12-0, to Appalachian Teachers 39-0, and more recently to Arkansas State Teachers 60-6.

With most of their injured players ready for service once more the Scots should be in good shape. They have a little bit of humiliation at the hands of the Lawyers two years ago to wipe out, too. It was in 1935 that Cumberland, led by the great play of Lindsay Donnel, swept the Highlanders off the field by a 21-0 count.

Donnell, one of the greatest halfbacks in the entire south that year, pulled everything but the hidden ball trick on the Scots. He outgained them by himself, getting away time and again for long end sweeps and quick thrusts at tackle. He was usually brought down by the secondary. That is when he was stopped at all.

The year before the Cumberland unpleasantness, East Tenn. Teachers had snatched the Homecoming fray 19-6. Then last year, in one of the most fiercely contested games seen on Wilson Field, the Teachers sneaked up again with a baseball score, winning 2-0.

The lone two points came in the third period when a Buccaneer lineman blocked one of Junior Odell's kicks on the 12 yard line. The ball rolled out of the end zone where it became an automatic safety and spoiled another day for the old grads.

This year it should be a different story. Unless the Middle Tennessee Lawyers show a direct reversal of form, Maryville should be able to take this game.

Gillingham, Morrow Take Doubles Title In Four Hard Sets

Defeat Fischback, Kosloski 6-2, 2-6, 6-3, 6-4

Ted Gillingham and Frank Morrow, finalists of the singles tournament, paired together to win the intramural doubles tournament from Coach George Fishbach and Pete Kosloski in four hard fought sets, 6-2, 2-6, 6-3, 6-4, Wednesday afternoon, October 20.

Fishbach and Kosloski got the jump on Gillingham and Morrow by taking the first two games of the match but the Morrow-Gillingham combination came back to take six straight games and the set, 6-2. Fishbach and Kosloski retalliated in the second set by winning with the same score.

Gillingham and Morrow did not drop another set, taking the third 6-3 and the fourth 6-4, but the losers put up such a stiff fight that the victory was not a sure thing until the final game was over. The Fishbach-Kosloski pair took the first two games in each set but were able to capitalize on the opportunity only once.

Both teams displayed championship tennis, were exceptionally strong on the net, and kept the sprinkling of spectators gasping.

Coasting into the semi-finals on two forfeits and only one played match, Gillingham and Morrow defeated Lloyd and Van Cise, 6-1, 6-2, to win their berth in the finals.

Fischbach and Kosloski encountered almost the same condition with one bye and a forfeit, but met real competition in the quarter finals in Keith Augenstein and Russ Colombo and again in the semi-finals got more than just practice against Akana and Stevenson.

Other quarter final round matches were played off between Lloyd and Van Cise who won over Talmage and Talmage and also Akana-Stevenson who won over Ross and Jussely.

Twenty-two teams started off in the first round with no positions seeded, but the two finalists made a clean sweep of the brackets with out a really serious threat.

Swimming Team Begins Practice For '37 Meets

Prospective swimmers started work outs for the 1937 season Friday, October 22, under the direction of Coach Fichback. Every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday afternoon those trying for the team will work out from five to six in the college pool.

Coach Fichback stated that any boys wishing to try for the team and who have not already begun practice should see him immediately, but that it is not too late to begin.

Climaxing the training period will be the annual presentation of the water carnival by the swimmers. The swimming schedule will open soon after the carnival.

November 4,—Juniors vs. Sophomores
November 6—Seniors vs. Freshmen

1. Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays will be game days; no game can be postponed to other days except by agreement of the two athletic directors involved.

2. No team will be required to play shorthanded because of the failure of their opponents to rally eleven men to their cause; nor will any game be postponed due to the failure of one team, or part of a team to show up at game time.

3. No one out for the varsity squad after the first day of October will be eligible for interclass competition; anyone out at all is required to obtain a written statement from Manager Bryne o the above effect.

4. Each player will receive one half a point for every quarter played in, and additional points according to the rank of their team.

5. No football equipment of any kind may be used by a player. Only those wearing rubber-soled shoes will be allowed to play.

6. Anyone violating any of these rules will be considered an ineligible player. Any team playing an ineligible player automatically forfeits the game in which that player participated.

It sometimes turns out that a select party is very poorly selected.

Soccer Tournament Begins Next Week With Teams Ready

Senior Women Meet Sophs In Opening Game

All the women's soccer team captains and managers have been elected, the teams have been announced, and the women are all ready to enter their first games of the tournament. Next week marks the opening of the soccer season. The Junior-Seniors, captained by Catherine Pond and managed by Edith Pierce will meet the Sophomores, with Margaret Lynch as their captain and Ruth Abercrombie as manager, on Tuesday afternoon in the Alumni Gym at 3 o'clock.

On Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock, the sophomores will play the freshmen. The freshmen have elected Mary Darden as captain and Barbara Ann Swift as manager.

All the teams have been practicing for three weeks and are well organized. The games should be very closely fought and well matched.

The line ups for the teams were announced Thursday by the captains and are as follows:

Junior-Seniors
Forwards—Pierce, Watson, Pond
Halfbacks—Botto, Eddens, Sommers
Fullbacks—Sheek, Fergenson

Fireman's Job

ed gingerly to safety. Two weeks in the hospital put him back on the job, though, and today his face doesn't show a scar.

One evening after a hard day's work Tom was dressing in the shower room behind the boiler. He was whistling and thinking of the warm meal awaiting him at home, when an unfamiliar rumbling noise in the boiler stopped him short. He leaped out of the shower room, ran for a valve in the far end of the plant, shut it off with feverish haste. A student assistant had allowed the water to get low in the boiler and then had turned cold water into the red-hot tank. If Tom had been a few seconds slower, the boiler would have gone up with a terrific explosion. The two men would have been trapped, scalded to death. Tom says he walked weakly back to the shower room with a trembling in his knees. Sometimes, he says, when he looks up at the side of that boiler he still has a funny feeling in the pit of his stomach.

College authorities hope to build a new plant down near the railroad tracks one of these days, Tom says. The campus beautification campaign and the fact that the heating system is badly worn have prompted the decision.

New Members Present Program at Bainonian

New women who have just become members of the Bainonian Literary society will present the program this evening in Bainonian hall. Ruth Andrews and Mary Alice Minear will sing a duet. Poems by Edna St. Vincent Millay will be read by Mary Mildred Hatcher, and another reading will be given by Alice Weghorst. Musical selections will include a piano solo by Louise Wells and a flute number by Thelma Ritzman.

Varsity Debate Class Has Series of Talks

Avon Players to Present "Macbeth" on October 30

The Avon Players, directed by Joseph Selman, will make a return appearance at Maryville college, October 30, with the presentation of "Macbeth."

The players, who will be remembered for their performance of "Merchant of Venice" last year, are brought here under the sponsorship of the social committee.

Professor George D. Howell and Walter West are in charge of the sale of tickets, which will be 35c for faculty and college students, and 50c for others.

CLUBS

SPANISH CLUB

Eight students met with Professor Robert L. Smith last week to organize a Spanish club. There will be an election of officers at the next meeting, to be held Monday evening.

LAW CLUB

On October 14 the members of the Law club, accompanied by Dr. and Mrs. Campbell, enjoyed a picnic in the College woods. Hamburgers were served after a baseball game. Group singing around the campfire preceeded the return to the campus.

ATHENIAN

Mr. E. E. McCurry, proctor of Carnegie hall, will speak on "Inside Dormitory Life" at Athenian's meeting this evening. Marie Fawcett, a freshman from Pennsylvania, will play a xylophone solo.

DISC CLUB

The Disc club met Friday afternoon at 4:30 in the chapel. The music heard was Wagner's Meistersinger and Haydn's Surprise Symphony, and a few other incidental numbers. Helen Lady and Edith Gillette were commentators.

THETA EPSILON

Puerto Rican entertainment will feature the program of Theta Epsilon this evening at 7 o'clock at Theta hall when Parker Santiago will play his guitar and Julio Flores will sing. Jane Erwin will give a reading, and several freshmen will entertain.

FELLOWSHIP CLUB

The meeting of the Fellowship Club held last Tuesday was featured by musicians from the freshman class. Robert Wilcox played selections on the trumpet, and Mary Caldwell sang, accompanied by Gerry Beaver. A routine business meeting was transacted.

FRENCH CLUB

Helen Bobo was elected president of the French club at a meeting held October 13, in the Y. W. C. A. rooms. The other new officers are J. T. Hunt, vice-president; Ruth Finne, secretary; and John Fisher, treasurer. Paul Akana and Ruth Sylvester are the program secretaries.

The new members of the club, both students and professors, were initiated.

After the program, which was arranged by George Felknor, refreshments were served.

WRITER'S WORKSHOP

At its meeting October 11, the Writer's workshop elected to its membership George Felknor, junior, to fill a vacancy. Miss Mary M. Keller, Lois Black and John Stafford read selections taken from the workshop files.

Last Monday Gloria Miller read a paper of her own describing a general store and its owner. Lois Black read a poem concerning conflict within the heart and mind of a Nazi soldier. Edwin Goddard and Clara Dale Echols will read manuscripts Monday.

Alumni President Releases Plans of Homecoming Day

Large Number of Old Grads Return To-day For Annual Event

Mr. Joe Gamble, well-known Maryville lawyer and president of the Alumni association of the college, released today the completed program for the annual Homecoming Day celebration of the college. The number of alumni expected to return this afternoon and evening is large, especially because of the meetings of the East Tennessee Education association in Knoxville, an organization of which a great number of Maryville alumni are members.

Registration of all alumni will be-bin at five o'clock in the Alumni gymnasium. At five-thirty a free barbecue will be held for the entire group on the baseball field, following which the music department of the college will present a program and Dr. R. W. Lloyd will give a brief address in the gymnasium. The group will march en masse to the Homecoming football game with Cumberland university at seven-thirty. A special rate of fifty-cents per person has been given to the alumni by the Athletic association.

The committee assisting Mr. Gamble in the Homecoming arrangements are Mrs. Homer Goddard, Miss Jessie Johnson, and Mr. Carl Storey. Miss Geneva Anderson is vice-president of the association and Mrs. Sara Traylor is secretary.

Junior Class To Have Party Mon.

"Dutch" Banquet, Theatre Party Planned

The junior class will celebrate Hallowe'en Monday evening with a dutch treat chicken dinner and theatre party, the dinner starting at six o'clock. The chicken dinner banquet, to be served at the Masonic hall, is being prepared by the women of the Eastern star.

"The Prisoner of Zenda" is the motion picture to be seen at the Capitol theatre after the dinner.

Mary Chambers, party committee chairman, has planned to have a dating bureau at the banquet hall, for the convenience of those junior men and women who go without dates.

The total cost to each junior for the dinner and show is forty cents, while the class treasury is to contribute another forty cents per junior. The price to seniors is eighty cents each.

Chaperons for the occasion are to be Dr. and Mrs. J. H. McMurray, and Prof. and Mrs. L. L. Williams.

Freshmen Hold Party In Form of Masquerade

The Freshmen will hold a masquerade party in the form of a " Hayseed Holiday" in the Alumni gymnasium Monday evening at 7:30. All who attend will be classified as "country hicks" or "farmers" and should dress accordingly. Prizes will be awarded for various types of costumes.

Scottie Donaldson, as master of ceremonies, will conduct an amateur show featuring freshman talent; there will be a debate on some question pertaining to the welfare of all freshmen, and there will be a community sing and games.

Only those freshmen and seniors will be admitted who present bids which can be obtained from the freshman class officers.

Pep Meeting Held On Field Thursday Evening

As a preliminary to the homecoming game between Maryville and Cumberland university a pep rally was held on Wilson Field last evening.

The band was on hand to furnish music for the rally, and several Maryville pep songs were sung. Cheers were led as usual by "Rusty" Wicklund, Bill Young, and Fred Brink.

The meeting ended with the singing of the alma mater.

Mrs. West Gives Cast of College Players' Drama

"Pride and Prejudice" by Austen to be Given December 3

Mrs. Nita Eckles West released this week the cast of the Maryville College Players' production "Pride and Prejudice" to be presented in Voorhees chapel December 3. The play is a new dramatization by Helen Jerome of Jane Austen's novel by the same name. The drama enjoyed a successful run of over a year in New York several seasons ago.

The cast selected by Mrs. West follows: Mrs. Bennet, Muriel Mann; Mr. Bennet, Donald Stevens; Elizabeth Bennet, Lois Black; Jane Bennet, Carol Ward; Lydia Bennet, Arda Walker; Mr. Darcy, Gordon Bennett; Mr. Bingley, Russell Hirsch; Mr. Collins, William Swearingen; Mr. Wickham, Charles Fish; Lady Lucas, Alice Whitaker; Charlotte Lucas, Louise Allen; Mrs. Bingley, Sara Bolton; Lady Catherine de Brugh, Eleanor Brown; Fitzwilliam, Donald Crego; Amelia and Mrs. Lake, Jane Irwin; Amanda and Maggie, Mary Frances Spurlock; Hill (butler), William Felknor.

John Wintermute will serve as stage manager for the production with Harold Austin as assistant. Roy Talmage is the business manager of the Players. John Fisher will be scenic artist, and Katherine Warren will be costumer. Winifred Berst will be in charge of interior decoration, working with Fern Unthank, the property manager. Glenn Young will be the electrician and Maxwell Cornelius the carpenter for this play. William McGill, William Garris, and Ellen Losey will act as general stage crew. The Players, an organization of students in the dramatic art department, presented the successful "Purple Mask" last year.

Final Registration Figures Released

800 Students Represent 36 States, 8 Countries

Eight hundred students representing 36 states and eight foreign countries are represented in the student body at the present time. Forty counties in Tennessee are represented by 306 students; 157 of which are from Blount county.

The town of Maryville has 129 students here: 15 seniors, 23 juniors, 35 sophomores, 49 freshmen, 5 re-freshmen, and 2 special students. Canada, China, Cuba, Japan, Korea, Persia, Puerto Rico and South America are the foreign countries represented.

The enrollment of the various classes is as follows: seniors—52 men, 70 women, total 122; junior—men 69, women 70, total 139; sophomore—men 96, women 128, total 224; freshmen—men 129, women 160, total 289; re-freshmen—men 10, women 13, total 23; special—women 3. The totals are: men 356, women 444, total 800.

Varsity Debate Class Has Series of Speeches

The members of the Varsity Debate class held their second program of speeches in the Philosophy classroom Tuesday evening. The speakers and their subjects were as follows: Irma Souder, "My Ideal Man"; Hugh Smith, "My Ideal Girl"; Louise Proffitt, "The Ideal Girl"; Harwell Proffitt, "The Ideal Boy"; Clifford Proctor, "My Ideal Present"; Otto Pflanze, "My Ideal Future"; and William Mooney, "My Ideal Profession".

After next week, the class will consider the official Pi Kappa Delta debate question which is, Resolved: that the National Labor Relations Board should be empowered to enforce arbitration in industrial disputes.

Briggs Speaks to Frosh

Dr. David Briggs, head of the department of education and psychology, spoke to the freshmen class on the subject of "How to Study", last Wednesday morning. This was the second of a series of meetings which are a part of the freshmen orientation program.

Annual Founders' Day Observed In Chapel Saturday

Great Grandsons of First Teachers Will Make Addresses

The fifth annual Founders' day at Maryville college will be observed tomorrow in Voorhees chapel. The program to be followed will be unusual because of the presence on the platform of the great grandsons of the two men whose lives and work will be commemorated by the service.

A choral number especially composed for the occasion by Mr. Ralph Colbert, director of the Vesper choir, will be sung at the service. The composition, the twenty-ninth psalm set to music, is to be dedicated to Dr. and Mrs. William Patton Stevenson.

Paul W. Terry, M. A., Ph. D., professor of educational psychology at the University of Alabama, will give an address concerning his great grandfather, the Rev. William Eagleton, who worked with Dr. Isaac Anderson as the first teacher at Maryville college. Coming to Maryville in 1836, seven years after the founding of the small

President Lloyd Has Engagements With Many Groups

Speaking Appointments of Lloyd Show Range Of Interests

During recent weeks President Ralph W. Lloyd has been busy with various speaking appointments, including sermons and addresses to various group organizations.

The churches and religious organizations at which he spoke were the Seventh and Mt. Auburn Presbyterian Churches at Cincinnati; Conference of Church Related Colleges of the South at Asheville ; and the A. B. C. Bible Class, First Methodist, Second Methodist, and First Cumberland Presbyterian Churches of Knoxville.

Dr. Lloyd's diversified interests and wide range of subjects are shown in the various groups which he addressed. He spoke at several mass meetings and state conventions, among them the annual meeting of the Huguenot Society in Knoxville; annual convention of the W. C. T. U., and the annual convention of the Christian Endeavor Society in Nashville, and the Young Peoples Rally at Chattanooga. Dr. Lloyd has also been prominent at prohibition mass meetings in Knoxville, Harriman, New Market, and elsewhere.

Speeches for special occassions were a sermon at the ordination of George Emmet Brown, '33, at Emory Presbyterian Church and the opening address at Columbia Theological Seminary.

D. A. R. President Studies MC Student-help Program

Mrs. William H. Becker of New Haven, Conn., president-general of the Daughters of the American Revolution, visited the campus this morning for the purpose of seeing the college and studying the student-help program. Mrs. Becker, accompanied by Miss Katherine Matthaies, drove from Chattanooga, arriving about eleven a. m.

The D. A. R., which contributes more than $65,000 annually to educational work, has been interested in the student-help program of Maryville and has contributed to it for some time.

Musical Aptitude Test Given Monday to 83

Eight-three students, the majority of whom were students, took the Seashore musical aptitude test last Monday evening in Dr. Brigg's classroom.

The test, which has been compiled over a period of many years by some of the world's best psychologists, determines to a large degree the possibilities a person may have along musical lines. It is not based on training, nor upon technical ability of any kind, but simply determines a persons natural ability to distinguish pitch, rhythm, and harmony, and his ability to recognize musical phrases.

Executive Council Passes Conditions For Bible Award

Religious Ed. Foundation Established by Rev. Wm. Bates

The Bible and Religious Education Department Prize Foundation, established by the Reverend William H. Bates, D. D., of Greeley, Colorado, will offer the first prizes to be given under the Foundation this year. The conditions upon which the prizes are to be given were approved at a recent meeting of the Executive Council, and are as follows:

1. To be eligible for thsi prize, students must be members of the Senior Class, must have completed at least nineteen hours of work in the department, and must have a grade average of B or above. Courses in Philosophy may be counted to make up the nineteen hours required for this prize.

2. The winners shall be judged on the basis of all work done in the department as computed from the record of that work, the highest award being given to the student who has maintained the highest average. A second and third award is to be given to the students who have maintained second and third highest ranking in all courses, provided no award shall be given to any student whose average is below B.

3. If in any year only one student is eligible to receive the award, that student shall receive the whole award; if only two are eligible, the two shall receive it, the larger amount being given to the student who has the highest rank. If in any year no student is eligible to receive the award the income for that year shall be added to the fund.

4. If three students are eligible, the prize shall be divided as follows: First, $35.00; Second, $25.00; Third, $20.00. If two students are eligible, the highest ranking shall receive 60 per cent; and the second highest, 40 per cent of the amount for that year.

Student Council Asks That Week's Notice Be Given For Major Test

John Lancaster, president of the Student council, announced at the regular meeting Wednesday evening that Dr. Lloyd had agreed to recommend at the next faculty meeting that one week's notice be given by each professor before a major examination in any course.

A unanimous vote of the council approved the constitutional changes recommended by committe-chairman Helen Maguire. The specific revisions, which must be passed by a two-thirds vote of the student body, refer to an earlier appointment of the Pep committee, the discarding of the clause referring to a Welcoming committee, and the appointment of the Social committee in the spring instead of in the autumn as is the present situation.

A recommendation by the treasurers of the four classes that the council be required to fill out requisition slips for funds as they are needed was rejected by the council. A motion that each class pay five dollars to the council at once, any surplus to be refunded at the close of the year, was substituted for the recommendation of the treasurers.

Major Price to Speak At YM Program Sunday

Major Charles W. Price will speak at Sunday afternoon's Y. M. C. A. program, it was announced by the worship committee. Major Price is a consulting chemist of Sweetwater, Tennessee, and was the main speaker at the Y. M. C. A.—Y. W. C. A. Retreat held at Line Springs hotel last May.

Considering this one of the big meetings of the year, a special effort is being made to have a large number of men present to hear Major Price.

New Uniforms Bought

The large increase in the members of the band has necessitated the purchase of eight new uniforms by the Fine Arts department. The uniforms arrived this week and will be worn for the first time Homecoming day. The band will march in town and at the football game.

Avon Players To Present Macbeth On Voorhees Stage, Saturday, 8:15

Company Makes Its Third Appearance At Maryville

The Avon Players, nationally known Shapespearean company, now making its eighth tour of the South, will present "Macbeth" on the Voorhees chapel stage tomorrow evening at 8:15 p. m. Under the direction of the veteran interpreter of Shakespearean roles, Joseph Selman, the players make their third appearance at Maryville, having given "Othello" and "The Merchant of Venice" before enthusiastic audiences of the past two seasons.

Mr. Selman's company is one of experience and ability. Jack Vinson, one of the male leads, directed stock companies of his own for many years before joining the Avon Players. Eugenie Du Bois, who is cast for the exacting portrayal of Lady Macbeth, has supported such stars as Robert Mantell, Edna Mae Oliver, and Walter Connelly.

A new member of the troupe this year is Kurt Richards, who makes his debut in Shakespearean characterizations on this tour. Mr. Richards played in stock in New York during the past summer, and in Max Reinhardt's Broadway production of "The Eternal Road" this fall.

Another gifted newcomer is David Sondee, who appeared last season with Walter Houston in "Othello" and Walter Hampden in "An Enemy of the People." To his successes with Brian Aherne, Helen Hayes, Phillips Lord, and Madam Ouspenskaya of the Moscow Art theater, Mr. Sondee has also added stellar radio performances in "Gang Busters", "Coronet" and "Bambi."

David Heminger and Robert Selman, are veterans of the company. Mr. Heminger has an impressive record of performances during a lifetime before the flood lights. Mr. Robert Selman, star of radio and stage, has appeared in the supporting casts of Helen Hayes, Opson Welles, Brian Aherne, Richard Cromwell, and Walter Huston.

Among the younger members of the Avon Players are George Colbert, Jo Anne Davis, and Dorothy Muller. Youthful and talented, they do much to add to the vitality of the company. Miss Miller comes to Maryville with two years experience with the Washington Square Players of New York, with whom she played some of the roles she performs this season.

The outstanding figure in the Avon Players, however, is the veteran director, Joseph Selman. Associated with the stage since early youth, he has toured America and the British Dominions. He has appeared in major roles with many of the famous figures on the American stage, including Mrs. Fiske, Mary Pickford, George M. Cohan, Wallace Beery, and Edward G. Robinson.

Mr. Selman's dynamic stage personality, magnificent delivery, and careful interpretations have done much to insure the continued success of the Avon Players through the eight years of their existence. His ingenious use of limited facilities, accurate costuming, judicious editing of the plays mark him as a capable and experienced director.

The Avon Players are being sponsored by the social committee, and Professor George D. Howell and Walter West are in charge of ticket sales. Admission is thirty-five cents for students and faculty, and fifty cents for all others.

Rosenthal Opens Artists' Series In Voorhees, Nov. 16

Noted Pianist Will Present Same Program Given In Town Hall

Moritz Rosenthal, seventy-four year old dean of world concert pianists, will open the 1937-38 Maryville College Artist Series recitals in Voorhees Chapel November 16. His concert at Maryville will be the third concert of his current tour of America.

The artist arrives in New York from his Polish home early in November and will play a concert in Town Hall, New York City, November 11. The following evening, he appears in Washington for a performance. He comes directly from Washington to Maryville, arriving in Knoxville on Monday and playing in concert on Tuesday evening. His program for the Maryville concert is identical with the one he plays in Town Hall.

Rosenthal, leaves behind him a trail of artistic accomplishments as court pianist to the King of Roumania, and to Emperor Franz Joseph of the old Austro-Hungarian empire. He played to the composers compositions of Liszt, Brahms and Strauss. Tutored by Franz Liszt, the greatest pianist of all time, Rosenthal is accepted as the last of the romantic Liszt school of technique.

On his first tour of America, last year, his artistic ability was acclaimed by critics from all sections of the country.

Student tickets will be placed on sale soon.

Teachers Speak At Ed. Meetings

Davies, Horne to Address Music Division

Miss Katharine Davies, head of the Department of Fine Arts, and Miss Dorothy Horne, instructor in Music, will speak today at a meeting of the East Tennessee Education Association at Knoxville. Speaking to the high school music division, Miss Davies' subject is on "Facilities in Music Study Offered at Maryville College". Miss Horne will tell "How To Develop Interest in High School Orchestras".

Primarily held for the public schools, the meetings of the East Tennessee Education Association are attended also by college professors. The meeting begins Thursday at the Alumni Memorial Auditorium at 6:15 and closes Saturday at 11:30.

Outstanding among the lectures is Dr. Walter B. Pitkin, American Managing editor of the Encyclopedia Britannica and author of "Life Begins at Forty". He will speak on "The Art of Living in a Mad World" this evening at 8:30.

Sophs Have Party At Maryville High Monday

At the Sophomore class meeting Wednesday morning, plans were completed for the annual Halloween party to be held at the Maryville high school gymnasium 7:30 Monday evening.

The party will feature a one ring circus including ticket barker and side show. Six big acts consisting of death-defying tight rope walkers, animal and flea training, tumbling, and skits, will be presented. A novelty number, "Maryville Burlesque", is being prepared under the direction of Charles Fish. Bob Cusworth will lead several circus songs. The refreshments, pop corn and pink lemonade, will complete the circus idea. Admission will be ten cents.

Electrola Ordered

An electrola of the latest model for reproducing records has been ordered by the music department to be used by music students and by the Disc club. The instrument will arrive by the first meeting of the Disc club in November.

75 Attend Disc Club Meeting Friday Aft.

The Disc club met last Friday afternoon at 4:30 in the chapel. About seventy-five were present to hear Wagner's Die Meistersinger and Haydn's Surprise Symphony. Edith Gillette told something of the life of Haydn, and explained each of the four movements of the Surprise Symphony before they were played.

Die Beiden Grenadiere by Robert Schumann was the second number on the program. This was one of the selections which Julius Huehn, Metropolitan Opera singer, sang last year when he was in Maryville for the Artist Series. Helen Lady made comment on Wagner's Die Meistersinger, calling attention to the outstanding themes of each part of Die Meistersinger before they were played.

Homecoming

Today we welcome back to the campus those of the alumni who, following an old custom, return to Maryville for the annual Homecoming. A barbecue, entertainment in the Alumni gym, and a football game this evening with Cumberland university are features of the homecoming program.

We do not feel that any part of the program above would in itself cause many graduates to return. The reason is rather to be found in the renewal of friendships and relations with former classmates and professors, and in the recollection of memories associated with the college where some of their happiest and fullest days were spent.

Our alumni are drawn to us by an acquaintanceship grounded on experience. They have lived to a great degree the same kind of life that we are now leading on the campus. They, too have dozed in chapel, worried over Theism notebooks, laughed at Coach Honaker's jokes, burned the proverbial midnight oil—have experienced all that goes to make up our daily life.

We welcome the Alumni and hope that they will enjoy their stay with us.

A Point System For Maryville

Every year we find that the major responsibilities on the campus are faced by a handful of students. The tendency to pass the buck has the unfortunate result that a few overworked students do all the work.

In order to more equally divide both honors and the work attached to them, several colleges are adopting a Point System for leading office holders. The system is designed to limit the number of an individual's activities.

Points are assigned to the various offices according to their importance and the amount of time necessary in discharging their duties. No person is allowed to hold two major offices.

Such a system might be said to have two main purposes:

(1.) To protect the man from attempting to enter into so many outside activities that he might neglect his scholastic work;

(2.) To protect the organization from deterioration because of inefficient officers, made so because of too much work.

Clearly the system is a safeguard and not a restriction. It is a safeguard against the folly of the student who tries to assume obligations beyond his ability to do the work well.

This plan would not only prevent anyone from carrying too much work, but would also provide more opportunity for experience and training needed in the development of other students.

The Echo would appreciate any comments in the form of suggestions or criticism on this plan from faculty or students. Your student council representative no doubt would also like to know your opinion.

The Echo favors that a point system be worked out and adopted at Maryville college.

Credenda... Polonius

THE BOSTON SPEECH OF HERBERT HOOVER Tuesday should be of interest to every intelligent American, irrespective of his political sympathies. Hoover's "five great national issues" are the essential characteristics of our American democracy which has made the average American citizen the object of the envy of the average man of every other nation in the world. The position of the United States as the greatest immigrant nation and the one with the least number of emigrants for over a hundred and fifty years bears out that contention. Part of the ex-president's speech is worth quoting.

THERE ARE FIVE GREAT CATEGORIES of national issues today. The first are issues of moral integrity in government. The second are the vital issues of personal liberty and its safeguards. The third are those financial and economic policies which affect the standards of living of the people. The fourth are the humane issues of security and of aid for the less fortunate. The fifth are our relations to other nations—Our national question is not alone—where are we going? But even more—where do we want to go?"

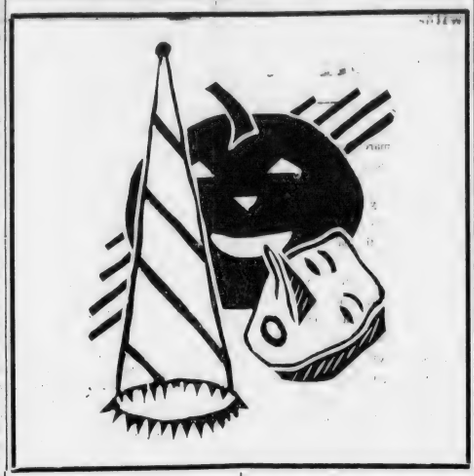
FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT, whom every one of us will be acclaiming forty years from now as one of the greatest of all American presidents and one of the few truly great statesmen of all time, made a speech in Chicago last week which THE NATION, TIME, and other periodicals characterized as "affecting the entire course of world history". Yet Polonius will warrant that very few students at Maryville are aware of the president's subject matter or even that he made a speech. The fact that the United States has for the first time in her history abandoned her isolationist policy when her immediate interests have not been involved is significant. Roosevelt's vehement repudiation of Japanese aggression and his indication of the readiness of this country to enforce her belief in democratic principles with the use of American battleships is a fact which may carry this country into war before any of us are aware of a government policy.

HERE IN THESE TENNESSEE MOUNTAINS, hundreds of miles from our large cities and maritime frontiers, we Maryvillians are prone to neglect our reading in the field of contemporary affairs, national and international. The habit of spending a part of each day reading current magazines and newspapers is just as vital a part of a college education as any course offered in any university curriculum. We have an excellent collection of periodicals in our library. Make use of them!

Long an adherent of the truism "A thing is not necessarily good because it is old", Polonius has at last met the converse of his pet theorem. Whoever or whatever started the present fashion of knee-length hose for women should (1) be thoroughly exterminated (2) require an additional six inches on all women's dresses, or (3) be exterminated anyway for the anguish already caused among conscientious males. Men wishing to be charter members of the S. P. E. F. K. (Society for the Prevention of the Exhibition of Female Kneecaps) are invited to leave their names at the door of Polonius' inner sanctum.

In spite of words to the contrary publicly spoken by this writer we hereby give a vote of confidence to the staff of the 1938 CHILHOWEAN. A glimpse of the plans and a talk with editor Bruce Morgan were sufficient to dispel all our fears that the book would not be worthy of the college. Early payment of fees, class dues, and subscription costs will greatly aid a staff which has been under tremendous handicaps in getting started. Here's to the CHILHOWEAN for 1938!

Fits and Fizzles



By FRED RHODY

Macbeth's Witches Toil Again .....
Round about the cauldron go;
In the cayenne pepper throw.
Reeking garlic, caustic sauce,
In the green persimmon toss.
Double, double, cauldron hiss,
What a mess we'll make of this.
Acrid spices, scallion hot,
Stir with lye into the pot.
Ethyl gas is needed, too,
Stewing this high-powered brew.
Double, double, cauldron hiss,
This is soup we've made of this!

Coming Home .....
'Tis Hallowe'en, and Homecoming time, beside:
Forth creep the spirits whence all year they hide.
For this one night the college grad awakes,
And for this eve some solid form he takes.
But 'tis decreed each must assume that guise,
Which with his acts at college harmonize.
'Mid swirling mist on magic baseball lot,
The transformed grads surround the supper pot:
This silent wide-eyed owl with blinkless gaze,
Did naught but study—won his teachers' praise;
Now sitting dumb and still upon a tree,
How useless seem his A's to you and me!
This fearsome witch with pow'r to cast a spell,
Was once a campus flirt (or so they tell);
She who bewitched with pretty rolling eye,
Now rides alone her broomstick 'cross the sky.
This dusky cat, with eye of jealous port,
Who was in college days a catty sort,
Now slinks with sharpened claws amid the gloom,
And sneers at witches wearing last year's broom.
The next is garbed in six-foot snowy wings;
He plays a harp and sweetest music sings;
Ah, four long years a student at this school,
And didn't even dent a campus rule!
But yearning mars his high angelic bliss—
He'd give it all for fun he had to miss.
Thus college grads their yearly pow-wow keep,
And some must fly, some slither, slide or creep;
For what they seemed to others in the past,
That are they now, and cannot be recast.
I face the future with uneasy fear—
When I come back, how shall I then appear?

Homecoming Day, 1937

"Things have changed a lot, eh Joe?"

"Yea boy! Maryville isn't the institution it once was. It is getting too radical. Remember how Mr. Mac used to turn the lights off in Carnegie at 10:30? Well, they leave them on until eleven now! They'll get the fellows into the bad habit of studying if they don't watch out."

"These modern educators don't even make them wear red flannels during the winter like we had to. There's no doubt about it, the college began slipping when we got out in '98!"

Homecoming Day, 1967

"Brings back memories of college days, eh Don?"

"It sure does, Malcolm. But somehow things have changed. Maybe it's that Minear got out."

"Yea, I understand they put him out on a pension in '40. The main trouble with the place now is that the sacred halls are becoming too radical. I hear that the women students can walk to Sunday School with the men. That's demoralizing."

"I stopped in Queener's history class today and he was telling them one of the same jokes he told us. The old boy has a pretty good memory for rotten jokes."

"Yea, and Lloyd is still living in the past. He still can't decide whether the man's wife or the waitress stabbed him.

"Well Don it isn't the college that it was when we were here. It began slipping when we got out in '38."

From the diary of a typical college professor (who otherwise is mentally fit) of Wearyville college:

Awoke 6:29. Arose 8:01. Gulped a swallow of a hot kiss at the breakfast table and then took a cup of coffee that the wee wifey gave me on the forehead at the door.

Had faith that Coach Hombie Lonaker would preach a long serious sermon in chapel so I could study for my classes. He did, of course, but instead of studying I slept.

Afraid to go to A period class. Afraid to face the stern gaze of the students. Took one last cramming look at the book and then sneaked into class.

Told the class a good joke and then wondered why the bell didn't ring and why the students didn't laugh. It finally did but they never did.

Mute Barie Crown told the interesting derivation of the word "Wearyville". It comes from "Washington" by dropping the suffix "ashington" and adding another "earyville".

Almost went to sleep in F period class along with the students.

Read the funnies three hours. Moon Mullins puzzled me.

Climbed into bed just before the lights blinked. Had faith that chapel speaker in the morning would give me time to study for my classes.

Foggy and cloudy Classroom temperature: 78 degrees with the light off. Humanity low.

Ancient proverbs revised and translated into modern, readable English:

"There's many a slip between the needle in the haystack."

"What Maryville thinks today, all America thought ten years ago."

Dr. Briggs Sets Forth Program For Reading

Dr. David H. Briggs, professor and head of the Department of Psychology and Education at Maryville college, has set forth a "Program for Reading" which is designed to effect greater comprehension and less waste of time among students.

This "Program for Reading" contains four main points: (1) Analyze the problem in the chapter or paragraph. (2) Get facts and illustrations bearing on or tending to solve your problem. Try to concentrate on only those facts which are valuable to the work at hand. (3) Evaluate those facts and illustrations. Find the important thing in each paragraph and fix it in mind. (4) Learn to summarize these important facts.

Dr. Briggs believes that reading comprehension increases with an increase in the speed of reading, that "thoughts other than those provoked by our reading have time to enter into our minds when we read slowly."

The monthly studio class for piano students will be held at 1:10 in the Fine Arts Studio on November 6 announced Miss Katharine Davies yesterday. The class is for the purpose of criticism and for experience in public performance. All piano students are requested to attend.

CLUBS

CAROLINA

At the meeting of the Carolina club Wednesday evening in Bainonian hall, it was decided that the time of meeting be changed from every Wednesday to every other Monday. The business meeting was followed by an inpromptu program led by Lois Barnwell. Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting.

FELLOWSHIP

The Freshman Fellowship club held its final meeting Tuesday evening in Bartlett hall. John Thompson, the president, called the meeting to order. The club was entertained by the Pennsyl-Jersey Hill Billies, composed of Frank Brink, Frank Anderson, and Phil Evaul. A trumpet solo was given by J. Norman Bennett. After the singing of the Alma Mater, the meeting was adjourned.

MINISTERIAL

Miss Frances Rich, the new Art instructor, gave a talk entitled "The Face of Christ" to the Ministerial association at its regular meeting last Monday evening. It was announced that the regular meeting scheduled for November 1, would be called off because of the class parties being held that night.

Y. W. C. A.

The theme of the Y. W. C. A. meeting, which will be held Sunday afternoon in the Y. W. rooms, is to be "Patterns". Ruth Abercrombie, Sara Lee Hellums, and Louise Proffitt will be the speakers.

This meeting will also emphasize the spirit of the cordial welcome which the Y. W. C. A. extends to all women students.

TRIANGLE

The Triangle club held its meeting last Monday evening in Bainonian hall. A business meeting was followed by a brief musical entertainment. Gerald Beaver played popular music and Jane Irwin whistled a number. It was decided that the club would next meet in two weeks, November 8.

SPANISH

At a meeting of the Spanish Club Wednesday evening a short talk was given by Beryle Sills and Spanish songs were sung. The officers elected were Richard Smith, president; Beryle Sills, vice-president and chairman of the program committee; and Carmen Archilla, secretary-treasurer.

Berst Speaks At Forum

Next Friday evening the Peace Forum will meet in the Philosophy class room. Dr. Berst, a missionary to China, will address the members on the subject "The Chino-Japanese War from the Viewpoint of China." At a former meeting the Japanese side was presented by Paul Akana.

Director to Speak

The Rev. Dr. J. S. Eaken, pastor of the Fourth Presbyterian church of Knoxville, will speak in chapel Wednesday morning. Dr. Eaken graduated from here in 1887, and is now a director of Maryville college.

BUTTON, BUTTON

When the freshly orange-clad Scot gridders march on Wilson Field tonight to face the big maroon team from Lebanon there are several things for the old grads to look for.

Doubtless, alumni, you know very well that you are supposed to watch the titantic action on the scrimmage line, where the real mayhem takes place, rather than confine your scrutiny to the man with the ball.

But that's O. K.

You just go on and watch that ball. You never can tell where it will be when next you see it if you do let it get away for an instant.

The so-called "Vanderbilt Mystery Play" has made every team in the country sit up and take notice. The small schools especially are going to be using every trick the ingenuity of their coaches will allow from now on.

And did you know that "Nig" McIlwaine, the Cumberland mentor is a loyal Vanderbilt man?

So keep your eyes open and follow that ball if you can!

TO BE SPECIFIC

And individually speaking, you might keep an appraising eye on the kicking of Junior Odell and the punt returns of Al Burris, both of which have made life miserable for the opposition so far this season.

Then there is the work of Captain Jim Renfro behind the line to be watched. Cap'n Jim has been a wheelhorse on defense for lo! many moons and it's time someone besides those in the know took a little more notice.

CALL MORGUE, 123

Interclass doings roll merrily on. Our Mr. Steakley, of the ace frosh sports staff, reports anent yesterday's near-fatal football clash as follows:

"The game was the most exciting so far in the interclass schedule. Both teams played fast touch football which kept the ball in the air most of the time.

"For the seniors, Hernandez, Parker, Win Ross, and Talmage, were the outstanding players. While the sophomores had, Etheredge, Morrow, Woodring, Wicklund, and Luxton, standing out."

He neglected to add the list of victims now reclining on their respective beds of pain. The boys do get rough at times!

INTRA MURAL ITEMS

Saturday Afternoon—Wilson Field
1:30—Freshmen versus Sophomores
3:00—Juniors versus Seniors

We admire the spunk and never-say-die spirit of that class who after having gone through three years without ever winning even one football game are forced to start the first game of their last year with eight men, at least we admire the spunk of those eight men. SENIORS—there is a football game scheduled Saturday at 3:00 p. m. between you and the Juniors. Did it ever occur to you that we might win a ball game if we had eleven men to start the game?

Baird leads the football honor roll this week. His two long distance catches, slung by Colombo won the ball game for the Juniors. That trio of McCaskie-Colombo-Baird is certainly the most feared combination among the four teams, and rightly so—if you don't believe it, just watch them in action once. Dick Woodring's basketball catches kept those seniors on the spot just about the entire game. Lefty Hernandez' interception of a Sophomore pass saved the day for the seniors all right. Talking about these Freshmen, they may not have won the ball game, but did you see Hamilton and Van Blarcom run, or Miller snag passes? And certainly, the most outstanding exemples of good blocking came from the freshmen who ran the ball back long distances several times despite the dampness of the field.

See you over at the football field Saturday afternoon!

McCaskie-Baird Pass Duo Gives Juniors Victory

Alpha Sigs Down Rival Athenians in 7-2 Verdict

The interclass football schedule got under way last Tuesday afternoon, with the powerful junior team whipping the freshman to the tune of 12-0.

The upper classmen scored early in the game when Red McCaskie heaved a long pass to Weldon Baird, who ran 20 yards for a touchdown. The juniors failed to make good the extra point.

In the second quarter the junior's passing combination clicked again when McCaskie threw another long pass to Baird, who was waiting for the ball in the open field on the freshman ten yard line. The juniors again failed to convert the extra point.

The upper classmen's goal line was in danger only once, when Van Blarcom, freshmen fullback, returned a punt to the junior's twenty yard line. Here the freshmen made a determined thrust at the goal line, but failed to reach the pay-off section before losing the ball on downs.

For the victors McCaskie, Baird, Colombo, and Rhody were the outstanding players. Van Blarcom and Jim Miller were the mainstays for the freshmen.

The game was played in a sea of mud, which slowed up the teams considerably. Fumbles and intercepted passes were frequent due to the slippery ball.

Alpha Sig 7, Athenian 2

The Alpha Sigmas won the first Alpha Sig—Athenian football game touch football game of the season last Saturday, when they succeeded in turning back the Athenians 7-2.

The Alpha Sigma team scored the lone touchdown of the game in the late part of the first half, when Frank Morrow, sophomore, intercepted an Athenian pass and ran twenty yards for a touchdown.

The Athenians scored 2 points on a touch-back in the third quarter, when Ed Jussley, junior, broke through the Alpha Sigma line and touched Don Parker behind his goal line.

The game was a see-saw affair with neither team having the greater advantage. The field was muddy, and a light rain was falling which made playing conditions difficult.

This was the first game of a series, which the two societies hope to engage in before the season closes.

Sixteen Swimmers Out at First Call

Debut of Mermen Follows November Carnival

Sixteen men reported for the initial work-out of the swimming training period at the college pool, Friday afternoon, October 22.

Only six letter men are in school from last year around whom to form a mucleus for the 1937 squad. Those returning are Wicklund, Hilditch, Craine, Chandler, Taylor and Captain Stafford. Other men trying for the team are Elder, Moore, Rippeth, Topp, Hedrick, Muecke, Bowers, Akana, Vineyard, Cuerckay and Stevenson.

Coach Fishbach stated that all positions on the team are wide open and that the opening is particularly wide in breast stroke and back stroke positions, graduation taking the members of last years team filling these places.

The swimming team will make its official debut at the annual water carnival which it to take place some time near November 27. Immediately following the carnival the swimming schedule will get under way.

Sophomore Girls Claim Soccer Title By 4-3 Wins

On Tuesday and Thursday of this week the sophomore girls' soccer team defeated the junior-senior and the freshmen teams to claim the championship of the Soccer Tournament. Both scores were the same, 4-3, and in both games the winning point was gained in an extra time period.

The game on Tuesday between the junior-seniors and sophomores was very closely played, the sophomores scoring two goals first and then the juniors bringing this score to a 3-3 tie. The sophomores won their fourth point in the three minute extra time period.

On Thursday the freshmen suprised the other teams and the spectators by keeping the score with the sophomores at a tie. They showed excellent team work in passing the ball. As on Tuesday the sophomores received their winning point in a three minute extra time period.

Although the sophomores have won the tournament by beating the junior-seniors and freshmen, these two teams will play a game on Tuesday at three o'clock to see who will take second place in the tournament.

The year round average temperature at Nome, Alaska, last year was 6 degrees below the freezing mark.

Highlanders Seek Third SMC Victory In Homecoming Battle with Bulldogs

Alumni To See Team That Dropped King College Friday; Odell-Etheredge Pass Duo May Play Big Part

Maryville's Scotties will be after their third straight Smoky Mountain Conference victory tonight when they face the Cumberland Bulldogs, conquerors of King College last Friday.

Featuring the backfield artistry of fullback O'Guinn and quarter "Squatty" Vaughn, the lawyers are a real threat to the Scots unmarred SMC record.

A week ago Cumberland would have been a two or three touchdown underdog; but such is not the case tonight. The main reason for the abrupt change in relative strength of the two teams lies in the 8-6 win which Cumberland pulled out of the fire in the King game. Not given a chance to extend the powerful tornado, much less to defeat them, the Lawyers recovered from the blasting effects of a King score on the first play of the game, and came back with a touchdown in the second period. They added the killing blow to King's hopes in the last frame when they plowed through to smash an attempted reverse behind the King goal line for a safety.

If the Scots find an opportunity to turn loose the full force of their passing game on the Middle Tennesseans they may be able to do what King was unable to accomplish. They will probably depend on "Boll-weevil Joe" Etheredge to do most of the receiving, with Junior Odell and Scottie Honaker on the throwing end.

Strictly on the record the Scots should rate as heavy favorites. They have lost only one game this year, and that to the University of Chattanooga in the first start of the season.

On the other hand Cumberland has won only a single verdict against four wallopings. In fact they made only two touchdowns in five battles and have seen a regular parade across their own defense, being victimized to the mournful tune of 132 points, sixty of which were rolled up by Arkansas State Teachers three weeks ago.

Still, any bold prediction of a Scot victory is made hazardous in the face of that 8-6 win over King. If they did it once nobody knows but what they can do it again.

With that setup the old grads should have one of their most attractive pigskin programs in store tonight.

Lenoir Rhyne 0 Maryville 0

The Scots completely outplayed the Lenoir Rhyne Bears throughout the mud battle at Hickory, N. C. last Friday only to have their attack go sour the one time they reached true touchdown territory, leaving the score knotted, 0-0.

After Junior Odell's thirty yard run on a fake kick had carried the ball to the Bear's twenty yard line the Honakermen drove on to the ten, where they had first down and goal to go. Three plays advanced them to the four yard line. Then, on fourth down, Hughes' blow at tackle from a short spread formation was stopped short of the goal. The final score was 0-0.

Lenoir Rhyne never seriously threatened to score. They reached the Scot thirty yard line early in the game but were halted and set back on their heels for the rest of the battle.

Odell's kicking played a big part in the edge Maryville held. He booted the slick ball for very respectable distances, always keeping it away from the safety man, and once setting it down on the Bear two yard stripe sixty-eight yards away.

Al Burris' deft handling of the soggy ball in returning punts also was a potent factor in keeping a Maryville complexion on the affair.

The entire Scottie line held throughout the game, piling most of the Carolinians' plays into the mud and water.

Tornado Blows Next Week

Next week it's King College who furnishes the opposiiton for our Highland gridmen.

Pedie Jackson is expected to have a powerhouse on the field at Bristol in an attempt to wreak vengeance on the team which upset his Tornado 16-14 last year on a last quarter field goal.

As has been mentioned above, the Tornado has met one tartar this season in Cumberland. Except for their surprising defeat at Lebanon they boast a clean record as well as a highly favored position in the pre-season SMC ratings.

Included in the King list of scalps are those of Tennessee Wesleyan, Southeastern Junior champs, and Emory-Henry college, 26-0 victims.

For the first time this season the Scots will go into a loop game rated distinctly as the underdog.

King can be surprised, though. Cumberland proved that.

ECHOES OF THE PAST

October 30, 1917

A company of 137 Maryville college troops, commanded by Dr. Stevenson, "Mother" Stevenson, and Miss Molly, invaded the regions in the sector about Sunshine last Friday. The troop train arrived on the field of action about 10 o'clock, and after all unnecessary baggage and the portable kitchens had been properly located, the command was given to take the strongly fortified citadel of Mt. St. John.

The most noticeable thing about the whole engagement was the high moral of our troops. Miss Green and Professor Southwick proved themselves able officers at all times.

Exchange Notes

By CURTMARIE BROWN

PION-EAR

Tusculum college is inaugurating a system of honor work. Any student, except a first semester freshman, who has a "B" average may do special work in any course during the year. The work does not have to be done in the field of the student's major.

CARDINAL AND CREAM

Prominent business men in the city of Jackson, Tennessee, have organized a club to sponsor and organize better football and athletic teams for Union university. The organization will be called the "Hundred Club."

TECH ORACLE

Free violin instruction is offered to the students of Tennessee Polytechnic Institute.

THE SPECTATOR

Meh Lady, the yearbook of Miss. State College for Women, is sponsoring a camera contest. The annual will award a prize of $2.50 for the best set of snapshots.

Also from the Spectator: "Sophomores, Juniors, and Seniors accompanied by men will be permitted to stroll (not to sit) on the campus sidewalks and drives....." What, no benches?

AT RANDOM

An engineer at the University of Wisconsin states that 1200 students dancing to swing music generate enough heat to warm a two-story house for two days in ordinary winter weather. Enough energy is released to raise a 5 ton elephant 32 miles in the air.

Freshmen at Midland college, Nebraska, must ask the permission of a member of the Student Court whenever they want a date.

In November Vincent Lopez will become a member of the faculty of New York University. He will lecture on popular music. His "sophisticated swing" band, playing in the University chapel, will supplement the course.

The only male student enrolled in the home economics course at Purdue university must wear a bright pink powder puff sewed to the top of his freshman cap. He wants to become a dietitian.

Japanese Prints Donated

A collection of eighteen valuable Japanese prints has been donated to the college by Mrs. John Walker. The prints, assembled while Mrs. Walker was studying Japanese art, represent some of the finest examples of the printmakers' art. They are hung temporarily in the north end of the library.

HOSPITAL

The hospital reports only one new patient this week, Elizabeth Blankenship, freshman, who is confined with a cold.

Seniors Have Party

Last Monday evening the seniors and their guests attended the Capitol theatre to see "The Life of Emile Zola," starring Paul Muni.

After the show, they went to the Y. W. rooms for a short party and refreshments. The party was arranged by the senior social committee composed of Jessie Cassada, chairman ex-officio, Martin Brynildsen, Jean Cross, and Edward Brubaker.

Miss United States Visits Campus Thurs.

Margaret Smith, winner of the title "Miss United States" at a Mississippi beauty pageant recently was on the campus for a short time Wednesday afternoon. Miss Smith, a resident of Clinton, Tenn., has just returned from Hollywood where she was offered a minor part with George Murphy and Alice Faye in Universal's "You're A Sweetheart," upon the successful completion of a screen test. Not having completed her high school course, however, Miss Smith did not take advantage of the offer.

She is a cousin of E. B. Smith, Sophomore here.

Mr. Herbert Hunt and Mr. Wiley E. Steakley, both of the class of '36, were visitors of Mr. McCurry in Carnegie hall last week end.

Senior Section of Annual to be Opened On Wednesday Morning

At the first Chilhowean staff meeting of the year next Monday afternoon it is planned to prepare for the opening of the senior section of the annual Wednesday morning, according to Bruce Morgan, editor.

Representatives of the Benson Publishing Company, printers of Nashville, and also of the Capper Engraving Company, of Knoxville, were on the campus last Monday to make plans for the publishing of the yearbook.

It is expected that the collection of the guarantee money from the juniors and seniors will be completed by Tuesday.

college, from a pastorate in Kingston, Tenn., Rev. Eagleton remained a teacher at Maryville until 1829. He was later pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Murphresboro, Tennessee, for thirty-seven years. Many of his descendants still live in Middle Tennessee.

The Rev. Samuel B. Hoyt of the Presbyterian church of Concord, North Carolina, will discuss the life and work of his great grandfather, the Rev. Darius Hoyt, who was chosen by Dr. Anderson in 1829 as the second member of the faculty, succeeding the Rev. Eagleton. Many of the grandchildren of Darius Hoyt moved to Atlanta, Georgia, where the Hoyts are now recognized as one of the leading families. Judge Samuel B. Hoyt, father of the speaker next Saturday, was the owner of the famous Stone mountain in Atlanta and the property still remains in the family. Four years ago granite slabs from Stone mountain were brought to Maryville and placed on the graves of Darius Hoyt and some of his children in the old New Providence cemetery.

During the professorship of the Rev. Eagleton, the enrollment of the college increased from forty to ninety. The enrollment at the death of Professor Hoyt in 1866 was 108. The college, which was principally a theological seminary at the time, included Greek, Hedrew, archaelogy, ecclesiastical history, and many theology courses in its curriculum.

Students Sign Agreements For Annual, Tuesday

Chilhowean Senior Section To Be Completed By November 30

The subscription drive for the 1938 Chilhowean will be officially opened next Tuesday morning at the chapel exercises, according to an announcement by Bruce Morgan, editor of the annual.

At that time contracts will be given to the students to sign and explanations will be made concerning the payments of the four dollars that the book will cost. The total cost may be paid at one time or else it may be paid in three payments: one dollar down payment, to be paid by November 17; two dollars to be paid at or before the end of the semester; and the final dollar to be paid when the book is delivered.

The senior section for the book is open at the present time and will close November 30. It has been urged that all seniors get their pictures in as soon as possible. The tentative opening set for the junior section is November 24.

All the assignments for the associate editors were made at the staff meeting last Monday but as yet the only editor to do actual work is Curt Marie Brown. She has arranged for meetings of all four classes to elect the class sponsor whose picture will appear in the Chilhowean. There will be another staff meeting Monday afternoon in the Chilhowean office.

Pearsons Women Plan Tea Friday in Honor Of Mrs. Ralph W. Lloyd

The women of Pearsons hall will give a tea in honor of Mrs. Ralph Waldo Lloyd, wife of the president of Maryville college, Friday afternoon, from 3:15 to 4:00 o'clock in the Y. W. reading rooms.

The president of the dormitory, Mary Frances Dewell, heads the plans for the function. She is assisted in her duties by Ellen Sauer, in charge of decorations, Zula Vance, chairman of the program committee, and Ruth Emory, who is heading the refreshment committee.

Guests at the tea will include, besides the Pearsons women, the women members of the faculty, and the junior and senior women who live in town.

Frosh Have Party

A costume Halloween party was given by the freshman class last Tuesday evening in the Alumni gymnasium. Music was furnished by the Royal Collegians. Games were played and a debate and an amateur program were held. Refreshments were served at the end of the program.

NOTICE

Beginning with the evening of November 8, the library will be opened at 7 o'clock instead of at 6:30, and will be closed at 10 o'clock instead of at 9:30.

D. A. R. President Visits Campus Wed.

Mrs. Becker Studies Self Help Program, Loan System

Mrs. William A. Becker, President General of the D. A. R., and Katherine A. Matthies, a national chairman, were guests of the college for a few hours on Wednesday. The Daughters of the American Revolution makes education and young people's work one of its chief activities all over the United States. This organization has been interested in and has been giving support to the Maryville student help program for more than a quarter of a century. Mrs. Baker and Miss Matthies studied with interest Maryville's methods of making loans to students.

At noon Mrs. Ralph W. Lloyd and Miss Clemmie Henry entertained Mrs. Becker and Miss Matthies with a luncheon at the home of Mrs. Lloyd. The local D. A. R. Chapter members were guests.

Mrs. Becker spoke briefly of the extent of the membership and the work of the National Society of the D. A. R., she also described her trip to Europe last year and her presentation at the Court of Saint James.

Mrs. Snyder, McCurry Address Freshmen Wed.

Mrs. Grace Pope Snyder, supervisor of women's residence, and E. E. McCurry, proctor of Carnegie hall, spoke to the freshmen on the subject, "In What Shall I Participate?", Wednesday morning after chapel. Both speakers emphasized the fact that college life should develop a well-rounded personality.

Mrs. Snyder advised the freshmen to budget their time in order to decide in how many extra-curricular activities they could afford to engage. Mr. McCurry's counsel was to choose activities which would provide responsibility, life situations, and inspiration.

Annual Founder's Day Observed Last Saturday

Last Saturday morning the annual founder's day program of Maryville college was held in the chapel. Dr. Paul W. Terry, professor of psychology at the University of Alabama, and grandson of the Rev. William Eagleton, and Rev. Samuel B. Hoyt, of the Presbyterian church of Concord, North Carolina, grandson of the Rev. Darius Hoyt, were the speakers. Rev. William Eagleton and Rev. Darius Hoyt were early teachers at Maryville.

Revised Constitution Submitted By Athletic Board of Control

Committee Appointed by Baird Makes Several Changes; Students to Vote For Provisions Next Week in Chapel

The Atheletic Board of Control last week revised the old constitution under which it was operating and adopted the new one proposed. The committee which President Weldon Baird appointed to draw up the new set of laws consisted of William Collins, chairman, Edith Pierce, Coach L. S. Honaker, William Young, and John Odell.

To make the new constitution official and permanent, the students of the college must first pass on it. For that reason it is printed in full below, and will be voted upon by the students in chapel next week. President Baird urges all students to read and examine the constitution before the time of voting.

Preamble

We, the students of Maryville College, realizing that athletics must be maintained upon a permanent footing, and feeling that the present constitution is in dire need of revision, do hereby ordain and establish this Constitution for the Athletic Association of Maryville College.

Article 1.

1. The purpose of the Athletic Association shall be to control and support athletics in Maryville College.

2. Every matriculated student and every teacher in Maryville College is a member of this association.

Article II

1. Officers of this association shall be elected at the annual meeting, which shall be called for the second Monday in May.

2. These officers together with eight representatives elected by the Association, shall compose the "Athletic Board of Control."

3. The eight representatives shall be elected as follows: two faculty members, two business men, two male students, and two female students.

4. The annual meeting shall be announced publicly, at least twice before it can be legally held.

ARTICLE III

1. The duties of the "Board of Control" shall be to elect managers of all

Carlos Campbell To Speak At Club

Author, Publicity Director To Be Here Thurs.

Carlos Campbell, publicity director of the Smoky Mountain Conservation association and widely-known author of various magazine articles, will speak at the Nature club next Thursday evening. Mr. Campbell, who has published articles recently in such periodicals as the National Geographic, Nature Magazine, and American Forest, will speak on "Flora and Fauna of the National Park."

William Alston, president of the Nature club, is responsible for the securing of Mr. Campbell, a much-sought after speaker throughout East Tennessee. The speaker is a "Veteran Hiker" of the Smoky Mountain Hiking club, having passed the requirements of hiking at least three hundred miles in three years and participating in at least twenty-five per cent of the semi-monthly hikes of the club. The Nature club, which meets at six-thirty in the third floor of Science hall, is inviting all nature lovers among the students and faculty for this opportunity of hearing Mr. Campbell.

Performance of Macbeth Seen by 600 Saturday

An enthusiastic audience of over 600 people witnessed the Avon Players' performance of "Macbeth" last Saturday evening in Voorhees chapel. Joseph Selman, organizer and director of the company, and Eugenie Du Bois interpreted the leading roles.

From Maryville the Players will appear in cities to the north and east, returning through Knoxville in the first week of December to play "Hamlet" there. Following that, they will continue southward, spending the winter in southern Georgia.

The Avon Players will in all probability appear at Maryville again next year.

Dr. Edward Bleakney to Lead Chapel Wednesday

Dr. Edward Bleakney, minister of the Mount Lebanon Baptist Church of Pittsburgh, and member of the Council for Peace and Social Action, will address the student body in the regular Wednesday morning chapel service next week.

Dr. Bleakney is a Canadian by birth, and was graduated from Arcadia university in Nova Scotia in 1913. Last year he was a member of the Sherwood Eddy party in study seminar tour of Europe.

He is in East Tennessee under the auspices of the Knoxville Peace Council.

At the Peace Forum Friday evening Winnie Berst gave a talk on the Chinese viewpoint of the present Chino-Japanese war and conducted the open discussion following the talk.

DAR Contributes Money To College

M. C. Has Been On List Of Organization For 25 Years

For the past twenty-five years Maryville college has been one of the seventeen approved schools of the Daughters of the American Revolution which has contributed money annually to the Student Self-Help program. Other well-known schools include Lincoln Memorial, Berry Schools in Georgia, Berea college, American International college, and Hillside school in Massachusetts. The reason for their interest in Maryville is in the scholastic standing, religious emphasis, and character building program. The Daughters of the American Republic owns and supports two schools for small children, one in South Carolina and one in Alabama.

The Daughters of the American Revolution is a national organization for women with members in America, England, Germany, France, Italy, Denmark, and the Philippine Islands. $220.000 was used for philanthrapic purposes last year and more than half of this amount was used for young peoples' work in rural schools, high schools, colleges, and universities. The national organization has a large student fund of its own in addition to work done by individuals in local chapters.

London Newsman Discusses Spain In Class Monday

London Times Correspondent Has Been in Spain Seven Years

Declaring himself in favor of the government in the Spanish conflict, Lawrence Fernsworth, a correspondent of the London Times who has been voted "the most distinguished foreign correspondent in the world," addressed two of Dr. J. H. McMurray's sociology classes Monday in Thaw hall. Fernsworth, who has been in Spain for seven years, stated his stand on the war in answer to a question put by Dr. McMurray.

Fernsworth stated that the Catholic church, the Spanish royal house, and the wealthier families of Spain have long kept the lower classes in poverty and degradation. These lower classes, he said, have in recent years asserted their rights by getting control of the government. With the aid of General Franco and his military clique the former rulers are now attempting to overthrow this legally constituted government set up by the Spanish masses.

Italy by means of her intervention in Spain is seeking to gain control of the Mediteranean, Fernsworth said. Germany likewise is seeking control in Spai. in order to have support from the south in her expected war with France.

Fernsworth has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Earl Blazer, Maryville alumni, who live in town. Besides his reporting for the London Times, Fernsworth writes frequently for such prominent magazines as Foreign Affairs, Current History, The Economist (of London). He is also a special writer for the New York Times.

Distinguished Alumnus Retires From Marines

Brigadier-general Hugh Matthews, of Loudon County, Tennessee, and former student at Maryville, will retire from the U. S. Marines on December 1.

General Matthews served in the Spanish-American war with a company of Tennessee volunteers, and was later appointed second lieutenant in the marines. His present rank was awarded in 1929. For outstanding conduct in the World War he holds the Army Distinguished Service medal, the Navy-cross, chevalier in the Legion d' Honneur, and the Croix-de-Guerre with gilt star.

General Matthews, and his brother, Colonel Calvin B. Matthews, both one-time students in the preparatory school here, are distant relatives of President Lloyd, and visited the campus early this year.

Ten Chosen For "Who's Who From Juniors, Seniors

Student-Faculty Committee Makes Nominations of Student Leaders

Ten students have been nominated by the student-faculty committee to represent Maryville college in the "Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities," a compilation of the biographies of the outstanding students in America.

These students have been active either in Y. M. or Y. W. work or as officers of their class. They are Weldon Baird, junior, Helen Bobo, junior, Clara Dale Echols, senior, Constance Johnson, senior, John Lancaster, senior, Helen Maguire, senior, Marvin Minear, junior, James Proffitt, senior, Fred Rhody, junior, and Winford Ross, senior.

This group which is selected can only represent one and one half per cent of the student body, and the students must be from either the junior or senior classes. The qualities on which the students are nominated are character, scholarship, leadership in extra-curricular activities, and their possibility of future usefulness to business and society.

Last year the book contained representatives from four hundred colleges. Eight Maryville students were listed among those. The book has been published for four years and will appear sometime in February.

CLUBS

Y. W. C. A.

This week's Y. W. C. A. program will center around the theme, "Let All My Life Be Music". Faculty members will appear on the program which will be held in the Fine Arts studio instead of the Y. W. rooms.

FRENCH CLUB

A meeting of the French club was held Wednesday evening in Miss Almira Bassett's classroom. After a short business meeting Miss Frances Rich gave an illustrated talk on French art.

DISC CLUB

Miss Gertrude Meiselwitz was commentator at Disc club which met Friday afternoon at 4:30 in Voorhees chapel. Tschaikowsky's Sixth Symphony was the music played. This Symphony, which consists of four movements, is known also as the Symphony Pathetique, and has been called "One long, magnificently orchestrated sob".

The recording used was made in Europe by a Symphony orchestra conducted by Albert Coates.

NEW ENGLAND CLUB

The New England club's first meeting of the year was held Thursday evening in Professor Kenneth Lagerstedt's classroom. In addition to nineteen New Englanders, four visitors were present. John Magill presided, directing introductions and nominations of committees for further organization. November 15 was set as date for the next meeting.

ATHENIAN

The Athenian Literary society will have a variety program at its regular meeting Saturday evening. John Stafford will read a story that he presented at Writer's Workshop, and several other members will give readings. Sam Cornelius will play a trumpet solo.

BAINONIAN

Bainonian society will present a variety program at its regular meeting Saturday evening. Lois Black and Carol Dawn Ward will present a Dick and Dolly skit, "Hero, Heroine, Villain, and Everything." Ruth Green will give a reading and Marie Fawcett will play two xylophone selections.

FACULTY CLUB

James L. Robb, president of Tennessee Wesleyan college, will be the speaker at the faculty club dinner Monday evening. President Robb's subject is to be "Junior Colleges." The dinner is scheduled for 6:30 in the dining room of the home economics department in science hall.

Rosenthal Comes To Maryville From New York Performances

By WALTER WEST

The coming of Moritz Rosenthal, renowned Polish pianist, to Maryville college to appear in concert for his third engagement of his current tour is a singular honor for Maryville. It is even more of an honor when it is considered that his first two appearances will be in Town Hall, New York, and as guest artist of the National Symphony, under the direction of Dr. Hans Kindler, in Washington.

It was a raw November day, last year, when the elderly gentleman, strikingly independent despite his age, walked down the gangplank of the steamship Normandie and set foot on American soil for the first time in seven years. Years before, on his last tour of America thousands had applauded him. But now, there were many changes in the great New World—perhaps it was a new world in music also.

On the New York skyline rose the mighty Empire State building—flying over the bay were air liners that made regular passenger trips to all points in the nation. And some told him that in San Francisco, a great bridge had been built to span the Golden Gate. All this had happened since last he had played before an American audience. Perhaps the music critics and concert lovers had changed too. It may have been with such thoughts that Moritz Rosenthal came down the gangplank to meet his American manager, Charles L. Wagner.

But, on November 29, Town Hall in New York city thundered with the ovation the artist merited when he played Beethoven's sonata, Opus III, and sensed the rest of the program as a rare treat. Seasoned music critics remained in their seats to hear the last note of the final encore, despite possibility of making city newspaper editions late. Then, such eminent figures in music as Olin Downes, Samuel Chotzinoff, W. J. Henderson and Pitt Sanborn rushed off to their newspaper offices to write the story that thrilled the music world—Rosenthal was as great as seven years before, even greater.

But the Rosenthal of today is what the past seventy odd years have made him. Born in Lemberg, Poland on December 18, 1862, he early showed an inclination toward piano artistry. At the age of eight he began his formal musical education under Galoth and Mikuil. Two years later, he was enrolled under Raphael Joseffy in Vienna. Under Joseffy's tutelage, he toured

Sophomore Knows Something About Types of Revolutions

By OTTO PFLANZE

Upon hearing the word "revolution" most Americans think of 1776, but not Betty Seel, sophomore who has lived most of her life in Santiago, Chile. Betty doesn't have to delve into history books to learn what revolutions are like. She already knows. She's been in one.

One morning when Betty passed through the Santiago main streets to school she found a mob shouting, stamping, yelling. Betty thought it was only a holiday celebration until she caught sight of banners with the inscriptions, "Down with the Dictator!" "Overthrow the government!" The students at the University of Chile had organized a sit-down strike, were protesting against the tyranny of the government. Citizens were thronging to their support.

Betty got to school before the rioting began, but she sat down to her lessons with sporadic rifle and machine gun fire sounding in her ears. It wasn't long before a man whom her parent had sent came after her in a car. They went to Betty's surburban home by an around about way, avoiding the main thoroughfares where the conflict was. About half way home a man with blood flowing from his shattered arm dashed out of a side street, came running by the car. Betty says she'll never forget that look of pain and terror on his face.

South Americans have devised (by experience, no doubt) a very effective means of breaking up revolutions, Betty says. Every large city has a troop of cavalry men armed with lances. These cavalry men charge mobs with lances leveled. When they see those sharp points bearing down on them, the revolutionists scatter; the streets are cleared in a jiffy. The lancers rarely transfix anyone, Betty says. The revolutionists don't give them a chance.

On this occasion, though, Betty says the rioters won the revolution. The Dictator fled the country in an ambulance. He had aroused the fire of the citizens by selling natural resources to American speculators. Americans aren't very popular down there, Betty says. The United States has, during the last hundred years, constantly transgressed on the rights of her sister American republics. Japan's imperialism is making itself felt on her nearest neighbor, China, while United States imperialism has made itself felt on her nearest neighbors, the South and Central American republics.

WANTED: THOUGHT!

We pride outselves on the fact that we are college-bred. To most of us college gives a feeling of mental superiority—the intellectually elite! Yet if we will stop long enough to read our own minds, we find that what we believe to be intellectual superiority is merely a good coat of self-applied varnish.

The average college student today, whether he be at Maryville or any other institution, lacks the courage to think for himself. The so-called campus leader who makes the loudest noise and distributes the largest dish of so-called "applesauce" never fails to have an ardent following. We are gullible to the point of super-saturation.

Student participation in college activities is very small according to our numbers. If college is meant to make us socially useful, then more than half of us will leave college with an unfinished education. That we lack ideas is an answer which belittles our own ability. Any man can think creatively if he will give his bemuddled and crammed brain half a chance.

We as college students owe it to our own self-respect to develop mental individuality that will make each of us mentally alert. Let every man be a leader in that when he follows, he follows with his head and not his tongue.

The above editorial was written by Helen Maguire, guest editorialist for this issue.

Fits and Fizzles

By FRED RHODY

It was a Lovely Day. He and she were Romine among the Thorne-s and Hodges of the Wood, her bitsy Haynes in his brawny Hahn.

"It's Goyne to be Heck at Christmas without Hughes," he said. "Akana Barrett."

"Oh, my Darragh. Propst your Sheek on Minear and I Willocks you Salmons-thing. Fancher come home to Ken-Tousley with me for Christmas to Coit me? Franklin speaking, Darden, Ma Wilmoth likely Kilmer for Brink-ing you.

"Wooten it Prevetta lot of trouble if I Brogden some Easterly Eggers for Christmas? I Scheuer am a-Frazier Holliman will Lynch me."

"Don't Goad down near his Brewer-y and he won't fire Hatcher. Jeffers-ee in the Knox-ville paper Abbott De Pue fellow last Christmas who was Guinter Tapp one of Pop Tener eleven Gallion barrels but Pop Findlay Hurd him and Koch-ed him and Broc his Yeck with one Puncheon they had to Corry him away in a Black Hirsch? Hoo-Rae! Your're Garner go, Ennis not to be a Lones-ome Christmas at Hall!"

ARMISTICE DAY
6:45 Mature club—third floor of Science hall.

Credenda... Polonius

It has been less than twenty years since the day of the Armistice which brought to an end four years of the most brutal savagery of which man is capable. On the eve of the nineteenth Armistice it is well for every being capable of intelligent thought to consider the part he will play in the next World War which can be but a few years distant. The following Armistice Day Call was placed in Polonius' hands by the president of the Maryville Y. M. C. A. It is printed in its entirety. Please read it.

ARMISTICE DAY CALL

Fellow Students:

Armistice Day on the American campus must be a signal for renewed efforts on behalf of peace this year. With a major war in the Far East, with the Fascist invasion continuing in Spain, American students must not despair of peace but increase their efforts to restrain aggression and keep America out of war. There are certain values and potentialities in American life that war would destroy; therefore it is a matter of life and death to our generation that the United States does not go to war. At the same time we must bring into play on the world scene the great power that our country might exercise for peace in co-operation with other nations.

The wars raging in the world today are direct results of the failure of nations to observe their international obligations—failure that was inevitable as long as peace treaties rested upon economic injustice. The immediate task confronting the peace forces of our country and of the world is the pacification of the world. But such pacification will be short-lived unless far-reaching, long-time measures of economic and social justice become its foundations.

The nineteenth anniversary of the end of the first world war sees what may well be the beginning of the second. In these emergency circumstances, the United Student Peace Committee urges students to support the following points in such ways they deem most effective:

1. Keep America out of war by exercising unceasing vigilance against those groups that would utilize the present crisis to involve the United States in wars: groups that foster compulsory R. O. T. C. and large military budgets; that promote fascism in the United States by the organization of vigilantes and Nazi groups; that exploit for imperialist purposes the genuine resentment of the common people of this country against the Japanese military clique. In this connection we oppose the extension of our naval establishment in the Pacific.
2. Help the Chinese people in their struggle against Japanese aggression, even though we sympathize with the common people of Japan in their suffering. To indicate our sympathy with Chinese people who are victimized by Japanese violation of international law, we should cooperate with those agencies which are providing relief aid for Chinese students.
3. Support the demand for the withdrawal of foreign troops in Spain, a demand which the Loyalist government heartily favors. If Germany, Italy, and Portugal refuse this demand, urge our government to extend its present embargo to those countries.
4. Cooperate with the Campaign for World Economic Cooperation of the National Peace Conference since economics is the basis of world politics and the clue to lasting peace.
5. Urge that the United States make good her obligations assumed under the Kellogg-Briand Peace Pact outlawing war and act with other signatories of the pact to implement it as a means of preventing and halting war. At the same time we urge that the United States also make good her commitments in the Nine Power Treaty which pledged her to consult with other nations in respecting and maintaining the territorial integrity of China.

In the present troubled moment there is no easy, simple road. Above all we must remain united because we, the students of this country, have no interests which are separate from those of peace.

TALK OF THE WEEK . By Arlene Phelps

This is your weekly commentator bringing you up to the week news from Maryville college and other remote portions of the globe; Knows all, all nose; hears all, all ears.

Flash! Bill McGill, notorious ministerial student, lectures to speech class on how psychology will help him in his future work. Harriet Miller, in the next lecture of the evening, talks on the same subject. Her future work? Minister's wife, of course!

Frosh! Dr. Dave Briggs speaks to the freshman class on "How to Study in one Easy Lesson." Class enrollment drops off for frosh feel that they know all that can be learned in college.

Sam Fleming, devout Bible student, in preparing for his test on the "Ten Commandments" "borrowed" a Bible from the profs desk. He flunked. Quoting an innocent professor, "After Samuel James returns the Bible, the next step of the college will be to teach him how to read."

College farm news: The Injuns have again scalped the whiteman. Recently the college bought several mules from Chief Hawk and his son Tommy. Now they want to see them back. The college agriculturists complain the mules are useless because they can't understand English."

Athletic news: Fred Tulloch and Jim Proffitt, the little men of the football team have begun to take in washing to work their way through college. Reliable sources have it that this is the first time they have done any washing for a good many months.

Splash! The hard headed seniors have had so much fun diving into the swimming pool that the executive committee of the faculty has decided to put a little water in the pool.

Fred Rhody, with last semester's 8.9 average to prove his facts, climbed the water tower October 25 demanding that the professors make the courses easier so that he might pass a few subjects with a decent grade.

Much of the following was brazenly stolen from the editor's desk. (He really gave it to us in front of the post-office, but how else would you say it?)

We find more pithy sayings of the wise and great of our day. The following words of wisdom were actually culled from the statements made by Maryville college professors. It is indeed a great privilege to be living in such a golden age when such profundities are fearlessly expounded in the classroom.

Dr. Rodgers: "An empty milk bottle is form without content."

Dr. Lloyd: "You will perceive as I read that this is an English translation, andn ot in the original Persian."

Dr. Orr: "Since his death he has had to cancel his lecture tour." Why?

Dr. McMurray: "Stores would have some difficulty if the medium of exchange were cattle."

An Epitaph:
Musician Erwin Ritzman, by name,
Was a pretty neat fellow;
Let's hope he can play on the harp
Better than he does on the cello!

Members of Debate Class Discuss Major Subjects

The Varsity debate class met Tuesday evening in the Philosophy classroom to hear speakers discuss "How My Major Will Fit Into My Life Work". Members speaking were Marvin Minear, personnel work; Muriel Mann, dramatic art; Helen Maguire, "school-marming"; William McGill, psychology used in the ministry; Harriet Miller, phychology used by a minister's wife; William Lewis, English in the ministry; and Howard Lamon, political science.

Annual YMCA Banquet Will Be Held Tuesday

The annual YMCA banquet will be held Tuesday evening, at 6 o'clock, in the Masonic temple.

Dr. Frank D. McClelland, director of personnel and manager of the college book store will be the principal speaker. Professor Kenneth R. Lagerstadt will be master of ceremonies. Don Killian is chairman of the program committee.

A chicken dinner will be served to a maximum of one hundred twenty-five men. This limit was believed to be necessary for convenience and accomodation.

This Sunday evening the Student Volunteers' program will be entirely musical. The theme, "The Life of Christ", including his early life, his ministry, and his call to service, will be brought out in vocal and violin numbers.

Handel's "Messiah" To Be Given December 12

The annual presentation of Handel's "Messiah" will be given December 12, at 3 p. m., in Voorhees chapel under the direction of Ralph Colbert, instructor in music and director of the choir and glee clubs.

The solos will be sung by students as last year. The chorus will be accompanied by the Maryville Little Symphony orchestra.

The second chorus rehearsal scheduled for 3:00 tomorrow afternoon is the last opportunity to enter the group.

Sohomores Hold Circus In Town Monday Evening

A one-ring circus with Warren Ashby as ringmaster was attended by the sophomores and their senior guests in the Maryville High School gymnasium Monday evening.

The program included performances of the trained donkey, tightrope walker, clowns, bareback rider, "Maryville Burlesque," and the three-man band.

Chaperones were Professor and Mrs. Verton M. Queener, Dr. George A. Knapp, and Miss Geneva Hutchison.

Halloween Party Held By Junior Class Monday

The Junior class held a "Dutch Treat" Halloween party Monday evening. The party began with a chicken dinner at the Masonic Lodge. Later, the Juniors went to the Capitol to see "The Prisoner of Zenda." Dr. and Mrs. J. H. McMurray and Professor and Mrs. L. L. Williams chaperoned the party. Mary Chambers, vice-president of the class, was chairman of the party committee.

Basketball Coming Up

While the football team is still busy burying the sparse remains of the 1937 grid season, another sport looms on the horizon.

Those of you who like your sports indoors will greet the news of the beginning of basketball practice with open ears. And that brings up the question of what Coach Honaker is going to pull out of the bag this year to succeed the team that was nosed out of the Smoky Mountain title by so narrow a margin last year.

With four of the 1936-37 veterans left around whom to fashion a team prospects are not so bad. One thing that may hurt is a lack of reserves of the quality that prevailed a year ago. Men like Caney Stanley, Monk Myers, Gus Hernandez, Don Parker, and Jim Etheredge are always on hand to help hold a lead in the last minutes, or to throw pep into a tired quintet. This season two of those fellows are absent, while one or two others will have graduated to the first five. Which seems to leave the reserve problem up to untried material.

The freshman crop will have to come through again this season, as it has for the last two, if there is to be any strong chance of dethroning the Scot jinx team—Carson-Newman.

Then there is the most difficult task of replacing all-SMC center Lee Hannah, who graduated last spring.

Maybe there's ample material to do the trick. Right now nobody knows.

Captain John "Junior" Odell, at times one of the best guards in this section, and Howard McGill, the Highlanders sparkplug forward, will furnish a large part of the answer. If they have the kind of season they are capable of and if they get proper support, Scot opponents may well watch their step.

We think they will do just that.

Night of the Big Wind

Tonight brings the toughest spot of the whole season for Maryville's footballing boys.

They face one of the biggest, fastest, and most aggravatin' college teams in loud hollerin' distance.

If the attitude adopted by King players and supporters following the Scots' 1936 upset win still prevails, then we may need baskets to bring our poor Scotties off the Bristol turf this evening.

The Jackson-coached Tornodo is not only an exceedingly good bunch of ball players; it is a team with a grudge and a week's rest under its belt.

That promises much unpleasantness for our side. The one bright ray is provided by the memory of what inconsistent Cumberland did to the Bristol boys. That 8-6 defeat can be repeated.

We hope.

INTRA MURAL ITEMS

Standings	W.	L.	T.	PERC
1. Juniors	2	0	1	1000
2. Sophs.	1	0	2	1000
3. Seniors	1	1	1	500
4. Freshmen	0	3	0	000

Today we start the second round of the interclass matches, from now on we see the games wherin one team is out to avenge itself and the other to protect a former victory; and also meeting again in fierce battles will be those teams that tied before.

Here is the schedule of the remaining six games:

Today at one-fifteen o'clock
Senior vs. Sophomores
Juniors vs. Freshmen

Tuesday, Nov. 9—Seniors vs. Freshmen

Thursday, Nov. 11—Sophomores vs. Juniors

Saturday, Nov. 13—Freshmen vs. Sophomores

Tuesday, Nov. 16—Seniors vs. Juniors

The biggest score ever made in an interclass game during the last four years was made last Tuesday, when the Seniors won the first game of their college career, and that by a score of 40-0 against the Freshmen. Starring in that game were Hernandez, Parker, and Black, the trio that joined the class last year coming from Mars Hill and Hiwassee. The most hard fought game of the year was that between the Juniors and Sophomores on Thursday of this week when the Juniors went into a slump to let the Sophomores creep up on them during the last five minutes of the game to tie it up 6-6. This game witnessed the first, and probably the last, rush play through center, when with the ball on the three yard line, Luxton for the Sophomores attempted to put it over through center, but was held for a gain of only one yard.

Tornado Blows Against Highlanders In Tough Conference Game Tonight

Maryville Follows Cumberland and King Battles With Teachers Furnishing Opposition Next Week

A game which may have an important bearing on the 1937 Smoky Mountain title will take place at Bristol tonight when the King tornado plays host to the Scots in their renewal of an old rivalry.

Besides being an attempt on the past of the Tornado to even the score for their 16-14 upset here last year, the game continues the keen rivalry of long standing between coaches Pedie Jackson of King and L. S. Honaker of Maryville.

Honaker holds the upper hand at present with his team's 1936 win, but King will rank as heavy favorite tonight.

The Tornado has no more impressive Loop record than have the Scots; however they have to their credit a 26-0 win over the perennially strong Emory-Henry Wasps and a 12-0 triumph at Tennessee Wesleyan's expense. In the conference King has lost one game, an 8-6 affair with the surprising Cumberland Bulldogs, and was held to a 6-6 victory by East Tennessee Teachers. These figures seem to indicate that King is an in-and-out team. If that is the case they should be hot this week, which marks their first appearance since the Cumberland disaster.

Maryville, who trounced the above-mentioned Bulldogs 20-6 last Friday while King rested, held an unblemished conference record, contrary to the story recently published in a Knoxville morning paper. They have defeated Tusculum, Milligan, and Cumberland, amassing 65 points to the opposition's 13.

The same boys who played the main roles in these three wins will be in good shape for the test Saturday.

Junior Odell, Scottie end, holds a big part of the Maryville chances in his talented toe. His long spirals have kept every foe at bay this year with the exception of Chattanooga, against whom he had a forty yard average.

Odell may also share passing duties with freshmen J. D. Hughes and Scottie Honaker, all of whom have been on the tossing end of several long ones this year. The Scots' most adroit receiver has been end Jim Etheredge.

The passing game put up by these boys, coupled with the all-round work of quarter back Al Burris, may give the big Bristol team trouble.

According to Scot coaches "King has the best team we have seen in the conference this year. But maybe they'll have an off-day."

Cumberland 6 Maryville 20

Cumberland, conquerers of King, fell last Friday night by a 20-6 score, as halfback J. D. Hughes found the Bulldog goal line thrice vulnerable.

Maryville led all the way, depending mostly on straight football to smash the Cumberland forewall. They scored on a short spread formation, with Hughes carrying the ball each time, twice at his own right tackle, and once around end.

The lone Bulldog score came in the last period as the result of a long pass and a series of blows at the Scot line.

Maryville showed more ability to gain on ground plays than in any recent game. They could usually pick up the needed two or three yards on third and fourth down.

Cumberland's offense never functioned except in their last quarter drive,

Highlanders to Oppose Teachers Next Week

More grief follows the King game when the East Tennessee Teachers, one of the foremost of Highlander rivals, oppose Maryville at Johnson City next week.

If Maryville should survive tonight's battle, the fray with Teachers, otherwise known as Buccaneers, will provide the last hurdle in the way to an SMC championship for the Honakermen.

Teachers have lost so far to Appalachian by a most lopsided score and to King, 7-6.

On that basis the Scots will probably be favored to wipe out the marks of last year's 2-0 defeat.

Swimmers' Annual Carnival Slated

Akana and Rippeth Lead New Prospects

The swimming team is gradually rounding into shape as several freshmen are showing promise of developing into varsity team material.

Notable among the newcomers is Paul Akana, whose specialty is the breast stroke. John Rippeth, another freshman, is showing promise in the backstroke.

No meets have been definitely scheduled; however, Coach Fishbach said that arrangements are being made with Tusculum, and the University of Tennessee.

Coach Fishbach stated definitely that the Fifth Annual Water Carnival would be held Saturday, November 27. The Water Carnival is put on every year at this time by the swimming team, for the purpose of raising money to defray the expenses of the team.

On Tuesday the junior-senior soccer team of the women's point system beat the freshman team by 5-2. This was the last game of three played in the soccer tournament. The sophomores played their two games first, winning both of them and thus becoming the soccer champions.

The women have now started aerial darts and they will play their tournament next Thursday.

Junior-Soph Tie Puts Tangle In Class Standings

Sophomores, Juniors, And Seniors Turn In Victories

The juniors and sophomores, favorites of the interclass football tournament, fought to a 6-6 deadlock Thursday afternoon at Wilson Field.

The game was scoreless until the third quarter, when the juniors drew first blood as Fred Rhody shagged a forward pass from Colombo, who had thrilling rally late in the fourth guarreceived a lateral from Crane. In a ter, the sophomores placed the ball in scoring position when Frank Morrow heaved a long pass to Wickland who stepped out of bounds on the two yard line. Two plays later the sophs scored when Morrow tossed another pass to Wickland in the junior's end zone. With only two minutes left the juniors failed to score, and the game ended 6-6.

Wicklund was the outstanding player for the sophomores. Colombo, Czepiel, Baird, and McCaskie, played well for the juniors.

This game still leaves the juniors in first place, they having lost none, and tied only one. The sophomores have not lost any, but they have tied two.

Sophs 12—Seniors 12

In an exciting interclass football game October 29, the sophomores and seniors played to a 12-12 deadlocok. The game, played on the practice field, was full of thrills for the handful of spectators who were present.

The score stood 6-0 in favor of the sophomores in the third period when "Lefty" Hernandez intercepted a sophomore pass from "Rusty" Wickland, and ran thirty yards for a touchdown. The score near the end of the third quarter was 6-6, when Hernandez received a sophomore punt and lateraled it to Don Parker, who ran 40 yards for a second senior touchdown. The attempted pass for extra point fell short, and at the end of the third quarter the score was 12-6, favor of the seniors.

In the middle of the fourth quarter the sophomores tied up the score when "Rusty" Wicklund heaved a long pass to Woodring, who ran fitfy yards for a second sophomore touchdown. With the score 12-12, the sophomores couldn't break the tie when they failed to make good the extra point. The game ended in a tie with the ball in mid-field.

Sophs 6—Frosh 0

Last Saturday the strong sophomore team turned back the fighting freshmen 6-0, as the Y. M. C. A. interclass football schedule got under full swing.

The only score of the game came in the second half, when Dick Woodring, sophomore star, gathered in Luxton's pass in the freshmen end zone. The other part of the game was another one of those fast touch football battles that leaned toward the rougher side of the game.

The outstanding player of the afternoon was Dick Woodring. His able catching of passes for the sophs kept

Blow! Gabriel Blow!

The seniors turned in the big surprise of the season last Tuesday, when they defeated the bewildered freshmen 40-0. This was the seniors first victory of their college career.

The seniors scored early, and kept right on scoring throughout the game. The victors kept the ball in freshmen territory most of the time, and completed more forward passes than any other team has this season.

Win Ross was the big senior threat, as he intercepted several frosh passes, and ran for long gains, some of the runs ending in the freshmen's end zone for senior touchdowns.

Don Parker played a good game for the seniors, receiving passes for several long gains. Hernandez, R. Talmage, and Black also played well for the seniors. For the freshmen, Findlay, Van Blarcom, and Lloyd, stood out.

By winning this game, the seniors proved to have a team capable of defeating the best of them. We look forward to some good games when the seniors tackle the other teams again.

Twenty Prospects Start Cage Work

Only Four Vets Return For '38 Team

Varsity basketball practice started last week under the direction of "Lefty" Hernandez, and Howard McGill. Approximately twenty new candidates turned out for the first practice. With only four lettermen back from last year's squad, there is plenty of room for new material.

Those returning from the 1936-37 squad are Junior Odell, Hernandez, McGill, and Weldon Baird, lettermen. Odell and Hernandez are guards, while McGill and Baird are forwards.

One of the big problems facing coach Honaker this year is the task of replacing Lee Hannah, all-conference center for the last two seasons. Hannah one of the most talented hardwood performers to play at Maryville in recent years, was lost last spring by graduation. His scoring average of fifteen points a game over a three year period will be hard for any man to duplicate.

The pivot post and most of the reserve material must come from the crop of new men.

For that reason it is hard to dope out just what sort of aggregation the 1937-38 edition will be.

KENTUCKY KERNEL

The University of Kentucky recently sponsored a "Hollywood premiere" at a local theatre. Students were nominated as doubles of famous movie stars, and those nominees who suited their suggested roles were driven to the theatre in limousines to take parts in a stage show. Stars who were doubled included Kay Francis, Janet Gaynor, Simone Simon, Claudette Colbert, Robert Taylor, Clark Gable, Tyrone Power, Eddie Cantor, Laurel and Hardy, and Ned Sparks.

WARD-BELMONT HYPHEN

Ward-Belmont college is beginning a series of forums for the purpose of discussing timely questions. Questions to be discussed will be chosen by student representatives. Outside speakers will lead the discussions as often as possible. Some of the questions which the Forum will consider are: "How does college weaken or strengthen religious faith?" "How shall we stand on war?", "What about life after death?", and "What do we owe ourselves?"

ORANGE AND BLUE

In a poll taken at Carson-Newman college the majority of men and women students preferred brunettes to blondes. Both men and women stated that eyes were the first thing they noticed about the opposite sex. The women admired sincerity and disliked conceit most in a man. The men admired sincerity and disliked affectation most in a woman.

Europe and won acclaim wherever he appeared. So great was the enthusiasm for his playing in the Roumanian court that the king appointed him as court pianist when he was but fourteen years old. It was this appointment that led to Franz Liszt's interest in the youth. Four years under Liszt gave him acquaintance with the greatest technique of all time, and eight years more at the University of Vienna and in the court of Emperor Franz Josef of Austro-Hungary made him the outstanding concert pianist of the day. And such he still remains. His return last year to America after an absence of seven years confirmed his triumphs on forty-seven American tours gone past. This year—his forty-ninth American tour—found him booked solid long before he had applied for his passport.

the freshmen on edge most of the time. "Rusty" Wicklund, Les Luxton, and T. Etheredge, also played well for the sophomores. The outstanding freshman was Warren Van Blarcom, who was tossing those passes right and left, he also played a nice game backing up the freshmen line. Hall, D. Talmage, and Akana, all played good games on the freshmen line.

The powerful junior aggregation continued their drive for the interclass championship honors as they defeated the seniors 19-0, last Saturday afternoon. The juniors have yet to lose a game in the Y. M. C. A. interclass schedule.

The combination of Baird, Colombo, and McCaskie, were the juniors big guns, as they proved to be the scorers of the afternoon. McCaskie intercepted a senior pass, and ran 50 yards for one junior touchdown. Baird, receiving a pass from Colombo, scored another, while Colombo scored the third when he received Crane's pass.

The juniors are living up to preseason predictions as they are knocking down all opposition in front of them. However the season is only half over, and there is plenty of opportunity for one of the other teams to pull and upset and defeat the juniors.

Nominations Made For Class Sponsor Section of Annual

Selections to be Made In Class Meetings Wed. Morning

Nominations were made this week for the class sponsor section of the '38 Chilhowean. From six to eight women were nominated to represent their classes in this part of the yearbook. The final selection will be made in class meetings to be held Wednesday morning.

The senior women nominated are Edith Pierce, Louise Orr, Helen Miller, Constance Johnson, Helen Maguire, and Roberta Enloe.

The sophomore nominations are Joyce Carson, Jean Barlow, Sara Lee Hellums, Louise Proffitt, Nancy Quinn, Carol Ward, and Mignonne Myers.

The freshman class nominated their candidates from the floor at a class meeting held Wednesday morning. Their choices are Miriam Nethery, Mary Darden, Bernice Smith, Virginia Lougnot, Louise Wells, Jean McCammon, Thelma Ritzman, and Donnie White.

Further nominations may be made from the floor at the class meetings Wednesday.

The names of those elected will be kept secret until the publication of the yearbook in the spring.

CLUBS

DISC CLUB

The Disc club will meet in Voorhees chapel at 4:30 November 19. The program will include Schwanda-Polka and Fugue by Weinberger; Till Eulenspiegel by Strauss; Liebstod from Tristan and Isodole by Wagner. Commentators will be Bill Wood and Max Cornelius.

The fine arts studio will be open Tuesday and Friday afternoons from 4:30 to 5:30 to students wishing to hear victrola records. Requests are to be given the student in charge.

GERMAN CLUB

Members of the German club met Friday evening in Alpha Sigma hall. Since the play "Hansel and Gretel", which was to have been presented, was postponed until the next meeting, the time was spent in singing German songs.

NATURE CLUB

Carlos Campbell, publicity director of the Smoky Mountain Conservation association, spoke to the Nature club Thursday evening on the topic, "Flora and Fauna of the National Park." Mr. Campbell said that the Great Smoky National park contains the nation's largest and finest virgin hardwood forest, as well as the largest area of virgin spruce. In the Smokies, there are over 140 varieties of trees which are native to this section. Forty kinds of orchids have been identified within the limits of the Park.

Mr. Campbell admitted that there are comparatively few animals in the park at present. Plans are under way, however, to restore some of the animal life which is native to the Smoky Mountains.

SPANISH CLUB

At a meeting of the Spanish club was held Alpha Sigma hall Wednesday evening at 6:45, a short play entitled "El Joven Medico Infortunado" was presented by Bob Lucero, Dick Smith, and Arline Barrett. Carmine Archilla, the secretary, read the minutes of the last meeting and Spanish songs were sung.

HOME ECONOMICS

The freshman home economics students were guests of the Home Economics club at its meeting Tuesday evening in Miss Mary Armstrong's class room. Mary Kate Anderson, president, presided over the brief business session which included the reading of the minutes by the secretary and a discussion by the vice president, Lois Hodgson, of the purposes and activities of the club. Refreshments were served in the

Maryville-Teacher Game Broadcast To Students in Chapel

Amplifying System Brings Description Over Long Distance Wire

The relay broadcast of the Maryville-Teachers football game heard yesterday afternoon in the college chapel was the first such attempt made at Maryville. The play-by-play description originated at the municipal stadium in Johnson City, Tenn., where the t Smoky Mountain conference foes were playing. Contributions of five local merchants and the student body made the broadcast possible.

Dr. J. H. McMurray, president of the Smoky Mountain conference and Mr. Fred Proffitt, college treasurer, assisted by Prof. George Howell, arranged the broadcast. Maxwell Cornelius, whose appeal in chapel Thursday was responsible for the student contributions, and Glenn Young were stationed at the field at Johnson City. Their telephone description was received at the college by Walter West and Prof. Howell and rebroadcast over the amplifying system loaned by the chemistry department. The local merchants contributing half the telephone cost were Proffitt's, Norton Hardware, Elder's, Pop Turner, Webb Studio, and Capitol Theatre.

In order that more students might hear the broadcast, all afternoon classes were dismissed.

Mrs. Lloyd Honored At Tea by Pearsons Women

From 3:15 to 5 o'clock Friday afternoon in the Y. W. reading rooms, the women of Pearsons Hall entertained at a tea in honor of Mrs. R. W. Lloyd. The guests were the women of Pearsons, the junior and senior women from town, and the women members of the faculty. In the receiving line were the officers of Pearsons, Mrs. Grace Pope Snyder, Mrs. Butcher, and Mrs. Lloyd.

Zula Vance was in charge of the program which consisted of a Marimbaphone solo by Marie Fawcett, and selections by the Dixie Vagabond Quartette, Jerry Beaver, Louise Felknor, and a trio composed of Helen Bewley, Nancy Quinn, and Ruth Woods. Ruth Emory was in charge of the refreshment.

Debate Speech Class Has Series of Talks

The Varsity debate speech class began working on the Pi Kappa Delta question, Resolved: that the National Labor Relations Board should be empowered to enforce arbitration in all industrial disputes, last Monday evening.

Speeches centered around some phase of the question were as follows: Arnold Kramer, "The Supreme Court and Labor Cases", George Hunt, "The National Labor Relations Act;" Etta Culbertson, "The Personnel of the National Labor Relations Board," and Ernest Crawford, "Attacks on the National Labor Relations Board."

One of the disappointing, discouraging things about humanity is the ease with which your good friend can be turned against you.

445 Sign Contracts With Business Mgr. For '38 Chilhowean

Senior Section of Annual Scheduled To Close November 30

A total of 445 students and faculty members have thus far signed contracts for the purchase of 1938 Chilhoweans, at four dollars the copy. Most of these contracts were signed after the chapel exercises Tuesday morning.

The contract is a pledge to pay for the Chilhowean in three payments: one dollar, at least, must be paid by this coming Wednesday; two dollars more by the time second semester bills are paid; and the final dollar at the time of the delivery of the annual. The four dollars may be paid at once in a lump sum, if that is desired.

Included in the 445 who have ordered books are 109 seniors, 74 juniors, 115 sophomores, 142 freshmen and 5 faculty members.

One hundred seventy-six persons have already made payments on their books. Of the 161 who have paid the 1.00 advance deposit 3 are faculty members, 48 seniors, 30 juniors, 34 sophomores and 46 freshmen.

The following 12 have paid the total price of 4.00: 2 faculty members, 2 seniors, 1 junior, 5 sophomores, 2 freshmen. One sophomore and one junior have paid 3.00, while one senior paid 2.00.

The senior section of the annual, which has been open for portraits since November 2, will be closed Tuesday, November 30. At that time the junior section will be opened. The editor, Bruce Morgan, warns that the class sections can not be held open after the deadlines have passed.

"For the sake of good portrait photography itself, it is wise to go early for your sittings," advises Morgan. "Better photographs result from freedom from haste in photographing."

Those who are having their pictures made by any photographer other than Webb must be certain that a 3 1-2 by 5 gloss print can be put in the hands of

Lloyd Addresses Several Groups

President Attends Dinner For Dr. Morgan

Dr. Ralph W. Lloyd attended a dinner Friday in Knoxville given for Dr. H. A. Morgan, former president of the University of Tennessee, who is now one of the three directors appointed by President Franklin D. Roosevelt to serve on the T. V. A. The same day Dr. Lloyd spoke at the annual father's meeting at Pack Junior high school, Knoxville. Tomorrow he will preach at the first anniversary of the West Maryville Presbyterian church.

During the past week President Lloyd has addressed many groups: the A B C Bible class for men in Knoxville last Sunday noon; a young peoples rally of the Holston Presbytery in Greenville, Tennessee, on the subject, "Youth Action in Personal Religious Living"; Wednesday Dr. Lloyd and Dr. J. H. McMurray attended a meeting in Knoxville to consider the development of a non-partisan policy association; and on Thursday a banquet at the American Legion of Maryville at which time Dr. Lloyd spoke on "The True Significance of Armistice Day".

Campbell, M. C. Students, Go To Economics Meetings

Professor Claude A. Campbell and several students of the economics department attended the tenth annual conference of the Southern Economic association in Knoxville last Friday and Saturday. The purpose of this conference was to discuss problems related to the economic welfare of the southern states, and it was open to all who are interested in such problems.

Some of the more important subjects discussed at the meeting were social security, economic planning by the government, labor, transportation, the T. V. A., public utilities, and prices.

Among the prominent speakers at the conference were David E. Lilienthal, director of the Tennessee Valley authority, and Calvin B. Hoover of Duke university, president of the association.

Annual Meeting Of MC Directors To Be On Nov. 18

About Twenty Expected for This Annual Meeting At Maryville

The annual fall meeting of the board of directors of Maryville college will take place November 18, at 9 a. m. in the president's office. The reports of the president, treasurer, and the committees of directors will be read in the meeting which will be presided over by the chairman, Judge S. O. Huston of Knoxville, who graduated in the class of 1898.

There are two meetings of these directors every year, one which takes place in the fall when the general conditions of the college are reviewed, reports given, and officers of the directors elected for the coming year. The other is on commencement day when degrees are conferred, and faculty appointments are made.

The directors who number 36 come from various sections of the country and from other countries. Tennessee, Ohio, New Jersey, Michigan, Alabama, Kentucky, Pennsylvania, Florida, North Carolina, and Washington, D. C. are among the states, and West Africa is the foreign country. Because of the distance that it would be necessary for some of these men to travel, it is thought that only about 20 will be present.

Tickets For Play On Sale Next Week

"Pride and Prejudice" Made Hit In New York

Tickets for "Pride and Prejudice", College Players production to be presented in Voorhees chapel December 3, will be placed on sale next week, Roy Talmage, business manager, announced today. The play, a dramatization by Helen Jerome of Jane Austen's novel of the same name, enjoyed a long run in New York following its premiere in 1935.

Lois Black will play the part of Elizabeth Bennet, a part portrayed by Adrienne Allen in the original production. Gordon Bennet, experienced Maryville thespian, is to be Mr. Darcy, the role of Colin Keith-Johnson in the New York cast. Other leading parts selected by Mrs. Nita E. West, dramatic director, are Mr. Bennet, Donald Stevens; Jane Bennet, Carol Ward; Lydia Bennet, Arda Walker; Mr. Bingler, Russell Hirsch; and Mrs. Bennet, Muriel Mann.

The setting of the three act play is in the atmosphere of a nineteenth century drawing room. The story concerns Mrs. Bennet's desire to marry off her three daughters, Jane, Elizabeth, and Lydia. The central dramatic situation is the conflict between the pride of Elizabeth Bennet and the prejudice of Mr. Darcy. The New York Times hailed the original play two years ago as "a shimmering and decorus satire". William Lyon Phelps characterized the play as "the best comedy in New York", a view shared by The Commonwealth which called it "one of the few smash hits of the season."

Freshmen Given Ratings On Aptitude Tests Tues.

Tuesday morning the freshmen were given their standings in their class as determined by the Scholastic Aptitude test, prepared by the psychology department, which they took October 1. The test was given so that each student might discover how well he is equipped by capacity and preparation to carry on college work, and in the hope that an understanding of his own aptitudes will help him to make a better adaptation here on the campus.

Fund For Hammond Organ For Chapel Reaches $655

The fund for the purpose of purchasing a $1500 Hammond organ to be placed in the chapel has reached the sum of six hundred and fifty-five dollars. To give every one an opportunity to contribute to this fund a lock box will be placed in Pearson's lobby and Thaw hall on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday of next week. Any amount will be acceptable. This will be the only method of solicitation used.

Rosenthal, Polish Pianist, To Give Concert In Voorhees Chapel, Tuesday, 8:15

MORIZ ROSENTHAL

Artist Comes to Maryville On Forty-Ninth Tour Of America

LAST PUPIL OF LISZT

Program Consists of Four Separate Groups of Numbers

By WALTER WEST

Moriz Rosenthal, world famous pianist on his forty-ninth American tour, plays in Voorhees chapel Tuesday evening at 8:15. Mr. Rosenthal will arrive in Knoxville from Washington Monday.

While critics from all over East Tennessee hail the coming of Rosenthal the greatest achievment of the fall season, ticket sales both to students and other patrons have been more than satisfactory. Visitors will hear Rosenthal, coming from all parts of East Tennessee to attend the concert.

Rosenthal arrived in New York early this week and played in concert at Town Hall on Armistice Day. On Sunday afternoon, he appears as guest artist with Dr. Hans Kindler's National Symphony in Washington D. C. He leaves immediately for Knoxville and Maryville. His program at Maryville will be the same as the one played in New York on his first appearance of his current tour.

The program consists of four separate groups of numbers. The first group consists of "Aria Variazoni" by Handel; "Tambourin" by Rameau; "Gavotte" by Padre Martini; and two sonatas by Scarlatti. The second portion of the program is the long but beautifully descriptive "Wanderer Fantasy" by Franz Schubert. The third group will consist of works by Chopin, five preludes, two mazurkas, "Valse, Opus 42," and "Scherzo, Opus 31". Following the intermission, the concluding group will be composed of two selections from Liszt—the teacher—and two numbers by Rosenthal—the pupil—played now by the pupil at the age of seventy-five. The Liszt numbers are, "Forgotten Valse" and "Etude transcendante in F minor". The Rosenthal numbers are "Papillons" and "Fantasy on themes from Gounod's 'Faust'". The latter number was composed by the artist early this year.

A rare treat is in store as critics praise Rosenthal's artistry. Neville d 'Esterre, noted French connoiseur of music, in his recent articles on "Seven Pianists" in "The American Music Lover" calls Rosenthal "the greatest living master of rhythm—a man of wit and wisdom—the equal of the greatest of them all—the master of touch that suggests sunshine, and fire, and wind, and rain."

Tickets will go on sale at the door of the chapel at 7 p. m. and the doors will open at 7:15 p. m. No student tickets will be sold without activity cards.

Forty Students Work At Twenty Mission Points

Volunteers Teach Sunday Schools, Supervise Church Work

One of the most worthwhile works carried on by students of the college, is that being done by volunteers who work at the various mission points in Blount County and several of the adjoining counties.

At the present time there are approximately forty students doing various types of minstry at twenty mission points. Five carloads of students go from the school each week to work at these missions and rural churches. Some are supervising Sunday Schools and Mission; others teach Bible classes. Some of the students have lined themselves up with young peoples work and are directing various groups or leading in club work. One carload of students goes to various mountain missions on Saturday afternoon to carry on week day religious education programs. Several of the men have regular preaching appointments, and in these ways the needs of the various points are met by these student workers.

The plan is the outgrowth of the work that was done in former years by students in the local Sunday Schools and Young Peoples organizations. In recent years, Dr. H. E. Orr, head of the Religious Education Department of the College, conceived the idea of extending the services of the students to the surrounding rural areas. He real-

Barnwarming To Be Held November 25

Election of King and Queen To Be Next Week

The annual college "barnwarmin'" sponsored by the Y. W. C. A. will be presented in the Alumni gymnasium, Thanksgiving evening, November 25 at 8:15 p. m. according to an announcement by Winnie Berst, who is in charge of the program and all other arrangements.

Every year on Thanksgiving day the Y. W. C. A. has the "barnwarmin" at which the feature event is the presentation of the king and queen. The royalty for this years program will be elected by the student body in chapel early next week but the result of the election will not be announced until the program. It is also planned to have the runners-up in the election serve as the court, making it a little more elaborate than it has been in years past.

The theme for the "barnwarmin'" will be an old fashioned showboat. Booths will be sponsored by the four different classes and the faculty. The four societies on the hill will each give a program.

Other students working with Winnie on the program are Walter West, program chairman; Sara Bolton, booth chairman; John Wintermute, in charge of decorations; Glenn Young, in charge of the lighting; and Win Ross, business manager from the Y. M. C. A.

Bleakney Speaks To Student Body

World Peace Was Subject Of Address

Dr. Edward Bleakney, minister of the Mount Lebanon Baptist church of Pittsburgh and member of the Council for Peace and Social Action, gave "World Peace" as the theme of his address at the Wednesday morning chapel service in commemoration of Armistice day.

President Ralph W. Lloyd introduced Mr. Neal Spahr, president of the Knoxville Peace Council, and then the Rev. Bleakney, who told of the forces in the world today for and against war. On the side of force are nationalism, militarism, munitions makers, tariffs, and economic problems. On the side of peace are travels, the will to believe in peace, and religion. The Rev. Bleakney challenged us with the following: "Think and live in the world: for the world is one, and we want the educated youth of our world to lead and work in the crusade of making the world one. —Be makers of peace."

Class Sponsors

Our respective hat is off to the 1938 Chilhowean for its decision to end the farce of a beauty section for the annual. Instead, a class sponsor will be chosen by each of the four classes on the basis of her leadership, personality, and work in her respective class.

It seems that the one having the most friends, regardless of her looks, has always been elected one of the campus beauties. Lack of judgment has been evident in some of the selections previously made.

One of the causes for poor selections has been that many students fail to vote, and thus a comparatively small clique has managed to railroad its candidate through.

Changing the name of this section, and changing the basis for selection, perhaps will not guarantee that the one most representative will be chosen; but at least it will provide a name that will come nearer fitting than that of "class beauty."

Campus Activities

Desire to become a campus atellite has caused many students to enter into more activities than they have time or ability to do well.

The problem would seem to center around the individual's belief in the relative place of extra-curricular activities in his development. It is a truism that those who are engaged in the most outside activities are usually those who have the less need for them.

Importance of extra-curricular activities is generally conceded and should not be too greatly disparaged. But should they have first place in a curriculum planned to give the student the best balanced program?

Our belief is that it is not so much a question of extra-curricular activities as it is the number of these activities. Maryville does not provide so great an opportunity along this line, although they are seemingly adequate for this type of college.

Recognition as a campus leader has caused many sophomoric upperclassmen to martyr themselves on the altar of extra-curricular activities. A point system similar to that advocated in the Echo of October 29 would do much to check this condition.

FEW STUDENTS REALIZE that only through the outside sale of tickets is the excellent Maryville Artist series we enjoy each year possible. The total student activity appropriation cannot pay for even one artist of the calibre of John Charles Thomas. The student criticism that some have not been able to obtain seats for any given concert is not in accord with the facts. In the whole series' hisory no student has missed a concert because there was no seat remaining; in fact several times the Knoxville and Maryville demand has been refused, only to leave many valuable seats vacant at curtain time because students failed to take advantage of their privilege.

THE DAY THAT ONE CENT is paid to Professor Professor George Howell or any of his assistants for their hard, thankless work in making concert arrangements and handling reservations they may perhaps be criticized fairly. There is no seat in Voorhees chapel from which it is not possible to receive full benefit from any performance. The rear seats of the chapel are closer to the stage than seats costing twice as much in other concerts by the same artist. The best seats are those in the balcony, a fact borne out by the demands of faculty members and outsiders alike, yet these seats have always been reserved for students only.

TWO SUGGESTIONS MIGHT BE MADE to the ticket managers, however. Sales should be opened at times when there is no chance of any class being detained at a chapel meeting. Freshmen and seniors were both at a disadvantage in this first sale. Secondly, out of fairness to those who do wait in line, no single individual should be permitted to obtain more than two or three tickets. If he and his friends wish to sit togeher, let his friends stand in line with him. It seems to be a waste of time for more people, but the speed of the line is necessarily limited anyhow, and under a different system no person near the front of a line could gather the orders of all his friends to the detriment of those behind him.

IF STUDENTS STILL FEEL that the Maryville college Artist series should be limited to the college group then we can return at once to the vaudeville and Swiss bell-ringer type of entertainment. Our series at Maryville is recognized as being second to none in the state. Not only is it our best advertisement and our best medium for creating community and regional goodwill toward the college, but it is a rare cultural opportunity which the students whose horizon is not bounded by Court street and the college hospital will recognize.

Home Economics club room.

STUDENT VOLS

At the Student Volunteer meeting Sunday evening Marian Kelly, a freshman, will tell of her experiences in Kentucky missions, where she worked before coming to college.

Y. W. C. A.

A guest speaker, Miss Anne Dosser, will address the Y W members at 1:15 Sunday in the Y rooms. Her topic is "The Role of the World-Minded Student". Miss Dosser is the secretary of the YWCA in Knoxville and a leader in Girl Reserve work.

Special music for the program will be by a vocal trio. The ushers will be Edith Evans and Barbara McCutcheon.

Y. M. C. A.

The Rev. B. M. Larson, pastor of the Little Brick Presbyterian church of Knoxville, will address the weekly meeting of the Y. M. C. A., Sunday afternoon at 12:45 on "The Kingdom Law of Greatness". The Rev. Mr. Larson is prominent in East Tennessee as a minister and religious writer. His sermons are published each Saturday in the church news section of the Knoxville Journal.

The time of the "Y" meeting has been changed from 1:00 o'clock to 12:45, making it possible to have a fifteen minute song service before the regular program.

THETA-ALPHA SIG

Theta Epsilon and Alpha Sigma will hold a joint meeting Saturday evening at 7:00 in the chapel. The theme of the program will be "Typical American Life and Music." This theme will be carried out by selections played by the Royal Collegians; a piano solo, "Indian Lodge" by Kathleen Cissna; a discussion of American music by Arlene Phelps; a skit, "Hero, Heroine, Villain and Everything Else," by Lois Black and Carol Dawn Ward and songs by Ruth Andrews.

Beginning this week, Theta Epsilon is planning to have a theme for each meeting. American, Indian, French and Italian programs are being planned.

LAW CLUB

J. W. Morton, Maryville attorney and graduate of the University of Tennessee Law school, spoke to the Law club Wednesday evening on "The Truth about the Truth". About twenty-five members of the club were present.

MINISTERIAL

Dr. Frank D. McClelland, director of personnel, will talk to the Ministerial association at its regular meeting Monday evening in Athenian hall. The subject of his talk will be "What I Expect of My Minister."

There will be an installation ceremony at this meeting when all new members will be received into the Association.

Library Gets Books

The new books purchased for the Library are being prepared for circulation, and will be on the shelves after the 25th of November.

Some of the interesting titles are: Folk Beliefs of the Southern Negro, On Being Human, Greek Idols and Modern Life, Bible Prose and Poetry, Mysticism, The Moth Book, The Drama in Chemistry, Christian Traditions, Steamboating of the Upper Mississippi, My Country and My People—by Lin-Yu-Tang.

One—Thou shalt not ever use scented powder as a substitute for soap and water.

Two—Thou shalt not wear flashy clothes, or screaming colors.

Three—Thou shalt not put on make-up like Theda Bara, nor perfume thyself so strong that strong men reel when you pass.

Sea Son's Greetings

An old one scene, five act historical, serious meller-drammer that is going to win the Theta Alpha Phi cup for the current season. The cast for the first production includes (in their order of insignificance):

Political orator: "Smilin' Walt West

Davy Jones: John Stafford (he's all wet)

Cap'n Pegleg Pete: Roy Talmage (who has a hard time getting about)

First Mate: Don Rugh, hero (what sarcasm;)

Heroine: Joy Pinneo, fifth mate to the first mate (what a man!)

M. C. Air Corps: Athenian society (they-re so high minded)

The entire play takes place in the northwest where men are white and ships float. The lights dim, the curtains part, a deathless hush falls over the audience, and we hope that much of the cast is on the bridge of the good ship "Tuscarorra," where they're supposed to be.

He submitted the plan to the Board of National Missions of the Presbyterian Church, and the Rev. F. R. Watt was sent by them to Maryville to serve as Sunday School Missionary and cooperate with Dr. Orr in supervising the work.

Mr. Watt has been in this territory about a year and has spent his time visiting the various churches and meeting with the people. Dr. Orr and Mr. Watt hold conferences with the students each month, at which time reports are made, problems of the field discussed, and plans made for the future. Many students interested in the work but not actually in the field attend these meetings to acquaint themselves with the work.

At the present time there is a Parish committee composed of Dr. R. W. Lloyd, Dr. H. E. Orr, Dr. John A. McAfee, the Rev. C. E. Cathey, and the Rev. F. R. Watt. This committee has been selected to supervise the work and meet several times during the college year to review the work done and outline plans for further work.

THE SPORTS EDITOR

Good team looks bad

Regardless of what happens from now on (this is being written before the scrap with Teachers), the 1937 Maryville grid team has earned its place among the best produced by the Mountain circuit this season.

They beat a really good team at Bristol, the 20-0 score notwithstanding.

But it wasn't the victory that left such a pleasant tingle in the spines of Maryville supporters. It was rather the manner in which that victory was accomplished.

The thoroughness with which the Scotties throttled every offensive effort of the Tornado is a tribute to the efficiency of both coaches and players.

You may notice elsewhere on the page that King's Mr. Allison emerged from the evening's festivities with a net gain of minus thirteen yards from scrimmage.

What a punk back he must be, you say.

But the funny thing about it is that Allison is admittedly one of the loop's best ball carriers. He is bigger and faster than any halfback on the Maryville squad. He was a threat at all times Saturday night.

Yet he was rudely dumped for a net loss of thriteen yards.

The reason is that the Highlanders were continually doping the Tornado plays and spilling them on the line of scrimmage. They never gave Allison a chance to get past the line and into an open field.

The other King players were treated in like manner.

Alltogether it was a near-perfect job of play analysis and slam-bang work on the part of the Scotties.

So it seems the Tornado must wait another year for its belated revenge.

Ashes

And while we are on the subject, a squib from the King College Kayseean of November 5 might not be amiss. It follows:

"Should the King players remember how close they came to winning last year's Maryville game and the circumstances, the Maryville team will be in for a tough night Saturday."

Which refers, of course to game won on Wilson field by the Scots 16-14, in which King was stopped inches short of the goal line on the last play of the game.

It seems there is still a question in the minds of a few King players and fans as to the validity of the decision which disallowed a final King score and left Maryville the winner.

The decision was made and later confirmed by competent officials.

The incident should be considered closed.

In Brief

Thoughts while trying to think.....Why doesn't Maryville give us a break and elect a feminine cheer leader or two for the sake of variety, or something. Perhaps the Alabama lasses prompted the thought, which was expressed in our presence a few days ago..... did you notice how cute Harlan Howard Dizzley looked sitting on the Maryville High bench as Steve Boretsky's boys whipped Carter Thursday? Wonder if his presence on the bench brought on the current winning streak of the Scots. Too bad he didn't make that Chattanooga trip.....don't miss the battle between the Maryville scrubs and Knox High's Bee team. Anything can happen and probably will, as the sindicate boys often tell us ..... if we need to fill any space below here it will have to be our picks in today's games. You almost got it last week.

Water Carnival Set For Nov. 27

Swimmer's Production On Island Theme

Taking as its theme "The South Sea Islands", preparation for the annual water carnival, to be presented November 27 by the swimming team, is nearing completion as the date of the event draws near.

Featured among the many attractions of the carnival, besides the exhibitions of swimming and diving, will be the queen and king of the carnival. In keeping with the theme of the event the rulers of the carnival will be the king and queen of the Cannibal islands.

Committees for the various divisions have been appointed, but as yet none of the final arrangements have been released. It is certain, however, that there will be an orchestra to play at the carnival. Decorations will be of a nature to lend atmosphere to the events and portray a bit of the south seas in the swimming room.

Twenty-five boys will be in the carnival and plans are being made to have a few girls take part also.

Coach Fishbach will serve as director of the carnival and John Stafford as business manager. Warren Hildrich has charge of the properties and Gene Craine, decorations.

POINT SYSTEM

On Thursday the point system classes held their aerial dart tournament. Each class played as far as the semi-finals and the finals will be played next week. Then the winners in each class will compete for the championship.

Next Thursday the women will have their stunt tests.

BUC PASS IN LAST PERIOD BEATS SCOTS

Juniors Win Two, Hold Class Lead

Seniors Twice Play Tie Performances

Juniors 2—Sophs 0

Starring the famous Colombo, McCaskie, Baird combination, the juniors routed the fighting sophomore squad by a decisive score of 2 to 0, Thursday afternoon on the practice field.

The lonesome two points came as a result of a safety made by the juniors. Early in the first period the juniors surrounded the sophomores deep in their own territority. Wicklund faded back in an attempt to get he sophomores out of the hole, but on a bad pass from center he slipped, and was caught behind his own goal by Colombo.

Never did either team seriously threaten the other's goal, but the ball made several deep trips into both of the team's territories.

During the last minutes of play the sophomore squad made a final bid for supremacy with a series of long passes. Once Marrow bounced a long heave, into the end zone, off Wicklund's chest, but it failed to make the final connection.

Marrow, Wicklund, Ethridge and Herrick turned in above par work for the sophomore squad, but they lacked a scoring punch which would have beenvery beneficial more than once. Both teams took to the air at the opening of the game and kept most of the plays above the ground.

Approximately eight sophomore rooters turned out to cheer their team on to victory, but they ended by threatening before the final whistle blew. Several feminine sophomores raved particularly for Herrich, but even this failed to inspire the sophomoreteam. Upholding the spirit of the juniors was Rhody, Jussley and Proctor, who also played and obtained much better results.

Seniors 6—Fresh 6

Senior and freshman football elevens, under-dogs of the college loop, battled to a 6 to 6 tie on Wilson field, Tuesday afternoon.

Neither of the teams got off to a spectacular opening, but the freshmen chalked up the first six points in the early part of the second half. Lloyd carried the ball across on a long end run which began at the senior thirty-yard line, which was made possible by the brilliant blocking of Van Blarcom.

Fighting to gain vengance for the previous defeat by the upperclassmen, the freshmen kept the seniors in their own territority a major portion of the game. Grasping that last chance, however, the seniors opened up in the last minutes of play with a wild aerial barrage. Parker took a couple of potshots to get his bearings and then dropped one to Roy Talmage, who crossed the goal in the final minute of play.

All attempts for extra points were unsucessful.

The freshmen displayed a winning type of football which was for superior to their previous preformances, Lloyd, Peterson, G. Findlay played well during the entire game for the freshmen. J. Miller, the freshman star of yore, was out of most of the game because of injuries received in attempting to practice tackleing in his room.

R. Talmage, Parker, Black and Woods were the outstanding players for the seniors.

Juniors 6—Frosh 0

Continuing their march for championship honors of the interclass league, the powerful juniors managed to squeeze out a 6-0 victory over the fighting freshmen last Saturday.

The juniors scored in the first quarter when Omer Judy, roving center, intercepted a freshmen pass, and ran twenty yards for the juniors only score. From here to the final play, the game was one of the hardest fought of the schedule.

The freshmen deserve lots of credit for holding down the strong junior aggregation to one touchdown. The freshmen held back the juniors several times when they threatened to score.

The freshmen had Gordon Findlay as their star for the afternoon. Colombo was the juniors big threat, he punted the upper classmen out of danger several times. McCaskie and Baird also played their usual good game.

The juniors are in first place in the

Hardwood Artists End Second Week With 20 on Squad

Four 1937 Lettermen Form Basis of Scot Quint

The varsity basketball squad, of approximately twenty men, finished the second week of practice this Friday. Only four lettermen and five substitutes returned from last year's squad. Odell, Hernandez, H. Magill, and W. Baird, are the four returning lettermen. The five substitutes, who are expected to see lots of service this year, are E. Black, James Etheredge, Keith Augenstein, Russ Colombo, and Dan Magill.

The rest of the squad, which is composed mostly of freshmen, is rather green for varsity competition this year. Outstanding freshmen are, Robert Peters, who came from Friendsville, Tenn., where he played varsity high school basketball for four years. John Kerr, who hails from Greenback High School in Tennessee, where he played three years on the varsity squad, and Jim Miller, who graduated from Surgoinsville High School. Miller played four years of varsity high school basketball.

13-10 Upset by Teachers Blasts Highlanders' Hopes of SMC Title

Passes by Garland and Fleming Ruin Perfect Season In Conference Competition For Scots

Maryville's Highlanders saw their hopes of a Smoky Mountain championship trampled in the gummy mire of East Tennessee Teacher's field yesterday, as Teachers passed their way to a 13-10 upset victory.

Bowers, left end for the Buccaneers, twice eluded the Scot pass defenders to snatch touchdown heaves, the first coming in the second period on a thirty-three yard toss from Fleming and the payoff blow coming in the last four minutes of play. another long one, thrown this time by Garland.

The second Teacher score came after the Scots' fourth quarter rally had apparently sewed up the game.

After trailing through the second and third periods, 7-0, the Honakermen came to life late in the third when Hughes got away on a run to midfield from deep in his own territory. At this point the Scots pulled themselves together and began to march.

As the quarter ended they were deep in Teacher territory. Soon after the opening of the last quarter Odell passed from punt formation to Honaker, who stepped to the eight yard line before he was stopped.

Hughes then slipped a pass to Odell in the end zone for the first Maryville score, and the Bucs lead 7-6.

On the attempt to convert, Hughes' placement was blocked. He then picked up the ball on the hop and carried it over for what would have been the extra point, but it was ruled that the whistle had blown before the ball was recovered. To further complicate matters the officials then called an offside penalty on Teachers, giving the Highlanders another try for the point.

This time it was again blocked, but once more the ball was recovered and carried over by Odell. The point was allowed by the officials, tying the score at 7-7.

About eight minutes remained to be played at this point.

A few minutes later the Scots again took the ball on their own forty and immediately started a second drive. The Teacher line, a power on defense through the first three periods, began to crack under the heavy pounding being handed out by the Maryville backs. Their ground game, mixed with occasional passes, including a long one to Etheredge on the ten yard line, placed Maryville again in the shadow of the Buccaneer goal.

After it seemed that the hard-fighting Scots were going to make a victorious comeback, they found a stiffening Teacher line too much to penetrate. With fourth down coming up and the ball on the eight yard line, Odell stepped back to the 17 and booted a placement through the uprights for another three points to put the Honakermen in the lead, 10-6.

Top Performance Of '37 Grid Year Hung Up By Scots

King Falls 20-0 As Clean SMC Record Is Retained

Reaching their peak performance of the year to overwhelm a much-feared King college eleven 20-0 last Saturday night, Maryville's Scots held their place atop the Smoky Mountain Conference with four wins and no defeats.

The Highlanders turned in what is considered the finest effort of a Maryville team in the last five years, as they thoroughly whipped King's zephyr-like Tornado.

The big Bristol team was never in the game after the first five minutes of play, in which Maryville twice employed passes to take a 14-0 lead.

The press of the Border City was unanimous in calling the Scots the cream of the crop among visiting teams there this season.

"It was the best ball club that Lombe Honaker has brought out of Maryville in a decade, one of the best he has ever developed, and the most efficient that has met King in the Bristol Municipal Stadium this season", stated the Herold Sunday morning.

If the Honakermen were not all of that, at least they gave the most pleasing exhibition put on by any team from the Hill in the memory of the present student generation.

They landed the blow that took the wind out of the King sails before the opening period was half over.

An exchange of punts gave the Scots the ball on their own forty.

From there they marched straight down the field for sixty yards and a score, with Kindred's fifteen yard run to King's twenty-seven playing a big part. It was a twenty-six yard pass from J. D. Hughes to Jim Etheredge that made the score 6-0. Hughes then added the extra point from placement.

If King had ever intended to show

F. M: I only have a nickel. Would you mind jumping half way?

Orator: Yeth. But before I leapth I wanth to make a plea. Ith I should die think that I did it only because I can't float a loan.

Davy: Did you say "wimps"? I'm one of the Jones children.

Heroine: Two biscuits fell out of the oven and exploded. I'm sure the recipe was a good one for I got it from the Maryville college home economics and chemistry departments.

Pegleg: What! No biscuits for supper?

As a result of the explosion the ship sinks into the water. From the distance can be heard the stained "Column, the Gym of the Ocean" and up gallops the college Heir Corpse. They all embrace everybody (mostly the heroine) and the play ends happily with everyone drowning to death.

TEACHERS' GAME

But a Maryville win just didn't seem tobe in the books.

On the kick-off Ed Garland, big Teacher halfback twisted his way back 60 yards to the Maryville 30 before being stopped.

Still the Johnson City team showed little threat.

They were being stopped at the line and their passes, most of them high and wobbly, were falling harmlessly into the mud.

Fourth down was reached with still no sign that the Scotties were to see a hard-earned title slip from their grasp.

But on the next play Bowers slipped around to the right and took Garland's pass with no one near him. He stepped the remaining distance to the end zone without being touched.

With that thrust the Scot lead, the game, and the championship of the Mountain circuit.

With the exception of about twelve minutes in the third and fourth frames, the Highlanders were completely outplayed. They showed no resemblance to the wide-awake, hard charging outfit that slaughtered King last week.

Still their few minutes of heads-up football seemed deserving of victory.

It was a hard one to lose.

Odell, though never able to get away with his usually effective run from punt formation, was the offensive star for the Scots.

Hughes and Etheredge were up to par most of the time, as were Proffitt, Faulkner and Renfro, who bore most of the defensive brunt in the middle of the line.

any scoring punch the suddenness of the Maryville score seemed to chill their good intentions.

A few moments later, after Odell's kicking had helped advance the ball to the King forty-yard line, and Hughes offtackle spin had carried it to the fifteen, the air attack again netted a Maryville score. Odell took Hughes' heave on the goal line and stepped over. Hughes again converted to make it 14-0, where the count stood at the half.

After being turned back several times the Highlanders registered for the last time in the final quarter when Odell faked a punt and then went trucking around right end, back through the middle and 60-yards down the sideline for the third and most satisfying Scot score.

tournament, not having lost a game yet this season.

Seniors 0—Sophs 0

In an interclass touch football game played last Saturday, the seniors and sophomores played to a scoreless tie.

The only time when either team threatened was in the third quarter when the seniors blocked a punt and recovered the ball on the sophomores two yard line. They failed, however, in four attempts to push the ball over. They lost the ball on downs, and the sophomores punted the ball out of danger.

The game was played with two extra periods. Neither team scored however, and the game was called in the second overtime period with the score 0-0.

Forum Circulates A Peace Petition Among Students

Members Endorse Proposed Amendment Of Sen. Lafollette

Fifty members of the Peace forum last night signed a petition later to be circulated among the student body, endorsing the proposed constitutional amendment of Senator Robert LaFollette designed to place the power to declare any foreign war directly in the hands of the people. The petition is to be sent to senior Senator from Tennessee, Kenneth McKellar, as an expression of the desire for peace on the part of the petitioners, emphasizing their view of the necessity of immediate action. The chairman of the forum, Simpson Spencer, read an article from the New York Times and urged the signature of every student as a positive act for the promotion of permanent peace.

The proposed amendment as drawn up by Senator LaFollette is as follows:

"The President shall not wage warfare abroad without a declaration of war by Congress. Except in the event of an invasion of, or military expedition against the United States or its territorial possessions, or attack by a foreign military force upon its citizens residing therein, or invasion of or a military expedition from abroad against any other North American or Caribbean nation, the authority of the Congress to declare war or conscript men for military service oversees shall not become effective until confirmed by a majority of all votes cast in a nation-wide referendum thereon.

"The Congress, whenever it deems necessary, shall by concurrent resolution refer the questions of war or peace and of military conscription to the citizens of the States, the question to be voted on being: 'Shall the United States declare war on ?
and 'Shall the Congress be authorized to conscript men for military service overseas?'"

The meeting last night was arranged by program secretary John Stafford. The members were divided into six groups, led by Clara Dale Echols, Roberta Enloe, Edith Gillette, Marvin Minear, Malcolm Brown, and Donald Killian. A report of each group, following each discussion of some phase of the world peace situation in individual meetings, was read before the assembled forum at the close of the meeting.

CLUBS

Comparisons of the curriculum and entrance requirements of American university law schools will be made at the Law club meeting Wednesday at 6:40 in Athenian hall.

The speakers and the schools they will discuss are as follows: Irene Browder, the University of Mississippi and Cumberland university; J. T. Hannah, Yale university and Vanderbilt university; Gordon Findley, Pennsylvania and Stanford universities; C. L. Franklin, Duke university and the University of Michigan; Hugh L. Smith, the University of Virginia and the University of Tennessee.

STUDENT VOLS

A sound picture, "Our Century of Progress," will be shown at the Student Volunteer meeting Sunday evening. This picture shows the progress which has been made in the foreign mission field during the past 100 years.

The meeting will be held in Bartlett hall, after Vespers. All students are invited to come.

FRENCH CLUB

The French club held a meeting Wednesday evening in the chemistry lecture room at 6:45. Two French films were shown at the regular meeting, after which there was a short business meeting.

NEW ENGLAND

On Monday evening the New England club held its organization meeting in Professor Kenneth Lagerstedt's room at 6:30. The officers of the club, which has just been formed this year, were elected. They are Lincoln Johnson, president; Arlene Phelps, secretary; and Clifford Proctor, treasurer.

Annual Collects $400 On Payments

Deadline For First Payment Set For Today

Bruce Morgan, editor of the 1938 Chilhowean, reports that over four hundred dollars has been collected on the advance payments for the year book and that the deadline for the first payment has been extended until today, November 20.

Plans for the annual have been progressing as rapidly as possible during the past week. On Tuesday all four of the classes elected the sponsors, whose pictures will appear in the book.

Pictures of Alpha Sigma and Theta Epsilon societies were taken on Thursday and Friday as arranged by Ken Van Cise, photography editor. These were the first pictures taken for the Chilhowean this year and as yet no further arrangements for the taking of any picture has been made by any organization.

The Junior section for the book will open next November 24 and the Senior section will close on November 30. Absolutely all senior pictures must be in by this time.

The four classes met after chapel Wednesday morning to elect class sponsors for the feature section of the Chilhowean. The sponsors were nominated on a basis of personality, popularity, and contribution to the class. The names of the sponsors will be withheld until the appearance of the Chilhowean in the spring.

Sunrise Service Presented Nov. 25

Y's Arrange Thanksgiving Program

The Y. M. and Y. W. C. A. will hold a sunrise service on Thanksgiving morning at 6:45 a. m. in the Y. W. rooms. The program chairmen of the two associations have arranged a program of group singing of the familiar Thanksgiving hymns and a talk by Professor Verton M. Queener, of the college history department, on the subject of "Thanksgiving and the Home."

An early morning call to worship by three trumpeters, Ralph Reed, Samuel Cornelius, and Harold Austin, will begin the program. There will be special music by a male quartet, and prayers by members of the group.

Hunter To Speak At Alpha Sig Homecoming

Dr. Edwin R. Hunter and Donnell McArthur, alumni of Athenian Literary society, will be featured at the special Homecoming meeting of Alpha Sigma society this evening. Dr. Hunter will speak on "Some Poems of Carl Sandburg" and McArthur will sing several solos.

Dr. Ralph W. Lloyd, Dr. David H. Briggs, Prof. Fred Griffitts, E. E. McCurry, and Coach Robert Thrower are among the alumni of the society who have been asked to return for the meeting. Martin Brynildsen, program secretary, arranged the program. Reports by Lincoln Johnson, treasurer, and Stanley Phillips and Howard Wickman, his assistants, are expected to compose the business. Phillips is also chairman of a committee arranging the details of the Alpha Sigma stunt for the Barnwarming next Thursday evening.

Maryville Again Gets Distinction

One Of Six In Tennessee Accredited

President Ralph W. Lloyd has received official notification from the Association of American Universities that Maryville College has again been recognized as an accredited college.

Maryville first made application for a place on the accredited list of colleges and universities in 1932, at which time a personal visit and examination was made. Reports submitted in the four years have ranked Maryville among the highest 25 per cent of American institutions. In Tennessee there are approximately 25 colleges for white students and Maryville is among the six of these on the accredited list. The other five are University of Tennessee, Vanderbilt university, The University of the South (Sewanee), The University of Chattanooga, and Southwestern (Memphis).

Dean To Go To Folklore Society Meeting At Yale

Dr. Edwin R. Hunter, dean of Maryville college and head of the department of English, was elected delegate to the American Folklore society meeting at Yale university December 27-28 at the fourth annual meeting of the Tennessee Folklore society held at Pleasant Hill academy, Cookeville, last Saturday. Dr. Hunter was also re-elected secretary of the society.

Students Called Home By Death of Father

Joy and Lily Pinneo, junior and freshman students of the college, were called to their homes in Newark, New Jersey last Thursday morning by a telegram telling them of the death of their father. They were driven north by Donald Rugh, and expect to return early next week.

Dr. Pinneo was a practicing physician in Newark. His death was attributed to a heart attack.

The personnel office has been preparing identification pictures of the freshmen and getting the mid-semester reports of grades ready this week. These will probably be distributed next week.

Annual Directors Meeting Is Held

Officers For Coming Year Are Elected

The annual fall meeting of the board of directors of Maryville college took place last Tuesday with a quorum of the directors present. During the course of the meeting reports were read by the president, treasurer, committee on administration, and committee on finance.

Officers for the coming year were elected: Judge S. O. Huston of Knoxville, chairman; Rev. J. M. Broady of Birmingham, vice-president; and Treasurer F. L. Proffitt of the college, recorder.

The committee on administration, an executive committee of directors which meets every two months, is composed of Dr. Ralph W. Lloyd who is chairman of the committee, the chairman of the finance committee, and the chairman of the directors, along with four other members of the directors.

The committee on finance is composed of six members, one of these being the president of the college, the other five elected. Judge A. E. Mitchell of Knoxville is chairman of this committee which meets every month during the year.

NOTICE

The Maryville college social committee wishes to ask for the cooperation and suggestions of all students as to the furtherance of social activities on the campus. From time to time during the year various organizations will be asked to arrange entertainments for the entire student body. We believe that it is the privilege, not only of the members of the Social committee, but also of the whole student body to provide social activities for the school. Therefore, when the Social committee asks any individual or group of individuals to have charge of some entertainment, we would appreciate the utmost cooperation such as shown by the combined Glee clubs which prepared the program and decorations for the last formal dinner.

Rosenthal Plays To Large Crowd Tuesday Evening

Polish Pianist Presents An Interesting, Varied Program

In spite of the cold, disagreeable rain Tuesday evening, Moriz Rosenthal, Polish pianist, played to a capacity house in Voorhees chapel. Mr. Rosenthal's program was varied and interesting. First he played a group of light, melodic numbers, consisting of Aria Con Variazioni, a beautiful composition of Handel; Tambourin by Rameau; a Gavotte by Martini, and two Sonatas by Scarlatti.

The second part of the program consisted of only one number—the Wanderer Fantasy Op. 15 by Schubert. This number is magnificently expressive and full of suppressed longing. Several times it almost dies away on notes of sadness, but the music soars again and finally ends in passionate chords.

The next part of the program was Chopin music and was begun with five preludes. The two Mazurkas which followed the preludes were interesting insights into the character and feeling of the Slav people. The Chopin Valse had a certain aristocratic assurance. Scherzo Op. 31 was a truly powerful and brilliant number. The Chant Polonais, which is a theme of Chopin's with variations by Liszt, is worthy of the two musicians and was played with great understanding by Mr. Rosenthal.

The last part of the program consisted of two numbers by Mr. Rosenthal himself. Papillons, the first number, was probably characteristic of the man who wrote it. Carneval Viennese on Themes by Johanna Strauss and arranged by Moriz Rosenthal combined the ever popular appeal of Strauss and the skill and artistry of Mr. Rosenthal.

Musical Vesper Service Given Sunday Evening

The monthly musical vespers will take place tomorrow evening when Ralph R. Colbert conducts the vesper choir in three choral numbers and there is a string trio number and a piano duet. Dr. William P. Stevenson will preach, using as his subject, "Great Getting Through Generous Giving".

The choral numbers are "Music of Life," by Cain; "Today There Is Ringing," by Christiansen; and a benediction from the old Russian, "Nunc Dimittas." The new college string trio composed of Erwin Ritzman, John Guinter, and Louise Felknor and Miss Katherine Davies' piano duo will be the Nocturne from Mendelssohn's "A Midsummer Night's Dream."

Thanksgiving Program, Privileges Announced

An interesting program has been planned for the Thanksgiving season including basketball games Wednesday evening, Y. M. and Y. W. sunrise worship Thursday, barnwarming Thursday evening, and the water carnival Saturday evening.

On Thanksgiving day, men and women students may have the privilege of being together in Maryville providing they are back at the dormitories at 5 p. m. In addition, with permission from home, students may accept invitations to the noon meal in Maryville.

Royalty Will Be Presented Thurs. At Barnwarming

Program Built Around Old Showboat To Be Given

The royalty of barnwarming, the king, the queen, and the attendents will be presented to a Maryville audience Thanksgiving evening at the Alumni gymnasium during an entertainment which will have as its theme the old Showboat.

Booths which will be sponsored by various organizations will constitute the first part of the program. The faculty will have an entirely new type of booth for which they are making elaborate plans.

The candidates for the royalty who Winfred Ross, Malcolm Brown, Bill were voted on in chapel Friday were Swearingen, John Stafford, Simpson Spencer, Harry Rice, Reese Scull, Elworth Black, Joe Wallace, Roy Talmage, Connie Johnson, Dorothy Armstrong, Helen Miller, Geneva Johnson, Louise Orr, Jessie Cassada, Marian Lodwick, Reba Blazer, Lois Black, and Edith Pierce.

At the Barnwarming last year Lillian Crawford '37 of Maryville was elected queen, and Don McArthur '37 a member of a college quartet was king. There were no attendents.

Winnie Berst has charge of the program this year. She is assisted by Walter West, program chairman; Sara Bolton, booth chairman; John Wintermute, decorations; Glenn Young, lighting; and Win Ross, business manager.

Invitations Sent For Speech Meet

Freshman Tournament Held In Spring

Professor Verton M Queener, Maryville college debate coach, announced this week that invitations have been sent to all four-year colleges in Tennessee and to several colleges in Kentucky, North Carolina and Virginia to participate in a freshman debate tournament at Maryville next spring. The subject which has been tentatively selected is, Resolved: That the several states should adopt unicameral legislatures.

The freshman tournament was organized and held at Maryville for the first time last year under the direction of Professor Queener. This tournament was regarded as being highly successful, and teams from all over the state participated. This year's tournament is expected to include more colleges and to have a much larger number of debaters participating.

Tickets For Play Put On Sale At Y. M. Store

Tickets for the College Players' production of "Pride and Prejudice" to be presented on December 3, were placed on sale at the "Y" store for the first time today, according to Roy Talmage, business manager, who likewise announced a reduction in price. This year general admission will be thirty cents, and reserved seats thirty-five.

At a recent meeting of the Players, Dean Browne was elected advertising manager, and will assume her duties immediately.

CHEMISTRY GRADUATES EMPLOYED IN VARIOUS TYPES OF WORK

By SARA LEE HELLUMS

Discovery of the names of several Maryville graduates in "Chemical Abstracts" recently led to the investigation of what other chemistry major graduates of Maryville college are doing now.

The American Chemical Society publishes "Chemical Abstracts" semi-monthly, with a decennial index every ten years, containing both a subject and author index of abstracts published in approximately two thousand magazines from all over the world.

The name of Louise Carson, '30, co-author of a paper on "Molecular Organic Compounds", appeared in the 1935 index. Miss Carson received her M.A. at the University of Tennessee in 1932, and has taught general science at Park Junior High school, Knoxville, Tennessee, since then. Her co-author was Rachel Edds, class of '27, who received her M.A. from U.T. in 1934.

Other chemistry graduates who are teaching their major are B. Calvin Bass, '31, who has done work on his M.A. at U.T., while teaching chemistry and physics at Alcoa high school; Thomas Wilson Whitehead, '30, who has taught at Central High school, Knoxville, for five years after getting his M.S. from U.T. in 1931; David Samuel Marston, '29, who taught at Boyd Junior school after receiving his M. A. in physics from Ohio State university.

Alfred Soukup, '28, whose name was later Americanized to Marsh, who has a Ph.D. from Indiana university, and who has taught at Alabama college, is employed in some phase of industrial research. Roy Paul, with an A.B. from Maryville in '28 and an M.S. from Vanderbilt in '29, has been very successful in the Victor Chemical Works at their plant in middle Tennessee. An industrial alcohol company employs Robert Sloan Welsh, '29, at Louisville, Kentucky.

Thomas Kidd, '35, and Winifred Glass, '33, are at the Jackson Laboratories of the Dupont Co., Penn's Grove, New Jersey. Wiley Steakley, '36, is in the control laboratories of the American Rolling Mill Co., Middletown, Ohio.

Working on their Ph. D's are Duncan James Crowley, '36; who is a graduate assistant at Purdue university; William C. Frishe, '35, holding a graduate fellowship at the University of Cincinnati; Robert Rummel, '33, finishing his thesis requirements for Vanderbilt while instructing chemistry at Georgia School of Technology, Atlanta; and Fred Kirchner, '34, who was the first president of Alpha Gamma Sigma at Maryville college, a present member of the senior staff of assistants at Ohio State university.

The University of Tennessee, until this year, had on its staff two Maryville graduates; George F. Deeble, '35, who received his M. S. from there, and Robert Brown, '35, now at the University of Kentucky.

Mary Ruth Marston, '27, a chemist in the Bureau of Chemistry and the Department of Agriculture after graduation, resigned to become the wife of Ben H. Blackburn, also a graduate of '27, for esveral years a high school science teacher at White Pine, Tennessee.

James Henry Lowry, '33, and Malcom Houts '32, are employed by the Alcoa plant of the Aluminum Company of America.

The investigation included only those who have graduated in the last ten years and are now employed in purely chemical work. Information about any names omitted will be appreciated.

Two of the earlier graduates of the College are now members of the department of chemistry: Professors George Howell and F. A. Griffitts.

Maryville Remedial Reading Project

The remedial reading project of the psychology department in which a large number of upperclass students is participating is the work of Dr. David H. Briggs, now in his second year as professor at Maryville. Few Maryville people are aware of the high school testing program Dr. Briggs inaugurated for the whole state of Florida while professor in that state several years ago.

The present project, designed to increase the reading rate and comprehension of students by means of an instrument called the Metranoscope, is the most recent development in the educational field. Maryville can be proud of the progressive head of her department of education.

Why Not Give Them A Break?

Although organized only a few weeks ago, the Royal Collegians have proved themselves an orchestra of no mean ability. Their playing at the formal dinner Tuesday evening rated a great deal of praise.

Praise is about all, however, that they receive. Various organizations are eager to engage them to play for their meetings, but they seem to forget that a ten-piece band has expenses that praise or recognition will not meet.

Since the orchestra did not have enough money to pay for its fronts, several members had to paint them and do some of the other work. Demands are made that the orchestra increase its range of numbers, but little is done to provide it with any money for the music.

Restricting practice to one evening a week has placed the band under another handicap. Allowance for more practice would be a great help.

The students and faculty have expressed themselves as being behind the band; but one student was not entirely wrong when he said that they are so far behind that they are out of sight. The Royal Collegians need more than recognition; they need at least enough remuneration to meet their expenses.

A Safety Program For Maryville

Perhaps an open ditch is a sign of progress, but after dark it becomes a hazard. Most students are now aware that a new drain is being put in at the side of the road leading to Carnegie hall, although for the first evening or two some found it out somewhat abruptly and unpleasantly. A red lantern at each end of the ditch would have been appreciated.

Late Tuesday afternoon after dark two students found that the opening to the old well near Anderson hall had been carelessly left uncovered. The opening of the well, which is by the walk used by many of the men going to the dining hall, is large and the well is deep.

But a question of safety concerned with more serious problems than mere bruised shins and broken legs is that of fire, especially in the women's dormitories.

Most of the fire escapes are old, rusty and weak. This becomes a more significant fact when one realizes that in Memorial and Pearsons, except for a narrow exit leading to the kitchen in the latter, there is but one stairway to be used.

True there are sprinkler systems in these dormitories, but we have our doubts about their efficiency in case of fire in one of the frame dormitories. Having the fire escapes ending at the second floor doubtless keeps more women in their rooms in the evenings, but it would also do the same in case of fire.

At the first of the year it was suggested to some of the women that they place a damp towel near their beds. May be suggest that a few fire drills and stronger, longer fire escapes would do much more toward providing security for the women.

Fits and Fizzles

SONG OF THANKSGIVING

Forth, Muse, and sing the college student's woes
Those banes which plague, as through his course he goes,
From swaddling freshman days to adult life,
He and the universe are locked in strife.

* * * * * * *

Lo, the freshman's awful ignorance,
Exploited is by soph'more arrogance:
No protoplasmic creature less respected,
No nonentity was ever more dejected.

His prayer: "O, would I were a littul worm,
Free to crawl at will, to twist and squirm.
Alas, a freshman Fate has made of me,
I'm lower than the littul wormie's knee."

* * * * * *

The sopho'more's but a too, too ripened frosh,
Whose head's oft likened to a squashy squash.
His life's a nightmare of unending tests;
His text books haunt him e'er like demon pests.
Of all this dismal world's most wretched store,
The saddest insect is the soph-o-more.

* * * * * *

The junior wails and weeps in grief, forlorn
"For a nobler purpose I was born
Than here to rust, and see my genuis rare
Go unapplauded—'scape into thin air."

* * * * * *

O, bow in reverence, close the moistened eye,
Think with compassion of the senior guy.
His four-year loaf's come out a blackened crust;
The bubble of his cherished plans has bust.

* * * * * *

Stay, Muse, and sing the college student's joy
In thanks for what does he his tongue employ?
What, Muse, you know no song of this design?
Then, Muse, your knowledge corresponds with mine.

Credenda... Polonius

Moriz Rosenthal's rendition of Liszt's Second Hungarian Rhapsody was a sublime experience few of us will be priviledged to relive. From the thundering coda of Chopin's Scherzo to his own ethereal Papillons, Rosenthal enraptured his audience. Even with our limited knowledge and appreciation of fine music, Polonius felt transported beyond those straight walls and the wet November night.

As always, however, there were a few glaring reminders of the provincialism of some of the audience. The first was the garish freshman girl behind us who loudly whispered during the Martini Gavotte, "I hear they could of got Benny Goodman for what they paid this guy". Another was the presence of several who seemed unmindful of the fact that beyond Knoxville women remove their hats at a concert or at the theatre. The third was the presence of several cuddly couples whose conversational undertone ruined the concert for those forced to sit near them. Granted that many of us are self-conscious about our appreciation, please let's think of those around us! If you can't take Miss Davies' excellent course in music appreciation, put William Lyon Phelps' little book "Music" on your "must" list. It's in the library.

"The Northwest Passage, in the imagination of all free people, is a short cut to fame, fortune, and romance—a hidden route to Golconda and the mystic East. On every side of us are men who hunt perpetually for their personal Northwest Passage, too often sacrificing health, strength and life itself to the search; and who shall say they are not happier in their vain but hopeful quest than wiser, duller folk who sit at home, venturing nothing and, with sour laughs, deriding the seekers for that fabled thoroughfare—that panacea for all the afflictions of humdrum world." And all of Kenneth Roberts' exciting new historical novel, Northwest Passage, is as vivid and true as its preface quoted above. We won't review the book; it's too enormous. Read the first ten pages and we'll guarantee you'll finish the book in a week.

A professor over at Duke university wrote another remarkable book earlier this year which stands near the top of the present best-seller list. J. B. Rhine's New Frontiers of the Mind is a collection of the most amazing scientifically tested evidence of extra-physical phenomena that has confronted the world since the beginning of the scientific era. The implications that Rhine's experiments bear, the suggestions as to the possibility of experimentation with the future, have not only halted the whole mechanistic trend of the psychologists with the data presented, but may come to be a turning point in the direction of the philosophical speculation of all mankind. The book is worth any man's time.

TALK OF THE WEEK . By Arlene Phelps

The Wagabond

"Friends of the radio congregation. This program is sponsored by the makers of the sleeveless Narrow Shirts, without collars or buttons. Narrow products are guaranteed not to rip, wear, tear, or wrinkle. If it's too large it'll shrink and if it's too small it'll stretch a mile. Presenting our interrogator, Spinson Slimpcer."

"The purpose of this program is to find the opinion of the man in the Narrow Shirt concerning question of vital interest to all. Our first customer, sophomore Key Thorganstein. What girl were you with last night, chum?"

"What! Me go with any girl? Why . . . Say, who is that girl over there? I haven't met her yet. Wait up, honey, and let's go to the Y store . . on you!"

"That was Mr. Thorganstein. The most bashful student on the campus. And here is our weatehr profit Cox Knowit. How do you account for today's nature phenomen?"

"Well, rain is unusual for Maryville weather but this morning I looked at my barometer and I saw the smoke from the power house going over Anderson and you know the old saying 'when there's a ring around the moon' and . . ."

"Oh. That simplifies and explains things. Here take this three cents and buy yourself a paper so you can give us tomorrow's forecast. Next is a fine looking chap without a face. You're name please?"

"I'm de Blank. Me pa was Blankety Blank 'fore he was sent up Pistol Creek. I'm tough, see? Every time I looks at a brick it cracks!"

"We asked for your name. Not for an application to work in the dining hall. And now, just a personal message from the sponsor."

"Men, who is the boss in your home? Fine. Now get your wife to buy you one of those threadbare, 100 per cent all oilcloth Narrow shirts. Then send it out to the Sunt Blanitary laundry and if you get it back you're lucky. Remember, Narrow Shirts. They-re easy on your feet. This is station CPSR, Konald Dillian speaking. Wishing you a pleasant Thanksgiving vacation for Sunt Blanitary and Narrow."

The latest bulletins from the Student Yelp Campus Brutification branch of the WPA (Worst Possible Administration) department::

1. Work ( ) is progressing (??) on the drain by the side of Carnegie driveway. When completed it will be much easier for the excess water to drain into the road making a more beautiful "Carnegie Pond".

2. At a call meeting of the board of directors it was voted upon to eliminate one walk from the post-office to Thaw because the upkeep was too great. During the next year the former path will remain clay and dirt and then perhaps an appropriation will be made to grass the previous walk. But who will cut the grass?

3. It is planned that work on the new power house and the circle drive will begin by the spring of 1948 and will be completed by June, 1960.

BAINONIAN

This week's Bainonian program will be centered around the following talks: Greatest Fear, Helen Bewley; Greatest Success, Helen Maguire; Worst Blunder, Georgia Ingle; Why I Don't Like Boys, Sally Hellums; My First Date, Lois Barnwell.

CAMPUS WORK

During the week 75 college men employed on the campus have laid a new drain line along the street leading to Carnegie hall, painted the window frames in Anderson, and raked the leaves from the lawn. These improvements which are a part of the routine maintenance work on the campus are under the direction of Ernest C. Brown.

YMCA Chorus Rehearses For Christmas Program

Under the direction of Robert Cusworth, the male chorus of the Y. M. C. A. met Monday evening for its first rehearsal. The chorus plans to present a program of Christmas music during the week preceding the holidays.

The Christmas chorus is to meet again Monday evening at 7:30 in Bartlett auditorium. All men interested in it are asked to be present for rehearsal.

During the Easter holidays last spring the Y. M. chorus told in song the story of the life of Jesus.

Party Held

Maryville students enjoyed an As-You-Like-It "A Trip to the Moon" last Saturday evening from eight until ten. The program included games in Baldwin parlors, ping pong in Pearson's lobby, swimming in Bartlett pool, and a variety program in the Alumni gymnasium.

Refreshments were served at the end of the evening in the gymnasium.

Royal Collegians Get New Modernistic Fronts

The newly formed Royal Collegians orchestra appeared with new fronts when they played at the joint Alpha Sigma-Epsilon meeting in the Philosophy class room Saturday at 6:45. These decorations for music stands were made in the carpenter shop last week by Charles Sullivan.

The fronts have a design consisting of a modern pedestal with a top hat and cane on a cloud effect. The background is black, white, and silver. The design was made by Frank Brink.

Director of College Resigns His Pastorate

Dr. John Grant Newman, a director of Maryville college, and a member of the class of '88, has resigned his pastorate at the Chamber Wilie Memorial Presbyterian church in Philadelphia. He has been pastor there for 25 years. Before that he served as a pastor in Cincinnatti, and later in New York. He was also president of the Western College for Women for some time.

Since 1925, Dr. Newman has been contributing the International Sunday School Lessons to the Saturday Philadelphia Inquirer. He also lectures at Tenant College. He will continue to write his newspaper column and to deliver the lectures.

Dr. Newman is not only a director and an alumnus of Maryville, but he also was a former professor, having taught Latin there from 1893 to 1903. He spoke at the Founder's Day program a year ago.

Pierce Winner In Point System's Dart Tourney

Edith Pierce, junior, defeated Lyn Tyndall, sophomore, in the women's aerial dart tournament which was played off this week. The tournament was first held among the women in the three classes and then the winners from each class competed. Betsey Gaultney was the champion in the freshmen group but was defeated by Lyn Tyndall.

On Thursday of last week the classes took their stunt tests for which a girl can receive twenty-five points if she successfully completes the various stunts.

This week on Tuesday the groups will begin basketball practice in preparation for their tournament to be held soon.

HOSPITAL

During the past two weeks there have been very few people in the Hospital. Nell Muecke is able to be out again and Thelma Ritzman, who suffered from an attack of appendicitis, is back in the dormitory. Peggy Hammond is still in the hospital. Phyllis Spencer has just returned from Fort Sanders hospital in Knoxville where she underwent an appendicitis operation.

Wrestling Practice Starts

Another sports season has now rolled around, heralded by dark days and strong winds.

In the wrestling room of Bartlett Hall Monday the new crop of 1938 wrestlers will make their initial appearance before the critical eyes of Coach Robert C. Thrower. And before we forget it, the following is submitted by request of said coach:

NOTICE

All prospective wrestlers, especially those in the lighter weights are asked to report at three o'clock Monday afternoon at Bartlett Hall for the first practice. This also includes football men.

The grapplin' Scotties, Tennessee champs last winter for about the seventh straight time under the tutelage of Thrower, will be strong again this year. The main lack of dependable man power will be apparent in the light weight classes where there is a perennial dearth of talent. At least that applies to the last three or four years.

If men can be developed to fill the vacancies now existing in these classes the Scots will stir up plenty woe for a list of foes which includes tentatively Appalachian, Vanderbilt, Tennessee, and Miami U. among others.

Complaint Department

Immediately below you will find the Echo's contribution to unemployment prevention.

If the sight of an all-anything football team doesn't give you something to do, then you aren't a fan of the prevailing variety.

Look em' over, anyway.

ANOTHER DUTY DONE

Every year about this time, it becomes the duty of committees, sports writers, etc. to pick All Star Teams. This year the athletic advisors of the classes got together and selected an All Intramural Team.

They present to you the teams they have selected, and hope that they will meet with your approval.

Review of '37 Football Season Shows Team High in SMC Ranks With 4 Wins

Highlanders Narrowly Miss Conference Crown As Last Game Upsets Title Plans

The Maryville grid season, which was brought to such a disappointing end last Friday at Johnson City, proves to be one of the most successful of recent years when taken apart and examined at leasure.

Dropped to third place in the Smoky Mountain Conference by the 13-10 loss to Teachers in the final game, the Scots finished with four wins and one defeat in intra-loop combat. In addition they lost one to Chattanooga in a non-conference affair.

Statistically the Highlanders more than doubled touchdowns and points on the opposition. They secured 16 touchdowns to their foes' seven, and amassed 107 points to 45.

The biggest individual contribution to the Scot total was the 41 point collection of Halfback J. D. Hughes, who led the team in scoring. Junior Odell came next with 30, including one field goal.

Probably the greatest team achievement was the three touchdown defeat of King College, pre-season favorites for the title. In this tussle Maryville reached a peaek of efficiency not attained in any other game, as they soundly thumped the Tornado, 20-0.

Looking back over the 1937 season one thinks first of Odell's great kicking, Al Burris' open field running, Jim Etheredge's fine work at end on both offense and defense, Hughes' piledriving methods at half, the tight defense thrown up by Captain Jim Renfro, Fred Tulloch, Arnold Kramer, and Alternate Captain Jim Proffitt in the Scottie forward wall. All these factors, coupled with a better than average first year crop, helped give Maryville a team that missed the Conference crown by an eye lash, and one which was surprisingly good at times, a little disappointing at others.

Analysed by games the 1937 season looks like this:

Chattanooga 19 Maryville 0

This one is best summed up in the words of Wirt Gammon, Sports Editor of the Chattanooga Times, who said, "The main reason the score was not larger was a long, lanky, punting person, John Odell. John has consistent boots of over forty yards all night, except for one which sliced out badly for him.

"The Maryville team as a whole was not far enough along in conditioning to do much damage against the superior Moccasins, who, by the way, won no medals at blocking and holding on to the ball."

Tusculum 0 Maryville 25

Here was a different story. Al Burris literally ran the Pioneers ragged as the Scots hung up their first SMC win. He ripped through the guards and tackles for gains totaling 110 yards, more than the combined yardage of Tusculum.

The scoring was done on a twenty-yard dash by Burris, two off-tackle drives by Hughes, and a Hughes-to-Odell pass.

Hiwassee 0 Maryville 12

One of the early season surprises was furnished by the gamely fighting Hiwassee Tigers, who scrapped the Highlanders off their feet in the first half, only to lose out on two third period scores by Hughes.

The Scot running attack, functioning momentarily, gave Maryville a 6-0 lead, with Hughes going over from the one-yard line.

A Tiger counter attack was then broken up when Hughes grabbed one of their passes and scampered 97 yards with it for the game clinching marker.

Milligan 7 Maryville 20

Much closer than the score indicates, the Buff fray gave Scot supporters a scare before the game was iced. Again it was an intercepted pass by Hughes, this time on the last play, which stopped a Milligan threat to tie up the game, and gave Maryville an additional score.

This came after the whistle had stopped a strong Buff march on the 2-yard line at the half.

The Highlanders struck first in the second period, a pass from Odell to Honaker bringing the first touchdown. The second came on Honaker's thirty yard heave to Etheredge.

Lenoir Rhyne 0 Maryville 0

After out-fighting and out-smarting Lenoir Rhyne all the way The Scots had to be satisfied with a scoreless tie in a battle fought in a sea of mud at Hickory, N. C.

Odell's thirty-five yard run on a fake kick stood out. It helped the Scots to drive to the Bears' four yard line where they were stopped in the only serious threat furnished by either team.

Cumberland 6 Maryville 20

An unpredictable Cumberland university team which had previously handed King its first beating was downed in fairly easy manner, with all three Scot tallies being scored by Hughes, twice at tackle, once at end.

A long pass led to the Bulldog score.

King 0 Maryville 20

Everything King did was wrong; everything Maryville did was right. The result was one of the most hilarious affairs ever enjoyed by a visiting Scottie delegation, who had continual cause to ring their indispensable cow bell.

Maryville scored twice in the first period on passes to Odell and Etheredge, and added a third in the last quarter as Odell slipped through the entire King outfit for a 60 yard touchdown run from punt formation.

Teachers 13 Maryville 10

But why mention that?

Juniors Conclude Perfect Campaign To Clinch Y Title

1937 Intramural Champs Engage All-star Team Thanksgiving

By virtue of winning five games and tying one, the junior touch football team annexed the Y.M.C.A. interclass football championship.

The powerful junior aggregation did not lose a game this season, and the only tied game was the sophomore-junior tilt.

The juniors defeated the freshmen twice by the scores 12-0 and 6-0. They defeated the sophomores once by the score of 2-0. They whipped the seniors twice by the scores 19-0 and 12-0.

On Thanksgiving morning at 9 p.m., the juniors are going to play a selected All-Star team. It was picked by the athletic advisors of the different classes and is composed of the following:

right end	Woodring
right tackle	Brown
right guard	Peterson
center	Lancaster
halfback	Parker
halfback	Etheredge
quarterback	Ross
fullback	Morrow

Substitutes: Findlay, Wicklund, Black.

Sophomores Grab 12-0 Win

The final game of the Y. M. C. A. interclass league, between the juniors and seniors, ended with the championship junior eleven decisively whipping the seniors 12-0.

The juniors pushed over their first touchdown ni the second quarter, when Colombo completed a long pass to Gene Craine, who gathered in the ball in the seniors end zone. The second score came in the third quarter, when "Red" McCaskie intercepted a senior pass and ran 30 yards for the final junior touchdown.

Juniors Take Last Battle 12-0

Last Saturday afternoon the final game for the freshmen and sophomores ended with the sophomore team on the long end of a 12-0 score.

The first soph touchdown came in the first half, when "Shorty" Etheredge, star sophomore end, intercepted a freshman pass, and ran 20 yards for a touchdown. The second sophomore score came in the third quarter when Etheredge, standing in the freshmen end zone, received a long pass from Frank Morrow.

Myers, Ciurczak Provide Royalty At Water Event

Diving, Racing, Stunts To Prevail At Water Carnival

Ed Ciurczak and June Myers have been chosen to serve as the king and queen of the carnival islands in the annual swimming carnival to be held in Bartlett pool next Saturday evening at 8 o'clock. The theme of the carnival will be the South Sea islands, and all decorations and music will be in keeping with the theme.

Fancy and humorous diving, racing, stunts of various kinds, and many other events will be featured on the program.

The South Sea isles, long famous for their hula dancers, will receive added recognition when "Rusty" Wicklund, John Stafford, and John Rippeth, along with three beautiful mermaids, give their interpretation of a water waltz. Those who attend will also have the opportunity to see how he South Sea islanders would do the Big Apple while swimming in the water.

Music for the occasion will be in keeping with the theme of the carnival. A string orchestra will furnish real South Sea music, and a quartet will sing songs native to the islands.

Besides the 25 men of the swimming team, there will be Dorothy Quass, Mary Darden, June Myers, and Katherine Bennet to add a feminine touch to the occasion, and help make things more interesting.

The carnival is an annual event sponsored by the swimming team and all proceeds will go to help defray the expenses of the team during the year.

Admission will be 20c.

ECHOES OF THE PAST

Tuesday, November 20, 1917

VICTORY . . Maryville defeated Emory and Henry by the score of 26-0 in one of the hardest fought games of the year.

ALTRUISM . . Maryville college students and faculty have subscribed $2,253 to the national Y.W.C.A. war fund.

LYCEUM . . Eugene Laurant, well-known Chautauqua and Lyceum magician, will appear in Voorhees chapel Friday evening. His program of tricks and illusions will be interspersed with piano and trumpet solos.

REFORMERS . . The Alpha Sigma society, as one of the big organizations of the hill officially arrayed itself against all kinds of unmanly and unwomanly conduct which has been going on here on the compus. The society is directing its attention to such acts as defacing the Carnegie bulletin board, tampering with the fire hose, boisterous and untimely noises which disturb the quietude of others, obliterating the campus, and defiling the books of the library.

Friday, November 25, 1927

LYCEUM . . . Miss Estelle Greylhevinne, considered the world's greatest woman violinist, will make her appearance on the first lyceum program Thursday evening at eight o'clock in Voorhees chapel.

CHAMPIONS . . . The sophomores hold the championship for the second year in interclass basketball.

DELEGATES . . . Seven Maryville students will attend the national convention of Student Volunteers to be held in Detroit from December 28 to January 2.

MEMORIES . . Professor Kiger, rushing into the office: "I'm a father."

Hiro: "So's your old man."

ALUMNUS . . Dr. Mark Arthur May, a graduate of the class of '11 has recently been appointed professor of educational psychology at Yale university.

AT RANDOM

Station WPTF at Raleigh, North Carolina, has begun a series of campus news broadcasts. The station will present a fifteen minute program consisting of news and comment from various college campuses located in North Carolina.

Dean Edward C. Lauer of the University of Washington recently compiled a dictionary of college slang. When a student at the U. of Washington takes his girl to a dance he says he is "taking his heart-hastener to a swing session in a wheeled-tub," or "taking his fever-Frau to a cement mixer in a tintype." A homely girl is a "Popeye pansy" or a "muddy plow", and a kiss is a "honey-cooler."

SEWANNEE PURPLE

The November issue of the Atlantic Monthly contains an article on the Shanghai bombings written by an alumnus of the University of the South. Captain Walter C. Kent graduated from the Sewannee, Tennessee university in 1926. He was selected as a member of the All-Southern Conference football team of 1925. Captain Kent was known to his classmates as "Foxie."

THE CHALK LINE

Speaking of the Maryville-Teacher's game, the Teacher's college publication says, "On November 12 the local Buccaneers will attempt to knock the high-riding Maryville college Highlanders from their lofty perch in the Smoky Mountain Conference."

THE TECH ORACLE

Eight sets of twins attend Tennessee Polytechnic Institute. Seven sets are fraternal and one set is identical.

KENTUCKY KERNEL

Students at the University of Kentucky may hear complete recordings of famous operas once a week in the music room of the Library. The Library has a collection of over 1000 recordings.

At the Disc club Friday afternoon a recording machine especially effective in large auditoriums was tried for the first time here. The use of this machine was procured through Prof. Martin of the University of Tennessee.

The outstanding number on Friday's program was "Till Eulenspiegel" or "Till Owlglass" as it is translated in English. The program concluded with "Liebestod," the last song in Wagner's Music Drama, "Tristan and Isalde."

THETA EPSILON

An Indian program is to be presented by the Theta Epsilon society this evening in their hall. Vocal and piano numbers appropriate to the theme will be played. As a special feature, Irma Souder and Gerry Beaver will dance to the music of "The Indian Love Call."

ATHENIAN

Miss Geneva Hutchinson, assistant in the Personnel office, will talk to the Athenian Literary society at its regular meeting Saturday evening. She will tell of her vacation in the west this past summer. There will also be some special piano selections.

MINISTERIAL

There will be a special Thanksgiving program at the Ministerial association Monday evening. Miss Jessie Johnson, associate professor of English, will give a talk on "The Puritan Church and Its Ministers." The entire service will be built around the theme of Thanksgiving.

Y. M. C. A.

"Let All Nations Give Thanks" is the theme for Sunday afternoon's Y. M. C. A. service.

Student speakers are to describe the Thanksgiving activities which they have observed in the different countries where they have lived. Among the speakers are John Guinter, John Fisher and Warren Ashby; they are to tell of Thanksgiving in Africa, Persia and other foreign countries, as well as in America.

Y. W. Cabinet Meets At Dr. Lloyd's Home

At the meeting of the Y. W. cabinet in Dr. Lloyd's home Monday evening it was decided that the monthly programs on Current Events would have to be postponed until after Christmas because of Messiah practice. New books for the Y. W. library were considered and revisions on the constitution were read and approved. It was suggested that each committee chairman keep a record of items which would be of value to her successor. After the meeting movies on last years' May Day were shown by Dr. Lloyd. There will be an inter-racial meeting at the regular Sunday program on Dec. 5.

Debaters Give Talks On Labor Situations

Varsity debaters met Tuesday evening before the Rosenthal concert to hear speeches on the labor situation. H. F. Lamon presided over the following program, and George Ingle was secretary: Malcom Brown, speaking on the AF of L; Curtmarie Brown, on John L. Lewis, the Man; J. N. Badgett, on the organization of the CIO; Lois Black, on William Green, The Man; and Warren Ashby, on disputes between the CIO and the AF of L.

LLOYD ATTENDS MEETING

President Ralph W. Lloyd will attend a meeting Tuesday of the executive committee of the Presbyterian College Union in Chicago, Ill. The purpose of this meeting is to discuss plans for a campaign for ten million dollars to be used as capital funds for Presbyterian colleges. Fifty colleges of the United States are members of this union.

Ideal Gifts...

"What can I get him for Christmas?" That is the question running through the minds of many men and women these days. It is quite a question too. There are thousands of articles displayed in the stores, and one would think that selecting a suitable Christmas present would be the least of one's worries.

But you and we know differently. All of us wish at this time of the year that we were multi-millionaires, so we could give costly gifts, buy what we wanted to buy without thought of price.

The great majority of us, however, have a modest income and we must think of the good thought behind the deed rather than the small cost, in attempting to solve our Christmas shopping problems. We have in mind selecting some gift that will be useful at a reasonable price.

A dollar gift is the most popular. And there is nothing we can think of that would make a better present, at this price, than a COLONIAL CLUB THREE PIECE GIFT SET. Any man getting such a present would feel that he had been well remembered. Actually the retail value of the Shaving Creme, Talc and Lotion is $1.50. It looks like it cost that much, too.

We have a number of these beautifully packaged sets now on display in our store, several of which have already been reserved, and if there is a man on your list who is particular about the quality of his shaving materials you will make no mistake in giving him COLONIAL CLUB. Smooth, velvety shaves will result and he will appreciate your thoughtfulness and judgment of quality each time he uses it.

VOLUME 23 MARYVILLE, TENN. NOVEMBER 27, 1937 NUMBER 10

Dr. May To Open Fred Hope Drive Next Wednesday

Medical Missionary To Talk On Work of Elat Mission

The Rev. Philip J. May, D. D., medical missionary from the Cameroon, will come to Maryville college next Wednesday and Thursday to speak on the work of the Elat mission in Africa in which Dr. Fred Hope has been working since his graduation from here in 1906. Dr. May is to speak in chapel both mornings he is here and also Wednesday evening.

The faculty and students of the college have for many years contributed annually to the support of Dr. Hope's work in Elat. Last year the pledges amounted to $608, a little more than ninety-two per cent of which was paid in.

This is the only financial drive which is presented to the student body during the year, and participation is entirely voluntary, large or small. The money is sent direct to Dr. Hope as an expression of the interest in and appreciation of the work to which he has given the last thirty years of his life.

Dr. May went to Africa in 1924 where he was engaged for many months in operating a medical station in a remote section of the Cameroon. For the last two years he has been in close track with the growth of mission work in Africa. He is in the United States on furlough and has very graciously changed some of his plans in order to accept the invitation to come to the college at this time.

100 Attend Sunrise Service Thanksgiving

Approximately 100 men and women attended the Y.M.—Y.W. sunrise service which was held Thanksgiving morning in the Y.W. rooms.

The call to worship, played on the trumpets by Ralph Reed and Sam Cornelius , was followed by a song service led by John Magill, with Ruth Mack at the piano. A male quartet composed of Wilbur Parvin, Roland Anderson, George Hunt, and Marvin Minear sang Beethoven's "Adoration".

Constance Johnson and Fred Rhody gave brief Thanksgiving talks. Malcolm Brown, Russell Stevenson, Margaret Lodwick, and Clara Dale Echols also had part in the service.

Cusworth Leads YMCA Chorus In Rehearsal

Robert Cusworth led the Y.M.C.A. chorus in its second rehearsal last Monday evening. The group of 25 men will sing at a specially arranged Christmas service on some evening of the week before Christmas holidays.

The Y.M. and Y.W.C.A. will hold a carol sing on the Sunday evening before vacation if present plans develop. It is hoped that such activities as the chorus and carol sing will be sufficiently well received as to warrant the establishment of them as annual affairs.

College Players Play to be Given Friday Evening

Black, Bennett, Stevens To Portray Leading Characters

The advisability of early reservation of seats for "Pride and Prejudice", College Players production to be given Friday evening at Voorhees chapel, was emphasized today by business manager Roy Talmage. Advance sales indicate that a great number of people are aware of the excellence of the play and the quality of the cast selected by Mrs. Nita Eckles West, head of the Dramatic Art department of the college. Reports of the final rehearsals this week point not only to the experience of the cast but to unusually careful planning of costumes and sets for Helen Jerome's adaptation of Jane Austen's nineteenth century novel.

Lois Black, Gordon Bennett, and Don Stevens will portray the leading characters, Elizabeth Bennet, Mr. Darcy, and Mr. Bennet, respectively. The drawing room setting of the stage play is the scene of Mrs. Bennet's attempts to marry off her three daughters, Jane, Elizabeth, and Lydia. Muriel Mann, experienced thespian, is to be Mrs. Bennet, while Carol Ward and Arda Walker will act the parts of Jane and Lydia Bennet. The central situation of the drama is the conflict between the pride of Elizabeth Bennet and the prejudice of Mr. Darcy. Another leading party will be played by Russell Hirsch as Mr. Bingler. The large supporting cast, many of whom have considerable parts in the play are as follows: Mr. Collins, William Swearingen; Mr. Wickham, Charles Fish; Lady Lucas, Alice Whitaker; Charlotte Lucas, Louise Allen; Mrs. Bingley, Sara Bolton; Lady Catherine de Bourh, Eleanor Brown; Fitzwilliam, Donald Crego; Amelia and Mrs. Lake, Jane Irwin; Amanda and Maggie, Mary Frances Spurlock; Hill (butler), William Felknor.

John Wintermute, stage manager, will be assisted by Harold Austin, William McGill, William Garris, and Ellen Losey. John Fisher will be scenic artist, working with Winford Berst who will serve as interior decorator. Katherine Warren, costumer, Fern Unthank, property manager, Glenn Young, electritian, and Maxwell Cornelius, carpenter, will also work with Wintermute in the management of the play. Roy Talmage is handling the advertising and ticket sales in his position as business manager.

A statement by Mrs. West this week revealed that the cost of a play, spent through several channels, amounts to a considerable sum. Between twenty-five and fifty dollars is spent for royalty. At least fifteen dollars is the cost of the play books. Programs, tickets, and advertising run up a large bill. Costumes, bought or rented, present another big expense. Paint for the flats, a fee to the college for use of stage and lights, and a number of miscellaneous items bring the total to a large amount, all of which must be met through the sale of tickets.

Scull, Blazer Crowned King And Queen At Barnwarming

Program Thursday Evening Built Around Old Showboat Was Theme; Large Crowd of Students, And Town People Attend

Showboat was the theme of the annual barnwarming program given Thursday evening in Alumni gymnasium. Those attending the affair entered by means of a gangplank erected from the door to the gymnasium floor and found themselves surrounded by white and blue decorations to carry out the showboat idea.

Reba Blazer and Reese Scull reigned over the affair as barnwarming queen and king. They were elected by the student body at chapel Tuesday, and their name were kept secret until the program. Attendents were Helen Miller, Winford Ross, Constance Johnson, and Bill Swearingen.

During the first part of the evening those attending visited booths erected around the sides of the gym. In the latter part Walter West as Cap'n Scotty presented a program for the audience, seated on the bleachers.

First on the program was a trumpet trio by Vernon Lloyd, Max Cornelius, and Ralph Reed. Weldon Baird and his group of tumblers followed with acrobactic stunts. Next was a vocal solo by Ruth Woods followed by a blackface skit put on by members of Alpha Sigma society. A comedy skit was then presented by Thomas Schafer and Edward Thomas.

The latter part of the program was taken up by a burlesque chorus presented by Theta, piano music by Gerald Beaver, dancing by Joyce Brakebill, and the Bainonion chorus. Theta concluded the evening with music by her Rhythm Band.

Winnie Berst, who supervised the affair, was aided by Sara Bolton, booth chairman; John Wintermute, decorations, Winford Ross, business manager; and Glenn Young, lighting.

Maryville Women Help Girl Scouts

Eight Students Serve As Lieutenants

Here in Maryville there are three troops of Girl Scouts that have as lieutenants several women students from the college. These students are interested in scouting both for scouting itself and for the chance they have at leadership. Three of these scouts, Jessie Curtis, Catharine Davidson, and Marianna Allen have been awarded their Golden Eaglets, the highest award given in the Girl Scout organization. The various tests that the girls must pass before becoming actual members of a troop, or second class, first class of Eaglet scouts are practical tests which give the scouts useful knowledge.

In troop one, Catharine Davidson, Marianna Allen, and Jean White are working with the girls on tenderfoot and second class tests which include such activities as housekeeping, first aid, and nature work. In troop two, Arlene Phelps, Lucille Varnadore, and Doris Sieweke, lieutenants, and in troop three, Jessie Curtis and Doris Stevenson, lieutenants, the scouts are working on second and first class material.

Reading Test Given To Freshman Class

The Iowa Reading test was given to the freshmen Wednesday morning after chapel under the direction of Dr. David H. Briggs, head of the psychology department. Dr. Frank D. McClelland, director of personnel, explained that the purpose of the test is to determine the student's comprehension ability and thereby help him in his studying.

Browns Take Trip

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest C. Brown have taken a few days vacation to go to Cincinnati to visit with Mr. Brown's brother for a few days. They left early Thursday morning and spent Thanksgiving with their son Bob, who teaches at the University of Kentucky. After the Kentucky-Tennessee game, they left the next morning for Cincinnati. They plan to go to Lima, Ohio, to visit with another of Mr. Brown's brothers. They will arrive at Maryville sometime Sunday evenng.

Four Remain in Hospital

Josephine Watts, a freshman who left November 20 for her home in Texas, had an acute attack of appendicitus in Birmingham, Alabama, that evening. She was operated on immediately.

Ruth Woodside, a sophomore, who has the measles, has been in the hospital since Monday.

Peg Hammond and Phyllis Spencer are still in the Hospital. Miss Hammond has two sprained ankles, and Miss Spencer is recovering from an appendicitus operation.

Varsity Debate Class Has Talks

Labor Organizations Are Discussed

The Varsity Debate class held its usual program of speeches Tuesday evening. The speakers and their subjects were as follows: James Whitt, "Industrial Unions and the Future"; Arda Walker, "Secretary Perkins and the Labor Unions"; Miriam Waggoner, "President Roosevelt and the C.I.O."; Leland Waggoner, "Employers Vs. N.L.R.B."; Russell Stevenson, "Communism and Organized Labor"; Irma Souder, "Labor in Favor of the N. L. R. B."

Warren Ashby was chairman of the meeting and Marvin Minear was secretary. Next week the class will conduct an open forum on the Pi Kappa Delta debate question, Resolved: that the National Labor Relations Board should be empowered to enforce arbitration in all industrial disputes.

Pictures Taken For Chilhowean

Junior Section Will Close December 16

The photographic plans for the 1938 Chilhowean have been progressing rapidly during the past few weeks under the direction of Kenneth Van Cise, photography editor of the book. To date, the pictures taken have been group pictures of Theta Epsilon and Alpha Sigma, pictures of the spring events, and all of the 1937 football pictures. Bainonian and Athenian will have theirs taken the first of next week.

The junior section opened November 24 and will close December 16. The senior section closes on November 30 and at the present time about 70 seniors have had their sittings.

There are a total of 396 subscriptions for the book, and $474 have already been paid, according to George Felknor subscription editor. This is the first advance payment; the second will be before the second semester.

Law Schools Discussed At Law Club Wednesday

The regular meeting of the Law Club was held in Athenian hall Wednesday evening at 6:40 with Edward A. Jussely presiding. After the routine business was transacted, the program, consisting of the explanation of the entrance requirements of famous American law schools, was presented. Irene Browder told of the entrance requirements of Cumberland university and the University of Mississippi. C. L. Franklin compared Duke university with the University of Michigan. Hugh C. Findlay gave an account of Stanford and Pennsylvania universities, and Robert Wilcox compared Vanderbilt with Yale university. The program ended with a comparison of the University of Tennessee with the University of Virginia by Horace Brown.

Carolina Press Publishes Book By Dr. Hill Shine

Work Is On Carlyle's Fusion Of Poetry, History, Religion

A new book by Dr. Hill Shine, professor in the department of English at Maryville college, was published Thursday by the University of North Carolina Press. The volume, entitled "Carlyle's Fusion of Poetry, History, and Religion by 1834", is composed of material which has appeared during the past two years in "Studies in Philology" as three separate articles.

Dr. Shine, a graduate of the University of North Carolina, received his doctorate at that institution after several years as a professor at the University of Louisville. Following his doctor's degree, his thesis then also dealing with Carlyle, Dr. Shine became a member of the faculty of the English department at Maryville college in 1931. Dr. Shine last year was raised to the rank of full professorship from his former classification as associate professor. His classes, dealing with the major periods of English literary history, have always been characterized by his philosophical interest, a trend readily seen in his new book.

The first part of the volume discusses Carlyle's definitions of reason and tolerance, showing how they led up to his theoretical fusion of religion and poetry. The second division, "Carlyle's Views on the Relation between Poetry and History up to 1832" shows "the development of his interest in history and society, the waning of his interest in systematic philosophy, and his definition of realism so as to identify poetry and history." The final chapter discusses the converging theories of religion, poetry, and history until Carlyle's fusion of the three in his composition "The Diamond Necklace."

The book is dedicated to Dr. John Manning Booker, "who belongs in the tradition of great teachers". Acknowledgement is made in the Forward to Professor George R. Coffman, editor of Studies in Philology; to Dr. E. R. Hunter and Dr. H. E. Orr, for suggestions; to Miss Clemmie Henry and assistants, Dr. R. W. Lloyd, and Marvville college, for aid of various kinds; to Miss Georgia H. Faison, reference librarian at the University of North Carolina; to Helen Chadwick Shine; and to Professor Booker "to whose insight, inspiration, and guidance this study is largely due and to whom therefore it is fittingly dedicated".

Arc Light Erected

The walk between the book store and Thaw hall is now lighted by a new arc light that was erected this week as part of the campus mork program. Heretofore, the walk has been heavily shadowed and officials felt that some sort of lighting was a necessity. Work on the new asphalt walk is progressing rapidly, with the foundation almost levelled. Other campus work this week has consisted of cleaning up the grounds and chopping wood in the College woods.

Handel's Messiah Presentation Set For December 12

Recitatives and Airs To Be Interpreted By Students

Rehearsals for the presentation of Handel's immortal oratorio, "The Messiah," to be sung in Voorhees chapel on the afternoon of December 12, show marked progress. The chorus is composed of nearly 150 voices from the student body, faculty, and town.

Recitatives and airs will be interpreted by student soloists. The Maryville College Little Symphony orchestra will accompany both the soloists and choruses and will play the overture and Pastoral symphony. The entire production is under the direction of Ralph Colbert, Maryville music instructor.

The "Messiah" is generally conceded to be the greatest o f all oratorios, ranking even higher than Mendelssohn's "Elijah" or Haydn's "Creation." Although Handel is said to have composed the work in three weeks and three days, the finished product shows few marks of haste. It was first performed in Dublin in 1742, and since that date, has been sung hundreds of times throughout the world.

The oratorio was first presented at Maryville in the fall of 1933 when J. Alvin Keen, Westminister Choir school graduate, directed the chorus in its first rehearsals. Finding it impossible to continue his work here, Miss Frances Henry, instructor in voice, took up the baton. The warm reception received by the chorus and its director prompted the continuation of the annual productions.

Former Students, Graduates, Return

Thanksgiving brought many visitors and recent graduates to the Maryville campus to spend a few days and visit friends here.

Bernice Gaines, Alma Whiffen, Mary Frances Ooten, Ruby Violet Lane, Mary Emory and Dave Maas have been seen around the campus. Many of the visitors were at the Barnwarming on Thursday evening. They are Ronald Johnson, Dave Brittain, Bill Baird, Pauline Cope, Charlotte Browder, Thelma Ross, Ralph Dowell, Charles Bondurant, Betty Sommers, Tom Bryan, Fred Young, Lena Bess Childers, Bruce Alexander, Evan Renne, James Paterson, and Walter Maude.

77 Tickets Bought For Grace Moore Concert

A total of 77 tickets were purchased by Maryville students for the Grace Moore concert to be held at the University of Tennessee auditorium November 30. Buses will be provided for transportation. A young violinist will alos appear on the program with Miss Moore. Miss Katharine Davies and Ralph Colbert of the music department, are in charge of securing the tickets for this program.

Frontier Nursing Service

By GEORGE I. HUNT

In the heavily-wooded hills of Kentucky a brown horse climbs the rough, rocky road, fords the stream down in the valley, and stops at a rough hut placidly squatting by the stream. A trimly dressed woman climbs off the horse and, carrying her little black bag, enters the hut. With an experienced eye she looks at the little boys cut hand and the sick woman on the bed, redresses the hand and provides medicine for the other patient, and then with a cheerful word is off to the next hut in the hills.

This woman is from the Frontier Nursing service, an organization founded and managed by Mrs. Mary Breckenridge, which regularly makes the rounds of the primitive mountain homes where such a thing as a nurse was not known only a few months ago. To these people whose grandparents came to what is still one of America's frontiers young women bring medical aid and cheerfulness as members of an organization supported wholly by voluntary contribution and not affiliated with any religious or social group.

The main office of the service is in Wendover, Kentucky, "five horseback miles from the nearest road." Here live twenty-five women who are the secretarial staff of the organization. Among the twenty-five are four Maryville alumni, the most recent addition being Miss Bernice Gaines, of the class of 1937. The other alumni are Bland Morrow, Agnes Lewis, and Lucille Hodges. Miss Gaines, last year's Echo editor, is visiting on the campus this week, and teels graphic stories of her experiences in the mountains.

Miss Gaines, who is from New Jersey, enjoyed the experience of riding sixty miles on horseback in three days. Though employed in the office, she has accompanied some of the nurses on their rounds of the mountain homes. The service, she explains, has the express purpose of providing "a public health system and midwifery service for the mountain folks." Miss Gaines said "Most nurses are

Maryville College Farm

The earliest campus arisers are four men whose job it is to get the milk for the Pearsons menu. These men go out to the college farm at 4:45 every morning and 4:30 every afternoon, every day in the school year. They get from the herd of twenty cows seventy gallons of milk a day.

Most of the "milk boys" have had experience on a farm. The senior member of the quartet is James Whitt, an upperclassman from Mars Hill, North Carolina. The two Dickie brothers, Herbert and James, of Roseland, Virginia, are twins and seniors from the apple country. Harold Dysart, a junior is from Marion, North Carolina, and is studying to be a doctor. He is the most famous of the four, having had the song "I'm on Old Cowhand" dedicated to him over an early morning radio program.

The college farm as it is now equipped is the latest addition to the campus and college property. The present farm was acquired in 1934, partly by purchase and partly as a gift from Judge Thomas N. Brown, a director of the College and former owner of the property. Before that time there was a small sixty acre farm with its headquarters at the old Lamar residence which is situated behind Pearsons hall, and the additional forty-five acres from the Brown property provided the college with another house and a large barn. The house is over a 100 years old, and is built of rough logs which in recent years have been faced with clapboard. In this house "Judge Tom" spent his boyhood days, and here also Ernest C. Brown, college engineer, spent much of his life. Now Jim Irwin, manager of the farm, and his family live there with Roy Blackburn and his family.

Jim Irwin is very well-liked by all the men that work with him. They all agree that he is a "swell boss," and the condition of the farm shows that he is a good manager. He has worked for the college for 20 years, 18 of them on the farm. He was married last year and has one child. His brother is Ralph Irwin, the night watchman.

Who's Crazy?

On Armistice day in London police subdued with their clubs a "madman" who had burst through the guard lines to shout at King George who stood uncovered before the Cenotaph, "This is all hypocrisy! You are deliberately preparing for war!" The poor fellow has been returned to the asylum from which he had escaped and the incident has been almost forgotten. But somehow we wonder when we hear of occasions like that whether it isn't the wild-eyed shouters for peace are sane and the rest of the world that is unbalanced.

Credenda... Polonius

Addison was wise when he said "there is no defense against reproach except obscurity." From the presidency of the United States to the editorship of a college newspaper the man who asserts himself or exhibits the least qualities of leadership becomes subject to the abusive criticism of the stagnant, unimaginative minds of those whose sole occupation seems to consist in sour comment on the words and deeds of others.

The editor of a college paper does not pretend to present a panacea for the solution of every campus problem; he does not even claim that his judgment may be the most mature or his ideas the best phrased. His responsible position, however, scarcely would permit him to advocate a reform that was not the result of careful thinking on his own part and the reflection of the opinions and experiences of at least some of his fellow students. When, then, some individual who has neglected some responsibility or who feels that he should be consulted each time his name appears in print, makes complaint, let him not do it until he has at least investigated the causes for the editorial comment.

If the caustic critic is one of the perennial breed present in every student body who is able to tell everyone else how to handle his affairs but is scarcely capable of conducting his own, he is always invited to write in his opinions. If printable they will be published without comment. If the thin-skinned individual is or is not one of the student body, let him beware lest his windmill-fighting tactics belie his position and his age. Amen.

Ordinarily the last weeks of November are not thought of as a particularly excellent time for nature study, but a little careful observation is suprising. Carlos Campbell, speaking in the well-governed Nature club last week, gave our inate desire for adventure and discovery; the worship of beauty in color and form in trees, mountains, birds; the vigor of clear cold morning air and a brisk hike; the ecstatic song of the Carolina wren; the beauty of motion in a tumbling mountain stream, the bending of a pine tree, or the flight of an insect; the deep inner peace that comes from the absence of men and books and buildings out in the silent woods. Make a bird-list some morning as a beginning. In a few hours, even at this time of year, you may see or hear the mockingbird, bluejay, meadowlark, tufted titmouse, Carolina wren, cardinal, white-breasted nuthatch, brown creeper, slate junoe, catbird, chickadee, red-headed woodpecker, flicker, bronzed grackle, and a dozen others right here on the campus.

FIVE MEMBERS OF THE CITY COUNCIL of little Dandridge, over here in Tennessee, resigned this week under pressure of citizens who insisted that the town become dry. The president of "Ralph Lloyd's college" is seeking enactment of the same proposal designed to run all places selling beer out of Maryville, in this town. Whether or not we'll admit it, half the reason this college binds us to it the way it does (you'd be surprised at the number of chronic "gripers" who are homesick for this place after they leave) is that we do not have to contend with the alcohol problem, the subject matter of every other editorial in some of our big university papers. Nor can the Maryville breed help but be healthier with his halls and rooms free of the reek of stale tobacco smoke that assails the visitor to other school dormitories. We may continue to rant against our social restrictions, which do seem in a large measure unnecessary considering the type of student the college carefully selects, but we don't regret our alcohol and tobacco ban. Polonius, by the way, is not a member of the W. C. T. U. or any other similar organization.

The Weekly Filibuster

By SENATOR HEGNER

At Thanksgiving the Senator gives thanks to the Echo for this opportunity to knock out another column. Now just a word of explanation concerning the Senator:—Two years ago a bumble-footed student from the North aired his views and peddled his trivia thru a column known to some as The Weakly Filibuster. It was known to others under many different names, terms and epithets. The Senator had an uncanny ability to stick his neck out, to put his foot in the wrong spot, and to shoot at the wrong targets. Now he gives out cheap cigars, solicits votes, and kisses all babies (over nineteen). Friends, it is a serious job charting one's course over the tempestuous waves of the sea of life.

The campus looks fine, in fact, smae as ever. Mr. Mac is still a true friend, refusing to rent blankets to the Senator, but willing to lend them. Kay Reed is the same, she missed the point about the politician who had an adding machine tattooed on his chest so that his constituents could count on him.

The genial Prof., known to comparatively few as a "scientific farmer", still keeps the south forty of Queeners Acres in corn, but we'll lay 2 to 1 that he lost out in his battle with Mrs. Queener for a tractor. Shh,-I'll let you in on a real secret if you won't keep it. This summer the Sen snapped a candid shot of the prof halfway up his eucalyptus tree, hand shading his eyes while he peered out looking for a suitable spot to catch a cat-nap instead of doing the morning chores. Perhaps this mention will make him offer more for the negative, the piker!

Colonel Paterson and the Senator came down from Norwood, (only Ohio town to hold Maryville reunion at a night club) to see E. R., a football game, the band, and our friends. Senator took care of the first objective, we missed out on the second and third, but rang the bell on the fourth. However, we met the man behind the band. If the band is half as good as its boss, you've got something, M. C.

This wouldn't be a Filibuster without some personal cracks, so here goes. In two years Rip Collins has gone from substitute to captain of the C. C. C., and Don Stevens, charter member, is backing him up. Oh, beg pardon, forgot that Mr. Underbough disapproved of Constant Campus Courters remarks. Am sure he practices what he preached. Moon brought his inferior poker home to Norwood this fall. Thus the Senator can afford his visit to the south.

Paul once told me how surprised he was when he learned that he would get no Workmen's Compensation for sticking his leg under the truck and for sleeping under an electric pad with the juice on. Bob and Bill have treated the Senator swell, praise Allah and how they shine! Would like to watch Ben in Pride and Prejudice and send him one of those helpful first act notes signed,—Man In Front Row Balcony.

Waggoner, Brown and Proffitt are the same, chary about the stogies offered to them. Used to think Harry Rodgers Peterson carried bats in his belfrey, but saw him Wednesday carrying bugs in boxes to a class in something. Good old Pete, I knew him when. The latchstring at the old mansion will not be out for Young and Craine after they told me about that last train trip to Cincy.

Saw Colonel West striding along the street with that old serious mien attached to his face. Give Walt a briefcase and three years in law school,—then send him out of the United States into Kentucky and he'll make a whiz of a lawyer. Still think the Garr Brothers were guilty. What about that Kentucky jestice, Walt?

Greeted Sam Fleming and was sorry to learn that his femme has chosen other climes. Will give Sam's best love to old pal Pettit. Have written about 700 words so far, check to see how many cut out. And the Dickey birds look just as good as they did the day they enrolled in the palace of learning.

Unless I find some flashes at the Barnwarming, this is the last. Have had fun, enjoyed visiting the campus, and I won't fix anyone's traffic ticket in Norwood. Birds twitter in the trees, rose petals float softly thru the air, and the nightingale whistles the song of the lark, and, as you have learned, you can't separate the rose from its perfume, the bee from its honey, and the bull from the bulloney, so—I'm happy about the whole thing.

The Senator.

TALK OF THE WEEK . By Alma Whiffen

CLUBS

CAROLINA CLUB

The Carolina Club met Monday evening in Bainonian hall with the president, James Whitt, presiding. Anne Raper was in charge of the following program:

Diary Notes ....Jessie Cassada
Jokes ....Earl Tweed
What-A-Man Sampson ..Harriet Walkup
Impromptu Humor ....Two dopes.

A discussion of plans for a party concluded the meeting.

ATHENIAN

The Athenian Literary society will feature moving pictures of the football game between Maryville and East Tennessee Teachers college at their regular meeting this evening in Athenian hall. Special music will be furnished by a vocal trio comprised of Dick Woodring, Phil Evaul, and Dale Mathias. The meeting will close in time for the water carnival at 8 o'clock.

BAINONIAN

This week Bainonian will meet in the philosophy class room and will have a musical program. Garnet Manges is in charge of the program. All the pieces will center around the story of some animal.

THETA EPSILON

Humorous talks will be given at Theta Epsilon's meeting Saturday evening at Theta hall. Helen Bewley will speak on "Greatest Fear"; Helen Maguire, "Greatest Success"; Georgia Ingle, "Worst Blunder"; Sally Hellums, "Why I Don't Like Boys"; Lois Barnwell, "My First Date". This same program was presented at Bainonian's last meeting, and is repeated on request of the program chairman of Theta.

Y. M. C. A.

A program of music and poetry will be the feature of the YMCA meeting tomorrow afternoon. Members of the faculty and the student body will participate.

Miss Horne will give a violin selection, while Miss Davies will play some few numbers on the piano. Walter West will read some poems. Robert Cusworth and Nanny Quinn will contribute vocal solos, and Ralph Reed and Samuel Cornelius will play a trumpet duet.

STUDENT VOLUNTEER

The Student Volunteer meeting this Sunday evening will be a discussion of a project for the year. John Fisher from Persia will speak, Miriam Berst will talk on China, and Betty Seel will discuss Columbia. After hearing the presentation of these projects, the group will choose the one they would like to carry out.

ALPHA SIGMA

Alpha Sigma will feature a variety program at its weekly meeting Saturday evening. In addition to humorous readings by various members, John Ballenger will deliver an oration on the "Frailties of Women." Ralph Reed will play two trumpet solos.

Y. W. C. A.

The theme of Y. W. C. A's. program Sunday will be "Walls." Louise Orr will be the speaker, and special music will be a piano solo. The program will differ slightly from former programs.

MINISTERIAL

Dr. Edmund Wayne Davis, head of the department of foreign languages, will talk to the Ministerial association at its regular meeting Monday evening. The subject of his talk will be the Greek influence on the world prior to the birth of Christ, and how it made the coming of Christ easier.

Reporter Foxes Lie Detector Of Psychology Dep't

By FRED RHODY

Crime was triumphant, temporarily, yesterday, when your reporter emerged the victor in a tussle with the psychology department's "lie detector" equipment. On the second attempt, however, justice prevailed and the experiment definitely revealed the reporter's guilt.

During the past few weeks Roberta Enloe, Howard Davis, William McGill and Hartwell McCollum, of Dr. David Briggs' experimental psychology class, have been conducting experiments in lie-detecting, with students as subjects.

The student is first given his choice of several envelopes, each of which contains directions for the commitment of some specific crime, such as taking a book from the library under a false name. After the crime has been perpetrated, the four Sherlocks proceed to deduce what crime has been done.

Word-association, in combination with the pneumograph, is the method used in solving the mystery. A list of words is read to the subject, who responds to each by immediately saying the word which he first thinks. A tube clamped tightly around his chest permits fluctuations in his breathing to be registered on a revolving smoked cylinder by a needle attached to the pneumograph.

When the experimenter comes to a word in the list which is related in some way to the crime committed, the breathing of the subject is affected, and the needle indicator jumps accordingly. The length of time required for specific answers is measured with a stop watch, and is significant in determining the subject's guilt or innocence. So, too, is the nature of the word given in response to the word pronounced by the experimenter. For example, your reporter replied "book" to the word "Wallace." Since Wallace is the author of "Ben Hur," the library book involved in this specific crime, this response provided a clue.

By noting which words caused variations in the subject's breathing, which words were answered too quickly or

The Wagabond

"The melancholy days are here,
The saddest of the year."

For amidst all the joys and fullnesses of Thanksgiving comes also the perennial cumulation of many old grads and otherwise on the campus. Among these legion there are those great journalists (who says nix?) who insist upon setting the college on the right track by turning guest editorialists and columnists. We felt obliged to ask Representative Bagner to be our guess column mess for this audition. We quote from his work in full and the Wagabond is in no way liable for what he says.

"Hi'ya folks!"

We wish to thank the Representative for his lengthy treatise. It gives us a new insight into the intricate machinery of the college government and also a new angle with which we can approach our fellow-men.

From thither and yon:

Prof. G. Dewey Howell: "You can get as much iron by chewing a nail as by eating spinach. Doctors just aren't feeding babies spinach any more."

Of course, though, it depends on whose nail it is.

And furthermore, babies food can now be bought at the hardware stores in kegs.

Gus Who, (you guessed it!), chemical dietician of the "Eat Here, Diet Home" lunch counter says, "Ions will ether iron out the metal of G. D.'s statement, ore else—"

R. W. L. to his Theism students, "Maryville is not an educational institution."

We wonder. I. M. Funk, definitionist, says, "To educate is to develop the natural powers." Certainly the erecting of a new, powerful anti-moonshine light above the bench behind the post-office will not develop the natural powers. Nay, it might even discourage the bashful.

Well might have he added that old axiom, "Don't let your studies interfere with your college education."

THE HIGHLAND ECHO NOVEMBER 27, 1937

On The Bench

-with-

THE SPORTS EDITOR

Woe is us. Woe indeed. After having Alabama's Mr. Sanford spoil an otherwise perfectly good Thanksgiving football game, we come home to find a sports page like this on our hands.

As if one of these dire calamities were not enough to tax the patience of a Job the intramural touch football season goes and runs out on us, leaving embryomic basketball and wrasslin' seasons to bear the entire burden.

What, indeed, is so rare as a good story in late November; Then, if ever, come exceeding dull days.

BRING ON KENTUCKY

An interesting off-season football item is the fact that Maryville's 1938 grid schedule is nearing completion.

Next year's team will play the same slate as this year for the most part. The one notable exception at present is the substitution of the University of Kentucky Wildcats for Chattanooga's Moccasins.

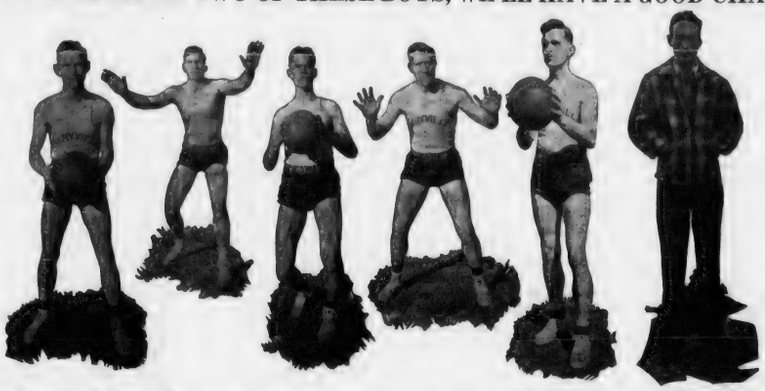
This is a welcome development for those fans who expect a Smoky Mountain Champion to emerge from the ranks of the '38 squad.

Many of them can remember when Scot teams out fought and out-clawed the 'Cats. There was a time when the two teams fought on even terms, with no quarter asked by either side.

In more recent years, under a little different regime, the Kentuckians have lifted themselves out of Maryville's class.

In 1935 it was 60-0, Kentucky; then, last season the one field goal scored by the Scots provided balm for the wounds of a 54-3 decision.

There is some hope for a different story in 1938. Highlander prospects are at the highest peak since the SMC pennant last floated in Maryville atmosphere, some five years ago.



Only two men are lost from the first eleven by graduation.

These two, James 'Cap'n Jim" Renfro, and Alternate Captain James Proffitt, will leave big holes at center and guard, respectively.

Filling these vacancies will be one of the tasks facing the Scot mentors. But, if you happen to remember, there was a similar, but even more severe, problem to be solved at the end positions last September; and the Highlanders came up with one of the best flank combinations in the conference.

Yes, our fighting Highlanders may cause some embarrassment in the lair of the 'Cat next September.

"IF WE CAN REPLACE TWO OF THESE BOYS, WE'LL HAVE A GOOD CHANCE–"

Lettermen Refuse To Climb On Any Limbs

By DOUG STEAKLEY

The axe fell for the first time on the basketball squad, Wednesday, leaving about 22 men out for the squad. These 22 include last year's lettermen and reserves. Coach Honaker is preparing for a heavy season this year, and he plans to play several practice games before the Christmas holidays. No definite games have been scheduled as yet however. Yours truly went around to the different lettermen and tried to get their opinions on the coming season. Most of the boys, however, were very close mouthed with their information. By persuasion we managed to extract the following:

Weldon Baird: "I don't want to seem too optimistic, but I think we will be in the race for that championship."

Captain Odell: "We lost a lot of good men last year, and it will be a tough job replacing them. If we do replace these men, we will be on the top with the rest of them."

"Lefty" Hernandez: "Well boys, it is going to be tough, but if some of these freshmen come through, who can tell."

"Mac" Magill: "We have a tough schedule facing us this year, and I don't want to make any rash predictions. But I think we will have a good team, maybe not the champs, but they will have to play mighty good ball to beat us."

These are their predictions; now we will add one of our own. If the boys keep going like they have in the last week of practice, they will be hard to stop. The squad lost several good men last year, and it will take a lot of work to replace them. If we find someone to replace that stellar basketeer Hannah, the boys will really go to town. Let us hope so anyhow.

Swimmers Present South Sea Pageant Tonight, 8 O'clock

Water Waltz by Mermaids One of Many Features

This evening at 8 o'clock the swimming team, under the direction of Coach Fishbach, will present the annual water carnival in Bartlett pool. Taking as its theme "The South Sea Islands", the pageant and all the decorations, as well as music and stunts, will be in keeping with the subject.

June Myers, Mary Darden, and Dorothy Quass, accompanied by Rusty Wicklund, John Stafford, and John Rippeth will give their interpretation of a water waltz. As the beautiful mermaids, accompanied by the three gentlemen of the sea, swim gracefully down the pool a string orchestra will render real South Sea music to add that last touch.

Climaxing the program, Ed Ciurcak and June Myers will be crowned king and queen of the Cannibal islands. Following the crowning of the king and queen, the 25 members of the swimming squad, assisted by four or five girls, will present a program of fancy and humorous diving, racing stunts of various kinds, and many other events which are in store for all those turning out for the great event.

The atmosphere of the carnival created by strains of sleepy South Sea music, the swaying of the grass skirts, the trucking of the hula dancers, and the splashing of the gentry of the sea, will add much to the fame of the already well known South Sea islands.

The carnival is an annual event of the swimming team, presented for the entertainment of the students of the college, and also o raise funds for the swimming team. Admission will be 20c.

Juniors Trample All-Stars by 7-0

Game Between Two Star Outfits On Nov. 23 Tied, 0-0

In the Turkey Day Classic, the strong juniors, interclass champs, defeated the All Stars 7-0.

The score came in the closing minutes of play when "Red" McCaskie tossed a long pass to Colombo, who stepped over the goal line for the touchdown. Bert Chandler completed a short pass to McCaskie for the extra point, making the score 7-0.

A handful of spectators turned out to witness the struggle, but there seemed to be a girls touch football game being played at the same time, and it seems as if most of the fans were more interested in watching the "gals" play. Oh well boys, maybe you just lack that feminine touch.

Maryville's number one all star intra-mural football team battled to a scoreless tie against the second all star team on Wilson field November 23.

The second team proved to be a stronger threat than was expected, and out played the first team three of the four quarters. Three times during the game the second squad took the ball

Five '37 Lettermen Still Absent From Wrestling Roster

Fourteen of Twenty-man Squad Are Sophs And Frosh

As the first week of wrestling practice draws to a close, Coach Thrower's grapplers number twenty candidates among their ranks, eight of whom are freshmen and seven sophomores.

The 118 pound and 145 pound classes lead numerically with five each, while the 165,175, and heavy divisions trail with only one man between them.

The lettermen back in school this year who have not yet reported are Bob Gillespie, 126 pounds; Guy Propst, 155 pounds; Jim Renfro, 165; Jim Proffitt, 175; and Fred Tulloch, heavy weight. Don Stevens, who won several decisions in the 118 pound class, and Obie Jenkins, who saw service in both the 175 and heavy divisions, are also among those missing after the first week.

Some of these men will be ready to report in a few days, while some of them have indicated that they will not be out this year.

The present roster follows:

Hal Simpson, Herbert Turner, Tony Tassone, John Astles, and Phil Evaul, 118 pounds.

Floyd Green, Paul Prevetta, Theron Etheredge, Everett Cline, 126 pounds.

Edgar Meares, Woods Everett, and Bill Mooney, 135 pounds.

Farrel Millsaps, Earl Tweed, Edmund Dady, Omer Judy, and Milton Schreiber, 145 pounds.

Lawrence Lowe and Bill Short, 155 pounds.

Clem Hahn, 165 pounds.

James Burgin, heavyweight.

Women Start Basketball After Soph Football Win

This week the women's point system classes began their basketball practice. Some who are not out for a letter reported for practice and the teams look promising.

On Thursday morning some of the sophomore and freshmen women organized a touch football game on the practice field. The sophomores were the victors, winning 10-0 over the freshmen by a touchdown and two touch backs. Much credit and thanks is due Ivan Elder who refereed the novel game.

INTRA MURAL ITEMS

Now that football is over and the juniors have been crowned champions, with a well-balanced sophomore team in second place, we can pause to look back over the season as a whole, and consider its success. Every game was played on the day it was scheduled, half of these being played on Wilson Field. Out of the twelve games, only two started with an insufficient number of players, and only one of those went the whole first half with one of the teams lacking eleven men. Sportsmanship could have been better; but when we think of such players as Lancaster, Ross, McCaskie, Rhody, Luxton, Stevenson, and Peterson, who were perfect sports through-out, the shortcomings of some of us seem relegated to the background.

This column would like to give credit to a player who for four years has by his loyalty and sportsmanship held a frail and failing team together, who, despite the fact that until this year his team had never won a contest, has been on hand for every one of the fourteen football games of his four years; and who has never once been heard to critize either the officials, his opponents, or his own teammates. To Win Ross, who certainly should be acknowledged as the most valuable player, we raise our hats.

VOLLEYBALL

Winter is about on us, and so we must necessarily confine our sports to the inside. While waiting for the time to come to start our big favorite winter sport, basketball, what say we try our hand at still another hardwood game, volleyball. If this sounds interesting to you see your athletic director and then come over to the Bartlett the first few nights in December. Each class will play each other team once, each match consisting of three out of five games. Watch the board for further announcements.

THE GAMECOCK

The University of South Carolina has begun occupation of their new Student Union building. The building will be the center of all campus activities. It contains two large meeting rooms, Y. W. C. A. rooms and office, offices of the newspaper and yearbook, Book Store and Post Office, kitchen and a number of small social rooms, music room, and a women's recreation room. The lobby of the building will be used for dances.

SIDE LINES

The paper from Murfreesboro State Teachers college contains a complete description of the Big Apple. Tommy Dorsey's arrangement of "Marie" is considered the best swing music for this dance. The description is on page two of the November 4 issue in case anyone cares to brush up before the Christmas holidays.

FLORIDA FLAMBEAU

Nino Martini of the Metropolitan Opera Company will be the first artist to appear on the Florida State College for Women lyceum program, November 15.

AT RANDOM

The University of Nebraska has a walking sprinkling machine which they use to water the gridiron. They set up the machine at one end of the field at night, and the force of the water propels the machine the entire length of the field by morning.

KENTUCKY KERNEL

The University of Kentucky paper has released the 1938 football schedule of the University. The schedule includes a game with Maryville on September 24, 1938. The game will be played at Kentucky.

The fine large barn houses one of the prides of the college, Dave. Dave is a saddle horse who can jig and do a fox trot, and for this reason the men call him a "banjo-picker." He is very musical, and was taken to the college chapel by some pranksters last Hallowe'en to learn to play the organ.

The barn is well equipped with a large water tank which can provide water for the cattle on cold or wet days so that they will not have to be out in the field. Foundations are laid for an addition to the barn which will connect it with the new concrete silo built in the summer of 1936.

The live stock of the farm includes, in addition to the twenty cattle, six heifers and 40 hogs. The hogs have a secluded spot of the college woods for their pen, and provide part of the meat for the dining hall.

There are also four college men who work on the farm in the afternoon. George Millsaps, who is from Walland, Tennessee, works in the field. Cliff Proctor, who has a New England way of bridling a mule; Bob Clements, who has a North Carolina touch in "moonshining" and is so adept at it that they call him "sweetheart;" and Henry Millson, who is from a Pennsylvania farm, are the other workers.

The hundred and ten acres which comprise the farm and its industry make it an important part of the college. It is a worthwhile experience to visit the farm and meet the workers, and the college is proud of the development.

English trained because they have received more instruction in midwifery."

Because they are so many miles from the nearest town, the women must provide much of their own entertainment. They have given their stock appropriate names: the ducks are "Splash" and "Waddle;" the thoroughbred cow is "Nora Shoemaker;" her offspring have the unusual names of "New Deal," "October," "November," and "Princess Margaret Rose."

Miss Gaines feels that the experience she is having is valuable to her in many ways. She has gotten an understanding and appreciation of conditions in rural America, the America that only rates headlines when it does something bizarre. It is the America that should rate headlines at other times, perhaps illustrated with a picture of a woman on a horse winding her way from house to house and caring for those who need her help.

too hesitatingly, and what words were given as associated words, the sleuths, Enloe, Davis, McGill, and McCollum finally pinned the crime on the reporter, after failing in the first attempt because they relied more on "hunch" than on the evidence provided by the lie detector.

Although apparatus of this nature is by no means infallible, it is proving of great value in the detection of criminals, especially in Chicago, where Northwestern university uses it in cooperation with the police.

The principle behind the lie detector is that to lie requires an effort. By means of delicate instruments in the detector, traces of such effort can be found in variations of the blood pressure and respiration.

within scoring distance of the opponents' goal, but they failed to make any of these chances count. During the first period the number one squad made its only threat, but they, too, failed to make good.

T. Etheredge was a main stay of the second team, and was the main cause of much of the ground gained by passes. Morrow also turned in same good work.

Line-ups were:

First Team: Van Blarcom, Wood, Martin, Lancaster, Jussely, Hall, Woodring, Parker, McCaskie, (captain), Colombo, and Baird.

Second Team: Ethridge, Dady, Brown, Peterson, Puncheon, Proctor, Akana, Talmage, Wicklund, Findlay, and Morrow.

Pride and Prejudice Is Presented To Large Crowd Friday Evening in Chapel

Pat Mann and Don Stevens Lead in Jane Austen's Adapted Novel; Mrs. Nita Eckles West Was Dramatic Coach of Player's Production

A large audience last evening enjoyed the College Player's performance of Jane Austen's adapted novel "Pride and Prejudice", in Voorhees chapel. Of an unusual quality were the stage sets, designed and executed by John Wintermute and a number of assistants. The drawing room of the Bennet home, the lavishly decorated home of Lady Catherine, and the little corner of the London flat were all done with a finish that left the audience unconscious of the poor staging facilities the chapel offers.

PAT MANN

GORDON BENNETT

The outstanding performances of Pat Mann as Mrs. Bennet and Donald Stevens as Mr. Bennet delighted the audience with their skilful use of the humorous line and their wholehearted playing in Helen Jerome's dramatic situations. Bill Swearingen, Sara Bolton, Eleanor Brown, and Arda Walker demonstrated fine dramatic ability and unusual stage presence. Lois Black, Carol Ward, Gordon Bennett, and Russell Hirsch, also turned in good performances.

Mrs. Nita Eckles West was the dramatic supervisor of the successful production. Roy Talmage was given credit for the extensive and well-conducted advertising campaign which contributed to the financial as well as the dramatic success of the play.

Nominees Chosen For Theta Epsilon

Further Nominations For Officers to be Made This Evening

The nominations for officers of Theta Epsilon society for the second part of the year were released yesterday, and will be enlarged at the meeting of Theta this evening by nominations from the floor. The names for Thorson are Lois Hodgson and Dorothy the president who will succeed Marian Armstrong; for first vice-president are Harriet Barber and Gloria Milller; for second vice-president, Abilyne Draper and Lucille Gillespie; for secretary, Elizabeth Knight and Cathleen Cissna.

The program secretaries nominated of which there will be three finally elected, are Pat Mann, Jane Erwin, Mary Clark Caldwell; sergeant at arms, Nina Clark and Dorothy Depue; poster chairman, Arlene Phelps; assistants to any of the officers, Mary Petus, Elizabeth Gaultney, and Kitty Bennett; critics, Curtmarie Brown, Eleanor Brown, and Doris Stevenson.

The treasurer, Esther Sommers, will remain as such throughout the year. The nominating committee was composed of Dot Armstrong, Eleanor Brown, Esther Sommers, Cathleen Cissna, Curtmarie Brown, and Marian Thorson.

Walk Being Constructed; Wilson Bleachers Painted

E. C. Brown, college engineer, reported this week that the bleachers on Wilson field are being repainted to prevent their rotting during the winter, and workmen from the Tennessee Electric Power Co. have taken down the floodlights which provided illumination for the night games. Preparations are also being made to construct an asphalt sidewalk on the edge of the road beside Memorial hall.

All Beethoven Program Given by Club Friday

An all Beethoven program was given by the Disc club Friday afternoon in the Fine Arts studio. The numbers were "Gavotte", "Creation Hymn", and "Fifth Symphony". Martin Brynildson was commentator.

The program committee plans a special Christmas program and tea on December 10. The music will be "The Nut Crackers Suite" by Tschaikowsky and numbers from the Humperdinck opera "Hansel and Gretel". Miss Davies will be commentator.

Carol Sing To Be One of Activities Before Holidays

Fireside Program Will Be Held in Dining Hall December 12

Activities of the last school week of 1937 will begin with the presentation of Handel's "Messiah" on Sunday afternoon, December 12, and close with carol singing and refreshments on the last evening before vacation begins, is was announced this week.

On the evening of December 12, the worship directors of the Y.W.C.A. will sponsor a fireside program in the new dining hall section of Pearsons hall. All students are invited to meet at the fireplace and sing the familiar Christmas hymns, and hear Dr. Edwin R. Hunter tell some Christmas stories.

On the evening of December 15, the Y.M.C.A. Male chorus will present a program in Voorhees chapel based on the birth of Christ. It will sing familiar carols arranged in three groups and interspersed with the reading of Christmas poetry. Robert Cusworth, musical director of the Y.M.C.A., and Walter West have arranged the program.

The students will go from the chapel to the evergreen tree in front of Thaw hall which will be decorated with Christmas lights, there to sing the Christmas hymns. The evening's activities will close with refreshments served by the social committee.

Times Publisher To Speak Dec. 8

Emert Will Talk On "Heel Of Achilles"

Mr. Clyde B. Emert, editor and publisher of the Maryville Times, will speak in chapel December 8. The subject of Mr. Emert's address will be "The Heel of Achilles".

Mr. Emert, an outstanding citizen of Maryville, at one time wrote articles for a current magazine. He is a former president of the Maryville Kiwanis Club, and has twice been chosen governor of the Tennessee and Kentucky districts of Kiwanis Clubs. He has served on three national Kiwanis committees.

Y Cabinet Meets Sunday

The Y.M.C.A. cabinet will meet Sunday afternoon after the "Y" worship service in Bartlett auditorium. This regular monthly meeting of the cabinet will elect two delegates to the National Assembly of Student Christian associations at Oxford, Ohio, December 27 to January 1.

Debaters Have Forum

After an open forum on the varsity debate question "Resolved: That the National Labor Relations Board should be empowered to enforce arbitration in all industrial disputes," Tuesday evening, the debate class voted to conduct a similar forum at the next Tuesday meeting.

Several Maryville Men Take Part In Hi-Y Conference

Dr. McClelland to Address Meeting Sunday Morning

Several men from the Maryville college campus are taking part in the Hi-Y conference at Alcoa, which convened yesterday afternoon and will close Sunday morning. Over 100 representatives from the Hi-Y's of East Tennessee are attending the conference, which is being held at the Alcoa high school.

Dr. Frank McClelland, director of personnel of Maryville college, will address the conference at 9:30 tomorrow morning on the subject "The Challenge of Action."

Marvin Minear, president of the Maryville college Y.M.C.A., spoke at a devotional meeting at nine o'clock this morning. John Stafford, of the Maryville college Y.M.C.A. cabinet, who is in charge of Hi-Y work as affected by the college Y, is assisting in some of the arrangements for the conference. The male quartet composed of John Magill, Carl Wells, Lloyd Wells and Don McArthur sang at the opening of the conference last evening.

The conference program includes a sightseeing trip this afternoon through Alcoa and Maryville. This evening is to be devoted to the conference banquet. A great deal of the business of the conference consists of forum periods and discussions of vital questions affecting youth today. The visitors are being accomodated at homes in the vicinity.

Pflanze Reviews Book At Forum Fri.

Speaks on International Politics

"International Politics", a book by Frederick L. Schuman, well known American political scientist, was reviewed by Otto Pflanze at a Peace Forum meeting last evening at 6:40 in the philosophy class room.

Schuman, a professor of International Relations at Williams college, believes that the next world war will bring about the downfall of Western civilization. At the very first rival powers will strike at enemy centers killing combatants and non-combatants indiscriminately. In order to win a modern war the will of the civilian population to resist must be broken.

Only a radical change in international relations can save the world from this destruction, Schuman states. Nations must replace intolerance with tolerance. The only hope for a lasting peace is world unification.

Fischbach To Address Ministerial Students

At the weekly meeting of the Ministerial association Monday evening, George F. Fischbach, athletic instructor, will speak on "The Minister and his Recreation". Mr. Fischbach will discuss the methods by which the minister can secure his needed physical exercise without interfering with his regular program of work. The meeting will be held in Athenian hall at 6:30 p.m.

German Club Gives Play

At the German club meeting Tuesday evening in Theta hall, a humorous portrayal of the play "Little Red Riding Hood" was presented by the following, with Professor Kenneth Lagerstadt in charge: Dorothy Hill, Helen Lady, Bob Koch, Howard Davis; Edith Gillette, stage manager. Between acts, German songs were sung.

Lloyd Speaks At Banquet

Dr. R. W. Lloyd went to Chattanooga Friday evening to speak at a banquet given in honor of Dr. Stimson, who has served for ten years as pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church in Chattanooga. Dr. Stimson succeeded Dr. A. E. Elmore in the pastorate of Second Presbyterian Church. Dr. Elmore was for twenty years a director of Maryville college.

Messiah Soloists Are Selected For Oratorio, Dec. 12

Little Symphony Orchestra To Accompany Chorus Of 160 Voices

Soloists for the presentation of Handel's magnificient oratorio, the "Messiah", to be presented in Voorhees chapel December 12, have been selected and have been practicing for several days according to Ralph Colbert, director of the choir and orchestra.

They are Mrs. J. R. Mitchell, Nancy Quinn, Ruth Wood, Harriet Barber, Margaret Law, Robert Cusworth, Edwin Goddard, Ralph Reed, and Don McArthur.

Mrs. Mitchell, a resident of Maryville, will sing the famous soprano air "I Know That My Redeemer Liveth." Nancy Quinn will sing the soprano recitative "There Were Shepherds Abiding in the Fields" and the soprano air "Come Unto Him." The alto recitative "Behold a Virgin Shall Conceive," and the air "Oh Thou That Tellest Good Tidings to Zion" will be sung by Ruth Woods. Harriet Barber will sing the beautiful alto air "He Was Despised," and Margaret Law will sing the alto recitative "Then Shall the eyes of the blind be Opened", and the air "He shall feed His flock like a shepherd".

Probably the best known solo of the Messiah is the tenor recitative "Comfort ye My People," which, with the air "Every Valley Shall Be Exalted" will be sung by Robert Cusworth.

Edwin Goddard will sing the bass

Sophomores Give Hill Billy Party

Will Begin at 8 O'clock In The Chapel

This evening at 8 o'clock, the sophomores will sponsor a hill billy party. Everyone with dates, and preferably without them, is invited, and is expected to dress the part of a true Tennessee mountain hill billy.

At 8 o'clock in the chapel there will be instructions as to the various events of the evening. There are to be active games, and for those who participate it is advised that they wear low heeled rubber soled shoes. Then there wil also be quieter games for the rest.

The committe in charge of this hill billy party includes Glenn Young, John Kleinhenz, Thomas Schaeffer, Sara Lee Hellums, Bruce Walters, and Ruth Abercrombie.

Two Students Give Talks At New England Club

John Magill, a member of the program committee, introduced the speakers and their subjects at the New England club Monday evening. John Ballenger's subject was "The Frailties of Women"; Arlene Phelps' was "Historical Places in Boston." After the program, a short business meeting was conducted by Lincoln Johnson, president. The next meeting is planned for December 13.

Thirteen Students Take Medical Aptitude Test

Thirteen pre-medical students took the medical aptitude test Friday afternoon under the supervision of Dr. Edwin R. Hunter, director of curriculum. This test is given by the American Medical association as a method of securing the relative fitness of pre-medical students in American colleges to do medical school work. The relative grade of each student is sent to all medical colleges, and, together with his general scholastic record, is a determining factor in his admittance as a student.

Miss Elizabeth Jewell, associate professor of history, returned to her classes after a brief absence due to influenza.

Dr. O. R. Tarwater, pastor of the Northern Methodist Church of Maryville, will speak to the Student Volunteers Sunday evening after Vespers.

Annual Fred Hope Drive Led by Dr. Phillip May Ended Thursday Morning

Dr. Hope, Who Graduated From Maryville College in 1906, Is Superintendent of Industrial School at Elat, in the African Cameroun

218 STUDENTS, FACULTY PLEDGE $658 TO WORK

Dr. May, Who First Went to Africa in 1924, Spoke at Two Chapel Services; Showed Films Wednesday On Mission Work in Cameroun

The two day campaign in the interest of the work of Dr. Fred Hope in the African Cameroun closed in chapel Thursday morning when students were given an opportunity to pledge contributions to the work. The campaign was conducted by Dr. Phillip J. May, an associate of Dr. Hope, in America on furlough.

Students and faculty this year pledged $658.50 to the work. This is an increase of approximately $84 over last year's pledges. The 218 people who agreed to make contributions will do so in three installments, due January 25, February 25, and March 25.

There is no penalty for not fulfilling the pledges, and notices are posted in the dormitories at the times payments are due. Last year there was an eight percent loss in the amount of money pledged and the amount received. The Student-Help office, which has charge of the campaign, announces that pledges may still be received there.

Dr. May spoke upon three occasions. At the Wednesday morning chapel service he described the progress that has taken place in Africa since the first missionaries went to Elat, the headquarters of Dr. Hope, 45 years ago. He made clear the need for trained workers in that country even though much advance has been made in civilizing the natives.

Two films were shown Wednesday evening. The first, an educational feature prepared by the Harmon foundation, was a three reel description of African life entitled "Africa Joins the World." It showed the way Africa has changed from a mysterious unknown continent of savage barbarians to a valuable source of the world's commodities in the years since it was first explored by Dr. David Livingstone. The second film was prepared by the Foreign Mission board of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A. and under the title of "Jungle Drums Are Calling" showed the work that is being done by Presbyterian missionaries in Africa. Dr. May explained that in the 50 years that missionaries have been in the Cameroun 100,000 Africans have become Christians.

His own experiences in Africa and the remote section of the Cameroun where he and his family were stationed when they first went there in 1924 were described by Dr. May on Thursday morning at the regular chapel service. He described the hardships of disease that the missionaries must combat, and presented what was once the Dark Continent as still open for workers who have a pioneering spirit.

Dr. Fred Hope graduated from Maryville college in 1906 and went to Africa in 1907. With the exception of his furloughs, he has been working there ever since. He is now superintendent of the Frank James Industrial school, and on his visit to the college last year at the time of the campaign for his work he told of the school and its operation.

85 From Maryville Hear Grace Moore At U-T Auditorium

3 Buses Chartered to Take Students, Faculty To Knoxville

Approximately 85 Maryville students and faculty members were among the 3600 persons who heard Grace Moore's concert at the University of Tennessee Memorial auditorium Tuesday evening. Three buses were chartered to take the Maryville students to and from Knoxville.

Miss Moore, who is a native of East Tennessee, received a tremendous ovation from the audience, who called her back five times for encores.

Her encores, all of which were requests, proved to be the most popular numbers that she sang. The first was the "Gavotte" from Massenet's "Manon", followed by "Ma Lindy Lou", "The Old Refrain", and "Ciribiribin", her radio theme song. Her last encore was "Home, Sweet Home".

Miss Moore's program included "Depuis le Jour" from "Louise", "Connais-tu le pays" from "Mignon", Bizet's "Curve ton coeur", "Waltz" of Arensky-Koshetz, De Falla's "Sequidillia", "Indian Love Song", "Serenade", "Ma Curly-Headed Babby", Carpenter's "Serenade", and "Un Bel Di" from "Madame Butterfly".

Christmas Vespers To Be Held Dec. 5

Special Musical Program To Be Given

The Christmas Vesper service will be held tomorrow evening at 7 o'clock in Voorhees chapel. Dr. William Patton Stevenson, College pastor, will speak.

For the musical part of the service, the College choir will sing "Jesu Bambino" by Jon with incidental solo by Edwin Goddard, and "Today There Is Ringing" by Christianson. "Adeste Fidelis" will be used for the precessional and "As of Gladness Men of Old" for the recessional.

Carrying out the Christmas theme, the choir and audience will sing Christmas carols together.

Lloyd To Preach Sunday

Dr. Ralph W. Lloyd will preach Sunday morning at the New Providence Presbyterian Church in the absence of Dr. John A. McAfee, who is spending a few days in the East. Dr. Lloyd will speak on "The Dominant Issue of Our Times-Secularism or Spirituality."

NATURE CLUB

The program for this week's Nature club meeting was presented Thursday evening in Fayerweather Science hall. Ruth Woodside gave a review of the article "Speed of Animals". President William Alston read a paper entitled "Rattlesnakes", written by the president of last year's Nature club, Jack Mahaney. In concluding the program Alston read a short story taken from Raymond L. Ditmar's "Strange Animals I Have Known."

Annual Closes Senior Section November 30; Includes 120 Seniors

The senior section of the Chilhowean closed November 30. The section includes 120 students half of whom had new pictures made. The junior section, which was opened November 24, will close December 15. All juniors must have their pictures taken by this time.

This week, pictures of Bainonian, Athenian, the Law club, and the Ministerial society have been taken by Kenneth Van Cise, the staff photographer. The pictures of all the class officers and the women's sports teams will be taken next week.

Theta Gives Program

Bainonians will be entertained Saturday evening by an exchange program with Theta members. The Indian theme carried out in music, which was presented at a recent meeting of the Theta society, will be repeated.

Betty Seel and Mary Chambers are both confined to the hospital with the flu.

Several new shrubs have been set out along the walk that leads from Court St. behind Alumni Gymnasium.

Unprincipled Education

In the current issue of The American Scholar, Datus C. Smith Jr. gives a slap to what he calls high-principled institutions, stating that "high principles have done more harm to learning than indolence and stupidity combined."

His major premise seems to be that in order to serve the ultimate good of society, colleges and universities must forget all about "right" and "wrong" and devote themselves solely to the search for truth. "Moral judgment," Mr. Smith explains, "is a perishable commodity, likely to turn sour after any length of time."

"It is only the unprincipled institution—the institution that refuses to take sides—that can allow its scholars to deal with realities and to speak what they believe to be the truth. It is easy for a college to espouse high principles,—but the moment it does this, it abandons the high cause of honest scholarship."

Mr. Smith closes his essay with the following: "The usefulness of universities derives from the fact that they have no axe to grind. The minute they espouse some cause they lose their charter in society.—It (the university) is then on a par with the American Liberty League and the Communist Party—each undeniably sincere, industrious, and, according to its lights, high-principled, but each starting with a predetermined moral judgment to which the available facts are made to conform.—Is there no place for unprincipled institutions?"

We heartily agree with some of Mr. Smith's inferences; that too often the student's opinion is laughed down as being hopelessly wrong unless it coincides with the professor's; that too often the curricula and the teaching of certain subjects are influenced unreasonably by the source of college funds; that too often the only claims some professors have that they can see both sides of the issue is that they can see their side and the wrong side.

This matter brings up the old question as to whether the university is under obligation to protect the students against unsound doctrine. We think it is. But what is unsound doctrine?

"And what can afford greater protection against it (unsound doctrine) than free inquiry conducted by men whose intellectual processes conform with the highest requirements of true scholarship?" Asks Ogden Mills, "Doesn't it all come down to picking a group of clear thinking scholars, who are primarily scholars, balancing the inevitable tendencies to right and left, and then letting discussion rage?"

Our conclusion is that a professor who is sincerely interested in finding the truth would present both sides of the question fairly and that he would give an opinion—and should be allowed to do so—reached by honest study, not prejudice. A professor like this will never hold the bulldogmatic view that everyone is out of step but him.

Credenda... Polonius

WE SAW AN EXCELLENT PLAY last night. With the possible exception of "Craig's Wife" last year we doubt if in our four years here Voorhees chapel has seen a better-cast or better-staged production than "Pride and Prejudice". For the casting and excellent direction all credit goes to Mrs. West; for the unusually excellent sets, John Wintermute, assisted by Maxwell Cornelius and an efficient corps of assistants, is to be congratulated. The lounge of Lady Catherine de Bourgh in the second act was as well-done a set as any a professional designer could plan or execute.

PAT MANN, WITHOUT DOUBT, turned in the outstanding performance with her portrayal of the foolish Mrs. Bennet. The part, as most of the others in the play, could scarcely have been better cast. In expression, voice, gesture, dramatic feeling, she was very good. She lost no shade of Jane Austen's garish character nor a line of Helen Jerome's dialogue.

DON STEVENS, AS THE AMUSING FATHER, very nearly equalled his temperamental wife in excellence of interpretation. His performance was head and shoulders above the other male delineations. Sara Bolton, in her brief appearances as spinsterish Miss Bingley, outperformed many who had heavier parts. Eleanor Brown, as Lady Catherine, exhibited a poise and lack of self-consciousness unequalled by any other member of the cast. Bill Swearingen as the sweet Mr. Collins handled his lines and gestures with complete utility of the humorous character of his part.

OF THE THREE DAUGHTERS the naive Lydia, portrayed by Arda Walker, was the most complete characterization. Lois Black and Carol Ward, while handling their dramatic situations very well, handicapped their own ability and fine stage presence with a too-careful diction which kept the listener conscious of speech text-books. Gordon Bennett's dramatic ability was handicapped by the stiffness and pride of Jane Austen's Mr. Darcy. Russell Hirsch demonstrated an ability that will improve with experience.

OF THE LESSER ROLES Emma Jane Kramer handled her part with unusual sympathy. Jane Irwin's brief appearance convinced Polonius that she deserved one of the larger parts. Roy Talmage deserves a great deal of credit for excellent management and advertising. On the whole "Pride and Prejudice" has set a standard for the 1937-38 Midwinter season that will be difficult for the society groups to attain without a super-play.

The movie magnate and the editor lunch together....

"Good afternoon, Piffensnoofle! What a gorgeous spectacle this colossal day is!"

"Hello, Dimwitty. Yes, your correspondent has it on the authority of a high official who declines to be quoted that it is four-tenths of a degree warmer today than any December 4 in 19 years."

"You simply can't afford to miss my super-special favorite dish, Piffensnoofle—scalloped jumbo bumbo! You raved over chicken ching chow! You thrilled to noodles a la boodles! Yet scalloped jumbo bumbo will carry you to the very heights of culinary perfection. Thousands have already acclaimed its greatness!"

"That So? According to reports circulated by official circles it is alleged that you have tied the nuptial knot since we last met."

"Exactly. My martial bliss has reached the veritable acme of sublimation. Hilarious comedy, heart-throbbing romance, soul-gripping drama, stirring adventure—all this packed into my fast-moving life; By the way—to which of my marriages do you refer?"

"It is reported by an authoritative source close to the management here that the mince pie is good today. Shall we . . . Pshaw! Here comes that bore Woopendoople, who is always talking shop!"

More Wisdom of Wozzie .....

Put not off thy term papers nor thy book reports nor thy studying for finals until the Christmas vacation; for lo, those days shall pass with the swiftness of the mail truck, and behold, thou shalt not have accomplished thy term papers nor thy book reports nor thy studying for finals, and great shall be thy sorrowing and loud thy lamentations.

If thou must needs moonshine, take heed that thou moonshineth with one girl only; for verily, verily, a man can not serve two masters: either he must divorce the one and cling to the other, or else keep the one and shoot the other. And great is the inconvenience either way thereof.

Now is the accepted time, O ye of faith, to enter into warm correspondence with all thy friends and relatives whom thou hast ignored all year; forasmuch as the Christmas season approacheth, and thou desirest a bath robe, or a radio, or shirts, or a dresser set, or a watch, or a typewriter, or a traveling bag. But put not too much faith in thy Aunt Minnie or thy Uncle Hiram or thy friends . . . her store up for thyself treasures in the bank, or open upto theyself a charge account, in case Aunt Minnie faileth to come across.

Last Bites

With the last echos of the past footbal campaign fading into the distance along with prodigious quantities of choicest turkey, we prolong the grid season long enough to pass along a few observations on the annual festivities held Thursday night at Pearsons hall.

First and most appropriate is a tribute to the taste and efficiency with which the whole affair was conducted by Miss Ware and the gals who passed the rations about from one ravenous gridder to another.

All the three-score players and visitors packed away copious portions of turkey, dressing, cranberries, hot rolls, ice cream, and all the other delicacies of cuisine placed in easy reach.

Truly, a swell time was had by all.

Some of the speeches, even, were pretty good.

Sage-hen vs. Turkey

Not the least tempting of the after-dinner morsels was the rhetorical tid-bit offered by Coach Bob Thrower.

After making a few verbal passes at his old classmate and admirer, Toastmaster Griffitts, Coach Bob remarked as follows:

"Something reminds me of the story about the man who said at a banquet, 'you've been eating turkey filled with sage; now you will listen to a sage filled with turkey.' I'm not a sage filled with turkey, but I am full of chicken."

Which goes to show you that maybe they don't know their poultry so well in the wide open spaces.

Unconfirmed

Then there was the remark by Dr. Griffitts quoting Dr. Lloyd as follows:

"A college must be endowed by degrees, mostly honorary."

Or words to that effect.

Amaters Come Through, Too.

To round out the speech-making there were delightful discourses by retiring captains Renfro and Proffitt and captain elect Burris and Odell.

All were masterpieces of oratory, no kiddin'. That delivered by Jim Proffitt really had a flavor of the speech department in it.

Jim Renfro was better than usual, too.

But then Jim has an edge on the other guys. Practice makes perfect you know.

Speaking of Cap'n Jim reminds us—something was over looked Thursday night; it was the election of a choir leader to replace our departing captain. Now who can carry on when the squad needs a little musical inspiration on bus trips next year?

Flash Hughes and "Joe" Etheredge are two possibilities. On second thought though, they can't sing. Still, maybe that doesn't disqualify them.

Come Again

Among the illustrious alumni were Coaches J. D. Davis, Steve Boretsky, and Jim Holloway, of Everett, Maryville, and Alcoa High, respectively.

Though none of them made speeches, all made their presence felt.

Ask the turkey.

Al Burris and Junior Odell Chosen To Lead Highlander Gridders in 1938

Coaches, Players Show Optimism Over Next Year's Team At Annual Football Banquet

Al Burris, 150 pound Scot signal caller of the past two seasons, was elected 1938 captain at the annual football banquet held Thursday night in Pearsons hall.

John "Junior" Odell will serve as alternate captain, succeeding Jim Proffitt.

Burris has been one of the Smoky Mountain's topranking field generals this year and will probably rate a number of the all-conference selections.

An equally brilliant performer since being shifted to end, O'dell was one of the most colorful players in the loop. His kicking, passing, and end play rate a place on the 1937 all-star teams.

Those addressing the group were President Ralph W. Lloyd, Dean E. R. Hunter, Dr. J. H. McMurray, Prof. G. D. Howell, Mr. F. L. Proffitt, Coaches Thrower and Honaker, retiring Captain Jim Renfro and James Proffitt, and Al Burris and Junior Odell. Dr. F. A. Griffitts acted as toastmaster.

The ability and spirit of the squad were praised by Coach Honaker, who said, "We started the season depending on a backfield composed mostly of freshmen. The fact that they came through wasn't quite enough to bring us the championship, but for a team counting so much on new material to come so close is pretty good, I think.

"Next year, with only two of the regulars gone, we should be better than we were this year."

The banquet, held in Pearsons hall under the supervision of Miss Margaret S. Ware, was attended by sixty players and guests.

JUNIOR O'DELL

"Rasslers" Close Second Week of Grunting Drills

Squad Expected to Reach Maximum Before Christmas

The personnel of the wrestling team is approaching the point expected of it this week, as some of the veterans of last winter are beginning to report.

Obie Jenkins, who worked in the 175 and heavyweight divisions last year has been at practice this week since Monday, and several of the others being counted on for service will probably swing into action before another week has passed.

Coch Bob Thrower has been putting his grunters through a bit more advanced program this week, with a number of two and three minute contests being staged. As a result of these informal clashes some of the newer matmen are showing signs of developing into valuable additions to the 1938 outfit.

In the 118 pound group Paul Prevetta, stocky freshman candidate, has been outstanding so far among the newcomers.

The middle weight divisions have been largely dominated by sophomore and junior aspirants, with Edgar Meares and Bill Short showing to best advantage so far. Most of the men in these weights have had some previous experience on the mat. The return of Jim Renfro to action will greatly augment the strength of either the 155 or 165-lb. position, depending on which he chooses to work in this year.

Board Awards 19 Football Letters

At a meeting of the Athletic Board of Control Tuesday morning football letters were awarded to nineteen members of the Maryville squad.

Those receiving the Maryville "M" were Al Burris, Harold Burns, James Etheredge, Bob Faulkner, George Garner, Scott Honaker, J. D. Hughes, Arnold Kramer, Obie Jenkins, Eugene McCurrry, George Morton, John Odell, James Proffitt, Jim Renfro, S. K. Taylor, Tom Taylor, Fred Tulloch, Charlie Davis, and Arthur Byrne, manager.

The Board also elected Sammy Watson, sophomore, as basketball manager for the coming season.

Cagers Conduct First Scrimmage

As the fourth week of the Scots basketball practice got under way, Coch Honaker expressed his opinion that the squad was developing rapidly.

Many of the newcomers are showing signs of becoming basketeers of promise. If the Scotties are to make a bid for the Smoky Mountain championship this year, the reserves will have to play a big part in the season's play.

Coach Honaker plans to play several of the independent teams in this vicinity as soon as they are organized. No games, however, have been definitely scheduled.

Barbour Engaged To Lead Annual Meetings Series

Rev. Stringham, of St. Louis To Lead Music For 15th Year

The Rev. Clifford E. Barbour, Ph.D., D.D., pastor of the Second Presbyterian church of Knoxville, will conduct the sixty-second annual series of February meetings, which begin February 8, it was announced today by Dr. Ralph W. Lloyd. The Rev. Sidney E. Stringham, of St. Louis, will lead the music for the fifteenth consecutive year.

Dr. Barbour is in constant demand as a speaker and civic leader. Recently he was toastmaster at the banquet of the University of Tennessee's football team. Students of the university attend his church, and he has had experience in working with college groups.

The statement from the president's office concerning Dr. Barbour follows:

Dr. Barbour is forty-two years of age and is a native of Pittsburgh, his father and mother coming there from England. He is a graduate of the University of Pittsburgh and of the Western Theological seminary in Pittsburgh, holds also a Master of Theology degree from Western seminary, a Doctor of Philosophy degree from the University of Edinburgh, Scotland, where he was a student for two years, and the honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity from Maryville college, which he serves as a Director.

For two years Dr. Barbour was an assistant to Dr. Hugh Thompson Kerr in the Shadyside Presbyterian Church of Pittsburgh, giving special attention to work with students of the University of Pittsburgh and Carnegie Institute of Technology. For three years he was pastor of the Herron Avenue Presbyterian Church, Pittsburgh, and for ten years has been in Knoxville. Dr. Barbour is the author of a book, "Sin and the New Psychology," published by Abingdon Press and also by George Allen and Unwin, and has written various published articles. He was a member of the Presbyterian Board of Christian Education for ten years, is the Dean of the School of Religion of the University of Tennessee, and holds various offices.

Dr. Barbour has always been closely related to college life. He is quite a remarkable personality. His sermons are brief, simple, intellectual, and spiritual. One of the effective phases of his work in Knoxville is a sort of clinical conference which he holds several days a week for people in trouble and he gives each Thursday wholly to meeting people sent to him by various social agencies of the city.

"Brides" Have Charge Of Home Ec. Program

Students taking the Brides' course were in charge of the meeting of the Home Economics club, which was held Tuesday evening in the home economics lecture room.

Georgia Ingle gave a short speech on "Brides". Louise Felknor and Zula Vance played two piano duets. Ellen Hitch, a former expression student and graduate of Maryville college, gave two readings. A short business meeting was held before the program.

WNOX Will Broadcast Messiah Performance Tomorrow Afternoon

On Sunday afternoon from 2:30 to 4 o'clock the fifth annual presentation of Handel's Messiah will be broadcast from Voorhees chapel over station WNOX in Knoxville. The time has been given by the courtesy of the studio, and the college is paying the expense of the wire from the chapel to the studio.

Everyone is requested to be in his seat promptly at 2:30 as no one can be seated during the program.

Notices have been sent concerning the broadcast, which is the first time that the Messiah has been broadcast, to alumni and friends of the college within the radius of WNOX.

Carol Concert To Be Presented by YM Male Chorus

Bob Cusworth Will Direct Chorus In Voorhees December 15

The first annual Christmas Carol concert will be presented by the Y.M. C. A. chorus under the direction of Robert Cusworth in Voorhees chapel December 15 at 7:30 p. m. The chorus is composed of 26 male voices, and contains some of the outstanding musical talent of the College.

The program will open with an organ prelude of carols by Gerald Beaver, followed by a group of three carols which have Bethlehem as the theme, and which will be sung by the chorus. Other portions of the program will be dedicated to the shepherds, the wise men, and the songs of adoration.

There will also be a violin solo, "Cantique de Noel" by John M. Guinter, and the Y. W. C. A. trio will sing "There's a Song in the Air". Walter West will read several Christmas poems. The benediction will be "Silent Night", played on the organ by Gerald Beaver.

Following the program in the chapel, there will be group singing of some of the more familiar carols around the Christmas tree in front of Thaw hall.

Writers Workshop To Hold Christmas Party In YW Rooms Monday

The Writers' Workshop, literary organization for junior and senior men and women and faculty members, will hold a Christmas party, instead of its regular meeting, in the Y. W. C. A. rooms Monday afternoon. Jessie Cassada, Gloria Miller, and Carolyn Harrar are the members of the refreshment committee.

Don Stevens read an original story at the meeting last week. The resignation of John Stafford from the Workshop was accepted, because of the conflict of his swimming assistantship with the regular meeting time of the group.

Spanish Club Meets

On Wednesday evening the Spanish club met in Alpha Sigma hall. Miss Frances Rich, who was to have given a talk, was unable to be present, but her paper on "Spanish Art" was read by Miss Geneva Hutchinson.

Y Cabinets Pick Three To Attend Student Assembly

Minear, Ashley, Bewley Will Represent College At Meeting

Three students have been elected by the cabinets of the two Christian associations to represent Maryville college at the National Student assembly in Oxford, Ohio, December 27 to January 1. They are Marvin Minear, Warren Ashby, and Helen Bewley.

Minear, a five year student who is president of the Y. M. C. A., and Ashby, a member of the cabinet, were elected last Sunday afternoon. They will go from their homes to Oxford, returning to Maryville directly from there. Miss Bewley, a sophomore from Bellefontaine, Ohio, will return to her home after the convention.

The National Student assembly is held every two years with representatives of college Christian associations from all over the United States attending. This year 2,000 students will be

Officers Elected By Theta Epsilon

Dorothy Armstrong Elected President

Dorothy Armstrong , senior from Bradenton, Fla., was elected president of Theta Epsilon society after an all day poll Tuesday in Pearsons lobby. Harriet Barber was elected to first vice president; Abilyne Draper, second vice president; Cathleen Cissna, secretary.

The program secretaries succeeding Curtmarie Brown and Eleanor Brown will be Pat Mann, Jane Irwin, and Mary Clark Caldwell. The sergeant at arms will be Dorothy Depue; the poster chairman, Arlene Phelps; assistants to any of the officers, Mary Petus, Elizabeth Gaultney, and Kitty Bennett; critics, Curtmarie Brown, Eleanor Brown, and Doris Stevenson.

Esther Sommers who was elected to be treasurer early in the year, will remain such through the entire year.

Alpha Sigma, Athenian To Hold Joint Meeting

Alpha Sigma and Athenian will hold a joint meeting in Bartlett hall, Saturday evening. The program, which was presented two weeks ago to Bainonian society, will be directed by Garnet Manges. It will feature Helen Bewley, a sophomore of Maryville college, and John Williams, a student of Maryville high school. In addition to the main program there will be group singing led by John Magill.

Mrs. Queener Speaks To Faculty Club Tuesday

Mrs. Verton Queener spoke to the Faculty club Tuesday evening, December 7, in Science hall on the subject "Why Dance?" Mrs. Queener told about different dances such as the Gavotte and the Shoemaker's dance. After the dances were described, a group of students illustrated them. Kitty Bennet danced a solo dance to "The Blue Danube", and Irma Souder and Gerald Beaver danced to the "Indian Love Call."

Ministerials Meet

The Ministerial association will hold its meeting Monday night in the Y. W. C. A. room. It is planned to hold the meeting around the fire-place. Each member is to invite a lady guest. Mrs. R. W. Lloyd will talk to the group on "The Christian Home." The meeting will start at 7:00 instead of the usual time of 6:45.

Two Have Influenza

Gillette Witt and Clement Hahn are the only students in the hospital with flu this week. Martha May has an infected foot. Bill Young and Barbara Ann Swift have been released recently.

Wednesday evening there will be an informal dinner with two prizes for the two most attractively decorated tables. This dinner is being planned by the social committee.

Christmas Holidays Begin Thurs. Noon; End January 5, 38

The Christmas holidays begin Thursday noon and the College program will be resumed January 5, 1938, with the morning chapel service at 8:10.

Thursday evening the last meal in the dining room will be served. The dining hall will reopen for the evening meal on January 4.

The faculty this week announced that the schedule for next Thursday morning will be as follows: Chapel will be omitted. First, second, third, and fourth hour classes will meet for the regular length of time. The first class will begin at 8:10 and the fourth-hour class close at 11:50.

According to a statement of Mrs. Grace Pope Snyder, director of women's residences, the dormitories will close Thursday evening and will be open the afternoon preceeding the day classes meet.

The few students who have found it impossible to go home for the Christmas vacation are staying either in town or in the College hospital.

Two Y's Sponsor Party For Orphans

Social to be Held in YWCA Rooms, 3 O'clock

The Y. W. C. A. and Y. M. C. A. are sponsoring a Christmas party for the children from the orphanage this afternoon from 3:00 till 4:30 in the Y. W. rooms.

At the beginning of the year lists were posted in the dormitories for students to sign up for little sisters and brothers. Each orphan girl has two big sisters, and each orphan boy has a big brother and a big sister.

Santa Clause will bring the presents after games are played under the direction of Margaret Knox and William McGill. Mary Mildred Hatcher and Paul Brown have charge of decorations and Miriam Berst, refreshments.

Tea Given by Women in Home Management House

Annie Ruth Raper, Helen Miller, Nancy Lee Whetstone, and Lilian Borgquist entertained with a tea in the home management house Wednesday afternoon from 3:30 to 5:00. Over 60 students and faculty were invited.

These teas are a regular part of the training required of those who keep the home management house, and it is part of the work connected with the home economics department.

Rev. Melcher To Speak

On December 15, the morning address at the chapel service will be given by the Rev. Louis C. Melcher. Mr. Melcher is rector of St. John's Episcopal church in Knoxville.

Men of the college will recall that Mr. Melcher spoke to the Y.M.C.A. group last year.

The program at Bainonian Saturday evening will be presented by Miss Jessie Johnson of the English department. She will read Dickens' "Christmas Carol."

Maryville Oratorio Society Presents Handel's "Messiah"

Fifth Annual Presentation at Maryville College To Be Sunday Afternoon in Chapel, 2:30 O'clock; Symphony Orchestra to Accompany

Tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock, in Voorhees chapel, a group of over 200 students, faculty, and townspeople will present George Fredrick Handel's oratorio, "The Messiah," one of the greatest choral works ever written. The chorus, comprising in part the combined glee clubs and the choir, accompanied by the Maryville college little symphony, will be under he direction of Ralph R. Colbert, regular conductor of these organizations.

The solo airs and recitatives will be sung by Mrs. J. R. Mitchell and Nancy Quinn, sopranos; Harriet Barber, Margaret Law, and Ruth Wood, altos; Robert Cusworth, tenor; and Don MacArthur, Edwin Goddard, and Ralph Reed, basses.

The text of the "Messiah" is taken from the literal words of the old and new testaments, arranged by Charles Jennes. Handel wrote the music in a period of 24 days in 1741, at the age of 56. The same year he was invited to Ireland as guest of the Lord Lieutenant, and it was while there that the "Messiah" was first performed, in Dublin, on April 12, 1742. Such was the excitement aroused by the advertisement of its impending presentation, that the men agreed to attend without their swords, and the women without hoops, by which device, a seventh more room was reported to have been obtained.

Tickets for this world premiere sold at half a guinea, and the proceeds went to the relief of various Dublin hospitals and prisons. Following this altruistic precedent, today the "Messiah" has contributed more money to charity than any other work of art.

The first English performance of the "Messiah" was in March, 1743, at Covent Garden theatre, London, at which memorable occasion George II became so enraptured at the majesty of the Hallelujah chorus that on the words "For the Lord omnipotent reigneth" he involuntarily stood up, a custom followed by "Messiah" audiences ever since.

The 'Messiah" was given 34 times during the remaining years of Handel's life, and his last public act was to direct this favorite work. It has remained the most performed and best known of all oratorios, and every Christmas finds many of the world's great artists engaged in its presentation.

The history of the "Messiah" at Maryville has been a relatively short one, having been introduced in 1933 by J. Alvin Keen, a graduate of the Westminister choir school, and Mary Frances Henry, former voice instructor here.

The complete program follows:

Varsity Debate Try-outs Begin This Afternoon

Students in Speech Class Compete For Places On Squad

Try-outs for the varsity debate squad, with approximately 25 students competing for places on the squad, were held this afternoon, starting at 1:30. Dr. George A. Knapp, Dr. Edwin R. Hunter and Dr. David H. Briggs were the judges.

All of the debaters are members of Prof. Verton M. Queener's speech class. The question being debated is, Resolved: That the National Labor Relations board should be empowered to enforce arbitration of all industrial disputes.

Those upholding the affiirmative side in the try-outs were Warren Ashby, J. N. Badgett, Curtmarie Brown, Sara Lee Hellums, George Hunt, Arnold Kramer, William McGill, Louise Proffitt, Hugh Smith, Leland Waggoner, Harwell Proffitt, Russell Stevenson.

The negative side was upheld by Malcolm Brown, Ernest Crawford, Charles Fish, Georgia Ingle, Howard Lamon, William Lewis, Otto Pflanze, Clifford Proctor, Neil Rosser, Miriam Waggoner, Arda Walker, James Whitt and Helen Maguire.

Disc Club Has Program Of Xmas Music Friday

A special Christmas program and tea was enjoyed by the members of the Disc club Friday afternoon in the Y.W. rooms.

The Christmas music consisted of the rich ballet music from Tschaikowsky's "Nutcrackers Suite" and numbers from the Humperdinck opera "Hansel and Gretel," one of the most beautiful folk operas ever written. Miss Davies was commentator.

Campus Workers To Be Busy During Holidays

Plans are being made for general repair and maintenance work to be done by the campus employees, who intend to work during the Christmas holidays. Although the plans are not yet complete, Ernest Brown, campus engineer, said that he expected most of the work to consist of wood-cutting in the college woods, and of cleaning in the campus buildings.

Hunter to Read Poetry At Fireside Program Sun.

Sunday evening there will be a fireside program in the dining hall at 8 o'clock, at which Dr. E. R. Hunter will read Christmas poetry. "Oh Holy Night" will be sung by Dick Woodring and the group will sing Christmas carols. This meeting, which will take the place of the regular Sunday evening vesper service, is planned to be simple, yet effective, embodying the Christmas Spirit.

Sophs Sponsor Party

Saturday evening the sophomore Class sponsored a Hill Billy party. Active games were played in the Alumni Gym and Bartlett hall. There was a progression party of "cootie" in the Y.W. rooms. At 9:30 there was a sing and refreshments in the gym.

Club Has Xmas Meeting

A Christmas meeting was held last Monday evening by the Carolina club. The singing of familiar carols was enjoyed by all the members. The Christmas story was read from Luke and told by Julia Sellers. Before adjournment, plans were made for the club picture in the annual.

The Chilhowean's progress was marked this week by 32 new subscriptions amounting to $40. The senior section, which closed November 30, has been turned in to the printers and the junior section, which opened November 24, will close Wednesday of next week.

Reporter Digs Up M. C. Catalog Of Not-So-Gay Ninety Period

by ARLENE PHELPS

"The Catalogue of Maryville College, 1895-1896," lists three courses of study for the collegiate and preparatory departments: the classical course, the Latin-scientific course, and the English-scientific course. In this catalogue Maryville is stated to be "a pleasant and thriving town of about 2500 inhabitants. There is no saloon in Blount county. Maryville is widely known as 'the town of schools and churches'." As to rhetorical drill, "all students of the college, meeting in different classes, participate in the weekly rhetorical exercises. One essay and one declamation each month are required of all."

"The faculty meet every week of the college year, and receive reports of the work done in all the departments and of all the delinquencies of individual students. Every month a record is made of the standing of each student, which is sent to his parents or guardian at the end of each quarter."

"The four literary societies connected with the institution are the greatest benefit to those who faithfully avail themselves of all the advantages they offer. The societies are Bainonian, Theta Epsilon, Athenian, and Alpha Sigma, all of which meet in Anderson Hall."

The expenses of students for rooms in college buildings are $3.00 per session, or $6.00 per year. The tuition bill is $12.00 per year. The heat bill in the halls is $3.00 per term. Board in the Cooperative Boarding club costs about $1.20 per week. The entire expense for the students for board, tuition, room rent, fuel, light, washing, will be $80 to $125 per year.

Skeleton In Closet Proves As Human As Maryville Sophomore

By WARREN ASHBY

The exploring student will find deep in the vaulted recesses of the third floor of Fayerweather several figures, in the best meaning of the word. Those two that look like ancient Egyptian mummies aren't ancient or Egyptian at all but are biology assistants. They aren't important though. The figure that counts here is the frame work of a man, dead these many years.

In recent decades there has been much speculation as to how that former being met his death, and why. The conservative school of archaeologists on the campus insist that he is one of the noted few in the annuals of history to die a natural death—at the ripe old age of sixteen. This can be explained by the fact that they had no automobiles or orators then.

But the more radical clan of archaeologists in our midst (they are the Democrats) contend that he died after sixteen springs and one fall, all because the hangman couldn't keep his mouth shut and the Scots were too anti-liberal to give him a rope long enough to reach bottom.

Anyway he is there. And after first hearing that he was nothing of his former self, we spent many sleepless nights wondering just how he did meet his doom—and if he had his boots on at the time. Taking faith in our powers of spiritualism and mental telepathiticism (we made up that word) we resolved to sit at his feet and take knowledge from him.

Someone else had already borrowed his boots, that is what we first noticed. Just a wisp of a fellow is he now and we were moved to tears to think that one so fair was with us no more.

THE DICKENS OF A CHRISTMAS CAROL

(Note: The characters in this play are purely products of the imagination. To any preson who believes himself to be the prototype of one of the characters, we can only say that his conscience is troubling him.)

Act I. Scene: Maryville college classroom. Outside, snow is falling, distant voices join in merry Christmas carols, the Christmas tree lights twinkle, and the holiday spirit prevades the campus. Seated at his desk is Prof. Scrudge, a lowering scowl on his sour countenance. He is avidly reading volume eleven of "How to be a Susseccful Killjoy in Ten Columes; or A Succinct Collection of Biographies of Famous Wet Blankets." The cracks of the closed window sashes are stuffed with paper, and Scrudge's ears are packed with cotton—he hates Christmas carols—the very word "Christmas" makes him choke with rage. As the students come into the room, Scrudge's face assumes its type XZ-2 scowl, which is reserved for such occasions when he feels especially mean.

STUDENTS: Merry Christmas, professor!

SCRUDGE: Aw, rats! If I had my way, every student who goes around with "Merry Christmas" (gag! gag!) on his lips would be given eight demerits the first time, flunked the second, and sent home the third. Merry Christmas! (gag!) What have you to be merry about?

STUDENTS: Well, we have you for only one course.

SCRUDGE: There will be an examination over the entire course to date on Thursday morning.

STUDENTS: But professor, the holidays begin Thursday. Where's your Christmas spirit?

SCRUDGE: Rats! Reading reports will be due Thursday, also.

Act II. Scene: Scrudge's bedroom. Scrudge is sleeping. A swirl of snow entering the window becomes a group of ghosts, clanking their chains.

1st. Ghost: Br-r-r (clank! clank!) Shut that window. I'm freezing to death with only one sheet on—the other is at the laundry.

SCRUDGE: (Sitting up): What do you want with me, ghosts?

GHOSTS: Moo-o-o-o! We are the spirits of students you have sent to early graves, come to get in your hair and haunt you.

1st. Ghost: Remember me, Scrudge? I went insane when you flunked me for smiling openly in class one day.

2nd. Ghost: And I, Scrudge, I died of heart break when you refused to let me and my little bonfire sit side by side in class.

3rd. Ghost: I committed suicide because I couldn't get all the work done which you assigned over the Christmas holidays one year.

GHOSTS: The clanking of our chains shall ever haunt your ears,
Your days shall full of sorrow be, your nights with fears,
Until you loose our fetters—set us free again,
By showing that you're fit to live with fellow men.
And we advise that it will be an act of prudence,
If you begin by being kind to all your students.

Act III. Scene: Classroom, next morning. Through the open windows drifts sound of Yule music. Scrudge, dressed as Santa Clause, climbs out of the steam radiator. He begins to distribute sticky, sugar candy, toy ponies and alphabet blocks (with nothing but A's on them) to the students.

SCRUDGE (aside): I'm doing what the grisly spectres bade,
Yet still their chains are driving me near mad.
Perchance I haven't hit upon the clew;
To still those clanking chains what must I do?

GHOSTS (from above): Call off the test and book report and then
The chains will fall: we'll all be free again.

SCRUDGE: Instead of the test Thursday we'll have a Christmas (no gag) party—on me!

STUDENTS: Merry Christmas to all, and you'll have a truly merry one if you'll stop at your nearest druggist tomorrow and buy a package of Captain's Little Liver Pills! (Curtain rings down amid thunderous applause, leaving Scrudge standing at the window throwing ten dollar bills to the carolers in the street below.)

Sketches in Anticipation

A snug white farmhouse, smoke from a red brick chimney, great snowflakes beginning to cover the bare earth; a long, white North-pointing valley in the Alleghenies;

Miles of gaunt black oil derricks; a hundred thousand acres of cotton plants, purple, frosted; the gently rolling hills of eastern Texas;

A gray, gray sky; the ice-locked shore of Lake Erie from the Terminal Tower in Cleveland;

A Christmas hymn in a little crossroads church, scrub pines, the red clay hills of Georgia;

Tufts of wind-whipped grass on sand dunes along the South Jersey shore;

Royal palms, velvet green grass under a blue sky, a neat white stone building; a great Pan American Clipper landing on the sun-warmed bay at Dinner Key, Miami;

Endless miles of straight, flat concrete highways, the myriad little towns all alike, a thousand locomotives, a million miles of track, the great black mills at South Bend, the El, the old Wrigley Building, Michigan Boulevard, Chicago;

A sprig of miseltoe, laughter, a kiss; couples dancing to sweet slow music, two AM, Anywhere;

Deep drifts along the road; the wild, bare, wind-swept hills of West Virginia;

Sunlight striking a great gold statue atop an office building in Birmingham;

Ten thousand Christmas shoppers; carol singers at Mabley's, a great lighted Christmas tree in Fountain Square; Cincinnati next week;

Icicles on the great gray cliffs along the Hudson; the great black superstructure of the Bear Mountain Bridge;

Twinkling stars on a frosty night; the white light atop the Custom House; a steady stream of traffic on the Cambridge road; Boston seen from Arlington;

A billion lights; five thousand taxis; a great roar of a million shouting voices and ten thousand auto horns; ten tons of paper and confetti; Times Square, New York, Midnight, December 31;

A tall palm and a clump of eucalyptus reflected in a blue lake; white linen suits; children sailing boats; the most beautiful city in America, Orlando;

A drawling voice, two little boys with a firecracker, a young Rebel yell; upper Peachtree street, Atlanta;

A huge turkey; cranberries, mashed potatoes, peas, sweet potatoes, celery, olives, biscuits and homemade jam, a plum pudding; Dad and Mon smiling, happy; contentment; the United States;

A gang of laborers with frosty breath clearing Pennsylvania Avenue, Washington, of snow;

A brilliant sunset across cold, dry cornfields in Indiana;

A healthy group of Mississippi children carrying a huge Christmas basket to the shack of a fatherless family;

A score of red-cheeked skaters warming around a fire beside a moonlit frozen pond somewhere in Connecticut;

Five carloads of carol singers on their way to the home of some sick member of their group; the strains of "Joy to the World"; Philadelphia;

The cozy comfort of a wide warm bed at ten o'clock in the morning, a book to read; Mother bringing breakfast on a tray;

The Santa Marta unloading bananas from Honduras; a flock of ducks alighting on Lake Poncharitrain; holiday crowds along St. Charles and Bienville; New Orleans;

Orchestra music on a car radio; a broad rear seat; the lights of a city below; someone to cuddle;

Midnight Mass at Christmas in a large Roman Catholic Church; the odor of incense, the singing of choir boys, the tinkle of a bell, the lighted Crib, two thousand worshippers on their knees;

Late afternoon in a little Tennessee town; a book to read, a symphony to hear, the smell of cooking drifting in from the kitchen, the kid brother coming in from a snowball fight; Home.

* * * * *

Last Sunday evening within a few hours we heard Nelson Eddy, Lawrence Tibbett singing "De Glory Road", and John Charles Thomas. If you're one of the few who must, for some reason, forgo Ralph Colbert's excellent direction of Handel's "The Messiah", tune in from two to four to the all-Wagner program of the New York Philharmonic Symphony on CBS and the comments of the inimitable Deems Taylor. Tomorrow evening there's Charlie McCarthy and Nelson Eddy at seven, or, if you prefer, the General Motors Symphony. At eight be sure to switch to Columbia for the all-operatic program of the Ford Hour, including the Overture from "Tannhauser", the Intermezzo from "Cavalleria Rusticana", Verdi's magnificent Triumphal March from "Aida", and the brilliant Ride of the Valkyries from Wagner's "Die Walkure". And now, at nine, the Sealtest symphony, consisting of seventy-five members of the Philharmonic, has begun a new series. Don't miss these; If Echo readers are interested Polonius would be glad to include a program of the best in radio music each week as a part of his column. Speak up.

Two Notebooks Reported Lost

Two notebooks have been lost by J. T. Hunt. One is large, three-ringed, baby-blue; the other is a black-bound Theism reading notebook. Any information concerning these gems of literature will be greatly appreciated.

Finally we summed up ample courage to ask our friend his name and nationality.

"Hoot mon and begorra," he replied, "It's me who is Angus O'Riley. Sounds Frenchie doesn't? Tain't though cause I'm Scotch-Irish. Me mither and fither were Scoots but I are so many potatoes that the O'Riley just mashed out in me."

"Well Angus, glad to know you. We're a wee bit tight ourselves. But would you mind telling us how you died?"

"Faith mon and I cawn't. For 'tis me who always had a weak heart. But I will tell you about my life."

He did. A very unusual and interesting story it was about an Irish lad who, disappointed in his fifth love affair, decided to come to America and reform the country by joining the New York police force.

"Thanks," we reiterated, "you're not so dumb yourself."

"Arumph! Right you are. Course I'm no spring chicken any more but—"

Again we wondered. Had he noticed any change in world conditions.

"Why, when I was a lad," O'Riley sjeaking, "we had to go out and make our own living. But now all you have to do is go to college (the first four years are always the hardest) and moonshine. Why, I tell you the world is going to the bow-wows. Arf! Arf!"

And could Angus, business tycoon that he was, explain the faults of the economic and social affairs of our government? He vociferated:

"As for the social affairs we need more "As-You-Love Hers'. Economically speaking, what this country needs is a good, big eight cent nickel. Then you could buy a three cent newspaper and still have the nickel for a chocolate cone! And I'm going to tell Mr. Morgenthau, too!"

"Just one more question Angio. What do you honestly think of Maryville college and her professors and rules?"

"Why I think—"

Fate always intervenes. Or if it wasn't fate it was those Egyptian Biology assistants:

"All right, you. Time to close shop."

"Yes, mummy. We were just getting ready to leave. Have a good meal, Angus, and don't take life too seriously."

Only a groan.

THE WAGABOND

Pious Scotland Donaldson, prexy of the lowest class, recently recovered from his bashfulness and quietitude long enough to apply for membership in the Ministerial association and to take the strenous Entrance Examination. Quoting from his exam paper:

Ques: What religious instruction have you received?

Ans: None.

Ques: By whom was it given?

Ans: By the minister.

Rev. Donaldson failed the exam.

* * * *

We were wondering what was going to happen in the future lives of the three quietist scholars on the campus: Willum Mooney, Miles Diles, and Alex "Y-Store" Stevenson (ad.) So we looked into our tea leaves and found—

In the year 1960. Three men, weary of the world's clamor and strife returned to Maryville to seek shelter from the weary's of the world. To state it simply: they became hermits.

So they got Jack together and built a hut. Time marched on. All was peaceful and quiet and solitudinous. At the end of the first year after a few months of pre-thought Bill startled his companions by saying, "It's a fine life we're leading here."

Another year passed and Miles, inspired by the brilliant words of his co-recluse remarked, "It is."

For the third straight time a year passed (must be a coincidence) and then Russell, disgusted at the constant chatter of his fellow hermits broke in with, "If I can't get peace and quiet here, I'll go back to the world!"

The Student Volunteers will join The Y. W. C. A. this Sunday evening in sponsoring the Fireside program in Pearsons.

OMITTED LAST WEEK

The names of Harold Austin, assistant stage manager, and Roland Tapp, assistant electrician, for the staging of Pride and Prejudice were omitted in last week's Echo.

Officers Installed

The following were installed as officers of Alpha Sigma at the society's last meeting: Ed Gillingham, president; James Whitt, vice president; Howard Wickmund, secretary; Bill Young, Rusty Wicklund, Bruce Morgan, program secretaries; Arthur Byrne, Steve Amos, critics.

Don Cross, 37, has returned to his home in Maryville after playing professional baseball with the Cordelle (Ga.) team, which won the pennant in the Georgia-Florida league. Cross signed with the Atlanta team, and was farmed out to Cordelle for the season.

present at Miami university and Western college, the host schools. The program will include daily worship services, directed by Bishop William Scarlett, of Missouri; morning commissions to study the problems of campus life, afternoon projects in such things as music and drama, and evening discussions led by Edwin E. Aubrey, John Bennett, Rose Terlin, Howard Thurman, and Dr. Henry P. Van Dusen.

The main purpose of the Assembly is to discover new and improved policies and programs for the Christian Association movement, locally, regionally, and nationally. The plan is that experienced men and women will present the problems, and the delegates will attempt to answer the questions that arise. Maryville's delegates were selected on the basis of the use they will be in guiding the activities of the associations they represent.

On The Bench

-with-

THE SPORTS EDITOR

Gone—But Not Forgotten

It seems as if every now and then the honorable sports editor takes a vacation from his regular post. This week his excuse is business—Oh well, such is life. Needs be it that someone must take up the pen and fill in the empty position left by our most worthy one. So this week if "On the Bench with the Sports Editor" is not up to its usual par, don't be after Mr. Byrne's scalp.

Basketball Sidelights

The first game of the basketball season was played last Thursday evening, with the Scotties showing lots of spirit and pep. A nice crowd was out too, that always helps the team out a lot. So let's keep up the good work, fans, and help cheer the Scotties on to more victories.

We cannot help but notice with pride the way some of our freshmen played. Several of them turned in fine performances, let's hope they can keep up the good work. We are going to need them before the season is over.

Did you see the way Lefty Hernandez was sinking those long shots? And "Flash" Magill can still swish those one-hand push shots.

Some of the bad points—poor defense, easy shots missed, too many fumbles. Oh well—all of these come in any game, and this is only the first game of the season. We should give the boys credit, Knoxville had a pretty tough team here for the boys.

Flash——

We just got the news that Carson-Newman was defeated by the Knoxville Y team that played here last Thursday evening. The Carson-Newman Eagles have always been the jinx team for Maryville. If we can whip the team that whipped the team, and etc., it should mean something. We hope so.

Merry Xmas

Well with everything out of the way, we can take this opportunity to wish every reader (if there are any) of the sports page Merrie Christmas.—To all of you athletes, be sure that you keep in training over the Christmas holidays.

Matmen Prepare To Defend Title

Only Three Lettermen Report To Squad

The close of the third week of wrestling practice under the tutelage of Coach Bob Thrower finds a squad of twenty-five preparing for a defense of state laurels won last winter for the seventh straight time.

As yet only three lettermen are on hand from the teams of previous years.

Fred Tulloch, sophomore, who made a very good showing in his debut as a grunter last season, is the only experienced heavyweight at this time. His only running mate is Howard Dizney, 215 pound freshman from Harlan, Kentucky. Kept out of the heavy mat work since football season with a badly cut hand, suffered in the Teachers game, Tulloch is not expected to be in shape before the first meet, to be held here January 15, with the Knoxville YMCA team.

In the 175 pound class, Obie Jenkins, who saw some service last year, returns to the fold as the outstanding candidate for that position.

Jim Renfro, Scot captain in both football and wrestling this year, will fill either the 155 or 165 pound spot.

The only other letterman returning is Edgar Meares, who was out of school last season. He will fill in at the 135 or 145 pound post, depending on where he is needed most.

The other positions on the team are still wide open and must be filled by freshmen and new prospects.

If all these later additions come through there is at least an even chance of repetition as Tennessee champs in 1938.

Point System Begins Basketball Season

On Thursday the three groups of women's point system elected captains and managers for their basketball teams. Hazel Eddins was chosen by the junior-seniors; Lyn Tyndall by the sophomores; and Anna Lee Storey by the freshmen as captains to lead their teams in the approaching basketball tournament among the three teams.

As managers there are Sally Botto for junior-seniors, Elizabeth Stone for sophomores, and Betsy Gaultney for the freshmen.

The teams will be picked sometime this coming week, and the games begin after the Christmas holidays.

Tentative Swimming Schedule Announced

Includes Meets With The University of Tennessee . . . And Kentucky . . .

January 14: University of Tennessee, here.
January 29: University of Kentucky, here.
February 4: Tusculum college, there.
February 19: Tusculum college, here.
February 26: University of Tennessee, there.
March 3: University of Kentucky, there.
March 4: East Kentucky Teachers, there.
March 5: Morehead Teachers, there.

All of the meets on the above schedule are tentative, up till now, with the exception of the two meets with the University of Tennessee.

Scotties Select All SMC Eleven

There is no secret as to the Maryville Highlanders' choice of the best performers in the Smoky Mountain Loop this season.

Dominant on the All-SMC team picked Tuesday by members of the Maryville Football team are the Scots themselves.

In filling out a questionnaire circulated by a Knoxville newspaper, the boys all placed at least four Maryville men on their selections. Some included as many as six of their team mates.

Aside from a possibility of team loyalty, the main reason for the inclusion of a top-heavy local representation is the theory advanced by Coach Honaker, that "the boys, like most of the coaches, don't know just who they are playing against most of the time, so they have to pick names they know."

But, maybe there just weren't any better men in the conference at their positions than Burris, Odell, Tulloch, Renfro, Proffitt, Ethereidge, et al.

The players receiving most votes were:

Hale, of King, and Renfro, centers; Monday, of Carson-Newman, and Proffitt, guards; Gavlak, of King, and Tulloch, tackles; McClellan, Milligan, Johnson, of King, and Odell and Etheredge, ends; Burris, quarter (unanimous); Hughes, Allison, of King, and Wilson, of Appalachian, halfbacks; and Howington, of Milligan, and Clark, of Teachers, fullbacks.

Honakermen Open Season With 42-34 Win Over Knoxville Y.M.C.A.

Scotties Show Offensive Power As Magill and Hernandez Lead Scoring

In the first game of the season, the Maryville cagers turned back a fighting Knoxville Y.M.C.A. team 42-34.

The Scotties showed the visitors a strong offense, scoring readily from both the field and under the basket.

The Y. team proved to be no easy victim for the Maryville quintet, although outscored in the first half, they came back strong in the third quarter, threatening several times to take the lead. The third quarter was one of those see-saw affairs, with both teams scoring at will. The Scotties defense tightened in the fourth quarter, and they managed to outplay the men from Knoxville.

Moore, of Knoxville, and Howard Magill, Scottie forward, were the high scorers of the game, each of them netting six field goals and one free-throw for a total of 13 points. "Lefty" Hernandez, veteran Maryville guard, came next, scoring five field goals for a total of 10 points.

Hernandez and Magill were the two stars for Maryville. Lefty Hernandez was a stone wall on the defense, and he kept the visitors on the edge all of the time with his long shots. Mac Magill was the Scots sparkplug. His flashy playing and spectacular shooting kept the game on ice most of the time.

Several of the reserves played well for their first showing in varsity competition.

This was the first showing of the Honakermen this season. Although we only have four lettermen back for the year, the team promises to give the SMC conference a quintet of high calibre.

Lineups:

Maryville		Knoxville Y. M. C. A.
Magill 13	f.	4 Brient
W. Baird 7	f.	4 Foster
J. Odell	c.	13 Moore
Etheredge 2	g.	2 McCullough
Hernandez 10	g.	7 Redcliff

Substitutions:

Maryville—Morrow, McCammon 4, B. Baird 4, Black, Russell 4.

Knoxville Y—McCullough, Keys, Martin 2, Kelhem 2.

Scottie Scrubs Win Preliminary

In the preliminary game Thursday night, the Maryville scrubs turned back the Southern Methodists of Alcoa to the tune of 17-8.

Boydson Baird, Scottie guard, was the high scorer of the game, amassing 6 points for the evening.

Scottie Cagers To Play Tuesday

Next Tuesday, at 8 p. m., the Scotties will play the Gulf Refiners of Maryville in an exhibition game. Several of the Refiner's players came from the college basketball squad, and the game ought to be interesting,

The preliminary game will be between Maryville high school, and the second team of the Scots. The preliminary starts at 7 p. m.

ECHOES OF THE PAST

December 16, 1927

MEETINGS—The leader of the fifty-second series of February meetings will be the Rev. Ralph Waldo Lloyd, of the class of 1915 and now the pastor of the Edgewood Presbyterian church in Pittsburgh, Pa.

While in college he was prominent in campus affairs, scholastically, athletically, and socially—He was known to his friends on the hill as "Rabbi."

SPORTS—Fencing will probably be added to the college curriculum next semester.

• • • •

MUSIC—On Sunday evening, December 17, the Vesper choir will present a Christmas cantata, "The Manger and the Star," by Stults.

December 14, 1917

PATRIOTISM—The Maryville men of Company B of the 117th Regiment sent a check for $115 to the Maryville college girl who gave to the Y. M. C. A. war fund the $7.00 which she had been saving to pay for necessary dental work.

POSTPONEMENT— Both Athenian and Alpha Sigma Literary societies have called off their annual midwinter productions, because some of the principal participants have left college to enter the army.

ALUMNUS—Captain Lycurgas Leven Stanford, who for several years was the oldest living graduate of Maryville college, died at his home in Hamilton, Georgia, on October 5, 1917. He graduated from here in 1854.

tables. The rooms in Memorial Hall were once furnished by the college, but hereafter the young men must provide any article that may be missing."

Administrative rules were something of what they are today, but there were only ten then. Smoking was enough to exclude a student from living in Memorial hall. Students were not permitted to engage in dramatic entertainments, and had to secure special permission before engaging in any entertainment outside the college. Students were not allowed to patronize the Sunday train—no student would be received on the Sabbath.

The new heating system was so noticeable that it occupied some space in several catalogues of different years. Much explanation is given as to the way the system operates, and the fact that it was installed at an expense of $10,000.

Improvement! "Among the improvements made are a system of water works, by which water from a stream passing through the College grounds is carried throughout the different buildings; and the fitting up of a number of baths in the two dormitories. Students now do not have to carry water or fuel up flights of steps."

In the catalogue of the next year, the college department had 121 students, and the preparatory department, 217; making a total of 338 students. In 1904, there were 484 students.

There are no noticeable changes in the catalogue of 1896-97 except perhaps for the following rule: "all unexcused delinquencies are registered; and when the number amounts to fifteen, notice thereof is given to the student, and to his parents or guardians. When the sum of unexcused delinquencies and demerits amounts to 25, the student ceases to be a member of the College. A delinquency is a failure to perform any college duty."

In the 1904 catalogue the fall term begins September 6 and closes December 23; the winter term begins January 3, and closes March 17; and this spring term begins March 20, and closes May 30. The climate, a new factor in the Maryville bulletin, is that "young people from the north and other sections are greatly benefited in health by a year in Maryville, and many take their entire course here."

Adopted studious thoughts and ways,
He crammed his Turret Top with fact,
But never learned how one should act.

It's simple arithmetic that the more cars General Motors sells the greater this organization grows. And the solid fact back of that growth is this: General Motors cars must continually offer more in terms of extra value to win those sales. It is only because General Motors is great that it can maintain the research and improvement program responsible for such modern betterments as the Turret Top, the Unisteel Body, No Draft Ventilation, Knee-Action and advanced Hydraulic Brakes.

Hunter Announces Course Offerings Schedule Changes

New Courses Arranged In Schedule For Second Semester

Dr. E. R. Hunter, director of curriculum, today announced the following changes in course offerings and in schedules for the second semester.

French 250, French Composition, will be given again in the second semester at the "c" period; Miss Wilkinson.

History 310, The Teaching of History and the Social Sciences in the High School, is offered for the first time this year. It is scheduled at the "e" period; Miss Jewell. This course meets the needs of those who wish to qualify for the teaching of history and other social subjects in states which call for a special methods course in the subject to be taught.

Latin 3 and 4, Fundamentals of Language Study, although being offered now for the second time, is mentioned here, because it is especially designed to meet the needs of students who have difficulty with language study. It meets six days a week at the "d" period and carries six hours of credit; Miss Bassett. This may be counted for credit when followed by a year of Latin, Latin 11-12, or when followed by two years of successful work in another language.

Home Economics 318, Housing Problems, will not be given this year, but is planned for next year. Home Economics 320, Institutional Management, will be given next semester. This is a continuation of the course bearing the same title, Home Economics 317, now being given. A third section of Home Economics 102, Freshman Foods, will be provided at the "c" period. Miss Meiselwitz will have both of these additional courses.

English 322, Twentieth Century Literature, completes the series of 7 period courses intended to survey the development of English literature from the beginning to the present. Material on poetry, drama, short story, and novel will be read. This course is given at the "a" period, Mr. Hunter.

Griffitts Elected Chemist Fellow

Prof. Honored by American Institute

Dr. Fred Albert Griffitts was recently elected to the American Institute of Chemists as a Fellow, one of the highest memberships in the society.

The Society admits only those qualified by education, experience, competancy, and character, having high principles of professional conduct for the Chemist. To qualify as a Fellow at least six years of collegiate and post graduate training in chemistry or chemical engineering is required, with at least two years of which training must be of advanced nature. Five years of experience and responsibility and approval by the Council are also necessary.

Most of the members of the Institute are either PhD.'s or have the equivalent of such a degree.

Dr. Hunter To Speak At College Vespers On Sunday Evening

Dr. Edwin R. Hunter, director of curriculum, will speak at the College Vesper service tomorrow evening.

The College string quartet, composed of Otto Pflanze, first violin; Mabel Longmire, second violin; Bob Lucero, cello; and John Guinter, violinist, will play the old English air "Drink to Me Only with Thine Eyes." Thelma Ritzman will play Donzon's "Offertoire" as a flute solo. "Cavatina" by Raff will be offered as a violin solo by Annabell Voight.

The College choir will use "Joyful, Joyful, We Adore Thee" by Beethoven as the processional and "Jesus Thou Divine Companion" by Van Dyke as the recessional. For the anthem they will sing "Nunc Dimittis" by Arkhaugelsky.

Stevensons Leave On Three Months Cruise Of World

Several Interesting Side Trips Planned By Couple

Boarding the S.S. Reliance in New York Sunday, Dr. W. P. Stevenson, College rector, and Mrs. Stevenson embarked on a cruise around the world. The trip, which will take them through the Mediterranean and the South Seas, will last about three months.

Dr. and Mrs. Stevenson made the trip to New York by train and were met there by a son, Mr. William Stevenson, and his daughter, who saw them off. They expect to return by plane from Los Angeles, rather than complete the voyage through the Panama Canal.

The first landing outside of New York will be the Maderia Islands. From there the voyage will take them to Morocco, the French Riveria, and Italy.

Students Report On Assembly At Miami University

Three Attended Christian Association Meeting Dec. 27 To Jan. 1

The three students sent by the college Y.M. and Y.W.C.A. to the National Assembly of Student Christian Associations held December 27 to January 1 on the campus of Miami university at Oxford, Ohio, will report on the convention at a combined meeting of the two Christian associations February 6. Helen Bewley, Warren Ashby, and Marvin Minear went from their homes to the meting immediately after Christmas as delegates elected by the cabinets of the two organizations.

About 1400 college and university students from every state in the union and 20 foreign countries met on the Ohio campus to discuss the concerns and aims of the Student Christian Associations for the next two years, at which time another such conference will be held.

The program of the assembly opened each morning with corporate worship Most of the mornings were taken up in study at various commissions. From the 11 available, Miss Bewley chose "The Christian Group on the Campus;" Ashby attended the group discussing "New Relationships of Men, Women, and the Family;" and Minear participated in the discussion on "The Student and Campus Living." The afternoons were spent in participating in

Students Commence Work For Alexander Contest

Students planning to compete in the T. T. Alexander Prize contest have submitted their names to Dr. H. E. Orr, and are beginning work on their orations. The manuscripts must be in by March 15, and preliminaries will be held within ten days after the manuscripts are in. The date for the finals has not been set as yet. The two students appearing in the finals will receive the prize of $80.00, which is to be divided accordingly between the first and second winner. Students who are entering the contest are: Malcolm Brown, Robert Cusworth, Samuel Fleming, Floyd Loperfido, William McGill, William Mooney, Clifford Proctor, Ralph Reed, Carl Teagin, Edward Thomas, Walter West. John Williams.

Varsity Debate Squad Works On Nat'l Question

Many Tournaments Included In Schedule of '38 Debaters

The Varsity debate squad has been meeting every evening for the past week in preparation for the 1938 season, working on the national Pi Kappa Delta questions. Resolved: That the National Labor Relations Board should be empowered to enforce arbitration in all industrial disputes.

The members of the Varsity squad are Warren Ashby, George Hunt, Arnold Kramer, William Lewis, Otto Pflanze, Clifford Proctor, Harwell Proffitt, James Whitt, Curtmarie Brown, Sara Lee Hellums, Georgia Ingle, Helen Maguire, Louise Proffitt, Miriam Waggoner and Arda Walker.

Several tournaments will be included in the 1938 Varsity schedule. The most important is the national Pi Kappa Delta tournament which is to be held April 18 to 22 at Topeka, Kansas. As in previous years, the squad will attend the South Atlantic Forensic tournament at High Point, North Carolina, on March 3-5.

The Smoky Mountain Women's tournament at Virginia Intermont college on February 19, and the Smoky Mountain Men's tournament on February 26 are the first important engagements.

Only two home debates have been scheduled so far. Erskine college from Due West, South Carolina, will be the guests of Maryville on February 22, and Spring Hill college from Spring Hill, Alabama, will visit Maryville on March 1.

Students Attend Knoxville Series

Kathryn Meisle Appears On Artists' Program

Approximately 50 students and faculty from Maryville, attended the Knoxville Artist series Wednesday evening at the First Methodist church, Knoxville.

The artist was Miss Kathryn Meisle, who made her professional debut with the Minneapolis Orchestra in 1921, and two years later was engaged to sing leading contralto roles with the Chicago Civic Opera company. Miss Meisle has had not only a successful operatic career, but has also been called the "Ideal Festival Star," with appearances at the Ann Arbor, North Shore, Lindsborg, Spartanbuurg, Westchester, Cincinnati, Springfield, and Newark festivals. Recently she was voted on honorary member of the National Federation of Music Clubs and has been awarded the degree of Doctor of Music by the University of Southern California.

Maryville Profs Publish Several Articles Lately

Papers Written by Hunter, Campbell, And Hussey

Two Maryville professors and one former professor have recently had articles published in some of the best known literary journals. They are Dr. Edwin R. Hunter, Dr. Claude A. Campbell, and Dr. George B. Hussey.

Dr. Hunter's paper appeared in the October issue of the Shakespeare Association Bulletin. It was entitled "Macbeth as a Morality." The head of the English department had read this paper before the faculty club at one time and it was published after having been re-worked several times. It is in one installment in the Bulletin, which is one of the most important literary journals since it is the only one which carries a Shakespeare bibliography.

The ninth issue of the Publication of the East Tennessee Historical society contained Dr. Campbell's article. He wrote on "Banking and Finance in Tennessee During the Depression of 1837." The associate professor of economics dealt with conditions which arose in Tennessee as a result of President Andrew Jackson's veto of the act rechartering the National Bank and which resulted in the establishment of many state banks.

Dr. Hussey, who was once head of the language department of the College, had his article published in the October issue of Classical Philology. It was entitled "Defense of the Readings of BT in some passages of Plato's "Statesmen," and is a text or criticism of the work.

Hunter Attends Folklore Meeting

Represents Tenn .Society At Yale University

Dr. E. R. Hunter, director of curriculum and head of the department of English, attended the meeting of the American Folklore society held at Yale university during the holidays. Dr. Hunter represented the Tennessee Folklore society, of which he is secretary and editor of the Bulletin.

The meeting, which lasted for two days, was devoted to papers and discussions on folklore throughout the country. Dr. Hunter presented a report of the work of the local society.

One of the highlights of the program was the talk by Dr. Franz Boaz, eminent folklorist and a former head of the department of Anthropology at Columbia university, on "Fifty Years of Folklore Study in America."

Dr. Hunter spent the rest of the week in New York, witnessing several outstanding offerings of the present dramatic and musical season.

Reporter Gets Several Surprises In Going Through Maryville Museum

By OTTO PFLANZE

Tucked away in a corner of the library, Maryville has a splendid collection of 1,355 museum pieces that few students know anything about. There are books dating from the sixteenth century, idols from far off China, Indian relics, and a thousand other things of interest.

Dottie Haines, assistant to museum keeper, Miss Hallock, took me through the museum Thursday, and I was considerably surprised at the contents. In one glass-topped case we found a large Bible. I turned its yellowed pages and thought, "Hm, must have been printed back in 1800 some time." And then out of a clear sky, Dottie, in her best guide-book tone observed, "That Bible was printed in 1521." Imagine the astonishment of a poor gull who hadn't handled anything older than Grandpa's snuff box.

There is a fine collection of Chinese objects. One thing which caused me no little surprise was a shoe three inches long. Dottie explained that it was made for the bound feet of a Chinese woman. There are also a number of idols like one sees pictured in the National Geographic. One lingers longest, however, over a number of exquisitely carved wooden figures depicting Chinese scenes. They are so delicate it seems impossible that human hands could have made them.

Among other objects too numerous to mention, the museum has a collection of weapons. Two long murderous looking spears, a bow, and some arrows come from the Phillipines. An Indian war club with the hair of some tribal foe still clinging to its edge is a product of the Cherokees who used to inhabit East Tennessee. By far the most interesting, however, is a long, clumsy gun labeled "Boxer gun." The weapon was used in the Boxer Rebellion. It's so large and heavy that it must have taken two men to fire it.

A large section of the museum is given over to a geological display. There used to be a geology department in connection with the college, and it had a large collection of specimans. When the department was discontinued, these specimans were dumped into three huge boxes and their identification lost. Stone Norton and Gene Crane, the boys you see working in that cubby hole next to the Chilhowean office in the afternoon, are having no little trouble sorting them out again.

Barera, Italian Violinist, Gives Concert in Voorhees Chapel, January 21, 8:15

ORLANDO BARERA

Young Artist Makes Second Consecutive Tour In America

GIESEN ACCOMPANIES

Tickets To Be Put On Sale Again Wednesday Morning

The coming of Orlando Barera to Maryville college on next Friday evening brings to Maryville music lovers the rare opportunity of hearing one of the rising young musicians of the day. Almost unknown until a year ago, Barera has already won the praise of music critics in the larger cities of the east and continues on his 1938 tour with his recital in Voorhees chapel.

Choosing for his program selections from Beethoven, Lalo, Pizzetti, Pilati and the immortal Paganini, the young Italian artist will present a program of rare balance. Barera will be accompanied by Hubert Giesen.

Orlando Barera was born in Ferrara, Italy, just 30 years ago. At an early age he showed much musical ability, and his rise was so prodigious that he was graduated from the Conservatoire of Bologna at the age of 15. He spent the next few years in private study under various tutors throughout Europe. When, less than a decade ago, he went on the concert stage, his first two recitals in Rome marked him as one of the coming musical geniuses. Later, his triumphs in concert made his conquest of Europe complete.

Although he played before the most critical of audiences in Berlin, Vienna, The Hague, and Paris, critics had only praise for his artistry.

Late in 1936, he turned his attention to the new world. Unknown when he reached American shores, skeptical

Symphony, Band Resume Practice

Little Symphony Prepares For Annual Concert In Spring

The college Little Symphony and the Concert band both resumed rehearsels this last week. The two organizations, under the direction of Ralph Colbert, will hold regular rehearsels weekly in preparation for public performances.

The Little Symphony of 30 pieces is again at work on a program of classics to be presented at their annual concert this spring. Beethoven's "Egmont" overture and Strauss's "Tales From the Vienna Woods" are being prepared, in addition to one of the Brahms symphonies. The orchestra will also provide the music for the light opera "Iolanthe," to be presented next semester by the combined glee clubs. This popular Gilbert and Sullivan creation is the successor to the "Mikado" which won high favor and a presentation in Knoxville last year. Dates for both the concert and the glee club presentation are as yet tentative.

The Concert band has been organized from the field band that represented Maryville on the football field last fall. Numbering some 40 pieces, the personnel will meet in future rehearsel periods to work on a program for their annual concert, to be presented next semester. In addition to their concert performance, they will participate in the May day program, as they did last year.

Dr. Lloyd To Attend College Association Meetings In Chicago

President Ralph W. Lloyd will attend three college association meetings in Chicago next week. He will be present at the assemblies of the Presbyterian College Union, the Association of American Colleges, and the National Conference of Church-Related Colleges. He is vice chairman of the latter organization.

On the way to Chicago President Llyod will deliver a sermon Sunday at Western Collelge, Oxford, Ohio. He will also address a Fellowship dinner at the Presbyterian seminary while in Chicago.

Church Entertains Students

Students who are affiliated members of the Presbyterian church in Maryville will be the guests in the homes of the regular members Sunday. Women students of the College have permission to be away until 6:00 that afternoon. This social activity has been arranged so that the students may become better acquainted with the town members of the church.

NOTICE

All applications for loans for the second semester must be in the Student-Help office by this evening.

Freshmen Debaters Hold Two Contests

Tryouts To Be Held After Examinations

Two debates on the question of the unicameral legislature were held in the freshman debate classes this week under the supervision of Verton M. Queener, instructor in debate and public speaking.

In the e period class which meets on Monday, Robert Short and Conrad Oswald upheld the affirmative against Marjorie Bennett and Carol Hatcher. Otto Pflanze acted as critic judge for this debate, and the decision was awarded to the affirmative. In the d period class meeting on Tuesday, David Talmage and Paul Brown, representing the affirmative, won a decision over Ivan Blake and Glenn Rogers of the negative. Helen Maguire was critic judge for this contest.

The question is stated in full: Resolved, that the several states should adopt unicameral legislatures.

Several more inter-class debates are scheduled for the next three weeks, and the freshman tryouts will be held immediately after final examinations.

Waggoner Speaks At Insurance Meeting In Nashville January 10

Leland T. Waggoner, senior from Maryville, Tennessee, was one of the main speakers at the annaul field meeting of the Tennessee representatives of the Mutual Life Insurance Co., held in Nashville, January 10. The subject of Waggoner's address was "Looking to Life Insurance As a Future Career". Other speakers at the meeting were Leland's father, A. B. Waggoner, G A Sattam, supervisor of agencies for the United States, and J. Roger Hull, assistant supervisor of agencies for the United States.

Although Mr. Waggoner has been with the Mutual Life Insurance Co. for three years, he is still the youngest representative in the state of Tennessee. This meeting also marks the first time that both father and son have spoken on the same program.

JAPAN AND CHINA

We have read so much about China and wicked Japan that our convictions are practically prejudices by now. Occasionally we read something, however, that although it doesn't seem to justify Japan's invasion, gives us a new slant.

A nationwide poll of opinion as to whether the United States shall act as "a policeman in the Orient" is being initiated in the current issue of the Pamphleteer.

Warning America against "again becoming a volunteer fireman for European interests"—as in the World War—the pamphlet urges the citizens of this country to "examine both sides of the situation instead of wildly approving the one side and blindly condemning the other," in the present juncture, and "above all, let us carefully consider our own interests in the Orient and act accordingly."

"While American sympathy may well go out to the Chinese people, it must be understood that the plight of China is largely due to her irresponsible government, run by war lords, and to the selfish interests of foreigners. The Chinese cost of armaments consumes 90 percent of the net revenues of "poor China" while in the meantime European interests control her largest ports, her customs receipts and most of her trade and banking.

"Before shedding crocodile tears with other foreign nations which have themselves been the principal aggressors against the independence of China, Americans are urged to recall that we are largely responsible for the modernization and progress of Japan, since the first treaty negotiated by this country and Japan by Commodore Perry in 1854 opened up her ports to foreign trade.

"Japan buys normally from America more than China and all the Orient put together. She buys more in this country than all of South America, almost as much as the European continent. She pays cash for her purchases and owes America no war debts.

"The developments of the wheat and lumber growing states of the West, and the cotton-growing South, are closely bound up with the developments and progress of the entire Orient.

"Nothing could be more suitable to European colony-owning nations than a rupture in the natural bond of interest between the United States and Japan," according to the Pamphleteer. "It would again make Europe supreme and safe in the Orient at the expense of both America and Japan. And it woud not be the solution of the problems of "poor China."

"China needs a helping hand, but for her own sake, this must be the medicine of a firm and constructive hand."

MESSIAH APPRECIATION

The success of a production of any kind depends not only upon the actual performers but upon numerous other workers whose unobtrusive work is often unsung.

To avoid such seeming ingratitude in connection with the annual "Messiah" production, we give praise to Miss Gertrude Meislewitz, head of the home economics department for the beautiful chapel decoration which was her creation.

Russell Hirch deserves thanks for the professional job of announcing on the broadcast.

All agree that the blue and gray robes, lent by Mrs. Katheryn McMurry, manager of the College Maid Shop, did much to make the whole affair seemed well-turned out.

Someone always has to do the drudgery, which this time fell to Max Cornelius and his assistants, John Fisher, Harold Austin, Bill McGill, Bill Garris, and Glenn Young.

Another thing appreciated is the effective ushering of Harry Rice, who was assisted by George Felknor, Allan Hinkleman, Alfred Davies, Bob Gillespie, Clyde Powell, Bruce Walters, Walter West, Fred Rhody, John Ballinger, Harold Copeland, John Lancaster, and Clement Hahn.

Fits and Fizzles

By FRED RHODY

The Official Life of a Japanese Secretary of State

"Morning, Miss Teehee Yoyo, this all the mail? Of course you've already thrown the advertising circulars and the protests from the foreign governments into the waste basket? When you've read one you've read 'em all. If they'd only put pictures or something in them! Has this morning's batch of routine apologies been mailed out yet? Be sure you send them to everybody today use the Atlas. Greenland didn't get one yesterday and her ambassador has been sitting outside since daybreak waiting to raise a fuss about the slight. Ho hum, things are dull, aren't they?

"Take a letter, Miss Yoyo: 'Dear General Toyohobo Please committ an unfortunate mistake today by sinking a battleship or so, as I'd like some interesting reading in the papers for my long subway ride home tonight from the office. P.S. You'll find a surprise in your pay envelope next Friday.'

"Another letter: 'To whom it may concern....So sorry about the stupid blunder which is about to result in the sinking of one of your ships. But you know how impulsive boys are. Let us know if you're mad and we'll send you our super-special apology, form K32M, reserved for the gravest international crises. We can also show you a very fine line of black-bordered sympathy cards expressing very sweet sentimens; or perhaps you are interested in our minature Liberty Bells, Betsy Ross flags, Independence Halls and other novelities which will go like wild-ifre in your dime stores. Send for our free catalogue, merely inclosing a few tons of scrap iron.'

"Telephone call for me, Miss Teehee, from my wife? 'Er---u...yes, my dear. It is with great regret that I confess that by mistake I entered the gambling hall last nigh... instead of the cabinet building as I fully intended. I am deeply shocked at this grave error, and the following steps will be taken to insure against a repitition of such an occurrence: first, the gambling hall will be padlocked; second, a gambling room will be installed in the cabinet building. Bye, dear.'

"Mmmm, a letter from the government of Goochy severing diplomatic relations with us. Miss Teehee, take a memorandum to me: 'Dear sir... Stick tongue out when passing Goochy ambassador's house tonight.' Take a poem, Miss Yoyo: 'Goochy's mad and I'm glad, but this is what we've got to do: Apologize with tearful eyes, then sink another ship or two.'

"I'm going to nap now, Miss Yoyo. If any brush salesmen or U.S. diplomats come to the door tell them we already have some of whatever they're selling. Show them the pile of stern protests in the attic. Wake me at ten, Miss Teehee; the secretary of war is coming to nap with me."

man...Byron White, the All-American halfback on the University of Colorado team this year who is also a Phi Beta Kappa, was elected last week to a third top honor, a Rhodes scholarship. Nearest approach to such all-round superiority within our memory at Maryville have been Louie Krainock, Archie Pieper, Jim Proffitt. Speaking of Rhodes scholarships, there's an excellent article in the front of the January Scribner's that will comfort those of us who fail to qualify.

music...The number of people who expressed interest in a weekly reminder of the best in radio music is enheartening. Those who cannot understand or appreciate fine music are just missing something; find out from Deem[s] Taylor in his catchy little book "Of Men and Music." If you missed Verdi's "Il Trovatore" last Saturday sung by the Metropolitan or Saint-Saens' "Danse Macabre" played by both the NBC Symphony under Toscanini and the Ford Symphony under Fritz Reiner last weekend, you are just poorer than those who did hear them.

calendar...The following program gives just an indication of the excellent music that can be yours this weekend for a twist of the dial. Hearing Fritz Reiner's name Sunday evening, by the way, made us homesick for the evenings we heard the Cincinnati Symphony from our usher's seat on the steep balcony steps of Emery Auditorium. Nor will we forget the name of Reiner's assistant conductor of the Cincinnati orchestra, Vladimir Bakaleinikoff. It's fun pronouncing.

12:55 Puccini's "La Boheme"; Metropolitan Opera Company
9:00 NBC Symphony Orchestra; Arturo Toscanini conducting sunday

1:00 Magic Key; symphony under direction of Frank Black
2:00 New York Philharmonic-Symphony; George Enesco, violin soloist, conductor; Deems Taylor, commentator

2:00 Rochester Civic Orchestra
8:00 Philadelphia Symphony; Eugene Ormandy, conductor

books...And while we're being culture-conscious and particularly obnoxious to the illiterate we might do a bit of thumbnail reviewing of the new books. By all means read Lin Yutang's "The Importance of Living." Among other wise sayings Dr. Lin states that "the aim of education or culture is merely the development of good taste in knowledge and good form in conduct. The cultured man is...the one who likes and dislikes the right things."

If you like advenure and romance you'll find Stuart Cloete's new novel of the great Boer trek in South Africa, "The Turning Wheels" excellent reading. V. Sackville-West's new "Pepita" we found tiresome, in spite of the selection by the Books-of-the-Month club. Prospective M.D. or not, you'll enjoy two recent books by eminent doctors; Victor Heiser's world touring and curing in "An American Doctor's Odyssey," and Robert T. Morris' fearless, revealing "Fifty Year a Surgeon." There are so many copies of Van Loon's "The Art" about that there's not much excuse for not having at least dabbled in it. A general concensus of all the "best books" lists of the year would probably find Kenneth Roberts' excellent "Northwest Passage" at the top of the fiction list and Van Wyck Brooks' "The Flowering of New England" at the top of the non-fiction works of the past year. The indefatigable Major Rogers in the former volume is a character you will never forget. And to read again of Thoreau, Emerson, Longfellow, Holmes, Lowell, Hawthorne, and the other names that have made American literary history in the beautiful language of Mr. Brooks, in his sympathetic manner, is an experience no one should forego.

Dr. Tarwater To Speak In Chapel Wednesday

Dr. Olover R. Tarwater will speak Wednesday morning at the regular chapel worship service. Dr. Tarwater is pastor of the Maryville Methodist Episcopal church, and is active in the program of the local Methodist conference. He is one of the most popular ministers in Maryville.

Last Wednesday morning the service was addressed by Dr. J. T. Warren, president of Carson-Newman college. Other speakers will be announced as they are decided upon.

West Speaks At Athenian

The Athenian Literary society will have a program devoted to wrestling Saturday evening. Walter West will talk on Maryville's past records in the wrestling field. The names of those who will represent Maryville on Saturday night will be given, and the names of their oponents, with a little resume about each.

Ruth Mack and Zula Vance will entertain with several piano duets.

McClelland Will Lead YMCA Forum Tomorrow

At the weekly meeting of the Y.M.C.A. Sunday afternoon Dr. Frank D. McClelland will lead a discussion on the question, "Does college weaken or strengthen my religious faith?" The time of the meeting has been changed to 1:00 since the former time of 12:45 proved to be unsatisfactory.

Musicians Entertain Theta Women Tonight

The Trumpeteers composed of Ralph Reed, Harold Austin, and Sam Cornelius will be a special feature of Theta Epsilon's program Saturday evening. Other numbers will include readings by Alice Weghorst and Katherine Warren, popular songs sung by Margaret Halsey, and an instrumental and vocal trio by Thelma Ritzman, Garnet Manges, and Erwin Ritzman. The program has been arranged by Pat Mann.

Operatic Program Given

An operatic program was presented at the Disc club Friday afternoon in the Fine Arts studio. Dr. N. T. Preston, the commentator, conducted the program, which featured the opera "Aida." He related interesting stories and made comments concerning the opera.

Bible Contest Held

Five students will take part in a Bible question contest which will be continued until the winner is determined, at the regular meeting of the stuudent Volunteers Sunday evening after Vespers. Win Ross will present the questions.

Ministerials To Elect

The Ministerial association will hold its annual election of officers at the regular meeting January 17. The rest of the program will be taken up with reports of the various committees.

Miss Forkner Speaks

Anna Lee Forkner will present a talk entitled "God Through Literature" at the Y.W. meeting Sunday afternoon at 3:00. Music will consist of a trio consisting of Ruth Woods, Helen Bewley, and Nancy Quinn.

Johnson Addresses Club

At the faculty club meeting Monday evening, Miss Jessie Johnson read a paper entitled "The Women Poets of America." Among these she included Emily Dickinson, Edna Millay, Amy Lowell, Sara Teasdale, Hilda Doolittle, Elinor Wylie, Lizette Reese. In addition to speaking about the poetry of each one, Miss Johnson quoted passages from the writings of these authors.

Confab Club Meets

Ellen Losey gave a reading entitled "Dedication of Potsville's Open Air Theatre" at a meeting of the Confab club held Monday evening. This reading was preceded by a short business meeting and followed with refreshments. Ellen Losey was in charge of the program.

Club Elects Officers

On Tuesday evening the Home Economics club held a short business meeting in order to elect officers. Those chosen to serve for this semester are as follows:

President—Winnie Berst
Vice president—Ruth Emory
Secretary—Lois Barnwell
Treasurer—Lucille Varnadore
Editor—Kay McDonald
Program Secretaries—Genevieve McCalmont and Miriam Berst.

Japanese Boycott

Crusading representatives from 150 colleges meeting recently at Vassar college had a jolly time pitching their silk stockings into a bonfire, protesting against Japanese agression. They proposed a boycott on Japanese goods, especially on silk.

Now that the excitement has cooled and many of the impetuous young women wish they had the silk stockings they gave to the Cause, a few pertinent results of such a proposed boycott may be given.

In the first place, R. R. Williams, vice president of the Kresge chain stores, pointed out that "boycotts called suddenly against Japanese merchandise are actually boycotts against American merchants and not against Japanese exporters, who already have received their money."

Suggestions are made that women wear only lisle stockings instead of stockings made of Japanese silk. The American Federation of Hosiery Workers claims that because of the greater durability of lisle, three-fourths of the hosiery workers in the U. S. would be thrown out of work.

The managing editor of the National Association of Hosiery Manufacturers, Earl Constantine, considers the boycott harmful: "The largest consumer of Japanese silk in America is the hosiery industry. This silk is used almost entirely in ladies stockings. The average pair retails today at 85 cents. Of the 85 cents, not more than ten cents gets to Japan. The remaining 75 cents reflects American ingenuity, capital, and, principally, labor. A boycott on the silk stocking, therefore results in injury to 75 American cents in an effort to injure ten Japanese cents."

ECHOES OF THE PAST

January 8, 1918

WAR TIME PATRIOTISM—The College is having difficulty in securing coal. In order to avoid the possibility of closing the school, it has been decided to shut off light and heat one hour earlier in the evening and on weekends to close all buildings except the dormitories. This policy of saving fuel is not only a necessity, but also good patriotism.

EFFECTS—At a meeting of the junior class last Friday it was definitely decided not to put out an annual this year. Of the twenty-nine men of the class, twenty have been called into service.

THE SPORTS EDITOR

YE ED RIDES AGAIN

Alas, also alack . . . back in the saddle again after a sweet absence of lo! these many weeks, we find the ancient steed slightly the worse for a holiday collection of dust and grime . . . not to mention the stiffness customary in one so old. Two broken ribs add little to the cheerless condition of the gallant creature. Too, she always did shy a little at the editorial touch . . . . . .

A wary old creature, though, the Remington, and faithful one in her day for a' that.

YOO HOO!

Before the festive mood leaves us, to be replaced by the inevitable pre-publication blues, may we ask . . . did you have a good Christmas? . . . No, we don't claim any originality for the query, but it had to be done, you know.

Happy New Year and all that, too.

WRASSLIN' PREVIEW

If you are an amateur wrasslin' fan, as most of us are at Maryville, you will be interested in some of the new regulations for 1938 which will be inaugurated in the opening meet of the new year this evening in Alumni Memorial gymnasium.

When the Scots face the YMCA matmen of Coach Bob Maher at 8 o'clock these are some of the new departures to be observed by both combatants and spectators:

Instead of working for the old regulation ten minutes, plus six minutes in case of overtime matches, the new rules provide that the wrestlers scrap it out from an upright position for three minutes, this to be followed by two periods of three minutes each, the men alternating in taking the bottom position. This means a nine minute match in three equal divisions, in contrast to the ten minute affair with the 2-4-4 division of 1937. In case the referee is unable to reach a decision at the end of nine minutes, there shall be, after a one minute rest, two extra periods of two minutes each.

The other change is just as radical and even more significant. Whereas the winner of a no-fall match was formerly decided by time advantage, the whole thing is now left to the discretion of the referee, which may or may not complicate matters, He is authorized by the 1938 rules to decide the winner on the basis of agressiveness and offensive ability, disregarding all time advantage, and placing great stress on near-falls.

These new regulations should go a long way to eliminate the stallling and lackadaisical scraps that have threatened to drive the customers away from college grappling programs for the last two or three years. In the hands of a good official the meets this year will be a big improvement over those of the past. The single danger, of course, lies in the possibility of "home town" decisions. The next move, probably, will be to standardize all officiating something that has been sadly needed for a long time, and a task that will be plenty tough to accomplish.

Scots Speed Up To Top Hiwassee After "Y" Defeat

Tigers Fall, 48-28, Before Improved Maryville Offense

Showing a vastly improved offensive and defensive team, the Maryville quintet swamped the Tigers of Hiwasse College Thursday evening, 48-28. Howard Magill was high scorer for Maryville, sinking four field goals and two free throws for a total of 10 points. Weldon Baird and Dale Russelll each tallied nine points for second scoring honors. For Hiwassee, Monger was the high scorer, amassing a total of 10 points.

Dale Russell, Maryville freshman, started the scoring early in the game when he sank two rapid field goals. Morrell, Tiger forward, then sank a field goal for Hiwassee. After the first quarter Maryville took the lead and was never threatened.

The Maryville Scotties showed the fans a surprisingly good offense after their poor showing two nights before against the Knoxville "Y" team. The scoring among the players was well divided, showing a balanced quintet that might cause the other teams of the Smoky Mountain Conference a few worries. This was the first showing of the Highlanders against a college team. This, however, was not a conference game. The Scots play their first conference game Jan. 18, against King College. Tonight the Scots journey to Athens, Tenn., to play Wesleyan.

Juniors, Seniors Open Interclass Slate With Wins

Ross, Talmage, Colombo Lead In Downfall Of Freshmen, Sophs

The intramural basketball season officially opened last Wednesday night, when the senior quintet defeated the sophomore five in the Alumni gym by a score of 25 to 15.

Senior ballmen showed a decisive margin over the sophomores in passing and floor work, as well as in goal shooting.

Win Ross led the floor play of the senior quint. Roy Talmage played an excellent game and was high score man; with five field goals and one free throw to his credit, for a total of 11 points. Parker also was a mainstay for the seniors, turning in 8 points and quite a bit of good defensive work.

The sophomores were led by Rae Borne, who sunk most of the points for the underclassmen.

Teams were:

Seniors: Parker and Talmage, forwards; Skull and Bruce, centers; Swearingen, Lancaster, Ross and Brown, guards.

Sophomores:

Rae and Stevenson, forwards; Humphries, center; Augustein, Davis, Borne, Amis and Ethredge, guards.

Scottie Swimmers Fall Before U-T Mermen, 54 To 21

Akana And Chandler Take Lone First Places At Knoxville

Maryville college's swimming team made its debut for the 1938 season yesterday evening in the University of Tennessee swimming pool in Knoxville, but the University team sent the Scotty tankmen back to Maryville with a lopsided defeat of 54 to 21.

Maryville tookk only two first places in the meet. Burt Chandler placed first in the fancy diving contest, and Pual Akana came in first in the 200 yard breast stroke. Chandler's win in the diving event was rather an upset as he was placed at a decided disadvantage, having to dive on a foreign board. Akana's win was not so much an upset, but Carmichel of U-T kept the Maryville man pushing all the way.

Four points were made by the Maryville team in two other events. Hilditch took second in the fifty-yard dash, and Findley placed third in the same event. Humphries placed second in the 440 yard free style and Akana came in for the third place.

The Scotties took only three other places in the meet, all of them being thirds. Wicklund placed third in the 220 yard free style and in the 100 yard free style. Akana came in third in the 440 yard event.

Tennessee overpowered the Maryville team in all but two of the events. Besides taking first place in five of the individual races, the Tennessee team took first place in both of the relays.

Akana was high point man for the Maryville team with six points for a first and a third. Both of these events were run in succession; so Akana had to swim 590 yards for the two places. Before the last event was over he was beginning to get rather weary, but still he came in a length before the number two man of U-T.

Times were slow in all the events, and Maryville swimmers promise to give the U-T men a real run for their money in the return met.

Sophomores Take Game In Women's Point System

On Tuesday afternoon at 3:00 the basketball tournament of the women's point system was begun with a game between the freshmen and sophomores. The sophomores won, 37-17.

Thursday afternoon the freshmen beat the junior-seniors 29-21 in a hotly contested game.

The final game between the junior-seniors and sophomores will be Tuesday evening as a preliminary game before the main one.

Thrower Raises Curtain On 1938 Mat Crop Tonight As Scots Face Knox "Y"

Five Veteran Wrasslers Lead Highlanders In Opening Of Eighth Consecutive State Title Defense

Another year as defenders of top grapplin' honors begins tonight for the Scots when the Knoxville YMCA matmen come here for the 1938 inaugural.

Coach Bob Thrower's champs will depend on experienced man-power in five of the eight matches, with green performers slated to open in the 118, 126, and 135 pound positions.

The heavier fighters are fairly well set for the season, but tryouts held this far have left the lightweight situation still in a muddle. It may be Astles, Prevetta, and Everett in that order, who open the show tonight; on the other hand it may be Evual, Astles, and Everett. A lot depends on whether the last two named make the required weights. Both have been too heavy for the 118 and 135 classes respectively.

The 145 pound will see the return of Edgar "One Round" Meares, who exhibited a superior brand of wrasslin' two years ago as part of the Scots' brother act, when Rom followed Edgar on the mat program.

Captain Jim Renfro has the 155 division well in hand, after transferring his sports activity from the gridiron to the rubber-covered mat. His clash with Y ace Don Householder should prove to be the feature attraction tonight. That is, if Householder appears in that weight, as he is scheduled to do.

If the fans are still in doubt by the time the 165 pound fray comes up, they can rest easy for nine minutes or less, with Guy Propst as ace in the hole for the Scotties.

Too, the 175 division is well fortified, with Obie Jenkin, junior grunter, back in action. He did a good job last year in both the 175 and unlimited classes, and is counted on for a good share of points during 1938.

The heavyweight situation rests in the hands of big Fred Tulloch, who showed promise of a great future last year as a freshman. He lost two matches to more experienced men, but pitched two or three falls into the Highlander tally sheet for himself. The heavyweight mixup will be awaited with anticipation by those who saw the Tulloch man in action last year.

The program tonight starts at eight.

Highlander Play At Low Ebb In 48-36 Loss

Last Tuesday night, the Knoxville YMCA, former victims of the Maryville Scotties, turned the tide on the fighting Highlanders, and defeated the Scots 48-36. Moore of the YMCA was high scorer for the evening, finding the hoop for 21 points. Howard (Flash) Magill, Maryville's fighting forward, scored 17 points for second honors in scoring.

The game, marked by erratic passing and shooting, was, however, interesting. The Knoxville men were out for revenge after the 42-34 whipping Maryville handed them before the holidays. H. Magill started off the fireworks early in the game when he hit the hoop for two rapid field goals. Knoxville retaliated with a basket by McCulloch, after that it was a rather free scoring game with Knoxville leading at half time. At one time in the third quarter the YMCA led by over twenty points. The Scotties, led chiefly by Magill, managed to lower this lead to twelve points, but couldn't overcome the fighting visitors.

Moore, of Knoxville, was the outstanding offensive man on the floor; however, Magill was both a power on defense and offense. Not only could he hit the bottom of the hoop with unerring accuracy, but he was continually breaking up the passes of the visitors.

The Maryville B team was defeated by Friendsville high school 26-18, completing double whipping for the Scotties last Tuesday night.

AT RANDOM

The band of the Emporia, Kansas State Teachers college has a new accordion section. This seems to be the latest wrinkle in band equipment.

Two students at Emory university in Atlanta have started an insurance agency through which a student may insure himself against flunking or insure making a grade of "B." The premiums are based on the applicant's average his previous grade in the course, and the number of flunks and "A's" usually given by the teacher. Courses are insured up to $100 and for any grade down to "F." The names of the applicants are carefully guarded so that teachers may not discover what students are insuring themselves.

UNIVERSITY ECHO

The paper of the University of Chattanooga has begun a series of articles in which students may discuss various campus subjects pro and con. The first article was a discussion of campus politics.

LENOIR—RHYNEAN

The students of Lenoir-Rhyne are publishing a handbook containing their student government constitution. This handbook will be distribued among the students so that the student body in general will have some contact with articles on the history and significance ment. The handbook will also contain the workings of their college govern- of student government.

THE GAMECOCK

The University of South Carolina has adopted an open subsidization plan with regard to athletics. Athletes will no longer have to report whether or not they are winning financial aid from other than the regularly accepted sources. This means that the University will make no secret about paying their football men or other athletes.

STEVENSONS LEAVE

From Naples the Stevenson plan to take a side trip to Pompeii where guide-lecturers will conduct them through the excavated city.

In Palestine Dr. and Mrs. Stevenson plan to make another side trip. They will go from Nazareth south through Jerusalem, Bethlehem, and on to Cairo From Cairo they will go south along the Nile on still another side trip which will take them to Thebes and the temple of Luxor.

Dr. and Mrs. Stevenson plan to make still another inland journey in India. They will land at Bombay and go inland for a boat trip on the Ganges and a visit to the Taj Mahal. They will travel far north to get a glimpse of Mt. Everest.

The Stevensons have planned this journey for some time. A few years ago they were ready to go when the Abyssinian war broke out, and they were forced to give up the trip.

Schedule Changes

will be an Aerial Dart class, (M, W, 10:20), A Folk games class, (T, Th, 11:-15) with Mrs. Queener, and a Track class (M, W, 1:10) with Mr. Thrower. The Beginning Swimming group scheduled for M, W, 4:00, is moved to M, W, 9:25. Another Beginning Swimming is provided for M, W, 2:05. Advanced Gymnastics is moved from M, W, 2:05 to M, W, 1:10.

MUSEUM

The boys don't have a great variety of specimens, it seems, but what they do have are good. A U-T geologist called a mangacite crystal in the collection one of the best he had ever seen. The most valuable pieces are a number of semi-precious stones. There is also a sample of hexagon which is said to be found only in South Dakota and Egypt.

What gripes the boys most is to have some one send in a collection of stones labeled "rock from the Rio Grande," "pebble from the banks of the Jordon," etc. They're not interested in sentiment, they say. They're interested in geology.

NOTICE

Second semester registration will be held in Thaw hall on the afternoons of January 24 and 25 for the four classes with the payment of bills at the treasurer's office directly after the student has registered. The late registration fine of $5 will go into effect on February 3, the day after the new semester opens.

ITALIAN VIOLINIST

Americans responded slowly to advance notice of ticket sales for his Town Hall concert. But his performance there so thrilled his hearers that the music critic of the New York American stated the next day that young Barera was "a violinist with the soul of a poet and the fire of a virtuoso" and concluded his criticism "His audience, small in size, rose to him with excited enthusiasm. Seats should be at a premium when he plays again."

The young violinist continued his tour of the east, during which time he played on the Library of Congress Series, in Washington. So outstanding was his performance there that Washington newspapers called his debut the "musical event of the season." By this time, demand was so great for a return engagement in New York's Town Hall that Barera was called back to give a second performance in the hall during the same season, a feat seldom achieved even by the most established of artists. And the New York Times, through its music columns next day, highly praised the young artist and predicted a bright future.

In America now for his second consecutive tour, Barera comes to Maryville with a well earned reputation. It is interesting to note that he is the first violinist to appear at Maryville since the concert of Albert Spaulding, three years ago.

The complete program includes Beet- beginning at 8:15. Tickets will be on phonic Espangnole," an aria by Pizzetti, a tango by Castelnuovo-Tedesco- Heifetz, "Tarantella" by Pilati and "J'Palpiti" by Paganini.

The ticket door will open at 7:15 Friday evening, with the entrance doors opening at 7:30, and the concert beginning at 8:15. Tickets wil lbe on sale Wednesday morning after chapel and again at the door Friday evening. Those who have had tickets held for them are requested to call for them on Wednesday morning to avoid a rush at the dooor Friday evening.

Chilhowean Prepares To Collect Payments

A recent notice has been released that the second payments for the Chilhowean will be payable next week. Representatives will be stationed in Anderson hall near the Treasurer's office during the same hours that board is being paid.

Several pictures have been made recently, including those of the Student Council, the Highland Echo staff, the four Literary societies, and many club groups. All the junior and senior pictures are in; the sophomore and freshman sections are open now, to be closed February 2.

STUDENT ASSEMBLY

programs designed to demonstrate new techniques in local programs. These included visual education, program laboratories, drama, music, creative handiwork, art, group games, and folk dancing. Miss Bewley and Minear attended rehearsels of the assembly choir during the afternoon.

The evening meetings were devoted to a consideration of the structure and content of the Christian faith, under the leadership of a large group of speakers. Among the outstanding speakers were Bishop William Scarlett of the Diocese of Missouri of the Episcopal chuurch; Howard Thurman, professor of theology at Howard university; Dr. T. Z. Koo; secretary, the World's Student Christian Federation; and Dr. Henry V. Van Dusen, professor of theology and dean of students at Union theological seminary in New York City.

The feeling of the delegates about the assembly can be expressed by the statement of one of the Maryville representatives, that "definite contributions will be made to the programs of the associations from the study and conclusion of the National Assembly. Of course there was disagreement on many of the proposed plans of action, but no one could fail to gain some new plans, and to absorb the spirit of philosophic search into campus problems, Christian association policies, and individual doubts."

Italian Violinist Presents Concert On Friday Evening

Orlando Barera Gives Well Balanced Program In Voorhees

Orlando Barera, Italian violinist, made his initial appearance in Voorhees chapel Friday evening before an audience of approximately 900. Mr. Barera opened a well balanced program with the famous Sonta 6 by Beethoven and held the interest of the audience throughout. Especially well rendered was Tango by Castelnuovo-Tedesco-Heifetz, a contempory Spanish composer. The concert closed with a number by Paganini. The violinist was accompanied by Hubert Giesen who is himself a composer and has played with Fritz Chrysler. Mr. Barera gave several hundred autographs and made many friends among the students by his congeniality. From Maryville he will go to Boston where he will appear in a concert.

The program was well managed and stage decorations were done by the usual crew. Ushers included Bob Cusworth, Ann Abel, Connie Oswald, Lillian Borgquist, Bob Lamont, Lois Barnwell, Reece Scull, Connie Johnson, Win Ross, Helen Miller, Max Cornelius, Ruth Anderson, Wilbur Parvin, and Pat Kennedy.

The final recital in this series of concerts will be presented by John Charles Thomas, American baritone, on February 21.

Workshop Elects Five New Members

Original Manuscripts Read At Meeting

Five new members were elected to the Writer's workshop at its regular meeting Monday, filling vacancies which have occurred during the semester. Membership in the organization is limited to twenty-five juniors, seniors and faculty members.

Those elected were Maxwell Cornelius, Mary Elizabeth Haines, J. T. Hunt, Clifford Proctor and Harry Rice. Arthur Byrne was elected to the governing board of the workshop.

At the same meeting, original manuscripts were read by Miss Elizabeth H. Jackson, Miss Jessie K. Johnson and Reese Scull.

Sylvester Elected Pres. Of French Club Tuesday

Ruth Sylvester was elected president of the French club at a meeting of the club last Tuesday evening. Other officers elected are vice president, George Felknor; secretary, John Fisher; treasurer, Kathleen Cissna; and program secretary, David Talmage and Miss Dorothy Hunter.

The program consisted of a short French play after which new members, whose names have not yet been revealed, were voted into the club.

EXAM SCHEDULE FOR FIRST SEMESTER

The final examinations for the first semester of 1937-1938 will begin Friday and last until Wednesday, February 2. The complete schedule is as follows:

January 28, 1:00-3:00—"A" classes

January 29, 8:30-10:20, "a". 10:20-12:20, "B" and "bx"

January 31, 8:30-10:20, "b" 10:20-12:10, "C" and "cx" 1:10-3:00, "c"

February 1, 8:30-10:20, "D" and "dx" 10:20-12:10, "d" 1:00-3:00, "E"

Febraury 2, 8:30-10:20, "e" 10:20-12:10, "F" and "x" Ll:10-3:00, "f"

This is the first time since 1932 and 33 that examinations of this nature have been given in Maryville college. The former plan of rotating period tests was abandoned because of the dissatisfaction felt by both students and faculty concerning it.

Don Rugh Elected Ministerial Pres.

Rodgers To Speak Monday At Meeting

Donald Rugh was elected president of the Ministerial association Monday evening. Other officers elected were Ernest Enslin, vice president; Edward Thomas, secretary-treasurer; and Phil Evaul, editor. The newly elected officers will be installed at the regular meeting on Monday night.

Special speaker for the meeting on Monday evening will be Dr. M. Rodgers, professor of Bible. His theme will be "The Various Versions of the Bible, and Their Significance."

The Gospel Team of the association composed of Donald Rugh, George Hunt, Wilbur Parvin, and Roland Anderson will go to Knoxville on Saturday evening where they will appear on a program at the Young People's Quarterly meeting at the Friends church.

The new officers are planning a new practical program for the ensuing year that will prove helpful to the members.

Several Pictures For Chilhowean Are Taken

Several pictures for the Chilhowean have been taken this week, including five athletic groups, the swimming team, wrestling team, basketball team, soccer team and the M Club. The Triangle club, Nature club, Disc club, Women's Glee club, and class officers have all been photographed.

Representative will be stationed in Anderson hall next week to receive the second payments of two dollars for the yearbook.

Registration For Second Semester Scheduled For Thaw, January 24, 25

All Seniors And All Junirs, Part Of Sophomores To Register Monday Afternoon; Remainder To Go Tuesday Afternoon

Registration for the second semester will take place on the afternoons of January 24 and 25, on second floor of Thaw hall, from 1:15 to 5:00 o'clock. During the past week tentative schedules have been approved for all seniors, and tentative schedules have been made out for all freshmen at the personnel office. Juniors and sophomores will be expected to make out their own tentative schedules before registration. All seniors, all juniors, and sophomores whose last names begin with letters A to L, inclusive, will register on Monday afternoon; sophomores whose last names begin with the letters M to Z, inclusive, and all freshmen, will register on Tuesday afternoon.

In general, the procedure will be the same as for the September registration and will be carried out as follows:

Juniors, sophomores and freshmen will report to Room 42 (Dr. Briggs' classroom) presenting their tentative schedules for approval and enrollment. They will then proceed to room 51, 52, or 53, where they will make out the complete registration card, copying the approved schedule from the tentative schedule card. Care should be taken that the schedule is copied exactly on each card, and that all desired information is given.

Seniors will receive the tentative schedule card at a desk in the hall, then proceed to the making out of the complete registration card in room 51, 52, or 53.

After the registration card has been completed students will wait in room 55 (Philosophy class room) until they can be admitted to room 54 for final checking of registration card and assessment of fees. Here the registration card will be held and each student will receive a slip showing his total expenses. Students may go to the treasurer's office immediately, for the payment of fees, or at scheduled hours up to and including February 2, after which the late registration fee will be added.

All students will be urged to exercise especial care in the making out of registration cards, writing legibly, and checking carefully to see that all information called for is given and all errors eliminated. Failure to do so will result in delay and may necessitate return to the registration room for completion or correction.

Fund For Organ Growing Rapidly

Mrs. Walker's $250 Started Movement

The fund to be used for installing an electric organ in Voorhees chapel is growing rapidly after a several month's drive. Mrs. John Walker, a close friend of the college began the movement by contributing $250 and since that time voluntary contributions have substantially added to this amount.

At the morning chapel services Tuesday and Wednesday, a Hammond electric organ which sells for $1500 was demonstrated, but Miss Katherine Davies, professor of music, and a member of the committee in charge of the fund, said that a later model Hammond equipped with a better sounding board, was also being considered.

Mrs. Ralph W. Lloyd, chairman of the organ committee, expressed the belief that an organ could be secured in the near future. Anyone wishing to contribute to the fund should see Mrs. Lloyd or Miss Davies.

Dr. H. E. Orr To Talk At College Vespers On Sunday Evening

Dr. H. E. Orr, head of the Bible department, will speak at Vespers Sunday evening, using as his subject "A Leader's Most Convincing Argument." His text will be taken from 1 Corinthians, 9:26.

Nancy Quinn and Richard Woodring, members of the college choir, will sing "Love Divine" by Stainer.

For the processional the choir will use "Hark, Hark, My Soul," and for the recessional, "The Church's One Foundation."

Subjects For Bates Oratorical Contests For Women Released

Subjects for the Bates oratorical contest which is open this year to women in the junior and senior classes, have been chosen by the executive council of the faculty and are as follows: Undeclared War, Whither America?, Poise Amid Chaos, The Menace of Nationalism, The Challenge of Failure, Integrating America.

The orations are to be original compositions. Contestants are to have no help in composition except suggestions as to bibliography. The Oration manuscripts are to be submitted on the first Tuesday in April. The final contest is to be held between May 1 and 15.

Those interested in entering the contest should see Miss Jessie K. Johnson or Dr. Edwin R. Hunter.

Men's Dormitory Has Open House

Carnegie Hall Celebrates Anniversary

The twenty-first anniversary of the opening of Carnegie hall was celebrated Wednesday evening by an open house. From 7 o'clock until 9 students, members of the faculty, and friends of the college had the oportunity of visiting in the dormitory.

About twenty ushers were provided for the occasion. They took the visitors through the building in groups. Head usher was Don Stevens.

Coffee and ice cream were served the guests in a room on the first floor. The coffee for the occasion was donated by M. M. Elder's store. The refreshment committee included Bruse Morgan, Walter West, Edward Gillingham, William Lewis, John Calhoun, and Max Cornelius.

The affair was made possible through the efforts of a finance committee composed of Sam Rice, William Lewis, Edward Jussely, Frank Brink, and Scotty Donaldson.

Princeton Chapel Dean Makes Chapel Address On Wednesday Morning

The chapel address Wednesday morning, January 19, was given by Dr. Robert Russell Wicks, dean of Prinseton Chapel, Prinseton, New Jersey. Dr. Wicks is a personal friend of Dr. Clifford E. Barbour, who is to lead our February Meetings. Dr. Wicks was in Knoxville for the purpose of leading the Convocation Program which was held at the University of Tennessee from January 19 to 20.

Dr. Wicks was chaplain at Mt. Holyoke College before he became dean of Prinseton Chapel. He is the author of "Reasons for Livnig," which was printed in 1934.

Dr. Oliver R. Tarwater who was scheduled to speak at the Wednesday service, will speak at a later date.

Tennessee College Press Association Has Annual Meeting

The Tennesse College Press association, of which the Highland Echo is a charter member, met in Murfreesboro, Tennessee, this week from Thursday until noon today.

Of the 32 college newspapers in the state, approximately 20 are members of the association, which meets annualy to discuss recent trends and problems in journalism.

Dr. John E. Drewry, director of the School of Journalism in the University of Georgia, delivered an address at the annual association banquet Friday evening.

NOTICES

ECHO VACANCIES

There are at present three vacancies on the staff of the Highland Echo, two on the editorial staff to be filled by a sophomore and a senior or junior, and a business assistantship to be filled by a sophomore. Applications must be in not later than Thursday.

The sophomre vacancies were made by Warren Ashby and J. N. Badgett, both of whom resigned because of too much work. The senior vacancy was made by Simpson Spencer.

The Elizabeth Gowdy Baker Memorial Art gallery will be open every day of the week between the hours of 3 and 5.

Howard M. Morgan To Speak At YMCA Meeting Tomorrow

Dr. Morgan Was Leader Of February Meetings Last Year

Dr. Howard Moody Morgan, pastor of the Tabernacle Presbyterian church in Philadelphia, Pa., and last year's February meeting leader, will speak to the men of the college tomorrow afternoon at 1 o'clock in Bartlett hall auditorium. He has been obtained by the Y.M.C.A. for his first visit to Maryville since last February.

Dr. Morgan left a lasting impression on Maryville students when he spoke for a week at the annual meetings. He has had active contacts with college groups, having been pastor in Lexington, Kentucky, where are located the University of Kentucky and Transylvania college. His present pastorate is near the University of Pennsylvania campus, and a feature of his Sunday program is the college men's get-togethers.

Howard Moody Morgan was born in London, England, and is the son of Dr. G. Campbell Morgan, one of the greatest living Bible expositors of our day. He succeeded his father to the Philadelphia pastorate when the elder Dr. Morgan returned to London to be pastor of a large church there.

Dr. Morgan comes to Maryville tomorrow through the kindness of Rev. W. Norman Cook, pastor of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian church in Knoxville. He is going to conduct a week of Bible study at that church during the coming week.

The program Sunday will include musical numbers by Harriet Barber and Vernon Lloyd.

Office Redecorated

During the Christmas holidays the personnel office was redecorated. The walls were painted cream colored, and the floor was shellacked. The furniture was painted, and the tops of the counter and desks were covered with green, battleship linoleum. The work was done by some of the students, supervised by Mr. Morton.

Swearingen And Miller To Lead In "First Lady"

Mrs West Conducts Tryouts For Theta-Alpha Sig Play

Tryouts for "First Lady", the play to be presented by Alpha Sigma and Theta Epsilon societies were conducted this week by Mrs. Nita Eckles West, the director.

The following cast was announced; Charles, undecided; Emmy Paige, either Mary Louise Morgan or Katherine Warren; Sophy Prescott, Jane Irwin; Lucy Chase Wayne, Gloria Miller; Stephen Wayne, William Swearingen; Belle Hardwick, either Mary Louise Morgan or Katherine Warren. Mrs. Ives, Esther McCollum; Ann Forrester, Katherin Bennett; Mrs. Creery, Muriel Mann; Senator Keene, Bruce Walters; Tom Hardwick, Irwin Ritzman; Irene Hibbard, Irene Browder; Bleeker, John Ballenger; Carter Hibbard, Gordon Bennett; George Mason, James Whitt; Ellsworth Ganning, Robert Gillespie; Jason Fleming, William Felknor; two women, Margaret Peters and Virginia Kemmer.

Several minor parts have not yet been decided, and tryouts will be held next week.

"First Lady" by Katherin Dayton and George S. Kaufman, is a delightful satire on governmental Washington. The play centers around a feud between Irene Hibbard, wife of a Supreme Court Justice, and Lucy Chase Wayne, wife of the Secretary of State, caused by Mrs. Hibbard's theft of Lucy Chase Wayne's cook several years before the play opens. The fun begins when the episode leads to complications in the nation's politics.

The play was produced by Sam H. Harris in New York in 1935 and had a successful tour of the country the following season. It is now being played on the screen with Kay Francis as Lucy Chase Wayne and Preston Foster as Stephen Wayne.

Two Debates Held By Frosh On Unicameral Systems During Week

Two debates were held in the freshman debate classes this week on the states should adopt unicameral legislatures. In the first debate, Monday afternoon, William Gehres and William Felknor representing the negative defeated John Ballenger and Clement Hahn who upheld the affirmative. In the second debate, Tuesday morning, Joseph Mizer and Tommy Woolf, won a decision over Elizabeth Moore and Philip Thorne, negatives. Curtmarie Brown acted as critic judge for both contests.

Although plans are not definite, it is hoped that a freshman debate team will be able to participate in the All-South Speech tournament and festival to be held in Atlanta, Georgia, March 29-31. This tournament is sponsored by the Southern Association of Teachers of Speech, and all junior and senior colleges in the southern states are eligible to enter representatives.

Women Given Chance To See How Other Half Would Like To Live

By Arlene Phelps

Carnegie held its annual housecleaning Wednesday afternoon in preparation for the open house that evening, and from the outside appearance in the afternoon it looked as though a dust storm had taken Carnegie. We think that you fellows swept the floors because they didn't look dirty; but oh! how did you ever overlook the draperies in the lobby?

Chess seemed to be the favorite game for the thoughful Carnegians, but as yet we could not find any visitor who saw a single move. Do you fellows really play chess or was it for the impression?

We saw Warren Hilditch's display of his conquests, but wonder whether they really stick as the flies did to the flypaper which was beside the handkerchiefs. West and Young had some built in effect in their room topped with the West posters.

Somehow we could always tell when we entered a ministerial student's room—no pictures of beautiful girls, those cigarette advertisements! Boys! heathen lands.

We do not especially favor the selection of gay nineties curtains, starched and lacy, that Stan Phillips selected to borrow and still wonder why Alston permits them to remain.

But the gold fish! Humane society enter! Do you know that there should be one gallon of water for every gold fish in a tank or bowl, but that you frequently had three fish in a two quart bowl, and besides, three is a crowd.

The fourth floor rooms were in our opinion the better shaped ones, but those cigarrette advertisements! Boys! At Maryville!

Down in the basement we liked best Frank Brink's charcoal portrait of his girl. Best charcoal we've seen in a long time, and the girl; is she real?

Of course there were the customary freshmen souvenir collectors who tried

Barera's Sense Of Humor Seemingly Unaffected By Trip From New York

By Robert K. Brandriff

Slim, youthful Orlando Barera, standing in the lobby of the Andrew Johnson yesterday afternoon, in a dark grey business suit, black hat pulled low on his forehead, gave little promise of the wizard who that same evening would be playing the heartbreakingly difficult double-stopped harmonies of Paganini's "I Palpiti." Looking even younger than his 31 years, his almost elaborate politeness and boyish smile were immediately disarming.

Barera came here direct from New York where he is making his second appearance in two years. One of his first remarks was how much he enjoyed travelling in America. After the continental "wagon lits" a Pullman apparently quite a treat. He speaks English fluently and correctly, but his vowell sounds and misplaced accents give his speech a distinctly foreign flavor.

Before leaving the hotel, he made arrangements to have his room changed, the present one being too hot. "I may come from Italy, but I still like cold weather," he said. Driving to Maryville, he relaxed in the back seat of Professor Howell's car and talked unreservedly of himself and his art, and answered the mos irrelevant questions very graciously.

His accompanist, Hubert Giesen, seemed most interested in the geographical aspect of the tour, and while Barera grew enthusiastic about the sun's setting in a bank of rain clouds over a landscape that he said reminded him so much of France, Giesen wanted to know how far it was to Florida and whether we were south or west of New York. But he was pleasant company, even if his stories did all turn upon his various concert appearances: at the Everglade Club in Palm Beach, and the time it got so cold in Toronto he had to dip his hands in hot water between numbers.

Barera talked familarly of music and

Some Political Observations

The refusal of the House of Representatives to permit the Ludlow war referendum resolution to be debated on the floor thus rejected the proposed. The impractical, cumbersome plan of procedure would, as one senator said, be like taking a referendum before calling out the fire department to put out a fire.

A proposed bill which happily is meeting able filibustering is the anti-lynching bill, a bill accused by some as nothing more than a device for gaining Negro votes. Although the number of lynchings has decreased notably from year to year, our northern senators seem determined to protect the Negro from the unmerciful south.

Today war fires are burning both in Europe and Asia. Even as in 1914, America is being sucked into the maelstrom of international complications. In spite of the lessons of the past, and of a universal desire for neutrality in foreign conflicts, America is again being pushed into her role of volunteer fireman for European interests, but this time in the Orient.

We are told that we should get excited about the huge stake we're supposed to have in the Far East. The total United States investments in the entire Far East is but five per cent of the total U. S. foreign investment, or less by more than a billion and quarter dollars of the amount we will have spent for liquor in the U. S. during 1937.

One single British investor has a stake in the Far East almost as large as all the U.S. investments in China and Japan combined. No wonder some would like the U.S. citizens to go out and make the far East safe for European concessionaires.

Fits and Fizzles

By FRED RHODY

Here he is folks, Professor Whizz! With an eye to the wall clock and an ear to the lunch whistle, the Professor is about to take the pulse of the average, common Maryville college student. All right, Professor!

— M. C. —

PROFESSOR: Hello friends! We'll first take the pulse of Mr. Glop Glop. A very devoted and loyal student, Mr. Glop Glop is in his sixth year at Maryville, and is looking forward to many more happy years here. Mr. Glop Glop, may I take your pulse! Oh, you're left-pulsed? You have a very fine left pulse, Mr. Glop Glop. Now, in a few well-chosen words, what is your opinion of the Sino-Japanese crisis?

— M. C. —

Mr. Glop Glop: Well-- er-uh—I sort of guess—uh—

Prof: Mr. Glop Glop has been telling us, friends, that although Japan is faced with the terrific problem of insufficient resources for her overflowing population, she is entirely unjustified and unnecessarily brutal in her wanton attack on defenseless China's helpless citizens. Thank you for your valuable comments, Mr. Glop Glop. Would that our Houses of Congress could boast of such wide-awake, keen observers as you! And next, I shall take the pulse of Miss Vera Peachy, attractive Maryville co-ed. Mmmm! Taking her pulse should require quite some time, I hope. Miss Peachy, to obtain more-uh-satisfactory results I think I should take both your pulses. Remember, 'tis for humanity! Now, Miss Peachy, what do you think of the Ludlow War referendum proposal?

— M. C. —

Miss Peachy: Huh? You mean—uh—huh?

Prof: Then it is your firm conviction, Miss Peachy, that since it is the common people who do the fighting and dying, they should be the ones to declare war? Yet, on the other hand, you are not unaware that a deliberative assembly like our Congress is better informed and better qualified to decide a question involving war? Thank you, Miss Peachy. Your statements and my personal observations reveal you as a remarkably clear-headed young woman, with most interesting pulses. And here is Mr. Lester Whoople, stepping to the microphone. Mr. Whoople, will you please remove your celluloid cuffs so I can take your pulse for this poll of college students' opinions on current happenings? Now, Mr. Whoople, tell us about your ideas on capitalism and communism.

Lester Whoople: Why-- uh— never happened to think -uh ——shucks——

— M. C. —

Prof: So you are of the strong opinion that the world is steadily dividing itself into two opposing groups—capitalistic and communistic, and that a struggle to the death is inevitable between the two groups? You believe that capitalism must crush the Red Menace while it is yet mortal? Your thoughtful remarks have impressed us profoundly, Mr. Whoople. And now, friends, your Professor must toddle off. It is my fervent hope that our little chats are making college students World-Events-conscious, and pulse-conscious. Let's make this week National-Read-Paper-and take-a-Pulse-week!

Signs of the Times

By OTTO PFLANZE

It was about ten years ago that we first began to wake up and face the facts about the World War. Disillusioned we turned our backs on Europe and swore we wouldn't play that way anymore. We would stay neutral, we said. When anybody started pushing anybody else in the face, we'd take our marbles and go home.

We said that with a look of firm conviction on our faces. And the funny part about it is that most of us thought we'd do it too. But when Italy and Japan started fighting defensive wars in Ethiopia and China we learned a few things. The most important thing we learned was that we aren't willing to pick up and go home when the thing gets started.

Of course, Ethiopia didn't disturb us much. We didn't have anything much over there to worry about. At least not until some U. S. oil company decided it would be nice if we got interested to the tune of several million dollars. But we couldn't quite stomach that; so we let opportunity slip through our fingers.

But then China—yes, that's a horse of a different color. We had always looked upon China as a market for our own economic imperialism. We had helped put down insurrections when the Chinese people got the mistaken idea they needed a little independence. We had helped put restrictions on China's right to defend her seacoasts. And true enough we hadn't been a bit interested when our ham-strung Eastern neighbor wanted to put her financial house in order. At least not if it entailed raising the import duties on American goods.

But all of a sudden Japan decided that Russia, England, France, and the United States weren't running things right in Kai Shek's republic and started to run it her own way. Then we did sit up and take notice.

Of course we hadn't been a bit alarmed when we helped set China's important duties several years ago. We didn't think, or maybe we didn't care a plugged nickel about whether those heathen Chinese would mind a little thing like that. But a couple of weeks ago when Japan decided she'd do a little import duty fixing herself, did we howl!

No sir, we won't move an inch, we're saying now. We'll keep our gunboats on the Yangtze just as long as the Standard Oil tankers want to stay there. And thus our firm resolve went to the seven winds the minute it ran afoul of profits, trade, and investment.

The net result is this. When the next World War gets under way America will be no more willing to relinquish foreign trade and investments than she was when she entered the last one. In the event of war, strict isolationism and uncompromising neutrality are absolutely impossible for the United States with her billions invested in foreign countries.

His parishioners regret it; Tennesseans have cause to regret it; his widow will regret it. I refer to Dean Noe's "spiritual sustenance" fast. Noe, an Episcopalian rector in Memphis, is seeking to condition his body to the point where he can live without food or water, on mental support alone.

The parishioners of Dean Noe stated early in the week "that the entire proceeding is a regretable incident." They are, I imagine, rather aghast at all the publicity. One of them ruined a hum-dinger of a news story the other day when he dispelled the rumor that others in the church intend to follow Noe's example.

As for Tennesseans, they regret that adverse publicity is making the state known as "that place where all the child marriages and religious fanatics are." It was only a year or so ago that an epidemic of "rattlesnake" preachers made the front pages. They let themselves be bitten by rattle snakes and then declared themselves miraculously unaffected by the poison. Some said the fangs had been taken out of the rattlesnakes, but I wouldn't know about that. I don't mean to intimate that Dean Noe isn't sincere, for he undoubtly is.

Mrs. Noe isn't a widow yet, but she soon will be if the rector persists in his effort "to stretch out his life span indefinitely." His attempt is comparable to the Scotchman who tried to make his car run on air. The gentleman repeatedly let his gas supply get low so that the machine would become accustomed to running on next to nothing. Needless to say, it just can't be done.

Scottie Sketches

CURTMARIE BROWN—a d.y. from New Jersey, little hamlet known as Mars Plains—home country is rich in Revolutionary war lore—dislikes publicity—likes dramatics, "especially what goes on behind the scenes."—was in Theta Epsilon's play last year as Maizie the maid—is president of Pi Kappa Delta and secretary to debat coach—is also a history major—Chilhowean associate editor and Echo writer—recommends that girls recapture some of the womanly virtues of long ago to get their man—suggests fainting—has an infectious laugh which some say is a giggle—aptly nick-named "Cute-marie."

MALCOLM BROWN—Greyhound grabber from East Waterford, Pennsylvania—near Chambersburg—nice little town with population 500 hardy agrarian souls—lives in a lemon yellow house that used to be a female seminary—one brother, Paul, is freshman h'yar this y'ar—went to high school with Ralph Hand whom he succeeded as Y.M. secretary here—retires next week as president of Ministerial association—is a p.k.—and a History major—expects to go to Western seminary in Pittsburgh next year—has been in society plays for several years—likes handball and basketball—best one-word description: friendly.

Debate Teams To Attend Tourneys

First Meet Scheduled For February 4, 5

Several Varsity debate tournament assignments have been made this week. Four teams will attend a tournament at Boone, North Carolina, February 4 and 5. The teams attending are Harwell Proffitt and James Whitt, affirmative; George Hunt and William Lewis, negative; Sara Lee Hellums and Miriam Waggoner, negative; and Curtmarie Brown and Helen Maguire, affirmative. Louise Proffitt will take part in oratory and extempore contests.

February 19, two women's teams consisting of Sara Lee Hellums and Louise Proffitt, affirmative; and Georgia Ingle and Arda Walker, negative, will represent Maryville at the Smoky Mountain Women's tournament at Virgina Intermont college in Bristol.

Two men's teams, Arnold Kramer and Otto Pflanze, affirmative, and Warren Ashby and Clifford Proctor, negative, will attend the Smoky Mountain Men's tournament Febraury 26. This tournament will be held in Johnson City.

Mrs. Queener To Speak At YW Sunday Afternoon

Sunday afternoon at 1:15 in the Y.W. rooms, Mrs. Verton M. Queener will speak to the women of the college at the regular Y.W.C.A. service. Her subject is "Marriage and The Girl."

Mrs. Queener's talk should be interesting to all of the women. Several years ago she spoke on a similar subject, which proved to be popular.

There will be special music during the program and a small tea has been planned after the service.

MISSIONARY TO TALK TO VOLS

A missionary, Mrs. Berst, will address the Student Volunteer group this Sunday evening in the YW rooms. Mrs. Berst will speak of her experiences in China. Special music is being planned for the program.

QUEENER IS ASSOCIATE EDITOR OF SPEECH JOURNAL

Professor Verton M. Queener has been appointed as an associate editor of the Tennessee Speech Journal. The Journal is the official publication of the Tennessee association of Teachers of Speech. Professor Queener is editor of the Open Forum, a section devoted to controversial discussions of various subjects pertaining to speech work.

Orlando Barera

musicians in New York—Barbirolli, conductor of the Philharmonic, his fellow countrymen Martini and Massini of the Metropolitan, and a young duo-piano team discovered in London by Josef Hofmann appearing in their first season. He paid high tribute to the artistry of Moriz Rosenthal, still a grand figure in the world of music at seventy-five. He was greatly amused, however, to learn that Rosenthal had played so long a piece as Listz's "Second Hungarian Rhapsody" for an encore. "If he did that, maybe I'd better do the Bach "Chaconne" for them tonight," grinning at the thought of that long and highly technical masterpiece as an encore.

He grew quite excited in telling us about his studies, especially when he discovered that we did not know of his having studied under Georges Enesco in Paris. "Ah, he is the greatest teacher in the world," he said, with a quick Latin gesture characteristic of him. "He was the teacher of Yehudi Menuhin, and a great composer, too.

Maryville was the first college at which he had ever played, and he seemed to be enjoying the prospect, even going so far as to comment on the rather dubious "English" architecture of Baldwin hall as he arrived. Still good-humored after three-quarters of an hour of questioning, his parting remark, after noticing how warm it had become since the rain, was that "he guessed he'd have to change his programmed Sixth Beethoven Sonata to the Fifth—the 'Springtime' one."

Following the concert, Barera, still suave and pleasant after satisfying several hundred autograph seekers, re the afternoon and added the last membered by reportorial difficulties of humorous touch by inscribing on my program "avec sympathie, Orlando Barera" and in the corner, "Ferdinando Galliano 1750," the name of his rare and beautiful violin. Simple and unaffected, Barera is as charming a personality as he is a distinguished artist.

ECHOES OF THE PAST

January 22, 1918

CURRICULUM...Among the patriotic activities of the college being undertaken next semester is the organization of an officer's training class under the direction of Professor Gillingham.

ORIGINALITY...On Tuesday evening at 7:30, Theta Epsilon, always original, will present a play excelling any they have ever given before in strength, impressiveness, and originality. The public is invited to attend this annual midwinter of the society.

ALSO ORIGINAL...Last Monday evening Bainonian women presented as their annual midwinter entertainment a program entitled "An Evening in India." Against an Easter background of incense and Oriental draperies, two short plays were presented and several Indian chants were given by members of the society.

* * *

RECEPTION...Theta Epsilon gave a reception for the women entering this semester. Since each had a date, they were initiated into the rites of moonshining. Everybody had a ride on the train and a share of the peanuts, cracker-jacks, and chewing gum.

January 20, 1928

QUESTION...The men's and women's varsity debate teams have been selected. At various times in the next few months they will debate other colleges on the Pi Kappa question; "Resolved that the United States Should Cease to Protect Capital Invested in Foreign Lands except after Formal Declaration of War."

COLLEGE QUINTETTE...The Highlanders dealt the Volunteers a defeat of 25-20 in the only encounter slated between the two teams this year.

OLD STORY...Next week will be devoted to examinations and registration.

CHOICE...Six new courses have been added to the curriculum including a fencing class for men, cat anatomy, teaching of English, and three religious education courses.

KIDS...The Preacher's Kid club met on January 11, 1928, to elect new officers for the coming semester.

PROFESSOR...The absent-minded professor's latest deed is to strike his wife and kiss a match.

She has a chair leg, numerous papers and signs, and Blair's ash tray (a gift from Beaver).

Glimpses: Calhoun, Cornelius, West in practice for the groom's course; padlocked wardrobe (closet to us); Baird-Luxton hammock; Bower's display of shoes; the "Gone With The Wind" sign that should have been over the door of room 323; Bob Arnowitz's trunk-sized room; muscle building apparatus that was displayed for our benefit; the room in which everything was tied down with rope; the ice cream and refreshments, but the unwillingness of Mr. Morgan to give out extra tickets.

Now that it is all over, let me say that we girls like open houses, especially in a men's dorm, because it is educational to see howe the other half would like to live.

RASSLIN' REUNION

Tonight a once-flaming rivalry is being renewed at Boone, North Carolina, lair of the Appalachian Mountaineer.

It all takes place when Coach Bob Thrower sends his grapplin' Scots on the mat against the charges of Coach Farmer Watkins.

It will mark the first time since the two teams broke relations in 1936 that a Maryville outfit has wrestled in the Old North State. Two defeats by the Mountaineers marred the slate of the Tennessee champs that year. The first one came here, to the tune of 18-6. The carnage was even worse when the Highlanders went to Boone. This time it was 22 1-2 to 1 1-2, Appalachian.

Thus the Scotties are going to work tonight in an effort to remove this unpleasant taste from the mouth of the Highlander.

Their chances are not the best in the world, but there is a chance just the same.

A win at Boone would go a long way toward wiping out the bitter memory of last Saturday's unpleasantness with Knoxville Y's upsetters.

LET'S GO

Speaking of dope buckets, as we weren't, we recommend attendance at the interclass hardwood festivities tonight for a sight of upsets and the unexpected.

Seniors Trounce Juniors, Advance In Cage Scramble

Highly Rated Junior Five Twice Defeated In Week's Play

By virtue of a 33-24 win over the Juniors Thursday afternoon, the seniors are in first place in the standings of the interclass basketball championship. The seniors completely outplayed the juniors, the score being 15-1 at the half. Don Parker was high scoreman for the seniors, with a total of 13 points. R. Talmage came next with a total of 11 points. Colombo hit the net for 11 points for the juniors.

Lineups: Seniors; Talmage 11, Brown 2, Parker 13, Lancaster, Scull, Ross 5, Swearingen, Bruce 2.

FROSH 33—SOPHS 28

In a surprising upset Thursday night, the freshmen basketeers turned back the highly touted sophomores 33-28. The freshmen played consistently good ball, getting the lead early in the game and holding throughout the remainder of the fray. The sophomores threatened in the last quarter, but a basket by Jim Miller, freshman captain, kept the sophs from closing the gap. Miller hitting the basket frequently from all angles, scored 16 points to lead in the night's scoring.

Lineups: Sophs: Rae 8, Born, Amos 2, Kramer 4, Davis, Etheredge 4, Augenstein 8, Stevenson 2.

Freshmen; Van Blarcom 2, Miller 16, Talmage 9, Peterson 1, Cragan 5.

SENIORS 22—FROSH 21

In an exciting interclass game Monday night, the seniors defeated the freshmen 22-21. Don Parker, senior star, was the high scorer for the evening, hitting the mesh for 12 points. The freshmen were leading the illustrious seniors at the half 14-12, but the fight-

In a non-conference game played last Saturday night, the Scotties lost to the basketeers of Wesleyan 36-32. Ellworth Black was high scorer for the Scots, hitting the bottom of the net for a total of 12 points. The game was played at Athens.

Mermen Promise To Surprise U. T.' Kentucky Teams

Fischbach Revamps Team In Comeback Attempt

Scotty tankmen have settled down to hard training under Coach Fischbach in preparation for the meets with Kentucky and Tennessee, to be held in Bartlett pool on January 29 and February 5.

Prospects look fair for a come back victory over the University of Tennessee on February 5, after the defeat given the Maryville swimmers in the U-T pool January 17. The University of Kentucky is another strong team, and it will take some stretching for the Maryville squad to defeat them.

It is apparent, however, that the two visitors will find a stronger team than the one which was defeated by the University of Tennessee. Since January 17, some changes have taken place which promise to produce the goods in coming meets.

Maryville will be seriously weakened though, if Hilditch is unable to continue practice. Hilditch has been one of the main counters in sprints, and for the last week he has been unable to workout because of illness. He promises to be out long before any of the meets roll around, though.

Appalachian Team Offers Hurdle For Grunters Tonight

Maryville Rates Underdog Spot In Renewal Of Old Feud

A tough job is in store for the Maryville wrestling unit tonight when the Scots face the strong Appalachian Teachers College Mountaineers at Boone, North Carolina.

It is the second meet of the season for the Scots, who will attempt to erase the effects of a one-point defeat at the hands of the surprising Knoxville YMCA team last week.

The Mountaineers, always a power in the grappling circles of Carolina will rate as a strong favorite. In the last two encounters of the two teams in 1936, they were twice victorious over the Scots.

Maryville will offer a slightly revised lineup with J. N. Badgett slated to work in the 126 pound position.

The rest of the Highlander lineup will be the same as that which faced the Y team last Saturday.

HEAR YE!

The interclass basketball games in Alumni Memorial gym will be open to the sports public of college hill this evening, when the surprising Sophs meet the sedate Seniors and the Frosh clash with the Juniors, beginning at 8:00.

The affair is staged under the auspices of the Social Committee and bears their guarantee of dignified and gripping entertainment.

A hearty welcome is extended to both the partial and the impartial, both the informed and the invited. . . . .

Don't miss it, please.

After dropping a 45 to 39 decision to the East Tennessee Teachers Thursday, the Maryville Scotties came back last night to trounce the Tusculum Pioneers 42-40.

Howard McGill played a big part in the Highlander offensive, which was able to gain a scant two-point edge on the Greeneville outfit. He rang up 13 points.

Lineup:

MARYVILLE 42	pos.	TUSCULUM 40
Baird 6	F	8 Beets
Honaker 10	F	3 Hagan
Russell	C	7 Cacy
Odell 4	G	4 Eans
Hughes 1	G	12 Bailey

Subs: Maryville; B. Baird 6, McGill 13, Black 2.

Tusculum: Bagnall, Kish, Sanborn, Higgins, Siler.

Maryville Calms King Tornado To Win 36-34

A last period rally by the King Tornado fell short last Tuesday night as the Scots opened their Smoky Mountain cage drive with a 36-34 win.

Maryville led 20-10 at the half, and seemed to have the situation well in hand until King's Mr. Roberts began to get the range with his free-wheeling shot. The elongated center, brother of Emory-Henry's famous Glenn Roberts, was closely guarded in the first half by Junior Odell, but he got his chance for the moment when Odell fouled out in the opening minutes of the second half.

Ellworth Black and J. D. Hughes were disqualified early in the second frame, along with Russell, of King.

With the Scots functioning none too well at guarding men who had to look down to see them, the score went to 29-28.

Roberts and his pals were definitely on the offensive and showing little sign

SPRING AWAKENING!!!!!!!

The fifty-three year old ban on dancing at Mississippi state College for Women has been lifted. From now on each of the four classes may give a dance sometime between January 15 and May 1. The students are now preparing for the first dance in the history of the institution. One of the rules governing the dances concerns the popular fads in dancing. "Students must not take their dancing violently by waving arms aloft like dancing Apaches or jiggling music box figures.

AT RANDOM

The Student Government association at Agnes Scott college has chosen a group of seniors to chaperone freshmen dates. The chaperone will talk when the conversation lags, but will subdue her own wit and charm so that the freshman girl will not be overshadowed. Another requirement is that the chaperone must be sympathetic and understanding. The question is, where do wit and charm stop and sympathy and understanding begin? No doubt the freshmen girls have some ideas on that subject.

Dr. William Marston, a psychologist at Harvard, predicts that in the next hundred years, women will rule the world. Dr. Stevenson Smith of the University of Washington, is commenting on this statement says that this forecast is "like suddenly discovering that two and two make four." Well, girls, are we losing our feminine subtlety?

CUMBERLAND COLLEGIAN

Two sophomores at Cumberland University have opened a student cafe called the "Greasy Spoon." The shop, which is expected to become a student hangout, will serve five-cent sandwiches, red hot chili, and various other student favorites at "student" prices.

ORANGE AND BLUE

Grace Moore, on her recent trip through Knoxville, granted an audition to Dorothy Wyatt, a junior at Carson-Newman. Miss Wyatt is a contralto.

KENTUCKY KERNEL

A scathing article in the University of Kentucky publication criticizes the attitude of a University audience attending the recital of Katherine Meisle, leading contralto of the Metropolitan Opera. (Miss Meisle gave a recital in Knoxville last week). When a stage hand came out to adjust a footlight, the audience applauded. This exhibition of poor taste reminds us of the snickers and occasional scattered applause of Maryville audiences when stage hands appear on our chapel platform during concerts.

King Game

of a letdown. Weldon Baird, Highlander forward then slipped away to sink a crip shot, and Scottie Honaker tallied with a free throw, to put Maryville ahead at 32-28. The Tornado, seemingly dismayed by this sudedn show of stubborness, folded up. They missed half a dozen pay-off shots under the hoop and pitched away numerous foul chances in the last four minutes.

The Highlanders were beginning to pull away again as the game ended.

The Honaker outfit showed distinct possibilities as Smoky Mountain contender, despite their tendency toward erratic passing. The men who were considered reserves, and not-too-strong reserves, in December, are showing their heels to the boys on the varsity at times.

All eleven of the men used in the 36-34 triumph showed their ability to play at the Smoky Mountain pace.

Mainly responsible for the win were Howard Magill's offensive play and the work of Odell and freshman "Swede" Jockinson in holding Roberts to 15 points, which was no small task.

SOPHS 16—JUNIORS 12

Defeating a powerful junior team 16-12 Monday night placed the sophomores in one of the favored positions for winning the interclass basketball championship. The sophomores split up their points evenly, with practically every man hitting the hoop at least once during the evening. For the juniors, Colombo, junior standby, scored six points for the high scoring honors.

Lineups: Juniors; Colombo 6, Czepial, Craine, Judy 1, McCaskie, Proctor 5.

Sophomores; Rae 4, Amos 2, Stevenson, Kramer 2, Born 4, Davis, Etheredge 2, Augenstein 2.

Ruth Sylvester was elected president of the Carolina club at its regular meeting Wednesday evening. Other officers for the next semester are Al Rosser, vice president; Georgia Ingle, secretary; Ann Sherill, treasurer; and Helen Ridenhour, program chairman.

SWIFT TALKS TO YANKEES

At a meeting of the New England club Monday evening, Joe Swift gave a talk on the history of the founding of Worcester, Massachusetts. His talk was illustrated by pictures of various points of interest in Worcester and the suburbs.

GERMAN CLUB MEETS

At a meeting of the German club Tuesday evening in the Fine Arts studio, Allen Hinkleman sketched stories of Faust and recited selections from it. German songs were sung afterwards.

MRS. QUEENER TO TALK

Mrs. Verton M. Queener will read a paper on folk dancing at a joint meeting of Bainonian and Theta Epsilon societies this evening. Her talk will be illustrated by exhibitions performed by members of the girls gym classes.

WEBSTER IS IN HOSPITAL

The hospital reports only one patient this week, George Webster, who is sick with measles. Last Sunday Clara Dale Echols was discharged after an attack of pleurisy. At her home, Miss Heron, having been seriously ill for several weeks, is showing improvement, but does not expect to be able to return to her classes next week.

Verton M. Queener, instructor in history and public speaking will speak at Alpha Sigma's meeting at 6:45 this evening. Professor Queener's subject will be the Neutrality Act. There will also be several musical numbers on the program.

Fast Marshall College Team Rolls Over Scottie Quint In 62-26 Rout

Last Half Spurt Brings West Virginians Top-heavy Win; Scots Behind 20-12 At Half

Held almost on even terms by a stubborn first half Scot defense, Marshall college stepped up the pace in the second period last night to roll over a hard-scrapping Hnoker outfit, 62-26.

Rivlin and Watson, elongated forward and center for the West Virginians, chalked up a personal tally of ten and nine points respectively in this half. They, with Morlock, whose 14 points led the scoring, made life unpleasant for the Highlanders. All hit with uncanny accuracy from the center of the flooor whenever they chose to turn loose.

The halftime score found Maryville trailing 12-20 and Scot fans settling back in their seats for a pleasantly surprising show of resistance by the Honakermen.

Maryville had been in possession of the ball more than half the time, and despite their miserable luck under the goal, had looked good enough to give the touted Marshall's a headache.

But it was not long beofre the intermission that the visiting six-footers began to show their superior brand of hoop artistry. Thereas they had been content to take an occasional pot-shot from beyond the Scot defense, they now started to work closer for a steady stream of snowbirds.

They were pulling away as the game ended.

The loss of Dale Russell via the injury route in the opening half cost the Highlanders a large part of their scant supply of six foot performers. Russell, who tossed in 19 points in the Milligan

Cast Completed For Theta-Alpha Sig Production

"First Lady" Built Around Washington Elite Social Set

Mrs. Nita Eckles West announced this week that all parts for the Theta Epsilon-Alpha Sigma play "First Lady" have been assigned and that practice is well under way. John Guigou has been selected to play the part of Charles the Butler, and John Fisher and Stan Phillipps have been appointed as business manager and stage manager, respectively.

"First Lady" is a sparkling and witty satire on the federal government at Washington, but no particular administration is the object of ridicule. Washington's elite social set is shown in all its dignity and snobbishness, while its formality is offset by Emmy Paige, an unsophisticated little Southern girl. The play is packed with humor and clean fun, and a laugh is promised in every line.

The plot centers around a feud between the wife of the Justice of the Supreme Court, played by Irene Browder, and the wife of the Secretary of State, played by Gloria Miller. William Swearingen and Gordon Bennett play important male parts and are supported by an all-star cast of fourteen others. In addition to the characters already mentioned, several other important parts are played by Esther McCollum, Katherine Bennett, Muriel Mann, Bruce Walters, Irwin Ritzman, John Ballenger, James Whitt, Robert Gillespie, and William Felknor.

The production promises to be one of the most humorous presented on the Maryville campus in several years.

National College Associations Meet

President Lloyd Receives Distinctions

In Chicago last week, there were held the annual meetings of a number of national college associations—the Association of American Colleges, the National Conference of Church-Related Colleges, the Council of Church Boards of Education, the Pan-Presbyterian and the Presbyterian College Unions and separate meetings of colleges of the Methodist, Baptist, Lutheran, Catholic, and other church groups. About five hundred delegates, chiefly college presidents, were present.

In the election of officers for the coming year, President Lloyd of Maryville college was made president of two of the organizations—of the National Conference of Church-Related colleges, composed of something over three hundred Protestant and Catholic colleges; and of the Pan-Presbyterian College Union, composed of about one hundred colleges and the boards of education of the various denominations holding the Presbyterian and Reformed Faith and background. President Lloyd is also a member of the executive committees of two of the other groups—the Council of Church Boards of Education, and the Presbyterian College Union, of which, interestingly, President Anderson of Tusculum college, Greeneville, Tennessee, was appointed chairman.

The programs of the week were built around the general theme of "The Colleges and Public Life." Speakers included Ex-Chancellor Bruening of Germany, Secretary of the Interior Ickes, Bishop Hughes of the Methodist Episcopal Church, Washington; Dr. Homer C Rainey, Director of the American Youth Commission; President Hutchins of the University of Chicago; Dr. Arthur Compton, famous

Former Student Finds His Youth A Handicap

G. Edward Friar, former student of Maryville college, and recent graduate of the University of Tennessee, is not yet permitted to take the state bar examination because he is not old enough to meet the statutory requirement, the age of 21. He is associated, however, with the law firm of Lowe and Kimberly, Knoxville.

After high school, Mr. Friar attended Maryville college, entered the University of Tennesse law school in 1934, graduating last June. While attending U. T. he was the leader of a dance orchestra in which several Maryville students played.

Mr. Friar attained high scholastic and extra-curricular honors in every school and college he attended.

New Plan For Examination Fails To Gain Popularity With Student Body

Representative Poll Shows That Students Prefer Old System To New As It Now Stands; Would Prefer New Plan If Revised

By OTTO PFLANZE

In a poll of campus opinion made this week, 45 out of 100 students declared themselves in favor of revising the new test system established in the college this year. They proposed a change that would keep students from being required to take three two-hour exams in one day.

41 students stated their preference for last year's system of rotating period exams. They declared they would not be in favor of the new system even if the proposed revision were made. Only 14 voiced their approval of the new system as it stands.

The main objection students have to the new system is the strenuous final tests. They found it difficult to go immediately from one two-hour exam to another on an entirely different subject. However, most students liked the concise review of the semester's work which the new system gives.

Those who favored the new system declared too much time was spent in studying for tests and not enough in daily preparation under the rotating period method of tests. It also did not allow the teacher to make a satisfactory division of lesson material.

James Proffitt, president of the senior class, was one of those favoring the revision. He declared the new system better than the old, but went on to say students should not be asked to take as many as three tests in one day.

Among the 41 dissenters was Marvin Minear, YMCA president. "The new system causes too much work at the end of the semester," Minear said.

John Lancaster, student council president, preferred the rotating period system to the present one as it stands. Lancaster voiced the opinion, "No student should be required to take more than two two-hour exams in one day."

Frosh Show Deficiency In Their Reading Rate

As a result of the freshmen reading test given to determine the rapidity and comprehension of freshmen in reading it was found approximately 60 % were below average in rate and 36 % below in comprehension. This test was scored on the same scale as the aptitude tests and will be compared with the national scale. All freshmen falling below the average will be required to take the special training given by the psychology department. The reason for the low average is attributed by Dr. Briggs to an inability to focus the eye muscles properly.

Schedule Of The February Meetings

Three From Maryville Attend Inaugurations At Vanderbilt, Peabody

President and Mrs. Ralph W. Lloyd and Dr. Rogers of the Maryville faculty have been in Nashville during yesterday and today attending inauguration ceremonies at Vanderbilt university and the George Peabody College for Teachers. President Lloyd officially represented Maryville college; and Dr. Rogers, his alma mater, Grove City college, Pennsylvania. On Friday morning Sidney Clarence Garrison was inaugurated as the fifth president of Peabody college. On Saturday morning, Oliver C. Carmichael was inaugurated as the third chancellor of Vanderbilt university.

Vanderbilt is generally regarded as unsurpassed in the South for her academic standards, and Peabody has long been the leading southern institution for the professional training of teachers.

February Meetings Commence Tuesday Morning With Leadership Of Barbour

Barbour Opens Services In Voorhees Chapel Tuesday

The first service of the February meetings will be next Tuesday morning at 9:45 a. m., with Dr. Clifford E. Barbour, pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church, Knoxville, conducting the meetings. The Rev. Sidney E. Stringham, pastor of the Epworth Methodist Episcopal Church, St. Louis, will lead the singing for the sixteenth consecutive year.

As in former years, President Ralph W. Lloyd will preside, various students and facutly members will participate in the devotional services, the choir and the music faculty will play an important part in all of the meetings, and many other faculty members and students will assist in different ways.

Concerning the meetings the president's office has released the following memorandum:

In coming as the preacher for 1938, Dr. Barbour takes his place in a long succession of leaders, many of whom hold eminent places in the Christian world. He is an excellent speaker—intellectual, human, practical, spiritual. His congregations each Sunday morning fill his large stone church building in Knoxville where he has been pastor for nine years. He is a vigorous and joyous personality and yet one of understanding and sympathy.

Dr. Barbour was on the campus recently and introduced Dean Wicks of Princeton at Chapel; it was Dr. Barbour who was responsible for arranging Dean Wicks' visit to Maryville.

Young people in large numbers go to Dr. Barbour for personal counsel and attend his church services. There is every reason to expect that through his ministry at Maryville God will greatly bless all those who attend the meetings.

Anderson Laid Foundations Of Meetings Before Civil War

The series of meetings which we now call the February meetings were founded during the term of office of the Rev. P. Mason Bartlett, third president of Maryville college. The real foundation for these meetings, however, was laid by Dr. Isaac Anderson, founder and first president of this institution.

In pre-war days, Dr. Anderson, pastor of the New Providence church in Maryville, held every year a series of services which the students from Maryville college attended and in which took part. For ten years following the war the college continued to share in these meetings; but about this time the college became so large that it was necessary to have its own meetings. Because of the increase in the student body, the February meetings were established.

The first February meetings were held in the old chapel on the second floor of Anderson hall in 1877, and were led by Rev. Nathan Bachman, D.D. It was these first meetings that determined to a large extent the character of the future February meetings which were regularly held throughout the following years. Among those who have led the meetings since that first series are Dr. Nathan Bachman, Dr. E. H. Elmore, Dr. William J. Trimble, and Dr. Ralph W. Lloyd.

Since the introduction of these meetings into the religious program of the college 61 years ago, Dr. Bachman's doctrine of character-building through the influence of religion has been one of the underlying principles of these meetings.

NOTICE

Necessary schedule changes can be made anytime Monday in the personnel office. Students are urged to ask for changes only when necessitated by failures or other exceptional reasons.

Students making changes in schedule Monday must bring their second semester treasurer's receipt.

Reverend Phillips Of South Dakota Speaks In Voorhees Tomorrow

The Reverend Howard Bailey Phillips of Sisseton, South Dakota will speak at the College Vesper service tomorrow evening.

Mr. Phillips is general missionary in charge of Indian work in eastern South Dakota. He graduated from Maryville college in 1909 and from Lane Theological seminary three years later. In 1933, he was awarded the honorary degree of doctor of divinity by his alma mater.

A short time after finishing seminary, he married Ruth B. Wilson, a daughter of President-Emeritus Samuel Tyndall Wilson and also a graduate of the class of 1909.

Varsity Debaters Make Trip To N.C.

10 Represent Maryville At Tournament

Maryville's varsity debate team left Thursday to compete in their first scheduled match of the season in an invitation preliminary tournament at Boone, North Carolina. Schools from all sections of the mountain region attend, but this is Maryville's first year to participate.

The tournament, which convened for two days, Friday and today, featured debate, oratorical, after dinner and extemporaneous speeches. Two debate teams and one extemporaneous speaker made the trip with Coach Verton M. Queener to represent Maryville: George Hunt, William Lewis, Harwell Proffitt, and James Witt, as the men's team, with Sara Lee Hellums, Curtmarie Brown, Helen Maguire, and Miriam Waggoner representing the women. Louise Proffitt will enter the extemporaneous speaking events.

Extra Light Privileges Granted During Exams

Through cooperation of the Student Council and the heads of the various dormitories, students were allowed late lights for studying on all evenings before the exams last week, except Sunday evening. The women in Memorial and Baldwin had light privileges till 11:30 and the women in Pearson's and the men in Carnegie were given lights till 12 o'clock.

Student From Syria Enrolls At Maryville For Second Semester

The most recent addition to the Maryville college student enrollment from far-distant lands is Olivia Latoff, who comes to Maryville this semester from Syria, Asia Minor.

Born in Merrine, Turkey, Miss Latoff lived for the past twelve years in Beirut, Syria, where she attended the American Junior College for Women. Last year she was a special student at the American university at Beirut.

Miss Latoff arrived at New York City October 15, for her first sight of America. Hence, she has been on this continent less than four months. When asked for her opinion of this country she replied that it is very much like Europe, through which she has traveled. "But," she added, "America is more free than Europe." She likes library work, and plans to enter that field after graduation. If she likes America well enough, she expects to stay here permanently.

There are two brothers of Miss Latoff in the United States. One of them lives in Chicago, the other, in Mobile. Having studied our language at school in Syria, she comes here able to speak English very well for one born and reared in the Near East.

Miss Latoff was impressed with the friendly spirit shown by the women students here at Maryville.

Former Echo Editor Returns From Indiana University For Short Visit

Being editor of a college newspaper would seem to make a person suspicious, or perhaps he has another word for it. When asked for an interview, Bryan Payne, who visited in Maryville last week, grinned and observed. "Mm. Must be low on copy this week."

While at Maryville college, Mr. Payne was outstanding in literary activities—whatever that means. He was a member of the writers' workshop, was business manager of the 1935 Chilhowean, and served four years on the staff of the Highland Echo, being elected editor his senior year.

Mr. Payne entered Maryville college with journalism in view, but became discouraged because of lack of freedom. Through Dr. Paul Fields and Miss Helen Gamble, he became interested in research work and chose psychology as his major field.

In 1935-36, Payne and Clifford Morgan were the only two psychology majors at Maryville college. Morgan received a fellowship at the University of Rochester where he is now working under Dr. Leonard Carmichael.

Immediately after leaving Maryville, Payne entered the graduate school of the University of Indiana where he has completed the work for his master's degree and is now at work on his Ph.

PARAGRAPHICS

Certain types of talks and public addresses lend themselves gracefully to applause; sermons do not. The wry expression on the face of Dr. Howard Moody Morgan when someone started clapping appreciation for his sermon in chapel last week would seem to indicate that he, too, considered the applause out of place.

With first semester final examinations over, we suppose that we should give the customary inspiring editorial on forgetting past mistakes and striving toward greater golden heights in the second semester. But somehow we just don't feel in the mood for it. Sincerely desiring to be helpful, however, we gladly offer one of our aspirin tablets to the first five students or faculty members calling at the Echo office.

Last week the editor of the student publication of Southwestern college, Memphis, Tennessee, resigned because of too much faculty intervention. The faculty had ordered him to suppress news of the Student Council's disciplinary activities, even though the names of the students disciplined were omitted. We had occasionally wondered when a student publication is not a student publication, and now we believe we know.

Like Demosthenes searching for a truthful man, an Echo reporter this week searched for someone who likes the new exam system. The going was rather hard, but he finally found some who were in favor of the new plan. Whether you like it or not you will be interested in seeing the opinions of your classmates on it in the story on page one.

In his inimitable ottotorial style, Mr. Pflanze turns Don Quixotic in his column, Signs of the Times, long enough to espouse the cause of the poor wretches whose last names come between M and Z in the alphabet. He complains that men in this class do not become great. What about Mussolini, Tugwell, Stalin, Roosevelt, or would they be an argument for his side?

• • • • •

Surprised to find that the views expressed in this column are not always their own, students have occasionally expressed a desire to know who writes the editorials for the Highland Echo. In order that the reputation of no one else on the staff be jeopardized, we gladly explain that all editorials, unless otherwise signed, are written by the editor.

We heard just enough of the boos at the wrestling match last evening to have a faint suspicion that Maryville supporters cannot take it. If Maryville loses, it is always the fault of the referee—or so they seem to think. It's about time that this narrow, misjudged attitude were dropped.

Signs of the Times

REMEMBER THE MAINE

Forty years ago almost to a day the battleship Maine riding at anchor in the harbor of Havana was shaken by a terrific explosion. With a huge, gaping hole in her side the vessel rolled over and sank swiftly into the sea. 266 men were killed in that disaster, and 2,478 more died in the war that followed. No one was ever quite sure what caused the explosion. Accusations were made on all sides, but nothing was ever definitely proved.

The other day as the Japanese liner Hiye Maru lay in the harbor at Seattle a swimmer pushed a railroad tie loaded with 369 sticks of dynamite against its side. While attempting to fix the bomb securely in position, he slipped, floundered in the cold water, and drowned. Next day the water-logged dynamite and the body of the would-bomber were found floating in the bay. The plot to destroy the Hiye Maru had failed.

Therein lies the probable story of what happened to the Maine. At the time of the disaster there was much friction between the United States and Spain. We thought Spain was unjustly oppressing the Cubans, while the Spaniards thought it was none of our business.

A Spaniard looked out across the bay at the Maine lying at anchor. There was hatred in his heart. He despised the inquisitive Yanqui from the North. That night he towed a mine out to the steel plated sides of the vessel and escaped in the darkness. He succeeded.

IT JUST AIN'T FAIR

One-half the people enjoy far more of the world's advantages than is their due. They receive the best, while their less fortunate brethren are forced to endure untold hardships. By this time the reader is weeping over the plight of the "ill fed, ill housed, and ill clothed." But nothing of the sort. I refer to those poor souls whose names come between M and Z in the alphabet.

Thomas Jefferson made an awful mistake when he wrote, "All men are created equal." But then, his name comes in the first half of the alphabet; so there's little wonder he couldn't comprehend any inequality in the distance from A to Z.

Washington was one of the few from this long-suffering class who survived the hardships and rose to fame. But then who's he beside such an array as Clay, Grant, Cleveland, Jackson, and Lincoln? And what's more; George never had to go to college.

Back in the grammar-grades A through L sat on the front rows while M through Z got to sit in the back and shoot the peper wads. It was an asset then, but not anymore. When registration day comes around A through L get the desirable classes, while M through Z take what's left. The latter part of the freshman class sleeps in the balcony after the tiring climb up the steps. In the class room the professors complain about the back row going to sleep, but the back row is always composed of the long-suffering latter part of the alphabet. Most of them gave up the struggle long ago.

ODDS AND ENDS

Rather ironic is the fact that it takes a mere majority vote of Congress to get the United States into war and a two-thrids vote to get her out.

The rise of nationalism in America is signified by the fact that they used to call the country "These United States," while now one says "The United States."

Democracy in the West today is the forerunner of Marxism, which would be inconceivable without Democracy. It is the feeding-ground of that world pestilence which is enabled to develop there.—Adolf Hitler.

"Yes, quaint and curious war is!
You shoot a fellow down
You'd treat if met where any bar is,
Or help to half-a-crown."

SIMPSON SPENCER'S LAST LINES

ABOUT ONCE A YEAR some dear old Daughter of the American Revolution exhibits a jingoistic patriotism that calls down ridicule on her entire organization. Last week one feverish dowager loudly proclaimed that all the beautiful Japanese cherry trees in Washington should be destroyed, to be replaced by good Nordic trees. This same Descendant no doubt condemns Hitler for his tactics.

THE TENDENCY OF MOST OF US to pass general judgment on insufficient evidence is a habit we can well do without. Those who deride the entire D. A. R., the American Legion, the Ku Klux Klan, and similar groups because of isolated instances of ignorance and intolerance are exhibiting those same characteristics themselves. The skeptic flays Christianity because the Presbyterian elder next door swears at his wife. The Yankee tends to see the entire South as an illiterate land of hillbillies, drawing such a conclusion from two or three child-marriage or lynching stories. Snap judgments easily become a complex, characteristic in general of the untrained, unscientific mind. H. G. Wells defines education as "the avoidance of complexes". Need more be said?

TALK OF THE WEEK

FEBRUARY MEETINGS COMMENCE TUESDAY MORNING

ECHOES OF THE PAST

February 5, 1918

ARRIVAL...The Reverend Frank Marston, the leader of the February meetings for the year 1918, arrived in Maryville from his home in Cincinnati this afternoon.

TRIUMPH....In one of the hottest, fastest, and most exciting games that has ever been seen on the Maryville floor in recent years, the varsity basketball team triumphed over their ancient rivals, U.T., by a score of 20-19.

OLD CUSTOM....Saturday evening the Baldwin women entertained the women members of the senior class.

ROMANCE....On Tuesday evening the Theta Epsilon society gave their annual midwinter entertainment in the form of an original drama, "The Romance of Youth."

LECTURE....On February 19, the fourth number of the Lyceum programs will be presented in Voorhees chapel. Dr. Edward Amherst Ott will deliver his famous psychological and biological lecture on "Sour Grapes or Heredity and Marriage."

ECONOMY....Saturday morning Miss Julia Reagan, Emergency Home Demonstrator of the Knoxville section of the state, gave a demonstrated lecture on "Wheat Substitutes" in the home economics laboratory. Miss Reagan made an earnest plea for the conservation of wheat, as well os sugar.

ORATORICAL PEP....An enthusiastic "pep" meeting was held in the chapel last Thursday evening to get ready for the oratorical contest on the following evening.

February 3, 1928

THEN....The program of the February meetings will open Thursday morning with the first of the series of 22 addresses to be delivered by the Reverend Ralph W. Lloyd.

VICTORY....The Highlanders defeated the Miami basketball club by a score of 38-28, marring the latter's record of two defeats out of 32 games.

AND AGAIN....Playing brilliantly, the Maryville college cage artists defeated the Lenior City Civitans Friday evening 33-28.

FIRST....The Maryville swimming team will meet the Knoxville Y.M.C.A. in the first meet of the season Saturday evening. Although there have been inter-class contests for a number of years, this meet is the first encounter with another college.

STATE RIGHTS....The students hailing from Virginia met last evening and formed a Virginia club.

COLLECTING....A costume wardrobe has been added to the expression department. All donations in the way of costumes or lengths of cloth would be welcomed.

HIGHLAND FLING....Lois: Why do you call your umbrella Adam?
Margaret: It's shy a rib.

CAMPUS SHORTS

Candidates trying out for vacancies on the Echo staff are Jessie Cassada, senior vacancy; Joy Corrigan and John Fisher, sophomore vacancy; and Robert Koch, business assistantship.

The tryouts will be concluded this afternoon and the election will probably be held next week.

Miss Katherine C. Davies, Miss Dorothy D. Horne, and Ralph Colbert are in St. Louis on business connected with the possible selection of an organ for the Chapel and the work of the Fine Arts Department.

There has been very little illness on the campus since the Christmas vacation. This week there have been only two patients at the hospital, one of whom has been discharged already. Lucille Varnadore has been confined with neuritis and Geneva Johnson is recovering from the mumps.

Lights have been put over the front stacks of the library, and if these prove successful, the back stacks will be lighted in the same way. The lights have been long needed, and will greatly facilitate the finding of books.

At Bainonian society's regular meeting this evening at 7:00 the program that was postponed last week because of the Kentucky-Maryville swimming meet will be presented. Walter West is to speak on "The Students' Relationship to the Artists' Series Program," and Ruth Andrews will sing two solos.

The meeting of the Student Volunteers Sunday evening will take the form of a discussion. There will be five discussion groups, each one of the foreign countries represented at Maryville this year.

Thursday evening the Confab club held a farewell theatre party for Reese Scull, the first president of the club. After the theatre the members and their guests went to Eslinger's Cafe. Reese Scull graduated last semester, but has registered for additional work.

Miss Jessie Heron has been absent from her classes since the Christmas holidays, having been confined to her home with an infected ear. She was expected to return today or early next week.

JAM SESSION

Clemson college held a "pre-exam jam session" just before their Mid-Term exams began. A college orchestra did the jamming. Bunny Berigan's orchestra will play for the Clemson Mid-Winters this year.

SLAM

Two psychologists at Florida State College for Women have been conducting scientific tests to determine the extent of women's intuition. The tests were conducted with students and with a robot. As a result of their experiments, the scientists have determined that the women have no more intuition than the robot.

FORMALITY

Seniors, juniors and faculty members at the University of the South wear caps and gowns in classrooms. This custom was established soon after the founding of the University.

CENSORED!

Ward Archer, editor of the Sou'wester, publication of Southwestern college, recently handed in his resignation on the grounds that the faculty had ordered him to suppress news of the Student Council's disciplinary activities. The editor said that he always omitted the names of the students disciplined, merely publishing the facts of the cases and the penalties involved.

A-1

The Vanderbilt Hustler won first place in the Annual State Judging Contest of the Tennessee Collegiate Press Association. The Orange and White, publication of the University of Tennessee, won second place, and the Tech Oracle, the Tennessee Polytechnic Institute paper, third.

On The Bench

-with-

THE SPORTS EDITOR

It was with a deep feeling of shock that we received news Tuesday night of the tragic accident which took the lives of two members of the Carson-Newman basketball team and injured four others.

Roy Roberts and James Grissom had friends here who are unreserved in their praise of the character and worth of the two boys. Both ranked high in the esteem and regard of their team mates and acquaintances. Roberts, one of the finest guards in the conference, was also one of the most popuar men on the campus at the Jefferson City school. Both will be missed.

To the Carson-Newman team, which lost three excellent players, and to those who lost much more, we extend our deepest sympathy.

BIG NAMES 'n' LOTS OF 'EM

Quality and quantity are dominant on the sports vista at Maryville this week. If you don't believe it, just look around at the bright-hued green-and-white-sweated Marshall College hardwood aggregation, or the red clad wrestlers of North Carolina State who are flitting about the campus awaiting the Roman holiday as this is written.

If more is needed, the swimming team of the University of Tennessee has just left, after trouncing the Scot swimmers. And just a few days ago Vanderbilt's black and gold Commodore grapplers were taking in the sights of the central area of Maryville's campus.

All of them are swell fellows, too; even though they haven't been exactly considerate in their treatment of Highlander teams. Both Vanderbilt and Tennessee drew blood in their encounters, and the others are fully expected to administer the same sort of treatment. We might add, too, that the University of Kentucky has also had a victorious finger in the pie of late, with their win over the Scot swimmers last Saturday.

Speaking of Carolina State's wrestlers, as we probably have, you may have noticed their coach. In case you didn't he's Herman Hickman, All-American guard, Tennessee, 1931, and the sort of fellow who stands out in a crowd, no matter how big the crowd. You can't miss Herman, all 260 pounds of him. And he's really a nice guy to talk to. His boys insist that he can be inveigled into showing you his scrap book; indeed, they say he even likes to show you his scrap-book. Unfortunately he seems not to have brought his book along.

Goaded on by his admiring pupils, however, Hickman will tell you very entertainingly of the time when a 160 pound Maryville guard ran up and down his frame all afternoon. Or, more willingly, of that game at New York in which metropolitan scribes insist he played sixty minutes of bang-up football in the NYU backfield.

The first thing Hickman said Friday morning as he shook hands with Coach Bob Thrower was, "Bob, I'm growing up faster than you are."

Wrestlers Make It Four Straight Losses As They Fall To N.C. State

Vandy Defeat Is Followed By 23 1-2 to 4 1-2 Humiliation At Hands Of Carolinians

Seemingly bent on establishing an unbeatable record for future Maryville wrestling posterity, the Scot grapplers dropped their fourth straight verdict last night to the North Carolina State crew of Herman Hickman. The score to make matters worse, was 23 1-2 to 4 1-2.

The Highlanders were never in the fray after the first three matches had been lost, giving the visitors an 11 point lead.

John Astles and Bill Mooney lost decisions after putting up a good fight in the 118 and 126 pound classes. Cheslock of State then pinned Wood Everett in four minutes and 45 seconds.

Still going strong, the Carolinians took the next two battles, Edgar Meares going down before Davis and Captain Jim Renfro losing by decision to State's Captain Shimer.

A bit of balm for Scot supporters came in the 165 pound clash, in which Guy Propst appeared to have the nod over Leggett at the end of the extra period duel. A questionable decision rendered the bout a draw, however, giving each team one and one-half points.

The performance of Propst in this match was one of the high spots of the program in view of the fact that an injured leg has kept him out of rough work all week and prevented his usual aggressiveness.

In the 175 pound set-to Obie Jenkins appeared to have things well in hand after riding his opponent for three minutes. Johnson came up in the final three minutes period, though, to stage a winning comeback, securing a fall in eight minutes, 40 seconds.

Fred Tulloch gave a much improved performance in the heavyweight show to trounce Frye with plenty to spare.

THIS WAS NO. 2

Their second consecutive loss was absorbed Saturday, January 22, by our grapplers at Boone, North Carolina, the villains being the Appalachian Teachers and the score 25-0.

The Scots, working on a fall-or-nothing basis, suffered falls in four of the events, while Guy Propst was disqualified for stalling.

The decisive results came in the 118, 126, 135, and 175 pound weights.

ANOTHER ONE, 18-16

Attempting to stage a comeback against Vanderbilt University grunters last Saturday, the Throwermen were again trounced, this time after giving a much more creditable account of themselves. The score was 18-16.

After getting away to a slow start the Scots rallied in the middle and light heavyweight classes, to hold a 16-11 lead going into the last match. Fleming, stocky Commodore bouncer, then secured a fall over Tulloch for the necessary points.

Decisions in the 118 and falls in the 126 and 135 pound matches gave Vandy their other tallies. The Scots were victorious in the 135, when Wood Everett was awarded a forfeit over Keefe, who injured his arm. Edgar Meares, in poor shape after a mauling at Appalachian on the previous Saturday, dropped his match to Dozier, whom he had in trouble constantly until the surprised conclusion came about late in the scrap. It was the second time in Meares' career that he has been pinned, and the first since his freshman year.

In the 155, Captain Jim Renfro gave his opponent a convincing trouncing to earn a referee's decision. Guy Propst followed this one with a decision over Vandy's captain and 165 pound ace, Art Keene.

Interclass Standings Again Tangled As Juniors Win, Frosh Make Comeback

Coming from behind at the half, the juniors staged a rally which sent them sky-rocketing over the sophomores, Thursday evening, by a score of 35 to 28.

Colombo and McCaskie led the juniors in both offensive and defensive play. Colombo totaled 13 points to tie with Born for high score position in the game.

Born and Augestine led the sophomores, but were unable to stay off the junior attack once it got under way.

The freshmen quintet pulled out of a losing streak Thursday evening to hand the seniors a sizeable defeat, 44 to 36, in the Alumni gym, in the intramural loop.

After getting off with a slow start, the freshmen slipped one over on the upper-classmen and while the higher-ups were rallying, the under-classmen ran up such a large margin that the seniors were unable to catch them.

Russell lead the frosh in their devastating offensive with a total of 19 points. Scoring, however, was well distributed throughout the ranks, and this was one of the main causes of the victory.

Parker, senior, was high score man of the game with 21 points, but he was unable to keep up with the sure-shot freshmen.

Marshall Cagers Beat Highlanders

Loss Second For Scots Since Return

contest Wednesday, had been pulling most of the loose balls off the backboards; that is the ones which Junior Odell didn't grab.

ODELL

The play of Odell was up to the improved standard which he has been flashing here of late.

With Howard McGill back in shape, and with the added speed provided by the presence of Boyd-son Baird, there is a good chance for the Scots to garner a bit of revenge in the Teacher game Monday.

The lineups:

Maryville 26	pos	Marshall 62
McGill 2	F	Morlock 14
W. Baird 7	F	Rivlin 12
Russell 1	C	Watson 13
B. Baird 5	G	Ayerson 8
Odell 2	G	Cunningham 4

Subs: Maryville—Honaker 4, Black, Hughes 5, Etheredge, Hernandez.

Marshall—Bauld 4, Wilcox 7, Paletti.

Referee; Blazer, Maryville.

Hiwassee 46

In a non-conference game played at Madisonville last Saturday night, the Scot quintet defeated the Tigers of Hiwassee 49-46. Longmire of Hiwassee was high scorer, making a total of 20 points for the evening. For Maryville, Russell hit the hoop for 16 points for second scoring honors.

Hiwassee staged a belated rally late in the game but failed to top the fighting Highlanders. Maryville led through out the game, taking the lead early in the game.

Maryville:	Hiwassee
Magill 15	3 Mongire
W. Baird 3	3 Shelton
Russell 16	20 Longmire
Odell 7	9 Smith
B. Baird 5	10 Morrell

Substitutions:

Maryville—Honaker 2, Hughes, Hernandez, Black 1.

Hiwassee—Baker 1, Youell.

Milligan Buffs 45
Highlanders 44

In a close and exciting game the Milligan Buffaloes turned back the Highlanders of Maryville 44-45. This is the second conference loss for the Scotties. The game was close all the way, with Maryville leading until the final quarter, when Milligan finally overtook and passed the Scots. Howington, Milligan substitute, was the real offensive star for Milligan. Coming into the game late in the first half, he managed to score 12 points before the game was finished. His crips kept the Buffalos up with Maryville in their final rally. Dale Russell, Maryville freshman who has been going "great guns" in the last few games, was high scorer for the game, sinking eight field goals and three free throws for a total of 19 points. Odell, who has been playing a whale of a defensive game for Maryville lately, came next in the scoring for Maryville, hitting the hoop for two field goals and five free throws for a total of 9 points.

Lineups:

Swimmers Dropped By U-T, Kentucky Aquatic Experts

Scots Have Chance To Come Up For Air Against Tusculum

Maryville swimmers went down before the University of Kentucky tankmen by a score of 27-48 in the dual meet held in Barlett pool on the evening of January 29.

Kentucky decidedly out-classed the Scotty squad in all but three or four events. Rusty Wicklund was the high score man for the Maryville squad with two first for ten points. Wicklund showed excellent form to take the 220 and 100 yard free styles.

The University of Tennessee swimming squad invaded Maryville territory Thursday evening, and defeated the Scotty tankmen in their own pool by a score of 27-48.

Wicklund, Rippeth and Akana turned in six points apiece for the local squad. Wicklund placed second in the 100 and 200-yard events; Rippeth took second in the back-stroke and 440-yard free style; while Akana got first in the breast stroke and third in the 440-yard free style.

Maryville swimmers will meet their first conference foe of the season when Tusculum makes its invasion of the Scotty pool here on March 18.

Maryville has met two non-conference opponents so far, and has been defeated in each case; first against U.T., then Kentucky, and again against U-T. Tusculum, however, will be the first school that the Maryville tankmen have come up against on an equal footing.

Coach Fischbach seems confident that the Tusculum mermen will meet defeat by a larger score than any that has been chalked up against Maryville this season.

Fits and Fizzles

By FRED RHODI

AN OPERA IN FIVE ACTS

Act I (Time: All semester. Scene Various areas of the campus. Couples stroll hither and thither among the byways. An atmosphere of ethereal bliss pervades everything.)

Girls sing (winsomely, allegro non tanto):

"In the evening by the moonlight
You all tell us how you love us;
In the evening by the moonlight
You all swear by stars above us.
How we sweethearts do enjoy it,
We could sit all night and listen,
As you tell us in the evening by the moonlight."

Boys sing (with spirit, e pluribus unum):

"We're here for fun right from the start,
Let's laugh and love sweetheart——
That's what College Life's about!"

— M. C. —

Act II (Time: Has flown past in a mad whirl of gay campus life. Final exams rear their ugly heads on the smoke-smudged horizon. Same couples, but ethereal bliss has become anxious dread.)

All sing (very slowly, with great feeling):

"Where will we all be a week or two from now?
Dum de da dum de, dum de da da——dumb!
We'll be in an awful spot when they come,
We'll be tearing out our hair when they come,
Oh, we'll be a-steamin' and a-puffin'
But we won't pass them for nothin',
Yes, we'll flunk th' examinations when they come."

— M. C. —

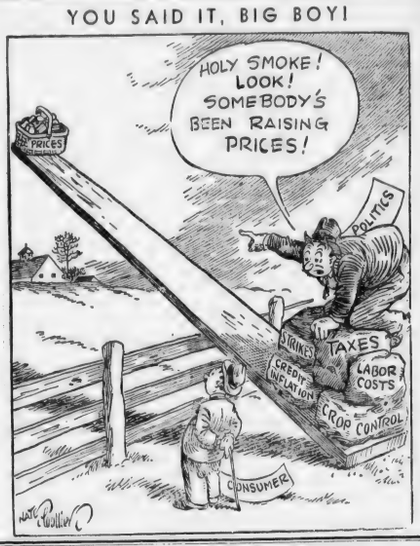
Act III (Time: 'Twas the night before exams. Scene: One of feverish activity—great flourish of text books, scrap paper, notebooks, oil lamps, etc. From different regions of the dormitories come strains of "Dark Eyes," "Let the Lower Lights be Burning," "Go to Sleep, Lena Darling," "Sons of Toil are We," "Wait for the Wagon," and "In the Evening by the Lamp Light.")

Voice sings (softly, as a lullaby):

"Cram, my child, and I'll cram with thee,
All through the night;
We will drink the blackest coffee,
All through the night.
Woe are we——the coffee's muddy,
I am sleepy, so's my buddy;
I my dratted Virgil study——
All through the night."

Act IV (Time: Exam week. Stage is draped in black. Hushed groups whisper solemnly in low, mournful tones. The orchestra plays "Just Tell Them that You Saw Me," and "Nobody Knows the Trouble I've Had." Then a hopeful note is sounded with "Passing By," and "Wait Till The Clouds Roll By." Because of its poignant associations, this act has been censored rigidly.)

Act V (Time: Present. Bits of wreckage still strew the stage—grim reminders of the recent terrors. But good cheer and happiness have returned. Loving couples again infest the campus.)



All sing:

"After exams are over,
After the damage is done,
We're happy at last,
Don't care if we passed——
The main thing is that they're gone,
We're here for fun right from the start,
That's what College Life's about."

scientist and recent winner of the Nobel prize; Dr. Harold McAfee Robinson, Secretary of the Presbyterian Board of Christian Education, President Mackay of Princeton Theological Seminary, and many others.

The National Conference of Church-Related Colleges and other church groups are giving special efforts to informing the American people of the essential place of religion and of the church-related college in the history, and the present program of American education. The radio, publications, public addresses, and other means are used. The National Conference of Church-Related Colleges and the Council of Church Boards of Education have a joint office in Washington, D. C., and an Executive Secretary, Dr. Gould Wickey. The Association of American colleges has its office in New York and its Executive Director is Dr. Guy E Snavely. The denominational groups have headquarters, offices and staffs in various principal cities.

The most prominent note struck in the recent discussions in Chicago was to the effect that the present chaos of the world is not due to lack of wealth or even of technical education but to lack of character, comprehensive education, and religion in education and life.

The Rev. Raymond J. Dollenmayer will lead a discussion at the weekly meeting of the Ministerial association, Monday evening at 6:45. The topic for this meeting will be "Building a Worship Service."

Second payments on the Chilhowean have been concluded, it was announced Thursday. The sophomore and freshman sections have been closed, and all the photography has now been completed. Thirty plates were sent to the engraver today.

The student workers, under the direction of Ernest C. Brown, began spring improvements on the campus this week. Mr. Brown plans to complete the work of sowing grass on the old walk in front of Thaw hall, and that some additional shrubs will be planted at various places on the lawn.

Seniors To Have Party This Evening At Seven

The senior class will meet in Bartlett gym at 8:00 this evening for an informal, closed party. Main activity of the evening will be a treasure hunt directed over the campus, ending at the Y.W. room where refreshments will be served.

Guest chaperones are Miss Geneva Hutchinson, Miss Viola Lightfoot, and Dr. Newell T. Preston.

Lee Whetstone is acting as refreshment committee chairman.

Tryouts For Freshmen Debate To Be Held Mon.

The freshman debate class will hold tryouts for the freshman team on Feb. 7. The tryouts will begin at 1:15 and continue until each team has spoken.

The judges will be Professor John Kiger, Dr. David Briggs, and Dr. Edwin Hunter. Approximately 17 teams will try out. Out of these, four teams will be chosen to represent Maryville in the freshman conference.

Alpha Sigma And Theta To Hold Joint Meeting

Alpha Sigma and Theta Epsilon societies will hold a joint meeting in Voorhees chapel this evening starting promptly at 6:45 p.m. The Royal Collegians orchestra will furnish the entertainment and several vocalists will be featured on the program. Current favorites in popular music will be played by the orchestra.

When Payne's girl made the Echo staff in the spring of his senior year, columnist David Maas declared that all the Echo office needed then was lacy curtains and overstuffed furniture. Incidentally, Maas' statement is published now for the first time—two years late.

But it is not for such trivial incidents as this one that Payne remembers Maryville. He remembers most his associations with Dr. Fields and Miss Gamble, whom he considers the best professors that he has had.

Davies Takes Part On Athenian Program In Installation Service

After a short installation service, Miss Katherine Davies commented on a number of musical compositions in Athenian's program last Saturday evening. Among the compositions, which were played on the Fine Arts department's electric Victrola, were Ravel's "Bolero," "The March of the Toys" from Victor Herbert's "Babes in Toyland," Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue," and the "March of the Flowers" from Tschaikowsky's "Nutcracker's Suite."

Malcolm Brown was installed as secretary, Russ Stevenson and Warren Ashby as program secretaries, George Hunt and Ernest Enslin as critics, and Ed Thomas and Less Luxton as sergeants-at-arms. Other officers were absent.

Wilson Celebrates His 80th Birthday On Next Thursday

President Emeritus Served MC As President For 29 Years

On February 17, Dr. Samuel Tyndale Wilson, president emeritus of Maryville college, will celebrate his eightieth birthday. With him will be his grandson, Samuel Wilson II, who has come from the Pacific coast expressly for this occasion, and other members of his family.

More than 60 years of Dr. Wilson's life have been spent in activities of this college. Born in Syria in 1858 of missionary parents, he came with them to America while still a boy and was educated in Maryville college, graduating in 1878. He spent his first two years as a minister in Mexico doing missionary work under the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions and instructing in the seminary in Mexico City. He returned to the United States because of ill health and in 1882 accepted a position at Maryville as professor of English literature and language and Spanish. Until 1901 he served the college as professor, registrar, librarian, and dean simultaneously. In that year he was elected president, a position he occupied for 29 years.

In the years of Dr. Wilson's presidency the college made its greatest progress. Seventy-five students were in the college department when Dr. Wilson succeeded Dr. S. W. Boardman as the president. When he retired in 1930 it contained 760 students. During that time many changes took place, for the college abolished the preparatory school and became solely a liberal arts college. During that time the value of the property and the endowment multiplied 8 times over, due in the main to Dr. Wilson's efforts. According to President Ralph W. Lloyd, "while Dr. Isaac

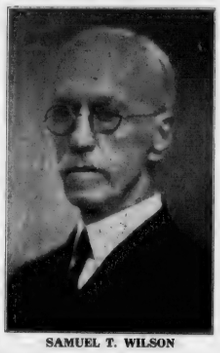
Lloyd Addresses Endeavor Union

Christian Endeavor Mov't Celebrated

Dr. Ralph W. Lloyd addressed 150 young people of the Knoxville Christian Endeavor Union on Monday evening, February 7. The address was made at a banquet held at the S. and W. Cafeteria in Knoxville to celebrate the fifty-seventh anniversary of the beginning of the Christian Endeavor movement. Short speeches were made by old members of Christian Endeavor. These former members told of the beginning of the movement in and about Knoxville.

Dr. Lloyd made the principal address of the evening. On the forty-ninth anniversary of the organization of the Christian Endeavor, Dr. Lloyd made a speech over the radio in Pittsburg, Pa. In his address in Knoxville Dr. Lloyd emphasized some of the points that he had made in his Pittsburg raido talk. He illustrated some of the problems, and solutions to the problems of a Christian Endeavor organization.

Maryville students attending the banquet were Louise Wells, Miriam Waggoner, Barbara Anderson, Mary Orr, and George Hunt.



Work is progressing rapidly on the 1938 Chilhowean. This week the last pictures were made and prepared for the press. Kenneth Van Cise, the staff photographer, has finished his work with the taking of two group pictures, the Vesper Choir and the basketball team.

JUNIORS EDIT HIGHLAND ECHO

In accordance with long-established presedent, each junior on the editorial staff of the Highland Echo will be given opportunity to take over the editorship of one issue. The schedule follows:

February 26—George Felknor
March 5—Robert Brandriff
March 12—Curtmarie Brown
March 26—Fred Rhody

Twosome Benches Campus Work Show Spring Has Sprung

BY PHIL EVAUL

If there is any doubt in the minds of the students as to the nearness of Spring, we would suggest that they take a good look around the campus. On every hand it will be noticed that "Brownie" and his gang of stalwart helpers are preparing the grounds for the time of the year for which youth eagerly awaits.

You have heard it said that Spring is the time of the year when a young man's fancies turn to thoughts of love, and that is true. And yet, more practical minded persons realize that the approach of Spring means the time to get busy on the grounds. It seems that Maryville is blessed with both kinds for while we see, even at this early date, the benches beginning to fill with loving couples, we also see leaves being raked and burned, soil being turned, and grass encouraged to grow.

And so, for all interested in the campus work of this week, I would suggest looking in the following places: the amphitheatre, where a group has raked the leaves and cleaned the ground; the rear of Carnegie hall, which seems bare without its winter coat of leaves; the lawn around Anderson hall, which should grow green and abundant this summer; the baseball field, where already the crack of the bat can be heard; and the grounds and shrubs all over the campus.

Writer's Workshop Has First Meeting Of Semester Monday

Writer's Workshop held its first meeting of the new semester Monday afternoon of this week, at which time Bill Alston read an essay on advertising and warning signs, and Walter West a short story on the troubles of tobacco sellers leading to the first ware-house tobacco sale in Louisville in 1908.

Because of extra time allotted to February meetings there will be no meeting next week. On March 21, the group is to vote on the five best writings of last semester to be placed in the library.

A tall story contest will be featured by the Athenian society at its regular meeting Saturday evening. Any member of the society may volunteer to enter the competition. In addition to this program several musical numbers are being planned.

Thomas Presents Concert Feb. 21, Voorhees Chapel

Repertoire Of Baritone Is Unusually Well Rounded

John Charles Thomas, distinguished American baritone who will present a concert in Voorhees chapel February 21, has one of the largest repertoires of any concert artist. Thomas is able to sing at a moment's notice and without notes some 500 songs.

This repertoire is a well rounded one composed of all types of music. Thomas is equally at home in grand opera, light opera, and purely concert selections. It is his delight to vary his "heavier" operatic numbers with light, frivolous songs which invariably bring smiles and thunderous applause.

John Charles Thomas is one of the few purely American musicians who have been universally acclaimed by critics throughout the world. Born in Meyersdale, Pennsylvania, he is the son of a Methodist minister and spent much of his early childhood singing in camp meetings where his father preached.

The flip of coin is said to have decided Thomas' career. His early leanings were in the direction of medicine. In fact he was attending the Baltimore Medical school when he unexpectedly won a scholarship for the Peabody Conservatory of Music. A quick decision was necessary, and Thomas let the god of Chance decide.

The first great success Thomas made was in the field of light opera. Singing on the New York stage, he soon became a matinee idol and one of the highest paid performers in that field of music. Successful though he was, Thomas never was quite satisfied. He had a yearning for further artistic development on the concert stage and in grand opera.

And so it was that John Charles Thomas abandoned the light opera stage after 8 years before the footlights of Broadway and ventured on the concert platform. His advent into

Fund For Chapel Organ Hits $1300

Committee Examines Small Pipe Organs

The fund to be used for installing an organ in Voorhees chapel has reached $1300. The type of organ suitable for use in the chapel will cost about $2000.

It was previously thought that an organ could be purchased for $1500, but later investigation indicated that a slightly more expensive model was desirable.

A committee composed of Miss Katherine Davies, Miss Dorothy D. Horne, and Ralph Colbert have just returned from St. Louis, where they have been examining various small pipe organs built to sell in the same price class as the Hammond electric organ.

The committee attended demonstrations at the Kilgen organ factory in St. Louis and the Wicks factory in Highland, Illinois. No organ has been selected, but it is expected that a decision will be made in the near future. Anyone wishing to make additional contributions to the fund should see Mrs. Ralph W. Lloyd or Miss Davies.

Louise Proffitt Wins Individual Honors At Boone

Maguire Places Second In Women's Debate Division

At a debate tournament held February 4 and 5 at the Appalachian State Teachers college at Boone, North Carolina, Louise Proffitt, who won honors in oratory last year, was awarded first place in impromptu speaking and after dinner speaking, and second place in extemporaneous. Helen Maguire received second place in the women's debate division. Verton M. Queener accompanied the representatives from Maryville who made the trip in the college car. Those making the trip and debating were Curtmarie Brown, Helen Maguire, Affirmative team; Miriam Waggoner, Sara Lee Hellums, Negative; James Whitt, Harwell Proffitt, Affirmative; George Hunt, William Lewis, Negative; and Louise Proffitt.

PROFFITT

The debaters were judged individually and those placing will receive certificates which will be hung in the debate room. Miss Proffitt will also receive a certificate.

At the tournament at Boone there were representatives from colleges in North Carolina and some from Tennessee.

Varsity Debaters Schedule Trips

Several Tournaments Being Planned

The varsity debate squad has several trips scheduled for February and the first part of March. Two women's teams, Sara Lee Hellums and Louise Proffitt, Affirmative, and Georgia Ingle and Arda Walker, Negative, will attend the Smoky Mountain Women's Tournament to be held at Virgina Intermont college February 19. Two men's teams, Warren Ashby and Arnold Kramer and Otto Pflanze, Affirmative, and Warren Ashby and Clifford Proctor, Negative, will attend the Smoky Mountain Men's tournament at Johnson City February 26.

Nine members of the squad will participate in the South Atlantic Forensic tournament at High Point, N. C. March 3, 4 and 5. The people making this trip are Arnold Kramer, Otto Pflanze, Warren Ashby, Clifford Proctor, Sara Lee Hellums, Louise Proffitt, Helen Maguire, Curtmarie Brown, and Arda Walker.

187 Schedule Changes Were Made On Monday

Schedule changes for the second semester were made last Monday at the personnel office with 187 students making changes. Beginning in the morning and continuing throughout the day, Dr. McClellan, Miss Geneva Hutchinson, and Miss Viola Lightfoot assisted the students in rearranging their programs. This was the last time in which programs could be changed.

Barbour Opened Sixty-First Series Of February Meetings Tues. Morning

Stringham Returns For His 16th Consecutive Year

At the Tuesday morning chapel service, the sixty-first annual series of Feb. meetings began, with Dr. Clifford E. Barbour, pastor of the Second Presbyterian church of Knoxville, bringing the messages. The Rev. Sydney E. Stringham, pastor of the Epworth M.E. church of St. Louis, is leading the singing for the sixteenth consecutive year.

There is no meeting this evening. Wednesday morning will be held the last service of the series.

The following are brief summaries of the first seven of Dr. Barbour's sermons:

Tuesday Morning

The general theme for these morning talks is to be what Religion Means to Me. The best way for me to convince you of the value of Christian living is for me to tell what it means to me. Therefore, these morning messages are to be a confession of faith on my part.

Tuesday Evening

The Necessity for Having Adequate Loyalties. Various groups are trying to get people to be loyal to their ways of living. We must recognize the necessity for adequate loyalties commanding us. We should be loyal, first, to ourselves—be loyal to the royal in ourselves. Self giving, not self preservation is the first principle of life. Second, we should be loyal to our family group. Don't let the inevitability of the gradual ruin beautiful family relationships. Be loyal to love, sacrifice and self-forgetfulness. Then, third, we should be loyal to the best in our country.

We can get these loyalties, as Paul did, by experiencing the power of Christ. We can not do it by ourselves.

Pearson's Women Hold Reception

Plans Of Affair Directed By Dewell

The women of Pearsons hall will hold a formal reception for all men students and faculty members of the College next Thursday evening from 7:30 to 9:30.

Plans for the affair are under the direction of Mary Frances Dewell, president of the dormitory. She is aided by Lee Whetstone, chairman of the refreshment committee, Helen Bobo, in charge of receiving, and Deane Brown, who is planning the musical program.

The reception will be conducted somewhat differently from the one last year. Upon entering the downstairs lobby, each visitor will receive a ticket which will admit him to the floors above and to the refreshment room. Visitors will be conducted through the building in small groups by guides. After the tour, refreshments will be served buffet style in Theta hall.

Freshman Debate Squad Is Chosen

M.C. To Sponsor Freshman Tournament

Thirteen men and women were chosen members of the freshman debate squad after the tryouts last Monday. The members of the squad are as follows: Ivan Blake, William Felknor, Robert Lamont, Robert Short, David Talmage, George Webster, Thomas Woolf, Marianna Allen, Mary Darden, Ellen Losey, Annette Medefind, Elizabeth Moore, and Virginia Wheeler. The first meeting of the group will be Thursday evening, February 17, at seven o'clock in Mr. Verton M. Queener's classroom.

The freshman debate question is, Resolved: that the several states should adopt unicameral ligeslatures.

Maryville will sponsor a Freshman tournament March 25 and 26. Cumberland university, East Tennessee Teachers college, King college, and the University of Tennessee will come to Maryville to participate in this tournament.

The judges were Dr. E. R. Hunter, Dr. D. H. Briggs, and Professor S. H. Kiger.

Colbert Replaced By McCurry As Head Of The Royal Collegians

The college orchestra known as the Royal Collegians has been reorganized and E. E. McCurry, proctor of Carnegie hall, has been made sponsor. Mr. McCurry replaces Ralph W. Colbert, band director, who had to give up the sponsorship because of conflicting duties.

Eugene Craine remains as leader of the group and Robert Rankin has been elected manager and program director. Besides those already mentioned, seven others are members of the orchestra: Oliver Williams, Norman Bennett, Paul Elrod, A. R. McCammon, Jimmy Pollock, Hal Simpson, and Howard McGill

Exams Indicate Pearsons' Women Cannot Take It

BY JESSIE CASSADA

Eleven o'clock on Friday night and Pearson's parlor is so lonely and quiet I can hear every tick of that erratic clock in the hall. This writer, being a slave to habit, didn't feel like going to bed, so came down for company. But where she had found every night for the past week bathrobed girls, sprawled, huddled, and cuddled in blankets on every foot of floor and chair space, with books filling all smaller vacancies, she was checked now by the total absence of life. "Shucks, the sissies—you'd think they lived for exams! Now that they're all over, every student of them treks right off to bed at the mere blinking of a light. And worse than that, even in daylight, people go about dull-eyed as if with no interest in present life. Perhaps the fire of youthful energy has all been expended during the recent fiveday marathon for transference of fact and theory from text-book to blue-book. Ah, those were the days when life had some life! There was a wholesome unconcern for such crudities as food, sleep, and newspapers. Conversation pulsed with the strong elements suggested by such frequent words as: 'Wasn't that English exam awful? Gosh, you said it! How much did you write on that fourteenth question? Aw, I didn't do so well, and she grades hard, too. Hey, what was the nickname of Richard III? Phew. Wednesday at three, and I'll be in heaven. In bed at least. I dunno, I put Coghill's experiment. We can't get grades till Friday. Yeah, it must be a good article, I'll read it next week. Will you pay my bills?—I've gotta memorize this list. Let's go to that Wild Western and relax.'

What's wrong with the professors, too? Instead of smiling acknowledgements that you are one of the fine products of last semester's teaching, they look grayly at anyone coming near and mumble with excited restraint, 'Which class are you in? Note books over there. No, grades aren't ready yet.'

Student assistants are rather popular, though it's hard to see why, for they look hollow-eyed and wearied with living.

Oh well, nice new courses we have, wouldn't they be?"

Maryville Men Prepare For Bachelorhood—Or So They Say

"First I beat together two cups of flour, one cup of sugar, and a cup and a half of milk. Then I add a lump of butter and bring to a boil."

"Personally, I find that a little less flour and just a pinch of salt add to the flavor and keep it from being too heavy."

This abstruse and technical conversation is not between two co-eds in the practice house, but an ex-wrestler and a test-tube and retort man from the chem. lab—to be painfully specific, it is Bob Gillespie and Clyde Powell comparing recipes! The cause of it all is listed in the catalog as Home Economics IM: Problems in the Selection of Foods and Clothing for Men; although it is better known unofficially as the "Grooms' Course." of the fourteen men enrolled, however, every one denies the groom-status immediately and emphatically, past, present, and future. It is all a matter of self-preservation, they claim, in the face of long years of bachelorhood. But even to the untrained eye, there seem to be several rather striking exceptions.

The class, which meets two days a week on the third floor of Fayerweather, is under the genial and rather amused direction of Miss Meiselwitz, head of the department of Home Economics, aided by her comely assitant, Helen Watson. Lectures are chiefly on the problems of nutrition, the content and use of various foods, and the planning of meals for variety, food value, and economy. Later lectures will also deal with etiquette, housing, clothing, and personality.

It is the lab on Monday morning, however, that elicits the exuberant enthusiasm of all concerned, and results in such evidences of decadent masculinity as the opening conversation. There, in white aprons and with sleeves rolled up, the boys have food, real food to play with, and judging by the way they go at it, it's the first some of them have seen since they left home. The first laboratory period was spent in learning various new and different ways to prepare fresh fruits in an effort to eliminate what their instructor insists is an entirely unnecessary sameness in the usual family breakfast. The practical value of such instruction cannot easily be overestimated, because every one had seven different fresh fruits to sample, and most of a can of fruit juice to drink. (The release of which information is calculated to convert a great number of hesitating freshmen to the study of the physical sciences). This Monday the boys will be inducted into the gentle art of cooking cereals palatably; next week, the preparation of eggs and cheese, and so on through most of the foods in common use today. If possible, the laboratory work gets better as it progresses. "Griddle cakes, waffles, and pancakes" are scheduled for the 28th, and a month later the outline calls for "steaks and roasts." To cap it off, the next week is on the "cooking and carving of poultry," which, if it is to be well done, will certainly involve at least two chickens in their destruction.

Naturally, and obviously, the course is a great success, and the members of the class are the first to agree with Miss Meiselwitz, that "the combination of foods into palatable meals is both a science and an art."

OPTIONAL SENIOR CLASS ATTENDANCE

The Highland Echo would like to see Maryville college adopt a policy of optional class attendance for seniors. The plan, which is by no means original with us, is working successfully in many progressive schools.

We do not feel that class attendance would be extremely affected. Seniors usually know how many cuts they can afford to take. Giving the student more responsibility would help bridge the gap between his senior year and the year after his graduation, when he has to depend entirely upon himself.

Class attendance would be affected most in any classes where the material is presented in a dull, unmeaningful manner. If there should be any professor with an outdated technique of teaching, a plan of this type would convince him of the necessity for improving his methods to make students interested.

By the time a person has spent three years here, he is quite able to take care of grade points, or else the paragraph, "End of Second Year," on page 25 of the Maryville college bulletin does not mean all that it implies.

All class hours are obviously not of the same value. An occasional morning or afternoon spent in uninterrupted study would frequently do the student more good than three or four hours spent in the classroom.

ON COLLEGIATE LABOR

In parlor conversation, a man who works his way upward through college is beamed upon as a martyr who forsook leisure and deviation for the manly glory of self-support. The psuedo-glamor encircling such a laborer attracts many collegians into the class of "men who worked their way through college."

The Kernel is not condemning any student, who, to gain an education, is forced by financial circumstances to seek extra-curricular activity in part-time, money-making work. But there are a number of students who unecessarily toil to earn spare cash.

This leads to two difficulties. Many times the student's health will crack under the strain of academic and monetary pursuit. Secondly, the employer often with his eye on greater profits, signs up collegians who for a maximum of work receive a minimum of wage. Knowing the collegian is usually desperate for salary, the merchants will often offer him hard tasks and a niggardly compensation.

Educators have all agreed that obtaining a complete techno-cultural education is a man-sized job. Outside work interferes with a student's eager quest for knowledge. It destroys a person's chances of acquiring a good position with a firm when he graduates.

Our advice to freshmen and upperclassmen is, unless you absolutely must work your way through college, don't do it. Employers will secretly label you, unskilled labor, and pay you wages ordinarily given to this class.

——The Kentucky Kernel.

Signs of the Times

By OTTO PFLANZE

THE ASCENDENCY OF ADOLPH HITLER

ENGLAND AND FRANCE are responsible for the rise of Adolph Hitler. Only when nothing could be attained through pious hopes in the League of Nations or faith in the intentions of her enemies did prostrate Germany turn to Der Fuehrer. It was the stupid attempt to crush Germany and break her power forever that destroyed post-war democracy in Germany and precipitated the rise of the Nazi regime.

The intolerable conditions created by the Young and Dawes plans, the mock heroics of the French-controlled League of Nations, the false promises of the victors to disarm, the great lie of Versailles—all were used to load Hitler's propaganda machine in his rise to power. With frenzied oratory he raised the passion of the people to a white hot pitch over real or fancied injustices.

France after the war found herself in a position of power she had not enjoyed since the days of Napoleon. That superiority was entirely dependent on the weakness of Germany; so it was France who originated the mad scramble for territory and reparations. England participated in the lust for robbery fearing the additional power that would go to France if she received all the spoils. A powerful France was as much feared as a powerful Germany. Thus England, too, helped pave the way for the Nazi dictatorship.

The Weimar republic was an honest attempt at democracy and, given a chance, it might have succeeded. It was because of the inability of the Weimar Republic to withstand the greedy demands of France and England that the German people turned to Adolph Hitler. In their stupid attempt to subjugate the German nation and break its power forever, France and England have created a Frankenstein that may well destroy them.

GRANDMOTHER MARIE

MOST AMERICANS are at a loss to understand the violent wave of nationalism upon which Adolph Hitler has risen to power. It is inconceivable to us why the German should so violently despise the Jews, hate the Slavs, and fear the Frenchman. In America all nationalities are, for the most part, blended into one. The German, the Englishman, the Frenchman become simply "Americans."

In the late nineteenth century grandmother Marie Buelow crossed the Atlantic and left behind forever the troubled countries of Europe. She became an American and yet she never forgot she had been a German. With infinite patience she sketched a picture of the Rhineland and placed it on the wall of her bedroom. A constant reminder of Der Vaterland, it stayed there as long as she lived.

Marie Buelow was an elderly lady of the "Lavendar and Old Lace" type when I heard her tell about the struggle of the German people against the French. With trembling voice she told how the irresistable legions of Napoleon swept through the countryside burning the farm houses, destroying the grain fields, slaughtering the peasants.

In France there are thousands of similar lovely old ladies who tell their grandchildren about the rapacity of the German. Their voices tremble, too, when they remember how German shells have blackened the peaceful countrysides of France. Like grandmother Marie they can never forget the hell of flames and blood in which their loved ones have perished.

It is this fundamental hatred of foreign races that Hitler harped upon in his rise to power. The fact that England, France, and the Jews were taking advantage of the weakened condition of Germany put strength into his campaign. He cast the hypnotic spell of his oratory over his hearers by capitalizing on the attempts of their enemies to break the German nation and ruin its power forever.

DEUTSCHLAND UEBER ALLES

LAST FALL I met Otto Jung, German immigrant, who became an American in 1925. Jung lived in Germany under the Kaiser and has first-hand knowledge of conditions as they existed then. In the summer of 1936, during a visit to the homeland, he saw things as they are under Hitler. Jung came away convinced that never before in history has Germany been so powerful.

Under the Nazi regime the German people have for the first time become united. The imperial German government of the Kaiser was never more than a confederation of sovereign states. But today a centralized federal government has taken over the powers of the states and the confederation is no more. The citizen who lives in Munich is no longer a "Bavarian" but a "German."

The importance of this change cannot be underestimated. Discord between North and South Germany, fomented by Allied propaganda, was one of the chief causes for the 1918 German revolution which ended the war. But now, with this barrier removed, the German people are one and will fight more effectively than ever before in the war to come.

Within three months the Garman armament program will be complete and Hitler will be ready for the most important move of his career in international politics.

No one knows in just what direction that step will be taken. Some say Hitler will seize Danzig; others say he will try Anchluss with Austria; a few think he'll go so far as to invade Czechoslavakia and seize the much cherished Bohemia. At any rate Hitler will be careful, for he knows the mistakes the Kaiser made. He has sworn not to make those mistakes, and he won't. He will make his own.

TALK OF THE WEEK . By Arlene Phelps

ECHOES OF THE PAST

February 19, 1918

Blessings....The February meetings of 1918 have come and gone but the atmosphere that they have created still lingers over the college. Much good has been accomplished and many blessings have been bestowed upon those who availed themselves of the opportunity to receive them. About 51 accepted Christ as their saviour and 309 signed cards of reconsecration.

Bates Fund....Rev. William H. Bates, D.D., recently of Washington, D.C. has long been a friend of the college. On July 28, 1816, he made a contribution of $670 to establish a fund to be kept in perpetuity by the directors and to be known as the William H. Bates Oratorical Prize foundation, the income alone to be used for a prize in an oratorical contest to be entered by students of the senior class.

High Brow....Monday evening at 7:30 in Voorhees chapel, a concert will be given by the Maryville College Mixed quartet. A program of high class music will be rendered in an entertaining manner. The proceeds will go to the college war chest.

Paging Post....Tonight there is to be a lyceum number. We hope that the attention will be far better than at the last program. It seems that there are a few people here who have never been away from home before and a few hard headed individuals who need a few lessons on etiquette.

* * *

Old College Custom....In accordance with a time-honored custom of the college, Saturday, the closing day of the Februray meetings, was a holiday.

February 1928

Advice and Truth....With a pleasing combination of effective personality and a definitely planned outline, Rev. Ralph W. Lloyd has attracted the students to the meetings in a wonderful way. His messages are overflowing with good, sound advice and words of truth. And behind it all, the spirit of Christ manifests itself in every statement.

Rabbinical Reflections....."You are living now as much as you will ever live....There really is power in the hill country....Every person you meet is different because of your meeting him."

* * *

Writers All....Maryville students have been smitten by the creative urge. Now there exists a Writer's workshop on the campus. It was organized last fall with twenty-five members, a constitution, a governing board, and high ideals. Among the present members are Mrs. Alexander, Mrs. West, Miss Jessie Heron, and Dr. E. R. Hunter.

In Appreciation....These last few weeks have seen the passing of two great men, both famous in the field of letters, Vincente Blaseo Ibanez, of Spain, and Thomas Hardy, of England.

Welcoming....Twenty new students have registered for the second semester. Seven states send representatives as follows: Tennessee, 12; Georgia, 2; N. Carolina, 2; and one from Kentucky, Missouri, New Jersey and Indiana.

* * *

Defeat and Victory....Maryville Highlanders defeated Tennessee Wesleyan in the basketball game of last Monday evening by the score of 45-23.

THOMAS CONCERT

grand opera, however, was almost as much a matter of chance as the flip of the coin incident.

Thomas was dining in Paris with a friend one day when it was suggested that he make an audition at the Royal Opera in Brussels. It seems that his teacher had a friend in Brussels, who had a friend in the opera house, who had a friend in the boxoffice, who knew one of the 'chefs de chant' who heard him sing and took him before the higher powers for an audition. The young singer knew several opera arias, and after he had sung the "Brindisi" from Hamlet, "Eri Tu" from the Masked Ball, and "Vision Fugitive" from Herodiade, he was offered a contract.

Then followed a stream of successes and advancements. In 1925 the Royal Opera, Brussels; in 1928, Covent Garden, London; 1929-30, the Philadelphia Grand Opera, the San Francisco and the Chicago Civic Opera. And in February 1934, the final triumph, he made his debut at the Metropolitan singing the elder Germont, in "La Travita." He has been at the Metropolitan each season since.

Thomas' chief means of recreation is in the sporting world. He owns an 85 foot yacht which he calls his "home." Strapped to the deck of "The Masquerader" he carries an 18 foot Chris Craft racer. This is "Myne!" Mr. Thomas' pet toy which he hopes to drive to the national championship next season, and which, judging from his performances of this past year, he stands a good chance to do.

Mr. Thomas also enjoys a good game of golf. He calls 1924 a great year in his life, for he married and broke 90 on a Florida golf course.

COACHING CLINIC

Chuck Taylor, a nationally known sports authority, conducted a "basketball clinic" at Appalachian State Teachers college. The clinic included a sound film illustrating the fundamentals of basketball, and a personal demonstration of these fundamentals by Mr. Taylor. Outstanding coaches from several large universities took part in the film. The clinic is known as a "basketball coaching school deluxe."

GULLIBLE SENIORS

Students at the Syracuse university School of Journalism passed around a petition as a "gullibility test." The paper began as a proposal to eliminate final exams for seniors, but ended with "They'll sign anything." 115 unsuspecting but zealous seniors signed the petition.

SWEET AND SLOW

The dietician at St. John's college, Maryland, has installed a radio in the college dining hall. She tunes in slow music in order to induce the students to eat more slowly.

INDIFFERENCE

An editorial in the Nocatula of Tennessee Wesleyan college remarks on the spirit of indifference prevailing among the students. According to the editorial, they are indifferent to studies, to regulations, and to student relationships. The writer suggests that students should face the question, "Why am I here?"

FACULTY DANCE

The faculty of State Teachers college at Memphis held a banquet last Tuesday evening. After the banquet the members of the faculty danced and played bridge.

THE SPORTS EDITOR

FULL HAND?

Among the sports oddities that come to mind this week is the trick of fortune that brought three athletic Bairds to the Highland arena this year. You might look long before encountering a parallel to this brother act which promises so much for Scot teams in the near future.

Weldon, the junior, a star trackman and hoop artist, holds the college record for the quarter mile run and has rated a regular position on the hardwood squad since his freshman year. He won his spurs in a torrid contest with Cullowee Teachers in 1936, when he and Howard Magill went in late in the game to pull the Scots from a 12 point deficit to a 54-51 victory.

That game and the part those two frosh played in it will not be soon forgotten by those who saw it.

Content, as a rule, to play second fiddle to running mate Magill in scoring, Baird always gets hot when his pals need help. It was his pinch shooting that kept the Scots in the game at Carson-Newman last year in the scrap which decided the SMC title.

Brother Bill, the sophomore, is even more versatile, adding football to a list of activities that keeps him busy from September to May. After winning a letter on the gridiron last fall Bill was knocked out of a semester of college work by an injury received in an accident. This year he is back for a fling on the cinder-path, where he once set an Ohio record for the half mile. Ineligible for loop competition in basketball, he will join Weldon and Boydson on the court next year.

Boydson, the enthusiastic freshman member of the fraternal trio, is an ace cog in the current cage team, and showed prophetic flashes of ball-carrying wizardry on the grid earlier this year. He too is heralded as a track man par excellent, which will not make Coach Robert C. Thrower at all unhappy.

It looks like a family affair, this Scot sports show.

OUT OF BOUNDS

On foreign fronts we notice that

John Lardner's column in a recent edition of a Chattanooga paper contains a juicy bit of irony that might seem funny to you. We like it anyway so here it is:

"About the time Thomas E. Dewey was the scourge of the underworld, was trapping Dixie Davis in Philadelphia, the Carnegie Foundation was completing its painstaking case against your correspondent and other hardened violaters of the intercollegiate code.

"Now the facts are out . . . a promising chapel bell-ringer cannot stick his head out of the window without six college scouts grabbing him and subsisidizing the stuffing out of him . . . .

"It is no secret that your correspondent was a subsidized harmonica player at Harvard, and a good one, for the better part of a year. Furthermore, for the last few seasons, I have scouted high school and prep school harmonica players for my alma mater in competition with scouts from Yale, Princeton, Dartmouth, the Big Ten, and the Southwest Conference.

"There is no doubt whatever that harmonica playing in American colleges today is crooked as Heck (Mr. Lardner didn't say heck, but this is no place for realism) . . . ." And so on . . . .

WHAT, SO SOON AGAIN?

It won't be long now, it seems. The warming up activities of Donald "Ace" Parker and Bill the Ripper Collins these past few warm days would indicate that King Baseball is just around the corner, awaiting an opportunity for the overthrow of usurpers Basketball and wrestling.

Ace and Rip are just two of the nine lettermen back from the 1936 Smoky Mountain title team, but their talented right arms are expected to spin about two-thirds of the Scot win total this spring. With Ralph Ashby, the original "Ole Left-hander," they formed the backbone of a good pitching corps last year.

Ashby, Lamar "Toot" Blazer, and Don Cross are the only men lost by graduation from the team that won every loop game but two.

The irrepressible Mr. Blazer, though back in school this year, has already played his allotted time on the hot corner and will not be eligible to whoop it up again for the Scot cause, as he did so nobly in the past. "Toots" readily confesses that he is "the first man to make Mr. Hawn-aker's team with his mouth." Be that as it may "Toots" will be missed out there this time. Blazerless baseball will be a novelty to the current generation of Highlanders.

The third base spot will be filled by a new man this time, probably soph Rusty Wicklund or freshman J. D. Hughes.

Replacement for Don Cross at second is another uncertain element. "Shorty" Davis has the edge in the winter books. Cross, incidentally, is back at Cordele this season, where he expects to earn a trial with the Atlanta Crackers Southern Association team.

The infield veterans will be Lefty Hernandez on first and Junior Odell at short. Both can field with the best in the SMC circuit, and Odell, especially, is wont to whale the cover off the ball when in the mood. Little concern will be felt over these two positions.

Chunkers Collins, Parker, Wilburn, Copeland, et al, will be handled capably by backstops Glen Evers and Al Burris, either of whom can make any team in the loop. Burris may work in the outfield again this year, in addition to occasional catching chores.

In a nutshell, the outlook is rosy indeed.

"We play Ohio U., Northern Illinois, Kentucky Teachers, probably Roanoke and Richmond and Milligan, Smoky Mountain runners-up," Mr. Collins tells us. "If we take Milligan the championship should be back again this time."

Mr. Collins, incidentally, will herd the newer ivory (diamonds in the rough to you) onto the practice field for a bit of pre-season activity in about ten days.

"Got to get 'em ready for 25 games in seven weeks," he says, a twinkle of anticipation in his pitching eye.

Godspeed, gentlemen.

'38 GRID SLATE

Following is the completed 1938 Maryville football schedule as announced by Coach L. S. Honaker.

The main developments are the games with Kentucky, Carson-Newman, and Tennessee Wesleyan, all strong teams, which return to the slate after a year's absence:

Kentucky	Lexington	Sept. 24
Tusculum	Greeneville	Sept. 30
Milligan	Johnson City	Oct. 7
Wesleyan	here	Oct. 14
Unionr Barbourville, Ky.		Oct. 21
Lenoir Rhyne	here	Oct. 28
King	undecided	Nov. 4
E T Teachers	here	Nov. 11
Cumberland	Lebanon	Nov. 18
Carson-Newman	Jefferson City	Nov. 26.

Teachers Fall As 'Mac's' 23 Points Bring Court Win

Highlanders' Smooth Play Retains High Spot In SMC Ranks

With little Howard Magill, flashy Scottie forward showing the way, the Highlanders defeated East Tennessee Teachers in a Smoky Mountain Conference game played last Monday night, to the tune of 48-36.

Magill, who has been on the injury list for the last four games, appeared to be in top form, hitting the hoop at all angles to lead in the scoring with 23 points. White, Teacher's sub, led in the scoring for E.T.T., making a total of 9 points.

Maryville took the lead early in the game and lost it only once after that. Although hampered by the loss of Dale Russell, able Scot center, who injured his ankle in the Marshall game, and was only able to be in the lineup for a few minutes, Maryville easily outclassed the Teachers.

Tonight the Highlanders will journey to LMU, for another Conference game. Though Maryville has already defeated the LMU quintet once, the Scots always find it tough going on the Rail-splitter's home floor. So despite all pre-game dope, anything can happen.

Scribe Digs Into Court Statistics For Space Filler

With fourteen games played so far in the Scottie cage schedule, by looking over the score book we find that the Highlanders have amassed a total of 567 points to their opponents 535. Another interesting fact we found was that Maryville is a first half team, scoring most of their points in the first half, and also out-scoring their opponents in the first half. In the 14 games Maryville has scored 290 points to their opponents 242 in the first half. Well, that part wasn't so bad, but then we found that in the second half Maryville didn't seem to fare so well. Not only did she score less in the second half than in the first, but she was also outscored by her opponents in that part of the game. Maryville managed to hit the hoop for 277 points to the 293 points of their opponents. Another interesting figure is that the average number of points per game for Maryville is 40.5, to their opponents 38.2. In the fourteen games played so far Maryville has lost five, two of these being Smoky Mountain Conference games. One of the non-conference losses we suffered was due to the hands of that famous Marshall quintet, the other being to Knoxville Y.M.C.A.

Some more interesting facts garnished from our score-book in our quest for material for the page is that Howard Magill led the scoring for the Highlanders with a total of 162 points. The average number of points per game for Magill was 11.5, which is not so bad at that.

REMEMBER?

WHEN RASSLERS WRESTLED

Yes, there was a day . . . 'twas not ever thus. There is a time within the memory of even the younger inhabitants when Maryville's rasslers really rassled.

Why, I remember only a few short years ago our Scotties were champions of the state and the toast of all the region round about. Sort of a golden age, it was, when the men of Thrower reigned supreme in the grunt realm. Eight years it lasted, and then, pouff! no more. A one-point loss to a team that in the past had fallen 14 times before the power of the Highlanders; a two-point defeat by a Vanderbilt team that had never won a meet from Maryville in eight years; decisive wins by Carolina teams superior in man power and experience—these things ended what had been an almost endless string of victories up to this season.

Just in case some of the more recent additions to Scot fandom are inclined to gripe, we revive a few pertinent facts which may help tide us over the lean years:

The first, or pre-Thrower period in Maryville wrestling began when Farmer Watkins, just starting his college work here, introduced the sport in 1927.

In the period immediately following, the Watkins-coached teams met most of the amateurs organizations of this section. These included colleges, universities, high schools, and YMCA's. The Knoxville and Chattanooga Y's furnished the bulk of the competition during this time.

It is with the second part of Maryville wrestling history that the available records deal. This era began in 1931, when Watkins was succeeded by the present coach, Bob Thrower. From that time until this year the Scot grunters won 37, lost five, and tied two, giving them one of the most enviable records possessed by any college team.

After 29 straight wins they finally suffered their first loss in 1935, at the hands of the aforementioned Farmer Watkins, whose Appalachian State Teachers then became the first to down the flying Scots. Since that time the day. But what do I believe about God? First, I believe that God is. We must be far more credulous to believe that chance circumstances produced the world from the 92 elements than to believe in God the Creator. And I believe that God is good, because he is a loving God. Because he loves us he is interested in us. Therefore, we can talk to him, and get his help. God cares about the things which matter to our souls and characters. He does for us what we need to have done. Happiness is not won by finding a lot of things to serve us, but by finding something for us to serve.

Wednesday Evening

How Can I Tell If I Am A Christian? What are the earmarks of a Christian? Not merely faith, but the right kind of faith is necessary. Christian faith is the medicine by which the diseases of sin can be healed. The vital factor is that we must have standards for personal living that are higher than anything we ourselves can achieve. We must give our lives for something that we by ourselves cannot attain. And God will give us the power to live better than we ourselves know how.

To save ourselves we must save others. Not only personal standards, but standards for the world, must be higher than we by ourselves can achieve. God will give us the power.

Thursday Morning

What Do I Believe About The Bible? Though other books die, the Bible has lived and will live because it has more to give. It is the richest book there is in every type of literature—a storehouse of the finest ideas and noblest ideals, expressed in the finest fashion. It is the only book which is the outgrowth of the spiritual growth of a people—the source book of the best spiritual aspirations. It is the Word of God—the timeless, always true, regardless of economic, political or scientific changes. It can satisfy our needs if we will let it.

Thursday Evening

What Are the Resources for Living? What resources had Jesus? Certainly not economic security, and economic security isn't enough for us. We need inner resources to give us a sense of balance in a rocky world. Worldy success and acclaim are not enough. Jesus was thwarted throughout his life—he wasn't successful in a worldly sense. Honor and prestige will not suffice. Neither can "being understood" satisfy us. Jesus was misunderstood by everyone, yet he had sufficient resources for living. What had Jesus? He had inner rather than outer resources. It is more important to be something than only to do something. Jesus lived in the right relationship with God, and was able to stand fast and sure. Get right with God, and no matter what happens, we will be happy, whether we live or die.

Friday Morning

My Confession of Faith About Prayer. The longer I live the more I believe in the reality of prayer, and that prayer works. But how does prayer work? Prayer is like the cable of a cable car; we must lay tight hold on prayer in order to get the power from God to pull us up the hills of life. It is only when we go down hill or drift along the level that we do not need prayer. Not only can prayer pull us up hills, but we can take others with us.

Prayer begins with an attitude—we must recognize that there is power available. We need an attitude of dependence, of expectancy, and of willingness to respond. But prayer is more than an attitude. A true expression of our attitude is essential. What we give outward expression to in prayer must be a true expression of our heart's desire. Then, too, achievement is necessary—the way to learn to pray is to pray. The teachings of Jesus alone can't save the world; we need to get his power to make those teachings effective. We must lay hold upon the power of God through prayer. We have not yet begun to discover the resources for living that are available through prayer.

Dr. Wilson

Anderson founded the college, it has made its greatest growth under Dr. Wilson."

In recognition of his contributions to the development of the college, he has been given several honorary degrees at various times. From Maryville he has the degreess of Doctor of Divinity and Doctor of Letters. This latter degree was given on the day President Lloyd was inaugurated as his first act as president, and came as a complete surprise to Dr. Wilson. He holds also the degree of Doctor of Laws from the College of Wooster, in Ohio.

Records of the college in an interesting form have come from the pen of Dr. Wilson. At the request of the college directors in 1916 he wrote "A Century of Maryville College—A Story of Altruism." This history of the college has influenced many people to become interested in Maryville, principally Dr. William P. Stevenson, college pastor. In 1935 he added six chapters to the original work, entitled "Chronicles of Maryville College." Others of his works in connection with Maryville history are several biographies of college figures, including the founder, Dr. Isaac Anderson, Prof. Thomas Jefferson Lamar, and Dr. H. G. Hutchinson. In 1934 he wrote "Our Foreign Legion," the account of those Maryville students who were in the mission field. "The Southern Mountaineers," which he wrote in 1906, is one of the best works in its field.

Dr. and Mrs. Wilson have had six children and all are living. At her death last spring, Mrs. Wilson was visiting her son who is an engineer in California. Miss Lois Wilson is principal of a girl's school in Sidon, Syria, another daughter is a missionary to the Mexican Indians in El Paso, Tex., and another, with whom Dr. Wilson makes his home, lives in Maryville. The fourth daughter is a missionary with her husband to the Dakota Indians, and the other son lives in Florida.

Dr. Clifford E. Barbour, leader of the February meetings, will speak at the regular meeting of the Student Volunteers which will be held in the Y.W. rooms Sunday evening after Vespers.

Dr. Barbour is the pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church of Knoxville.

—o—

In spite of a comparatively small attendance, the senior party last Saturday evening was a singularly enjoyable event.

After a few games in Barlett gym the party was divided into three groups, each of which was directed by successively discovered, ambiguous notes through various routes over the campus toward a treasure hidden in the Y.W. room. There Lee Whetstone, Frances Perrin, and Anne Raper served refreshments.

REMEMBER?

Teachers have been bad medicine in large quantities, winning three times thus far.

In the seven year period from 1931 through 1937 Maryville has beaten Knoxville Y fourteen times, Chattanooga Y nine times, Tennessee seven times, Vanderbilt three times, Appalachian three times, Highpoint College once, and Knoxville High once.

They had lost to Appalachian three times and to Davidson once. The lone ties are with Vanderbilt in 1934 and with Tennessee last year. They had never lost to any team in Tennesee until this season. Might be worse, don't you think? Or do you?

Pressed to name an outstanding individual star of the victorious years, one might find it hard to choose between Buck Millsaps, 175 pound ace of two years ago, whose only loss came in the last match of his fourth campaign, and Guy Propst, who came on the scene three seasons ago and is still very much in the picture.

The peak performances of the team as a whole probably are these:

Scoring 172 points to the opposition's 19 in 1933; taking 35-5 and 33-3 victories from U-T and shellacking Vandy 40-0 in 1934; winning 26-6 from Tennessee in 1936; and maintaining tight hold on the mythical state title for eight years in a row.

In view of which, think before you beef.

—o—

There will be a special meeting for the men of the college on Sunday at 3:00 p.m. in Bartlett hall, at which time Dr. Clifford E. Barbour will talk. After his address, Dr. Barbour will lead an open forum when all will have a chance to ask questions, and discuss with him any problems.

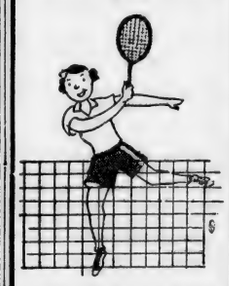
Griffitts Publishes Article In Physical Chemical Journal

Dr. F. A. Griffitts, professor of Chemistry, recently published an article in the "Journal of Physical Chemistry" on the hydrogenation properties of mixed metal catalysts.

Representing the results of preliminary work to his thesis paper, the article dealt with the factions involved in controlling the excessive hydrogenation property of metallic cobalt. Dr. Griffitts discovered in his work that the mixture of cobalt with various metals, such as manganese, chromium, and molybdenum, in the proper proportions, produced the effect for which he was searching; namely, the production of aniline from nitrobenzene.

The article is the second of two which Dr. Griffitts has published, the first being on the catalytic activity of cobalt sulfide.



Dr. Griffitts has received requests from Germany and the University of Denver for reprints of his articles.

Students And Faculty Members Favor Proposed Optional Class Attendance

Echo Poll Shows 487 Students Welcome Plan With Only 76 Against It; Faculty Votes Two To One For Senior Option

Maryville students and faculty members, in a poll conducted this week by Echo reporters, showed themselves in favor of the plan for optional class attendance for seniors as suggested in last week's Highland Echo.

487 students voted for the plan, with only 76 voting against it. Eighteen more voted for the option, but with certain restrictions. Only 13 were either indifferent or undecided.

Of the faculty, 12 voted in favor of the system, five voted against it, and six declined to make any statement. Most of hte faculty who voted for the system did so with the restriction that the option be given only those with an average of C or above.

The vote was not given to instructors in music and dramatic art, where there is much individual instruction, and in physical education, where there are rarely ever any seniors.

The most common of the specifications made by the 18 students were that seniors should have a C average; that some modification of the plan be given to the juniors; that the option be for all students, except freshmen, making the honor roll.

HOW THEY VOTED

	FOR	AG	FC	NS
Town	98	14	4	3
Carnegie	147	30	5	3
Memorial	48	11
Baldwin	106	13	3	2
Pearsons	88	13	6	5
Faculty	12	5		6

(Ag, against; FC, for, under certain conditions; NS, undecided or no statement.)

Most of the students felt that seniors should be given more privileges; that classroom attendance would not be greatly affected; that the courses would be made more interesting; and that the regular examinations, with the comprehensives, would serve as a check against any overcutting of the classes.

About the only specification offered by the faculty members with any degree of frequency was that seniors should have an average of C or above. Several stated it would be up to the seniors to meet their responsibility.

Women Debate At Intermont Today

Kramer, Pflanze Opposed By Erskine Tuesday

Two women's teams of the varsity debate squad left yesterday for Virginia Intermont college, Bristol, Va., where they will take part in a tournament Saturday. Sara Lee Hellums and Georgia Ingle, affirmative; and Miriam Waggoner and Arda Walker, negative; are the teams making the trip. Louise Proffitt will take part in oratory and extempore speaking. Gloria Miller is also travelling with the squad to participate in a poetry reading contest.

Tuesday evening a Maryville affirmative team, Arnold Kramer and Otto Pflanze; will debate a negative team from Erskine college, Due West, South Carolina. A critic's discussion will be rendered by Dr. John B. Emperor of the University of Tennessee. This debate will be open to the public.

On Thursday of next week the Y.W. C. A. will have a tea honoring the new girls. The tea will be from 4:00 to 5:30 in the Y.W.C.A. reading rooms. All new girls are invited.

Freshman Debaters To Hold First Meet With Auburn On February 21

The freshman debate team will participate in its first debate of the season Wednesday, February 23, with Alabama Polytechinc Institute, better known as Auburn University. This subject will be debated: Resolved, that the Southern states should adopt unicameral legislatures. Maryville will uphold the affirmative side of the question and will be represented by George D. Webster and Tommy Woolf.

The climax of the freshman debate activities will be the freshman tournament to be held at Maryville March 25 and 26. At least five other colleges from various parts of the state will participate in this tournament. Middle Tennessee Teachers college at Murfreesboro, Tennessee, is the latest addition to the list of participating schools.

The first meeting of the debate team since the tryouts was held in Professor Verton M. Queener's classroom Thursday evening.

Writer Discovers Art Gallery

In following our studious course toward an education it is surprising how often we neglect to investigate our opportunities to become familiar with the cultural beauty that is in our own back door. Maryville college has an art gallery, as most of us probably suspect by having read the sign at the bottom of the stairs in Anderson annex, but, according to Marie Jensen, one of the attendants, very few of us have taken the time to see if there are really pictures in the room toward which the arrow points.

The gallery contains 225 pictures painted by Mrs. Elizabeth Gowdy Baker. This collection was given to the college by Mrs. Baker's husband, H. D. Baker who died last year.

Mrs. Baker was an eminent portrait painter. Her work is known and admired in both America and Europe. There are forty impressive portraits in the collection, which also contains 185 landscapes and marines painted by Mrs. Baker during her European and American tours. Most of the portraits were painted in her New York studio where she established an enviable reputation as an artist.

Among her outstanding paintings is a portrait of her four-year old son which is the first life-sized picture to be painted entirely in aquarelle. The portraits of Edwin Markham, American poet and James J. Hill, northwestern railroad promoter, are exemplary of her ability to portray real life-like personality in her portraits.

Among the paintings done while Mrs. Baker was abroad is a picture of the Cellers, Julius Caesar's home in Rome. There is also a painting of the ancient Alhambra, the historic old Spanish castle recently destroyed in Spain's civil war.

Over the glass case containing the artist's palettes, which are still stained with the last paint mixed in them, is a curious picture of a grass-roofed house, painted extemporaneously by a famous Japanese artist—I couldn't translate his name—who came to Mrs. Baker's studio to persuade her to come to Japan. He is said to have painted this picture with the floor of her studio as his easel.

The art gallery is not large enough to facilitate a complete display of the whole collection. For this reason the pictures must be alternated. In spite of this inconvenience, the gallery is very attractive. The indirect lighting system is effective in giving the best tone effects to all the paintings regardless of their positions. A catalogue of the collection which will provide a description of each painting is being prepared.

The art department has recently joined the American Art Federation which furnishes traveling exhibitions, to be displayed periodically.

February Meeting Series Concluded By Dr C E Barbour

Wednesday Chapel Service Is Last Of Helpful Addresses

Wednesday morning the last service of the 1938 February meetings was held in Voorhees chapel. Dr. Clifford E. Barbour, leader of the services this year, returned to the regular duties of his church, the Second Presbyterian church of Knoxville, and Rev. Sidney E. Stringham went back to the Epworth M.E. church of St. Louis.

Following are summaries of the last eight of the sermons preached by Dr. Barbour in the college chapel:

Friday Evening

Making the Minimum Do. Most of us try to get away with doing as little as we can in religion. We give most of our time, energy and capacity to the things we say are secondary; and we give the least to what we say are of primary importance. We don't act according to our ideals. Only when we give the maximum to religion can religion mean the most to us.

Saturday Morning

What I Believe About Immortality. The people who live only for earthly things haven't really done much for this earth. Those who are doing the most for the world are the people who believe in the next world. But why do I believe in immortality? First, because immortality is the only satisfactory explanation about man's nature. Second, because immortality answers the questions regarding the nature of God. Third, Christ gave evidence of immortality, by his resurrection from the dead. Let's not spend our lives and energies on a few cents worth of chemicals; let's begin now to live immortality.

Sunday Evening

Christianity is the Satisfactory Answer to Man's Needs. Only Christianity satisfies these three demands of men's spirits; first, a satisfactory moral code; second, a solution to the problem of existence; third, discovery of a way to

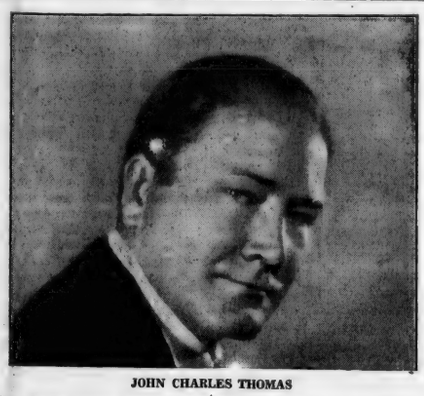
Ruth Woods Has "Iolanthe" Role In Opera March 17

Gilbert—Sullivan Fantasy Produced By Combined Glee Clubs

The combined Glee clubs of the College will again put on a Gilbert and Sullivan opera under the direction of Professor Ralph Colbert on Thursday, March 17. The opera this year will be Iolanthe, one of the better known of Gilbert and Sullivan's works.

The completed cast consists of the following members: Iolanthe, Ruth Woods; the fairy queen, Harriet Barber; Phyllis, Nancy Quinn; Celia, Elizabeth Ann Huddleston; Leila, Alice Prime; Fleta, undecided; Lord Chancellor, Edwin Goddard; Earl of Mountararat, John Magill; Earl of Tolloller, Carl Wells; Private Willis, Harry Ferran; Strephon, Dick Woodring.



The story concerns a fairy, Iolanthe, who commits a grave offense in the fairy kingdom by marrying a mortal. She is sentenced by the Queen to penal servitude for life. After twenty-five years spent at the bottom of the stream among frogs, Iolanthe is pardoned. She has had a son, Strephon, by her marriage, and he is half mortal and half a fairy. His body from the waist up is fairy; while his legs are mortal, and lead him into all kinds of mischief.

He is in love with Phyllis, ward of the Lord Chancellor. The Lord Chancellor is against the marriage of the two and does his best to prevent it. Strephon is elected to Parliament and carries every bill that comes before him. After a series of events, in which Iolanthe reveals a great secret, Phyllis and Strephon are re-united and a new law passed in the fairy kingdom which makes every one happy again.

The leads will be assisted by a chorus of 24 fairies and 24 Peers. The College orchestra will accompany the opera. The pianists will be Louise Felknor and Gerald Beaver.

Staging will be under the direction of Max Cornelius. Ellen Sauer will be in charge of the costuming.

Celebrated American Baritone To Appear On Artist Series Monday

JOHN CHARLES THOMAS

John Charles Thomas, radio and concert artist, and leading baritone of the Metropolitan opera, will appear on the final number of the Artist series, Monday evening in Voorhees chapel. Thomas is probably the most popular single figure in American music today.

He was born in Meyersdale, Pennsylvania, of a musical family, and his earliest experiences in the art which was later to bring him fame, was singing in a camp-meeting trio, of which his father and mother formed the other membership. His father's preaching necessitated continued traveling, so John Charles' only education was obtained in the short periods at which he remained in one place long enough to go to school. Natural ability and active interest helped him overcome this handicap, and he distinguished himself in preparatory school, where he first began to interest in the study of medicine.

For a time it looked as if medicine were to be his career, and he enrolled in the Mount Street College of Homeopathy in Baltimore. Shortly after, he won a scholarship to the famous Peabody Conservatory of Music, where he studied for three years. His work was church music, about which he say; "I believe that the singing of church music should be a part of every singers' experience. It will unquestionably give him a fine, feeling for Legato and sustained tone."

Thomas made his professional debut in London, Ontario in 1912, after which followed several years of outstanding success in the fild of light opera. In 1924 he appeared in "Aida" in Washington and began an uninterrupted rise to fame in grand opera.

During the next ten years he sang successively in the Royal Opera, Brussells; Covent Garden, London; The Philadelphia Grand Opera; and the San Francisco Opera, and the Chicago Civic Opers. In February, 1934, as the crowning achievement of the successful artist, he sang the role of the elder Germont in "La Traviata" at the Metropolitan Opera House. He has been with the Metropolitan every season since.

Thomas is an enthusiastic boatman and spends all of his vacations on his 85 foot yacht. In addition he enters his racing hydroplane in most of the eastern meets, and has himself established a trophy for the 225 cubic inch class of speed boats. On land his favorite out-door activity is golf, in which he breaks eighty consistently. His interests are wide and he leads an active and varied life.

"First Lady" To Be Presented On March 5, Voorhees

Gordan Bennett Takes Lead After Revision Of Male Roles

"First Lady," the Theta Epsilon-Alpha Sig contribution to the annual midwinter dramas, will be presented to the Maryville audience on March 5 on the Voorhees stage with Gloria Miller and Gordon Bennett taking the leading parts. This play is a satire on the federal government at Washington, and is concerned with the rival interests of Lucy Chase Wayne, played by Gloria Miller, and Irene Hibbard, played by Irene Browder, in securing for their husbands the presidential nomination of the party.

Recently the male parts have been reassigned because of the dropping from the cast of the male lead, Bill Swearingen. At present, Gordon Bennett has been given the lead part of Stephen Wayne; Bob Gillespie, the former part of Bennett, which is that of Carter Hibbard; and Reese Scull has been added to the cast in the part of Ellsworth Ganning.

This play which is written by Katherine Dayton and George S. Kaufman, was produced in New York in 1935 by Sam H. Harris, and has since been acted on the screen by Kay Francis and Preston Foster. The Theta-Alpha Sig version is being directed by Mrs. Nita Eckles West, associate professor of dramatic art.

Maryville Dean of Women To Attend National Meet

Next Tuesday, Feb. 22, Mrs. Grace P. Snyder, dean of women, will leave Maryville to attend the annual convention of the national association of deans of women, which will be held in Atlantic City. This convention will be held conjointly with the meeting of the American Council of Guidance and Personnel association.

The convention will be over Feb. 26 and Mrs. Snyder will go to Baltimore to spend Sunday as the guest of a life-long friend, Miss Edith Johnson. She will return to Maryville February 28.

Women Entering Bates Oratorical Contest To Hold Meeting Monday

After chapel next Wednesday morning, there will be a meeting in Miss Jessie Johnson's class room of all junior and senior women who are interested in the Bates Oratorical contest.

The William H. Bates oratorical prize was made possible by a contribution of $1000 by the Rev. William H. Bates, D.D. The annual income from this fund is to be used as a prize in oratory, the men of the junior and senior classes participating one year and the women of the junior and senior classes the next.

This year the manucripts, written by the students, are due the first Tuesday in April, and the contest is to take place during the first two weeks in May.

Senior Recommendation Blanks Now Available

Blanks for registration with the Committee on Recommendations are on the table in the Student Help office. No charge is made for the services of the committee if blanks are returned before March 1.

The Committee on Recommendations is maintained by the college for the purpose of assisting seniors and alumni in securing positions. Recommendations by members of the faculty are given only through the committee.

It is to the interest of each senior to register with the Committee on Recommendations, even though he does not expect to use his recommendations at this time. They will be compiled and ready for use at any future time he may need them.

Maybe It's Just A Blind

Question: What have we here?

Answer: We have the office of the Chilhowean.

Q.: What happens in the office of the Chilhowean?

A.: Oh, lots of things. English history is studied, debate speeches are practiced, coffee and toast are made and eaten (drunk), social gatherings occur, lost sleep is caught up with . . . "

Q.: My, my! One doen't realize the various angles connected with editing of a year book does one? Who is editor of the Chilhowean?

A.: Everyone denies the accusation, but Fred Bruce Morgan is most often found asleep in the office; so the evidence points strongly to him.

Q.: Has anything peculiar been noticed about the office recently? I mean even more peculiar than usual?

A.: Yes. It is almost clean.

Q.: What produced the sudden clean-up campaign?

A.: Well, it was a question of either plowing out some of the waste paper, dust and pop bottles or moving the editor's desk and chair out on the porch. The rubbish got so deep that at the last staff meeting everyone was waiting for everyone else to come—not until someone sneezed did each realize that there were half a dozen other persons in the office.

Q.: What are those strips of violently hued substance which are at present tacked on the Chilhowean office windows?

A.: You guess.

Q.: Maybe they are a part of Morgan's policy of scaring off pesty book salesmen, inquisitive dormitory matrons or affectionate couples seeking a quiet haven?

A.: Nope.

Q.: Are they just a publicity stunt?

A.: Wrong again.

Q.: I give up.

A.: They are curtains.

Q.: What! Who made them?

A.: Arlene Phelps, doing her bit for the Chilhowean-Office-More-Beautiful cause.

Q.: Is Arlne blind?

A.: No.

Q.: Deaf?

A.: No.

Q.: Addicted to nightmares?

A.: No.

Q.: Then why those weird, outlandish excuses for curtains?

A.: Arlene was merely trying to pattern the curtains after the Chilhowean editor—part of the plan to have everything in the office harmonize.

Q.: Did she succeed?

A.: She did!

OPTIONAL SENIOR CLASS ATTENDANCE

The Highland Echo carefully weighed the possibilities of the chances of success or failure for the plan of optional class attendance for seniors before it proposed that the plan be adopted at Maryville college.

The conclusion we reached was that the plan was educationally sound and desirable. Results of the poll taken this week by Echo reporters show that an overwhelming majority of both students and faculty feel as we do.

Had our proposal been greeted with distrust or indifference we would have discontinued our efforts to obtain optional class attendance for seniors at once. On the contrary we found that many had wanted the system for some time.

Concerning the plan we believe that it would

(1) promote and stimulate individual scholarship;

(2) help bridge the gap between the senior year and after-graduation days;

(3) cause a more interesting presentation of classroom material.

(4) increase student responsibility and initiative;

(5) work successfully at Maryville college.

Together with the findings of our poll, we respectfully submit our reasons for favoring the plan of optional class attendance for seniors, suggesting that the plan be carefully considered and adopted at Maryville.

McINTYRE'S NEW YORK IS GONE

In a few short weeks we will be turning through the pages of our morning newspaper in vain attempt to find "New York Day by Day," the whimsical collection of chance thought which O. O. McIntyre has presented daily to the public for so many years.

Affected though his reminiscences may have been, they hit a spot in the hearts of the average reader that no other Broadway columnist could touch. Odd's boyhood recollections brought a response in the dullest of us.

We will miss him.

CHOOSE YOUR WEAPON

LAST WEEK there was inserted at the foot of this column a note stating the obvious fact that the opinions expressed herein "are those of the columnist, and do not necessarily express the views of any other member of the staff." The columnist neither expects nor desires everyone to agree with him. If all did agree, there would be little purpose in the column.

The fact of the matter is, the columnist not only welcomes but solicits contrary opinion. Any disagreeing view will be printed in this space without comment on the week following the column on which that disagreement is based.

The rules of the game are few. Just sign the article and slide it across our "10 by 10 oriental" before Tuesday evening of the week it is to be printed.

As for style, the contributor is asked to be brief, concise, and to the point. If he so desires, he may abuse, reproach, or wax sarcastic; he can, in other words, get just as nasty he darn pleases. Anything that passes the eagle eye of the censor will get by this columnist's desk.

ON THE CAMPUS

RATHER DISGUSTING was the manner in which several individuals broke line Monday in order to get the best Lyceum tickets. The sale was announced for 4:15, and those who were "smart" arrived at 3:30 only to find a solid line stretching around the four walls. The aforementioned individuals couldn't stand the gaff and crowded ahead of persons who had been waiting patiently for an hour or more.

Rather illuminating, too, was the fact that most of the line crashers were campus leaders (so called). There were numbered among the group two class presidents, a Theta Alpha Phi president, an Echo Associate editor, and several ministerials (so called).

If only ten other persons had openly yielded to the animal instinct at the same time these individuals were pulling their fast one, the result might have been a riot. There were, as had been announced, only a limited number of good seats left. Everyone was eager to get such a seat, and a good many were skeptical about getting a seat anywhere in the hall.

Yes, conscience forces a confession. The columnist has crashed the line once himself this year. But never again. He doesn't like the company.

FLOWERS THIS WEEK go to Editor Hunt for his optional-class attendance-for-seniors campaign. The plan would obviously be impracticable for lower classmen with their "high school hangovers," but for seniors, and perhaps juniors, it has its marks.

The students, however, must take the consequences. They must not expect the instructors to go to extra trouble over class assignments and the scheduling of tests. If they get the advantage of the option, they must take squarely on their own shoulders the responsibility that goes with it.

ONE STEP NEARER

THE WORLD is one step nearer the war to come, this week, after the Japanese refusal to grant identical American and British requests for details concerning its naval program. The Nipponese thus removed the last check on what may prove to be a disastrous naval armament race. The possibility of that race became apparent in 1936 when Tokio denounced the London Treaty which refused her naval parity with the United States and Great Britain.

The requests were made to fulfill requirements of the 1936 London Naval Treaty between Great Britain, France, and the U.S. The signers are bound by this treaty to go through the formality of asking a non-signer if it has exceeded the 35,000 capital ship limit before they can take steps to match or better it. Thus Japan by her refusal has removed one of the last possibilities of arms limitations.

Insight is scarcely needed to foretell the eventual effect of this armament race. Very soon citizens will begin to complain bitterly about added strain on the nation's resources. The propaganda machines will once again swing into full action. The country will be on its way to war.

No one has ever expressed it better than did Mark Twain in 1898. "The loud little handful—as usual—will shout for war. The pulpit will—warily and cautiously—object—at first; the great big dull bulk of the nation will rub its sleepy eyes and try to make out why there should be a war, and will say, earnestly and indignantly, 'It's unjust and dishonorable and there is no necessity for it.' Then the handful will shout louder . . . And now the whole nation—pulpit and all—will take up the war cry, and shout itself hoarse, and mob any honest man who ventures to open his mouth; and presently such mouths will cease to open.

"Next, the statesmen will invent cheap lies, putting the blame on the nation that is attacked, and every man will be glad of those conscience-soothing falsities, and will diligently study them, and refuse to examine any refutations of them; and thus he will by and by convince himself the war is just, and will thank God for the better sleep he enjoys after this process of grotesque self-deception."

Suggested additions to the Maryville curriculum:

Psychology 99 pq—Study of Abnormal Psychology, i. e. Roommates, Teachers, Columnists, etc.

Biology 44 z—Laboratory micro-dissection of preserved freshmen's brains. Due to extreme rarity of specimens, a special lab fee is required.

Sociology 888 k—Getting Along With the Opposite Sex. Open only to seniors. Prerequisite, three years of advanced moonshining.

Mathematics 555 x—Elements of New Deal Calculations, based on remarkable mathematical progress of past few years. Prerequisites: students must be ble to count from one billion to ten billion without blinking an eyelash, and must have rejected the quaint but obsolete notion that two plus two equals four.

English 666 t—Systematic Discourse Under the Stars, or How To Say "I Love You" in Five Thousand Well-Chosen Words. Same as astronomy oooy. Related course, Hand Holding, 777 r.

—M.C.—

It was twelve-thirty in the morning, and your writer was nodding sleepily over his mahogony desk in the Echo office. Suddenly the door opened, and in stole a tiny tot, chubby-faced and scantily attired for a February night. In one hand he clutched a bow, while from his shoulder hung a quiver of arrows.

"Cupid's the name—Dan Cupid," he volunteered.

"How do you do," answered the writer. "But why are you wandering about the campus at this time of the night? You should be in bed?"

Dan's face clouded. "I'm having a tough time these days. Nobody wants me anymore. The mad machine age has caught up with my racket finally, and I'm being crowded out. Nowadays love is a highly mechanized affair, carried out strictly by scientific methods. First you get yourself a thorough mental examination, and get put, say, into classification BQ7X. Then you get up early next morning, take your stub number BQ7X and start looking for a girl with the same number. When you find one, you marry her. Cold, scientific, canned romance, such as this, is ruining my business. I haven't had a new suit of clothes for days. Oh, for the good old times, when senators' daughters fell in love with blacksmiths, and millionaires' sons eloped with five-and-ten-cent store girls. Then I often worked 18 hours a day, and the money rolled in. But now all I have to live on is the fee I get from the candy makers and florists who use my picture in their ads on Valentine's day. Instead of a girl looking dreamily into a boy's eyes and asking if he loves her, she instead looks up his I.Q. score and asks him if he's an introvert. The world has lost its sense of beauty and love. Is it any wonder I'm down and out and lonely?"

The writer pitied the poor little fellow, and said, "Dan, what you need is a little wife to comfort you."

"That's what the psychiatrist told me when he examined me," answered Dan, even more despondently. "And he gave me a prescription for a wife. But I've looked everywhere and can't find a girl with my number."

And Dan Cupid slowly backed out of the door, leaving the writer to get down once more to hard w-z-z-zzzz.

Collection Including Pottery Designs To be Shown In Art Gallery

An art collection including an exhibition of Indian pottery designs will be exhibited in the Elizabeth Gowdy Baker art gallery from February 27 until March 12. This exhibit was prepared through the co-operation of F. H. Douglas, curator of Indian Art, Denver Are Museum, and is being circulated by the National Federation of Arts, of which Maryville college art department is a member.

Through this organization other very interesting exhibitions will be presented in the future, in an effort ti stimulate interest in classical art productions.

SWAN SONG FOR DEBATE

An article in the University Echo, from the University of Chattanooga, contends that debate subjects become more abstract and dull every year. The writer says that surely debate material can be found which will provide popular interest for the "hoi polloi." He beleives that popular interest waned when debate subjects began to center around "institutions of an economic world." The article warns, "unless the two factions—debater and debategoer—can achieve some mutual satisfaction debating may start wandering lonely as a cloud, and stop where all good pursuits go when they die."

In the interests of debating and because of a neighborly feeling, we would suggest the following proposition for next year's Pi Kappa Delta debate question. We fondly hope that it will console the writer from Chattanooga and his cohorts (if any). Resolved; That the Duck never should have was, and even if he ain't, he were.

SENIOR SUGGESTIONS

The seniors of State Teachers College at Jacksonville, Florida, recently published in the Teacola, several suggestions for making campus life more enjoyable.

1. Test exemptions and three cuts per week for all seniors.
2. Cushions for classroom chairs.
3. Gags for loud-mouthed "Rats."
4. Free ice cream at 10 o'clock.
5. An hour for siesta after lunch.
6. Trapdoors for boresome teachers.
7. Robots for writing English themes.
8. Better acoustics for bath-room quartets.
9. Bathing beauty serving girls in the dining rooms.

TWO OF US

Two individuals named Kennon Thetford attend the University of Alabama. However, one is masculine and a senior, while the other is feminine and a freshman. They are cousins. The masculine Thetford received a reservation for a room in the co-ed dormitory. But when he cut his French class his co-ed cousin, who did not take the course, was marked absent. They have the same mailbox, and examine return addresses, handwriting, etc., to determine the proper owner.

THE SPORTS EDITOR

RELIEF FOR BOTH OF US?

With a sigh of relief we turn this page over to frosh co-workers Felknor and Steakly, pausing on the way out only for brief mention of a few notable comebacks, staged of late by Scot athletes.

First of all, and a rare treat indeed, is the cage win over Carson-Newman, breaking a jinx of two years. The manner in which it was accomplished, too, was satisfying, with the Scotties rising to a season scoring peak to pile up fifty points on the Eagles. It was just as hard-fought and well played a scrap as Maryville—Carson-Newman games of the past, and as cleanly played as any we've seen.

Involved in the success of the basketball team was also the uprising staged by James "cousin Joe" Etheredge. "Boll Weevil Joe," after seeing a good bit of action last year, has been warming the bench in no uncertain manner since reporting late in January. His four last-half goals lifted his team out of a hole Wednesday night and may be the force that will keep "Joe's" spot on the sidelines vacant part of the time henceforth.

To further the revolutionary tendency, our grapplers pounced on Tennessee's hapless Vols for a top-heavy win Thursday. It was the first triumph of the year, and long overdue. Edgar Meares heralded a return to form with an easy victory over his 145 pound opponent. The boys have a chance to keep the ball rolling in a return engagement with Knox Y here tonight.....

GREAT AMERICAN SPORTS

Thank you Brother Byrne. With basketball, wrestling, and aquatic sports out of the way, we never have only left the little publicized pin-pong and billiards. The YMCA is sponsoring tournaments for each of those two great American sports. Right now the ping-pong tournament is in the throes of the finals, between Kenneth Van Cise and Stan Czepial. The pool tournament is in the semi-finals and as yet there doesn't seem to be any favorites on the scene of action. Well this seems to clean up all the sports for the week at least we hope so.

Amid all the hubbub over the matriculation of prep sensation Bill DeCorrevont at Northwestern, Red Grange offers this sage bit of advice: "Graduation is a particular milestone that I urge you to aim for—a milestone very much worth obtaining....

"Graduate."

Red, never having graduated, should know what he's talking about.

Fritz Crisler, after six years spent in lifting the Princeton Tiger out of his coma, has signed as head coach at the University of Michigan. That portends evil for rival Big Ten coaches; football revivals seem to follow Crisler around. He may find the going not so smooth, however, in the entanglement of Michigan's jealous alumni and officialdom.

GRIDDERS GROAN

The gridiron heroes have really something to think about now. Coach L. S. Honaker recently purchased a new blocking and tackling "mushine" for the laddies to do a wee bit o' practicing on the this spring. Aye 'tis tough lads, but then its all in the spirit of things, and it wouldn't probably do any harm to any of you. The machine is one of the latest things out for this kind of work. It is of the sled type, and it can be used to give the players practice in all of the fundamental blocking and tackling plays. With spring football starting, this machine will really have its place in the sun, as our coaches plan to use it extensively this spring and fall.

Vols Fall Before Scot Grapplers

The University of Tennessee wrestling team succumbed under the pressure applied by the Scotty grapplers last Thursday night in the Alumni gym by the lopsided score of 27-3.

Starting with the 118 pound division through the 175 pound class, the Maryville squad kept a clean slate, scoring 27 points to the University's O. U.T., however, gained their lone decision in the heavyweight bout, making the score 27-3.

Phil Evaul began the attack by winning a decision over McAlister of U.T. in an exhibition match. Although Evaul was outweighed 10 pounds, the outcome of the match was quite obvious before the first period was over.

Following closely bhind Evaul; Mooney, Everett and Meares each gained a decision in his weight class. Each of the matches was well fought by the U-T representatives, but the Maryville men outwrestled their opponents from the start till the end.

Renfro, of Maryville, put on quite an exhibition and came through to pin Hatfield in 5:35. Renfro was in seemingly excellent shape and took Hatfield with comparative ease.

Hahn gained a decision over Freeman of the University in the 165 pound class. Hahn was on top most of the time, and Freeman was all but pinned more than once.

Propst came in for the high point of the match to throw Smith of U-T in 4:45. Propst had it out all over the mat before he was finally able to put the "bee' on Smith. Smith was unquestionably doing his best just to stay out of Propst's way, but the Maryville star eventually got hold of Smith and that ended things pretty quickly.

Maryville did not drop a dcision till the last match when Hayes of U-T was given a decision over Fred Tulloch in the heavyweight class.

Thetas and Bainonians To Hold Swimming Meet

The members of Theta Epsilon Literary society have challenged their Bainonian sisters to a swimming meet which will be held at the swimming pool this afternoon from 4 to 5 p.m. The meet will take the place of the regular Saturday evening meetings of the societies.

The meet will consist of the 50 yard crawl, the 50 yard back stroke, some exhibition diving, a medly relay, and two novelty relays.

Those swimming for Theta are Dot Quass, June Myers, Kay McDonald, Estelle Hayes, Arlene Phelps, Esther Sommers, Ruth Woodside, and Kitty Bennett.

Bainonian contestants are Mary Darden, Harriet Miller, Jessie Curtis, Barbara Sutton, Catherine Davidson, Janet Talmage, Frances Perrin, Sarah Botto, Kitty Adams, and Louise Allen.

Kay McDonald is serving as captain for her team, and Louise Allen for hers.

Railsplitters Hand Highlanders Third Conference Defeat

Scotties Drop To Third Place As Result Of Whipping

Maryville lost her third conference game last Saturday night, when the Scotties journeyed to LMU and were defeated by the Railsplitters 41-49. The LMU quintet grabbed the lead early in the game and the Scots were never able to catch them. Holding a 13-32 point lead at the end of the first half, the Railsplitters were able to coast to a victory despite the efforts of the Highlanders to overtake them.

Overton of Lincoln, and Magill of Maryville shared the scoring honors, each knocking the net for 16 points.

The game tended to be a little on the rough side, with 18 personal fouls called against Lincoln, and 19 personals being called against the Highlanders.

Lineups:

MARYVILLE	LMU
W. Baird 10	Walker 12
Magill 16	Nidiffer 11
Russell 5	Overton 16
B. Baird 2	Thomas 5
Odell	Summers 2

Subs: Maryville—Honaker 2, Hughes 1, Etheredge 5, Black, Hernandez. LMU—W. Johns 1, Moore, Johns 2.

Highlanders Trim Eagles' Wings In Smoky Mountain Conference Victory

Second Half Rally Brings Maryville Scotties 50-42 Win Over Carson-Newman Quintet Wednesday Night

In an important Smoky Mountain Conference game, the Highlanders of Maryville decisively whipped their old rivals the Carson-Newman Eagles 50-42. The rivalry between these two schools dates to way back, and every year when these two schools meet there is always a little bit of the well-known fur a'flyin'. The game played in the Alumni gym last Wednesday night, proved to be no exception to the rule.

The game started off with Hawkins, Eagle forward, sinking a crip shot for the first score of the game. They added another point to this when Magill fouled Hamblen, who converted the free throw, giving C-N a three point lead. Maryville, not to be outdone so early in the game, slipped a pass to Weldon Baird under the basket, Baird sank the crip shot, and then Captain Odell sank another, to give the Scotties the edge 4-3 with less than three minutes of the game played.

With only the first part of the first half played, Dale Russell was forced out of the game, having been soaked for four personal fouls. The score at this early part of the game being 20-15 in favor of Maryville. Handicapped by the loss of one of her two six-footers, Maryville was gradually edged out by half-time 23-26, Carson-Newman holding the well deserved four point lead.

The second half began with Weldon Baird, Jim Etheredge, Odell, and Magill each sinking a field goal apiece for eight straight points for Maryville, before the surprised Eagles could get back into their first half form. Carson Newman then hit the hoop for two more points before flashy Howard Magill sank three fast crips for six points. Maryville with a safe lead, then managed to hold it the rest of the game, the final score being 50-42.

The game was one of those fast scoring affairs, and a high point game also. This was the first game the Scotties were able to break the half-century mark in scoring. Little Howard Magill, with his 19 points, was the real offensive star of the game. Jim Etheredge, a substitute for Maryville, deserves credit for his coming in at a tough spot, and then scoring 8 points as well as playing a nice defensive game. Weldon Baird and Boydson Baird, brothers of the court, showed some of their really fine passing in the second half, when Boydson, freshman half of the duo, intercepted an Eagle pass and tossed the ball to brother Weldon, who returned the pass, and then received another right back in position for a perfect crip shot. Weldon Baird came second in scoring honors for Maryville with eleven points. Odell played his usual bang-up game of basketball, scoring 8 points, and playing a good defensive game. Southpaw Hamblen, Eagle guard, scored 12 points for second honors for the evening. Carson-Newman was really getting that ball off the back board and getting several

Maryville Tankmen Whip Tusculum 50-24

Maryville's tankmen pushed the Tusculum mermen under last night in Bartlett pool by the rather uneven score of 50 to 24.

The Fischbach coached squad turned in an excellent performance and at least one college record fell during the course of the events. Scotty swimmers gained in the first event a decisive lead which was never even threatened throughout the meet. Maryville took all but three firsts and even in these events took second and third.

Rusty Wicklund and Paul Akana tied for the number one scoring position, each taking one first and one second. Wicklund took first in the 200 yard free-style with the time of 2:28, which betters the old college record by three seconds. He also took second in the 100 yard free-style.

Akana took his usual first in the breast-stroke and also gained a second in the 400 yard event.

Burt Chandler took first in diving by a slim margin. Sayles of Tusculum making the margin doubtful more than once. Rippeth also took first in the 100 yard back-stroke.

Tusculum is the first school of equal size that the Maryville squad has met, and the relative strength may be judged from the more than double score.

Scot Grunters To Meet Knoxville Y Wrestlers

Fresh from giving the University of Tennessee a thorough beating, the Maryville wrestling squad will undertake to do the same to the Knoxville YMCA this evening in the Alumni gym.

CAMPUS SHORTS

There will be a special speaker at the Wednesday morning chapel service. Dr. Robert M. Stimson of Chattanooga, Tennessee, will address th student body. He is the pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church of that city.

Dr. Frank D. McClelland, director of personnel, will preach at Vespers this Sunday evening at 7:00. The subject he has chosen is "Margin of Safety."

Music will be an important part of the service. The Vespers Choir will sing two anthems, "Listen to the Lambs" and "Holy City," in which Edwin Goddard will sing a solo.

The Social Committee has released plans for a formal dinner and program to precede the John Charles Thomas concert Monday evening. Robert Gillespie will act as master of ceremonies for a program which will feature Ralph Reed and Sam Cornelius with their trumpets; a vocal solo by Russell Hirsch; and vocal renditions by the quartet, John Magill, Carl Wells, Lloyd Wells, and Donald McArthur.

Miss Edwina Lowe, graduate of the Maryville college Expression department, entertained several Maryville college and University of Tennessee students at her home with a Valentine buffet supper, carrying out the Valentine motif in Colonial Doll decorations and Colonial silhouettes.

Miss Lowe is enjoying a stay with her parents after appearing professionally all last summer season with New York and Hollywood players at the Marshfield Hills Summer Theatre outside of Boston.

Professor Kenneth Lagerstedt will be the speaker at the meeting of Y.W. this week. His subject will be "The Religious Crisis in Germany." He will also tell of some of the beauty spots that he has seen in his travels in Germany.

The music will be furnished by a womens trio.

At its regular meeting Saturday evening, the Athenian society will sponsor an amateur contest, directed by Cliff Proctor. The contest may be entered by any member who wishes to demonstrate his talent. The winners will be selected by applause.

"Christ and the Doctors," a famous painting by Hofman, will be dedicated by the Y.M.C.A. in honor of Dr. John W. Cummings, former personnel director, Sunday. Walter West will deliver a dedication speech.

The meeting which is usually held at 1:00 will be held at 5:00. The association is arranging the late meeting this week as an experiment to see whether more will be able to attend. The bell for the meeting will be rung at 4:45.

French jokes and conversations featured the program presented at the French club meeting Wednesday evening in Miss Margaret Wilkinson's classroom. Following a brief business session, new members were welcomed into the club.

Disc club met Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the chapel. Beethoven's Ninth Symphony was played. Thomas Schaeffer was the commentator.

The Ninth Symphony is the last and greatest of Beethoven's symphonies. It is sometimes called the Choral symphony, because in the last movement a chorus and solos are added to the music of the orchestra. The words for the chorus are taken from Schiller's "Ode to Joy."

Because of the unusual length of the Symphony the hour of meeting was changed from 4:30 to 4:00.

Alpha Sigma's meeting this evening will be in the form of a Professor Quiz program. Joe Gamble, prominent local attorney, will be master of ceremonies and will ask the questions of the various contestants. The meeting will start promptly at 6:45 p.m.

Thursday evening at 6:45 in the Chemistry lecture room, Bill Alston read a paper on insects which he had prepared for the Writer's Workshop.

The projection machine was used to show photographs and postcards of scenes in the Smoky Mountains.

FEBRUARY MEETINGS

God. Over a radio, music is often not given its true quality. The same is sometimes the case with Christianity—the fault lies not with the source, but with the means of transmission.

Monday Morning

What I Believe About Jesus Christ. Christianity is not a philosophy, an organization, or a code of morals. It has all these, but it is Jesus Christ. What do I belive about Jesus? I believe that he is the Christ, the son of the living God, and in Jesus I see God. He is the only possible savior of the world. Jesus helps us conserve what is worth keeping in our lives, and helps us lose from our lives that which we must lose to save our lives. Seeing Jesus on the cross is awful and terrible, but it saves us—makes us new persons. Whatever light there is in Christianity, is there because of Jesus.

Monday Evening

The Intolerance of Christianity. Christ's tolerance brought him criticism in his day. Now the church is criticized for intolerance. The church must be intolerant to the things Christ was intolerant to—to sin, to those leaders who weren't helping the sinners back to goodness, to filth and dirt; to the trivial; to hypocrisy.

Tuesday Morning

What I Believe About Sin and Salvation. We can't get rid of sin merely by controlling heritage and environment. We have to conform to the law of God, and set our lives in accordance with the life of Jesus. We stand between the kingdom of animals and the kingdom of God. The animal kingdom is self against all others; the kingdom of God is self for the sake of others. The choice lies with us, to take either the animal kingdom or the kingdom of God. To have the one we must give up the other—sacrifices are necessary. We must choose between sin and salvation.

Tuesday Evening

Taking Christianity Into Everyday Living. We too often seek the extraordinary, the thrilling and exciting, in religion. We don't take our religion into the ordinary affairs of everyday living. But religion won't cleanse us unless we do carry it into our ordinary activities. And God does his best work slowly, but we too often want immediate transformation. Only by bringing faith persistently into everyday living can we and our world be transformed.

Wednesday Morning

Making the Most of Life. To make the most of our lives we should have, first, a worthy purpose to command our lives—one built on an unselfish motive, worthy of an eternal spirit. In following that purpose, we must live a life of purity. A noble goal cannot be achieved by ignoble means. All the while, we must keep our conscience clear. Troubled conscience ruins personality. Then, too, we need a solid, firm faith in ourselves, in others, and in God. Faith is necessary to lift us over the sandbars in life which can wreck us.

NOTICE

The College payroll will be made in the Student-Help Office on Wednesday, February 23 and Thursday, February 24, from 1:00 to 5:30 p.m.

Scots To Wrestle Y

Y gave the Maryville men the first defeat of the season by one point, and the Highlanders haven't forgotten.

Knoxville Y presents a strong team, and they seemingly have no weak points. Defeat will only be given to them by breaking an almost solid front.

MUSICAL VESPERS

A piano solo by Ruth Mack and two numbers by the choir have been arranged for the special musical Vespers tomorrow evening. The piano solo will be Lents, by Syrie Scott. The choir will sing "Listen to the Lamb," by Dett and "The Holy City," by Adams. Ed Goddard will sing the solo part in the last number.

Dr. Frank B. McClelland will be the speaker.

It grinds a careful, hard working business man to dig up income tax money and then see it carelessly spent by the government.

Bennett, Miller Take "First Lady" Leads Thursday

Dayton-Kaufman Farce Is Washington Society Take-Off

WAS BROADWAY HIT

Thursday evening at 8:15 in Voorhees chapel the Theta Epsilon and Alpha Sigma societies will present "First Lady" by Katherine Dayton and George Kaufman. This production will be the first of the midwinters to be given by the societies this season.

Gordon Bennett has a leading role as Stephen Wayne. He has appeared in various parts in several plays during the past years. Some of these are "Peter Ibetson," "Purple Mask," "Pride and Prejudice," and "Craig's Wife." This is the last time that Bennett will appear on the Maryville stage this year.

As Lucy Chase Wayne, Gloria Miller will take the lead opposite Bennett. She, too, is well known on the college stage for her performances in "Peter Ibetson," "Purple Mask", "Lady Windmere's Fan," and "Craig's Wife." She gives readings and recently won honors for reading poetry in a contest at Virginia Intermont.

Irene Browder as Irene Hibbard, Muriel Mann as Mrs. Creevy, and Robert Gillespie as Carter Hibbard, compose the principal characters in the supporting cast.

Reveals Inside Of Capitol

Dramatic interest is supplied by Bruce Walters, as Senator Keene, the boy senator from the west, who plays opposite Mary Louise Morgan as Emmy, naive Mississippi miss.

The plot reveals the inside of Washington society, and the clever planning of two ambitious women. Mrs. Lucy Chase Wayne, wife of the secretary of state, decides to make her husband the president of the United States, in order to foil Irene Hibbard, who is set on making Gordon Keene the president. She starts a movement which is supposed to lead to the nomination of Carter Hibbard, Irene's husband. How she keeps Carter from being nominated and secures the nomination for her husband is disclosed in the action of the remainder of the play.

Brooks Atkinson, writing in the New York Times says: "It is a brilliant comedy by George S. Kaufman, the Moliere of Broadway . . . "First Lady" is one of the best comedies stamped with the Kaufman hallmark . . . gay, mischievous, and capitally written."

"First Lady" is under the capable direction of Mrs. Nita Eckles West, head of the department of expression. Reserved seat tickets at thirty-five cents are on sale every afternoon in the lobby of Thaw hall.

Disc Club To Hear Mozart Symphony

The Disc club will present Mozart's Symphony in G Minor Friday, March 4, in the Fine Arts studio. The G Minor Symphony, one of the greatest to be composed by Mozart, reflects more than any other the effect of Mozart's struggle for existence. It consists of four movements with a gradual climax achieving a mood of gaiety. Commentator for the afternoon will be Harriet Barber.

Every Tuesday and Friday afternoon from 2:30—5:30 the Fine Arts studio is open to any students desiring to play victrola records. There will be a student in charge of distributing the records. If enough interest is shown in these periods the studio will be opened on other days.

Store Rooms Being Built In Anderson Basement

Two new concrete store rooms are being added to the basement of Anderson hall and a third room is being excavated in preparation for the transfer of supplies from the second floor rooms to the basement. The present supply rooms on the second floor of Anderson hall will be changed into class rooms for next year.

In addition to work on this project, the football field and the tennis courts were being reconditioned for spring use by campus workers this week.

Take Leads In "First Lady"

IRENE BROWDER

J. GLORIA MILLER

Irene Browder and Gloria Miller play the leading feminine roles of Irene Hibbard and Lucy Chase Wayne in "First Lady," to be seen on Voorhees stage Thursday evening.

Freshmen Debaters Encounter Auburn

Unicameral Legislatures Is Question For Debate

The freshman debate squad held its first non-decision contest of the season Wednesday evening in the philosophy classroom against Alabama Polytechnic Institute of Auburn, Ala Maryville took the affirmative side of this question: Resolved, that the several Southern states should adopt unicameral legislatures. Those debating for Maryville were George Webster and Tommy Woolf, while Alabama Poly was represented by Larry Carruthers and Bernard W. Sykes, members of the varsity team. James Whitt of Maryville acted as chairman.

The Auburn debaters accompanied by their coach, A. E. Hess, spent the night in Carnegie hall and left Thursday morning for Berea, Kentucky, to debate Berea college.

Gentlemen Of Campus Turn Housewives As Landlady Is Absent

Time: 12:45, just after lunch.

Scene: house in which the characters live.

Characters: Charlie Fish and Bob Cusworth.

Down Carnegie steps, straight ahead, and then straight ahead until the first turn to the left. Proceed until you pass about four houses, and then pause at a little brick house. It is there that the action of the noon melodrama occurred.

"Hey, Bob, don't you think we might wash the dishes before the landlady gets home. Will you start heating the water, and we'll get them done."

"Good idea," said Bob. "but do you know how to light one of these kerosene stoves?"

"Yes. Let me do it."

The stove was lighted; the water put on to heat; and the two characters, Fish and Cusworth, went into their room, closed the door, sat down, and waited for the water to heat.

Now Charlie's mother had never taught him how to run a kerosene stove, and so his knowledge of such a stove was only second hand. Little did Charlie ever guess that if a kerosene stove is turned way up, sooot will get all over everything. So therefore

Leading Med Schools Register College Men For Entrance In Fall

Four Maryville students have been accepted by leading medical universities of the United States. Bill Young has been accepted as a medical student at Duke university, Jim Proffitt at Vanderbilt, and James and Herbert Dickie at the University of Virginia.

Don Crego has been awarded a scholarship by the Vanderbilt Divinity school.

Lagerstedt To Speak On Germany At YM Service

"The Situation in Germany" will be the general subject to be discussed by Prof. Kenneth Lagerstedt at the Y.M. C.A. service tomorrow afternoon at five o'clock in Bartlett auditorium.

Special music will be rendered by Gerald Beaver.

Designs of Indian Pottery On Exhibit

Pueblo Plates Circulated By Am. Federation Of Arts

An exhibition of Indian pottery designs will be displayed in the Elizabeth Gowdy Baker Art Gallery from February 28 to March 7. The art gallery is open daily from 3 o'clock until 5 o'clock.

This exhibition of pottery designs prepared through the co-operation of Frederic H. Douglas, Curator of Indian art at the Denver Art museum, is being circulated for the purpose of giving a good cross section of modern Pueblo pottery. It consists of 44 plates from nine modern pottery-making pueblos, with six plates of prehistoric designs from the same area, to give some insight into their remote background.

This exhibition, as well as others that will be displayed in the future, is being circulatetd by the American Federation of Arts, a national organization for the cultivation of the fine arts. The art department of Maryville college is a member of this organization.

Major Price To Speak At YW Meeting Sunday

The subject of "Prayer" will be discussed Sunday afternoon at the YW meeting by Major Charles W. Price, from Sweetwater, Tennessee. Special music will also be part of the program.

Major Price is the manager and consulting chemist of a Tennessee mineral company. He is an outstanding Christian leader in his community, being the teacher of a men's Bible class. A graduate of Cumberland University, he was an officer in the World War and later became an instructor in science at the Tennessee Military Institute. Maryville students first came to know Major Price at the YW-YM retreat last spring.

Thomas Sings To Capacity Audience

Colorful Baritone's Voice Thrills Listeners

A more than capacity audience of 1100 people went wildly enthusiastic in Voorhees chapel Monday evening when that greatest of men singers, the American baritone John Charles Thomas of the Metropolitan opera, sang his way into the hearts of all East Tennessee. Never have the people of East Tennessee or the student body of Maryville college enjoyed such a treat.

A large stalwart man strode on the stage, and when the first liquid notes poured forth from that superb and highly trained throat, the artist had his audience at his command. His interpretation and dramatic flair alone would have captivated one, but that was only a part. Deep, resonant, vibrant tones carried through all parts of the auditorium and faded away into the most delicate and tender pianissimi imaginable. One forgot his surroundings, everything, in the spirit and carrying power of the artist.

At the end of the first group, the great "O Du Mein Holder Abenstern" from Tannhauser by Wagner was a vocal masterpiece done as an encore.

Carrol Hollister, the youthful and most adequate pianist was an artist in his own right, playing to perfection all accompaniements by memory and giving an exquisite group of piano numbers encored by the "Clair de Lune" of Debussy. Never has a more perfect accompanist appeared on the Maryville stage.

Mr. Thomas' second group was a number of French songs done with the most finesse and perfect diction possible. He gave evidence of great humanism in his wonderful dramatic explanation and interpretation of this

Knoxville Pastor To Lead Vespers

Dr. Theron Alexander, pastor of the Park City Presbyterian church in Knoxville, will be the leader at the Sunday evening vesper service February 27.

Dr. Alexander has long been connected with Maryville college. He graduated in 1908, and is now serving as a director. His two sons have also graduated from Maryville college.

The leader at the Wednesday morning chapel service, February 23, was Rev. Robert M. Stimson, pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church of Chattanooga. Dr. Stimson is also a director of Maryville college.

The speaker at the chapel service Wednesday morning, March 2, will be Dr. Oliver R. Tarwater, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church of Maryville.

Tennessee Philological Ass'n Holds Thirty-Second Annual Meeting At College, Mar. 4-5

Freshmen Attend Reading Classes

Special reading classes have been organized by the Psychology department and are now meeting regularly for those freshmen falling below average on the Iowa Reading Test given early in the school year. A mechanical device is used for increasing the rate of speed in reading and text book study for increasing comprehension ability. It is predicted that those taking this special training will increase their rate of speed and comprehension at least 25 per cent, and some perhaps as much as 60 per cent.

Because of numerous requests by both freshmen and upper classmen the afternoon classes are to be open to any student wishing to join them. All classes are limited to fifty, however.

Women Debaters Take Honors At Bristol Tourney

Men's Teams Compete At Teachers; Erskine Defeated

With the season barely under way, the Maryville debaters have already brought distinction to the college by carrying off major honors at the first annual Smoky Mountain speech tournament for women in Bristol, Virginia, last Saturday and by winning the decision debate against Erskine college on Tuesday.

In the Bristol tournament twenty-two teams from ten colleges went through four rounds of competition, and Maryville shared honors with Virginia Intermont college in debate contests. The negative team of the College, composed of Arda Walker and Miriam Waggoner, went through the rounds undefeated.

The affirmative team, composed of Sara Lee Hellums and Georgia Ingle, was the highest ranking affirmative team; and Miss Ingle received the highest individual rating in this group. She was closely followed by Miss Hellums. Other honors of the tournament went to Louise Proffitt who won second place in the extempore speaking contest, and also in the oratorical contest. Gloria Miller was declared the champion poetry reader.

On Tuesday afternoon, a negative team, composed of Warren Ashby and Clifford Proctor, met an affirmative team from Erskine college in a non-decision debate. Then, in the evening,

Lindsay Of Chattanooga To Speak On Jonson's Songs

HUNTER, SHINE READ

Music Department Students Illustrate Lindsay Talk With Songs

The thirty-second annual meeting of the Tennessee Philological association will be held at Maryville college next Friday and Saturday.

Dr. Edwin R. Hunter, director of curriculum and vice-president of the Association, will read a paper on "Maxwell Anderson's Use of Verse" at the first session, which will open Friday morning at 9:30 in Thaw hall. During the same session Dr. Hill Shine, associate professor of English, will give a paper on "Some Possibilities of Microphotography as an aid to Research." The modern foreign language faculty of the College will be represented by Miss Dorothy F. Hunter, associate professor of French and German, who has as a topic "Moliere and Louis XIV." Dr. George B. Hussey, former head of the foreign language department of the College, will present a paper on "Some Readings in Plato's Sophist."

Students Illustrate Songs

The third session of the meeting, to be held in Voorhees chapel Friday evening at eight o'clock, will feature Edwin S. Lindsay of the University of Chattanooga, who will speak on "The Music of Ben Jonson's Songs." The talk will be illustrated by students from the music department of Maryville college under the direction of Dorothy Horne and Ralph Colbert, instructors in music.

Nancy Quinn will sing "Though I Am Young," and "Still to be Neat." Dick Woodring will sing two other well-known Jonson lyrics, "Drink to Me Only with Thine Eyes," and "Do But Look in Her Eyes." "The Cutpurse," a dialogue and song, will be presented by Edwin Goddard and Ralph Reed accompanied by a small orchestra composed of Miss Horne and Edward Brubaker, first violin; Mable Longmire and Annabelle Voight, second violin; John Guinter, viola; Erwin Ritzman and Robert Lucero, cello; Thelma Ritzman, flute; and Ivan Elder, clarinet.

In addition to the papers being read by Maryville college professors, faculty

Workshop Selects Best Manuscripts

Four of the outstanding works read in Writer's Workshop last semester were selected by a ballot of the members last Monday afternoon to be placed in the permanent collection in the library. The ones selected were Don Stevens' short story, "The Conversion of an Incident;" Arthur Byrne's familiar essay, "On Reading Whitman's Introduction to 'Leaves of Grass;" Fred Rhody's short story, "Behind the Eight-ball;" Miss Jessie Heron's, "Mr. Van's Story;" a group of poems by Dr. E. R. Hunter; and Carolyn Harrar's story of a moron, "One of our Two Million."

Papers read for the first time Monday afternoon were a scientific essay, "Expansion," by Jack Thelin, and a personal essay, "I Could Not Speak," by Jessie Cassada.

Twenty-five Students And Faculty Attend Concert Of Rubinoff

Twenty-four members of the faculty and student body attended the concert of David Rubinoff and his violin at the University of Tennessee last Tuesday evening. The popular radio maestro played a varied program of semi-classics and popular songs including seven of his own compositions. He brought with him the rising young piano team of Fray and Braggotti, who scored in a burlesque of Yankee Doodle in the manner of several of the masters. An audience of over 2500 was present.

Flat Tires, Hotels, And Interviewers "All In A Concert Tour" Says Thomas

By ROBERT BRANDRIFF

John Charles Thomas was very decidedly not in a good humor when he set out from Knoxville last Monday night to sing here. Standing on the curb outside his hotel, in a black overcoat, a blue scarf wrapped around his neck, and a soft felt hat pushed low on his head, he looked the very picture of impatient indignation. His size, accentuated by contrast with the slender figure of Mr. Hollister, made him appear doubly formidable. None of which was calculated to contribute to the poise of a cub reporter.

Has Trouble Leaving

In the first place, Mr. Thomas had tried to leave the hotel by the outside exit, but since he carried a large yellow bag, his efforts had looked suspicious to the elevator operator, wha apparently was no opera fan, and insisted that it was the custom for departing guests to leave by the front door. In the second place, it seems that interviewers from the Knoxville papers had crossed their wires and run stories carrying Mr. Thomas' emphatic statement that he doesn't like to sing! In consequence his opening remarks were to the effect that he would never give another interview. Newspaper men were all alike, and always wrong. The officially empowered and fully authorized representative of the Highland Echo began to hunt for objects of interest in the passing landscape.

Fortunately, in a short time Mr. Thomas began to regain his composure, and before he was half way to Maryville, he was humming in a mock basso profundo, "Rocked in the Cradle of the Dee-ee-ep."

Mrs. Thomas Absent

Mrs. Thomas, who invariably accompanies her husband and attends her husband's recitals, was this time unable to do so because of the necessity of seeing that their baggage was on the train. So close was Mr. Thomas' schedule that night, that the L. & N. officials offered to hold The Flamingo ten minutes should he give too many encores.

Professor Howell, noticing the weather, remarked that even if it rained it would not affect the tenor of the audience. Almost before it wae out of his mouth, Thomas came back with—"Well, it won't affect the baritone of it, either." From then on the going was easy. Singing before college students was no novelty to Mr. Thomas, and he has some pretty definite ideas on the subject. Instead of mention of the youthful enthusiasm which we were angling for, he maintained that often college groups are afflicted with delusions of superiority and a sort of super-sophistication which makes them hard to please. But after the concert, Mr. Thomas was sincere in his expression of satisfaction with the Maryville audience.

Asked why he had included no arias on the original program, Mr. Thomas replied that he understood that our concert here was to be in the nature of a recital, and that most people think that operatic airs are not recital numbers, while others expect them of an opera singer wherever he appears, Mr. Thomas deplored the possibility of pleasing all the people all the time.

Thomas Gives Advice

Taking advantage of an opportunity that comes once in a life time, and encouraged by Mr. Tomas' geniality, we got personal and asked "What is the greatest tragedy that can befall an artist?" which is the theme of a short story due within the month. And simultaneously with the inquiry, Professor Howell suffered the first flat tire of his new car, and we were bouncing along on the rim. "That, my boy," said Mr. Thomas, "is the greatest tradegy of an artist; to miss his engagement.

His Only Reward

The concert of John Charles Thomas in Voorhees chapel last Monday evening, attended by eleven hundred enthusiastic students and patrons from out-oftown, marked a definite milestone in our college Artist Series. Never before has quite so great a figure appeared on our stage, nor so large an audience packed the chapel.

And this season also marks the tenth anniversary of the inspired and competant direction of Professor Geo. D. Howell, who took over the duties of impressario in 1928. The years since have witnessed a steady rise in the calibre of artists appearing and a widening circle of influence in this section of the state. When Professor Howell took over the series, the year's program included a company of magicians, a male quartette, a lecturer, and a group of bell-ringers. In recent years, the Westminister choir, Iturbi, the Vienna choir boys, Horowitz, Casadessus, Meisle, Spalding, Jepson, Hofmann have been included on the roster of internationally known musicians who have brought to Maryville the finest of the world's music. In 1928, the "Lyceum" was an entirely local educational feature; Monday night brought music lovers from Bristol and Chattanooga and points between.

Professor Howell is a capable musician in his own right, and a dicriminating judge of good music; qualifications which have contributed much to the outstanding success of his choice of artists. So far he has never been wrong. His great artists have been popular, and the younger ones on the way to success.

Single-handed, Professor Howell has made our artists series one of the most valuable cultural assets of the college. This word of appreciation can do little to repay the sacrifice of time and effort involved through the years except as it represents the unexpressed opinion of the entire student body and faculty, for that is his only reward.

Fits and Fizzles

By FRED RHODY

Having just read a book on the pioneer spirit of our forefathers, we are penitent for the way that we have frittered away our time, content to drift with the tide. Henceforth we, too, fell inspired to carry on. We propose a new crusade—A pipe for Every Male Faculty Member.

For Dr. Hunter we suggest one of those contraptions with the long tube and jug of water, before which we picture him in a gay turban, sitting cross-legged, in sedate meditation, while a bevy of beauties dance languorously about him. Professor Davis needs a low-slung pipe, the bowl drooping close to the ground—one that will help complete that Sherlock Holmes suggestion. Prof. Queener must have a jaunty straight pipe—one that can be easily shifted to one corner of the mouth while a wise-crack comes from the other corner. We suggest a corn cob for Dr. Shine—a corn cob and strong cut-plug tobacco. Anything else would seem wishy-washy. A conservative smoothly-polished briar, slightly curved to fit the chins, would enhance that certain air of Dr. Rodgers. Dr. Orr needs a trim sort of a pipe, built on straight concise lines. We suggest a large drooping meerschaum with a perforated lid for Coach Honaker—that's all he needs to be completely the solemn, quiet, tight-lipped Buddha-like thinker which he so closely resembles. The typical college boy's sleek straight pipe would be best for Dr. Lloyd—the kind which is clenched for dear life between the teeth and talked through, requiring frequent lighting and careful nurture. And the others must have pipes, too.

. . . . . .

Concerning this plan for A Pipe for Every Male Faculty Member, we believe it would

(1) give the teachers something to do during eight hours of the day.

(2) take their minds off tests;

(3) give students something to laugh at in life;

(4) give the Echo editor something to write editorials about;

(5) give Echo columnist something to write columns about;

(5) give Echo columnists something to write giving students more holidays.

Each of our teachers looks as though he isn't quite all there; a pipe would complete the picture.

. . . . . .

We respectfully submit this plan. Possibly nothing will come of it. But our conscience is clear; we have done our bit toward trying to put a little sunshine into the cheerless life of the college professor.

THANKS OF SAMUEL TYNDALE WILSON FOR KINDESSES SHOWN HIM

I am again placed under the happiest and deepest of obligations to President Lloyd and to the faculty of the college, and to the students of Maryville college for their cordial and kindly expressions of interest and sympathy and good will to me in connection with the celebration of my eightieth birthday. This good-will has been expressed in, to me, beautiful ways; both official and personal.

I thank all of you very heartily, indeed, for whatever part you may have had in bringing happiness to me on this birthday of mine.

Nor would I fail to express to my friends in the town of Maryville and elsewhere whatever share they have had in graciously making me grateful and happy on this birthday occasion.

I am glad that this expression of gratitude on my part happens to be coincident with another cause for gratitude that is warming our hearts on these last days of February. We are all grateful, I am sure, for the large and useful service that has been rendered the College during these past few days by Dr. Barbour and by many other willing hearts; and that calls for sincere gratitude on the part of all of us.

Cordially yours,
Samuel Tyndale Wilson

EDEN RESIGNS

SIR ANTHONY EDEN'S resignation from the British cabinet is one of the most significant events in the history of international politics. It shows more clearly than ever before that the once mighty British empire is in a process of disintergration. That empire has been established and kept intact by means of vigorous foreign policy, just such a policy as Eden proposes. It was because of the vacillating, compromising policy favored by prime minister Neville Chamberlain that Eden left the cabinet.

Chamberlain's victory is not surprising when one considers British diplomacy since the war. Because of the confusion in British opinion as to what course should be pursued, British diplomats have been alternately pro- German, anti-French; anti-German, pro-French; anti-Fascist, pro-Soviet; pro-Fascist, anti-Communist. This hopeless confusion of sympathies and purposes has made the British ship of State veer first in one direction and then in another with apparently no pilot (or perhaps too many pilots) at the helm.

Another significant indication of the coming disintegration is the declining population. In the British empire white men numbering some sixty-five million have been ruling around eight times as many dark men. The white men are refusing to reproduce themselves. If the present declining birthrate continues, England which now has a populatioon of some forty-five million souls will enter the Twenty-first Century with only thirty million.

Australia and New Zealand with vast spaces open for settlement also have a declining population of only eight million whites. Similarly a relatively small number of Englishmen rule the Union of South Africa and are surrounded by a rapidly increasing number of blacks.

All in all it adds up to this: one wonders how long a declining race of white men can continue to rule an increasing group of blacks who slowly are learning the use of the white man's weapons, how long a foreign policy of vacillation and compromise can hold its own against the everthreatening assaults of more vigorous nations such as Germany, Italy, and Japan.

NEUTRALITY IMPOSSIBLE

SPEAKING ON "NEUTRALITY LEGISLATION" before the Maryville Kiwanis club Wednesday, Profesor Queener came to the conclusion that neutrality is impossible for the United States. In order to remain neutral the American people must be indifferent; they must not pass judgement on the actions of other nations. That means they must be unemotional. And who would say that Americans are not emotional?

Many declare that we are wiser now, that we won't listen to inflammatory propaganda. But who can sort the true from the false? What average American can match wits with the master propagandist? To say we won't listen to propaganda is to say we won't read our newspapers.

Others say the state department won't make the same mistakes twice. But when manufacturers begin to complain bitterly about lost markets, when belligerents begin to sink our supply ships, when speculators begin to whine about lost investments, what state department will then be able to resist the pressure to make the world safe for democracy?

The present neutrality law provides that when a state of warfare exists the president shall declare an embargo on shipments of war materials in American vessels. But in almost all cases such an embargo will work to the advantage of the agressor, and the agressor is almost always a natural enemy of the United States. Japan, who opposes us in the Pacific, is obviously in a much better position to get good on a "cash-carry" basis than is China.

The obvious conclusion is that neutrality is impossible. With this myth behind her America then should abandon isolationism. She should join the World Court and openly, but not blindly, form alliances with her natural allies, England and France. The only way to avoid war is to show a united front to those who would attack us.

AN APOLOGY

AS EXPECTED, quite a reaction came from last week's blast at the "line crashers." The class presidents mentioned have in particular openly, and no doubt rightfully, denied the accusation. After investigating, the columnist must admit that what they say is true and the statement was entirely incorrect.

All four class presidents were in line that day. Senior class president Jim Proffitt, sportsman that he is, took his place at the foot of a line that doubled back around the ticket seller's desk when he got there. Junior class president Fred Rhody had asked another person to stand in line for him and merely exchanged places. Sophomore class president Arnold Kramer also obtained his tickets by a strictly legal process, while freshman class president Donaldson, far from being an offender, offered in that deep Highland voice of his, to take one of the crashers out in the "alley."

Employment

The University of Arkansas paper, the Arkansas Traveler, has established a free student employment agency on the campus. The paper offers the services of the students to townspeople. Students are registered as tutors, typists, odd-job men, nurse maids, chauffers, store clerks, dish washers and waiters.

Lecture

Now I sit me down to sleep,
The lecture's dry, the subjects deep.
If he should quit before I wake,
Give me a punch, for goodness sake!

Boners

Freshmen at the University of Washington added to the "boner" collection during an identification test.

Fiorello La Guardia, New York City Mayor—"a general in the Spanish Civil War."

John L. Lewis—"president of the American Federation of Labor."

Dr. Joseph Goebbels, German Minister of propaganda—"a secretary to the A.F. of L. or a kidnapper."

Camille Chautemps, premier of France—"a French movie star."

Gold Diggers

Co-eds at Oglethorpe university have formed an "Ugly Club" to protect their rights against unchivalrous males. Following is a statement of the president of the club:

"We never turn down anything. If a cigarette is offered and we don't want it ourselves, we have to take it and give it to one of our sister members. Although we're not exactly gold diggers, we're going to take everything we can get."

Handy

A student at Lewis Institute of Technology has a card index of students who forget such vital details as their sweethearts' birthdays or the date of their hair-cut or just plain dates. If a student whose name is on file forgets these statistics, he merely calls the agency and gets the information.

John Crawford Speaks At Meeting Of Law Club

John Crawford, former Maryville student and gradute of Harvard, talked to the members of the Law club last Wednesday evening. His message centering around the questions, "What Is Law?" and "Am I Capable of being a Lawyer?"

At the close of Mr. Crawford's talk, the members discussed plans for a mock trial to be held soon.

Hold Formal Dinner

The social committee sponsored a formal dinner last Monday night before the Thomas concert. Robert Gillespie acted as master of ceremonies and introduced the Vagabond quartette, of John Magill, Carl Wells, Lloyd Wells and Donnell McArthur. Samuel Cornelius and Ralph Reed played two trumpet duets. The program ended with a group of popular songs by Russell Hirsch, accompanied by Gerald Beaver.

and not get his check—that's real tragedy!" He was too good a sportsman to let it bother him, even if he was supposed to sing in five minutes, and he dismissed it with a wave of the hand and "It's all part of a concert tour."

While the tire was being changed in a filling station on the edge of town, Mr. Thomas spent most of the time gazing in the window of a small fruit stand nearby, while Mr. Hollister went inside for a glass of milk. Carroll Hollister is a charming person by himself. He keeps much in the background when he is with Mr. Thomas, but alone he became more expansive, and on the discovery that he was from Connecticut, we had no trouble at all in agreeing that his state was one of the best places in the world to live.

After the concert, when Mr. Thomas swung up the steps of his train and waved a hearty goodbye, he left behind the impresion of a dynamic and commanding personality, used to success, but none the less natural and unaffected. He can talk about anything to anybody; and will, unless he has just had a particularly unsatisfactory interview. His manner is reserved, with an impression of great strength held in restraint. Friendly, witty, and a consummate artist, he is altogether a delightful person.

CAMPUS SHORTS

The sick list for the student body this week numbered only two. Clayton Marx is at Carson's hospital where he is recovering from an appendicitis operation, which he underwent several days ago, and Eugene Morgan, who was suffering from an infected leg, has been released from the college hospital.

Dr. O. R. Tarwater, pastor of the Northern Methodist Church, will be the guest speaker at the regular meeting of the Ministerial Association, on Monday night. He will speak on the hymnology of the Christian church and its use in the worship program of any service. He will present the stories behind many of the well-loved hymns, and give the value of knowledge of the hymns to the minister.

Sunday night a quartette representing Maryville college will sing at the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian church in Knoxville. The quartette will be composed of Dick Woodring, Roland Anderson, Ed Goddard, and Harry Ferran.

The pastor of the Fifth Avenue church is the brother-in-law of Miss Jessie K. Johnson of the department of English at the college.

Thursday evening the Seashore test of musical ability was administered by William McGill, assistant in the psychology department, to fifteen music students who were not among the one hunderd to take it last semester.

All Of Chilhowean Copy Now In Printer's Hands

"The last copy for the 1938 Chilhowean was sent to the printer last Thursday night," stated Bruce Morgan, editor, yesterday. The date for the release of the annual has not been set yet, but it will be as soon as the books can be printed.

Only the 490 copies already ordered by the students are being printed and it is doubtful if there will be any extra copies on sale in the spring.

In Five Years He'll Own His Own Shop... We Know!

He's Saving For The Future...

This cheery young chap is an example of what "to save and advance" stands for. At twelve he was delivering groceries, during high school he worked after school and on Saturdays, when he graduated he became the boss' best selling clerk. During all these steps of advancement he has saved to reach his goal . . . . to own his own store!

In five more years he will own his own store . . . but will you have reached your goal? Will you have the home you've always been planning on, or whatever else you've always wanted? You most likely will if you've saved a certain amount each week or month. However, if you haven't saved it's never too late to start. We welcome small or large accounts and investments alike.

THE HIGHLAND ECHO FEBRUARY 26, 1938

EDITORIAL SIESTA

With the interclass activities and the wrestling meet in Alumni gym tonight comes an end to the current sports season.

For those of us who have been disappointed by the failure of Scot teams to set the woods on fire in winter sports, there is a measure of relief in sight. It seems that the trio of spring sports now rolling from hiding will show the best array of talent that has sprung up in some time.

On the diamond Coach Honaker presents an outfit which with essentially the same personnel won the SMC title in 1937. The outfied may cause trouble during the first part of the season. Otherwise the Scots are pretty well set for a title defense.

The track team, which lost the Smoky Mountain championship for the second time in history last year, will regain the diadem with little difficulty. That's our story and we'll stick to it. The spiked-shoe men have the stuff to win this year.

As for tennis, we learn from reliable sources that upawrds of half a dozen new men of ability are slated to report to Coach Fischbach in March. With the competent groups left from last spring they should form an efficient racket corps.

Having thus cast a rosy glow on the sports future we again leave you to the tender mercy of those inimitable associate scribes Steakly and Felknor the Younger. Take it Mr. Felknor!

Tonight the grunt and groan men under Coach Thrower have a pretty heavy assignment in the Appalachian squad from Boone, North Carolina.

Not so long ago, around anuary 22, the Mountaineers from that particular locality inflicted a 25 to 0 defeat upon the Scotty grapplers. The meet was in the back yard of the Mountaineers, but tonight the wrestlers close the season with the return match in the Alumni gym. Things should happen.....

One thing is certain, Guy Propst doesn't think that he will be disqualified for stalling this time. It is rumored that Propst has been waiting for this chance for a long time, and the match should be at least interesting.

SWIMMING

It won't be as long as it has been till the swimming team will hang up its suits for another year.

Many things have happened during the various meets. Most of the happenings were rather sad stories for the Scotties, but taking into consideration the facts of the situation they have done better than excellen.

Tusculum, the only school that Maryville has met on equal footing, went down by such a sizeable score that it is too sad to relate. This was the only school that the local men have met that was near the size of Maryville.

Maryville Matmen Scrap Appalachian Wrestlers Tonight

North Carolina Grapplers Offer Problem For Scot Tusslers

This evening at 8:00 Maryville's grapplers will close the wrestling season by a meet with Appalachian Teachers college of Boone, North Carolina. The Scotty men have already met the Mountaineers from Boone once in Boone, and the Maryville men will be seeking revenge for the rather one sided defeat given them by theis hosts there.

Appalachian Teachers always produces one of the strongest wrestling teams in this region, and the one that will appear in the Alumni gym tonight will be no exception to this rule.

Scotty tusslers have been looking forward to this return engagement for some time and the men of Maryville promise to give a somewhat better account in their performances. Most noteworthy of these is Guy Propst who, if rumors are correct, will not be caught stalling tonight. Propst was disqualified for this offense while performing before the grunt and groan fans in Boone.

The match this evening will wind up the mat card for the year 1938, and if this team from Boone is what it is supposed to be, the match will add a rather colorful close to the season.

Milligan Defeats Maryville Quintet

The Scotty quintet dropped a fast conference game to the Milligan Buffaloes last Monday night 37-45. This was the second conference defeat suffered by the Highlanders from the hands of the Buffaloes.

Maryville was unable to hold that great Milligan basketeer, Perkins, who made a total of 23 points for high scoring honors of the evening. The game was close throughout the first half, with Milligan holding only a two point lead at halftime, the score being 20-22. Weldon Baird scored 10 points for Maryville for the Scots' high scoring honors. Milligan is tied for first place in the SMC with Lincoln Memorial University, each team having lost but two games.

Lineups:

Maryville	Milligan
Magill 8	Webb 3
W. Baird 10	McClean
Russell 7	Perkins 23
B. Baird 1	J. Swaney 8
Odell	Varnell 6

Subs: Maryville—Black, Hernandez, Honaker 3, Hughes 1, Etheredge 7. Milligan—Howinton 1, Fair 4, Kellin.

On Tuesday and Thursday of last week the freshman team of women's speedball defeated the junior-senior team 8-6, and the sophomore team 7-6. These two victories have made the freshmen winners and champions of the speedball tournament.

The last game of the tournament between the junior-seniors and the sophomores will be played on Tuesday at three o'clcok.

Baseball practice will begin Thursday for the three groups.

It Won't Be Long Now Until Tennis Team Begins Work

It won't be long now until the racket wielders and the net enthusiasts will be getting into the swing of things. Coch Fischbach announces that tennis workouts will begin sometime during the second week in March.

Workouts will be held in the gym until the weather permits the squad to begin work on the courts out-doors. Probably about a month will be spent on the hardwood before the courts will be in a fit condition to be played on.

Pre-season prospects look most promising for a very super season. With all of the first four men of last year's squad returning and four or five above par newcomers the team should certainly come out on top. From last year, Gillingham, Morrow, Augestine, and Colombo all saw quite a bit of active service in the first four positions on the team; while McCammon, Lloyd, Akana, Van Cise, Proctor and Honaker will probably be on deck along with the other four.

Coach Fischbach states that places on the team are wide open and that all above-par players should not hesitate to try for the team.

King Quintet Defeats Scotty Five 43 To 39

Dropping her second straight Smoky Mountain Conference game this week, the Maryville Scotties lost to King last Tuesday night 39-43.

Although Maryville led at the halftime 23-21, they were unable to keep their slim margin throughout the rest of the game. Howard "Flash" Magill, Scot forward, led the pack in scoring with 18 points chalked up to his credit.

This was the second game with King; the first game was won by Maryville.

Tonight the Scotties will go to Jefferson City to continue their feud with their old enemies, the Carson-Newman Eagles. Although the Scotties won the first encounter, the Eagles, coached by "Frosty" Holt, will be far from the underdogs. The game is a SMC engagement.

Maryville	King
Magill 18	Miller 8
W. Baird 6	Nidiffer 4
Russell 4	Roberts 15
Odell 2	E. J. Johnson 3
B. Baird 5	W. Johnson 13

Subs: Maryville—Honaker 2, Etheredge 2.
King—Rogers, Thomas 2.

Maryville's Swimming Team Submerges Tusculum's Team By Score Of 41 To 34

Scotty Grappling Team Defeats Knoxville "Y" With One Sided Score

Maryville college's wrestling team gleaned revenge from the Knoxville Y MCA grapplers for the early season defeat by taking the Y men with the rather one sided score of 22 1-2 to 9 1-2 the evening of February 19, in the Alumni gym.

The climax of the match came when Fred Tulloch of Maryville pinned Fracis of the Y in one minute and 20 seconds. Other Maryville graplers pinning their opponents were Renfro, who pinned Bales of Knoxville in 5:05, and Hahn, who pinned Haines in 5:15.

Maryville took five of the matches and got a draw in the sixth. Knoxville won only the 145-pound class and 126-pound class.

The men from the Y held out to the last inch, but the superiority of the Highlanders in both coaching and training carried its share of weight toward the final score.

Results were:

118-lbs; Astles (M) won a decision over Lebow (Y)

126-lbs; Morris (Y) won a decision over Mooney (M)

135-lbs; Everett (M) and Askin (Y), draw

145-lbs; Householder (Y) pinned Meares (M) in 7:30

155-lbs; Renfro (M) pinned Bales (Y) in 5:05

165-lbs; Hahn (M) pinned Haines (Y) in 5:15

165 and over; Tulloch (M) pinned Francis (Y) in 1:20.

Hilditch Takes High Scoring Honors Of Meet With Akana Taking Breast Stroke As Usual

Maryville's swimming team again defeated the mermen of Tusculum college in a return dual meet held in Tusculum's pool last evening by the rather close score of 41 to 34.

Twice during the meet the score stood tied. Once about the half way mark the two teams stood even with 16 points apiece. Again, just before the last event of the meet, the scores were tied up 34 and 34. Maryville's 200-yard relay team came through, to give the Scotties the victory by seven points.

SCOTS WIN RELAYS

Scoring was pretty evenly dispersed among the Scotties, but Hilditch took the high scoring honors with a first in the 50 and 100-yard events, and was also a member of the winning 200-yard relay team. Paul Akana chalked up his usual first in the 100-yard breast stroke.

Maryville's squad was handicapped throughout the meet by colds which had prevented one or two men from making the trip and which kept several out of practice last week.

The meet last evening winds up the intercollegiate card of the tankmen, but they have in prospect a couple of meets with Chattanooga "Y".

Results of the individual events:

Event	Placement	Time
150-yard relay	1. M.C. 2. T.C.	1:39.1
200-yard Free style	1. Whitely (T) 2, Roak (T) 3. Findlay (M)	3:04
50-yard free style	1. Hilditch (M) 2. Smith (T) 3, Wicklund (M)	0:27.4
Diving	1. Sayles (T) 2. Ciurczak (M) 3. Findlay (M)
100-yard free style	1. Hilditch (M) 2. Wicklund (M) 3. Smith (T)	1:03.5
100-yard back stroke	1. Codit (T) 2. Rippeth (M) 3. Hedrick (M)	1:18
100-yard breast stroke	1. Akana (M) 2. Fox (T) 3. Roak (T)	1:23.3
400-yard free style	1. Whitely (T) 2. Condit (T) 3. Akana (M)	5:57
200-yard relay	1. M.C. 2. T.C.

INTRAMURAL SHORTS

With the close of the intramural season near, the fast scoring quintet of the juniors defeated a strong sophomore team last Wednesday night 23-25.

In an intramural game played last Wednesday night, the freshman quintet turned in a surprising victory over the favored senior quintet 30-43. The freshmen, who have won their last three games, took the lead early and were able to keep it throughout the rest of the game.

Russell, freshman center, hit the hoop for 19 points to hold high scoring honors for the evening. Miller, his freshman running mate ran a close second with 15 points.

Intramural Stars Meet This Evening

The first and second all-star teams chosen by the directors of the four class teams will battle it out tonight as a preliminary to the Maryville- Appalachian wrestling match. The game will begin at 7:00. The selections are as follows:

First Team	Pos.	2nd Team
Colombo-capt (J)	F	Stevenson-cap. (S)
Parker (S)	F	Talmage (S)
McCaskie (J)	C	Bruce (S)
Rae (S)	G	Miller (F)
Peterson (F)	G	Baird (F)
Czepiel (J)	Sub	Augenstein (S)
Russell (F)	Sub	Cragan (F)

INTRAMURAL ITEMS

Did you know that Colombo, junior stor, scored 123 points in the nine games; that Parker, senior ace, scored 21 points in one game ,making his total for the nine games at 94, and that both of these players were unanimously elected as forwards on the all-star team? Did you realize that the seniors won their first four games, only to lose the last five and end up a poor third (Where was Ross?); or that the freshmen came out of a slump in the cellar and ended up in second place? What do you think of Proctor, who only scoring 30 points for the season, scored 14 of these in one game; or of Bruce who scored 14 points in the first half of one game and failed to connect the second half (good guarding?)

Bainonian entertained members of Theta Epsilon and Bainonian societies with a tea in the Y.W. rooms this afternoon from three-thirty to five o'clock. Assisting in the serving were Dorothy Armstrong, president of Theta Epsilon; Mary Elizabeth Haines, president of Bainonian; Miss Jessie Johnson, and Miss Frances Rich.

Victor Herbert Program Scheduled For Athenian

Athenian society will present a musical program at its regular meeting this evening. The program, consisting of Victor Herbert's compositions will be directed by Max Cornelius. In addition to several solos by members, some popular recordings are to be played.

group which was certainly a high light of the program. His encores after this group were "Flow Gently Sweet Afton" by Spilman followed by that great aria, "Largo e Factorum" from Rossini's "Barber of Seville" for the interpretation of which he is famous. That encore alone was well worth the evening had Mr. Thomas sung nothing else.

Following immediately was the last group, an English group, in which was included a new song, "Rhymes of a Rover," composed by his accompanist and dedicated to Mr. Thomas. Maryville heard its second performance. Included also was "The Rich Man" by Hagemann, and the group was encored by 'O Dry Those Tears" by Del Riego and "The Little Fisherman." The last number was the Lord's prayer arranged by Malotte and dedicated to Mr. Thomas and which was one of the most beautiful numbers imagtnable. The audience was left in such a trance after this rendition that it was quite a time before there was any applause, and then it seemd almost sacrilegious.

Mr. Thomas said that the Maryville audience was one of the most inspiring he had ever sung to; the packed house, rapt attention, and keen appreciation of his audience was something he would never forget. He hoped he could return to Maryville college some day.

Tennessee Wrestlers Lose To Scotty Matmen

Maryville's wrestlers again defeated the University of Tennessee's grapplers by a lopsided score, 25 to 3, February 22, in the University gym in Knoxville.

Every Maryville grappler either received a decision or pinned his opponent, with only one exception.

GENTLEMEN OF COLLEGE MUST TURN HOUSEWIVES

when Charlie and Bob left their room to wash the dishes, they found that they had a lot more than dishes to wash.

After the customary interjections which even future ministers know and occasionally make use of, Charlie and Bob started washing the kitchen walls, while the more the boys washed, the more the walls became streaked. Giving that up, they went into the other rooms. It seems as though the whole house was rather sooty—and it seems as though Charlie and Bob wished that they had taken the groom's course.

Varsity Debaters Go To Tournament In North Carolina

Two Teams Lose To Spring Hill, Muhlenberg This Week

Ten members of the varsity debate squad left Wednesday afternoon for the South Atlantic Forensic tournament at High Point, North Carolina. They will return Saturday evening. Various schools from the South Atlantic states will be represented at the tournament.

Those making the trip are Louise Proffitt, who will take part in extemporaneous and after-dinner speaking; Sara Lee Hellums, Georgia Ingles, affirmative team; Helen Maguire, Curtmarie Brown, negative team; Arnold Kramer, Otto Pflanze, affirmative team; Warren Ashby, Clifford Protor, negative team. Professor Verton M. Queener, debate coach, accompanied them and drove the college car.

Two Meets Held Here

On Tuesday evening an affirmative team from Maryville, Harwell Proffitt and James Whitt, met a negative team from Spring Hill college, Spring Hill, Alabama. A critic decision was rendered by Mr. Paul Soper of the University of Tennessee in favor of the negative team from Spring Hill. Arnold Kramer was the chairman of the debate.

A negative team, William Lewis and George Hunt, from Maryville, met an affirmative team from Muhlenberg college, Allentown, Pennsylvania, Thursday evening. The audience rendered the decision in favor of the Muhlenberg team. James Whitt acted as chairman.

Frosh Hold Meetings

The freshman debate squad has begun preparation of speeches for the coming Freshman tournament to be held at Maryville college, March 25 and 26. The first meeting of the freshman team was held Thursday afternoon at 4 p.m., with Miriam Waggoner, varsity debater, in charge. Several other meetings are scheduled for next week.

Two Short Plays Presented Monday

Dramatic Art Students Give Studio Tea

Monday night at 8:00 a studio tea was given by the members of the Dramatic Arts department. Two one-act plays were presented:

The Purple Door-Knob by Walter Pritchard Eaton

Characters

Mrs. Bartholmew—Muriel Mann
Amanda Dunbar—Emma Jane Knower
Viola Cole—Lois Black.

The First Dress Suit by Russell Medcraft:

Characters

Teddy Harding—Jane Irwin
Mrs. Harding—Sara Bolton
Betty Harding—Arda Walker
Johnny Drake—Mary Frances Spurlock

After the program a social hour was enjoyed by cast and guests. Stage models made by the class in play production were on display.

Mrs. West Will Talk To Ministerial Ass'n On Reading Of Bible

Mrs. Nita Eckles West, head of the Department of Expression, will talk to the Ministerial association Monday night. Mrs. West will discuss with members of the group the interpretation of the Scriptures and Bible reading as a part of the worship program.

The Ministerial quartette sang at the St. Paul's Presbyterian Mission, in Knoxville last Sunday evening, at which time Floyd Loperfido had charge of the service.

Violin Students Give Recital In Critic Class

Violin students of Dorothy Horne, instructor in music, were presented in a critic class this afternoon at one o'clock in the Fine Arts studio.

Those taking part in the recital included Betty Lou Turner, Margaret Lodwick, Elizabeth Warren, Catherine Crews, Dorothy Henderson, Dottie Haines, John Guinter, Edward Brubaker, and Annabelle Volght.

Satirical Drama, "First Lady," Draws Audience of 500 Thursday in Voorhees

Midwinter Presentation By Theta Epsilon—Alpha Sigma Is Built Around Rivalry In Washington Political Society Sets

An audience of about 500 Thursday saw on Voorhees stage the Theta-Epsilon—Alpha Sigma production of the three-act satirical drama, "First Lady," written jointly by Katherine Dayton and George Kaufman, the latter of whom is well known for the extremely popular comedy, "You Can't Take It With You."

The plot is built around the social rivalry between the wives of the Secretary of State, Stephen Wayne, and a Supreme Court justice, Carter Hibbard, each wanting her husband to be president. Gloria Miller as Lucy Chase Wayne and Irene Browder as Irene Hibbard gave a lively portrayal of the bitter fight for first place in Washington political society. Robert Gillespie was good as the dyspeptic and exasperatingly consistent justice. Gordon Bennett as Secretary Wayne had a quiet role which he did well with but a bit too low for the back seats to have full benefit. Jane Irwin played an important part as Sophy Prescott, efficient secretary to Mrs. Wayne, managing her cleverly and as well as she could be managed. Someone compared favorably Muriel Mann's portrayal of the leader of six million women in the Women's Peace, Purity, and Patriotism League with the same role in the movie—a convincingly ridiculous woman reformer in politics. In a minor role Mary Louise Morgan, in her first appearance on the Maryville stage, left nothing lacking in the "Southernness" of Mrs. Wayne's niece

Art Museum Shows Exhibit Of Pottery

American Federation Sends Colored Plates

The exhibition of Indian pottery designs which was on display this week in the Elizabeth Gowdy Baker Memorial Art Gallery was prepared through the co-operation of Frederic H. Douglas. Mr. Douglas is Curator of Indian Art of the Denver Art Museum. The collection of fifty designs is a private collection which is being sent over the United States to give the public an idea of what the ancient and modern Pueblo pottery designs are like.

Forty-four of the designs are those of pueblo pottery makers of today. The other six designs are from prehistoric days. The prehistoric designs were made of black and white geometrical forms. These prehistoric designs were gotten from pottery which was found with skeletons of prehistoric Indians. The bowls from which the designs were taken were found fitted over the skulls of the Indian. Many of these ancient bowls have been unearthed, no two of which are alike.

Each pueblo, or Indian village, has its own set of designs; however, the designs all have the same general origin. Mountains, clouds, lightning, rain, flowers and leaves are symbolized. Birds or feathers are often used in making symbols. The Indian thought that birds carried messages to the gods. Florence S. Berryman, of the Department of Educational work of the Federation of Art, says, "Some of the pueblo bird symbols have become so abstract that it is difficult to recognize their origin."

According to tradition, pueblo pottery design must be red outlined with black, and masses of red and black must be separated by a space. However, today it seems that the people who make designs follow this tradition only when they choose.

In the collection there are five Hopi designs, which are round, because they were found in the bottom of bowls.

This collection of Indian pottery designs is being circulated by the American Federation of Arts, a national organization for the cultivation of the arts.

Rev. George Brown Speaks At Vespers

President Of Knox. College Speaks Wednesday

At the vespers tomorrow the speaker will be the Reverend George E. Brown of the class of 1933. He will be assisted by officers of two of the student organizations. Rev. Brown is a graduate of the Tennessee School for the Blind in Nashville, of Maryville college, and of the Presbyterian Theological Seminary in Chicago. He reads the scripture in Braille and also puts his sermon notes into Braille which he uses in the pulpit. He is now supplying in several churches in Union Presbytery.

President Samuel M. Laing of Knoxville college will address the student body in the Wednesday morning chapel service next week. Dr. Laing succeeded the late Dr. J. Kelly Giffin, formerly of the Maryville faculty, in the presidency.

Dr. Laing is a minister of the United Presbyterian church and a graduate of Muskingum college in Ohio, and a Theological Seminary. His many experiences include service under the United Presbyterian church in Egypt for several years.

Waggoner To Describe Reporting For Theta

Leland Waggoner, reporter on the Knoxville Journal, will describe at Theta Epsilon this evening the murder trial which he covered in the Blount county court recently. He will illustrate his talk with his own pictures of the accused and of the courtroom scene.

All Musical Program For Y.W.C.A. Tomorrow

Connie Johnson and Frances Nelson are planning an entire musical program for YW this Sunday afternoon at 1:15. A variety of numbers is being arranged, including a male quartet, string trio, trumpet duet, and vocal solo.

Colbert Completes Cast Of Iolanthe

Gilbert And Sullivan Opera To Be March 17

The cast has been selected and rehearsels are well under way for the performance of "Iolanthe," the Gilbert and Sullivan operetta to be given here by the combined glee clubs and orchestra on March 17 Ralph R. Colbert director of these organizations announced today.

The title role of the fairy Iolanthe will be sung by Ruth Wood, who did distinguished solo work in the Messiah. Nancy Quinn, who sang in last year's success, the Mikado, as well as in the Messiah this Christmas, is to sing the part of Phyllis, the Arcadian shepherdess. The Queen of the fairies will be portrayed by Harriet Barber, who sang the part of Katisha in the Mikado, but who was prevented at the last minute by illness from singing the contralto solos of the Messiah.

Fairy Roles Taken

The fairies, Celia, Lelia, and Fleta will be sung by Elizabeth Anne Huddleston, Alice Prime, and Louise Allen.

Dick Woodring will be the Arcadian shepherd, Strephon. John Magill, leader of the Presbyterian church choir, as Lord Mountararat; Carl Wells, leader of the Baptist church choir, as Earl Tolloller; Edward Goddard as the Lord Chancellor; and Harry Ferran as Private Willis complete the male leads.

New Costumes Created

All new costumes are being created for the production, under the direction of Ellen Sauer. The men will be dressed as peers of the realm and most of the women as fairies, in pastel shades. The settings for the two acts, representing an Arcadian landscape and a Palace Yard at Westminster, will be constructed by Max Cornelius and his crew.

Among the more familiar choruses which are often heard out of performance are "Tripping Hither, Tripping Hither," "Into Parliament He Shall Go," and "When Britannia Really Ruled the Land," from which a hymn tune has been derived. Sir Arthur Sullivan, who composed the music, also wrote "The Lost Chord" and "Onward Christian Soldiers."

First Given In 1882

"Iolanthe" was first performed on November 25, 1882, and because of the lack of copyright laws, appeared simultaneously in London and New York. A superstition as to the efficacy of the letter "P" almost made the authors call it "Perola." It was subsequently changed, however, but the sub-title is still "The Peer and the Peri."

According to Mr. Colbert, the first act is memorized, and the complete cast has been staged twice.

Miss Mary Armstrong Will Read At Banquet Next Monday Evening

The monthly banquet of the faculty club will be held Monday at 6:30 p.m. in the home economics department, Science hall. The dinner will be prepared and served by the home ec students.

Miss Mary Armstrong will read a paper titled "The Art of Weaving." In this paper she will discuss among other things the fact that weaving does not require any particular skill, and may be done by almost anyone.

Philological Association Holds Thirty-Second Annual Meeting At College Friday and Saturday

Former Professor Dies In Knoxville

Was Associated Here For Fifty-One Years

Mrs. Jane B. S. Alexander, one time professor here, and valued member of the community, died at St. Mary's hospital, Knoxville, at 8 o'clock Wednesday morning, March 2.

Mrs. Alexander, then Miss Jane Bancroft Smith, came to Maryville as a teacher of Latin in the College, in 1883. In this position she continued for two years. She returned later for a one-year period to teach Latin and Modern Language, and finally in 1904 she began a thirty-year period as teacher of English. In the intervals of time away from Maryville she taught at Lindenwood College, St. Charles, Missouri, for five years; at Vassar Preparatory School, Poughkeepsie, New York, for three years; and at Halstead School, Yonkers, New York, for three years.

Taught 33 Years

The whole span of her connection with the College covered fifty-one years, from 1883 to 1934, and her actual teaching service covered thirty-three years. Only four or five others in the entire history of the institution have served longer.

Her own schooling included study at Wellesley College, the University of Vermont, Columbia university, Harvard university, and the Sorbonne in Paris. But her school days never ended, for, for herself, she was always at

Scull And Cornelius Elected To Council

Reese Scull and Maxwell Cornelius have been elected senior members of the Student Council to fill the vacancies left by Bill Swearingen and Simpson Spencer, who are not in school this semester. Nominations were made in a brief class meeting Wednesday morning and the ballots were cast throughout Thursday in the lobby of Pearsons hall.

The other members of the council are as follows: seniors—John Lancaster, president, J. T. Hunt, vice president, Helen Maguire, Ruth Haines, Frances Nelson, Martha Watson; juniors—Catherine Pond, secretary-treasurer, Emma Probasco, Harriet Barber, Eugene Orr, Robert Martin, Ernest Crawford: sophomores—Ruth Mack, Ruth Abercrombie, Harry Ferran, Harry Copeland; freshmen—Thelma Ritzman, Mary Orr, Dale Russell.

Dr. David H. Briggs Speaks In Knoxville

Dr. David H. Briggs, head of the department of psychology and education, spoke at the Park City Presbyterian church in Knoxville last Sunday evening, February 27. He substituted for Dr. Theron Alexander who was the leader of the chapel vesper service here. Dr. Briggs' topic was "Concerning Human Values."

Pres. H. J. Bassett From Southwestern Opens Meetings

THIRTY PAPERS READ

French Teachers Of Tenn. Hold Meeting Today

Maryville college was privileged Friday and Saturday of this week to be the host of the thirty-second meeting of the Tennessee Philological association. The meeting was opened at 9:30 Friday morning in Thaw hall by president H. J. Bassett of Southwestern, brother of Miss Bassett of the Maryville faculty.

Many of the college students attending found some of the papers too deep in technical scholarship for them to appreciate fully. Dr. E. R. Hunter's discussion of "Maxwell Anderson's Use of Verse" was highly interesting and one of the most informative papers read. Among other things he said was "It is grand, it is pretty, but is it poetry?" Charles S. Pendleton of George Peabody college made timely remarks on modern education with emphasis on research, saying that much of it was done with no more valid purpose than to keep positions. Mrs. Helen Shine's report, "Some Possibilities of Microphotography as an Aid to Research" gave information on a vital new factor of modern scholarship, the principle used in the Microfilm reader, which H. G. Wells mentions as an aid to the foundation of a common world-library.

Among the thirty twenty-minute papers was a wide variety of subjects: French, German, and Mexican literature of today; research in Sterne, Latin, New England puritanism, Victorianism, Plato, and Semantics.

At eight o'clock Friday evening, Edwin S. Lindsay of the University of Chattanooga conducted a program in the chapel on "The Music of Ben Jonson's Songs." Several Maryville students took part in this program.

The meeting also included a gathering of the Tennessee chapter of the American Association of Teachers of French, Saturday morning.

Coach Honaker Shows Moving Pictures Of Football And Hunting

Three motion picture reels were shown in the chemistry lecture room after supper Wednesday evening. The first reel demonstrated the right and wrong use of the new tackling apparatus purchased for the football team with comments and explanations by Coach Honaker. A reel of the Tennessee-Alabama and Tennessee-Vanderbilt game taken by Mr. A. D. Huddleston were also shown. Many of the pictures were in technicolor and especially good were those of the bands. The final reel was of bird dogs and hunting taken at the Huddleston's mountain lodge.

Wicklund And Marx In Hospital During Week

Clayton Marx has been transferred from Carson's hospital to the College hospital where he is recovering from a recent appendicitis operation. Nina Clark was lately discharged from the hospital after suffering an attack of appendcitis. Rusty Wicklund spent a few days in the hospital early this week which prevented his participating in the swimming meet at Chattanooga Tuesday. He is recovered sufficiently to attend classes.

Campus Workers Put Sod On Golf Course

The campus workers put several loads of dirt and sod on the golf course and other parts of the campus lawn this week in an effort to improve the quality of the grass. Also several new garages are being constructed on property off the campus by college labor. These projects, as well as a large amount of routine work, are carried on as a part of the student help program.

Night Watchman Here To Watch, But C. B. R. Tradition Persists

By GEORGE HUNT

It was a moonlight night, but it was late. A figure came stealing furtively out of Pearsons hall. She looked anxiously around her, afraid of whom she might see. She also looked ahead and saw in the shadows of a large tree a form barely visible. This was the person she was looking for, and going up to him, she whispered with suppressed emotion as she grabbed his arm, "Let's go before the night watchman sees us."

This is a good beginning for a story, except that it is also the ending. For the Juliet of our true life drama had met Ralph Irwin instead of the college Romeo who had proposed the tryst—and it is impossible for a man to literally get away from himself. He tells the story now with much pleasure, and calls it the funniest experience he has had in his seventeen years as guardian of the Maryville campus.

Most students do not know Ralph Irwin, because he is around the campus only at night. To some he is a myth, a legendary character about whom many tales, some true and some false, have been woven. Many students have no desire to see or be seen by Mr. Irwin, but to others it is a mark of distinction to triumphantly report to the roommate, after a breathless dash from Memorial foliage to Carnegie's fourth floor, that "Ralph caught us tonight." It provides the excitement that looking through a knothole at a baseball game used to give coupled with the disappointment and chagrin that is felt by having your girl's father coming for you at your first party with the girl (remember?). Both times you cursed the forces that kept the course of true love from running smoothly, except that in the present case the action is probably more literal than figurative. But it is a distinction, and you become an official member of the CBR (Caught by Ralph.)

However, may I correct your impressions. Ralph Irwin is not the ogre that innocent freshmen are led to believe him to be. And his job is not to sneak around the campus and catch students in some infringement of the rules in our compendium. He does not jump out from behind a tree or bush and scare a girl into throwing her arms around her boy friend's neck (though that might not be such a bad idea). As he says, "Students are the least of my worries." His job is to be night watchman of the campus, not the students. He makes the rounds of the campus and woods, not to spy on students, but to protect them and the college equipment from prowlers. He watches the dormitories, not expressly to see who might sneak out, but to watch out for fires and thieves.

Speaking of thieves reminds Ralph of the time someone stole the silverware from Pearsons dining hall. He happened to be in another part of the campus; and some felons got in the darkened hall and, gathering all the silverware from the tables, carried it away. For four days students had to bring their own cutlery to meals. The knives, forks, and spoons were returned in the night and put on the kitchen porch, but the ministerial students who committed the heinous crime had chosen April 2 to be fools instead of the day set aside for them.

For a few years when he first became employed by the college, Ralph Irwin lived in an apartment in Memorial hall. He is now married and lives on a farm in the country.

Optional Attendance Once More

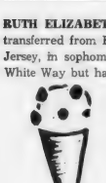
Unprecedented interest in student affairs has been shown in the reaction to the proposal that class attendance for seniors be made optional at Maryville college.

The Highland Echo conducted a poll concerning the option and published its findings in the issue of February 19. The results in a brief form are as follows: Students-For, 487; Against, 76; For, with restrictions, 18; Indifferent or undecided, 13; Faculty-For, 12; Against, 5; No statement, 6.

Students who are generally considered campus leaders were practically unanimous in their favor of the plan. One of the leaders, who admitted that he never takes all of his cuts under the present system, opposed the option on the ground that he would never study if he were not required to attend classes regularly. We contend that a person who can make an average of 8.5 at Maryville college doesn't need a guardian to tell him when to study and when to nap.

Some of the criticisms of the plan were good, but some showed lack of judgement. One person told a group that we could just as well give students credit for a course merely by letting them sign up for it. The system of optional class attendance for those who are advanced enough to handle is educationally sound, and is not to be confused with this bit of crack-pot criticism.

A slight, indirect criticism was brought against the Echo that our poll among faculty members was too secret. Some of the professors requested that their names not be used, and we thought it best to withhold all names. We have the record, however, and will be glad to tell how any faculty member voted—with his permission of course.



The larger responsibility in a plan of this type is obviously with the students, and so it should be. It is our own brains we are stuffing or starving. Perhaps a few seniors would find themselves at a loss by being forced to do their own thinking, but the rest would be greatly benefitted.

We believe that individual scholarship would be increased in the upper two-thirds of the class, although there might be a few more failures in the lower group. Here we would like to ask whether a college degree should be given to all who apply or to those alone who show ability enough to obtain it.

Next week the executive council of the faculty will hold a meeting and it is to be expected that this proposed system, in which so many students and faculty have indicated a great interest, will come up for discussion. Whatever the outcome, The Echo feels that the matter will be considered and treated in a conscientious manner.

Signs of the Times

By OTTO PFLANZE

As a variation from the usual diet, guest columnist Arnold Kramer presents his short story, "A Mountain Ballad." The story is based on an idea that appeared in the Saturday Evening Post.

Knock. Knock.

"Come in."

The door of a small cabin swings open, and a small undernourished man carrying an armful of papers enters. He glances hurriedly about the room and sees in the far corner an old, rough-looking man smoking a pipe. Walks jog over to him, he sticks out his hand, and speaks in the rapid-fire style of a salesman.

"Hello, mister. My name's Kennedy. Shake."

"Why?" drawls the mountaineer.

"Well-l-l, I don't exactly know why, but I know you're supposed to. Oh well, skip it. Let's get down to business. Now—Hey! Where you going?"

"I don't know. I'll send my good-fer-nuthin' son to speak with you."

• • • • • •

Mr Kennedy stares disgustedly for a moment at the door through which the mountaineer has disappeared and then another rough-looking character walks through the door.

"Air you still breathing, mister?" asked this second mountaineer.

"Sure. Am I not supposed to be?"

"Maybe yes, and maybe no. When they's a stranger about, Paw usually shoots first and talks later. Well, what's itching you, buddy?"

"I'm from the Census Bureau of the United States government, and I want to check on your family. If you'll help me. I'll certainly appreciate it, because I've got to hurry on down to the next house."

"Brother. if I'se you, I wouln't go donw that-a-way."

"Why?"

"They's trouble brewing 'twixt us Martins and them Tollivers. Anyway, I can number the Tollivers for you."

"Well, I-I--"

"They was seventeen Tollivers and nineteen Martins at the last countin'."

• • • • • •

Bang!

"Hot-diggety-dog! that's Paw's squirrel-gun. Better make that sixteen Tollivers, mister. Us Martins don't waste no bullets."

Bang!

"Ug-og, that's Sid Tolliver's side arm. Better make that eighteen Martins. Them Tollivers don't waste no bullets nuther."

"Mis-Mis-Mister Martin, do you think it's safe here?"

"Well-ll-l, I can't say. Seems like they'se—"

"Hey! who was that screaming?"

"That was me old-maid daughter."

"What? You've got a daughter who's an old maid?"

"Yep, at corn-husking time she'll be thirteen years, and she ain't hooked a husband yet."

• • • • • •

Bang!

"Fr-Fr-From which family shall I subtract one this time?"

"Can't tell. That's Slim McCoy's relief stick, and I don't know which side he's takin' today.'

"McCoy? Isn't there a song about the Martins and the McCoys?"

"Yep, that's how the feud started. Paw said the song started the feuding, and McCoy said the feuding started the song."

Bang!

"Don't jump so much, mister. Yep, I'll never forgit that last McCoy fight. I was standing right where you air when Moonshine Slim got me on the trigger finger. Had to go out in the corn field and put me gun between me feet so I could pull the trigger with me toes. That kind of shooting kinda crooked me aim, and I got only eight McCoys with ten bullets."

• • • • • •

Bang! Bang! Bang!

"I-I-I think I'd better leave."

"Twouldn't be a bad notion I'd say. Paw's backing up, and if he seed you he might waste a bullet he could use on the Tollivers."

"Goo-Goo-Good-bye, Mr. Martin."

"So-long. Come back when we got the Tollivers goin' backards, and I'll talk to you."

"Hello, Mac, you oughter been here. I scared the daylights out of that city-slicker. You've been making a lot of noise, Mac. How many squirrels you get with that gun you been shootin'?"

PREHISTORIC PUEBLO MAN-EAGLE DESIGN

Fits and Fizzles

By FRED RHODY

They were discussing the irritability and inefficiency in class of student who have had insufficient sleep the night before. "And," asked Dr. Briggs, "what happens when a teacher goes to class with only five hours sleep?"

"He pops a quiz," muttered Shelfer mournfully.

Theme song of the seniors interested in unlimited cuts: "When the Roll is Called up Yonder We Won't Be There."

Maybe you've wanted to do it, too: Muss Lawson's hermetically-sealed hair—Take a blow-torch to Humphries beard—Hang red lanterns on Washby's ears—Gag a columnist.

Studying English cognates of German words is an interesting waste of time—In "Teig" you easily see the English "dough" (at least der Professor says you do)—merely change the "t" to "d," the "ei" to "ou," and add "h" to the end; the rest of the word remains exactly the same. Simple? And in "der Fuhrer" you can easily see "perfect leader"—just change arrogance to humility, selfish ambition to service, hate to love, failings to virtues—apparently we've been misjudging the man—by all the rules of cognates he's a fine, upstanding creature—

Funny how everybody over here gets all worked up about the European dictators—Wonder of the preachers and after-dinner speakers and college sophomores in Germany and Italy lose any sleep worrying about the iron-fisted dictator in Maryville college's music department?—

Such conscientiousness as Curtmarie Brown's shames us: An evening prayer meeting was held during the recent epidemic of final exams—Curt was shocked—"That's every bit as bad as cramming!"

All we know is that Hugh Smith crammed Emily Post's Blue Book the day before his date for First Lady—

Monday before last Brink was invited by an air station in the neighboring metropolis to compete in the semi-finals of an amateur contest—but Frank stoutly declined—His sense of professional courtesy wouldn't allow him to make a public appearance the same night as John Charles Thomas—Thomas had come too far to be disappointed by a small audience—

Lots of these super-tolerant people who "approach everything with open minds"—depart with the same mental emptiness.

Seven Men Enroll In Class For Musically Handicapped Students

Seven men of the college, musically handicapped in that they are unable to carry a tune, have enrolled in a laboratory class under Professor Ralph Colbert to analyze their case.

The class will meet once a week, and during that hour these seven men will be placed under theoretical musical microscopes in an endeavor to find out the cause for their inability. It is hoped, through these weekly experiments, to teach each one to carry a tune in order that he might do voice or instrumental work.

The class will be an experiment by Professor Colbert to see if this handicap is something that can be overcome by a study of the underlying causes.

Stage Crews Do Dirty Work

BY JOHN FISHER

There is on the college hill one group of fellows of whose activity little is known. They are the stage-crew, or as they often call themselves, the "stage-screw." Maybe they aren't so far wrong at that. They are the men behind the scenes at every play. All you know about them is a list of names on the program, but maybe they haven't worked to get those names on the programs!

About two weeks before the play the stage-manager sends out an SOS, and that night the crews gather in the chapel to start to work. If there is something on in the evening, they wait till it's over. For the first two or three nights they knock off work at a decent hour, say 12 or 12:30; but as the time shortens, and as they begin to realize how much they really have to get done their hours lengthen to 2 or 3 A.M. Even then they don't finish on time. Last year they were nailing on hinges for the third act of "The Purple Mask" while the second was in progress. Some of the audience wondered why horses were approaching during the love scene, but for the most part the hammering went unnoticed.

And then there was "Craig's Wife." Two of the crew were painting a last flat as the house was filling. It dried off in time for the curtain—nearly, anyway. Maybe the whiffs of hot air always prevalent behind scenes just before a play are to be thanked for that.

There are times when the work is just a little too hard. When the "Mikado" was presented in Knoxville last March the crew worked from 1:30 in the afternoon till 3 the next morning, solid time. First they set the stage, then they attempted, rather futiley, to keep the chorus quiet backstage during the performance. After it was over they packed the scenery and brought it home.

About the same gang has staged every play in the last two years; so here's to them. May their hours grow shorter, and their time for scene changes not grow longer.

Not For Enlightenment

From "The Teacola," Jacksonville State Teachers college publication, we borrow the following which we hope will not enlighten too many young men:

"I took her to a night club,
I took her to a show,
I took her almost everywhere
A girl and boy could go.
I took her to a swell dance,
I took her to a tea;
When all my dough was gone I saw
She had been taking me."

Long Sufferer

Here is a short questionnaire from the Tech Oracle:

"Are you an early-book-closer?
Are you a loose-leaf-binder zipper?
Are you a paper crumpler?
Are you a squirmer?

If not you must inevitably be a long sufferer.

The long-sufferer is a pathetic creature. It is he who loses the gist of the professors' lectures, misses the next day's assignment or cannot hear the instructions for a coming quiz.

Long-sufferer, you must arise! You must assert yourself! You must demand your rights to listen to class lectures! You must trample down these students who would block your every attempt to learn!"

Are you a long-sufferer? Let's hope not!

On The Bench

-with-

THE SPORTS EDITOR

Progress of a light nature has been made this week by the two dozen gridmen and would-be gridmen go ing through the motions on the practice field.

Its not very strenuous, though, this spring football program. Being revived this year after a long lapse the between-seasons work may become a regular part of the preparation for the fall schedule. Whether or not it will be continued depends largely on the results of the current activity.

Very little has been done by the squad so far. The large number of new men, who are just getting into the swing of things before their more experienced comrades get a whack at them, prevents any really serious application of coaching strategy.

The large scale production of football beef now popular in all the larger institutions of higher learning and big gate receipts is of course not to be considered in a school Maryville's size. Whereas the universities are now figuratively probing the tummies of their athletes to see if they are tough enough to stay on the payroll, Scot coaches are encouraging more of the boys to come out now and absorb a few fundamentals.

Which is all as it should be, since we win just as many and probably have a lot more fun.

ANOTHER ONE GONE

Each year, it seems, the Scot hoopsters lose an outstanding performer from their ranks. Two seasons ago it was Jack Overly; last spring it was Lee Hannah, all-conference center. This time it's John "Junior" Odell, that most nonchalant of athletes, who closed his cage career in the best story book manner Monday night. His twelve points led the way to a final SMC win over the Tusculum Pioneers. And in addition to the six shots that found the hoop, numerous others nimbly rolled out to deprive Captain Odell of further honors.

It was a fitting end to a college record that has shown brilliant play at times, and always a brand of basketball that was valuable to the team.

For a long time the Scots have looked bad when Odell was off, and have displayed championship form when the captain was at the peak of his game. A team misses a guy like that.

MERE RUMOR

In our most authentic tabloid manner we offer the following for better or worse:

Scotty Donaldson, after a few days of rough and tumble on the football field, is entertaining a severe case of fractured proboscis—busted beak in the vernacular—his fourth this year.....

From a trusted undercover source we pluck this dainty delicacy. Appolo Chandler is no more; henceforth it's Robert Taylor Chandler. Seems he was at the ball game and—but it's really a long story. Come around in person or write the society desk for further intimate information.

Joe Swift has given up the placid existence of an assistant manager to heed the call of the cinder path. Unbeknownst to Joe, who fancied himself a retired athlete, someone showed Coach Robert Thrower the Swift clippings, collected when Joe ran a ten second hundred in high school. So now it's the comeback trail for Joe. He just couldn't escape the Thrower pressure.....

And as we go to press the grapevine ticks out the dire news that Russ "The Unexcelled" Colombo has been signed by the New York Celtics for 1939 delivery. Which proves conclusively that something should be done about those predatory beasts, the professional scouts who simply will not allow even a fairly phenomenal athlete to pursue the even tenor of his way and finish his education. Don't you do it, Russ.

Scots Seek Win In Return Swim Tues.

Hilditch And Akana Take First in 'Nooga Loss

Chattanooga's YMCA swimming team defeated Maryville's tankmen in the Y pool in Chattanooga on March 1.

Maryville's squad was decidedly weakened by sickness, principally colds, but despite this disadvantage the Scotties were rather hard to submerge. Wicklund and Stafford, both main stays of the team, were numbered among the disabled.

Hilditch came through again to take high scoring honors with first in the two free style prints, for a total of ten points. Akana also took first in the breast stroke and second in the 400-yard event.

Maryville's squad gets another chance at the men from Chattanooga next Tuesday in the Scotty pool. Maryville's men are counting on squaring the score at this return meet, and unless something happens, they may do it.

Scots Register Last Win Of 1938, 44-27

The Maryville Highlanders won their final game of the basketball season last Monday night when they defeated Tusculum 44-27. The Scotties easily showed their superiority over the visitors; although the Scots only had a six point lead at the half, they were never seriously threatened.

Captain Odell, playing his last game for the Highlanders, was high point man for the evening, scoring a total of 12 points. Not only was Odell the offensive star for the night, but he was also a thorn in the side of Tusculum on the defense.

Lineups:

Maryville	Tusculum
W. Baird 6	Eanes 8
Magill 9	Bailey 11
Etheredge 2	Casey
Odell 12	Bagnall
B. Baird	Hazen 2

Substitutions—

Maryville—Hughes, Black 5, Russell 7, Hernandez 2.

Tusculum—Kish, Sanborn, J. Higgins, Boretes 4, Duria 2, Siler.

Disastrous Grunt Season Concluded With Appalachian Defeat; 3 Won, 5 Lost

In sad review of the wrestling season so unhappily completed last Saturday little need be said except that times have been pretty hard this year in the grappling industry.

The Highlander sports flag pole, for the first time in about eight years, will not ly the baner o supremacy in state mat circle this spring. It's new feeling and a bitter one to Scot fans who are unaccustomed to such adversity; but it's over now and open to cool and unbiased review, if any.

All unaware of the dire catastrophe awaiting them the Scots confidently attacked the much-kicked-about Knoxville YMCA team in the opening meet. The final score was 17 1-2 to 16 1-2. Astles, Meares, and Propst secured falls for the Scots, but none of the other boys could come through with any points except Fred Tulloch, who salvaged one and a hal in the heavyweight mixup. It was the first loss to a YMCA team in within the memory even of Captain Renfro.

The second meet, a loss to the Vanderbilt Commodores, was more of the same. Improvement began to make itself evident, but there wasn't enough of it. Fleming, chubby Vanderbilt heavyweight, pinned Tulloch to cinch the decision.

Still a little dazed by the sudden developments, the Highlanders dropped their third engagement to the North Carolina State Wolfpack, one of the most potent teams in a state noted for good college wrestlers. This time the count was 23 1-2 to 4 1-2. Tulloch won the heavy clash to give Maryville her only victory. Propst was held to a draw by Leggett o State in a match which ended in a questionable decision.

Two weeks later, in a return meet at Vanderbilt the Highlanders gained a measure of revenge when they held the Middle Tennesseans to a 14-14 draw. With a few of the long awaited breaks they might have broken into the win column in this one.

And then came the dawn; on the week following, our boys came through with a very welcome and convincing win over Tennessee's Vols, 27 to 3. The Vols were whitewashed through the first seven exhibitions and were severly humiliated by the aroused Scotties.

A trip into Appalachian Teachers' territory set the local grapplers back in the red, however. The score was 25-0 and the details too gory to mention. Let's skip it.

Win number two then came up when Tennessee again was flattened in easy fashion. The Scots proclaimed a field day and then proceeded to prove their contention. The affair was thoroughly enjoyed.

Scribe Reveals Cold Facts, Figures Of Late Lamented Basketball Season

With one more basketball season finished, it is the duty of the scribe to dig back into the old score-book and gather together figures and facts regarding the past season.

The Highlanders have played 20 games this year, 12 of these being Smoky Mountain Conference games, and 8 of them being non-conference games. The Scotties won six and lost six of their SMC games, and they also won half of the eight exhibitions.

One of the teams the Scots encountered during the past season was the famous Marshall quintet. Marshall, who defeated the Tennessee Vols this year, has on their list of scalps the Long Island University team, who is always regarded as one of the leading basketball teams of the country.

Howard Magill, flashy forward, leads in the individual scoring for the season, having made 105 field goals and 30 fouls, for a total of 240 points. This gives Magill an average of 12 points per game. Weldon Baird made 52 field goals and 23 fouls for a total of 127 points, to hold second scoring honors for the season. The team as a whole outscored their opponents 811-783. Maryville scored an average of 40.5 points per game, while their opponents made an average of 39.1 points per game.

One of the features of the season was the defeating of Carson-Newman, age old foes of the Scotties. This was the first time in two years that Maryville has been able to defeat the strong Eagle team.

Individual Scoring—

	field goals	fouls	totals
Magill	105	30	240
W. Baird	52	23	127
Russell	48	27	123
Odell	29	20	78
Honaker	23	21	67
B. Baird	22	15	59
Black	14	6	34
Etheredge	10	6	26
Hughes	8	8	24
Hernandez	10	1	21
McCammon	2	0	4
Jochinson	3	1	7

FIRST CALL

The call for trackmen, issued by Coach Robert C. Thrower this week, has been heeded thus far by upwards of two dozen athletes. Well fortified in both number and quality, the Scots expect to make SMC champion Milligan eat humble pie when they come here on April 30.

Classified according to events, the men now working out are as follows:

Shot put; McCurry, Henschen, Tulloch, Dizney.

Discus; Morton, Bill Baird, Weldon Baird, Boydson Baird, Tulloch.

Javelin; the Baird boys.

Pole vault; Gheres, Magill, Simpson, Chandler, Baird.

High jump; Ballinger, Etheredge, Nicely, Proctor.

Dashes; Nicely, Lloyd, Morton, Corriston, Swift.

440; Talmage and Weldon Baird.

880; Weldon Baird, Bill Baird, and Talmage.

Mile; Morgan, Baird, Green, Lawson, Lesley.

Two mile; Rugh, Mooney, Fisher, Evaul.

High hurdles; Orr, Etheredge, Jochinson.

Low hurdles: Orr, Steakley, Corrison.

(Ed. note) It is rumored that Alexander O. "Florida Flash" Shelfer has heard the call to arms and will presently offer himself as a candidate for the P. V.

WOMEN'S SPORT

On Tuesday of last week the sophomore speedball team of the women's point system defeated the junior-senior team 10-2. This was the last game in the speedball tournament which was won by the freshmen who took both of their games.

Baseball practice will begin on Thursday and the tournament will be played in the middle of March.

school to the great masters of English prose and poetry and, as her students and friends all know, the result was a mind and spirit richly stored and vibrantly alive with the best and happiest thoughts of the best and happiest minds.

Book Fund Started

In 1929, as a landmark at the end of a quarter of a century of English teaching at Maryville, a number of Mrs. Alexander's former students joined in a memorial fund for the purchase of a collection of books to be known as the Jane B. S. Alexander Memorial Collection in the Maryville college library. Approximately five hundred persons from all over the world contributed one dollar each to this fund, and at the Alumni Dinner in June, 1929, this memorial was formally presented in her honor. These books remain one of the valued parts of a richly developing library.

In 1934, Mrs. Alexander retired from active teaching at the College, but in the years since as well as always before, she maintained an active part in the women's club work of the community. Mrs. Alexander's group in the Chilhowee club, whether its subject was Shakespeare, or Browning, or Modern drama, or Modern poetry, was always in more than a nominal sense her group, profitting endlessly from her careful knowledge and trustworthy estimate of the materials of study. Her interest in her club manifested itself also, and most strong, in a practical and lasting interest in the Maryville Public Library as well as in other community enterprises.

Interested In Browning

Mrs. Alexander's chief literary interest was in the poetry of Robert Browning, with whose clean optimism and lofty faith her own mind found ready kinship. But all literature and all beauty was her province. Those who knew her best caught this from her by a fine contagion of spirit and are the richer and better for it.

The funeral service was held Thursday afternoon at 2:30 at New Providence Presbyterian church with Drs. John A. McAfee, Ralph W. Lloyd, and W. T. Bartlett in charge.

John C. Crawford, Jr Speaks At Y Sunday

John C. Crawford, Jr., prominent Maryville attorney, will speak at the regular Sunday afternoon meeting of the YMCA. Mr. Crawford has been connected with young people's work for a number of years, and is a teacher in the New Providence Presbyterian Sunday School.

The meeting will start promptly at 5 p.m.

Lagerstedt Comments On Opera Tannhauser

At the German club meeting Tuesday evening Professor Kenneth R. Lagerstedt told the story of Wagner's opera, Tannhauser, and gave the motives behind the writing of it. In addition to this, records of parts from the opera were heard.

At the next meeting, which is to be held March 15, movies will be shown.

WRESTLING

On February 19 those pestiferous Knox Y boys, who started all this misery in the first place, came back to town for a try at a repeat victory. This time the Throwermen were loaded or bear, and pummelled the hapless Knoxvillians unmercifully. The score was 22 1-2 2to 9 1-2.

The nightcap, staged with the Appalachian marauders as guest artists, was another one of those things better forgotten than analyzed. They won 10-0 in a no-all-no-win affair.

Final result—nine meets, three wins, one tie, five losses.

FIRST LADY

from Mississippi. Bruce Walters was the easily woman-handled boy senator Keene from the West. Reese Scull, as Mr. Ganning typified the newspaper publicity man.

The audience was well pleased with the last act, because it was swift-moving and potent enough to offset the near-disappointment in the former part, when, despite the lively thrusts at current foibles the audience could not help a small feeling that things were not going off with exactly the proper dispatch.

The general opinion as to best scenes seems to favor Browder and Gillespie at home on the evening of his unofficial nomination, and the drawing room battle of wits between Browder and Miller.

Folk Ballads Combine Universal Favorites In Music And Stories

Folk ballads, from the middle ages to the present, have delighted many a group of listeners with the combination of two universal favorites, music and stories. From childhood to old age the melodies of folk ballads and the tales of Robin Hood, kings and queens, fairy folk, humorous incidents, domestic tragedies, and Biblical tradition, have found eager listeners, who were always glad to hear, and willing to repeat their favorites.

In addition to the musical appeal, ballads hold the attention because they tell stories and are filled with dramatic events. We all enjoy listening in on a conversation, and ballads contain much effective dialogue. We like pictures, and ballads have a definite scene or setting, which we can easily visualize as the action takes place. Finally, ballads have a simplicity and naturalness of expression that charm when more complicated structures like the epic fail to arouse our enthusiasm.

BALLADS IN TENNESSEE

The English and Scottish popular ballads, some of which are as old as the fourteenth centry, have such excellent qualities that they have been handed down orally to people living in America today. One hundred and five have been found in the United States; of these thirty-seven were found in Tennessee. Among these are "Barbara Allen," "Lord Lovel," and "The Hangman's Tree," all widely known over the United States. Tennessee also has several that are very rare, for example, "Sir Patrick Spens" and "Robin Hood and Little John."

The term "popular" has nothing to do with the present or past popularity of a ballad, but for want of a better word is used to describe ballads that originated anonymously among the folk and that were transmitted orally, from ballads that were composed by definite authors and are literary rather than folk ballads. The term "popular" also sets off the folk ballads that are distinctly superior in the characteristics already pointed out from the folk ballads that the second-rate because they lack some of or most of the characteristics of excellence.

Bainonian To Present "The Death Of Caesar"

At Bainonian this evening at 6:45 the seniors and juniors will present a costumed skit, "The Death of Caesar." Taking part will be Helen Miller as Caesar, Connie Johnson as Antony, Edith Pierce as Calpurnia, Helen Bobo as the Soothsayer, Marion Lodwick as Brutus, and Phyllis Gessert, Clara Dale Echols, and Frances Nelson as the mob. The pianist will be Mildred

Student Vols Feature Soloists And Quartet

The Student Volunteer meeting Sunday evening will feature an all musical program. There will be a song by Lilian Borgquist, and a violin solo by John Guinter. A duet consisting of Mary Alice Minear and Ruth Andrews, and a quartet made up of Phil Evaul, Everett Gray, Don Rugh, and Bob Lamont will sing.

OLD ELM—This tree which stands on the Rotherwood estate near Kingsport, was mentioned in Dr. Thomas Walker's diary in 1748, as having a trunk circumference of 25 feet. It is one of the twelve trees mentioned in the Hall of Fame for trees in the National Forestry Department and though grown much larger, it is rapidly decaying, notwithstanding the efforts of tree surgeons to save it.

TREATY OAK—A large oak in Cherokee Park, Nashville, known as Treaty Oak has a trunk diameter of 6 feet. It was the site of the most memorable conference in the history of Middle Tennessee. In June, 1783, Indian chiefs and white leaders, headed by James Robertson, sat beneath the spreading branches of this tree and smoked the pipe of peace.

• • • •

GIANT CHESNUT—Near Cosby on the Sevier-Cooke County lines, is the fallen trunk of a giant chesnut tree which measures 12 feet in diameter and 35 feet in circumference. Near this tree are two giant grapevines that show primeval growth; one 5 feet in circumference and the other 2 feet, and both bear an abundance of fruit yearly.

• • •

SPENCER'S TREE—Thomas Sharp Spencer, an early explorer in the Bledsoe region (Castilian Springs), lived in the hollow of one of Tennessee's largest trees in 1776. It was a sycamore tree 30 feet or more in circumference, with a hollow chamber that measured 11 feet across. Although Spencer was an unusually large man, he could walk upright in it.

PERSONNEL OFFICE RELEASES FIRST SEMESTER HONOR ROLL

Ruth Mack Leads Morgan, Lancaster With Top Averages

Ruth Mack, a sophomore from Orlando, Florida, heads the honor roll for the first semester of the 1937-38 school year with a 9.27 average. She is followed by Bruce Morgan, editor of the 1938 Chilhowean, whose average was 8.8, and by John Lancaster, senior president of the student council, who is close to Morgan with an average of 8.78. These students head the three upper classes with their averages, and the 8.26 average of Mark Davis places him at the head of the freshman list.

Three To Compete In Intercollegiate Math Competition

Contest Includes Award Of $1000 Scholarship To Harvard

John Lancaster, Maxwell Cornelius, and Evelyn Scott will enter the William Lowell Putnam mathematical competition designed to stimulate rivalry in the undergraduate work of mathematical departments in colleges and universities of the United States and Canada. The contest is open only to undergraduates who have not received a degree.

The examinations which will last for six hours will test both technical competence and originality. Questions will be taken from the fields of calculus with applications to geometry and mechanics, higher algebra, elementary differential equations, and geometry.

If three candidates are presented from a college or university, they are to constitute a team. An examination will be given to each team by a qualified examiner and then the results will be tabulated by the secretary of this association which fosters the competition. The examintion will be presented here on April 16.

The prizes are the following: $500, $300, $200 to the mathematical department of any college whose teams place first, second or third; to the members of each of the winning teams, $50, $30, $20, and a $100 scholarship to Harvard university or to Radcliffe college to the first five contestants with the highest score.

Y.M.C.A. Cabinet Plans For Retreat

One of the most important Y.M.C.A. cabinet meetings of the year was held last Monday evening in the Y.W. rooms. Reports were received from the committees, and plans were initiated for the annual retreat of the Y.M. and Y.W.C.A. cabinets held in the spring each year.

A nominating committee was elected to propose the slate of officers which will be voted upon on April 5. The committee consists of three members of the cabinet and a person from each of the four classes. Malcolm Brown was elected chairman of the committee.

The retreat this year will be handled by a joint committee from the two Christian associations. Men members of the committee were chosen, two appointed by President Minear and one elected by the cabinet.

It was reported that there are two hundred and twelve men enrolled as members of the Young Men's Christian Association. Monday night was the last time new members could be taken in in time for the April election of officers.

Following the business meeting, girls of the Y.W. served light refreshments to the men.

Lawyers Make Plans For A Mock Trial To Be Heard March 23

The Law club, at its Wednesday evening meeting this week, completed preparations for a mock trial to be held in Athenian hall March 23, at 6:45. The principals in the case are Jack Hulse vs. Earle Lyons and Howard Jochimsen. Lyons and Jochimsen, accused of stealing the door and mattress from Hulse's room, are arraigned on a charge of grand larceny.

The prosecution will be led by Arnold "Homer Cummings" Kramer, assisted by Hugh Smith and Robert Wilcox. The defense attorneys are Horace "Newton D. Baker" Brown, Gordon Findlay and John Ballinger. A jury will be chosen from the audience.

Chilhowee Trio Sings For Thetas Tonight

This evening at 7:00 at the meeting of Theta Epsilon, the Chilhowee trio will sing several selections. This well-known trio consisting of Mrs. Newberry, Mrs. Webb, and Miss Jessie K. Johnson, will be accompanied by Mrs. Bonnie H. Brown.

In addition, Gloria Miller will give a reading.

Formal Dinner Thursday Features College Grads

Thursday evening preceding the operetta, Iolanthe, there will be a formal dinner. The program will feature a 15 minute skit by Bob Claflin and Andy Alexander, former graduates and residents of Maryville. These performers are well known by Maryville students, having appeared at previous social functions. The decorations carrying out the idea of St. Patrick's day are in charge of Alpha Sigma and Theta.

Women Debaters Take Firsts In N. C. Tournament

Proffitt And Proctor Each Take Individual Honors

Maryville debaters returned Saturday evening from High Point, North Carolina, where they attended the South Atlantic Forensic tournament held March 3, 4, and 5.

The two women's teams placed first in the tournament by winning every debate in the five rounds. Those on the affirmative were Georgia Ingle and Sara Lee Hellums. Curtmarie Brown and Helen Maguire upheld the negative.

Clifford Proctor, entering in after-dinner speaking and impromptu, placed second in both contests. Louise Proffitt, representative for the women, won second places in after-dinner, impromptu, and extemporaneous speaking.

The men's teams representing Maryville consisted of Otto Pflanze and Arnold Kramer, affirmative, and Warren Ashby and Clifford Proctor, negative.

Six women's teams from colleges in North Carolina, South Carolina, Virginia, and Tennessee were entered, while more than twice as many men competed.

Paper On Weaving Read By Armstrong

At the faculty club meeting Monday evening, Miss Mary Armstrong read a paper, "The Art of Weaving." In her paper Miss Armstrong described the development of weaving through the years. She told of the economic value of weaving, in addition to its value as a beautiful and creative art.

The Pi Beta Psi Fraternity School of Gatlinburg, Tennessee, was mentioned in the paper. Miss Armstrong taught in this school for a time, and learned the patterns and designs.

In addition to reading her paper, Miss Armstrong exhibited some hand woven materials, some of which she wove herself; others of which she borrowed from the Pi Beta Psi Fraternity School of Gatlinburg, Tennessee, where she taught at one time. In the exhibit were ties, scarfs, collar and cuff sets, blankets, household linens, and coverlets.

Miss Armstrong emphasized the fact that weaving is an art that all of us can enjoy even though most of us can not do it ourselves.

Dr. Orr Will Address Y.W.C.A. This Week

The Y.W.C.A. this week will present a guest speaker to the women of the college. Dr. H. E. Orr, head of the department of Bible and Religious education, will address them on the subject, "Keeping Astride with Christ." A solo will be special music for the program.

"Iolanthe" Operetta To Be Presented Thursday Evening By Glee Clubs And College Little Symphony Orchestra

Nancy Quinn, Richard Woodring, and Ruth Woods who will play the leading parts of Phyllis, Iolanthe, and the Shepherd Strephon in the Gilbert and Sullivan comic opera, Iolanthe, which will be presented by the combined Glee clubs March 17.

Main Roles Taken By Wood, Quinn, Goddard, Woodring

DIRECTED BY COLBERT

"Iolanthe," popular Gilbert and Sullivan operetta, will be given Thursday evening at 8:15 in Voorhees chapel by the combined glee clubs and the Maryville college little symphony orchestra, under the direction of Ralph R. Colbert.

Nancy Quinn as Phyllis, the Arcadian shepherdess, and Ruth Wood in the title role of the fairy Iolanthe will take the leading feminine part; while Dick Woodring as the Arcadian shepherd Strephon, and Edwin Goddard as the Lord Chancellor sing opposite in the prominent male roles.

Other members of the cast are Harriet Barber, the Queen of the Fairies; John Magill, Lord Mountararat; Carl Wells, the Earl of Tolloller; Harry Ferran, private Willis; and Elizabeth Anne Huddleston, Alice Prime, and Louise Allen, the fairies Celia, Lelia, and Fleta. The choruses are composed of the men's and women's glee clubs, accompanied by the orchestra.

"Iolanthe, or the Peer and the Peri" is a harmless and unmalicious burlesque on the dignity of peers and the British constitution. It was first performed 56 years ago, opening simultaneously on New York and London stages to secure international copyright. Owing to the difference in time, the curtain rose five hours later here than in England, and as the New York audience filed into the old Standard theatre, they were handed transcripts of enthusiastic cablegrams describing the success of "Iolanthe" overseas.

Clarence Day, writing in an American edition of the Gilbert and Sullivan operettas, gives an excellent explanation of the psychology of these inimitable and now world-famous comic characters. "It is as though a group of Englishmen became characters in some Russian novel. They will find themselves living in a fiercely emotional country, and shouting and loving and weeping with an un-English fury. But, nevertheless, they wouldn't take the thing as unrestrainedly as the Russians. They would go through violent ranges of feeling with an inner composure. In the midst of despair, joy, and hate, they'd have a calm spot inside."

It is said that W. S. Gilbert, who wrote the libretto, was fearful that Americans might not have a clear notion of British party methods, or even the names of the British parties. But he was much reassured to find Republicans and Democrats recognizing their British counterparts and delighting in the sentry's song:

I often think it's comical,
How nature always does contrive
That ev'ry boy and ev'ry gal,
That's born into this world alive,

Seminary President Speaks At Vespers

Knoxville Pastor To Speak At Chapel Service

The Vesper speaker for Sunday evening will be President James McDowell Richards of Columbia Theological seminary, located at Decatur, Georgia. Dr. Richards is coming to Maryville college chiefly to talk with the men of the college who plan to enter the ministry, but President Lloyd, asked him to speak also at the vesper service. Dr. Richards will speak at 5:00 Sunday afternoon to the Ministerial association, and to the Student Volunteer group after vespers. President Richards was at Maryville college last year, and spoke to the students. Several Maryville students have attended Columbia Seminary. Among those who have graduated there are, William and John Talmage, and James R. Smith.

Reverend B. B. Lavender, pastor of the Graystone Presbyterian church in Knoxville, will be the speaker at the Wednesday morning chapel service next week. Mr. Lavender is known to many of the students through the work that he has done at Summer conferences at Maryville and elsewhere. Mr. Lavender was to have spoken at Maryville earlier in the year, but he postponed his visit so that Dr. Howard Moody Morgan, who was conducting a series of meetings in Knoxville, might come to us.

Fifty Students Attend Eddy Concert Tonight

This evening about fifty Maryville students will attend the Nelson Eddy concert in the auditorium of the Knoxville Central Methodist church. Mr. Eddy is the last artist to appear on the Knoxville Concert series this year.

The Maryville students will leave the campus in two chartered busses. Several faculty members are taking cars.

Announcement of Mr. Eddy's appearance caused a record-breaking ticket sale. Seats for the concert were sold out months in advance.

Spring Vacation Plans Announced

Open Pool And Gymnasium For Mixed Parties On Friday

The Social committee will sponsor several entertainment features during the spring vacation, which begins on March 18, 4:00 p.m. and ends March 22, 8:10 a.m.

Friday evening, the committee will open the pool and gymnaisum to those wishing to swim or play ping pong and volley ball.

Moving pictures, some of campus people, will be shown in the gym Saturday evening at eight o'clock.

Students who would like to make the hundred mile loop through the Smoky Mountain National Park may do so on Monday. A bus will leave the campus at 9:00 a.m. Those planning to go must sign by Wednesday on the lists posted on dormitory bulletin boards. The cost of the trip is one dollar a person.

Workshop Reverts To Old System Of Filing Original Manuscripts

At the weekly meeting Monday afternoon, members of the Writers' workshop voted to change the present method of filing manuscripts read before the organization.

Since 1932, the five best writings of each semester have been selected for the permanent file. Previously all manuscripts read were filed. It was thought advisable by the members to revert to the older plan. Thus copies of each piece of writing read in the Workshop will be placed on file in the College library.

Freshman Debate Tourney Sponsored By Maryville Teams, Mar. 25 and 26

Maryville will sponsor a Freshman debate tournament March 25 and 26. The following teams will attend the tournament: Murfreesboro Teachers, Cumberland university, King, and Lincoln Memorial university.

The question is, Resolved: that the several states should adopt the unicameral legislature. The freshmen teams are Robert Short and Robert Lamont, George Webster and Thomas Woolf, affirmative; Robert Lamont and William Felknor, George Webster and Joseph Miser or Thomas Woolf, negative; Mary Darden and Ellen Losey, Marianna Allen and Gertrude Medefind, and Virginia Wheeler and Elizabeth Moore.

New Officers Of Club Assume Their Duties

The new officers of the Triangle club took up their duties at the meeting held in Bainonian hall Monday evening. The officers are as follows: Clyde Powell, president; Jessie Curtis, vice president; Marion Garwood, secretary; and Katherine Davidson, treasurer.

Glenn Young reported that New York had won the attendance contest, and that the other two corners of the triangle would give the New Yorkers a party.

The members voted to change the time of meeting from Monday evening to Friday evening.

Reading Classes Become Established In College

The classes for improving reading technique are becoming established as a definite part of the college curriculum. Maryville takes a place with the comparatively few schools to adopt this modern treatment of reading skill.

The four classes enrolling 145 freshmen, with a few upperclassmen, meet for 30 minute periods of reading from the Metronoscope, designed to form the habit of rhythmical reading, and thereby increasing speed and comprehension ability.

The class in experimental psychology is gathering diagnostic data to be used along with daily class records in guiding and evaluating the course. Each person enrolled has visual acuity and hearing tested.

Last Saturday a group of fourteen professors, teachers and principals from the University of Tennessee, Knoxville, and surrounding schools came to investigate the program. A group of the representatives at the Tennessee philological association meeting held here last week met Friday for an explanation of the course.

Faculty Alumni Prominent As Maryville Students

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first in a series of articles by staff research reporters Woolf and Pflanze on members of the faculty who are graduates of the college. Other articles will appear in future issues.

By TOMMY WOOLF
(In Collaboration With Otto Pflanze)

Stowed away in the recesses of the safety vault in Anderson hall among other college records are yearly copies of the Chilhowean which have been accumulating there since 1907. The faded pictures and inscriptions that they contain could no doubt bring back a great many memories to Maryville graduates who have long since received their diplomas. There are, however, several of those annuals which contain names not unfamiliar to students now attending the college. In fact, no less than sixteen faculty members have their pictures in those annuals as former members of the student body.

Probably the most versatile of all Maryville graduates who have become faculty members in their Alma Mater is Dr. Ralph W. Lloyd, who received his diploma in 1915 and at that time resided in Fort Duchesne, Utah. The "Rabbi" seemed to have a peculiar knack for getting elected to prominent offices, for he was not only president of his freshman class and secretary-treasurer of his junior class, but he held at various times the offices of president, vice-president, and secretary of Alpha Sigma and was treasurer of the Y.M.C.A. Dr. Lloyd also went in for his share of athletics by making the football squad for two years, the basketball team for four years, and the tennis team for three years. He was alos captain of the basketball team for two years.

Professor George D. Howell, head of the Chemistry department, took part in many campus activities while a student on the Hill. He was particularly outstanding as a track man, and for a number of years he held the mile record for Maryville athletes. In fact, he was so speedy that the Chilhowean of 1922 describes him with these words: "He's always in a hurry."

Professor Verton M. Queener proved that he is well-fitted for the job he now holds, that of debate coach, by participating in intercollegiate debates during all four of his years at Maryville, and he was elected president of Pi Kappa Delta in 1923. He was also president of the Law club, president of Athenian, treasurer of the Y.M.C.A., editor of the Highland Echo, president of the Student Council, and business manager of the Chilhowean. Professor Queener certainly belived in doing things in a big way.

"Pay up" was the motto of mathematics Professor Walker according to the 1909 annual. An Alpha Sigma, Mr. Walker was manager of the track team and assistant manager of the Boarding

Narrow Outlook Or Flippant Attitude

Maryville campus affords unusual opportunity for participation in religious activities. Every student, if he cared to, could identify himself with one of these activities. either on the campus or in connection with a church in town.

There is one group of students, most of whom have dedicated their lives to some phase of religious work, which forms the backbone of every religious organization on the hill. The time and interests of this group are involved in religious activities to the extent that many of them know nothing about, or refuse to recognize certain other aspects of campus life. They are developing a narrowed outlook which may prove detrimental later on, particularly if they expect to work with varied types of people.

On the other hand, there is a group who have adopted a rather cynical, flippant attitude toward religious activities in general. It seems significant that a number of these students were active in religious work at home. They willingly took part in Young People's groups and other church affairs. These students may not have changed their fundamental beliefs since entering college, but they do not give much outward indication that they possess them. They actually become apologetic about their occasional excursions to church or Sunday school.

It is unfortunate that these two groups cannot reach a happy medium. Some students have integrated their religious life with other campus activities, and have developed a well-rounded, wholesome attitude. The members of these groups as individuals and the campus as a whole would undoubtedly benefit from an attempt at integration.

TVA Controversy

ON THE SURFACE the quarrel between TVA chairman, A. E. Morgan, and his fellow directors, Hareourt Morgan and David Lilienthal, seems to be nothing more or less than a lot of personal spite and vituperation. Beneath it all, however, there lies a fundamental difference on government policy that means much to the American public. A. E. Morgan believes in a policy of regulation, the thing TVA was originally created for (so we were told). Lilienthal and Harcourt Morgan, on the other hand, want wholesale ownership of power utilities. In other words, the chairman wants to use a black jack, while the two directors propose to use a machine gun.

A few weeks ago Wendell L. Wilkie, head of the Commonwealth and Southern Corp., offered to sell out the utility properties of the Corporation which have been affected by TVA competition. Lilienthal, evidently with administration backing, is pushing forward negotiations to effect such a sale. It would seem, then, that Lilienthal and Harcourt Morgan are to be the winners in this fight over policy, and within a few weeks the government will have several million dollars worth of utilities unloaded on its hands.

But things won't stop there. Very soon other utility companies will likewise find themselves unable to compete with a government electric system that charges most of its expenses away to navigation and flood control. They too will throw up their hands and quit by selling out to the all-powerful competitor. The end will find the government deep in the morass of publicly owned utilities.

• • • • •

What Would Happen?

NO ONE DENIES that the electric utility system needs regulation. 88 percent of American farms are unelectrified because the power companies are serving only the more profitable areas. 80 percent of all electricity generated is controlled by about six holding companies, each dominant and monopolistic in its own field. As for rates, Frederick M. Sackett, former American ambassador to Germany, expresses it nicely, "I know of no other industry where the sale price of the product to the great mass of consumers is fifteen times the actual cost of producing the article sold." Yes, the electric utility system needs government regulation, but certainly not government ownership.

Much can be said about the graft and vices of the present power system, but, on the other hand, much can be said about the graft and vices of government. We have had our railroad, armament, air mail, oil and countless other scandals in the past and there is no assurance that we won't continue to have them. A publicly owned electric system might be free from graft and politics for a time, but certainly not forever.

A. E. Morgan wants to regulate by the yardstick method. He proposes the English Grid system of pooling power resources with private companies. He believes in determining a fair rate by measuring the cost in government plants and forcing the utilities by means of regulation to accept a fair return based on the cost.

As for the argument that regulation has failed, no one can say it has been adequately tried in the electric industry. The Federal Power Commission does not possess half the power that railroad regulatory commissions have. No one disputes the fact that the railroads are well regulated. Give regulation a chance, and government ownership will be unnecessary.

Let's Have The Black Jack

OBSERVERS OF WORLD AFFAIRS like to speculate concerning the porbable fate of the Fascist dictatorships if Hitler and Mussolini should suddenly die. The existence of the totalitarian state revolves so completely around the personality of one man that most people think in terms of the ruler rather than of the country. The words "Germany" and "Hitler," "Russia" and "Stalin," "Italy" and "Mussolini" have practically become synonymous. What would happen, then, if these dominant personalities should suddenly be removed from the scene? Would the dictatorships live on, or would revolution bring about a change in government?

No one, of course, can answer such a question with any great degree of certainty, but if the past is any criterion of the future the answer is: Yes, the totalitarian states would live on without revolution or any major changes in government. The reason for that assumption is the fact that since the war four dictators have died natural deaths or been assassinated, and in not one case have their governments been unable to stay in power.

The first and most important of these dictators to die was Nickolai Lenin in 1924. Stalin and Trotsky were his most likely successors, and, since they were bitter enemies, most Russians began to look for the storm cellar. But the rivalry did not break out into open violence, and in the end Trotsky was dismissed for infractions of party discipline. Stalin stepped into the shoes of Lenin and has remained there ever since.

Ten years later the dispatch wires once again hummed with the news of a dead dictator. In October, 1934, King Alexander of Yugoslavia was assassinated at Marseilles by a Croatian terrorist. The reins of government were left in the incompetent hands of his eleven year old son, Peter II. Nevertheless the dictatorship lived on, for the boy's regents assumed power without opposition.

In July of the same year Engelbert Dollfuss bled to death during an abortive Nazi putsch which at first seemed likely to succeed. Schuschnigg, however, became Chancellor and the Nazis were thrown into prison.

The fourth dictator to expire was Marshal Pilsudski of Poland. He also had so entrenched himself in power that his successor, General Ridz-Smigly, assumed the dictatorship with little or no difficulty.

In view of these facts it is not difficult to ascertain what would happen if Hitler were slain. The two most prominent Nazis, with the exception of Hitler, are the pompous Hermann Goering, recently made Marshal of the German army, and the sly Dr. Goebbels, minister of propaganda. The two are bitter enemies, because they know the title, "Der Fuhrer," will develop upon one of them in the event of Hitler's death. Just as in the case of Stalin and Trotsky, either Goering or Goebbels, probably the former, will gain control and the loser will flee the country.

SOOTHING SUSIE SAYS

Dear Aunt Susie:

Will you please use your influence to have a strong arc light installed in front of Memorial? My boy-friend and I are annoyed no end by the darkness there.

Sybyl

Dear Sybyl:

A hundred girls from Pearsons would like to exchange rooms with you, you old ice-berg, you!

Aunt Susie

• • • •

Dear Aunt Susie:

Perhanps you can help me. All year I've been trying to get a date with a certain beautiful freshman girl. The first time she smiled and hesitatingly said No; the next time she smiled and said No; the third time she said No. The fourth time she didn't answer. Should I ask her again?

Puzzled

Dear Puzzled:

Certainly! She really is madly in love with you, but all girls like to be coaxed.

Aunt Susie

Dear Aunt Susie:

I've fallen deeply in love with one of the girls from the hill section. I have persuaded her to give up pipe-smoking, tobacco-chewing, and shooting up innocent bystanders just for the fun of it. But I can't get her to wear shoes—even to church on Sunday.

Anxious

Dear Anxious:

Next time you're in church notice how few of the women keep their shoes on during the sermon. This proves that women are a step further down the biological scale of life than are men. Like other lower animals, women are unhappy and restless when hampered by shoes.

Aunt Susie

• • • •

Dear Aunt Susie:

In spite of the fact I'm frightfully handsome, have a charming personality, a brilliant intellect, a keen wit, plenty of the best clothes and oodles of money, I can't sem to get anywhere with the opposite sex. Why is it that an ideal man such as I am should be in this predicament?

Bewildered

Dear Bewildered:

The trouble is that you have an inferiority complex. You are too conscious of your shortcomings.

Colbert And West Plan For Program At Easter

Under the combined direction of Mrs. Nita E. West and Ralph Colbert, the choral club will have charge of a sunrise service Easter morning in the college woods' amphitheater. About 80 Glee club and choir members and a group of about 25 dramatic art students will present the program of music and poetry. The dramatic art group will do choral reading in unison for

Is either a little Liberal,
Or else a little Conservative!

Sir Arthur Sullivan, composer of the music for this and many other delightful operettas, had occasion to demonstrate considerable fortitude on the opening night. Just before the curtain rose, he was informed that his entire fortune had been wiped out by the failure of his bank. But he told no one of his calamity and conducted the orchestra as arranged.

Shortly before his death, Gilbert made a final revision of his operas for the publication of a new edition. In "Iolanthe" he re-wrote six lines of dialogue, added four, omitted seven, and changed four words in the songs. These alterations are followed in the scores of the coming production.

Mr. Colbert is being aided in his capable direction by Ellen Sauer, who has created entirely new costumes for the cast, and Maxwell Cornelius in charge of the stage.

club for two years. Below his picture is this inscription, "Recites well when awake; but a nap he will take."

The last but by no means the least in either size or importance comes Robert Caperus Thrower of the class of '25. Mr. Thrower was a letterman in practically every sport in which the college participated. He made the football team four years, track team four years, and basketball and baseball teams one year. He was captain of the football teams in '25 and vice-president of the Athletic Board of Control in '25. The shot-put record which Mr. Thrower set while a student still remains unbroken and probably has remained intact longer than any other college record. Mr. Thrower climaxed his athletic career by being voted by the student body as the best all-round man in Maryville college—a truly great athlete.

BAINONIAN

Coach L. S. Honaker will be the principal speaker at Alpha Sigma's meeting this evening at 6:45. There will also be several musical numbers on the program, including an accordion solo by Bob Rankin.

ALPHA SIGMA

Bainonian Literary society will hold its regular meeting this evening in Bainonian hall. Arda Walker and Emma Jane Kramer will give readings. Bernice Smith will conclude the program with a piano solo.

Social Institution

From the Tiger Rag of Southwestern college we learn that 150 students at the University of Minnesota signed a petition against the tendency of students to use the library for "social purposes." Talking in the reading rooms had reached the point that the students themselves were protesting. Establishment of a discussion room was offered as a possible solution to the problem.

Popularity

The students of Cumberland university recently had a popularity contest in which the boys were given a lesson in popularity as a reporter interviewed a number of girls.

Some of the questions follow:

Do you rate good looks before personality in rating men?

Personality rated first.

Do you prefer blondes or brunettes?

Fifteen co-eds preferred brunettes, eight preferred blondes, and two held for medium.

Science Majors

From the Florida Flambeau we take the following:

"We don't exactly know what this is all about but it should appeal to the science majors:

Litmus is red,
Litmus is blue,
Whoops goes my valence
When I think of you'."

"Night Must Fall"

Members of the alumni of the State Teachers college Sock and Buskin club are going to present in April the play, "Night Must Fall," which has been chosen by the Bainonian and Athenian societies for their production this spring.

THE HIGHLAND ECHO MARCH 12, 1938

On The Bench

-with-

THE SPORTS EDITOR

Add similes: as barren as the sports calendar at Maryville this week.

WHAT TO DO?

Such "twilight zones" as this through which we are now passing are restful enough to athlete and fan, but hardly the proper ration for an already anemic sports page.

With the winter activities long since departed and those of the spring yet to take definite form, little can be said; therefore good use must be made of these little dots this week.....

ANENT BASKETBALL

Interesting comment is that forthcoming from Coaches Roy Mundorff, of Georgia Tech, and Adolph Rupp, of Kentucky, following the recent Southeastern basketball torney.

Quoth Mundorff, in regard to the tournament idea, "Just spectacles . . . why not let the two top teams at the end of the season play a series to decide the championship?" Mundorff's team just won said Southeastern scramble in impressive fashion, too, mind you. In further support of the argument Rupp adds, "Make every team play ten conference games, and arrange for the top team to play the Southern conference winner."

Such a contention coming from Rupp is nothing new; his teams are perennial regular season winners and tournament losers. On the other hand, when a statement of that sort comes from the tutor of the champs you may figure that there is something in the non-tourney plan. At least it has been used most effectively by the Smoky Mountain for many moons with uniformly happy result.

FROM UNDER THE BENCH

Further text from the pages of the work-for-pay sports editors reveals that

The Smokies, neighboring professional entry, have "bolstered their club's chances" by the asquisition of Tom Oliver, outfield star of the International league. If Oliver is as good a baseballer as he once was his purchase it a distinct breach of established Smoky policy . . . The Chattanooga club of the Southern association boasts a Third Base Managers Club, "one of whose eligibility requirements is that a member does not have a pass." Incidentally the same team will perform before its home fans this year on Easter Sunday. Wirt Gammon predicts a real fashion parade at Engle stadium that day . . . Your humble correspondent bit off just about as much as he could assimilate last week when he attempted to get personal with the boys in this corner. Messrs. Chandler, et al, well nigh lifted the editorial scalp lock in the ensuing confusion. Nevermore, as the raven said . . . Maybe we should apologise to Jack Overly, too, for leaving the impression that he was not in school last year. A mere slip, Jack . . . Random thought—what a heck of a task it is to find two pairs of shoes in the same school that will fit spring footballers Tulloch and Donaldson and we promised to quit that, didn't we? . . . Well the boys are at it again. The Giants accuse the Indians of pilfering a promising bit of baseball ivory from under their noses. Maybe boss Terry should have matrons to watch the boys until he is sure they can be left alone in safety . . . Dizzy Dean is very happy about the whole thing, latest news from the front reveals, and was asked to take nothing more serious than a salary cut from 25,000 to a pittance somewhere in the vicinity of 20,000 kopecks. Never you mind, Diz, there's always relief, you know . . . In the same vein is the war around Big Baseball and Brewery Man Jake Ruppert, who steadfastly refuses to pay the equally Big Baseball and Tarzan Man Gehrig his requested yearly stipend of $40,000. "Not a penny over 39,000," says Ruppert, owner of the Yanks and a huge bottling works. Seems there's nothing more concrete involved than a matter of principle, after all. Goo'by.

Toil-worn Timber Toppers Get Relief

"What is food to one man may be fierce poison to others." There is more truth than poetry in them thar words. Although there is some question as to the status of the food that is meted out daily at Pearson's, the issue before us is not concerned with that subject at all. The main thing that this article is concerned with is a training table for the hardworkin' track men.

It was rumored around that once in the dim days of the past they had a training table. There was only one trouble, the food was the same at the training table as elsewhere, except that there was perhaps less. (We got this information from a well-known authority on the subject, and if anyone wants to confirm this, call around at the office anytime from three to five.) It is a well known fact that bread is the staff of life, but what about beans? They are the crutches of life for the trackman. And a trackman can't run with crutches, at least some of them can't. (P.S. Some of them look like they do—it must be the food.)

Of course it is a well known fact that Maryville is going to win the Conference Championship this spring, but some of the boys, in fact 26 of them have signed a petition requesting the sumptious repast of a training table, feeling that in some vague way it might help them to close the strings upon the sack that contains the championship. The boys believe that better foods leads to better digestion, and better digestion leads to better running. Which in a way is correct. All of our sympathies are with the trackmen, for we too must eat at the Dining hall.

"Didn't you know? Everybody's going out for track now!"

"Man is a carnivorous production,
And must have meals, at least one meal a day;
He cannot live, like woodcocks, upon suction,
But, like the shark and tiger, must have prey;
Although his anatomical construction bears vegetables, in a grumbling way,
Your laboring people think beyond all question,
Beef, veal, and mutton better for digestion."

The swimming test will be given Wednesday evening at 7:15 at the college pool. Girls can earn as many as fifty points for this test.

'Tucky Teachers Oppose Swimmers

This evening at 7:30 in Bartlett pool Maryville's swimming team will go up against the mermen from East Kentucky Teachers college in the closing meet of the season.

Although positive statistics are not available, rumor has it that the swimmers from Richmond, Kentucky, have a team that will not be defeated by any lopsided score.

Maryville's squad will probably be somewhat stronger than it was against Chattanooga Y, but ailments still have a hold on one or two of the team's mainstays.

Coach Fischbach has refused to make any comments, but just to check up he is going to see how East Kentucky Teachers come out against U-T Friday evening in Knoxville.

BASEBALL

Twenty candidates for Maryville's defending SMC champion baseball crew were slated to take to the outdoors today for their initial batting practice.

Still in a quandary as to the personnel of parts of his 1938 team, Coach Honaker will keep a close eye on the actions of both rookies and veterans at the plate.

The present squad numbers the folling men: Parker, Wilburn, Collins, Rogers, Copeland, Short, and Amos, pitchers; Hernandez, Odell, Black, Davis, Wicklund, Hughes, Honaker, Gastrock, Russell and Cragan, infield; Garner, Burris, Parker, and Wilburn, outfield; Burris, Evers, and Swift, catchers. Ed note: all the above subject to sudden change.

Trackmen Show Improved Condition Despite Weather

Although the rain that held them back last spring is at work again this season, Maryville's trackmen are showThose of them who are out for spring ing signs of progress in conditioning. football seem especially likely to approach proper shape before the first home meet. The others have been working in the wrestling room in Bartlett hall and on the track, when permitted by the weather, for the past two weeks.

The squad now numbers thirty-four, with several others on the verge of casting their lot with the thinly-clads.

Contrary to morning newspaper reports, there is a good chance for a winner this year, especially if the recent additions to the roster produce as they are confidently expected to do. These include the two younger Bairds in both the track and field events, Steakley in the low hurdles, and half a dozen other candidates in the jumps and pole vault.

Varsity Netters End Weeks Work

Aspirants of the varsity tennis team toed the line last Tuesday afternoon in Bartlett gym for the first time this season for the beginning of the long road which will wind up in Memphis at the State Tennis Tournament next May 20.

Approximately fifteen of the top-notch tennis players of the school are now making the daily practices and even more have signified their intention of coming out. Among those anewering the first call were Captain Columbo, Ed Gillingham, Keith Augenstein, and Frank Morrow; all of whom saw service in the upper positions on last year's squad.

Prospects among the new comers are equally bright, with Van Cise and Akana promising to keep the old men working to keep their places.

Coach Fischbach states that with the first four men back from last season, we expect a good year if some of the new fellows come through.

Tankmen Fall To Chattanooga 49-26

Maryville's tankmen went down before the YMCA swimmers from Chattanooga last Tuesday evening in Bartlett pool with a score of 49 to 26. Sickness held the upper hand on the Maryville team, and Coach Fischbach's squad was unable to put forth the usual front to the well-rounded team from Chattanooga.

Despite their ailments, however, the medley-relay team from Maryville, composed of Hilditch, Akana, and Wicklund, established a new college record of 1:36.6 in that event.

Notable, among the other oddities of the meet, was the fact that Rippeth got up out of bed to take first place in the back stroke with a time of 1:24.5.

Scoring among the local squad was rather evenly dispersed. Wicklund and Rippeth were the only members of the Scotty team to take individual firsts. Wicklund took the fancy diving event over South Eastern champion Walters of Chattanooga and Rippeth placed first in the backstroke.

May Queen Election To Be On March 23, Announces Proffitt

May Queen for the 1938 May Day at Maryville will be elected on March 23, announced Jim Proffitt, president of the senior class, Thursday. All nominations, signed by at least ten persons, must be turned in to him by March 19 in order to be included on the printed ballotts for the election. Nominations may be made from the floor but names must be turned in by the nineteeth in order to be included on the ballot.

The election on the 23 will be the first primary and in the event of a close race a final election will be held on the 30. As in former years the Queen will select her attendants. Final results of the election will be published in the April 2 issue of the Highland Echo.

Jack Clinkman and Wallace Herrick constitute the present sick list at the hospital. Bonnie Sue Sullivan, who was injured by a fall, was discharged this week.

Y. W. C. A. Chooses Helen Bobo Pres. For Coming Year

Pinneo, Sauer, H. Bewley, Hellums Also Elected To Offices

In the election held on March 17, Helen Bobo, popular junior from Mississippi, was elected president of the Young Women's Christian Association. She is to succeed Clara Dale Echols.

The president-elect has served on the Y.W.C.A. cabinet this year as Nu Gamma leader. She is an honor-roll student, a Chilhowean staff member, junior class secretary, sophomore sponsor in the 1937 Chilhowean, and was recently awarded a place in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

Joy Pinneo, the present treasurer of the Y.W., was elected vice president. The treasurer's place is to be taken by Helen Bewley, one of the Maryville representatives to the National Assembly of Student Christian associations, at Miami university, during the Christmas holidays. Other major offices were filled by Ellen Sauer, secertary, and Sara Lee Hellums, Nu Gamma leader; both have been active in the organization heretofore. Appointments have not yet been made to complete the new cabinet. April 10 is the date set for the installation of the new officers.

At the regular meeting tomorrow afternoon, Mrs. Ruth B. Dollenmayer will speak. The topic. "Investing In Life," is to deal with the matter of vocation choice. Mrs. Dollenmayer, who came to Maryville last September, when her husband became a member of the Bible department faculty, has had extensive training and experience in social work. She has a B.A. degree from Jamestown college, of Jamestown, N.D., and an M.A. from the Presbyterian School of Religious education in Chicago.

The musical part of the program is to feature a duet by Jane Irwin and Alice Prime, with whistling by Jane Irwin.

Alston Named As "M" Book Editor

Work Begins Immediately On Annual Handbook

The "M" Book, college handbook published annually by the Y.M.C.A., will be edited next year by William Alston. The business manager will be William Felknor. These appointments were recently made by Marvin Minear, president of the Y.M.C.A.

Alston is at present treasurer of the junior class. He has been active in the Nature club and is a biology assistant. A member of Alpha Sigma society, he comes to Maryville from New Jersey. Felknor, a freshman from Meridian, Mississippi, has worked on his high school newspaper and annual, and is a member of the Echo staff.

Work will be begun immediately on the handbook so that it can be available to mail to incoming freshmen during the summer.

The Disc Club heard Cesar Franck's D Minor symphony at its meeting yesterday afternoon in the Fine Arts studio. Miss Dorothy Horne, of the music faculty, was commentator for the program.

Scalping Party

All squaws and warriors of the College are invited to attend the great Indian Pow-wow to be held Saturday night on the athletic field. There will be camp fires around which games will be played. The program will start at eight o'clock and consist of relays, games, singing, stories, and EATS!

For those who desire other entertainment, the swimming pool will be opened, and games will be held in the Alumni gym. The Freshman class is in charge of the program this week, and a committee headed by Lily Pinneo is preparing a program they feel will be enjoyable to all.

Let's all have a scalping good time!!

Varsity Debaters Meet Two Squads

Pikeville And Tennessee Teachers Debated

Last Tuesday evening two non-decision debates between Maryville and Pikeville college were held.

Harwell Proffitt and James Whitt upheld the affirmative for Maryville, and Warren Ashby and Clifford Proctor, the negative.

Dr. Frank McClelland, personnel director at Maryville, was formerly president of Pikeville. After the debate, Dr. McClelland entertained the debaters from Pikeville at his home.

Wednesday evening, the same Maryville men's teams debated affirmative and negative teams from Middle Tennessee State Teachers college at Murfreesboro. These debates were non-decision.

Alpha Sigma Elects Young As President

In Alpha Sigma's election for officers to serve for the rest of this year, Bill Young was elected president; Ray Nelson, vice president; Kenneth Van Cise, secretary; John Ballinger, Steve Amos, Howard Davis, and James Whitt, program directors; Charles Sullivan and George Anderson, sergeant-at-arms. Ex-president Gillingham will serve as janitor.

Otto Pflanze Elected To Chairmanship Of Forum

Georgia Ingle and George Hunt spoke at the first meeting of the Peace forum this semester, held at 6 p.m. last evening in the philosophy classroom. After the open forum an election of officers was held.

Otto Pflanze was elected chairman, and Edith Gillette, secretary.

Freshmen Debaters End Tourney Today

Luncheon Closes Two-Day Meet Of Colleges

Yesterday and today Maryville college was host to the freshman debate teams of five colleges and universities in this section. The tournament included teams from Murfreesboro Teachers college, King college, East Tennessee Teachers college, Cumberland university, and the University of Tennessee. Competitions were held in oratory and extemporaneous speaking as well as in debate on the question of state unicameral legislation.

Maryville was represented by Thomas Woolf, Joseph Miser, William Felknor, Robert Lamont, Robert Short and George Webster on the men's teams; Mary Allen, Annette Medefind, Mary Darden, Ellen Losey, Virginia Wheeler, and Elizabeth Moore on the women's team; and Ivan Blake in oratory.

The meetings were held in the literary society rooms, the "Y" rooms, and several class rooms, from 1:30 yesterday till noon today. The tournament was under the direction of Curtmarie Brown. Otto Pflanze was in charge of accomodations for the visiting debaters.

May Queen Election Set For Wednesday

Seniors Name Orr, Browder Finalists In Primary

Irene Browder and Louise Orr were selected by members of the senior class as candidates for the title of May Queen in a primary election held in the philosophy classroom Wednesday morning. Three other candidates, Lois Black, Evelyn Ferguson, and Ann Sligh, were eliminated in this election, leaving clear field to Miss Browder and Miss Orr.

Candidates for the primary were nominated during the preceding week by ballots containing the names of at least ten persons interested in the candidacy of each of the aspirants. The meeting Wednesday morning was also open to nominations from the floor, but no additions were made to the list.

James Proffitt, president of the senior class, announced that the final election between the two candidates nominated in the primary will be held Wednesday morning following the chapel service, but the results will not be announced until the following Saturday in the "Highland Echo."

Original Illuminated Manuscripts In Baker Gallery Were Of Varied Subjects

A collection of medieval illuminated manuscripts which are circulated by the American Federation of Arts, to which Maryville college now belongs, has been displayed at the Elizabeth Gowdy Baker Memorial art gallery for the past two weeks. This collection is composed of original illumniated, or decorated, manuscripts which date from 840 B.C. to 1825.

The first two manuscripts, one of which is a decree of Pope Leo of Germany in 840, the other, Egyptian coptic writing of 900, are written by hand on vellum or sheep skin. One manuscript, a Bible leaf from France in minute Gothic style with two columns and decorated with red, yellow and blue, is perhaps the most intricate. A Francesian service leaf written about 1360 A.D., shows the original musical chants which the priests used in services. A Greek psalter of 1425 still shows some of the Byzantine influence in its decorations.

An Italian grant of indulgence by Pope Innocent is the text of a 1488 manuscript. A Spanish altar card dated at 1520 showed in its decoration one of the first landscapes ever drawn. This is in a small block in the upper right hand corner of the page. An indenture by George I and written in 1717 has the official seal and signatures, and is a good example of the typical court hand.

The majority of the existing manuscripts are religious or civil documents because at the time of their origin, Europe was in such an unsteady turmoil that only priests and monks and a few court officials had time to write. This writing was intricate and all done by hand. Every page was adorned with some design, and usually the first letter in every main paragraph was enlarged and decorated. It was by these decorations that art as such has been preserved to our time. All gold on the manuscripts was gold leaf, the colors were similar to water colors but not exactly like them, and the ink was something like our ink of today.

Night Must Fall Cast Completed

The cast of "Night Must Fall," the Bainonian-Athenian play, has been chosen and rehearsals have started. The play is under the direction of Mrs. Nita E. West, and will be presented in Voorhees chapel, April 8.

The following characters have been selected: Ed Thomas, Lord Chief Justice; Marian Lodwick, Mrs. Bramson; Lois Black, Olivia Grayne (her niece); Gerald Beaver, Hubert Laurie; Alice Whitaker, Nurse Libby; Sara Bolton, Mrs. Terence (the cook); Louise Allen, Dora Parkoe; Frank Brink, Inspector Belize; and John Wintermute, Dan.

Comic Opera Heard By Large Audience

Approximately 600 people applauded the presentation of the comic opera, Iolanthe, March 17 in Voorhees chapel. The audience was composed of many outsiders from Maryville, Knoxville and vicinity as well as college students. They came to hear the second Gilbert and Sullivan comic opera presented by the Maryville College Glee clubs and directed by Ralph Colbert.

Ruth Woods sang the role of Iolanthe, the fairy mother of Strephon. Opposite her was Edwin Goddard with his amusing interpretation of the Lord

Dr. Dodd Former Ambassador Will Discuss German Situation Monday Afternoon In Chapel

Roosevelt Appointed Dodd German Ambassador In 1932

FAMOUS AS HISTORIAN

Dr. Dodd Caused Incident By Denunciation Of Hitler

The former United States ambassador to Germany, William E. Dodd, will address Maryville students Monday at three o'clock in Voorhees chapel. Dodd, who is on a lecture tour through the South, has not announced his subject, but will probably speak on the late Nazi coup in Austria.

Mr. Dodd is noted for his fearless denunciation of Adolf Hitler. Appointed to the post of ambassador by President Roosevelt in 1933, he made a speech not long after his arrival in Berlin in which he compared the Nazi dictatorship with ruthless Roman dynasties. Not long after his retirement last year, Dodd made a speech in New York in which he denounced Hitler as a tyrant. An international incident resulted; the German government protested, and was told that Dodd was a private citizen and could speak as he pleased.

Dodd is a famous American historian. He is the author of nine well-known biographies and historical books. He is also the editor and joint publisher of three history text books, and a contributor to numerous magazines and periodicals. He held a distinguished professorship at the University of Chicago for a number of years, and in 1934 was president of the American Historical association.

The engagement at Maryville has been secured through the efforts of Professor Verton M. Queener. Mr. Queener studied under Dr. Dodd at the University of Chicago, and considers him the best lecturer he ever

Committee Makes YM Nominations

Rhody and Baird Named; Election On April 5

Weldon Baird of Kilbourne, Ohio, and Fred Rhody of Philadelphia, Penn., have been nominated for the presidency of the Y.M.C.A. for next year, it was announced to the Echo by President Marvin Minear. Election of officers will take place at the annual election and business meeting of the association on April 5.

Other nominations made by the nominating committee are Bruce Morgan and Eugene Orr, for vice president; William Alston and George Hunt, for secretary; Robert Martin and Edward Thomas, for treasurer; Frank Brink and Philip Evaul, for representative to the Advisory Board from the Class of 1941.

All the nominees have beeen active in campus activities at Maryville. Baird is president of the Athletic Board of control, led his class as president in its sophomore year, is treasurer of the Y.M.C.A., and has lettered in track and basketball. Rhody is president of the junior class, worship director of the Y.M.C.A., sports editor of the Chilhowean, associate editor of the Highland Echo, and a member of the Hi-Trail and Writer's workshop. Both Baird and Rhody are listed in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

Malcolm Brown, secretary of the Y.M.C.A., headed the committee which made the nominations. It was composed of two other members of the cabinet and representatives from the four classes, all elected by the cabinet at a recent meeting.

Jane Irwin, A Senior Elected Theta Pres.

Jane Irwin, a senior and a member of the cast of "First Lady," was recently elected president of Theta Epsilon society, succeeding Dorothy Armstrong.

The other newly-elected officers are as follows: vice president, Gloria Miller; 2nd vice president, Kathleen Cissna; treasurer, Esther Sommers; program chairman, Muriel Mann; pianist, Harriet Barber; house chairman, Marcia Sparkman and Mary Deane Allen; roster chairman, Dorothy Dempster; sergeant-at-arms, Mary Louise Morgan.

In the election for secretary a tie vote resulted between Dorothy Quass and Virginia Partridge. This evening, at the regular meeting, the final election for secretary will be held.

Bainonian-Athenian To Hold Combined Meeting

There will be a combined meeting of Bainonian and Athenian at 6:45 this evening in the philosophy classroom. A comedy skit and mystery play will feature the program.

Dr. P. Davies Will Speak At Vespers

Rev. N. Cook Of Knoxville Talks Wednesday

Dr. Paul E. Davies, who spoke in chapel this morning will speak to the men of the College at the YMCA meeting Sunday afternoon, and will be the Vesper preacher on Sunday evening. Dr. Davies is Professor of New Testament in the Presbyterian Theological seminary, Chicago. He graduated from Princeton university in 1920 with Phi Beta Kappa honors. He is a graduate of the seminary in which he now teaches, and was winner of the competitive fellowship in New Testament Greek. He used his fellowship by studying at the University of Edinburgh where he received his Ph. D. degree. After returning from Edinburgh he was pastor first in Springfield, Ohio, and then in St. Paul Minn. He has been teaching in the seminary in Chicago since 1933. Dr. Davies is a brother of Miss Katherine C. Davies, head of the department of fine arts.

Dr. Davies comes to Maryville especially as a representative of his seminary. He and Mrs. Davies drove from Chicago by motor, and were accom-

Dr. Lloyd Will Attend A College Association Convention At Dallas

Dr. Ralph W. Lloyd will leave next week for the 42nd annual meeting of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary schools. This association is a regional accrediting agent. The meeting will be held this year in Dallas, Texas.

The meeting of the association was held last year at Richmond, Va. Maryville college has belonged to this association since 1922. Membership requires that certain standards be met and maintained. Maryville was among the first half of the colleges to join the association.

President Lloyd, representing Maryville, will fly to Dallas and back, leaving from McGhee-Tyson airport.

Woolf Opens More Closets To Exhibit Faculty Skeletons

By TOMMY WOOLF

In reviewing the accomplishments of the faculty members who are graduates of Maryville college, it is interesting to note the number of important offices held by faculty members while they were students. Out of a total of 16 graduates who are now faculty members, one was a freshmen class president, two were sophomore class presidents, one was a junior class secretary and treasurer, one was a senior class secretary, and one was a senior class vice president.

Further study reveals that among the present faculty there are represented a former president of the Y.M. C. A. and also a president of the Y.W. C. A.; two secretaries of the Y.M.C.A.; and three treasurers of the Y.M.C.A. In addition to these positions several other faculty members held important offices in the literary societies. One may judge from these figures that our faculty members are a well-rounded group and have received adequate preparation for the responsible positions they now hold.

Miss Jessie Johnson, who is now connected with the English department, is a typical example of the type of student who was interested in many campus activities. Although she attended Maryville college only during her junior and senior years, she was secretary of her senior class, and a member of the girls' tennis team. Her hobby was singing, and she was a member of several campus musical organizations. Although Miss Johnson now abhors slang expressions, her favorite by-word was then "sure 'nuff" and her nickname was "Yessie Yonson."

Raymond J. Dollenmayer is one of the latest additions to the Maryville faculty, having returned here after an absence of only four years. He was a graduate of the class of '33. Professor Dollenmayer was interested in drama, and he took part in several literary society productions. He was also president of the Fellowship club and secretary-treasurer of the Ministerial association.

"Sheeney" was the nickname of David H. Briggs, head of the psychology department. Professor Briggs was evidently quite a ladies' man during his student days, for a quotations from the 1919 Chilhowean says, "Chase him girls! He's full of fun." Dr. Briggs was an outstanding athlete, being a varsity football man for four years, captain of the basketball team one year, and a member of the track team one year. When it came to holding prominent offices Dr. Briggs was also among the leaders, for he was president of his Sophomore class and vice president of his Senior class, as well as treasurer of the Y.M.C.A., and president of Alpha Sigma.

Dr. Horace E. Orr, of the religious education department, must have had quite a sense of humor during his campus days. A quotation from the 1912 annual says that he "laughs at everything he says and honestly believes it is funny." His nickname by the way was "Hoss." Dr. Orr went in for his share of campus activities, and as a result he became president of his Sophomore class and president of Athenian. He was also president and secretary of the Y.M.C.A., and leader of the Student volunteers.

Another woman who was interested in various campus activities was Miss Almira Jewell of the Class of 1908. Miss Jewell majored in English lit-

EDITORIAL VIEWPOINTS

Doesn't it seem that our newspapers and radio commentators seize upon disturbing foreign news with just a bit too much relish? Isn't it true that most of the accounts we get of international conditions are really intended not to inform us of world events, but rather to thrill us with vivid details of human suffering and peril? Have you ever felt sort of cheated when, after reading of the killing of thousands of civilians in an air raid, a later report placed the number of victims at a mere five hundred? Should war-bent dictators be too severely condemned, when so many of us regard the misfortunes and misery of others with no more human feeling than thrill-seeking curiosity?

• • • • •

Hearing the views of a recognized authority on political and international affairs is as valuable a cultural experience as listening to the music of a world-famous artist, or attending the lecture of a renowned scientist. Students and faculty alike appreciate the visit to the campus of William E. Dodd.

• • • • •

Those in charge of planning the various programs in connection with campus life should constantly try to find better ways of doing things. It has been suggested that the possibility be considered of having the annual commencement exercises in the open-air amphitheater in the college woods, instead of in the chapel. Whether the advantages of such an arrangement would outweigh the disadvantages is a debatable question. At any rate, the suggestion is one which deserves careful consideration.

• • • • •

In a world where democracy is at a premium, it is comforting to reflect on the democratic spirit which characterizes relationships here on this campus. Wealth and family have surprisingly little influence here, in comparison with the situation at many institutions throughout the country. This is as it should be. The capacity, industry, character and personality of the individual, and not his family's social status, financial standing or beliefs, should determine his success.

There came sliding across our 2 x 4 Persian rug early this week several newspapers from all over the country. From them we have gleaned, after careful sifting of material, some items of world-wide importance. Alert readers of this paper will be quick to realize that the ECHO is maintaining its principle of getting the most important news first to the most important people.

Colbert Does It Again

IN LIGHT OF THE RECEPTION which previous dramatic criticisms published on the Echo editorial page have received, the columnist literally takes his life in his hands this week by criticising Iolanthe. In order to beat his critics to he draw, the columnist hereby pens a confession that he knows absolutely nothing about the subject involved and never expects to. Verbum sapienti: If you aren't going to like it, don't read it.

Iolanthe was a splendid production. Good music, excellent acting, magnificant costuming, and superb lighting effects combined to make it an unforgettable evening. Seldom has any thing been given on the Maryville stage in the way of a student program that equaled the performance on March 17.

If they can be compared at all, Iolanthe was a much more finished production than the Mikado. The latter, due to the unforgettable Karukas, was uproariously funny, but the acting was mediocre and the music rough in spots. The music of Iolanthe was better, the humor almost as good, the acting more convincing—all of which adds up to a more polished production.

Ed Goddard, the Lord Chancellor, John Magill and Carl Wells, the earls of Mountararat and Tolloller, turned in by far the best three performances of the evening. Their interpretation of the three peers was amusing, their singing excellent. The trio in the first act was the high spot of the opera.

Harriet Barber, singing the part of the Fairy Queen, gave her usual good performance. Miss Barber's voice, though sometimes lacking in power, is unexcelled for sheer pleasantness. She never fails to give that inward feeling of satisfaction that only a talented musician can give.

Both Nancy Quinn and Richard Woodring showed improvement in their interpretations of the leading roles, Phyllis and Strephon. Miss Quinn's voice was more distinct and her acting better in Iolanthe than in the Mikado. Her singing, however, is still a trifle too mechanical and uninspiring.

Ruth Woods, singing Iolanthe, was uncertain on some of her tones, but all in all rendered a creditable performance. Harry Ferran started the second act out with a bang by his interpretation of Private Willis and the song, "I often think it's comical." Misses Huddleston, Prime, and Allen were entertaining in the supporting roles of the three fairies. Miss Huddleston's singing was at first disappointing to those who had heard so much of her possibilities; she completely redeemed herself, however, with a beautifully clear coloratura cadenza in the second act.

Director Colbert, through Iolanthe and the Mikado, has revealed himself an expert in the field of comic opera. In preparing next year's opera, however, he might profitably spend more time on his orchestra which was only fair in Iolanthe. Another tip to Mr. Colbert: he needs to know one more thing in rounding out a fine musical education—how to make a more graceful bow in response to such overwhelming applause as he received Thursday evening.

Hitler Does It Again

NO ONE CAN RIVAL Adolf Hitler for sheer luck. In the last few weeks he has called every card as it came, and called it right. Schuschnigg double-crossed Der Fuehrer by calling a plebiscite on Austria's independence. If he wished to keep what advantages he had gained in Austria, Hitler found he must act fast.

He surveyed the capitals of Europe and found a perfect set-up. Sir Anthony Eden with his anti-dictator ideas had just been forced out of the British cabinet, and the Chamberlain do-nothing policy was in full sway. On the Quai d'Orsay the government of Premier Camille Chautemps had just fallen, and there was no one to take responsibility. The only draw-back was Italy, and Hitler bought Mussolini off by providing sufficient aid for Franco's final drive on Barcelona. The net result was this: when Schuschnigg frantically called Rome, London, and Paris he received no support, and Hitler came through with a Frank Merriwell finish.

In spite of the fact that the Chamber of Deputies had voted 493-to-2 in favor of fighting for Austrian independence, there was nothing much France could do about the Anschluss affair. Any opposition would have brought war, and the French people don't want war. The Quai d'Orsay had no other choice. Three years ago, however, it had a choice and, had it acted, the Austrian conquest might have been prevented. Three years ago Hitler repudiated the Versailles treaty and rearmed the Rhineland. Germany was weak, then, and decisive military action on the part of France would have destroyed Hitler. But France delayed; last week it was too late.

Hitler's move into Austria has been absolutely essential to the Nazi dictatorship. Internal dissatisfaction, as evidenced by an army and cabinet shakeup, seemed to intimate that Der Fuehrer's rule was slipping.

Hitler's power has been built up by a series of startling accomplishments. He withdrew from the League and Disarmament conference in 1933, rearmed Germany in 1935, remilitarized the Rhineland in 1936. Such moves have become a necessary political expedient to keep the dictatorship in power. World peace will last only so long an England, France, and Russia continue to acquiesce.

TALK OF THE WEEK . By Arlene Phelps

WILLIAM E. DODD SPEAKS AT MARYVILLE

Fits and Fizzles

By FRED RHODY

(Ed. note: Harking to the insistent public demand, the editor this week succeeded in getting the services of Ichabod Q. Washby, that celebrated columnist of long ears' standing.)

After making an intensive study of the lost species of college students, that eminent educator, I. Q. Rating, claims credit ("Y' store won't give it) for his new theory. Quoting from his new books "Exams, or The Easiest Way Home is By Train":

"No matter whether the test the professor has announced for the next time is a pop quiz or an exam, there are certain rules that the student should observe.

"First, he should undertake a strict training routine. He should not eat unless he is alone or with somebody and then only between meals.

"Second, he should not look at any book connected with the subject his test is to be in. If the test is to be in English he should not look at any book written in that language. This regulation should be strictly adhered to, for by seeing a book the student would meet with such temptation to study as he could not resist. Some students find that making moon while the sun shines is a good way to foil this temptation. On rainy days they play parlor games.

"The third rule is that the student should completely relax, before and after the test. One excellent way of relaxing is by letting your room mate pay your way to the movies the night previous and the evening after the test.

"If the student diligently applies these rules he will find that nothing on the exam can possibly confuse him. Furthermore he will discover that he will be relieved of the painful duty of standing in line for fall registration. It will also relieve him of the responsibility of buying a train ticket back to his college in September."

Because originality is lacking, with all due apologies to the copyright owners, we quote:

"Let me off at the next stop; I thought this was a lunch wagon."

One worm to another: "I fell in love once but she turned out to be only a piece of spaghetti."

Sign on a Scotch golf course: "Members will please refrain from picking up lost balls until they stop rolling."

Mama fly to baby fly, while walking on head of bald man: "My, how things do change, my dear. Why, when I was your age this was only a footpath."

Convict being hanged for the first and last time: "This suspense is killing me."

As Spring rains once more we resolve not to use that quote about a young man't fancy because it is usually the girl's fancy that does the most turning anyway. An example:

She: "Spring in the air this morning!
(Exultingly) Spring in the air!"
He: "Eh? Why should I?"
And a pome from back thar':
Spring, spring
The beautiful spring;
The rain 'n mud 'n everything;
The birds and bees
Sing in the trees period

Mock Trial Convicts Freshmen Of Larceny

Vaughn Lyons and Harold Jochimsen were put on trial for stealing a door knob and a mattress, in a mock trial held by the Law club last Wednesday evening.

Jochimsen was acquitted, but Lyons was sentenced to ten years in prison by Judge Edward Jussley. Arnold Kramer was prosecuting attorney and Horace Brown was attorney for the defense.

Stay-At-School Student Socialize, Study, Swim

For those students who found it impossible to leave the campus for the spring vacation, the Social committee planned a number of activities. Last Friday evening, the pool was opened and the Alumni gym made accessible to those wishing light exercise.

A bus left Saturday morning for a day trip around the hundred-mile loop through the Smoky Mountain National park. In the evening motion pictures consisting of several commercial reels and some candid campus shots were shown in the gym.

Monday a similar bus trip was made through the mountains.

Holiday activities were brought to a successful close by an as-you-like-it sponsored by the Ministerial association Monday evening. In the Y W rooms there were quiet games, while in the gym, there was an opportunity for more vigorous exercise.

Ministerials Will Hold Banquet On April 19

Dr. Clifford E. Barbour, speaker at the February meetings this year, has been secured to speak at the Ministerial association banquet, which will be held on April 19. The place for the banquet has not been decided on as yet, but will be announced at an early date.

The meeting of the association this week will be devoted to a discussion of timely topics. There will also be several committee reports.

Exchange Notes

By Ruth Abercrombie

Competition

Co-eds at the University of California must compete with chorus girls from Hollywood if they want dates. The men on the campus can find any number of glamorous chorus girls to date if they care to. The co-eds complain that the competition is too stiff; they they would rather resign themselves to spinsterhood.

Tsk, Tsk

Ad in the Tiger Rag: "Margaret—— has lost her key ring and simply has no idea where it could be!"

The Big Apple

Dr. E. R. Guthrie of the University of Washington has been doing research work on the Big Apple. His conclusions are "the popularity of the Big Apple in America indicates a red-blooded race above all, and it is probable that such a dance could not have originated in any other nation which is considered civilized."

Bachelors

The senior class at Mulenburg college is allowed to plant ivy if every member of the class is a bachelor. The ivy has not been planted for twenty-five years.

Annapolis Co-ed

Miss Frank R. King, of the University of Alabama recently received a bona fide appointment to Annapolis. She was named after her father who was killed in service, and naval authorities thought she was a son of the former service man.

War

Two Emory university undergraduates have organized an "Institute for International ill-will." The object is to start a war as quickly as possible. An attempt is being made to establish chapters "all over the world." In a telegram to Adolph Hitler they suggested that he "quit stalling and fight Austria." The wire was refused by two companies so another message was drafted and reported accepted. The second message read, "we are all behind you and the eight ball. We recommend Austria for your growing pains."

Upper Classes Ahead In Point System Baseball

The junior-senior baseball team of the women's point system has won 3 games in the baseball tournament, two from the sophomores and one from the freshmen.

Thursday of last week, the sophomore team defeated the freshmen. There are two more games to be played in the tournament next Tuesday and Thursday.

STRENGTH lies in the FOUNDATION

Anything of safe and lasting usefulness must be carefully engineered and planned from the ground up. Great bridges must have immense concrete and steel bases, great buildings must have deep, secure foundations. Great Banks, too, must have good foundations, though of a slightly different nature. Great banks are founded and developed on the soundness of their policy, their judgement, intelligence and honesty.

Through the years our bank has established its reputation. You can bank here with complete confidence that your money is in safe and competant hands.

THE SPORTS EDITOR

FOR A MORE PROASIC PASTIME

The holidays over, pleasant days and sunshine are with us once more. Attention is turned again to track, tennis, and baseball in lieu of mountain climbing and moonshining. . . . . .

One of the most enthusiastic athletic enterprises now extant is the girls' baseball program running its merry course on the greensward of Wilson Field, as we noticed recently from the corner of an eye. Such scores as 47 to 8, and so on, indicate the latent run-making skill of the lassies. They seem a wee bit inept, though, at fielding, handling ground balls much as if they were mice. Pop-ups, too, seem to present a problem not outlined in even the most inclusive of home economics courses.

But lest we be misunderstood, we hastily protest innocence of any spirit of derision. The girls, many of them, are quite adept at this baseball business, surpassing any masculine performer in aggressiveness and alertness.

We really enjoy watching them.

SAME OLD QUESTION

Speaking of baseball, there still remains a problem or so to be smoothed out ere Coach Honaker's charges are ready to uphold the Maryville banner in the conference scramble.

Right now it looks like this season may be a repetition of the 1937 races, which saw the Scots get away to a dismal start only to perk up in midseason and smother the opposition. There was for a while the same uncertainty which now surrounds the outfield lineup; we only hope the puzzle is ironed out as smoothly this time as it was then. Much of the difficulty might never have arisen if Bill Swearingen had stayed in school. Bill covered his center field sector like a London fog, and maintained a respectable average at the plate.

Pitchers Parker and Wilburn will probably share picket duties on their off days as it stands now. Both are probably capable enough at the plate; at least both whaled the ball vigorously last spring. It remains to be seen if they can keep those towering flies and whistling drives off the outfield grass.

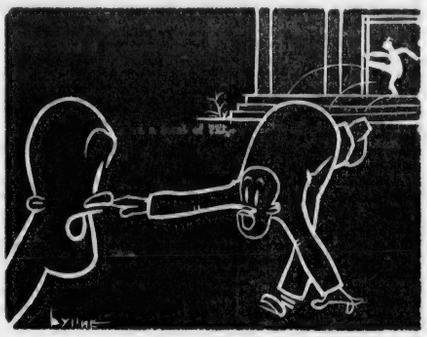
VIRTUE REWARDED

Entirely aside from any personal bias, of course, we believe a little laudation is in store for the athletic shock troops of the junior class, who cleaned up in the YMCA volley ball tourney last night.

Perhaps the first orchid of the season . . . . No?

SPOILS FOR THE VICTORS

Have you seen the handsome medal awards in store for fourteen of the outstanding interclass stars? five of them are slated to go to the winning team members, with three to outstanding individuals on each of the other three teams.



The medals are a work of art and well worth the effort.

INTRAMURAL ITEMS

What we all had expected as a mild evening of execise turned out to be a load of strenuous and invigorating fun, when the four classes met for their volleyball tournament. The naturalness with which the juniors are walking away with all these championships appalls us, but seemingly nothing can be done about it, for last night they added another cup to their honor shelf. We hope that some team will at least rise up to give them competition next week in our intramural swimming meet, which as you probably already know, envelopes both boys and girls. It is our hope to procure some type of individual award for those taking places, especially after the way last night's campaign treated that little treat at the "Y" store.

Speaking of awards, fourteen especially prepared keys have already arrived to be presented later to the fourteen most outstanding men in the interclass program. Five of these medals or keys are of a higher class than the others and are to be awarded to the five leading members of that class which wins the interclass cup. These are keys, having inscribed underneath the word "Intramural" and on top the letter "M" done in orange with a garnet border to the medal. The placque is the internation one, signifying "Triumph." On the back are inscribed the words, "Champions, Y.M.C.A., 1938." The other nine medals, to be awarded to the three other classes, are equipped with the same lettering on the front, the colors being reversed, and on the back the words, "Presented by the Y.M.C.A., 1938." The placque is that of "Victory" instead of "Triumph."

Scribe's Exhaustive Research Leads To Idea 'Egg A Day Will Bring Home Bacon'

What? Still no vacancy at the training table?

"Sixteen men on a dead man's chest." Or should we say sixteen men on a training table diet. Believe it or not, nothing succeeds like success. In case you don't know what this is all about, we are in our own inimitable style trying to tell you that the track team, largely through our efforts of course, have finally gotten a training table.

No less than two eggs a day per man, and lots of spinach, have been promised the harried harriers of Coach Thrower. There are lots of catches to this training table tho—for instance it seems that everyone who eats at it must go to breakfast every day. Not only that, but the authorities have decided to cut out of the diet those wonderful biscuits that grace the table every morning.

At present here are sixteen good men and true eating at the table, but let me quote Coach Thrower, "If any of you athletes start laying down on the job, and start in loafing like Mr. Dizney, you are going to be demoted, in other words cut from the training table." End of quote and etc.!! Let that be a leson to some of you boys. P. S. I hope he is only kidding.

All kidding aside we really think that the two eggs and lots of spinach will help the boys bring home the bacon.

Maryville Bounces E. Kentucky 40-34

Close Victory Brings End To Swim Season

Maryville's swimming team closed the 1938 season the evening of March 12 in Bartlett pool by barely nosing out the tankmen from East Kentucky Teachers' college by a score of 40 to 34.

East Kentucky Teachers totaled the most points in the individual events, but the Maryville squad took both the relays and with them the meet. The visitors had a one point lead on the Scotties until just before the last event, but the 200-yard relay team, composed of Wicklund, Stafford, Findlay and Hilditch, won the last event.

Complications arose when the number three man of East Kentucky jumped the gun in the last relay; despite complications, however, the swimming archives proved that jumping the gun was the same thing regardless of how it was done; so the event went to Maryville with the seven points and the meet.

Maryville took only three individual firsts and the two relays. Paul Akana took first in the 100-yard breast stroke and the 400-yard free style, and Warren Hilditch took the 100-yard free style.

Net Eliminations Run True To Form

Eliminations in the tennis team got off to a fast start last Friday when each of the six seeded players took with comparative ease his opponent in the first round matches.

Among those to come out on top were Morrow, Akana, McCammon, Van Cise, Colombo, and Augestine. Gillingham, seeded number one position, was the only one in the tournament drawing a first round bye.

The only unseeded match of the tournament is the only one left unplayed in the first round. Second round matches begin Monday and the middle of the week should find the team down, once more, to earnest work.

Mixed Swim Will Offer Races And Fun Next Friday

Annual Y-Sponsored Event Features Boy vs. Girl Team Race

On April first, which incidentally is next Friday, April Fool's Day, in case any of us are too tired to look at a calendar, the YMCA and the YWCA are combining to have their annual interclass swimming meet in the college pool. The races will be between the different classes, with first the boys having a race, and then the girls staging a race. The grand climax of the whole affair is to be a race between the best girls' team and the best mens' team. The points garnered in this meet by the individual swimmers will count toward the interclass awards to be given this year to the men of the college. Those of the men who were on the swimming team this past season, and who did not earn a letter, will be able to compete; however, those who did earn a letter in swimming are ruled out of the meet.

This meet, especially the race between the men and the women, should prove of interest to the students and every one is invited to participate or be a spectator, as your correspondent will probably be.

Rain Slows Prep Work Of Trackmen For Opening Meet

New Men Help 1937 Shock Troops Bolster SMC Title Hopes

With their first track meet only two weeks off, the Highlanders prepare for a busy season with a number of good prospects in different events.

Although the team's practice has been hampered by rain during the last week, the Scotties are by no means entirely out of condition. With the three Baird brothers, and Roy Talmage as the nucleus of the team, the Highlanders have Gene Orr, who runs both hurdle races; Bruce Morgan, a fine miler; James "Cousin Joe" Etheredge, no. 1 high jumper and would-be low hurdler; Fred Tulloch, shot putter extraordinary; Guy Propst, shot putter and discus whirler; Bert Chandler, pole vaulter; Don Rugh, the "galloping ghost" of the two mile run, and freshmen propects to finish out the roster.

Notable of the newcomers who are making advancement along the lines of becoming track men are these. First of all is Eugene McCurry, who has been putting the shot in no mean manner in the last few days of practice. Gene, who is a big 215 pounder, has never tossed the shot before, and for a mere freshman he is doing all right by himself. Vernon Lloyd, another freshman, is a dash aspirant. With the Scotties weak in the dashes, they may find a place for Lloyd this season. "Winnie" Corriston, who is also a dash man and low hurdler, is another man to be watched this season. Floyd Green, freshman from Ohio, is looking like a good running mate for Bruce Morgan in the mile run.

With time trials next week there should be other new men coming into the limelight. A good season is in store for the Highlanders this year, and the Scotties hope to cop the Smoky Mountain Championship from Milligan, last year's champs, who come here April 30.

Bird's Eye View

On Wednesday morning immediately after chapel, a photograph of the entire student body and faculty was taken in the plot between the fountain and the library.

In 1914 a panoramic photograph was taken of students and faculty. It was particularly desirable to have a group picture taken this year since nearly the entire personnel of the college has changed since 1914 and since it is probable that a majority of the men will be called into service.

Iolanthe

Chancellor. John Magill and Carl Wells sang the supporting roles of Earl of Mountararat and Earl of Tolloller.

The story of the comic opera centers around the love affair of an Arcadian shepherd, Strephon (Richard Woodring) and an Arcadian shepherdess and ward in chancery, Phyllis (Nancy Quinn). After many trials and misunderstandings the two are united by the Lord Chancellor.

An outstanding performance of the evening was given by Harriet Barber, singing the part of Queen of the Fairies. Miss Barber added an original touch to the opera by singing her love for "Lagerstedt." At an appropriate place John Magill sang a clever song about "Wally and Edward." In the supporting roles were Elizabeth Ann Huddleston, Alice Prime, and Louise Allen as the three fairies Celia, Leila, and Fleta.

The performance of the opera climaxed a week of masterful publicity. The campus was covered with brightly colored posters. On Wednesday morning handbills were distributed to students leaving the chapel, and Goddard, Wells, and Magill broadcast songs from a loud speaker in the Athenian hall window. The handbills were numbered, and the holder of the winning number was to receive two free tickets to the performance. No one turned in the "lucky number."

The costuming and the lighting effects of the opera were excellent. Most of the costumes were made on the campus by Ellen Sauer, mistress of the wardrobe, and her assistants. Stage manager for the affair was Maxwell Cornelius. Roy Talmage was ticket and publicity manager.

The end of the holidays found only two students in the hospital. Pat Mann, who was suffering from bronchitis, was released Friday. Martha May is still ill. Jack Clinkman, who has been recovering from appendicitis in a Chicago hospital, will return to school Monday.

panied by Mark Andrews, a student in the seminary and a graduate of Maryville college in the class of 1937.

At the Wednesday morning chapel service next week Rev. Norman Cook, pastor of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian church, Knoxville, will be the speaker. Mr. Cook is active in Young People's conference work in the Southern church, and has been on Maryville college campus several times in the summer at conferences.

College Nursery Moved; Campus Benches Painted

During the spring vacation, campus workers brought seven truck-loads of shrubs from the old college nursery on Dandridge pike, near Knoxville. Some of the shrubs will be used on the college lawn this spring.

This nursery, which has been maintained by Maryville college for several years, was moved to a new site on the college farm.

The benches on the campus were repainted during the vacation period.

Dr. Paul E. Davies Is YMCA Speaker Sunday

Dr. Paul E. Davies will speak to all men of the college on Sunday afternoon at the regular Y.M.C.A. worship service at 5:00 in Bartlett auditorium. He is a member of the faculty of the Presbyterian Theological seminary in Chicago, and will speak on Saturday to the men interested in seminaries. His talk on Sunday afternoon will be of interest to all Maryville men.

Dodd Speaks

heard. Dr. E. R. Hunter also heard some of Dodd's lectures at Chicago, and was considerably impressed by them.

Dodd's first important book was a biography of Nathaniel Macon, which established him as a great biographer. His most famous work is The Cotton Kingdom, which is used as a reference book in the college American history course. Dodd spent some time in the White House as secretary to President Wilson, while writing another important book, Woodrow Wilson and His Work.

Other books that Dodd has written are these: Life of Jefferson Davis, Statesmen of the Old South, Expansion and Conflict, Lincoln or Lee (probably his most classic work), and a History of the United States.

Dodd holds two degrees from American universities, and has honorary degrees from two others. He received his Ph. D. from the University of Leipzig.

A prominent figure in the Democratic party, Dodd frequently does much to shape the party's policies. He often aids in shaping the party platform, and on occasions he has written large parts of it.

Maryville Graduate Is Television Expert

Albert F. Murray, graduate of Maryville in 1915, had published in The Foundation, official publication of the Engineering society of Detroit, February, a preview of a talk on Television, which he gave recently before the Engineering society of Detroit and the Detroit—Ann Arbor section of the American Institute of Electrical engineers.

Mr. Murray, with a unique engineering background, has been engaged for the past eight years in television development, with the RCA-Victor company and the Philco Radio and Television corporation.

After receiving his A.B. degree at Maryville and his S. B. at Massachusetts Institute of technology, he entered the U.S. Air service. Following the war, he became engineer in charge of torpedo control for John Hayes Hammond, Jr., of Gloucester, Mass. Much of his time was spent on board submarines operating out of Boston and Newport.

As an assistant chief engineer of the Wireless Specialty company of Boston, Mr. Murray made trips from Detroit on Great Lakes steamers to perfect the radio direction-finders built by his company.

Faculty Skeletons

erature and held the position of Chairman of the Mission Study committee of the Y.W.C.A. Pleasant and jolly, Miss Jewell was a popular campus figure, and the 1908 Chilhowean gives this brief biography of her: "One who needed room to grow; so at the tender age of 2 she was transplanted to the wind-swept plains of Kansas."

Turning the pages of the 1914 Chilhowean, we came across this caption beneath the picture of Edwin R. Hunter, head of the English department: "He has been free with his talents and his ideas—when he has any." However, by the record which Dr. Hunter left behind him, we are led to believe that he must have been overflowing with talents and ideas. He was vice president, and president of Athenian; secretary of the Y.M.C.A. and of the Athletic association; president of the German club; and editor-in-chief of the "College Monthly." Dr. Hunter was also prominent in forensics, being on the debate squad for several years, and in 1913 he won the Athenian oratorical contest. It is just such a type of well-rounded student as this who is most likely to succeed in future life, and the record that Dr. Hunter has made since graduation stands as prooof of this statement.

Sunday evening at the Student Volunteer meeting, Charlie Theal will speak on the Mennonites. He will have an interesting display to illustrate his talk. In addition to this, special music is being planned.

J. T. Hunt recently accepted a position to teach during the coming year at the Castle Heights Military Academy, boys' preparatory school at Lebanon, Tennessee.

Spanish Club Meeting Held Last Wednesday

At a meeting of the Spanish club held Wednesday evening, Professor Robert L. Smith introduced various speakers, members of the club, who talked about their home countries. First was Gustavo Hernandez who talked about Cuba and showed some species of Cuban money. Reese Scull next talked about Southern California; Robert Lucero, about Mexico; Betty Seel, who showed a number of pictures, talked about Chile; and Julio Flores, about Puerto Rico.

Professors Entertain Chemistry Assistants

Professor and Mrs. George D. Howell and Dr. and Mrs. F. A. Griffitts entertained the assistants in the Chemistry department Thursday evening. The assistants, their hosts, and a former assistant, Mary Elizabeth Lyons, attended the showing of "Happy Landing," returning to the home of Dr. and Mrs. Griffitts afterwards for refreshments.

The entertainment of the assistants by the professors of this department is an annual affair.

Irene Browder Is Named May Queen By Senior Class

Final Election For Coveted Position Eliminates Louise Orr

Irene Browder was selected as May Queen by the members of the senior class in the final election held Wednesday morning in the philosophy classroom.

Irene Browder selected yesterday as her May Day attendants, Louise Orr and Evelyn Ferguson, who received more votes than any of the other defeated candidates in the May Queen election held this week. For king, Miss Browder has chosen James Proffitt, president of the senior class.

The primary elections, which were held March 23, resulted in the elimination of all candidates except Miss Browder and Louise Orr, who was defeated in the final voting.

Miss Browder has been prominent in dramatics throughout her college career, appearing in "Peter Ibbetson," "Lady Windemer's Fan," "Craig's Wife," and "First Lady," in which she took one of the leading roles. She is a member of Theta Alpha Phi and an expression graduate of last year.

As has been the custom in the past, the Queen will pick two other women students as attendants, but Miss Browder has not yet made this selection.

"Y" Holds Annual Business Meeting

Constitution Amendments To Be Proposed

The annual business meeting of the Y.M.C.A. will be held next Tuesday at 7:00 p.m. in Bartlett auditorium. Business will include reports by the president, the secretary and the treasurer.

Two amendments to the constitution of the Association are being proposed to the members of the Cabinet. One of these amendments has to do with the profits of the Y store not being used during the college year in which they are made; this amendment merely incorporates in the constitution a practice which has been followed for a number of years.

The other amendment would strike out a section regarding the Director of the Lyceum, much of which section has been outdated. The Y.M.C.A. will continue to cooperate with the management of the Artist's Series, and the Cabinet has passed a recommendation for the new "Y" administration in regard to it.

Deane Brown Made Bainonian President In Election Thursday

Results of the Bainonian election, which took place in Pearson's lobby March 31, have been released. The following will serve as officers for the third term: president, Deane Brown; vice president, Alice Whitaker; secretary, Phyllis Gessert; program secretaries, Mary Jo Husk and Sue Lupton; house chairmen, Margaret Lodwick and Sue Stevenson; pianist Bernice Smith; poster chairman, Miriam Berst; and sergeant-at-arms, Mary Alice Minear.

An amendment to the constitution was passed replacing the present three term year with two terms, corresponding with the two semesters of the school year.

Oratories For Contest Given Friday Afternoon

Preliminaries for the T. T. Alexander Oratorical contest were held Friday afternoon in the philosophy classroom. Judges were faculty members of the Bible department. Finals will be held at a later date, not decided upon as yet.

The T. T. Alexander Prize Fund was established in honor of one of Maryville's foreign missionaries. Prizes are awarded to winners of first and second places in the contest. The contest was open this year to men students of the College.

Television Expert Gives Chapel Talk

Philco Engineer Built His First Radio In MC Laboratory

Albert F. Murray, television expert, and engineer in the Philco Radio and Television Corporation addressed the student body in an extended chapel period Tuesday. After his talk on television, Mr. Murray gave students the opportunity of asking questions concerning his work. In answer to the often asked question of "How soon television?" Mr. Murray said that the big problem now was not the mechanical transmitters and receivers, but the difficulty and expense involved in securing interesting programs.

Later in the morning Mr. Murray lectured to Profesor Walker's physics class on the intricacies of the radio-controlled torpedo. Mr. Murray built the first successful radio-controlled torpedo after the World War while working for John H. Hammond, Jr.

Mr. Murray's engaging personality and his knowledge of the fields of radio and television made his talks especially interesting. He built his first radio in what is now the physics laboratory, and strung his first aerial between Science hall and Bartlett hall in 1912, while he was still a student in Maryville preparatory school.

Lagerstedt Talks To Peace Forum

Professor Kenneth R. Lagerstedt will address the Peace Forum Friday evening at 6:45 in the philosophy class room. Lagerstedt will speak on various phases of the present day European situation. A close student of German affairs, Mr. Lagerstedt will center his talk mainly around the Nazi dictatorship and Adolf Hitler's recent coup in Austria.

Lagerstedt, a professor of German at the college, has spent a number of years doing graduate work at the University of Heidleberg in Germany. His last trip to that country was in the summer of 1936. Because of his fluent German, Mr. Lagerstedt has been able to learn a great deal about the manners and customs of the German people, and therefore is well qualified to discuss the German situation.

After Mr. Lagerstedt's address an open forum discussion will be held. The committees which are to carry on the work of the forum for the coming year will be appointed at this meeting of the organization.

Night Must Fall, Joint Midwinter, Set For April 8

Wintermute, L. Black Take Leads In Mystery Thriller

The drama "Night Must Fall" is to be presented by Bainonian and Athenian societies in Voorhees chapel, April 8. This play, by Emlyn Williams, English writer, was first produced in 1935, and so comes to the Maryville stage rather early.

It has been called the greatest psychological play of the modern stage. The plot is no love story, but that of a criminal egotist, committing murder to maintain his superiority, and a suppressed girl who is strongly attracted to him. Though a serious play, it is full of broad humor for comic relief.

There is only one stage set for the whole performance, and the action covers a period of about two weeks. The prologue, given by the Lord Chief Justice (Edward Thomas), sums up the case to the pronouncement of a verdict, and then action flashes back

Freshman Debate Tournament Held

Men's Team From Teachers College Wins First, Second Places

The men's teams of the East Tennessee State Teachers college Johnson City, won first and second places in the debate in the freshman debate tournament held last Friday and Saturday on the Maryville campus.

The schools participating were East Tennessee Teachers college, Middle State Teachers college, King, Cumberland, University of Tennessee, and Maryville.

Frank Clement from Cumberland won first place in oratory, and Stwart Mahrer from the University of Tennesee won first place in extemporaneous speaking.

Maryville freshmen taking place in the tournament were Mary Darden, Ellen Losey, Annettee Medefind, Elizabeth Moore, Virginia Wheeler, Marianna Allen, Robert Lamont, Robert Short, William Felknor, Thomas Woolf, George Webster, Joseph Miser, and Ivan Blake.

Seniors Spring Spring Party In Bartlett Gym

The senior class will have another of its spring parties Saturday evening at Bartlett gymnasium. Roller skating, ping pong, and bridge will constitute the evening's entertainment. At this party for senior class members and their guests, Dr. and Mrs. David H. Briggs, Dr. and Mrs. Claude A. Campbell, Miss Mary Sloane Welsh, and Miss Dorothy Hunter will be the chaperones.

The roller skates will be secured from the Chilhowee park, Knoxville. Jessie Cassada is chairman of the committee in charge of the party, and is assisted by Jean Cross, Ed Brubaker, and Martin BryNildsen. Marian Lodwick, chairman of the refreshment committee, is assisted by Deane Brown and Elsworth Black.

Capacity Audience Hears Address By W E Dodd Monday

Condemns United States Lack Of Cooperation In Europe

A capacity audience heard William E. Dodd, former American ambassador to Germany, speak in Voorhees chapel Monday at 3 o'clock. Dr. Dodd was introduced by Verton M. Queener, professor of history and debate and a former student of Dr. Dodd's at the University of Chicago.

The audience greeted Dr. Dodd as he made his entrance upon the platform by rising en masse, and at the close of the address the listeners gave the speaker an ovation that only the best receive.

As was expected, Dr. Dodd spoke of the present situation in Germany and predicted that Hitler's territorial expansion in central Europe would not end with Austira, but that in the near future he would take Hungary and other countries along the Danube. Dr. Dodd opened his speech with a review

YWCA Cabinet Is Released By Bobo

Approved Members Are To Take Their Offices April 10

Helen Bobo, newly elected president of Y.W.C.A., has announced the following cabinet for next year: Catherine Pond and aJne Law, program; Ruth Mack, music; Sarah Bolton, devotions; Genevieve McCalmont, world fellowship; Joy Corrigan and Betty Seel, mission; Curtmarie Brown and Ruth Crawford, orphanage; Marguerite Justus, publicity-lyceum; Louise Proffitt, athletic; Etta Culbertson and Virginia Boys, social; Mary Jo Husk, Harriet Barber, and Jessie Curtis, librarians; Mary Chambers and Charlotte Moughton, "M" book.

These members have been approved by the Advisory council and will be installed with the regular candlelight service April 10. Nu Gamma leaders have been selected and are awaiting the approval of the cabinet.

Immediately after Y.W.C.A. Sunday there will be a meeting of all the old and new cabinet members.

"Dixie Vagabonds" Will Make Broadcast Monday

"The Dixie Vagabonds," popular local male quartet, are to broadcast from WNOX in Knoxville Monday evening from 7:45 to 8 o'clock.

The quartet is composed of John Magill and Carl Wells, who recently were outstanding in the comic opera, "Iolanthe," and Lloyd Wells and Donnell McArthur, who graduated from Maryville last year. After an audition on Wednesday evening of this week, the "Vagabonds" were offered a regular program, but want to see how well the Monday broadcast goes before closing a contract. Mr. Magill confides that at present they are in the market for a sponsor.

Some people have concrete opinions, thoroughly mixed and permanently set.

MANUSCRIPTS FOR CONTEST DUE APRIL 5

Women entering the Bates Oratorical contest must hand in their manuscripts by April 5. Manuscripts are to be handed to either Dr. Edwin R. Hunter or Miss Jessie K. Johnson. The Bates Oratorical contest is open this year to women of the junior and senior classes. A committee selected and indicated the subjects that are to be used in the orations. Each orator must choose her subject from among those indicated by the committee.

Herrick Young To Speak At Chapel

Speaker Was Missionary To Persia 10 Years

Dr. Herrick B. Young, Secretary of Missionary personnel of the Presbyterian Board of Foreign missions, who was for ten years a missionary in Iran (Persia), will speak at the Wednesday chapel service.

Completing undergraduate work at Indiana university, Dr. Young earned his M.A. at Columbia, and finished work for his Ph. D. degree at the University of Pennsylvania. At one time connected with the Associated Press, Dr. Young frequently contributed to American and British magazines and newspapers while he was in Persia, writing on political, religious and social trends in the near East, Central Europe, and Russia. He is the author of "Moslem Authors Say," "Islam Awakens," and two English textbooks adopted for use in Iranian schools.

Dr. Young has been visiting lecturer for the Carnegie Endowment for International peace. His work as secretary of the department of missionary personnel of the Presbyterian church in the U.S.A. keeps him in contact with the 1300 Presbyterian foreign missionaries in 16 countries.

Dr. Young is to have special interviews with students interested in foreign missionary work. Janet Talmage is in charge of those arrangements.

In addition to speaking in the chapel Wednesday, Dr. Young is to address the Kiwanis club.

Major Cards Given To Freshman Class

M'Clelland Discusses Choice Of Majors

After the Wednesday morning chapel service, Dr. Frank D. McClelland talked to the freshman class on the selection of major subjects. Cards for the registration of majors were distributed. These cards are to be filled in by the head of the department in which the major is to be taken, and filed in the personnel office by May 2.

Dr. McClelland announced that anyone desiring advice on the choice of a vocation or a major should consult the personnel office or the office of the Director of Curriculum. A series of research pamphlets on the requirements of 70 different professions is available at the Personnel office. Any one of these pamphlets may be borrowed for a period of three days.

Hunter Releases Seniors Elected To Honor Society

Crawford, '35, Is Elected President; Lancaster, Vice President

Twelve members of the senior class have been elected to the Maryville college honor society, Alpha Gamma Sigma, Dr. E. R. Hunter, secretary of the organization, announced today. Those honored are Edward Brubaker, Mary Frances Dewell, Clara Dale Echols, Constance Johnson, John Lancaster, Helen Maguire, Louise Orr, Frances Perrin, Stanley Phillips, Ruth Sylvester, Jack Thelin, and Joseph Wallace.

Requirements of Alpha Gamma Sigma are substantially the same as those of the national honorary fraternity, Phi Beta Kappa. Membership is limited to ten percent of the graduating class, and is restricted to candidates for the A.B. degree, home economics students having a society of their own. Scholastic requirements include a minimum average of 6.5 for seven semesters work.

Alpha Gamma Sigma, organized five years ago, now has an enrollment of sixty-eight. Included in this number are some six honorary members from among Maryville's most distinguished alumni and several members of the faculty and staff who are qualified in their own right. Five of the faculty have been included in the society automatically by virtue of their membership in Phi Beta Kappa.

At a business meeting held early this week, the society elected Dorothy N. Crawford, '35, president and John Lancaster, '38, vice president. Dr. Hunter was elected secretary-treasurer last year for a term of three years.

Orr, Watt Report Parish Progress

Dr. H. E. Orr and Rev. F. R. Watt report continued progress in the work of the Maryville College Parish. Under the Parish set-up around fifty students from the College go out each week-end to help in Sunday school and young people's work in nearby communities.

Conferences are held frequently in Dr. Orr's class room at the College. Mr. Watt is in the College Library each Wednesday where he holds conferences with small groups of the workers and with individuals relative to problems arising in the different fields.

A training course for vacation Bible workers will be conducted for the group at their conference meetings on Wednesday mornings during the month of April. The meetings for this course will be immediately after chapel. All students who care to take the course are invited to enroll. A number of the students assisted with Bible school work last summer. It is expected that a larger number will assist at the various outposts this coming summer. Others will assist with similar programs in home communities.

Two Short Plays Given At Studio Tea Held By Dramatic Art Students

On March 23, a studio tea was given in the Fine Arts studio under the direction of Mrs. Hamilton, teacher of dramatics in the Fine Arts department.

Two one act plays were presented. "Where But In America" was given by Mary Leete, Etta Culbertson, and Margaret Peters. The second play was "There's Always A Tomorrow" presented by Virginia Kemmer, Margaret Peters, Ruth West, and Esther McCollum.

John Guigou acted as announcer. At the end of the program, a social hour was enjoyed, and refreshments were served to a group of 50 invited guests.

Thursday evening, about 24 students, workers in the Administrative building and in the Post Office, accompanied by several faculty members, had a chicken dinner at Chilhowee Inn, Walland.

After the chicken dinner, a social time and games were enjoyed.

Professor Tells Impressions Of Dodd Received In Graduate Work

Monday afternoon a weatherbeaten little man leaned on the pulpit in Voorhees chapel and faced an audience which filled the entire auditorium. His appearance was disappointing to those who had come prepared for the physique and classic face of a great scholar and statesman. When he began to speak, they were even more disappointed. His voice was thin, high-pitched, and monotonous.

And yet five minutes after he began his address, he had the attention of the audience and he kept it for over an hour. The conclusion is obvious: William E. Dodd needs no classic appearance, no oratorical delivery. What he says is vastly more important than how he says it.

The personality of Dr. Dodd is further revealed by the impressions Professor Verton M. Queener got of him while doing graduate work at the University of Chicago. On one ocassion, Mr. Queener relates, a friend came with him to one of Dodd's lectures and was introduced to the historian afterwards. Dodd shook hands, spoke a few minutes, and passed on down the hall. The friend turned to Mr. Queener and exclaimed, "Good gracious! He looks a hole through you, doesn't he?"

As evidenced by his numerous references to Christianity in the lecture, Dodd is a religious man. Before starting on his Southern tour, he addressed a Presbyterian congregation in Washington. His subject was "World Peace," and he read a chapter from the Gospel of Mark. Imagine his amazement when the congregation sang a military song for the closing hymn. He told M. Queener that he was "dumfounded."

Dodd has a farm in Virginia of which he is very proud. A firm believer in terrace farming, he has one of the few farms in the section using that method of cultivation. He told Mr. Queener of the difficulty he has had instructing his farm hand how to construct a terrace. "You know," he said, "that fellow can't make a terrace yet. I always have to run the first furrow myself."

One illustration of a Dodd lecture Mr. Queener remembers in particular. The historian was discussing "Religion in the Old South," and related an experience of his early North Carolina days. The country preacher met Dodd outside the church and told him, "Will, you're going to spend enternity in Hell." Dodd was naturally curious and so asked, "How long is eternity?" The minister asked him to imagine a solid steel ball the size of the earth and the feathers of an angel's wings brushing back and forth over the ball. Eternity, he said, would last until the ball was worn away.

Professor Queener considers Dodd one of America's greatest writers on historical subjects. Others surpass him in fame as a historian, but none can rival him in the matter of presentation. Of his teaching ability, Queener says Dodd is possibly the greatest lecturer he has ever heard.

College Newspapers

A survey of college and university newspapers as to faculty censorship might reveal one of the several paradoxes in higher education.

Students in colleges and universities are urged—by their professors—to improve and shape their minds, and to do their own thinking.

But when students follow their professors' advice and do their own thinking, what happens? As long as the students follow the conventional groove—we almost said rut—everything is just lovely.

If students start asking embarrassing questions or if they fail to see that some time—wornout customs and methods are of value, the viewing with alarm begins—to put it softly.

College men and women are not children. They are students who are being trained to take charge of affairs. Why not grant fuller scope in their discussion and viewpoints?

What if student views are not always the best—but by what standards—or their judgement the soundest? If they are wrong, they will soon find it out by the pressure of events.

College and university editors should be given a free hand, and then made to shoulder the responsibility supposedly theirs.

Tennis Courts

The trite expression, "First come, first served," might be changed to "First come, first and last served" to fit the tennis court situation at Maryville college.

The first ones on the courts seem to feel that they have an option for the remainder of the afternoon and act accordingly, with little regard for others wanting to play.

We wish it understood that we are not hitting the members of the tennis team. Few would begrudge the much-needed practice they do.

Our preachment is against those who insist upon playing singles when several others are waiting for a chance to play, and against those who hog the courts all afternoon.

Courtesy and sportsmanship should logically be the solution to this problem—that is, if those two were not sometimes held in a bad light, and if they were given a chance.

Perhaps a more logical plan would be to have open periods of about an hour each, for which students, together with those playing with them, would have to sign up in advance.

Those later than 15 minutes for their period would be required to forfeit their court to any others waiting to play.

A plan such as this might not solve all of the problems connected with the courts, but it might at least allow more people to play.

This editorial was written before we received the new rules for the tennis courts, published on the sports page. Happily we pull in our neck to a more comfortable position and ask that the editorial be considered merely as a space-filler.

Paragraphics

The annual chapel cycle has not yet started for theological seminary representatives, in whom some eight or ten seniors may possibly be interested, and whom we like to call the "Four I Boys:" (1) I am indeed grateful for this great opportunity—(2) I am reminded of a joke—(3) I want to speak for about ten minutes (if they only would)—(4) I will be on the campus all day to talk with you about anything (to sign you up, of course)—.

* * * *

We hear that the committee has tried to make the senior invitations complete. Besides the class roll, we will have pictures, the class officers, student council representatives, and various class committees—everything but an index and a joke section. Perhaps the innovation of the latter might soften the sting of the prices. Oh well, most of us are college seniors but once.

LITERARY CORNER Don't let other book critics mislead you let us do it.

"And So—Television" (modernized edition of "And So—Victrola"). The book reveals this startling fact: within two short years two-thirds of the homes in America will either have a television receiver or will not have a television receiver. At last the truth can be told—the reason why television sets have not been released to the public: a staff of research experts has been trying to perfect a device to enable college dormitory heads to detect by remote control whether anyone is looking at television "movies" during study hours. Wonder if some of the inconsiderates won't have their television sets tuned so high at six a.m. that the pictures will be seen all through the dormitory, waking everyone? Our official rating of the book: XXXXX and lots of love.

"From Rags To Riches." The story of a poor but industrious and ambitious college boy who succeeded in becoming a man who thought nothing of using fifty dollar bills to throw away his chewing gum in. How did he make such a phenomenal rise from poverty to success? You can do it too—and you—and YOU! Never say die—just win an Irish sweepstakes and marry a millionaire's daughter, as he did. This book not recommended to be read by children under three.

Signs of the Times

By OTTO PFLANZE

OBJECTION

WILLIAM E. DODD'S CONDEMNATION of high tariffs is particularly interesting in connection with an article about the aluminum tariff published in a local newspaper last week. Hearings are now being conducted in Washington preparatory to the signing of a reciprocal agreement with England which would lower the tariff on aluminum. The article, obviously aluminum company inspired, urged in boldface type, "People in this community should write their Congressmen and Senators and offer strenuous objection to this proposed tariff reduction."

Over the article was the scare headline, "New Tariff on Aluminum Would Destroy Our Big Industry." The same editor condemned the Nazi government a few months ago and called Hitler a "crack-pot dictator." New he defends the very thing (high tariffs) that almost makes dictatorship an economic necessity for countries with few natural resources and overwhelming population.

* * * *

MONOPOLY

AS FOR DESTROYING "OUR BIG INDUSTRY," the aluminum company is not likely to be destroyed by any new tariff. The aluminum corporation has assets of $175,000,000, sells about 90 percent of all aluminum moving in interstate commerce, and in 1936 reported profits of $20,000,000. Last year the federal government charged it with rigging the entire world market of aluminum. So there's no necessity for crying over the plight of the aluminum company. A tariff reduction certainly wouldn't do the industry any harm, and it might do the consumers a lot of good.

The article says, "The decrease in the tariff will no doubt hold up further expansion and useful work for our local people and be very injurious to this flourishing American industry and its thousands of Blount County workers." The author forgot the more significant fact that such a tariff works far more to the detriment of the working man by raising prices and making the prohibited goods more expensive in the home market. The tariff may increase employment, but it has the far more important evil effect of raising the cost of living. It is a vicious circulation from which there is no escape—unless by lowering the tariff.

* * * *

HYPOCRISY

ONE OF THE GREATEST BARRIERS to world peace is the tariff. It is largely the tariff which engenders hatred between nations and not quarrels between fascistic, democratic, and communistic forms of government. As for the Englishman, Darvall, pointed out in one of his addresses here last year, the world is not enveloped in a struggle between Fascism and Communism but in the age-long struggle for economic superiority.

The United States, which hypocritically prides herself on her love of peace, has erected one of the most formidable tariffs in the world. The Smoot-Hawley Tariff of the Hoover administration carried protectionism to a point which threatened the complete strangulation of American import trade. And yet Americans wonder why Germany, Italy and, Japan (who are in severe economic straits) must use armed force in order to gain the new markets so necessary to their very existence! It was a significant statement that Dodd made when he said, "America is just as responsible for the drift toward disaster." It was still more significant when he went on to say that a minority in the United States scrapped the first great constructive move for world peace because it would have meant reduction of the tariff.

STRANGULATION

THE INTIMATE RELATIONSHIP between the tariff and peace is seen in the fact that 42 peace organizations participating in a Washington conference this month urged the breaking down of economic obstructions to a resumption of normal international trade." Last fall, Dr. Edward Bleakney, speaking before the student body on Armistice day, gave as his subject "World Peace" and perhaps the most important point in the address concerned the ill feeling between nations caused by the tariff. Only when these economic barriers are broken down can any attempt at world peace be successful.

The logic of free trade has never been successfully refuted, and yet nations have steadily abandoned it by erecting higher and higher tariff walls. Competition has become so keen in modern industrialized society that entrepreneurs have repeatedly sought government intervention in their search for greater profits. The American political scientist, Frederick L. Schuman, has stated, "If protectionism is pushed to its logical limit, each State will exclude all imports from other States while it continues its efforts (obviously vain in such a situation) to market its own exports abroad. Under such circumstances, all international trade will be strangled and all the national economies will be left to suffocate within their closed compartments."

TALK OF THE WEEK . By Arlene Phelps

Of Importance To All Students

(An Editorial)

Almost without exception, college students are beset on every hand with demands on their usually thin purse. Why, then should young people make the effort to protect themselves and their families with life insurance against risks that are likely to occur several years hence?

Most college men and women are looking forward sometime to marriage. It isn't hard to understand why both parties are more easily convinced that a "lasting love" exists when one is willing to protect the other financially as well as give his less tangible love.

Life insurance has ceased to be a thing that one pays for until he dies and then his family collects. Modern insurance contracts include provisions for a monthly retirement income for the policy owner after he reaches retirement age.

Future doctors, lawyers, minister or other professional people owning several thousand dollars of life insurance, who must spend years in graduate study, find that they are able to borrow funds for study much easier and at more favorable interest rates than those who have no collateral to protect their creditors.

Even though you may not at present be in the market for insurance, we suggest that you talk over these matters with a life insurance agent at your earliest convenience.

YW Members Selected To Help On "M" Book

This past week plans have been made and work carried forward for the publication of the annual "M" book. Members of the YWCA, Charlotte Moughton and Mary Chambers, have been appointed to assist Biff Alston, editor, and William Felknor, business manager. The editor asks that in cooperation with the staff, all societies hold their elections early so that that part of the book may be completed.

Senior Play Committee Considers Four Dramas

Reese Scull, chairman of the senior play committe, announced Wednesday that the final choice of a play will be from one of the following four: "Loyalties" by John Galsworthy, "The Enemy" by Channing Pollock, "To Meet the Prince" by A. A. Milne, or "The Barretts of Wimpole Street" by Rudolf Besier. Other members serving on the committee are Gloria Miller, Max Cornelius, and Edward Brubaker.

Boys Meet Girls

Alpha Sigma and Theta Epsilon societies will hold a joint meeting Saturday evening at 6:45. A mountaineer program will be presented in a real mountain atmosphere. The scene will be laid in a log cabin, and mountain music by various members will be the main feature.

to the events leading up to the trial. John Wintermute as Dan plays the main role, and Lois Black as Olivia is the leading lady. Marian Lodwick takes the part of Mrs. Branson, an old lady and aunt of Olivia; Gerald Beaver, an English fop named Hubert Laurie, is in love with Olivia: Sara Bolton (Mrs. Terence) as the cockney housekeeper and Frank Brink (Inspector Belize) as a Scotland Yard man are expected to be very entertaining. The cast is completed by Alice Whitaker as Nurse Libby and Louise Allen as a housemaid.

The production staff is headed by Max Cornelius as production manager. Edith Pierce is business manager, William McGill stage manager, and Carol Dawn Ward costume manager. Mrs. Nita Eckles West is directing.

Free advice is the kind that costs you nothing unless you act upon it.

Davies To Speak

Miss Katherine C. Davies, head of the department of Fine Arts, will talk to the members of the Ministerial association, Monday evening, on the value of music in a worship service. She will give the story of religious music, and tell of the proper place it should play in every church service.

Orchestra Prepares For Spring Concert On May 3

The orchestra is working now on its spring concert which will be given May 3. A variety of numbers is being rehearsed, one of outstanding being a Mendelssohn concerto for piano and orchestra which will feature Zula Vance as soloist. The program will also include "Tales from the Vienna Woods" by Straus, and the popular "Egmont" overture.

Another performance of the orchestra is being planned for the closing week of school, probably about May 31.

PITCHING PROSPERITY

One of the most pleasing of many items about the performance of the Scots in their initial diamond appearance last Tuesday was the pitching prowess shown by the four twirlers sent to the mound by Coach Honaker.

Ripper Collins was the only one of them to toil more than two innings, but all showed plenty of stuff to the befuddled Hiwassee stick-wielders in the time they were in action.

Collins worked four frames, granting two singles and fanning eight men.

Copeland held the Tiger bats in check for two cantos.

Parker pitched the seventh and eighth without signs of uprising by the opposition. He struck out the side in the seventh on eleven pitched balls.

Short, frosh prospect, was sent in in the ninth and performed very creditably with a swooping side-arm delivery that might have caused more than one broken back in the Tiger contingent had it been used to fullest advantage.

CAPTAIN COLLINS NOW

Speaking of Mr. Collins, reminds us that that sterling gentleman of the Old Sooth was elected to the captaincy of the current baseball crop in a meeting held for the purpose early this week.

The Ripper, as he is affectionately know both by friends and batters, was the workhorse of the hurling corps last year, and a good one. He won six and dropped three for a .750 average.

Collins succeeds Lamar "Toots" Blazer in the lead role, and is expected to be a worthy successor in his own quiet manner. In fact it's a cinch.

NO OFFENCE INTENDED

And now my Frrrands . . . what you and I have wanted for lo, these many unhappy moons—a guest columnist. And what a guest columny-ist! Mr. Charles (Ain't Lufkin Grand) Sullivan—for it is none other—has snooped and swooped in and about the Maryville scene this week and is going to dump the whole sordid story in your lap. (This fantasy is purely a product of the Sullivan mind and is fictitious in the extreme. Any fancied resemblance to living persons or actual events is unstudied on Mr. Sullivan's part you may be sure.) Take over, sir:

CHARLES SULLIVAN

"In between squirts of percipitation, that rare condition here at Maryville, Coach Thrower's trackmen have been holding their time trials this week. The three Bairds and Talmage were very prominent in the weeks trials. The 100 yard dash, 220 low hurdles, discus and the mile have been run off. The trials will be continued during the coming week.

(bring your films to us for developing —plug)

"In the hundred dash, James Joe "Boll Weavel" Etheredge came in for second place and Vernon Lloyd was third. Talmage also ran (came in first I believe). Gene Orr and Winnie Corriston won 2nd and 3rd place respectively in the low hurdles (there's a rumor that a dark horse named Talmage came in just ahead of Orr—can't say definitely whether or not this is true—will check up and forget it.)

(plug—quality photo finishing)

"The little Baird turned in a fair mile in 4.57 seconds. Bruce Morgan was second with the middle-sized Baird third. Brothers Weldon and Bill held a discus tossing contest with big Baird holding a slight edge.

"In the javelin throw it also was all Baird—Bill, 1st; Boydson, 2nd; Weldon —what's left? oh yes—3rd. There must be a typographical error here somewhere—where's Talmage????

"Danny Florida Flash Shelfer has dealt the team a crushing blow by becoming a hold-out. This leaves a serious vacancy in the pole vault. The winged, webbed feet of this demon of the swampland will be sorely missed this season.

(other plug—have your mug recorded for posterity—visit us—we guarantee results)" Ed note: What kind?

Gillingham Plays Morrow For Top Net Team Rank

Mars Hill Here Friday To Open Season With Scots

Eliminations in the spring tennis tournament have progressed to where only the final match remains to be played. As in last year's spring tournament and the fall tournament this year, the finals are to be played between Ed Gillingham and Frank Morrow.

Both Gillingham and Morrow are veterans and were slated to come through all right. Picking the winner of the finals is another matter, as they are evenly matched. The odds seem to favor Gillingham slightly, but if Morrow wins it will be no astonishing upset.

A. R. McCammon proved to be one of the surprises in the tournament. McCammon, a freshman, was seeded way down the line, but upset things no little bit when he took Augestine in the quarterfinals after three sets. Again in the semifinals, McCammon made Gillingham work to take two sets in the three set bout.

There were no other outstanding upsets, although Captain Colombo made Frank Morrow play his best before he was finally eliminated in the semifinals.

Other matces ran true to form, and the first of next week should find the placement matches completed.

MARS HILL FRIDAY

Maryville will play its first intercollegiate tennis match of the season next Friday afternoon when the Scotties meet the net men from Mars Hill on the Maryville courts.

The Scotty squad will present a strong front to the men from Mars Hill, but the dual match will be no easy win.

The exact positions of the Maryville men have not as yet been fixed, but the team will probably be composed of five of the following: Gillingham, Morrow, McCammon, Colombo, Augestine, VanCise, and Akana.

Oldsters Creak Into Action Against Youth

Tennis is slated to get under way in proper form this afternoon when the varsity team meets the tired business men of Maryville in a practice match.

The tired business men have followed their standard, the old rocking chair, to victory over the younger set for the past several years. They are expecting to do the same this afternoon if the weather and the varsity squad will permit.

The T.B.M. team is seriously weakened, however, by the loss of Dr. Lloyd, who has been one of the main stays of the team. Pete Kosloski has changed sides since last year, however; so the gentlemen from town stand a fair chance.

Sophs Grab Both Boys, Girls Events In Water Contest

Sophomore swimming teams made a clean sweep in the intramural swimming meet held last night in Bartlett pool by taking both boy's and girl's contests. The sophomore boys' team massed a total of 26 points while the sophomore girls' team came in with 30 points, each to take their respective divisions.

Trailing five points behind the sophomore boys were the juniors with 21 points, the seniors with 12 points and the meek and lowly freshmen with 10. The freshmen girls took second in the girls' division with 17 points; there were, however, only two teams in the girls' meet.

Brubaker, senior, and Crane, junior, tied for the high scoring position of the meet. The girl totaling the most points was Miss Hayes with 13 points.

Most outstanding among the teams in the meet was the two man team entered by the seniors composed of Brubaker and Brown. This team came in third, and it was in the counting positions most of the time.

Results of the mets were:

Davidson Faces Scot Cindermen Next Saturday

Tryouts Scheduled To Be Concluded Today

The Davidson Wildcats will grace the Maryville cinderpath next Saturday for the second in the Scot-'Cat series.

Davidson won handily last year, and will be fovared in the coming meet. The Maryville outfit promises at least a close score and a possible victory, however.

In between spells of rain, Coach Bob Thrower's thinly clads have been holding time trials during the past week. With Roy Talmage and the Baird brothers dominating the trials, the trackmen turned in some good times for several different events.

Talmage started off the first day of trials by turning in a couple of wins in the hundred and 220 yard low hurdles. Talmage ran the hundred in 10.4 seconds. Jim Etheredge ran a close second, with Vernon Lloyd third. In the hurdles Talmage skimmed over the obstacles with the fine time of 26.8 seconds. Gene Orr, lanky junior, ran second with "Winnie" Corrison taking third place.

Boydson Baird turned in a fair mile, winning the event in 4.57 minutes. Bruce Morgan ran a close second, with Bill Baird taking third. Weldon and Bill Baird each tossed the discus for 116 feet, with Weldon holding the slight advantage by whirling the platter 116' 9" for first, and Bill tossing the circle 116' 3" for second place.

In the trials which were continued yesterday Jim Etheredge took the high jump with a mark of 5' 6" and Junior Odell got a leap of 19' 8" in the broad jump. Guy Propst took the shot with 36 feet.

Don Rugh nosed out Bruce Morgan in the two mile run by about a foot. The time was 11:10.

Diamondites Out After Second Win In Ohio Game

Hiwassee Falls Before Scot Batting Prowess In Opener

An early season treat is on hand for baseball fans this afternoon as the Honakermen face Ohio University in the second diamond engagement of the season. They will be out for another win to hang in the records, having trounced Hiwassee last Tuesday 9-0.

If last year's game is any indication of what to expect, then today's game will be a real dogfight. The Ohioans pulled the 1937 scrap out of the fire in the tenth after the Scots had tied it up in the last of the ninth at 2-2. Most of those Scots are on the scene this year, and a victory over Peden's men would be sweetmeat indeed to them.

The Hiwassee affair gave Coach Honaker only a rough picture of what his latest edition can do under pressure. For the most part there wasn't any pressure. Maryville went ahead in the second, counting a lone run on two hits and a walk. From that point it was mainly a matter of how many more for the Scots, the Tigers behaving very meekly under the influence of Rip Collins mound work.

Two more came over in the next inning when Parker walked, Wilburn got a single, and Burris provided transportation with a hit over second.

Collins was replaced by Copeland in the fifth after stinting Hiwassee to two hits and striking out eight in the first four innings.

The next run making splurge came in the last of the seventh, when four runs made the count 7-0. Hernandez walked and advanced on a balk. Parker and Odell then singled, Wilburn was hit by a pitched ball and infield outs by Burris and Evers added the finishing touches. Two more tallies in the eighth gave the Highlanders a 9-0 edge, but the Tigers counted their lone marker in the ninth on two hits and an infield error.

Baird Is Elected YMCA President For Coming Year

Morgan, Hunt, Thomas And Brink Also Get Offices

The Y.M.C.A. election of officers for 1938-39 was held Wednesday in Bartlett hall. Weldon Baird was elected president to succeed Marvin Minear; Bruce Morgan, vice president; George Hunt, secretary; and Edward Thomas, treasurer. Frank Brink was chosen freshman representative to the advisory board. Installation will take place on Sunday, May 1.

WELDON BAIRD

Baird is at present business manager of the Chilhowean and treasurer of the Y.M.C.A. He has been outstanding in athletics here, lettering for two years in track, three years in basketball, and is president of the Athletic Board of Control. He was business manager of the "M" book and president of his sophomore class.

Morgan is editor-in-chief of the Chilhowean and further distinguished himself by making the highest grade-point average in the junior class and the second in the school last semester. He is a letter man in track and was for one year a member of the Highland Echo staff.

Hunt, a sophomore, is a varsity debater, a member of the present "Y" cabinet, a reporter on the Echo, and an apprentice on the Chilhowean staff. Thomas is active in student dramatics, having had important parts in several plays in the last two years, and is treasurer of the Ministerial association.

Night Must Fall Well Received By Audience Of 600

Acting Of Wintermute As Criminal Egotist Makes Hit

"Night Must Fall," bid of Bainonian and Athenian societies for the coveted Theta Alpha Phi cup, received the overwhelming applause of approximately 600 hundred last evening in Voorhees chapel. Giving an excellent interpretation of what has been called the "greatest psychological play of the modern stage," the society players were called back for repeated curtain calls.

From the opening prologue of the Lord Chief Justice until the closing scene in which the manacled Dan is led away, the play held the undivided attention of the audience. The unexpected twists and turns of the plottion kept all waiting to see what was to happen next. Though a serious play, it was filled with humorous situations for comic relief.

High spot of the evening's performance was the acting of John Wintermute. A comparatively newcomer to the Voorhees stage, Wintermute gave a gripping interpretation of the crim-

U-T Dean Talks To M.C. Faculty Club

Lecture Is On Vocational Guidance

Dr. Fred C. Smith, dean of the graduate school and academic dean of the University of Tennesse spoke at the Maryville faculty club on Monday evening. His subject for the evening was "Vocational Guidance," in which he has done much work. He spoke of a philosophy of vocational guidance, the elements that must be included in a program of vocational guidance, and the kind of a program that a liberal arts college could have that would include vocational guildance.

Dr. Smith holds three degrees from Simpson College, Iowa, two from Harvard University, and one from Columbia University. He was instructor in music and vocational courses in several schools in the West, and was the National director of the YMCA Vocational Engineering schools for a time. He taught at Harvard for two years, and was Registrar and Director of Placement and lecturer in the vocational education and guidance there for seven years. He has been at the University of Tennesse since 1936.

Seminary President Will Speak At Vespers Sunday

Dr. Frank H. Caldwell, Ph.D., D.D., President of the Presbyterian Theological seminary in Louisville, Kentucky will be the speaker at the vesper service this Sunday evening. There are several former Maryville students in the seminary at Louisville.

The chapel period Wednesday morning will not be the usual length, but a longer service has been planned for the Friday morning service. Members of the faculty and the choir will present a Good Friday program.

Special Easter Sunrise Service Plans Are Made

Rites In Ampitheatre To Follow Those Of Moravians

At 5:30 Easter morning the open-air amphitheater in the college woods will be the scene of a service similar in many respects to the impressive Resurrection morning rites which have been observed by the Moravians in old Salem, N.C., for three centuries.

People travel from distant parts of the country to take part in Salem's traditional Easter sunrise service. Ralph R. Colbert, of the college music department, tells of staying up practically all night in order to be sure of getting a good place at one of the services.

The college band will sound the summons for the sunrise service Easter by starting to play at 4:30. Antiphonal music will be played by the band and a special group of trumpeters. The service, scheduled for 5:30, will find the glee clubs, the choir, the band and the newly organized verse choir taking part. The amphitheater, providing an ideal setting for such a service, will resound with the music of the band, the singing of the choir and glee clubs, the recitations of Mrs. Nita E. West's verse choir, and the joyful responses of the congregation.

The service has been planned largely because few students will have the opportunity of being at their homes for Easter, and a special service here seemed desirable.

WCTU Publication Has Article By Dr. Lloyd On Youth And Liquor

"Youth Facing the Liquor Problem," an article by Dr. Ralph W. Lloyd, appeared in the March issue of the Union Signal, the national publication of the Women's Christian Temperance Union. This article is the digest of an address which Dr. Lloyd delivered at the Tennessee State W.C.T.U. Convention in Johnson City, last October.

Dr. Lloyd said that the youth of today should do three things concerning the liquor problem: (1) be informed about what has happened; (2) be realistic about what is now happening; and (3) be determined about what is to happen. After they have learned the past and present history of the liquor problem, they should resolve to do their utmost in bringing about a solution.

Forensic Teams Leave Thursday For Nat'l Meets

Two Teams Leave At Same Time For State Tourney

Maryville debaters leave next Thursday to attend the National Pi Kappa Delta convention at Topeka, Kansas, which lasts from April 18 through April 22. Curtmarie Brown and Helen Maguire constitute the women's team, and Otto Pflanze and Arnold Kramer, the men's, with Louise Proffitt representing Maryville in oratory and extemporaneous speaking.

Eight hundred schools have signed up for attendance at the convention. Pi Kappa Delta chapters from all over the United States will be represented. Eight rounds of debates will be held.

Miss Proffitt will also take part in a new feature of the convention, a congress made up of delegates from the various provinces. As Senator, she will introduce a bill on farm tenancy.

Professor Queener announced Thursday, "There will be no eliminations. We'll take part in all the rounds." The debaters will stay at the Jayhawk hotel, which is to be the headquarters of the convention.

Leaving at the same time are two other teams and an orator for the State tornament of Murfreesboro. Harwell Proffitt, Clifford Proctor, Miriam Waggoner, Sara Lee Hellums, and Arda Walker will represent Maryville there. The tournament lasts from Friday morning through Saturday evening.

Faculty Members Attend Meeting

Briggs To Read Paper At Association

Three Maryville faculty members are to attend the annual meeting of the Tennessee College association, branch of the Tennessee Education association, to be held in Nashville, April 13 and 14. The Association, composed of all Tennessee colleges and universities, usually has about 30 or 40 of them represented.

Dr. Ralph W. Lloyd, president of Maryville; Dr. David H. Briggs, head of the department of psychology and education; and Dr. Frank B. McClleland, director of personnel, plan to leave Tuesday afternoon for the meeting.

Dr. Briggs, meeting with the teachers of psychology and education is to read a paper giving the results of a survey he has just completed to determine what the teacher-educating institutions are doing to prepare teachers to improve public instruction according to a new state program.

Mrs. Snyder To Address YW Meeting On Sunday

At the Sunday meeting of Y.W.C.A., Mrs. Grace Pope Snyder will speak on "Spiritual Values and Material Objects." She will point out how the spiritual values are tied up with material objects, and how we can make the use of material things bring forth spiritual values.

There will also be special music.

McMurray Dies Wednesday After Short Illness From Meningitis

DR. J. H. McMURRAY

Was Head Of Department Of Social Sciences For 18 Years

RITES HELD FRIDAY

Dr. James Henry McMurray, head of the department of social sciences at Maryville college since 1920, died Wednesday morning after a short illness from meningitis. He was stricken Sunday morning and given treatment at the Burchfield hospital in Maryville. He was 67.

Funeral services were held Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the New Providence Presbyterian church, Maryville. Dr. J. A. McAfee, pastor of the church, and Dr. R. W. Lloyd, president of the College, officiated at the service.

Dr. McMurray received the A.B. degree from Oberlin college (Ohio) in 1897; A.M. from Harvard university in 1901; Ph. D. from James Millikin university (Ill.) in 1908; the honorary degree of L.H.D. from Lincoln college (Ill.) in 1921; the honorary degree of LL.D. from Huntington college (Ind.) in 1937.

Before coming to Maryville college he was president of Huntington (formerly Central) college, Indiana, for three years and president of Lincoln college, Illinois, for 13 years. He served with the Red Cross during and after the World War. He came to his position at Maryville college in 1920.

From its organization in 1926 until 1938 Dr. McMurray served as president of the Smoky Mountain Athletic conference. He was a member of Pi Gamma Mu, national social science honor fraternity, of Sigma Delta Psi, national athletic fraternity, of the American Economics association, National Education association, and various other organizations. He was an elder in the Presbyterian church.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Kathryn McMurray, his father E. G. McMurray, one son, Jean Gordon McMurray of Johnson City, two daughters, Mrs. J. Alvin Keen of Knoxville, Mrs. E. D. Howard of Cleveland, Ohio, a brother, Raymond, of Huntington, Ind., and a sister, Mrs. C. A. Phillips of Iowa City, Iowa, and nine grandchildren.

May Day Pageant Set For April 30

Old English Idea Will Be Carried Out

An Old English May day will be the theme of this year's May day which will take place on April 30 in the College ampitheatre with Irene Browder as queen and James Proffitt, king. This will be the first of the cycle of four May day themes to be carried out in successive years under the direction of Mrs. Verton Queener and Mrs. Nita Eebles West.

After the procession in which representatives of the various classes will take part, there will be authentic English folk songs, fold dances, and folk lore. These will be contained in five episodes. To carry out the English lore, Reese Scull will act as Robin Hood; Connie Johnson, as Maid Marian. Seventy-five girls will take part in the dances.

On Wednesday morning after chapel the junior, sophomore, and freshman classes will choose their representatives for the May Day procession.

Psychology Dep't Helps In County

Achievement Tests Given In Local Schools

The psychology department of Maryville college on Friday aided the Blount County schools in giving their annual achievement tests to pupils just finishing the eighth grade.

Dr. Newell T. Preston is in charge of the project, and gave the tests at Maryville high school. Dr. David H. Briggs was the administrator at Everett high school, and college students from the class in elementary statistics went out to the smaller schools.

These tests are used as a basis for promotion for senior high school and also to aid in adapting curriculum to needs. The Kuhlman-Anderson Intelligence test and the Metropoitan Achievement test were used.

After these tests are given, the students of statistics, testing, and mental measurements will do the scoring and work up the raw data into tangible statements of results. Findings will be given to the county superintendent and principals for their use.

Holy Week Meditations To Be Innovated This Year

An innovation this year will be a series of Holy Week meditations to be held during the lunch hour of each day from Monday to Saturday inclusive.

These worship programs will be held in the Y.W.C.A. room, and will begin at 12:40 and last until 1:00. The purpose of the meetings is to direct thought for a few minutes each day to the events of the Passion Week.

The meetings are sponsored by the Student Volunteers, Y.W.C.A., and Ministerial association. Each meeting will consist of a short worship program, special music, and directed meditation of the above organizations

HUMOROUS DEBATE WITH WAYNESBURG TUESDAY EVENING

Tuesday evening a humorous debate will be held with Waynesburg college, Waynesburg, Pennsylvania. The question will be chosen by the teams debating. Warren Ashby and Clifford Proctor will represent Maryville college.

This debate is an annual affair. Last year the question was about the advantages of dutch dating.

Reed, West Place In Prize Contest

Oratorical Contest Finals To Be Held Soon

Ralph Reed, a sophomore from Milford, Delaware, and Walter P. West, a senior from Hopkinsville, Kentucky, were winners in the preliminaries of the T. T. Alexander Prize contest held in the philosophy classroom April 1. Judges for the preliminary contest were members of Religious Education department: Dr. Horace E. Orr, Dr. Morton M. Rodgers, and Rev. R. C. Dollenmayer.

Dr. Orr, who is in charge of the contest, announced that the finals will be held sometime in the near future at the morning chapel service. Judges for the finals will be men from outside the college who are prominent in religious and educational work.

The winner in the finals will receive approximately $50, and the other contestant will receive approximately $30. The fund for these prizes was established by a friend of the college and named in honor of one of Maryville's foreign missionaries.

Once Deep-Throated Bell Can Only Wheeze Now

By GEORGE L. HUNT

On Wednesday morning the bell in Anderson tower pealed its last. Faint gurglings came from it at various times during the day in an effort to make it ring as it was expected to, but investigation into the tower cupola showed that the clapper hitting the bell in one place for almost a hundred years had knocked out a large piece of the bell near the top. Repairmen called in immediately said it was beyond repair.

That is the surface story. Most of us are glad we won't be awakened by alarm-clang at 6 every morning. It was a chance remark from Dr. Hunter that set us to thinking about the story of this bell. "Town people will miss the bell," said the director of curriculum. "It could be heard over a radius of two miles." A climb into the tower showed that the bell was cast in Troy, New York, in 1856. This raised the question, "How long has Maryville college had this bell?"

Treasurer Proffitt, who has been connected with the college for many years, didn't know the answer. Neither did J. H. Webb, retired Knoxville department store owner, who was bell ringer in 1878. But he thought that Will Parham would know if anybody did. A visit to the study of this local historian in his little bungalow on Bryant Lane was most interesting, for he has collected material on East Tennessee history as a hobby in recent years and information on any local facts are easily available from him.

Mr. Parham moved to Maryville in 1865 from Knoxville. A far away gleam comes into his eyes as he recalls the seige of Knoxville during the Civil war. "I remember I asked my mother if the world was coming to an end," he says with a smile. "Yes, when I came to Maryville with my parents there were 63 buildings here including houses and barns." Ten of these buildings are still standing; among them is the home of Mr. Clark, the florist.

The Civil War caused the college to close, and when it was re-opened in 1866, there were thirteen students who attended the first chapel exercise. Mr. Parham came in later as a member of this first post-bellum class. The college was then situated on Main Street where the New Providence Presbyterian church now stands. Of that opening Dr. Samuel T. Wilson writes, in his "Chronicles of Maryville College," "On the morning of September 5, Professor Lamar, the acting president and acting faculty and acting janitor of the college, rang the same old cruel-throated bell that throughout the decades has summoned the students to their tasks." This information, and Mr. Parham's recollection, places

On Dressing For The Evening Meal

Perhaps the most common subject for a college editorial writer is that of the manners of his fellow students, whether because of a narrowed field or because this material is obvious and requires little originality or work.

Living out in town we were blissfully unaware, until it was repeatedly brought to our attention, that with the advent of warmer weather many of the men are taking the suggestion made earlier in the year about wearing coats and ties to the evening meal merely as a suggestion.

Some of the men, and women also, come in after working all afternoon or taking part in some active sport looking as if they had not bothered to clean up at all.

A few of the women, leaving the dining hall early have been somewhat surprised to find some of the men putting on their pants over their tennis shorts in Pearsons' lobby.

Fellows, isn't that going a bit too far?

A Sort Of Explanation In Which Very Little Is Finally Explained

There is something stimulating in reading some view which you do not believe, or do not want to believe. Having someone make an issue out of something you have written is mildly flattering, if only because of the importance that is thereby attached to it.

We like to read occasionally in a certain one of the better magazines in the college library because we know that we will find something there that will go against some belief we have carelessly held for some time. This periodical, incidentally, was recently called a "Hearst stooge" by Upton Sinclair.

Although the Echo realizes the importance of stimulating thought, we have never written an editorial that we did not believe just in order to raise adverse criticism. We have always expressed our own views freely—often not so freely as we would have liked, but yet sometimes more freely than discreetly.

We have never written anything to settle a personal grudge, and when we have written an editorial about some person it has been to give a merited campusalute for some fine bit of work. When we have been convinced of the advisibility of taking up some issue, we have done so in spite of the incidental persons involved, not because of them.

We began to realize long ago that our views would not—and could not—be taken exactly as we had intended or hoped. The reaction to any article has been—and always will be—as personal and individual as the writing of the article.

Occasionally we have perhaps been wrong in some of our opinions; but on the other hand, in a few things we have been right. Not only is it possible but also probable that we have written articles without being able to get all of the facts, or without properly understanding all of those facts. But so it is in everything that is written, and even more so in things spoken.

Our conclusions? We'd rather you drew your own.

Signs of the Times

IMPERIALISTIC TENDENCIES

"THE ACTUATING CAUSE was the insensate ambition of Germany to impose its imperial autocratic rule upon the entire world.——Behind it, too, were the German belief in and desire for war in order to fulfil German destiny and to promote German Kulture."—The Standard Dictionary of Facts (1922).

That statement has a strangely familiar ring, doesn't it? Merely substitute the verb "will be" for "was" and it could be put into the mouth of anyone of a score of present day newspaper writers, radio commentators, and public speakers.

In 1914 our fathers were told that the peace of the world was being endangered by "imperial autocratic rule." Today we are told that the greatest threat to world peace is the rule of Fascism.

We know now that the World War was not the outcome of the imperialistic ambitions of any one State or group of States, but the natural result of the imperialistic ambitions of all states. One wonders, then, what the next generation will discover about the war which seems to be on the way.

No one knows what goes on in Europe except the diplomats. The suicidal system of diplomatic lying and trickery makes a full knowledge of events impossible. No one knew what was happening in 1914, and no one knows today.

• • • • • •

DEMOCRACY VERSUS DICTATORSHIP

"AS THE CONFLICT PROGRESSED, the issue became very clear. It was autocracy against democracy—a life and death struggle between monarchial militarism and the free peoples of the world."

That, too, is quite familiar. Two weeks ago William E. Dodd stood in the Voorhees pupit and declared that if Hitler was allowed to succeed, "Germany would be the master of Europe." He went on to express his fears that the democracies of the world will crumble under the power of Fascism.

Not only Dodd but hundreds of others are taking up the cry. Once again we are being asked to "Make the world safe for democracy." Herrick Young in one of his lectures here Wednesday told how he was asked to join a group whose purpose was the raining of a "war spirit" in the United States.

America is being subjected to the same pressure before 1918. Americans are quite receptive to anti-German propaganda, because Americans are steeped in democratic traditions. They are unable to understand methods of government used in dictatorships and are out of sympathy with them.

WAR MADNESS

TWENTY-ONE YEAS AGO THIS WEEK President Wilson became convinced that American entrance into the war was inevitable. He made that opinion public in an address before Congress, and practically the only dissenting voice was the last minute appeal by two pacifist organizations, the American Union Against Militarism and the Emergency Peace Federation.

Among the members of these organizations were Amos Pinchot, Lillian D. Wald, Jane Adams, Herbert S. Bigelow, Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, and others equally as prominent.

These men and women were subjected to violent criticism from all sides. An editorial in the New York Sun was fairly typical of the feeling against them. "Behind the notoriety-seeking sensationalists who innocently engage in the pacifist demonstrations to which the nation's capital is to be treated next week, the machinery of the pro-German, anti-American propaganda is in motion.

"Among the persons of assumed disinterestedness and respectability will be found some of the easily recognizable agents of the instruments of violence that the Kaiser's agents have constructed in this country——.

"So we have murderers bawling for free speech, incendiaries painting the horrors of war, bought informers protesting a superior vigor of patriotic devotion, and among them, doing their bidding and cloaking their plans, a pitiful company of lackwits, victims of keener intelligencies, who are put forward as respectable American citizens!"

Pinchot advertised in a Washington paper, "Fight this war out to a finish—to a dictated peace; leave the Central Powers with an undying grudge against their conquerors, and you have sown the seed for a period of intrigue, international alliance and militarism that will bear fruit in our children's time in another disaster perhaps more terrible than the present war."

But the "lackwit" Pinchot was disregarded. The efforts of the two peace organizations failed, because their numbers were too few. If America is to remain out of the next war, the pacifist movement must be strong. It must be able to combat the tremendous pressure brought by war propagandists.

TALK OF THE WEEK . By Arlene Phelps

Fits and Fizzles

By FRED RHODY

We've been reading at Mr. Carnegie's book on winning friends and influencing people. Frankly, we're disappointed. We are up to page 160 now, and as yet we haven't noticed the slightest inclination on the part of our acquaintances either to throw themselves around our neck and vow everlasting affection, or to submit themselves unreservedly to the influence of our compelling personality.

• • • •

So we have come to the conclusion that we should re-write the book, to make it really effective. We cheerfully and freely give Mr. Carnegie (if he reads these lines) permission to incorporate our suggestions into the next edition of his book.

SIDELIGHTS

Shades of Heinie Groh!

The bases loaded, two away, and two runs behind in the second inning, that's the setting . . . . . and up strides none other than William Ripper Collins with a bottle bat. No matter whether Rip hit a home run or grounded to the pitcher; it's the dramatic setting and the ponderous mace that strike our fancy.

How do you think a pitcher can see the catcher when you hold that bat across the plate, Mr. Collins?

And another thing . . . Junior Odell reading the paper over by the score board while his mates are engaged in trying to hit Smith's offerings.

EASY TO ASK——

Before the day is over we will have an idea of just what sort of track team Coach Bob Thrower is molding this spring, whether its a one man team, or a four man team, or a twelve man team, or what have you.

Some of the questions expected to be answered are these:

How many events can Roy Talmage compete in and be at his best?

Will newcomer Jimmy Rae successfully challenge the right of Bert Chandler to No. 1 position among the pole vaulters?

Is James Etheredge a sprinter?

Can anybody do a respectable mile this year?

How much does the team lack being in shape for a meet?

And much more of the same.

We'll know by the time the Echo's late edition hits the pavement . . . if it doesn't rain. If it rains, well what did you expect, anyway?

Track Season Opens Today As Scots Face Davidson Wildcats At 1:30 P. M.

The Maryville Highlanders and the Davidson Wildcats were to raise the curtain on the 1938 track season here today at 2 o'clock.

The Carolinians rated the favorite's position easily. They hold a slight edge on the Scots in the matter of preparation, having dropped their first meet last week to South Carolina by a two-point margin.

Last year's meet went to Davidson by a fairly comfortable score; Maryville is a little better armed this year, though, with Roy Talmage in good shape for action in five events and with two additional Bairds on the roster.

The best chance for a Scot win seemed to be in the running events, where most of the experienced manpower for our boys is concentrated. In the jumps Jim Etheredge rated a better than even chance to finish in the money.

This is the way the Scottie harriers are running against the 'Cats:

Two mile run: Don Rugh, Gray.

Mile relay: W. Baird, B. Morgan, Gene Orr, R. Talmage.

Mile run: Boydson Baird, Floyd Green, Clifford Proctor.

Half mile run: Bruce Morgan, Bill Baird, Weldon Baird.

440 yd. dash: Roy Talmage, Weldon Baird, Vernon Lloyd.

220 yd. dash: Roy Talmage, James Etheredge.

100 yd. dash: Roy Talmage, James Etheredge.

220 yd. low hurdles: Eugene Orr, Roy Talmage.

110 yd. high hurdles: Eugene Orr, Doug Steakley.

Shot put: Eugene McCurry, Fred Tulloch, Guy Propst.

Discus: Bill aBird, Guy Propst, Weldon Baird.

Javelin throw: James Rea, Boydson Baird, Bill Baird.

High jump: James Etheredge, Julius Nicely.

Broad jump: Junior Odell, Julius Nicely.

Pole vault: Bert Chandler, James Rea, Edgar Meares.

Highlanders Rally To Whip Indiana In First Battle 3-2; Drop Nightcap 6-1

Four hits bunched in the last two innings of the game enabled Maryville to count three runs Thursday and obtain an even break in a twin bill with the University of Indiana.

The Hoosiers went on to the win nightcap in easy fashion, gathering all their runs in the first and second innings to finish ahead, 6-1.

The count was 2 to 0 for Indiana, and Smith apparently had twirled himself a victory when the big sixth rolled around in the first game. Odell, first up, drew his second walk. "Ace" Parker then lined a mighty blow over the leftfielder's head to account for the first Scot marker. Odell scored easily, but Becker retrieved the ball from the track in time to hold Parker on third. "Nig" Wilburn's infield hit then brought Parker over with the tying run. The affair would have been won right there except for a neat bit of daylight robbery in centerfield; Glenn Evers caught one on the nose and drove it far out in center, tagged for Court street, but Gwinn caught up with it some way and snatched it over his left shoulder for the first out. George Garner drew a pass, advancing Wilburn to second, where he was caught off, Smith to Nil. Davis struck out, leaving the score tied up at 2-2.

The Hoosiers could do nothing about it in their half of the seventh. Gwinn was out Hernandez to Parker, Filchuck grounded out Davis to Hernandez, and Clark popped to Odell.

In the last of the seventh Collins beat out an infield hit, advanced when Black grounded out third to first, and scored when Hernandez hit one through second.

The second game, a nightmare which was called in the fifth on account of darkness, offered little comfort for Scot fans hopeful of a double victory over the Big Ten team. It was all over after Indiana chalked up three in the first and another trio of runs in the second. Parker never got things under control. He had stuff enough to strike out three in his two innings on the hill, but the Hoosiers teed off frequently enough to score runners put on by walks and shaky fielding.

Two hits, two walks, and an error provided the first three, while the others came on a walk, an error, a fielders choice, and two solid blows, including Hobson's homer to the bank in rightfield.

In the last of the fifth Wicklund hit short and finally landed on second when Nil threw wild to first. He scored on Black's ringing hit to center. That was all for the Scots.

Baird, Scull Favored

The annual handball tournament sponsored by the Y.M.C.A. is well under way with the quarterfinals ready to be played. Those who battled their way into the quarterfinals are Weldon Baird, who defeated Omer Judy; Russ Colombo, who defeated Roy Talmage; Jim Etheredge, who defeated Sammy Rice; Cliff Proctor, who defeated Bert Chandler; William Baird, who defeated Russell Stevenson; Malcom Brown, who defeated Warren Ashby; Fred Rhody, who defeated Sam Fleming; and Reese Scull, who defeated E. B. Smith.

The favorites of the tournament are Weldon Baird, and Reese Scull. Of course favorites don't always win, but if Scull and Baird do get to the finals we promise you a fine match between these two demons of the handball course favorites don't tiways win, but handball being the fast sport that it is, there promises to be plenty of action in the finals.

High Scoring Act Marks Tiger Fray

Last Monday, the Maryville baseball team journeyed to Madisonville and drubbed the Hiwassee Tigers 17-1. Hiwassee proved to be no match for the powerful bats of the Highlanders; Maryville garnered 11 hits to Hiwassee's 4.

Glenn Evers started off the fireworks for Maryville in the third inning, when he drove in Parker, Wilburn, and Burris with a home-run (the first of the season for the Scotties). From here on in the game was a walkaway, with the Scotties scoring in every frame but the sixth and seventh.

Life Saving Class Will Run May 2-6

May 2 until May 6, Ellis Fysol, American Red Cross life saving examiner, will conduct a life saving examiner's class in Bartlett pool, for all those in Blount county interested in obtaining their examiner's badge.

Fifteen senior life savers from the college have indicated that they wish to take part in the class, and there will probably be more from outside the college.

Requirements for taking the examination are that the applicant must be at least 20 years of age and a senior life saver. The passage of the requirements permits the passer to examine any other person and pass him or her on the junior or senior lifesaving requirements.

Anyone wishing to take the examinations should notify Coach Fischbach at once.

Morrow Overcomes Two-Year Jinx To Grab Net Tourney

Downs Ted Gillingham 6-0 6-4, Reaches Top Place On Team

Frank Morrow defeated Ed Gillingham in straight sets, 6-0, 6-4, last Tuesday afternoon to win first honors in the spring tennis tournament.

Gillingham's game did not seem to be up to par, and he was unable to handle the service and fast drives of Morrow. Morrow took the first set with comparative ease, not dropping a game. Gillingham tried to stage a comeback in the last set, but Morrow already had a two-love lead and quickly covered up to take the set 6-4.

By virtue of his win, Morrow will play number one position on the tennis team unless he is later unseated by one of his team mates.

MARS HILL, MAYBE

Maryville's tennis team was scheduled to make its initial intercollegiate appearance of the year this morning against Mars Hill's net men, if weather conditions permitted.

Mars Hill presents a strong team, but the Maryville squad is slated to be just a little stronger. By this time, however, this argument is quite definitely settled. (By rackets or rain or snow).

Maryville's probable lineup is Morrow, Gillingham, Colombo, McCammon, and Augenstein.

Bobcats Trounce Honakermen, 7-1

Last Saturday afternoon, the baseball team from Ohio university invaded Maryville, and defeated the Highlanders 7-1. The game, played on a cold day, was erratic, with Maryville making four errors to Ohio's one. Maryville's lone run came in the last inning when Junior Odell took first on an error by the third baseman, and scored when Al Burris singled.

Ohio outhit Maryville, getting 11 hits to 7 for the Scotties. The only extra base hits were by Wilburn, who tripled, and Parker, who doubled to left field.

Box Score:

Purging

On Saturday morning, April 6, the Liberty Loan parade from the West Side school to the Presbyterian church was perhaps the biggest demonstration of a patriotic nature ever given in Blount county.

In order that the students and faculty might participate, the "c" and "d" classes were dismissed.

Immediately after the parade, Dr. J W. Gillon, State Missionary of the Baptist church made an address urging that everyone invest in Liberty Loan bonds in order to help put down the devil on earth—the Kaiser.

Prof. Collins Speaks To French Club Wednesday

Ralph S. Collins, who is studying for his Ph.D. at John Hopkins, was the speaker at the meeting of the French club Wednesday evening. Mr. Collins gave an interesting talk on trips he made through France, particularly giving the high lights of trips he had made from Paris. Mr. Collins, who has been on leave of absence from Maryville for a year, has been professor of French and German here for two years.

inal egotist, Dan. Opposite him was Lois Black in the role of Olivia.

Some of the best acting of the evening was given by Marian Lodwick in the part of the cranky Mrs. Branson. Although she had perhaps the hardest part in the drama, Miss Lodwick acted the role convincingly from beginning to end.

Sarah Bolton gave an excellent performance in the part of Mrs. Terence. Miss Bolton's realistic cockney accent and her amusing interpretation of the snippy house keeper won her repeated bursts of applause from the audience. Supporting her was Louise Allen in the part of the timid Dora Parkoe.

Gerald Beaver gave a commendable performance in the part of Hubert Laurie, the eccentric Englishman who is in love with Olivia. Malcolm Brown and Alice Whitaker acted the parts of Inspector Belize and Nurse Libby, Edward Thomas (the Lord Chief Justice) got the play off to a fine strat with his excellent reading of the prologue.

The drama was under the direction of Mrs. Nita Eckles West of the college Fine Arts department. Production and business managers were Maxwell Cornelius and Edith Pierce. Don Stevens was the head usher, while William McGill held the post of stage manager.

YMCA Election

The association held a business meeting before the election, at which time the following amendments were adopted: Amendment III, "The profits of the Y.M.C.A. store shall in no manner be appropriated by the Y.M.C.A. or any division thereof until the college year following that in which the profits are made." This amendment incorporates in the constitution a practice which has been followed for a number of years. Amendment IV, "The constitution is hereby amended by striking out Article V, Section 2, regarding the Director of the Lyceum." This cancels an out-dated section of the constitution. The Y.M.C.A. will continue to cooperate with the management of the Artist's Series, and the cabinet has passed a recommendation to the new "Y" administration in regard to it.

The new president will probably appoint his cabinet within the next week.

College Bell

1858 as the year in which the bell was first installed at the college on Main street. It stood there while soldiers used the building as a headquarters and a stable for their horses during the hectic war years, and was ready to resume its service when Professor J. Lamar re-opened the college.

In 1869 the site now know as "college hill" having been procured, Anderson hall was erected to be dormitory, assembly hall, and recitation building. So the bell was installed in the tower, and was used continuously during the school year and for summer conferences for eighty years until Wednesday morning, April 6. The history of "The Bell" is complete.

But anecdotes connected with it round out the story. Mr. Parham remembers how in 1877 five fellows locked themselves on the top floor of Anderson and determined to let the countryside hear the bell. They rang it for two hours while officials tried to get in to stop them. Mr. Parham was supposed to be in the group, but he came too late and they wouldn't let him in. When President Bartlett tried to get into the top floor, Will Parham broke the door down with his foot. They saw the five musicians leaving by another door, and grabbing the hat of one of them they got some hair too. The official looked at it and said, "Well, this is ——'s (naming the boy) hat, but it isn't his hair." Mr. Parham also recalls when he and the young lady he later married used to climb to the top of Anderson hall and watch the fireworks in town on the Fourth of July.

"The old order changeth, giving way to new." It has not been decided what will replace "The Bell," but a faithful servant takes its place in the past as another vignette of unrecorded history.

Varsity Debaters Left For Meet In Kansas, Thursday

Two Teams Attend Nation-Wide Pi Kappa Delta Convention

Thursday afternoon several teams of the varsity debate squad accompanied by Professor Verton Queener, left Maryville for the National Pi Kappa Delta convention at Topeka, Kansas. The women's team is composed of Curtmarie Brown and Helen Maguire, and the men's, Arnold Kramer and Otto Pflanze. Louise Proffitt will represent Maryville in oratory and extemporaneous speaking.

The convention begins April 18 and will end April 22. There will be 800 schools represented from Pi Kappa Delta chapters from all over the United States.

Miss Proffitt will be a Senator from this province in the congress which is made up of delegate from the various provinces. This congress is a new feature of the convention and there are only a few girls taking part in it. Mr. Pflanze will compete in oratory and Mr. Kramer in extemporaneous speaking.

These teams went by way of Murfreesboro where the state tournament is being held Friday and Saturday. Miss Proffitt is entered in the oratorical contest on peace. They were to continue on their way to Topeka Saturday morning.

Students Direct Play Activities

Under the direction of Dr. Newell T. Preston, 14 students from education classes of Maryville college are directing playgorund activities at Fort elementary school.

Each of the 13 women doing the work goes to the school two afternoons a week. Dividing the girls of the school into age groups, they teach them to play organized games in which all children participate. Howard McGill supervises play among the boys. These workers report an improvement in effectiveness of playground activity and in the social spirit of the children.

This program was begun at the request of J. L. Brewer, superintendent of city schools, and Walter Williams, principal of Fort Craig, to have college education department cooperate in beginning supervised play. The beginning has necessarily been simple and unelaborated, but good results are manifested on both sides.

Annual YMCA Hike Is Set For April 23, 24 In Smoky Nat'l Park

The annual Y.M.C.A. hike is scheduled for April 23 and 24. Mt. LeConte, the second highest peak in the Smoky Mountains National Park, is the destination.

The hikers will leave the campus at 1:30 Saturday afternoon. The number will be limited to two bus loads, sixty men. In the morning they will climb to the peak of LeConte and have Sunday school there. Lists will be posted in the dormitory next week which all expecting to go are to sign. Those expecting to go will be expected to pay at once to avoid any uncertainty as to numbers.

Dr. Lloyd To Speak At Highlanders Association

Dr. Ralph W. Lloyd will go to Philadelphia next week to be the speaker on April 23 at the annual banquet of the Atlantic Highlanders association. The meeting will be held at Tabernacle Presbyterian church, which is the church of Dr. Howard Moody Morgan.

The Atlantic Highlanders association is an alumni association of Maryville college graduates living in the vincinity of New Jersey, Philadelphia, and Washington, D.C., is president of the association. William MacCalmont is secretary-treasurer

Point System

The point system groups have been practicing track this week. The track test will be held Tuesday afternoon. This will be the last meeting of the groups this year.

History Class Holds Reception For Author Of Text book, Sanders

Monday evening at 8 o'clock in the YWCA rooms, The American Colonial History class, with Mrs. Grace Pope Snyder as teacher, gave a reception in honor of Dr. Jennings B. Sanders. Dr. Sanders, professor and head of the department of history at the University of Tennessee, is the author of the textbook used by Mrs. Snyder's class.

The program, which consisted mostly of violin solos by Miss Horne, was in charge of Jerry Beaver. The "Y" rooms were beautifully decorated with dogwood and iris. Farrel Millsaps had charge of the decorations and Geneva Johnson and Wilma Kiser were in charge of the refreshments.

Before the reception Dr. and Mrs. Sanders were entertained at dinner by Professor and Mrs. Queener.

Meetings Are Success

The special Holy Week meditations that have been held each day of this week have proved successful. The meetings have been well-attended, with an average of 80 students and faculty members at each meeting. Various members of the student body have taken part in the services, and contributed their part to making the meetings of a helpful type.

Class Attendants For May Day Were Elected On Friday

Partners For Pageant Are To Be Selected By Attendants

The class attendants to the May Queen were elected at class meetings Friday morning, and include for the junior class, Genevieve Metcalf and Lawrence Lowe; for the sophomore class, Ruth Crawford and Erwin Ritzman; and for the freshman class, Jean McCammon and Charles Baldwin. These attendants will invite their own partners for the procession.

The program for May Day has been written by Mrs. Nita Eckles West, and executed by Mrs. Verton Queener and Mr. Ralph Colbert along with the students in charge of each episode. Deane Brown and Carol Ward are in charge of Episode 1, which deals with the assembledge of all the villages on the green. Episode 2 is in charge of Reese Scull, and depicts Robin Hood with all his men. Episode 3 is in charge of Mrs. Queener, and is the principal episode in the pageant. Episode 4 is a Punch and Judy show in charge of Lois Black and Dottie Haines. Episode 5 is in charge of Mrs. Queener.

This pageant, sponsored by Y.W.C.A., will be one of the most authentic ever to be presented here, and wil be done first in the cycle fo four to be presented at regular intervals. It will take place at the ampitheatre on April 30, and Irene Browder and James Proffitt will act as queen and king.

HOSPITAL

There has been an increase in the number of patients at the hospital this week. Lillian Borgquist and Robert Short were in for a few days. Joe Swift is suffering from a broken ankle received in baseball practice. Frank Brink is also still in the hospital with a broken ankle. Mildred Dallas was discharged this week after an attack of the measles.

Stevensons Near Close Of Cruise Around The World

Are In New Zealand Today; Expected At M. C. Near May 1

Dr. and Mrs. W. P. Stevenson are now well on their way around the world. They sailed from New York on January 9, and expect to land in Los Angeles on May 9, coming overland from there.

On the date of this issue of the Highland Echo, April 16, they are scheduled to stop in Wellington, New Zealand. Then they start on the long journey through the multitude of islands of the southern Pacific Ocean. From today's stop to Los Angeles they will be sailing a little over three weeks. The ship will call at five ports in that time; including the Fiji Islands; Samoan Islands; Hilo, Hawaii; and San Francisco.

Dr. and Mrs. Stevenson have written from various places to Dr. and Mrs. Lloyd, Mrs. Walker and others, saying that they were having a wonderful trip. They have visited the Mediterranean countries, including the Holy Land, India, the East Indies, Siam, Australia, and intermediate places.

Mail addressed to them in Hawaii will reach them if it is in San Francisco by April 18. Letters will reach them at San Francisco or Los Angeles if posted in Maryville by about May 1. Anyone interested in writing may obtain the exact address by calling at the president's office.

Dr. Stevenson is preaching ship's services each Sunday that he is on board. It is hoped that he may be at the College for the Vespers on May 15.

Henry Plans To Attend Meeting In Atlanta Of N.Y.A. Administrators

Miss Clemmie J. Henry, director of student-help, who has just returned to work after a slight illness, is hoping to take a trip this next week to a district meeting of the N.Y.A. administrators held in Atlanta, Georgia, April 19 and 20.

At this regional meeting held with Mr. Aubrey Williams, federal administrator of the N.Y.A., will be state administrators and representatives from different schools where N.Y.A. programs are carried on. The convention, which is sponsored by the N.Y.A., is for southern educators interested in Student Aid programs.

Surprise Birthday Party Given Mrs. John Walker

A surprise birthday party was given Mrs. John Walker at Morning Side Saturday evening. Mrs. Walker, who is a well-known friend of the college, was celebrating her eighty-sixth birthday. The group from the college consisting of some faculty members and students presented Mrs. Walker with a corsage, and the evening was spent singing to the accompaniment of piano, cello, and violin. John Guinter rendered a violin solo and Miss Davies played the piano.

Easter Morning Sunrise Service Supervised By Fine Arts Dep't

College Band Opens Program At 4:30, Playing Hymns; Processional Of Choirs, Glee Clubs, Band Commences At Five

At 4:30 tomorrow morning the college band will welcome the Easter morn and open the first department-sponsored sunrise service at Maryville college, playing Easter hymns and chorals. Being summoned to the service in the college ampitheatre, worshippers will there witness a program in which approximately 140 students will participate.

The service, based in many respects on the Moravian Resurrection morn rights which have been observed in old Salem, N.C. for three centuries, is under the direction of the Fine Arts department.

At 5 a.m. the processional of the combined vesper choir and glee clubs, the band, and the verse choir will go to the ampitheatre. Part of the band will be stationed in front of the college cemetery, and the antiphonal group will send its echo from the vicinity of the ampitheatre. The service will begin at 5:30 a.m.

The 20 members of Mrs. Nita E. West's verse choir will open the service, to be followed by the 90 voices of the choir and glee clubs singing "Fairest Lord Jesus." The program will include two numbers by the choristers, "The Lord's Prayer," and "Unfold, Ye Portals;" and a reading of Phillips Brooks' "Easter Morning" by the verse choir. Lasting for about an hour, the program will feature audience participation in a responsive reading and the reading of the Apostle's Creed.

The verse choir is a recent innovation in expression work. Tomorrow's service will be the first appearance of the Maryville group.

Before the large number of participants begin the processional to the woods, coffee and doughnuts will be served them in the Y.W. rooms.

Two Debate Teams Go To State Meet At Murfreesboro

M C Represented In After Dinner Speaking, Oratory

Maryville debaters left Thursday for the state tournament held at the Middle Tennessee Teachers college at Murfreesboro. The men's team consisted of Clifford Proctor and Harwell Proffitt; the women's, of Miriam Waggoner and Sara Lee Hellums. Arda Walker is taking part in general oratory and Clifford Proctor in after dinner speaking.

The tournament lasts from Friday morning through Saturday evening, and in this time the debaters will represent Maryville in eight rounds, debating on both the negative and the affirmative sides of the question.

In 1936 Maryville won the state tournament cup. In order to retain the cup, a college must win three times.

On the same day, two other teams and an orator left for the National Pi Kappa Delta convention at Topeka, Kansas. Representing Maryville in this tournament, which lasts from April 18 through April 22, are Curtmarie Brown, Helen Maguire, Otto Pflanze, Arnold Kramer, and Louise Proffitt.

Felknor Chosen Editor Of Echo

Staff Elected Wednesday For Next Year

George Felknor, a junior from Meridian, Mississippi, was elected editor of the Highland Echo for next year at a meeting of the 1938-39 staff held Thursday evening.

The staff for next year was picked from this semester's staff Wednesday afternoon by the Committee on Student publications. Those selected to serve next year are as follows: juniors, Bob Brandriff, George Felknor, Fred Rhody; sophomores, Ruth Abercrombie, Sara Lee Hellums, George Hunt, Otto Pflanze, Arlene Phelps; freshmen, Lula Wade Diggs, William Felknor, Mary Orr, Douglas Steakley, J. Edward Thomas, Jean White, and Thomas Woolf.

The new staff and editor will take up their work next week.

Ministerials To Hold Their Annual Banquet In Church, April 19

The Ministerial association will hold its annual banquet April 19. This will be the highlight of the year for the association and is expected to be one of the best attended banquets for several years.

Dr. Clifford E. Barbour has been secured for the speaker of the evening. The toastmaster for the banquet will be Dr. Edwin Ray Hunter. Several of the members will give short speeches, and there will be some special entertainment.

Perhaps one of the best features of the banquet will be the fact that dating is permitted. The affair will be chaperoned by Dr. H. E. Orr. It is estimated that there will be close to 100 persons present. The banquet will be held at the Northern Methodist church.

Recognition Ceremony Slated Wednesday For Senior Intellectuals

At the chapel hour next Wednesday morning there will be a recognition ceremony for the twelve seniors of the class of 1938 who were elected to the scholarship honor society, Alpha Gamma Sigma.

Dr. Edwin Mimms, head of the English department of Vanderbilt university, will make an address appropriate to the occasion. Dr. Mimms is one of the most widely known lecturers and writers of the South.

A recognition is held annually in honor of seniors who have made a high scholastic record during their college career. This is the first year that there has been an address in connection with the ceremony.

More Faculty Members' Student Days Given

By TOMMY WOOLF

In reviewing the records made by various members of the Maryville faculty during their student days on the Hill, we take this opportunity to digress from the subject a little and to mention the accomplishments of Mr. F. L. Proffitt, college treasurer. Mr. Proffitt has the distinction of having been graduated longer than any other alumnus now in the service of the college. Mr. Proffitt received his diploma from the hands of Dr. Wilson 'way back in 1907 when the entire enrollment of the college did not exceed 60 persons. Mr. Proffitt took an active part in Alpha Sigma society and was secretary of the Athletic Board of Control. The faded pages of the 1907 Chilhowean contain this adequate description of the energy and vitality which have been characteristic of Mr Proffitt for many years:

"I'll dare to do all that may become a man;
Who dares do more is none."

For the sake of contrast let us examine the record of George F. Fischbach, the most recent graduate of the college now serving on the faculty. A member of the class of '33, Mr. Fischbach was particularly outstanding as a member of the tennis team, being captain one year and a member of the team for three years. He also held the school championship for three years and was tennis instructor in his senior year. He also served as president of the German club.

"To be three inches taller" was the chief ambition of Miss Almira Bassett of the class of 1909, according to the Chilhowean of that year. Miss Bassett, who now teaches Latin and Bible, was a member of Bainonian, president of the Y.W.C.A., and class orator at commencement exercises in 1909. The Chilhowean gives her chief characteristic as "talking" and the best four word description of her as "Can't bear being late." Miss Bassett earned the reputation of being a staunch supporter of her class, and was a leader in all of its activities. In spite of her diminutive figure, she was even ready to fight to keep her class from being insulted.

But that is another story.

Mrs. B. H. Brown, now associate professor of biology, was active in musical work before she graduated in 1927. She was a member of the Vesper choir, and was an excellent pianist. Mrs. Brown climaxed her career as a student by holding the offices of president of Bainonian and president of the Student Council in her senior year.

The last person on our list is none other than Maryville's associate professor of chemistry, Dr. Fred A. Griffitts. Dr. Griffitts held the offices of vice president and president of Alpha Sigma, and president of the Chemistry club. He also served as a chemistry assistant for three years. The following is a choice exerpt from the Chilhowean of 1925:

"One time he and "Henri" came back from church along the wrong road, and his conscience hurt him for a whole week afterward because he was afraid she would get into trouble."

We stand adjourned without further comment.

SATURDAY, APRIL 16

Dr. James Henry McMurray

We can see him now, in our mind's eye, seated at his desk, calling the roll and smiling at late-comers; or standing near the base-line, watching fielding practice; or taking his place in the front of the church on Sunday. We can hear him now, enriching a classroom discussion by sharing his great store of knowledge and experience; or making some one's day more cheerful by a pleasant greeting; or helping a perplexed student find an answer to his personal problems.

But the time will come when most of us will no longer remember Dr. McMurray's appearance, or his words. When our present sense of loss has been softened and obliterated by time and the activities of life, many of us will be unable readily to recall even his name. As dearly as we now cherish recollections of our contacts with him, those memories will fade.

Yet the years can never erase from our lives the deep impression that has been left there by Dr. McMurray. We who knew him have had before us a living example of how the true Christian gentleman should live. In all the varied activities which claimed his interest and labor, he conducted himself in such a manner as to cause us to pray that we might be half the man he was. A man like that may be forgotten, in long time, it is true; but the influence of his unselfish life will continue to keep men on the right ways for years to come.

At this Easter time we are reminded that the Christ we worship lives today. Let us remember that the spirit of Dr. McMurray lives too—the spirit of love and service for all men, modesty, justice, loyalty to all good causes. It lives in the hearts of men and women whose lives have been made richer because of the life of Dr. McMurray.

Highland Echo Reviews Year's Work

When we took over the Echo editorship last spring, we were more than usually naive. We believed in the press, in its respect, its freedom, and its power. Boy-scout-like, we were ready to bring in the millinium.

We believed that editorials should be more than space-fillers, and with our first issue we put forth a plan for an honor system at Maryville college. When only one person—a proof reader by the way—indicated that he had as much as read the editorial, we were, as Horatio Alger would have quaintly put it, taken back but undaunted.

We soon saw that the biggest obstacle that we had to overcome was not hostility to our policies and suggestions, but indifference to them. There seemed to be a general attitude of "Forget about it, you will never get anything done."

Looking back over the more than 50 editorials that we have written, we see that in the main our friends were correct. We have not accomplished much. Our only consolation is that it is now too early to measure the results.

We decided to let the honor system plan smolder for a while, and in the meantime we collected data on the plan. We were about to bring it up again at the beginning of the following term, but for reasons not necessary here, we decided to drop the issue.

Last spring also, we held up the athletic board of control constitution as an old joke that had outlasted its humor. Pointing out the most glaring faults of the constitution, we suggested that it be revised. We said no more about it until last fall, and a committee was then appointed to rewrite it. The constitution has been revised, and according to the president of the board, will be voted upon by the students at the next called meeting.

At the beginning of the year, surprised that no moves were being made to elect cheer leaders, we stuck out our neck and ran an ad for the pep committee. This committee was not sleeping, as most people thought, but was simply biding its time, waiting for an arbitrary date set by the constitution of the student council. We later helped in re-writing this constitution.

At about this same time, the two upper classes were in a stew as to whether they would back the Chilhowean this year. Besides carrying editorials and news articles favorable to the yearbook, several junior and senior staff editors met in the committees that were appointed to thrash out the matter, and also helped to collect the $200 deposit required before further plans could be made.

Feeling that many students tried to carry on more outside activities that they could do well, we suggested that a point system be worked out that to limit the students extra-curricular activities. We brought forth the plan as a safeguard and not a restriction; but it, and following editorials on this subject, received little favor.

For a while we stopped writing about campus problems, which had become distasteful to some by now, and wrote about national and international affairs. Here again we met with only partial success. We were unable to stop Japan and China from fighting, and we do not know the result of our preachment against the Japanese boycott. We came out against the Ludlow war referendum and the anti-lynching bill, but our modesty refuses to let us accept too much credit for their defeat.

And now we come to a subject in which we are unusually interested—that of optional class attendance for seniors. Besides running editorials, we carried on a campus-wide poll of students and faculty and found both groups extremely favorable to the plan. We sincerely believe, and here we are being more practical than idealistic, that the plan will be given a try at Maryville before long.

Yes, seemingly, we have accomplished little, but it remains to be seen how much effect this year's Echo will ultimately have. For the present, however, we review the year's work with a sigh—and an aspirin.

Signs of the Times

By OTTO PFLANZE, JR.

Columnist's note: While the columnist leaves for other parts, brother Charles fills this space. Following up the columnist's flair for condemning something, he puts the heat on the new naval program.

THE NEW NAVY

The Roosevelt Administration has now decided to go in for navalism in a big way. Yearly naval appropriations have been increased by approximately $500,000,000 since the New Deal came into power and now the climax has come. We are going to spend at least one and one half billion dollars on new naval construction alone. After that, the upkeep for the navy will cause the annual naval appropriation to skyrocket.

This big navy program is a criminal waste of money. To be sure it will give the United States an overpowering navy. But the satisfaction of having a navy that can blow other navies out of the water and then can blast the daylights out of foreign cities is small when we think of what that one and a half billions of dollars could do if invested elsewhere.

Consider what could be done in the way of slum clearance, reforestration, irrigation projects, highway construction and other necessary projects if only one and one half billion dollars were available! The benefits from such projects will be enjoyed by posterity. The warships, on the other hand, will be obsolete and sold for junk in about twenty five years after costing additional billions for upkeep.

Is it true that the American people who have protested against militarism and navalism in foreign nations are now turning around and indulging in one of the most expensive of luxuries—a big navy?

IS IT NEEDED?

It is freely asserted that America has no choice but to join and lead in this mad armament race. But is such reasoning based on sound logic?

In the first place, what nations are capable of waging modern warfare on an offensive scale? There are only six excluding this country—France, England, Russia, Germany, Italy, and Japan. Of the six only three possess warships and naval auxiliaries capable of striking across two thousand miles of ocean. They are France, England, and Japan.

The German and Italian navies are exceedingly small while the Russian navy is practically non-existent. The energies of these three countries are spent on armies and aircraft, not on battleships. Thus three of the six are eliminated leaving France, England, and Japan for consideration.

France and England are pacific, democratic nations and the possibility of their assuming an offensive war against a major power overseas is laughable. Judging by the way they are quaking under the threats of Hitler and Mussolini it some times seems questionable whether they will fight in self defense, much less undertake an offensive war. Thus we can eliminate these two and only Japan is left.

It is very doubtful that Japan will get out of China with a whole skin. At the worst her armies will be defeated in the field in China. If not that, she will be exhausted by the effort of keeping China down after the Chinese armies are destroyed (witness Manchuria).

It seems silly to think that Japan, emerging from such a gigantic conflict depleted in man power and resources, would even dream of attempting to transport enough men and material across seven thousand miles of hostile waters for waging war on the American continent. Even though the Chinese adventure succeeds, Russia will continue to keep the Nipponese busy. So we can forget about the so-called Japanese menace for a while.

DEFENSE OR OFFENSE?

The scanty plans thus far revealed about the naval expansion program seem to indicate the construction of large powerful ships with long cruising ranges. Of what use are ships with long cruising ranges if not intended for duty thousands of miles away from home? And what does that have to do with "coastal defense?" It looks suspiciously as if they are intended for offensive war.

There are few lessons in history upon the difficulty of prosecuting war away from home. Britain with full command of the sea failed to perform an effective invasion of Turkey in the Dardenelles in 1915. Italy was stalled in Ethopia until the despicable use of poison gas was resorted to.

The over-extended armies of Japan are likewise having trouble in China. The United States had considerable trouble in transporting men and supplies to France despite complete command of the seas and a friendly port to land on. General Hagood of the U.S. Army pointed out these and other difficulties faced by nations when prosecuting an overseas war.

In conclusion, I want to affirm a belief in adequate national defense. But it doesn't seem that we must join this mad armament race to have adequate protection. If any country attempts to build an overpowering naval establishment and an army that looks suspicious, then let us match them ship for ship. But until that day arrives, let us not bankrupt ourselves for an unnecessarily large navy.

TALK OF THE WEEK . By Arlene Phelps

Fits and Fizzles

By FRED RHODY

Scene: Library
Time: Midnight

(Enter through the keyhole the ghosts of Chaucer, Shakespeare, Milton, Wordsworth and Poe. They gape in astonishment for a while and then begin to browse among the books.)

CHAUCER: Whatte strayng lanwytch ys thyss? Eye kannotte reed enny ove thees whytyngs. Hazz thee Ynglyshe tung fallyn tu thyss? Yt appeerz thatte kno-wun noes howe tu spelle ecksepti mee!

SHAKESPEARE: Shades of Macbeth! Which one of these am I: "Shakespeare," "Shakspeare," "Shakespere," "Shakspere," Shakespear," "Shaksper," Shaksper"? I always spelled my name just plain "X". Methinks I am being taken for a ride; they say that my plays are sold and acted all over the world, and I never get a rake-off of the take-in. I see by the papers that in Washington they're again playing my old Comedy of Errors, or The Pocketbook Which Goes to the Pump too Often Some Day Goes Broke. I hear the President was afraid that if that play wasn't put on, then Labor's Love's Lost would be played. And he wouldn't like that.

Over in Greater Germany they have a revised version of Julius Caesar—only they spell the name differently, and they haven't got past the first act yet.

Strange that I haven't heard of the Merry Wife of Windsor for some time. The papers were full of reviews of that a short while back.

MILTON: Ah, would that I lived today! To write poetry as they do now, unhampered by rhyme or reason! That were paradise enou', I trow. I would out-nonsense them all.

WORDSWORTH: What, could I have written such sissy stuff? To A Skylark, To the Daisy, Lines Written in Early Spring! What manner of man was I? Now would I write Ode to Der Fuhrer, To a Sky Bomber, On the Extinction of the Austrian Republic, A Democrat's Epitaph.

POE: Alas, I thought my horror stories would set mens' teeth a-chattering and knees a-knocking. But the very children now laugh at my tales of terror and tune in the Kiddies' Murder Story hour for their thrills. Compared to a radio news-flash of latest war or crime atrocities, my most blood-curdling story is fit only for whey-faced infants and old women.

(The first rays of the morning sun fall through the windows. The ghosts start in alarm; and, then, drawing their shrouds about them, they squeeze through the keyhole and disappear.)

A LETTER

Editor of "Highland Echo:

In regard to your recent editorial concerning the modes of dress at the evening meal, I must say that the doubtful culture of wearing one's only coat to the evening meal borders closely on affectation.

It is a time honored fact that the way in which a person's body is covered has little to do with his character, intelligence or personality. If your editorials caused everyone to appear in a coat, it would contribute little to anyone's happiness, and detract a great deal from the comfort of many.

Sincerely,
Reese Scull.

Wherein Blackmailer Hints Costly Moral, "Silence Is Golden"

No, Hugh L. "Hoppy" Smith has not burst into print because of the discovery of an odorless garlic, or because of a shapely calf revealed by those unbecoming orange tennis shorts.

He receives notoriety this week because he is Maryville's number one thug-a blackmailer, no less.

It all happend this way. The editor, in his usual careless way, let slip a story on himself, little mindful of the protuding ears of Hoppy nearby. In order to be hushed up, Hoppy demanded his name be printed in this issue. We gave in hesitatingly, worrying about our circulation and advertisers. Then he got the Eleanor Roosevelt streak and wanted his picture in. What could we do?

You're right. We did!

New Power House Plans Considered For Summer

Ernest C. Brown, campus engineer, said that plans for constructing a new power house this summer were being considered. If the new plant is built, it will be located near the railroad, both to facilitate the transportation of coal, and to remove the smoke nuisance from the campus.

Mr. Brown gave as the reasons for the proposed construction of a new plant, the need for a more efficient central heating system, and the need to improve the appearance of the campus by removing the old boiler house.

Always do right. This will gratify some people and astonish the rest.

Good Advice

The Volette, the paper of the University of Tennessee Junior college recently printed an article containing advice to those hungry students who may want more food in the dining hall. First, the individual should enter the dining hall well in front of the pack. He should place himself in his chair with his weight balanced on both feet, and keep his elbows close to his sides to give a longer and quicker reach in case of a close race. Always be alert and the chances are that you will escape injury. Otherwise you may become seriously injured.

Poetry, etc.

From the Ward-Belmont Hyphen:

He loves me,
He loves me not,
I don't care—
He's not so hot.

To tax is to burden. A burden the and is worth two in the bush. A bush over is an easy customer whom you can tax.

April Fool

The prize for the best April fool publication if you like that sort of thing, certainly should be given to Lenoir Rhyne. The whole paper was backwards. The pictures, the columns, and the pages were all headed the wrong way. Under the caption, "Lenoir Rhyne's Choice for May Queen and Attendants," were the pictures of six husky football stars. On the back page (or was it the front?) was an editorial on "No Fools Left." After reading the paper no one would believe that.

Senior Suggestions

The following are some suggestions of the seniors of State Teachers college at Jacksonville, Florida for making campus life more enjoyable:

1. Test exemptions and three cuts per week for all seniors.
2. Cushions for classroom chairs.
3. Free ice-cream at 10 o'clock.
4. Trapdoors for boresome teachers.
5. Robots for writing English themes.

New Building

The Orange and Blue, Carson-Newman's paper, announces that work has begun on a new science building which will house the entire science department of the college.

So We're Told!

Men have only two:
Everything they say

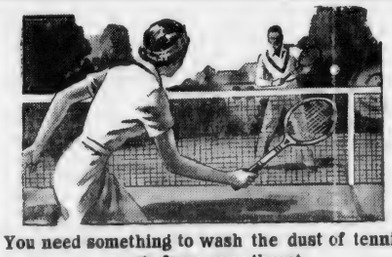
Weight Problem



The University Echo of the University of Chattanooga discovered that the students at U.C. lost 954 pounds in weight for their cramming in the last examinations. This is the estimate of the Bureau of Educational Surveys, New York City, who arrived at the figure by multiplying an average of two representative group of 90% of U. C. pounds of weight loss reported by a students who engage in intensive study before and during examination periods.

On The Bench

-with-

THE SPORTS EDITOR

I WONDER

In case you wondered just what happened Lefty Hernandez poled out that long hit in the ninth inning of Wednesday's game with Illinois Teachers, we refer you to the SatEvePost of April 16, in which appears a very enjoyable article by Fredrick G. Lieb, "Hits Are My Bread And Butter."

According to Mr. Lieb, American League scorer for something like a quarter of a century, the scoring rules were changed in 1920, largely at the instigation of Connie Mack, Clark Griffith, and himself. They proposed a rule that "enables a batter, breaking up a game in the ninth, or some extra inning, with a clout out of the park, to get full credit for his homer and all the runs he drives in."

BATTERIES, WILBURN—

Monday the SMC race begins in earnest when the Carson-Newman Eagles fly at the throats of the fighting Highlanders on the local diamond. Thus it is an ideal time to mention the fact that the Scots showed signs of developing into a ball club in yesterday's game.

Nig Wilburn had the Teachers completely at his mercy, allowing less than half a dozen squarely hit balls off his delivery.

It was a really fine performance, and deserving of a shutout.

—AND EVERS

The work of Glen Evers behind the plate in the last two games has been worthy of comment, too. Besides presenting a steady target for Scot pitchers to shoot at, Glen has been taking the ball for a ride and fielding smoothly. He picked up a total of five hits in the games Thursday and Friday. Looks like Glen thrives on this idea of having no replacements since Burris and Swift both were layed up for the season.

SO LONG——

All good things must come to an end and the bad ones too, it seems. After this week your humble servant straps his obedient typewriter to his back and hies away from the doings of the sports page, which will be taken over by the newly elected staff next week. Its been a pleasant relation from this end, and it is with some regret that the Sports Ed relinquishes his duties. We confess, though, the change will probably please our constituency no end. It must be quite a relief, at that.

The 1937-38 sports year as we have faithfully tried to depict it on this page has been a successful one. A fine football team, a good basketball team, a fair swimming and wrestling teams have furnished the Maryville sports stories. The one great shadow cast over the scene at Maryville this year was one that will long darken the pleasant memories of us all; the death of Dr. McMurray cost the school and every one of its athletes a warm friend and trsusted leader. His capacity for understanding and sympathetic friendship can hardly be replaced.

Come on Over, Joe Wants an Autograph—

He was sliding into second. Chipped his ankle-bone. His leg is in a plaster cast now. Come in and see him some time and sign the cast. Joe Swift would only be too glad to have your autograph on his white plaster leg. This all happened last week when the Maryville baseball team suffered its second bad luck blow of the season. First All Burris broke his leg. This time is was our scrub catcher, Joe Swift.

I was in to see Joe yesterday; he is in the College hospital. It sure is tough being inside now, when the sports are just getting under way. Despite all his trouble Joe is getting along fine. We joked and laughed and had a big time.

Joe said that the only thing he liked about the hospital was the food. And that reminds me, if any of you readers go see Joe, go around meal time. They sure do hand out the good food. (He also has some candy laying around.)

"It's a funny thing," Joe said, "but I knew I was going to be hurt all day, and just before I started to slide into second, I had the feeling that something was going to happen." The main thing he is looking forward to now, is going to the Sunrise Service tomorrow morning. He hopes that he will find someway to get out there and back. It will be the first time he has been out of the hospital since the accident.

Baseball Team Tosses Illinois, Eastern Kentucky For Loss In Weeks' Battles

The eyes of the baseballing Scots are on the flight of the Carson-Newman Eagle, following the defeat of Eastern Kentucky Teachers here yesterday.

Maryville downed the Kentuckians 2-1 in by far the best game of the local season. Nig Wilburn's hops had the blue grass boys puzzled to a frazzle all the way. He gave up five hits, and would have had a shutout except for a ninth inning error.

In addition to his hurling duties Nig took the Scot offensive on his own shoulders to a large extent also. He drove in the first run and later tallied what was to be the deciding score.

Carson-Newman will be here Monday for the first game of the Smoky Mountain season.

Illinois Bumped Twice By Scots

The Scots got off to a flying start in the week's baseball activity by taking both games in the two game series with the Northern Illinois Teachers, on Wednesday and Thursday.

Both battles were murderous to the pitchers. The first was a 12-10 affair in which the Highlanders came back in the last two innings to win on Lefty Hernandez' four base lick over the right fielder's head. Hernandez scored behind Black; that is if you prefer to give him credit for the run that came after the game was already won.

Scott Honaker hurled the last two frames to get credit for the victory.

Waggoner's Win Over Colombo Only 'Nooga Victory

Maryville's net men opened the season in a big way yesterday afternoon by taking all but white-washing the tennis players from the University of Chattanooga. Maryville made a clean sweep of the doubles matches and took four of the five singles matches for a score of six to the opponents one.

Frank Morrow playing number one for Maryville, came through in straight sets by defeating Smith of Chattanooga, 9-7, 6-3. Morrow was somewhat handicapped with a lame shoulder, but his game showed little ill effects. The old cannon ball service was certainly up to par and Smith couldn't handle it at all. Morrow and Smith were more evenly matched than were any of the players except the number four men, and the two had it out from beginning to end.

Ed Gillingham finished off McGill of Chattanooga in number two position in short order by a score of 6-1, 6-3. Gillingham was the first to finish, and he was complete master throughout the entire match. Gillingham presented a some what changed game that seemed to keep his foe in the fog.

McCammon, freshman, and Van Cise, both turned in excellent performances in their first matches for the Scotties. Van Cise won over Thomas, 6-4, 6-3, and McCammon won over Gell, 6-3, 6-2.

Waggoner was the only Chattanooga player winning his match. He finally edged out Colombo in the third set to take the match. After winning the first set, 6-2, Waggoner dropped down and Colombo took the next set, love six, but Waggoner came back to take the third set, 6-2. These two players were more evenly matched than any of the other players.

Doubles matches were a repitition of the first four singles matches. Morrow and Gillingham won over Smith and McGill of Chattanooga, 6-1, 6-3; and Augenstein and McCammon won over Gell and Thomas, 6-4, 7-5.

If the Maryville squad performs equally well this afternoon there is no doubt as to the outcome.

Catcher Sees Game Through A Windshield

Does a little thing like a broken ankle keep him from seeing these ball games? Well not so you'd notice it.

"The boys look a little bit ragged, don't they?" Al Burris said Thursday, as he watched the slaughter of Illinois Teachers from the front seat of a parked automobile.

The Scot football captin was on hand again at yesterday's game, too. All his baseball enjoyment for the rest of this school year at least must come from the spectator angle, all because of a slide that went wrong.

It was at Hiwassee last week that Al snapped a bone in his ankle trying to slide into second base; his spikes caught in the hard surface of the red dirt infield and the over-burdened ankle, refusing to act as a pivot for his whole body, did the thing most natural under the circumstances—it popped. "We heard it snap clear over on our bench," one of the boys told me.

"I'll be out of this cast in about two weeks." Al says. "Yeah, it will be all right by time for football season next fall. That's a long time."

Al seemed happy enough about the whole thing, surprisingly so when you think of all a guy can lose in almost a month of unwelcome idleness. Al's like that, you know.

L. M. U. Here To Open SMC Track Season

The Railsplitters of Lincoln Memorial University are the opponents of the Maryville thinly-clads this afternoon. The odds are all on the Scotties to take the meet with points to spare; however, the LMU squad can always be depended on to give the Scots plenty of opposition. The way the boys will run has been changed only slightly, this is to give a more balanced front tothe Railsplitters. This is the way they line up when the starting gun goes off this afternoon.

Two mile run: Don Rugh, Everett Gray.
Mile run: Bruce Morgan, Boydson Baird, Floyd Green, V. Leslie
Half mile run: Weldon Baird, William Baird.
440 yd. dash: Weldon Baird, Vernon Lloyd, Talmage, (undecided).
220 yd. dash: Talmage Etheredge.
220 low hurdles: Orr, Talmage, or Steakley.
100 yd. dash: Talmage, Etheredge, or Orr.
120 high hurdles: Orr, Steakley.
Shot put: McCurry, Propst, Tulloch.
Discus: Bill Bair, Weldon Baird, Propst
Javelin: Rea, Boydson Baird, Bill Baird
High jump: Nicely, Odell, Etheredge.
Broad jump: Nicely, Odell, Etheredge.
Pole vault: Chandler, Meares, Rea.
Mile relay: Weldon Baird, Morgan, Orr, Talmage.

Davidson 76 1-3 Maryville 49 2-3

Roy Talmage and Gene Orr shook off sleet and the opposition in five different events last Saturday to keep the Scots in the running in their opening meet with the Davidson Wildcats. The Cats took a 76 1-3 to 49 2-3 decision, however, being aided no little by a clean sweep of the field events.

Talmage paced the field in the hun-

Competing

The competition for the positions of Editor and Business Manager of "The Highland Echo" for next year will be held on Tuesday evening in Dean Barnes' lecture room.

Candidates for either position may submit credentials of any kind concerning their ability or experience. It is hoped that a large number of students will enter the competition.

Winning

Highlanders won over Lincoln Memorial university by the score of 7-1.

Notables

Looking back over the list of Maryville graduates, one finds that there are many of them of whom the College has a right to be proud.

One of Maryville's graduates, Dr. Magell, translated the entire Bible into Tagalogy, a language of the Philippines. Samuel Martin Inman is the sole millionaire that Maryville can boast.

Many of Maryville's sons have figured largely in the political life of our county. Chief among the number is Sam Houston, Governor of Tennessee, and first president of Texas. He entered Maryville academy, the forerunner of the College, but finding Indian fighting more to his taste than Virgil, deserted the pursuit of learning to enlist in the Creek wars.

Lyceum

The Fiechtl's Tyrolean yodlers will present a unique musical entertainment here Tuesday evening.

Profound Thought

Statistics show that student morals are better through June, July, and August.

INGENUITY AWARD — Gracie Allen decided to make her own award to college students. While making "College Swing" for Paramount, she discovered that the smart students became Phi Beta Kappas and got all kinds of honors. She thought it was all wrong. Any smart boy can graduate from a university, she insisted, if his grades are high enough. The deserving boy, in Gracie's opinion, is the ingenious one who gets his skin with low grades. So she is awarding a bearskin as the Gracie Allen Award for Ingenuity to the boy graduating with the lowest marks from an American college.

What is a horse worth? The question is prompted by an incident that ocurred here recently. An intinerant horse buyer bought a horse for $80. The next day another intinerant buyer came along and seeing the horse asked its price. He was told it was $200. After some dickering the price was finally agreed upon was $172.50. A profit of $92.50 was made. The horse was only in possession of the first buyer over night. Which price was the right price?

Netmen Face Full Slate Next Week

Thi safternoon Maryville's tennis team will make its first out of town trip to Knoxville where it will meet the net men of the University of Tennessee.

Maryville's squad will be fresh from the Chattanooga match and may come back from Knoxville victorious, but if thy do, it will be the first time in several years. The Scotty squad appears to be in much better form than at the same time in previous years, however.

TUSCULUM-E. T. T.—

Slowing down only for Sunday, the net men will continue their conquests on Monday against East Tennessee Teachers college and stop over at Tusculum to meet the racketeers of that school on Tuesday.

L.M.U.—

Taking two days out for breathing, the Maryville squad will take the war path again against Lincoln Memorial University on Friday. This will be the second match to be played at home so far this year.

So far, the seven major contestant—Gillingham, Morrow, Colombo, McCammon, Augenstein, Akana, and Van Cise—seem to be in excellent form, and the prospects look just as promising as they did in preseason predictions.

Singer, Lundeen, Jorgenson, and Telman;
Collins, Copeland, Honaker, and Evers.

The second game was a repitition of the first, only more so. The score was 15-9, and a bloody affair it was, too. Illinois got off to a 7-1 lead in the first four innings and seemed to be away to a top-heavy win, but the Scots halted the enemy offensive finally and then launched a better one of their own. A walk, two errors, Parker's triple, and Evers' double brought in four runs in the last of the fourth, and three more crossed in the next inning on an error, Hernandez' double and Parker's homerun over the center fielder's head.

The next big inning was the eighth, in which Black's single, a walk to Hernandez, Odell's single, Wilburn's triple and doubles by Evers and Honaker did the damage.

Perhaps the outstanding marks of the competition were the 10:1 century turned in by Talmage and the 40 foot three inch shot toss by Crisp. Most of the figures were given a poor complexion by the weather, which could hardly have been worse, and by the condition of many of the competitors, which was ditto.

The Lincoln Memorial B.V.D. boys may find things a bit different Saturday. In fact they are due to be underdogs of a most decided nature.

Queener Elected To Nat'l Council Of Pi Kappa Delta At Meet In Topeka, Kansas

Debate Squad Of Maguire, Brown Rated Excellent At PKD Convention

TEAM WINS IN STATE

Kramer And Proffitt Are Semi-Finalists In Extempore

Prof. Verton M. Queener, Maryville debate coach, was elected to the national council of Pi Kappa Delta yesterday at the national convention in Topeka, Kansas. He was installed, along with the president, vice president, and two other council members, before a group of 800 at the closing banquet of the convention last evening.

News reached Maryville yesterday that Louise Proffitt and Arnold Kramer reached the semi-finals in the extempore contest and the women's debate team composed of Curtmarie Brown and Helen Maguire was one of the 13 teams out of 75 entries rated excellent. The women's team won six out of eight rounds of debate and the men's team, Otto Pflanze and Arnold Kramer, won five out of eight rounds.

This news reached Maryville yesterday in a telegram from Prof. Queener. The telegram read as follows: Proffitt and Kramer reached semi-finals ex tempora. Girls won six boys five of eight rounds. Seventy-five girls teams entered, Maryville one of thirteen to be rated excellent. May we come home?

Verton M. Queener

The debaters are expected to return to Maryville early Monday morning.

The Maryville varsity debate team returned from the state tournament at Middle Tennessee Teacher's college in Murfreesboro last Sunday, after having taken first place in practically every event entered. Harwell Proffitt and Clifford Proctor took first place among the men's debate teams; Miriam Wagoner and Sara Lee Hellums took first place among women's debate teams; Clifford Proctor took first place in after-dinner speaking; and Arda Walker took first place in oratory.

Louise Proffitt won second place and a prize of $30.00 in the original oratory contest on the subject of peace. Clifford Proctor and Sara Lee Hellums were also ranked as the best debaters in the men and women's divisions respectively.

Maryville also won for the second time the state tournament cup, having won it for the first time in 1936. After winning it three times, it will become a permanent possession of the school.

Accompanying the debaters to Murfreesboro were Professor Queener, and four other members of the varsity squad, Otto Pflanze, Arnold Kramer, Helen Maguire, and Curtmarie Brown. These four, along with Professor Queener and Louise Proffitt, left Murfreesboro at 5 a.m. Saturday morning for Topeka, Kansas, where they competed in the National Pi Kappa Delta convention, April 18-22.

Occupational Interest Tests Available Now In Personnel Office

Vocational interest tests for college men and women made up by Edward K. Strong, Jr., professor of Psychology of Stanford university, are now being given at the personnel office. The test, which has been ranked in the March issue of the Educational Digest as one of the foremost of its kind in this country, is, according to Dr. F. D. McClelland, "not a prediction of success, nor does it try definitely to establish one's ability. It simply attempts to determine whether a student's interests approach interests of given people in that profession."

This test, one set for women and one for men, contains eight parts which are to be taken rapidly so that no extra thought may be given to any particular question, and thus perhaps change the natural spontaneous answer. Students are asked to check desirable and undesirable occupations, amusements, and activities; to list in order of preference certain activities; and to compare interests between two items. So far 35 women and 20 men

Music Students Present Recital

Dramatic Art Department Gives Tea Tonight

Advanced students of the Music department were presented in recital last evening at eight o'clock in the Fine Arts studio. The soloists were Louise Felknor, pianist, and Annabelle Voight, violinist. Selections from Mozart's Trio in B flat major were played by the Maryville college trio composed of John Guinter, violin, Erwin Ritzman, cello, and Louise Felknor, pianist.

Another student music recital will be given Friday evening at eight o'clock in the fine arts studio. At this time Bernice Smith, Sara Hussey, and John Guinter will be the soloists.

During music week, the first week of May, there will be special programs in the chapel services. To conclude the festivities, the orchestra will give its annual formal concert Friday evening, May 6.

Further activities of the Fine Arts department include a musical vesper service on May 8. The new verse choir, which made its first appearance Easter morning, will be included on the program.

On May 10, Mabel Longmire, violinist, and Zillah McKenzie, pianist, will appear in recital. A senior student recital will be given by Edward Brubaker, on May 13, in the chapel at 8:00. Mr. Brubaker will be assisted by Ruth Mack, advanced piano student.

Edwin Goddard and Harriet Barber, well known vocalists, will participate in a student voice recital May 17.

The year's activities of the Fine Arts department will be brought to a close with a program which will include a play and music, May 27.

U. Of T. Professor To Address Forum

Dr. J. Westley Hoffman, professor of history at the University of Tennessee, will speak to the Peace Forum Friday evening at 6:45 in the philosophy classroom. Dr. Hoffman will probably talk on Austria or on some subject connected with the European situation.

The speaker has studied history both in America and in Europe. He received his B.A. from the University of Minnesota, his M. A. and Ph.D. from the University of Chicago. He has studied at Berlin and Bonn.

Everyone is invited to this meeting which will be of interest to all.

Bassett To Speak At YW Tomorrow

The Y.W.C.A. meeting Sunday afternoon will be a service in honor of the golden anniversary of Y.W.C.A. at Maryville college. Miss Almira Bassett, one time president of the organization, will speak. Her subject will be "Y.W.C.A. 1888 to 1938." Miss Bassett will tell something of the history of Y.W. at Maryville, and looking toward future work, will give the recently installed officers of the organization something on which to build their program for the coming year.

Baird Announces Cabinet Changes For Coming Year

Directors Of Fellowship, Worship And Athletics Appointed

Weldon Baird, president-elect of the YMCA, has chosen his cabinet for next year, and, following its approval Thursday night by the organization's Advisory Board made it public today.

For the position of worship directors, four men have been appointed. They are Marvin Minear, Erwin Ritzman, Warren Ashby, and Vernon Lloyd. Minear is a five year student at Maryville and is the retiring president of the YMCA. Ritzman, a sophomore, is a member of the college choir, and cellist in the little symphony orchestra. Ashby was on the cabinet last year as director of boy's work; and Lloyd, a freshman, is also a member of the vesper choir.

The athletic committee, which manages interclass sports, will next year consist of Eugene Orr and William Baird. Both are outstanding track men. Orr was one of the athletic directors this year.

The fellowship committee is to be made up of William Alston and Fred Rhody. Rhody was one of the worship directors on the 1937-38 cabinet. This committee plans the social program of the organization, including the fall pow-wow and hikes.

A committee on community work, combining the positions of boy's Hi-Y and orphanage, will be made up of Ernest Enslin and Clement Hahn. Enslin has worked at the Battle Branch Mission during the past year.

Philip Evaul will be the Y representative on the Artist Series committee. Two new positions have been created this year. Robert Martin will have charge of maintenance of Bartlett hall, and Frank Brink will be director of publicity.

The Advisory Board elected Fred Rhody to the vacancy in the position of representative from the class of 1939, caused by the election of Weldon Baird to the Y presidency. Baird becomes ex-officio member of the Board.

Two One Act Plays Presented Tonight

Monthly Teas Instituted By Dramatic Students

The Dramatic Art department instituted this year a series of studio teas to be given monthly to two invited groups in the Fine Arts studio. This evening at 8:00 the last of the series will be given. Two one act plays will be presented: "The Bad Penny" by Rachel Field, and "Their Husband" by Gerstenberg. Ellen Losey will play the part of Kate in "The Bad Penny," Deane Brown, Margaret; Muriel Mann, Lil; Ruth Lloyd, Peggy. In "Their Husband" Sara Bolton will play the gypsy; Louise Allen, the girl; Etta Culbertson, the divorcee; and Arda Walker, the mother.

Bernice Smith will play between plays and Richard Heck will announce. A social hour will follow the program.

Irene Browder And James Proffitt Will Rule May Day Festival Saturday

Robin Hood, Forest Queen, Punch And Judy, St. George Combined To Present May Day In Early England

Queen Irene Browder, escorted by senior class president James Proffitt as king, will reign over the annual May day celebration held this afternoon at 2 p.m. in the college ampitheatre. Attendants to the queen are Louise Orr, Evelyn Ferguson.

Class representatives who will be in the royal court are Genevieve Metcalf, '39, with George Hunt; Lawrence Lowe, '39, with Ruth Woods; Ruth Crawford, '40, with Arnold Kramer; Erwin Ritzman, '40, with Ruth Abercrombie; Jean McCammon, '41, with George Felknor; and Charles Baldwin, '41, with Sue Stevenson.

Helen Bobo as Forest Queen with her attendants will introduce to the audience an authentic May Day in early Merry England. Robin Hood, portrayed by Reese Scull, and all his men will attend the festival of dance and song. History tells us that a play was always presented on this celebrated occasion and of the most important ones were "Saint George and the Dragon" and "Punch and Judy," a forerunner of the modern marionettes. "Punch and Judy" will be presented Saturday and songs from "As You Like It" will be featured, also traditional English sword dances and the spontaneous English folk dances. An entertaining program closely following former May Days in early English history is promised.

The festival is under the general supervision of Mrs. Nita Eckles West. Co-workers are Professor Ralph Colbert, in charge of the music by the combined Glee clubs and the college band, and Mrs. Verton M. Queener, director of the 75 girls who will dance. Both the music and dancing in the festival are historically authentic.

The two committees working on the program are from the Y.W.C.A.: Virginia Boyse and Etta Culbertson, and the Dramatic Art department: Deane Brown, Carol Ward, Dottie Haines and Lois Black.

Other workers meriting appreciation are Ellen Sauer, in charge of the costumes, which are all being obtained from the Fine Arts department wardrobe, and Dottie Haines who has gone through the library collecting the historical material that has been used in planning this May day.

Dr. Edwin Mims Is Speaker On Wed.

Vanderbilt Scholar Speaks About English Life

Dr. Edwin Mims, distinguished professor and head of the department of English at Vanderbilt university, addressed the student-body Wednesday morning at a recognition service for those seniors recently elected to membership in Alpha Gamma Sigma, Maryville college honor scholarship society. Later in the morning, before a group composed largely of English majors, he spoke informally on "Bright Intervals in England," an account of his last visit to the British Isles.

Dr. Mims, himself a member of Phi Beta Kappa, is the first speaker to appear here in this connection with the local honor fraternity. He has taught for varying periods of time in St. Andrews University; Trinity college, Dublin; the University of London; the University of Wales: Exeter; and in the summer sessions of Johns Hopkins; University of Southern California, the California Institute of Technology, and other leading American colleges and universities. Dr. Mims is also a writer of repute, recognized as such for his latest works, "The Advancing South" and "Adventurous America," as well as critical editions of several classics and contributions to "The Cambridge History of American Literature," "The Dictionary of American Biography," and "The Encyclopedia Britannica."

Dr. E. R. Hunter, secretary of Alpha Gamma Sigma, extended a welcome to the new members, and Mrs. Dorothy N. Crawford, '35, president, read the requirements of membership. Those initiated were Edward Brubaker, Mary Frances Dewell, Clara Dale Echols, Constance Johnson, John Lancaster, Helen Maguire, Louise Orr, Frances Perrin, Stanley Phillips, Ruth Sylvester, Jack Thelin, and Joseph Wallace.

Senior Exams Set For May 5 And 6

Major Department Heads Explain Grading

Comphehensive examinations will be given to members of the senior class on May 5 and 6 by the heads of their major departments. For the past few weeks most of the departments have been having informal conferences concerning the examinations.

The relation between performance on Comprehensive Examinations and the total record of the student is to be computed on the following plan:

Grade on C. Ex.	Grade Point Valuation
A plus	140
A	120
A-	100
B plus	80
B	60
B-	40
C plus	20
C	0
C-	-20
D	-40
F	-60

Bjoerling From Met Opera Was Distinctive Find Of Season

EUROPE LIKES CHOIR

Walter Gieseking Is Known To Musically Minded As Poet-Pianist

The Salzburg Trapp choir, Jussi Bjoerling, Scandinavian tenor, and Walter Gieseking, famous pianist have been signed with the Maryville college Artist series for next year, Professor George D. Howell announced today.

The choir, scheduled to appear October 17, comes with a warm personal endorsement from Lotte Lehmann who marvels at "the originality, the musical rhythm, and the finely delivered ensemble work of these extraordinarily artistic choral singers." This unique organization has come to be one of the most popular features of the famous Salzburg festival and has been received with acclaim in the great music centers of Europe. Its appearance here next fall will be among the earliest on the choir's first American tour.

Jussi Bjoerling, Metropolitan opera tenor, has been characterized as one of the distinct "finds" of the current season. The staid New York Times said of him in a recent recital: "Mr. Bjoerling's is a lyric tenor that is capable of being projected with amplitude in the grand style. Its range is extensive and is full throughout the scale with especial brilliance in the top tones. Transpositions downward are not for this young man. He can hit high C with a clearness and power and resonance that are stirring when one recalls the stranglings of less lavishly endowed singers. Having been brought up in a musical family, Mr. Bjoerling sings with the accuracy of intonation and the good taste of a musician."

"Musical America" of January 25 carried the following tribute to his genius: "Those who were lucky enough to attend this recital heard an evening of as nearly perfect singing as could be imagined. Mr. Bjoerling, who had previously been heard through a few radio appearances, made his first local appearance in a recital program. It was immediately evident that once again, Scandinavia had sent us a singer of technical perfection. The voice itself, while not of striking individual character, has a fine masculine ring throughout its compass; the registers are perfectly joined and the highest tones firm and free. Other excellencies, as agreeable as they are rare, were Mr. Bjoerling's sense of phrase and his

Seniors Produce Milne Comedy Hit

"To Meet The Prince" Had Long New York Run

The senior class will present A. A. Milne's sparkling comedy "To Meet The Prince," on the evening of May 28th. This will round out and climax a year of outstanding dramatic productions.

"To Meet The Prince" was chosen with the thought of entertainment foremost in mind. The committee which has made this choice has made a definite departure from the usual type of play chosen. Instead of a heavy, intense drama with an intricate plot and highly emotional scenes, they have chosen a plain but brilliantly clever comedy. This play ran for ninety six consecutive performances on Broadway.

The play will be cast in the near future and since there is a wealth of dramatic ability in the class each part should be played at its best. Rehearsals will start early in May with probably a few days out for comprehensives.

It is quite possible that there may be a reduction from the usual fifty cent price, and if there is, a larger house than the nine hundred which attended last year's senior play may be expected.

Ticket Seller Recalls Joys Of "Conqest" Sale

To the average student, a ticket seller is a semi-intelligent being with two hands, who sits behind a small window, or cardboard sign, and exchanges numbered pasteboards for silver money. However, some of those beings have been known in private life to recall impressions from the fringe of memory around that central act. A few amateurs in the work even remember bits of conversation attending the act, as these intelligent quotations will verify: "What's in this Conquest? What've we got here? Tickets—for what? Quarter each—fifty cents for a couple then? Look at her advertise herself! How's business! Have to have class dues paid? ('Fraid so, sorry.) Twenty-five cents—cheap for a Conquest! Say, what's it worth if I buy a ticket; how good is the picture? Give me Myrna Loy and I'll take one."

Credit goes to those who planned to see the show and offered to buy tickets from the seniors to help out. Perhaps no less credit is deserved by the motive prompting a few others, faintly recalled, whose inquiry stated simply was. "In case I decide to buy two tickets from you now to use later tonight if we can't go at 7:20, and then not go for refreshments, or maybe just one (I don't know yet for sure) to use this afternoon if I don't want two and can return one—will it be any better, I mean about buying tickets here or down there—have you got a special price?"

"No, the price is the same, so, maybe—"

"Well what do you get; whatcha bothering about this for? Oh, I see, reserved seats for party and refreshments for nothing. Well, good!" By this time the two tickets are being pocketed.

Sophomore Bob comes in with senior girl friends' roommate: "What's this? Say, when you go up tell Betty we have tickets for the theater party. Well you just tell her."

An observing pal standing by formulates these general statements: Every 2 1-2 comers ask, "Will there be another chance to get 'em?" Every tired person who buys, as he walks away listening to the two-point oral instruction accompanying every ticket, retreats approximately one yard to exclaim, "You mean we don't have to walk down in a bunch at one time together! How soon can we go?" Every fifth buyer uses paraphrase for a memory device to make the seller's words, "Immediately after the show back to the YW," into "straight back for hamburgers." The first two and the last three customers of each sitting are freshman boys who jokingly demand a couple please, and, unoffended at denial promise to bring credentials to establish buying power.

SATURDAY, APRIL 23

Still The Object Of Commendation

Last Sunday morning over six hundred students, faculty, and visitors gathered at the college ampitheatre to witness what promised to be one of the most beautiful and impressive worship services of the year. That a sudden downpour cut short the program, scattered the audience, and drenched the participants is no longer news. But the spirit in which it was all taken is still the object of general and deserved commendation.

That Easter service was the result of months of planning and weeks of practice. It represented the sacrifice of the time and effort of a hundred people. Yet there was no grumbling, no discouragement. In their place was a very evident desire to cooperate. Everybody rose to the occasion in a way which points to the success of group activity in general and to the high calibre of our musical organizations in particular. Probably the best example of this was the efforts of the women of the choir. Unasked, they washed and pressed the vestments of the whole group and made it possible to hold as scheduled the musical vespers that evening.

Greater still is the appreciation due those members of the Fine Arts faculty responsible for the idea of the sunrise service—Miss Davies, Mrs. West, Miss Horne, and especially Mr. Colbert, who after the disaster of the morning, conducted a highly successful broadcast in the afternoon and a distinctive all-musical vespers in the evening.

Despite rain and misfortune all present at the sunrise service felt it was a success and its establishment as a yearly custom of the college is eagerly anticipated.

UP OUR HALL

BY GEORGE HUNT

"NOTHING VENTURED nothing gained," says the old adage. So we venture into columning and present these paragraphs for your consideration and criticism. The purpose of this column is to entertain with bits of unusual news, reminiscences, and whatever ideas our meandering mind might hit upon.

IT WAS A FRONT PAGE STORY Tuesday morning about Mrs. Roosevelt and her latest clever crack that makes good news. A reporter asked her if she were not afraid her husband would send her back to the kitchen if he became dictator. With a laugh she replied, "The two are equally probable. I can't imagine the President being a dictator or myself going back to the kitchen."

• • • • •

MRS. ROOSEVELT, in the same interview, commended the childbirth photos which appeared in a recent issue of Life. Consensus of opinion among many Maryville students, men at least, seems to be that there was no harm in publishing the pictures since elaborate precautions were taken to keep them from getting into wrong hands. The fact remains, however, that this has been questionable publicity for the April 8 issue of Life, publicity which it did not need. Only in that respect does it lower our opinion of the picture magazine: if it was a publicity stunt it did more harm than good; if it was for the purpose of presenting honest facts it is commendable.

CLIPPING FROM HOME a few weeks ago tells us that "Blondie" of the comics is going to be in the movies. Had you heard the story connected with Chic Young, creator of the strip? Some time ago his little boy, who was the prototype of Baby Dumpling, died. Chic refused to draw another cartoon for a long time, but was finally persuaded by his friends to take up the work again.

THE PATIENCE OF DOGS seems to be the theme of a vignette reprinted in the May issue of the Reader's Digest. They tell of an Irish setter who accompanies his banker master to the train every morning and sees him off. Then he sits down and waits to be called for by the family chaffeur. This reminds us of our own Tack who inhabits at any time any one of the dormitories and seems to have so little interest in any of them. We know of few humans who have as much disinterested interestedness as Tack. He is always willing to be petted, but while we are petting him he seems bored to death. This column would like to know more about Tack, for no reason other than idle curiosity. Can any reader tell us anything about him?

• • • • •

AMONG OUR SOUVENIRS are the Easters of the days when we were younger. We can remember cocoanut eggs with our names on it, but we recall most vividly the huge 5 pound egg which her boy friend gave our sister every year. It always had colored candy flowers on it and her name in white candy. She used to cut off the part with the decorations on it and put it away in a box, and then the rest of it was put someplace where we could find it.

IT WAS SOMETHING worthy of note, the way you guys and gals took the drenching Sunday morning. We had expected to go to breakfast and see long faces and washed-out expressions. Instead everybody was laughing at and with the girls who had their hair tied up in bandanas.

THE BELL, Mr. Black tells us, has been elected to be placed among Maryville mementos in the museum. We're glad to see it get the place it deserves. After delving into some of its history we got quite an attachment to the thing.

Signs of the Times

By OTTO PFLANZE, JR.

Goebbels Gabbles

Dr. Paul Goebbels, much publicised publiciser of Hitler and all things Hitlerish, made an oration in Vienna just before the recent plebiscite. Between paeans of praise for treaty-scrapping and Jew suicides, he inserted a few words about critics of the policies he helps support and propagate.

"Our critics are morbid, degenerate, democratic intellectuals," said the Minister of Propaganda and Public enlightenment. Isn't it interesting, and depressing, that in a modern European state the term "democratic intellectual" is no compliment, but a terrible condemnation, a parallel with "morbid" or "degenerate"?

There is cause for grief in that utterance, but there is cause for hope too. It shows well the fear of Goebbels and his kind for what may well be their undoing, shows their whole system quaking at the thought of "democratic intellectuals," and with good reason.

Perhaps Dr. Goebbels knows enough history to recall with a shudder that tyranical Bourbon control of France fell with an awful crash before the efforts of a few "democratic intellectuals." Or that another of these "morbid, degenerate" rascals, Tom Paine, wrote "Common Sense" and helped raise the American colonies to effective rebellion against the personal rule of George III.

"Our critics are morbid, degenerate, democratic intellectuals.' Probably one of the most enlightening statements that the Minister of Public Enlightenment ever got cheered for.

OR WEREN'T YOU LISTENING?

Perhaps the above makes you think again of Dr. Mims' plea for the development and use of intellectual ability. Inspired humanism like his is at least a refreshing change, after discussions of titanic movements and irresistible forces in this old demonic, doomed world of ours(or of the munitions makers). And I think it's almost as practical.

Newton Dilloway has written an absorbing book called "Prophet of America." Of course, the title is misleading, because it is not about Roosevelt but about Emerson. It's still a good book. In it, Mr. Dilloway tells of a midnight lunch-wagon interview with the late Will Rogers. One of the little queries put was "Will, what's wrong with the world?" The answer finally came, in that beloved drawl, "Well, it's people, I guess."

That is not the mere quip of a jester. If you should be searching for something to think about just now, or, more likely, for something to teach your class tomorrow you might try working on that simple answer of Will's.

And then on the other hand—there are five fingers.

STILL POINTING

Aren't those words of the cowboy philosopher a sort of approximation of Christ's answer to the world's problems? And don't we lose sight of that sometimes? Churches all over the nation supported with religious zeal a war to make the world safe for democracy. Maryville was no exception. Now I never tried, but I believe it would be hard to find in the Bible any endorsement of democracy or of any other definite political, or economic system. Socialism, communism, benevolent monarchy, even in a sense fascism, all have as their ultimate goal the greatest good of the greatest number. The differences are in method. "Give unto Caesar that which is Caesar's" is certainly no condemnation of dictatorship. Christ knew that the cure for our ills depends finally upon no system but upon our own individual selves.

Christ's teachings are a Sign of the Times, a little weather-beaten, it is true, from standing neglected so long, but still pointing the way.

ability to sing pianissimo high tones without going into falsetto."

Mr. Bjoerling, late this winter, signed a contract for leading roles in the Metropolitan. He is also on the regular roster of the Roval Opera, Stockholm; the Royal Opera, Copenhagen; the State Opera, Vienna; L Scala, Milan; and the Chicago Opera as a leading tenor.

The name of Walter Gieseking, to the musically minded, is synonymous with "The Poet-Pianist." He does not thunder and lighten. He does not attempt to imitate an orchestra or to deafen and awe the listener by his speed and power. Nor is he a parlor-poet poseur or sentimentalist. First of all, he senses, and knows, the exact sonorous limitations of his instrument. He keeps within these limits, with such a wealth of nuance and variety of color that he can make a dozen climaxes within the limits of many a pianist's one. Yet he is not a miniaturist. He is a musician of consummate skill and a sense of proportion which gives his art a beauty and eloquence which lingers with singular distinctness in the memory. Mr. Gieseking is a profound thinker and student of his art, but his thinking is the vehicle of poetry and beauty, and his obviously meticulous examination of every note of a score never results in pedantry. On the contrary, the phrasing is of the most expressive sort and Mr. Gieseking's treatment of problems of tempo and rhythm are worth careful study in themselves.

Gieseking, a robust six-footer, never seeks to impress his listeners by any dramatic devices, but by his simple playing of music for its own sake he rouses greater enthusiasm than any pianist of this generation. His hands, which have a spread of a thirteenth, are capable of producing an almost imperceptible pianissimo. One critic wrote, "There is something startling in finding this delicate pianissimo, this subtlety of shading, this singing legato, coming from the hands of so gigantic and powerful a human frame."

SENIOR EXAMS MAY 5 AND 6

Thus a student having on 122 hours an average of C, or 366 grade points, must make a grade of C or above in order to maintain graduation average. One with a total of 350 grade points on 122 hours who made a C plus grade on the examination would have his total raised to 370 and would thus be enabled to graduate; or one with a total of 370 on 122 hours who made a C minus on the examination would have his total reduced to 350 and would thus fail of graduation.

The same principle will apply to those who are on the border line of Cum laude and Magna cum laude honors. Cum laude honors on 122 hours call for 732 points on courses plus 60 points (B grade on Comprhensive Examination), a total of 792 points. Hours above the minimum of 122, call for a proportional increase in grade points on the course record, as, 132 hours call for 396 points as minimum attainment.

Barbour Addresses Ministerial Dinner

Eighty nine students and guests attended the annual banquet of the Ministerial association which was held at the Northern Methodist church last Tuesday evening. The ladies of the church served the dinner; and the committee, composed of Malcolm Brown, Russell Stevenson, and George Hunt, decorated the hall. The theme this year was spring sports, and was carried out in the placecards, program, and decoration.

Dr. Edwin R. Hunter was toastmaster for the banquet. He introduced the numbers on the program, which included a talk by Dr. Clifford E. Barbour, prominent Knoxville pastor and this year's February meetings speaker. Other features of the program were a vocal solo by Mary Alice Minear, a violin solo by Edward Brubaker, a piano reading by Helen Bewley, and a number by the association quartet, a talk by Phil Evaul, and group singing led by Don Killian.

The chaperones were Dr. and Mrs. H. E. Orr, and guests included members of the college faculty, the Rev. and Mrs. Floyd Watt, and Dr. and Mrs. O. R. Tarwater.

Announce Wedding Of Student; Alumni

Lucille Goyne, a member of the freshman class, announced this week her marriage, on April 9, to Romulus Meares, a Maryville graduate of the class of 1937, and now a student in the Law college of the University of Tennessee. They plan to reside in Knoxville.

Mary Emory, a graduate of last year's class and of the music department, was married March 19, to Mr. L. C. Farley, principal of Hellier High school, Hellier, Kentucky. The ceremony took place in Pikeville, Kentucky. Mr. and Mrs. Farley will live in Lexington, where they will both attend the summer session at the University of Kentucky.

Band And Choir Guests Of Mrs. Walker Easter

On Sunday morning from 4 to 5 o'clock, the musical groups taking part in the sunrise Easter service in the College Woods had breakfast at the Home Economics practice house. About 170 were guests going in groups at intervals after the band at 4:00.

The excellent breakfast was the treat of Mrs. John Walker, friend of the college, whose home is in the College Woods. It was prepared by girls now living in the practice house, Mary Kate Anderson, Evelyn Trulious, and Ruth Emory; hostesses were Miss Gertrude Meiselwitz, Miss Rachel Armstrong, and Mrs. Ethel Martin.

Future War Veterans

An International Ill-Will Institute has been founded at Emory university with the purpose of satirizing war. "Join now! You won't live to regret it," students are urged. The Institute advertises, "War for the whole family, bring the wife and kiddies." "A war in every window," "What helps war helps us," "Spleens vented; wars supplied." Over 250 Emory students already have pledged their support to the I.I.I. The majority of the application blanks showed a desire to be buried at Times Square, to have their identification tags written in Sanskrit, and to crucify children in the next war.

On The Bench

-with-

THE SPORTS EDITOR

Under New Management—

With trepidation in our hearts and typewriters in our hands we take over the Sport's page. Trying to fill the shoes of the Hon. Mr. Byrne is a large job in more ways than one; however, if we are able to depict the Sport's woldr at Maryville as well as did Mr. Byrne, we will be more than satisfied. Also thankful.

In The Major Circuits—

Baseball season was officially opened last week throughout the country. With Joe Dimaggio's name on the dotted line, the New York Yankees look like sure shots to repeat this year. However, Chicago and Cleveland, who have stronger teams this year, are sure to put up a stiff fight for the coveted pennant. In the National League, with the News that the great Diz' Dean had been sold to the Cubs, the odds immediately swung heavily to the Windy City's side. The news that Dean had been sold down the river, came as a big surprise to many fans. The Cards and Diz have long been topics of conversation, and it is my guess that the Cardinals will miss the Great Diz. Incidentally, speaking of Dimaggio's holdout, the Italian boy is losing heavy sugar every day that he does not play for Col. Ruppert's champs. And, he is out of shape. 'Tis bad, 'tis bad.

Scotties Trim Eagle's Wings—

The Scotties opened their conference baseball season with a win over their long time enemies, the Eagles of Carson-Newman. The pitching and fielding of the Highlanders has improved a great deal since the early season exhibition games. However, the Scots are still weak as far as the outfield is concerned. With Al Burris on the sidelines with an injudy, the Highlanders have no experienced men in reserve to cover the grass. Catching is another problem right at the moment. With Burris and Swift both out, the heavy burden falls on the depenable shoulders of the veteran Glen Evers. Evers is a splendid receiver, and is proving it more and more with the passing of each game; however, if a foul tip should split his finger, the worries of the Scots will be increased tenfold, for there is no one that Coach Honaker can use to replace Evers. Despie all these bad signs, the Scots have more than an even chance to win again the conference championship.

Scots To Meet U.T., U of C And Milligan

The Maryville thin-clads are visiting at the University of Tennessee, where they are having a meet with the Vols. Despite the fact that Tennessee defeated them last year, the Scottics are determined to give the tracksters from U-T plenty of opposition. The score of last year's meet was 79-46.

On Wednesday the Highlanders will journey to Chattanooga, and their opponents will be the University of Chattanooga. The score of the meet last year was 70-56, with the Scots on the top end of the score.

One week from today is the next home meet for the Highlanders. Their opponents are the runners from Milligan. Milligan was last year's Conference champs and are expected to give the Scotties plenty of stiff opposition.

This is the way the Highlanders will probably run in all three of the coming week's meets.

Two mile run: Gray, Rugh.
Mile run: Morgan, B. Baird, Green, Leslie.
Half mile run: Weldon Baird, William Baird.

Scotties Defeat LMU, 107 To 23

The Maryville college trackmen scored an easy victory over the Rail-splitters from Lincoln Memorial last Saturday afternoon by amassing a total of 107 1-2 points to LMU's 23 1-2.

The Highlanders, led by Captain Talmage, Gene Orr, and the Three Baird Boys, took 13 first places, and 12 seconds. The visitors won only the javelin and pole-vault.

Talmage was high-point man of the meet, with firsts in the 100 yd. dash, the 220 dash, and the quarter mile. Gene Orr won both hurdle races for a total of ten points. The three Bairds, headed by Weldon, who won the discus throw and the half mile, garnered a total of 25 points between them.

Today the Scotties are running against the Tennessee Vols, who are expected to give the Scotties some tough opposition.

Pole-vault—Williams (L), 10' 6"; Chandler (M), Rae (M), Meares (M) tied for second.

Weldon Baird Is Handball Champ

Weldon Baird, junior, won the YM CA annual handball tournament Friday afternoon by defeating runner-up Malcolm Brown. The score of the games was 14-21, 21-16, 21-17, 21-17. Brown took the first game, and Baird took the last three.

Baird reached the finals by virtue of defeating Jim Etheredge in three out of four games; Etheredge winning the first game. Brown defeated Reese Scull, pre-tournament favorite, in three straight games to reach the finals.

Tennis Team Ties One And Loses One

Maryville's net men showed up in above par form last Saturday against the University of Tennesse's tennis team to tie the Knoxville court men with four matches each.

Frank Morrow, number one Scotty player, lead the local team by taking the first match of the afternoon from Krisle, U-T, in straight sets, 6-3, 6-2. Morrow's form was quite good, and the number one man from Maryville played as good a game as has been seen from any of the Scotties this year.

Following the lead of Morrow, McCammon and Akana vanquished their foes. McCammon made short work of Randolph by winning 6-4, 6-0. Akana did not fare so well, but when he did get started he got through in a hurry. Armatage, U-T, made Akana put forth every effort before he was finally downed 4-6, 6-1, 6-2.

Gillingham, Van Cise and Colombo did not do quite as well. Gillingham lost to Gilespie in straight sets, 6-4, 6-4. Van Cise lost to Slattery, 6-3, 6-4. Colombo also lost to Lee of U-T after a some what freak match. Lee took the first set, 6-2, Colombo took the second, 6-1, but Lee took the third, 6-3.

Doubles matches were split as were the singles. U-T took the first doubles match when Krisle and Gilespie handled Gillingham and Morrow easily for a 6-3, 6-1 win. Colombo and McCammon took the second doubles match from Slattery and Randolph after a three set bout, 6-1, 3-6, 6-3.

Maryville's squad showed all round strength, but one or two players appeared to be a little off. This is the closest the Scots have come to defeating the Knoxville racketeers in several years. Maybe when they come to Maryville——

Winners Lift Tin Award After Hard-Fought Race

To the casual uninformed observor it may be merely a tin can, but to Miss Viola Lighfoot and John Lancaster it represents the well-rewarded recognition of their honest efforts and their meritorious accomplishments.

It was at the Alpha Gamma Sigma dinner at Pres. R. W. Lloyd's home the other evening that the cherished loving cup came into the possession of Miss Lightfoot and Lancaster, by virtue of their having won a treasure hunt.

For a week the highly-prized cup was in the keeping of Miss Lighfoot, of the personnel department; now it is John's privilege to exhibit the rare trophy.

POINT SYSTEM ENDS

The women's point system groups ended their year's work last Tuesday with the track test. The points wil be added for each girl and awards will be made at the end of May.

Scots Open Conference Baseball Season With 10-2 Victory Over Eagles

CAPTAIN COLLINS

Collins Allows Visitors Only Four Hits In First SMC Win

The Scotties successfully opened their Conference baseball season with a 10-2 win over the Eagles from Carson-Newman last Monday afternoon. "Ripper" Collins, ace right hander of the Maryville pitching staff, pitched a fine game giving the Eagles only four scattered bingles.

One of the longest drives of the season was a triple by Junior Odell, when he drove one of the Eagle's offerings far into left field and on over the race track.

Maryville made their first run when Parker scored after singling a few minutes before. In the third inning, the Scots, with the aid of singles by Hernandez and Odell, managed to pass three more runs over the plate. The Highlanders also scored three more in the hectic fifth inning, with Hughes, Evers, and Odell each clouting the horsehide for clean hits.

The visitors managed to score their two runs in the seventh, when Harris singled and Wilson was safe on an error; and scored when Wilburn let the ball get away from him.

The Highlanders were scheduled to play the Eagles in two more conference games this week, but were rained out of one of the two. With the Honakermen showing lots of fight and determination in the game with Carson Newman, all signs indicate that the Scots have a fine chance to retain their title as Smoky Mountain Conference Champs. A lot depends on whether or not Coach L. S. Honaker can find another catcher in case the veteran Glen Evers should be forced out of the line-up with an injury.

Collins To Lead Scots In SMC Drive

Bill "Ripper" Collins was elected last week by the Scotties to lead the Highlanders in their spring drive for the Smoky Mountain Conference baseball championship. "Ripper," an ace righte-hander, opened the Conference for the Scots with a 10-2 win over the Carson-Newman Eagles last Tuesday afternoon.

Collins, a veteran of three years, is the backbone of the varsity pitching staff, which is composed of Wilburn, Parker, and Collins. With all of these twirlers "on," the Scotties should have little trouble in defending their championship title this year.

Plenty Tennis

Next week's tennis schedule is rather well crammed with home matches. Tuesday Milligan's net squad will tangle with the Scotties here; Wednesday Birmingham Southern will also try to invade Maryville; and Thursday Tusculum will attempt to repeat last week's performance.

Maryville's squad will be in about the same order as in the previous matches this year with more strength than was displayed against Tusculum.

Birmingham Southern's team will certainly be an above par squad. The Southerners, journeying all the way from Birmingham, have a reputation as tennis players. The Maryville team is determined that they shall be disappointed however.

Milligan is an unknown as far as this year's tennis team is concerned, but the odds lean to the Fischbach squad.

Mentioning the Tusculum match rings a sad note to Maryville's players, but the defeat will be revenged by this time next week; so says the squad.

Seniors See Garbo, Boyer At Capitol

Seniors and their guests went as a party to the Capitol Theatre Wednesday evening to see "Conquest," starring Greta Garbo and Charles Boyer. This drama framed in authentic history of the ambitious Napoleon's rise and fall, centered around the love affair of Napoleon and Maria Louise.

After the show the party returned to the YW lounge on the campus for refreshments, where Ruth Sylvester, Ann Sligh, and Anne Raper were hostesses.

Miss Jessie Johnson and Miss Frances Rich were faculty guests for the occasion.

College Music Students Give Twilight Concert

Following an annual custom, Maryville college music students presented a Twilight concert for the Chilhowee club Tuesday afternoon at 4:00 in Voorhees chapel. Both vocal and instrumental numbers were featured by advanced students of the Fine Arts department of the college.

Ruth Woods, Louise Felknor, Mable Longmire, Bernice Smith, Zula Vance, Elizabeth Ann Huddleston, Ann Abel, Edward Brubaker, Ruth Mack and Miss Katherine Davies appeared on the program.

Earl C. Arnold, professor and dean of the School of Law at Vanderbilt University, addressed the Law club Wednesday evening. He spoke of law schools and openings for lawyers in a delightfully informal manner. After his speech, an open discussion and question period was held by the group.

Before the address, a short business meeting was held.

VOCATIONAL INTEREST TESTS

have taken the test, and any student may take it. It takes from a half to three-quarters of an hour, and may be taken at any time.

Women's occupations for which tests are given include author, librarian, artist, physician, dentist, life insurance saleman, social worker, teacher of English, teacher in general, teacher of social sciences, lawyer, Y.W.C.A. secretary, teacher of mathematics and physical sciences, nurse, stenographer, secretary, general office worker, housewife.

Men's occupations for which tests are given include accountant, advertiser, architect, artist, boy scout master, carpenter, certified public accountant, chemist, city school superintendent, dentist, engineer, farmer, journalist, lawyer, life insurance salesman, mathematician, minister, musician, policeman, psychologist, purchasing agent, office clerk, personnel manager, physician and surgeon, physicist, real estate salesman, school teacher and administrator, vacuum cleaner salesman, Y.M.C.A. general secretary, Y. M.C.A. physical director.

In the test of accountant, the reactions of 322 successful accountants weighed according to how the majority of men in that group felt and thought. The test has been made up considering these things, and the student is scored according to the ratings these successful accountants gave.

Because success has been proven to be largely correlated with interests, the vocational interest tests have been widely used and the results are most valuable.

At the meeting of the Nature club this week poisons found in nature were discussed. Among the poisons described were the snake and ivy poisons that are most common in the United States.

College Orchestra Pleases Audience In Spring Concert

Zula Vance Is Featured As Soloist In Concerto For Piano

STRAUSS WALTZ USED

Celebration of Music Week Includes Programs In Chapel

The thirty-six piece college symphony orchestra, under the direction of Ralph R. Colbert, presented its annual spring concert last night before an enthusiastic audience of over 500 people. The program, high point in the celebration of National Music week here, featured Zula Vance as soloist in Mendelssohn's G minor concerto for piano and orchestra. The concert opened with Beethoven's Egmont overture, originally composed for Goethe's tragedy of the same name presented at the Vienna Court theatre in 1810. The music gives a vivid picture of the oppressor and the oppressed which are the themes of the drama.

The second number was the molto allegro con fuoco movement of the G minor concerto. Miss Vance's interpretation received long and appreciative ovation at its completion. After the intermission, Mr. Colbert directed the orchestra in two movements of Beethoven's fourth symphony. A commissioned work, the fourth does not show Beethoven at his profoundest, but the melodic optimism of the work has long made it a favorite with concert-goers.

The program concluded with the always popular Strauss waltz, Tales from the Vienna Woods. The orchestra was rewarded with applause which lasted for several minutes. Mr. Colbert was called to the podium repeatedly and shared the honors with Miss Dorothy Horne, concert master.

Other members of the orchestra are Edward Brubaker, Mable Longmire, Annabelle Voight, Mary E. Haines, Margaret Hammond, Katharine Crews, first violin; Sarah Hussey, Margaret Lodwick, Marion Garwood, Elizabeth Warren, Harriet Walkup, Howland Hussey, second violin; John Guinter, viola; Erwin Ritzman, Robert Lucero, Patricia Criley, Hettie Whitehill, cello; Ruby Lynch, bass; Thelma Ritzman, Nina Husk, flute; Ivan Elder, Paul Elrod, Doris Sieweke, clarinet; Norman Bennett, horn; Ralph Reed, cornet; Sam Cornelius, Stanley Huddleston, Hal Simpson, trombone; William Gehres, percussion; and Oliver Williams, saxaphone.

Further celebration of National Music week included a short recital by the college trio in chapel Tuesday morning. This ensemble, composed of Louise Felknor, piano; John Guinter, violin; and Erwin Ritzman, cello played the Song Without Words of Tschaikowsky and a string trio by Mozart. Special music at the regular vesper service tomorrow evening will conclude our part in the observation of this nation-wide festival.

Observe Music Week In Vesper Program; Randolph Here Wed.

The vesper service tomorrow evening will be a special service of music, in recognition of National Music week. In addition to the program of music, President Ralph W. Lloyd will deliver a twelve-minute sermonette on "Music and Religion."

Zillah McKenzie and Kathleen Cissna will play Chaminade's "Le Soir," for two pianos. Bernice Smith will play the famous Nocturne in E flat by Chopin. The college string quartet will render Handel's "Larghetto." Also on the program are two numbers to be sung by the college choir, Christiansen's "Father Most Holy" and "Ave Maria" by Schubert.

At the Wednesday morning chapel service, Dr. H. S. Randolph will be the speaker. Dr. Randolph is associated with the Asheville Farm school, Swannanoe, North Carolina. This institution, a mountain school, is under the supervision of the Board of National missions of the Presbyterian church in the U.S.A.

Bob Martin Elected President Pro Tem By Student Council

At a meeting of the Student Council held on Monday evening, Robert Martin, junior member of the council was elected president pro tem, to serve until next September. It is the practice of the council, four weeks before the end of school term, to elect a president pro tempore to serve until the organization and installation of the complete group early next fall. The new president will take over the duties of John Lancaster, senior, who has served as president of the Student Council for 1937-1938.

BOB MARTIN

Mr. Martin has been an active member of the YMCA this year, chairman of the Social committee, and will serve on the Y cabinet next year.

YMCA Men Leave For Mt. LeConte This Afternoon

Will Conduct Sunday School For Hikers On Top Of Mountain

A group of 25 men left this afternoon at 1 o'clock for Mt. LeConte on the annual YMCA spring mountain hike. The trip to the foot of the mountain will be made by bus, where they will pitch camp for the night. They will start the climb of the Elm Cave trail early Sunday morning.

Don Killian and Ray Nelson, fellowship directors of the Y, will conduct a Sunday service on top of the mountain. They will return to the camp for lunch, and then will return to the college in the afternoon.

The group divided into four parts will be under the supervision of the leaders, William Alston, William McGill, Clyde Powell, and Reese Scull.

This hike, a yearly feature of the YMCA program, is largely supported by association funds. Former outings have included hikes to Gregory Bald, Thunder Head, and Mt. LeConte by the Cherokee Orchard trail.

Large Crowd Sees May Day Pageant

Old English Merry Makers Celebrate Festival

Eight hundred students, faculty, and friends of Maryville college gathered in the amphitheatre last Monday afternoon at 2:00 to witness the crowning of the May Queen.

The band in uniform played the processional as the court preceded the king and queen to the white throne on the stage. The women class representatives wore net dresses of graduated shades of pink and carried bouquets of blue iris and white carnations. Their escorts were dressed in white and wore red roses as boutonnieres.

Climaxing the procession was the entrance of Queen Irene Browder escorted by King James Proffitt. Miss Browder was dressed in a rose frock with a sweeping train and carried a bouquet of white and pink carnations. The king wore white. The royal pair were accompanied by Louise Lloyd, flower girl, and Evelyn Ferguson and Louise Orr, maids of honor.

After the members of the court were seated, Helen Bobo, Queen of the Forest, appeared wearing a crown of white carnations. She advanced and knelt with her two attendants Jane Law and Mary Elizabeth Haines, before the May Queen. The king lifted the crown from the head of the Forest Queen and placed it on the head of the May Queen.

Crowds of old English May Day merry-makers then rushed singing and shouting down through the woods and out onto the green before the royal court. Robin Hood, Maid Marian, Friar Tuck, and some of Robin Hood's men appeared and received the gracious consent of the queen to have an archery contest.

After the contest, the villagers sang and danced to old English folk songs

Y Cabinets Hold Annual Retreat At Line Springs

Program Includes Banquet, Conferences, Socials, Devotionals

The annual Retreat of the YMCA and YWCA will be held May 14, 15 and 16, at Line Springs hotel, in the Great Smoky Mountains. Old and new officers and cabinet members of both associations, and next year's Y W Nu Gamma leaders, make up the group of those going.

This affair is held every year for the purpose of inspiration, fellowship and creative planning of the activities of the two Christian associations.

This year the whole program of the Retreat is being supervised by a steering committee chosen from the cabinets of the two organizations. This committee is headed by the retiring presidents of the YM and YWCA, Marvin Minear and Clara Dale Echols. All worship services are being planned by Fred Rhody, Harriet Barber is in charge of music, Louise Orr is chairman of the banquet committee, and Russ Stevenson and Roy Talmage will handle the recreational activities.

The sixty-five men and women who will retreat will leave the campus next Saturday afternoon at 1:15, and will return some time Monday afternoon. Among the activities will be a banquet Saturday evening, at which Joe Gamble, local attorney, will speak. There will be conferences Sunday morning, and a vesper worship service in the afternoon, at which Rev. R. B. Hamilton, pastor of the Fourth Presbyterian church of Knoxville, will speak. Other devotional meetings will be held at various times.

The chaperons this year are to be Dr. and Mrs. Frank D. McClelland and Miss Susan A. Green.

Pastor And Wife Return Tuesday

Tour of World Will End In Air Trip From Coast

Dr. William P. Stevenson, college pastor, and Mrs. Stevenson are expected to land in Los Angeles on Monday, May 9th after completing their trip around the world. They will proceed to Maryville by air and will arrive probably at midnight Tuesday at the airport. Definite word has not been received as to these plans, but Dr. Stevenson indicated them tentatively in a letter from Australia.

The Stevensons sailed on January 9 from New York and have been sailing for four months on "The Reliance" of the Hamburg-American line. Dr. Stevenson served as chaplain on the boat at the services each Sunday.

They crossed the Atlantic to the Mediteranean, stopping at various places, with a side trip into the Holy Land and Egypt. They then went through the Red Sea to India. Dr. Stevenson made a ten day trip across India to the foot of Mt. Everest and to Calcutta while Mrs. Stevenson waited on the ship at Bombay. The ship visited the East Indies, stopping at Singapore and Borneo, then to Siam, Australia, and New Zealand. From there they traveled across the Pacific, visiting the Fiji Islands and the former home of Robert Louis Stevenson on the Samoa islands; then to Hawaii, and on Saturday they are due in San Francisco.

The ship will continue through the Panama canal to New York where it

U.T. Professor Speaks On Vegetation In Smoky Mts.

Dr. Stanley Cain, professor of plant ecology at the University of Tennessee was the speaker at the biology seminar Tuesday evening in the science building.

Dr. Cain's subject was the "History of Vegetation in the Smoky Mountains." He pointed out the fact that at the end of the glacial period this section of the country was the first to acquire new vegetation, and from here this vegetation spread gradually all over the country. Dr. Cain illustrated his lecture with colored slides.

A large number of biology students and teachers attended the lecture.

Etheredge Elected Pres. of Athletic Board of Control

James Etheredge, sophomore from Town Creek, Alabama, was elected president of the Athletic Board of Control this morning by the student body in an after-chapel session. Etheredge won out over his opponent Arthur Byrne by a slim majority of 24 votes. He succeeds Weldon Baird, this year's president of the board.

Eugene Orr defeated Harold Wicklund for the vice presidency, while Harold Copeland received the secretaryship with a mere 16 vote majority over his opponent, Frank Morrow.

Dr. F. A. Griffitts, chemistry professor, and Miss Jessie Heron, English instructor, were elected faculty members of the board. Fred Tulloch, Arnold Kramer, Howard McGill, Catherine Pond, and Elizabeth Gaultney were also elected to posts on the board.

The student body in the same meeting expressed its approval of certain changes in the constitution.

Howard McGill, this year's secretary of the board, presided over the meeting in the absence of Weldon Baird, president, and John Odell, vice president.

Edward Brubaker Will Be Presented In Violin Recital

Ruth Mack Will Accompany Mr. Brubaker Friday In Recital

Edward Brubaker, senior and four-year student of the violin here, will be presented in recital by the Fine Arts department Friday evening, May 13, at 8 o'clock in Voorhees chapel. His earlier studies were pursued for two years under Miss Mildred E. Butcher, formerly of the music department and his advanced work under the supervision of Miss Dorothy D. Horne, present instructor in violin.

The program ranges from the austere classicism of Bach to the romanticism of Kreisler, and is well chosen from the standard literature of the instrument. Mr. Brubaker will open with the difficult and complex Allegro from Beethoven's Sonata in F, followed by two interesting Bach partitas for unaccompanied violin. For his last number Mr. Brubaker has programmed two movements from the famous Saint-Saens B minor concerto, a favorite number in the repetoire of every great violinist.

Ruth Mack will accompany at the piano and present a group of three solos. The complete program follows:

Little Tammany Party Sweeps H. Smith Into Law Club Presidency

In a hotly contested election, Hugh L. Smith was made Law club president Wednesday evening in Athenian hall. Running on a platform featuring a "bigger and better law club" as its main plank, Smith and his Little Tammany Party won out over the opposition candidate, Glenn Young.

A deciding factor in the outcome of the election was the campaign ballyhoo of Smith's manager, Horace B. Brown. At the beginning of the meeting an eight piece band swung into action; banners were waved extolling the "sincerety, honesty, and integrity" of candidate Smith; Manager Brown handed out cigars (?) wholesale and offered to "kiss any babies over sixteen."

Despite one or two murmurs that the election was "fixed," the "Little Tammany" program went off without a hitch. Brown made a stump speech in which he stated, "Smith is the people's choice." In extolling the progressiveness of his candidate he declared "The two most frequent words Smith uses are "Excelsior! Excelsior!"

Brown's work in the campaign netted him the vice presidency, while Louise Proffitt was elected secretary, and defeated candidate Young was consoled with the office of treasurer. Gordon Findlay was elected sergeant-at-arms, and faculty sponsor Claude A. Campbell was re-elected by a unanimous vote.

Chilhowean Due To Arrive For Distribution Next Week, Editor Of Annual Announces

Year Book Is Dedicated To McCurry, Residence Supervisor

GARNET COVER USED

Johnson, Barber, Hellums, McCammon, Are Class Sponsors

The 1938 Chilhowean will arrive early next week according to an announcement by Fred Bruce Morgan, editor, today. The books, bound in garnet leather with an embossed college seal in orange, will be distributed as soon as possible.

This, the thirty-second issue of the year book, is dedicated to Mr. E. E. McCurry, for the past 17 years supervisor of men's residence and friend and advisor to many generations of college students. The faculty section will include this year portraits of both President Ralph W. Lloyd and President Emeritus Samuel Tyndale Wilson.

The class sponsors, elected last fall, whose pictures will be released in the year book are Constance Johnson, senior; Harriet Barber, junior; Sara Lee Hellums, sophomore; and Jean McCammon, freshman. A new feature this year is a group of informal pictures of prominent members of the student body who were elected to represent Maryville college in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities for 1938.

The first section in the book is composed of individual pictures of the graduating class, six to a page, and gives the home address, major, society, and activities of each senior. This information is limited this year to the most important campus activities. Following the senior section is the class of '39 with 18 pictures to the page, and including the home and major subjects. The class of 1940 has 20 pictures to the page and that of 1941, 28 to each page. The index of the new Chilhowean lists the following sections: Officialdom, The Classes, Fine Arts, Athletics, Activities, and Features.

Ten Honors Work Students Chosen

Juniors Will Do Research Work In Six Fields

Following several weeks of consideration of applications for honors work next year, Dr. E. R. Hunter, chairman of the faculty committee on honors study, announced today that ten juniors have been approved.

The ten candidates selected will do their projects, either research or special reading, in six different subject fields. The work will be carried on under the direct supervision of a teacher in the particular department in which the study is being made, will probably carry six semester honors of credit, and will require an oral examination on its completion next spring.

William Alston and Wilbert Loolan are to work on some phase of biology. Bruce Morgan, Edith Gillette, and Robert Brandriff will do research in the English department, and Knox Coit will make a study of an important branch of philosophy. Etta Culbertson and Ruth Moore are to work under the supervision of the French department, while Ivan Edder has chosen chemistry as his field of concentration. Harriet Walkup, a transfer student here, has been given a tentative approval to work in Bible and Religious education, to be fully determined after a year's residence. There are one or two late applications still to be acted on, according to Dr. Hunter.

The other members of the committee on honors work are Dr. E. W. Davis, Dr. F. D. McClelland, and Professor George D. Howell The minimum requirement for acceptance is a grade average of 4.5 in general scholarship, and a 5.5 average in the major subject in which the work is to be done. Only a limited number of students are selected from the list of applicants each year.

Hunter Publishes Article On Speech

Discovers Freshman Taboos With Echo Ex-Editor

A recent article by Dr. E. R. Hunter, head of the English department and Bernice E. Gaines, '37, former editor of the Highland Echo has received nation-wide publicity this week. The article, called "Verbal Taboos in a College Community," appears in the current number of "American Speech," a quarterly of linguistic usage published by the Columbia university press. Immediately the object of widespread interest and comment, it was seized upon by alert newshawks and is reported in the latest issue of "Time" and in a national Associated Press dispatch.

The article is the result of a study on vocabulary inhibitions conducted here last year by Dr. Hunter and tabulated by Miss Gaines. The purpose of the work was to check if possible in a somewhat scientific manner the current impression that the younger generation has no taboos in regard to word use as well as otherwise. A list of

Unfinished Symphony In Disc Club Friday

Franz Schubert's immortal B minor symphony will be played at the meeting of the Disc club Friday afternoon at 4:30. If the weather permits the recording will be heard outdoors on the lawn north of the chapel, otherwise in the Fine Arts studio. Sam Cornelius is the commentator.

This symphony, more generally known as the "Unfinished," is one of Schubert's two surviving works in this form and in its lyricism and song-like quality is almost in a class by itself. It is probable that the composer never heard even the two completed movements, as there is no record of a public performance until almost forty years after his death.

Rehearsals Are Begun On Senior Class Play Beggar On Horseback

Rehearsals began this week on "Beggar On Horseback," the senior play, which will be presented May 28. This play had successful runs in New York and London, and has been called the height of expressionism.

The story deals with a young musician who is tempted to marry into a wealthy family in order to improve his own position. He dreams that he has married this girl, and the dream reveals to him the life that will be his when he does marry her. He is alarmed but in due time discovers his mistake and realizes that it was all a dream.

Don Stevens will play the part of Neil, the young musician. Lois Black will be Gladys, the wealthy young girl; and Gloria Miller is Cynthia, the other girl.

The play is a comedy blended with serious meaning. It is a satire on Americans and American life, and discloses a common attitude toward living. The technical achievements produce an amazing effect.

The committees for the play are as follows:

Business managers Reese Scull and Edith Pierce

Production manager Max Cornelius

Mistress of Wadrobe Irene Browder

Publicity manager Walter West

Welcoming Back Our Friend

Next week Maryville college expects to welcome back its beloved and much missed pastor, Dr. William Patton Stevenson. In view of his more than twenty years of real service to the school we do not begrudge him this deserved vacation—but simply to say that he has been missed is inadequate.

To those students who have had the opportunity of listening to Dr. Stevenson in his addresses on Wednesday morning and at the Sunday evennig vespers service there has been something definitely missing from the college life this winter. The same services have been held, often with interesting and capable speakers, but somehow they have lacked the understanding touch that is so characteristically Dr. Stevenson's.

It is seldom in a lifetime that one meets a pastor who is able to maintain the same high level for his sermons as he has, and anyone who ras ever listened to Dr. Stevenson speak on Sunday evening or welcome new students at the YMCA pow-wow in the fall has immediately felt that he was a friend.

We do not always have the opportunity to know Dr. Stevenson personally but simply to hear him speak and know that he is here makes us feel that he is our true and sympathetic friend.

The expression may be trite but the idea is still true when we say that Dr. Stevenson's absence has only endeared him to us more and that we are eagerly awaiting his return to the vesper services for the rest of this year and for many years to come.

Certain Minor Changes

We are not accusing the Athletic Board of Control of trying to put anything over on the student body but it would seem a little more logical to read the "certain minor changes proposed in the constitution" before they are voted on.

The board doubtless knows how to run its own business, but when it proposes a change in its constitution and asks the students to vote on it they would appreciate a chance to know what they are voting for.

This was probably just an attempt to save the time that would have been wasted by reading a long document but the Highland Echo is glad to publish any such proposed changes—and the bulletin boards are always available.

UP OUR HALL

BY GEORGE HUNT

THE BIRTH OF THE DIONNE QUINTUPLETS a few years ago centered attention on what is to many people an unfamiliar figure, the old country doctor. Dr. William McCartney, in his book, Fifty Years a Country Doctor, relates the joys and sorrows he has had in his profession, and claims that after fifty years he would not trade his experiences for anything in the world. But continual change in most aspects of our daily life leads us to believe that someday the general practitioner, the country doctor, and the old family physician will be swallowed up in what is known as "socialized medicine." This is already a big issue in medical circles. The California Medical Association bolted from the American Medical Association over it. Upon their being re-instated, a resolution was passed at the 1936 meeting of the association condemning the practice in California where a patient could walk into a hospital, have a complete diagnosis by X-ray men, and be examined by specialists as taking the prerogative of diagnosis away from the practicing physician. There are things to be said on both sides: the benefits both to the patient and the doctor from socialized medicine are recognizable as are the loss of independence for the physician and that personal touch for the patient.

• • • •

SOCIALIZED EDUCATION has been proposed in educational circles. Dr. E. B. Wesley, writing in the Annals of the American Academy of Political Science for November 1935, suggests that we must turn from anachronism of an individualistic education in a socialized age. He says we must keep pace with the times, and in an age when we are becoming so inter-dependent we must have education that stresses the group rather than the individual.

• • • •

AND PHILADELPHIA IS PROUD of a movement that was started there some years ago when the lawyers of the city banded together and formed an organization to provide for defending persons brought before the courts who could not otherwise afford a lawyer. If carried to a further conclusion, this group may be the forerunners of socialized law practices.

Signs of the Times

By OTTO PFLANZE, JR.

CONCLUSION

After debating both sides of the Pi Kappa Delta question on compulsory arbitration for several months, I sat down this week to decide just what my own opinions on the subject are. Expressed in as few words as possible, the net result is this: labor-capital conflict has created a serious situation, and yet giving the National Labor Relations board the power of enforcing arbitration is not the remedy.

There are certain practical difficulties that make compulsory arbitration undesirable. Enforcing arbitration means that the NLRB must enter a dispute where differences over wages are involved and determine a just wage. In such a situation there are many difficult matters to be considered such as the living standards and purchasing power of the workers. Some say that the board must not only set wages, but the profits and prices of the industry. At any rate the point is clear: so many things must be taken into consideration that no one can be sure that the wage will be fair to either capital or labor.

• • • • •

ENFORCEMENT

An even greater difficulty is the matter of enforcement. Obviously to make such a power effective, the board must have some method of coercing labor to accept its decisions when dissatisfied with them. Military force and imprisonment are impractical because of the large numbers of men frequently involved. Such measures would inevitably bring in the violence and blood-shed which we are attempting to avoid.

The Maryville squad hatched up a plan of enforcement that involves removing union recognition privileges of the Wagner act. But the idea was based on pure "bull" and nothing else. Such a measure of enforcement would mean only that the government would declare the strike illegal. And what does a union care about having its strikes declared illegal? Injunctions against the sit-down strikes made them illegal, but that was a mere technicality to the union leaders and had no influence on the final outcome.

Because of the impracticability of enforcing its awards, the board would be forced to make most of its decisions in favor of labor. That is exactly what happened in New Zealand, and the system worked only as long as prosperity lasted and capital could grant what was demanded of it. When depression came, however, the whole house of cards fell to pieces. Capital found itself in a situation where it must lower costs in order to meet adverse price conditions. Labor resisted the wage cuts, and New Zealand was no longer "the land without strikes."

• • • • •

THE ANSWER

The probable answer to the situation lies in the present provisions of the Wagner act. Since the validation of the law by the Supreme court a year ago last April, the NLRB has been putting interpretations on the act that have considerably broadened its powers. The decisions in which these recent interpretations were made are this week being put under fire in the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, and the court's decision means much to the future effectiveness of the Wagner act.

In the H.J. Heinz and Inland Steel cases, the NLRB stated that "a written agreement between employer and employee is an integral element in the collective bargaining process." In other words, employers who thought they were fulfilling the collective bargaining provisions of the act by just "talking," drew an erroneous conclusion. They must work toward the end that an argument may be reached.

A recent news dispatch in a Knoxville paper states that the NLRB is about to adopt a new policy of withdrawing the protection of the act from labor if labor does not work toward the end that an agreement is reached. If that policy be adopted—and there is no reason why it can't be—the NLRB will have a method of coercing both labor and capital to agree on their differences. If it uses this new power wisely, the NLRB may be able to do much toward insuring industrial peace for America.

HATS DISTINGUISH MEN, but the distinction is not always complimentary. We are reminded of our high school teacher who wore a wide-brimmed sombrero in order, we think, to make himself something that he wasn't. He was good-natured enough to take a lot of kidding about his headgear, and on class night the seniors gave him a new hat because they had ruined the old one carrying water in it. But we would rather see men without hats than see them wear ones that do not fit and in contour and shape produce a variety of impressions to imaginative people.

TALK OF THE WEEK . By Arlene Phelps

Reporter Barely Escapes With Life On Inquiring About Comprehensives

The naive and simple-minded reporter who thought it would be fun to see what the seniors thought about comprehensives is a sadder and a wiser girl today. After having narrowly escaped with her life and a meager stock of answers. The general impression left by the majority of those she tried to interview was that it is a lovely day, we enjoyed the orchestra concert, but as for mentioning the word "comprehensive"—it just isn't being done.

The answers to her questions ran the gamut of highly emotional expression from the wilted, going-to-end-it-all "Go away and leave me 'lone" to the quiet, smiling "I enjoyed them immensely" from between clenched teeth. One dishevelled co-ed, blinking bloodshot eyes, tried to be helpful by outlining a program for little brothers and sisters of the graduating class, not yet out of grammar school, in which they are to begin to gather material with a definite end in view. This in itself is an indication of the fate of mind prevailing, for who, in their usual minds, would think that their little brother and sister had done anything to deserve such a fate. There is always the Foreign Legion.

One unusual aspect of the interviews was that they were all conducted standing. The depleted brain-trusters exhibited a common determination not to be tricked into a sitting position on any account. No reason was given, but in this reporter's estimation, watever the cause, it is a good idea because in their present condition, if they ever once got down they would probably not be able to get up again till baccalaureate Sunday.

The English majors appear to have been hardest hit. Their brains were probably softened to begin with. To a man they have that haunted, headachey look of minds slowly decomposing under the corruptive influence of misinformation about 1500 years of literature. No class should be forced to be so mistaken about so much; there are limits to what one can't know.

The real tragedy of the comprehensives is not the grade-point deficit, but the chagrin of those students who had planned to celebrate in a big way when all was over. They staggered home, pale and weak-kneed after two successive nights of coffee and toast instead of sleep, too tired to do anything but go to bed. Life is just one big disappointment.

The most pathetic things to come out of the debacle, however, is the following tender quatrain, submitted in all good faith by a once charming young woman.

The bane of our life has now passed us
We have finished, but it is not the end,
For we're all literarily exhausted
And the grades have not yet come back in.

She has been transferred to another institution where she will receive the best of care, but no visitors will be allowed for a few weeks. Complete rest is the only hope, according to her doctors.

HUNTER'S ARTICLE

some 62 socially questionable words was compiled and submitted to the entire freshman class, 48 members of the faculty, and an equal number of seniors. The results indicate that men are freer in their use of words than women, that freshmen are far more inhibited in their speech than seniors, and that the faculty is approximately halfway between the two extremes.

The participants in the examination were asked to show in checking each word if they use it (1) as freely as cat or dog, (2) with a feeling of being bold or modern, (3) only when talking to intimates, (4) never if they could avoid it, (5) never under any circumstances. The unexpected restraint exhibited by the freshmen was notable, and explained by their probable attitude "that a project in a class room with a teacher handing out the papers called for decorous checking on their part; but, after all," the study points out, "that is one of the aspects of taboo."

Numerically, the seniors were most restrained on 3% of the words, the freshmen 73%, the faculty 24%. In only three instances did words receive unanimous approval, and that was by the seniors. The words were "die," "stomach," and "sick."

and dances. Then they seated themselves before a stage to watch the antics of three marionettes, Anita Rayburn, Margaret Cloud, and Jean Cross, in a Punch and Judy show. As an end to their revels the merry makers gathered around the May pole and danced the May-pole dance, after which they disappeared again into the woods.

The band played the recessional while the king and queen marched out followed by the members of their court.

Girl Lawyer

For the first time in its 26-year history the Kentucky Law Journal will be edited by a girl. Betty Gilbert, junior in the College of Law. The Journal, which has subscribers throughout the world, has as its purpose the promotion of student and faculty research and to provide a vehicle for its expression.

Individuality

For the Sigma Chi's at the University of Florida, "hello" is an old-fashioned way of answering the telephone. To impress you with their individuality, they answer the phone in this manner: "This is the sacred sanctuary, great and glorious abode of the eminent and exalted order of heroic hemen, the haven and habitation of happiness and enlightenment known to the masses as magnificant Sigma Chi. With whom do you wish to converse?"

Three R's

The College Coyote suggests a modern collegiate interpretation of the three R's—righteousness, reforms, and registration fees.

Suggestion for Seniors

To relieve the tension of exams, Elmira college serves tea and presents a special musical program each afternoon.

Simplicity

Since the day of the week is not always announced the day ahead in chapel, here is a simple process of determining the day in the week: Today was tomorrow, yesterday; yesterday was today, yesterday; tomorrow was today, yesterday; yesterday will be today tomorrow. Therefore yesterday, today and tomorrow the the same day. Things equal to the same thing are equal to each other. Consequently, yesterday and tomorrow are today. But, neither yesterday nor tomorrow exist today; so that every day is today. It is just that simple.

Date Boycott

A "date boycott" is in force at the University of Washington against all coeds who wear sheer silk hose. It was started by men of the American Student Union, a campus group, to stay in force until Japan removes her troops from China.

THE SPORTS EDITOR

NIG JUST PITCHES 'EM IN—

While talking to "Nig" Wilburne the other day I asked him how he pitched that one hit game against Lincoln Memorial Tuesday. "Nig" said, "Well, I just threw 'em in there, and they sure knocked the cover off the ball, but just as soon as the ball got hit someone would jump up in front of it." Well, "Nig," that's what it takes to make a good ball club. A good pitcher and good support. They just go hand in hand. By the way, that's Nig's second shutout of the season.

CHAMPS GALORE—WE HOPE—

Looks like we have some championship teams here this spring. In baseball, our Honakermen have lost only one Conference game this season. That being to L.M.U. The track team looks like it might win the SMC this spring. The odds are all on 'em. The tennis team is also looking mighty good right now. Well, it will be nice to have three championship teams all at once on the Hill. Maybe we are counting our chickens too soon.

SOFTBALL—

They tell us that those softball games being played in the intramural tournament, are really something. Scores of 40-23, and etc., are floating around. Just like those old-fashioned baseball games, when everyone got at least five or six hits a game. Oh how I long for those good old days.

INJURY JINX

Lefty is on the shelf. Hernandez received a slight side injury last Tuesday when he slid into the plate. The injury is not serious, and we expect Lefty to be back in harness next week in his usual position on first base.

In the meantime his position is being filled by Lamar Russell. Russell, although weak at the bat, is a fairly good fielder, and we will probably see some action from him next year.

SPECIAL MEETING—

The track team is holding a special session of the "Prayer Meeting" for Junior Odell today while they are on their trip to Johnson City. Mr. Odell is on the track team for the first time; this year being his first year for that sport. It will be a rare treat for some of the boys to get even with the Mr. Odell. And Junior admits that it has been a long time since he has taken his degree, so go easy on him won't you Joe, Fred, and Guy.

L.M.U.—E.T.T.—

The tennis team dealt L.M.U. a right hefty blow last Tuesday when they defeated the Lincolnites by a score of 9 to 0. That is the largest score that the team has made this season and is far larger than any that they have had scored against them. East Tennessee's win over the Scots did not look so good however. When the two teams come down here next week the Scots should come out on top.

SCOT THINLY-CLADS WHIP CONFERENCE CHAMPS 109-20

Talmage Ties 100 Record To Lead Highlanders To Win Over Milligan

Maryville's timber toppers overwhelmed last year's Conference champioons, Milligan, by the score of 109 1-2 to 20 1-2. The Highlanders copped every first place except the high jump, which was a tie between Archer and Alderson of Milligan.

Roy Talmage, Scot captain, tied the record of 10 seconds flat in the hundred yard dash. Talmage also won the 220 yd. dash and the 220 yd. low hurdles. Maryville swept the mile run, the discus and the 440 yd dash, taking first, second, and third in each event. The three Baird laddies came through with their usual quota of points. Weldon took first in the discus, 440 yd. dash, the javelin, and ran second in the 220 yd. dash. Bill won the 880 yd. run, and was second in the discus, and third in the 440. This was the last practice meet before the Conference meet and the State meet The Conference meet is being run today at Johnson city, and the State met is to be held Saturday at Knoxville.

Scots Favored To Win Conference

Today Coach Robert Thrower's thinly-clads are in Johnson City where the Smoky Mountain Track meet is being held. This is the fifth Confereence meet. The Highlanders have won three out of the past four meets, losing last year to the Milligan Buffaloes.

According to all figures the Scots are heavy favorites to win the meet. So far in the season they have defeated LMU, and Milligan, two of the four teams entered in the meet. The other team being East Tennessee Teachers.

Next Saturday, the State Meet at Knoxville will be held. Although Maryville is not favored to win, the Highlanders are expected to garner quite a few points. If Maryville should come close to winning the State Meet don't be too surprised.

INTERCLASS SPORTS

By GENE ORR

The YMCA is closing its program of interclass sports with a grand finale. At present there are underway softball games, a tennis tournament, and a golf tournament. On May the 17 and 18 there will be an interclass track meet. So far there have been only 4 interclass softball games. The standings up to the present are:

TEAM	WON	LOST
Seniors	1	1
Frosh	0	3

The chedule for the rest of the games follows:

Monday, May 9, Sr. vs Frosh

Wednesday, May 11, Sophs vs Frosh

Thursday, May 12, Sr. vs Jr.

In the tennis tournament there are forty five men entered. It seems that there are a good many fellows who would like to have that cup, which I hear is very nice. Although there are only fourteen fellows entered in the golf tournament, there should be some interesting matches.

The track meet, that is to be held May 17-18, has been put on two days so that if it does not kill you the first day, there will be another chance on the next day.

The Y is offering such a wide field here that I am sure that it will have something in which you can excell as well as hold up the honor of the class. And, by the way, in case you had not heard, there are to be some very nice looking medals given to those who excell in the various sports.

Scotties Take Lead In Conference With Wins Over Milligan, And Lincoln Univ.

Loop Leading Scots Win Three Out of Four Games in Past Week; Drop First SMC Loss to L.M.U.

Maryville by virtue of winning all but one of her Conference baseball games played, has taken the lead in the Conference race. The Scotties have won 13 out of 16 starts. In the past week the Highlanders have won three out of four Conference games, defeating L.M.U. twice, and dropping one to LMU, and defeating Milligan once.

MILLIGAN

Last Monday the Milligan Buffaloes were set down with two hits and one run to lose to the Scots 2-1 The Highlanders bunched four hits to give Scot Honaker, Maryville right-hander, his victory over Milligan. Maryville scored her two runs in the first inning when Parker and Odell received free passes to first, Wilburne then singled and drove in the two runs. The game was one of the most interesting played on the Highlander's diamond this year.

LINCOLN MEMORIAL

The Scots won their second game of the week last Tuesday, when Wilburne sole southpaw for the Scots, pitched a one hit, no run game to give the Highlanders a 12-0 victory over Lincoln Memorial University. Wilburne had the Railsplitters under his power at all times. Only one man reached third for Lincoln. His teammate fairly knocked the cover off the ball to assist Wilburne in winning his second conference game. "Lefty" Hernandez, Maryville's first baseman, received a slight injury and was forced to leave the game in the third inning. He is expected to be back soon though.

DOUBLE HEADER

The Scots on Wednesday split a double-header with LMU, wining the first game 4-1, and dropping the second game 3-2.

Ripper Collins pitched the first game allowing the visitors only 1 hit. LMU scored their run in the first inning and held their slim lead until the fifth inning when Parker walked and Wilburne singled. With Parker on third, the Scots pulled the old squeeze play, with Hughes bunting and Parker scoring. Wilburne then stole second, and then went to third when the catcher bungled the ball, and a few minutes later scored when Davis was safe on an error. In the sixth the Scots scored two more runs to put the game on ice for them.

The second game was a tough one for the Scotties to lose to the score of 3-2. Parker, fireball artist, pitched fine ball for Maryville but the Railsplitters managed to bunch their hits to win the game. They scored two of their runs in the third, when they pulled three singles together and put two runs across the plate.

Tennis Team Whips LMU; Loses To ETT

Maryville's tennis team took to the road last Monday and Tuesday to play East Tennessee Teachers' college and Lincoln Memorial University. The Scot aggregation came out well against L.M.U. by winning 9 to 0, but met defeat when E.T.T. trounced them 7 to 2.

L.M.U was white washed by the Maryville players and none of the matches were even close Out of the nine matches the combined winnings of the opponents only amounted to 17 games. Morrow and Gillingham sailed through the first two men in love sets and rest were not far behind. The most outstanding set of the game was when Van Cise took his second set with the loss of only three points during the entire set.

East Tennessee Teachers presented a much stronger team and Van Cise was the only Maryville man winning his singles match. Van Cise and Akana combined to take the number three doubles match and the only other Maryville point.

Morrow, Gillingham, Colombo, McCammon went down before Bullinger, Robinetts, Boyer, and Sherrod with only one match reaching duce sets. Akana followed their footsteps when Lundy defeated him in number six position. All doubles matches were equally sad with the exception of the number three.

Maryville's netment get another chance at the E.T.T. team next week and the competition should be quite a bit keener than it was this week. They also will meet LMU and the University of Tennessee on the Maryville courts. Both of the last matches should be Scot victories.

Enslin Succeeds Rugh As Ministerial Prexy For Coming Semester

In the election held Monday evening, Ernest Enslin was elected president of the Ministerial association. The president-elect is now vice president of the association, and will succeed Donald Rugh to the leadership of the organization.

Other officers elected at this meeting were Everett Gray, vice president; Robert Lamont, second vice president; Philip Evaul, secretary-treasurer; and Henry Millison, custodian. The association also adopted a revised constitution which created the office of second vice president by dividing the duties of vice president.

The installation of the new officers is scheduled for the regular meeting Monday evening.

Contribution

After the first drive the Fred Hope fund stands at $93. Is there any reason why we shouldn't send $150 to Africa this year?

Missing

The coastwise steamer "City of Athens," which was rammed by a French warship in a dense fog off Cape Romain, near the Delaware coast, last Wednesday morning had on board Ralph A. Young, for three years a student at Maryville college. According to latest reports, he is still missing and it is feared that he went down with the steamer.

Break

The faculty has decided to break the old custom of handing the preparatory graduates their diplomas from the office and instead will give them the honor of a commencement exercise similar to the regular high school commencements.

Close out

Last Saturday Maryville closed the track season with a victory over Emory-Henry. The school record in the 100 yard dash of 10 seconds and the broad jump of 21 feet and two inches were tied by Hayes Williams, and a new record was made by B. Crawford in the low hurdles. The old record was 26.8 and the new one is 26.4.

'In Her Defense'- Student Recital Set For Monday

Mrs. Hamilton Directs One-Act Play By Former M.C. Students

Students of the Dramatic Art Department will give a recital in Voorhees chapel on Monday evening, May 9, at 8:00. There will also be music by Miss Dorothy Horne and a college quartet. The program will be as follows:

Part I

One Act play—Londonderry Air—by Rachel Field

Annarine Atkins Hamilton

Violin solo—Londonderry Air—Kreisler

Dorothy Horne

Part II

Quartet—Stephen Foster Songs

One Act play—In Her Defense—by Sara Moore Traylor

Characters

Andrew Jackson ..... Gordon Bennett
Rachel Jackson ..... Muriel Mann
Tom Strickland ..... George Hunt
Eloise Strickland ..... Jane Irwin
Mrs. Douglas ..... Carol Dawn Ward
MacNairy ..... Robert Moore

This play is directed by Mrs. Annarine Atkins Hamilton, associate professor in the Dramatics arts department, and former student of Maryville college. Mary Leete and Louise Allen will act as stage managers, and Sara Traylor will be in charge of the costumes.

Sara Moore Traylor, author of the play, In Her Defense, is a graduate of Maryville college and the department of Dramatic Art of 1929. The play is to be published this summer in an Anthology of One Act Plays.

Quarterly Prints E R Hunter Article

"Macbeth as A Morality" Is Subject Of Paper

A recent number of "The Shakespeare Association Bulletin" placed in the library this week is found to contain an article by the head of the English department, Dr. E. R. Hunter. entitled "Macbeth as a Morality," it is a discussion of the aspects of the English moral plays evident in Shakespeare's great tragedy. The author examines the possibilities of an early and continued acquaintance of Shakespeare with the cycles of scripture plays, and then in "Macbeth" itself traces the development of two characteristic morality themes: Good and evil seeking the following of mankind, and Man, yielding to the invitation of evil, being led to destruction.

"The Shakespeare Association Bulletin," a new periodical in our library, is a quarterly publication of the Shakespeare Association of America, an organization aimed "to unite all the lovers of the poet and to encourage and enlarge the widespread interest in his works," and which includes among its membership most of the great names in American Shakespearean scholarship today.

Home Ec Class Has Children's Party

The child care class in the Home Economics department had one of its regular parties for young children on Tuesday afternoon. It was planned for children between the ages of 3 to 5. Students in the class planned the entertainment for this party and are planning for another one next week for a different age group. After these two parties the students will discuss their observations of the children.

At Tuesday's party the children played games, sang songs, and among other things dramatized "The Three Bears." For this play the children were told the story, and then in acting it out used make-believes things for furniture and other properties.

Thirteen Try For Red Cross Emblem

Ellis Fysall, Washington representative of the American Red Cross department of Water Safety, conducted a course in life saving and water safety at the college pool this week. The classes lasted from 7 till 10 o'clock each evening, Monday through Friday. A total of fifteen hours instruction is necessary before one can pass the tests.

Only persons who have received their Senior Life Saving certificate from the American Red Cross were eligible to take the course. Those passing the course will receive the rank of "Instructor in Life Saving and Water Safety." This rank is similar to the Examiner's rank which was formerly awarded.

Eight men and five women took the course.

Work on Roof And Drive Progressing

The campus workers this week under the supervision of Mr. E. C. Brown, college engineer, have put a new roof on the gymnasium. The building will also be painted during the summer, Mr. Brown reported. Work is also progressing on the new road from the swimming pool to the back of Thaw hall, and it will probably be ready for use in a few weeks.

A group of workers have been planting alfalfa on the college farm this week. Two teams of horses are being used in the planting.

Workshop Plans To Hold Picnic

The annual spring picnic of the Writer's Workshop will be held Monday afternoon, at the picnic grounds in the college woods, starting at 4:30.

Fourteen new members are to be initiated into the literary organization during the outing. Miss Elizabeth H. Jackson, Carolyn Harrar and Arthur Byrne are members of the picnic committee.

At the last meeting, Don Stevens was elected to represent the workshop on the program to be given by the senior class as part of the class day activities. He will probably read several of his original poems.

Student Volunteers Follow Romany Trail

Student Volunteer gypsies left at 3:00 this afternoon for a picnic in the woods. Centering around the theme, the Romany Trail, a treasure hunt was held on the way to the picnic grounds, followed by a gypsy track meet and fortune readings by coffee grounds. John Thompson, Marianna Allen and Lily Pinneo have planned the games and the musical program around the camp fire, which will be followed by a short devotional led by Joy Pinneo.

At a meeting of the French club Wednesday evening in the chemistry lecture room, moving pictures of various sections of France were shown. Many scenic as well as architectural beauties in Brittany and along the Riveria were shown.

Pi Kappa Delta Annual Banquet Held at Walland

Approximately thirty-five people will attend the annual banquet of Pi Kappa Delta at Walland this evening. Besides Professor and Mrs. Queener, the varsity squad, the freshman squad, and other members of Pi Kappa Delta, Dr. and Mrs. Ralph Lloyd, Dr. and Mrs. E R. Hunter, and Dr. and Mrs. David Briggs have been invited. The guest speaker will be Mary Frances Ooten, a last year's graduate.

Carrying out the theme of Pi Kappa Delta, "the art of persuasion, beautiful and just," Miriam Waggoner will speak on art; Harwell Proffitt, on persuasion; Sara Lee Hellums, on beautiful; and Arnold Kramer, on just.

Formal initiation into Pi Kappa Delta will be held for the following: James Whitt, Arda Walker, Harwell Proffitt, Otto Pflanze, Raymond Nelson, Arnold Kramer, William Lewis, George Hunt, Sara Lee Hellums, and Miriam Waggoner.

Mrs. Lloyd To Speak At Outdoor YM-YW Meeting

The men and women of the YMCA and the YWCA will meet together Sunday afternoon at five o'clock for a Mother's Day program. Mrs. Ralph W. Lloyd will be the guest speaker, and Harriet Barber will sing. If the weather permits, the program will be held outside on the lawn back of Thaw hall. In case of rain the group will meet in the YWCA rooms.

L.M.U. GAME

Maryville won another conference victory last Friday when the Scotties defeated Lincoln Memorial University on their home diamond by a score of 7 to 1. Ripper Collins allowed only three hits during the entire game, and his expert control was unmatched by Souder for LMU.

The most outstanding event of the game was when Parker knocked out a triple in the sixth with one man on. Wilburne also did his share when he knocked out a home run in the fourth.

PASTOR RETURNS

will arrive May 24. Dr. and Mrs. Stevenson have been through the canal at least twice before, once before it was entirely completed.

The trip was begun after Mrs. Stevenson had an attack of bronchial flue, and it is hoped that she would improve during the voyage. Since then she has suffered a little with arthritis.

Dr. Stevenson Resumes Duties Sunday Evening

Returns From World Cruise Wednesday; Greeted By Crowd

Returned from a cruise around the world, Dr. W. P. Stevenson will resume his duties as college pastor in the Vesper service Sunday evening at 7:00 in Voorhees chapel. Dr. Stevenson will take as his subject "Paganism and Christianity Contrasted." At the Wednesday morning chapel service Dr. Stevenson will discuss various phases of his jounrey around the world.

Dr. Stevenson returned to Maryville Wednesday morning at one o'clock by plane and was met at the airport by a throng of about 200 students and friends. As the plane landed the college choir directed by Professor Ralph Colbert sang the Alma Mater. Libby Ann Huddleston presented the returning couple with two bouquets in behalf of the choir.

Mrs. Stevenson, ill from arthritis, was carried from the plane into a waiting car. She waved her hand in greeting while Dr. Stevenson, seemingly happy to be home, shook hands with friends among the crowd.

The Stevensons embarked four months ago on January 9 aboard the S.S. Reliance in New York and landed last week in Los Angeles. They flew from there to Maryville rather than take the long journey through the Panama canal to the Atlantic cost.

The journey took them from New York to the Maderia Islands, the first stopping place, and on to Morrocco. From there the travelers went north to the French Riveria and Italy.

Among four side trips the Stevensons

Student of Violin Presents Recital

Approximately five hundred students, factuly members, and friends attended the junior recital of Edward Brubaker, senior graduate in violin, last evening in Voorhees chapel.

Brubaker, student of Dorothy Horne, played a difficult program, beginning with the Sonata in F major for piano and violin by Beethoven. He followed this with a Partitas for violin alone, by Bach; his accompanist, Ruth Mack, played a group of three numbers, Hark! Hark! the Lark, by Schubert-Liszt; Lento, by Cyril Scott, and Aragonaise, by Massenet; he played three numbers and concluded his program with the Concerto in B minor of Saint-Saens.

The program was followed with a reception in the Fine Arts studio in honor of Dr. and Mrs. Lauren E. Brubaker, parents of the violinist. Over a hundred guests attended the reception. Dr. Brubaker is pastor of the Flarlar Memorial Presbyterian church in St. Augustine, Florida, and with Mrs. Brubaker is going to Princeton, New Jersey, to attend the graduation of their son from the seminary there.

Maryville Students See Kentucky Derby Lost By Their Horse

At least two Maryville students are able to brag about having seen Lawrin win the 1938 Kentucky Derby. Gordon Findlay and Winifred Corriston left the campus on Friday morning, May 7, and traveled by air (air you going my way?) as far as Danville, Kentucky, where they spent the night. From there they went on to Louisville Saturday morning and arrived at Churchill Downs in ample time to find good standing room.

According to Mr. Findlay, The Chief was the favorite of the Maryville delegation, to the extent of $2.00, to stick his nose over the wire first, but that $12.00 which was hopefully expected from the investment never matured. In an exclusive interview Thursday afternoon, Mr. Findlay stated: "The Chief is still running. You can't keep a good horse down."

Following the running of the Derby, Mr. Findlay and Mr. Corriston were picked up by a car headed for Chattanooga, and they arrived in Maryville early Sunday morning after an all-night drive.

Class of 40 Gives Office Nominations

Presidential nominees for next year's junior class have been announced as Frank Morrow and Russell Stevenson. Both Morrow, number one man on the tennis team, and Stevenson, manager of the Y.M. store, are outstanding leaders in the class. Other nominations include Barbara McCutcheon and Harriet Miller for vice-president; Jane Law and Miriam Waggoner for secretary; Warren Ashby and J. N. Badgett for treasurer.

The members of the committee making the nominations were Otto Pflanze, Polly Hudspeth, Charlotte Moughton and Stephen Amos.

Alumni of College Meet At Banquets

Highlanders Meet in Philly; Californians Gather At Glendale

Two Alumni associations of Maryville college met recently in their respective sections of the nation. The eighth annual reunion and banquet of the Atlantic Highlanders was held on April 23, in Philadelphia, Pa., and that of the Southern California club March 25, near Glendale, California.

A hundred and seventeen alumni were present at the banquet of the Atlantic Highlanders. Dr. Ralph W. Lloyd was the principal speaker of the evening, giving a picture of Maryville college as it is today. New officers elected were: president, Rev. Lynn Rankin, '31, of Gap, Pennsylvania; vice president, Grace Proffitt, '35; secretary, Harold F. Holman, '29; treasurer, Joseph Truxton, Jr., '35, all of Philadelphia, Pa.

At the Southern California banquet, Dr. Robert I. Gamon, a director of the college, and Mrs. Gamon, and Rev. and Mrs. Lester E. Bond were guests of honor. Reports of recent athletic and forensic achievements of the college were featured on the program, and a portion of a letter from President Lloyd was read. New officers elected were: president, Dr. A. Ethel Fanson, '13; vice president, Mr. Samuel E. Peters, '21; secretary, Mrs. M. H. Goodner; treasurer, Mr. William Phillips.

Goddard-Barber Will Sing May 17th

Tuesday evening, May 17, at 8:00, the Fine Arts department of Maryville college presents Edwin Goddard, baritone, and Harriet Barber, contralto in recital. They will be accompanied by Ann Abel and Louise Felknor. The program is as follows:

Faculty Appointed To Board Of YMCA

Two members of the faculty were recently appointed by President Lloyd to serve on the YMCA Advisory Board. Dr. Frank D. McClelland, director of personnel, succeeds Mr. Louis Black to serve for three years. The Rev. Raymond J. Dollenmayer will fill the unexpired term of the late Dr. J. H. McMurray, serving until 1940.

At a recent meeting of the board Dr. Horace E. Orr was re-elected member and chairman of the board. He has served in this capacity for many years. The board is composed of men members of the faculty, the president and secretary of the YMCA, ex officio, and a man from each of the four classes elected at the regular election of officers of the organization and serving for four years.

Office Appoints Assistants For Library and Lab

Thirty Eight Students Are Chosen for Various Departments

The laboratory and library assistants for 1938-1939 were selected this week in the Student-Help office. Ten students will work in the biology department: William Alston, Fred Brewer, James Donaldson, Dorothy Jean Eslinger, Philip Evaul, Ernestine Foulke, Marian Garwood, Marguerite Justus, Lily Pinneo, and Emma Probasco.

The following will be assistants in the chemistry department: Ivan Blake, Mary Butler, Ivan Elder, John Guinter, George Felknor, Sara Lee Hellums, Mary Nell Lee, Fred Rawlings, Anita Rayburn, and Lyn Tyndall.

Lucille Gillespie, Patricia Kennedy, Barbara McCutcheon, and Katherine Warren will work in the home economics department.

Assistants in the physics department will be Weldon Baird, Arthur Bell, and Gordon Flannagan.

William McGill and William Mooney will help with work in the psychology department.

Nine have been selected to aid in the library: Paul Brown, Emma Cassada, Harold Copeland, John Fisher, Wilbert Looloian, Joy Pinneo, Fred Rhody, Ersie Wilson, and Ruth Woods.

Seniors Rehearse Play For May 28

Most Elaborate Play Ever Produced On Stage In Voorhees

Rehearsals for the senior play, "Beggar on Horseback" to be presented in Voorhees chapel May 28th, are now in their second week. This play which is a Kaufman-Connelly satire, will be the most elaborate drama ever produced on the Voorhees stage. The scenery calls for an artist's garret, a millionaire's mansion, a court room, a modest country cottage, a cabaret, and several offices. The unique part of the scenery is that the garret scene remains as a background for all the rest of the scenery. John Wintermute and Sam Cornelius are busy constructing the scenery which has been designed by Maxwell Cornelius.

Besides calling for the largest outlay of scenery, the play calls for the largest cast of any stage play at Voorhees. Aside from the seven principals in the cast, there will be a dozen and a half minor roles to be filled.

A further innovation in the play is that part of the action of the play takes place in the audience. The acting includes a wedding ceremony, a quad-

Knoxville Lawyer Talks At Banquet

Forty-four members and guests of the Law club attended a banquet Wednesday evening in the Masonic hall. J. C. Lowe, prominent Knoxville attorney and chairman of the Smoky Mountain Athletic Conference, was the speaker of the evening.

Edward C. Jussely, retiring president of the club, acted as toastmaster for the evening. Mr. Jussely introduced the newly-elected officers for the next year; Hugh L. Smith, president; Horace Brown, vice president; Louise Proffitt, secretary; Glenn Young, treasurer; and Gordon Findlay, sergeant-at-arms. Mr. Smith presented Mr. Jussely with a rosewood gavel from the club in recognition of his services during the past year.

A feature attraction on the program was several song and dance numbers by Helen Wilhoit, accompanied by Jerry Beaver. Miss Wilhoit did a special tap-dance number while skipping rope.

The subject of Mr. Lowe's address was "Law as a Profession." He pointed out the numerous possibilities of service to other people which lawyers have. Mr. Lowe used numerous illustrations to back up his statements. "The law is a great profession and has unlimited possibilities," as Mr. Lowe stated it, was the theme of his speech.

Arthur Byrne Heads Echo Business Staff

Arthur Byrne, '39, was appointed business manager of the Highland Echo for next year at a meeting of the faculty committee on student publications this week. Byrne, who succeeds Robert Gillespie as head of the business staff, is at present sports editor of the paper, manager of the track and football teams, and a member of Writers' Workshop.

The publications committee is composed of Professor Verton M. Queener, Miss Almira Bassett, Dr. Hill Shine, and Professor Edgar R. Walker.

Sixty-Five Attend Annual Y Retreat

Pre-retreat Meeting Held In Bartlett Hall On Thursday

Sixty five men and women retreated to Line Springs this afternoon where they will stay until Monday afternoon. Old and new officers of the Y's, members of both cabinets, and Nu Gamma leaders are those who are attending the Y retreat.

Besides the usual meetings planning for next year's work, devotional services, and mountain climbing, two features of the week-end are Joe Gamble's speaking at the banquet to be held this evening and an address by Rev. R. B. Hamilton tomorrow afternoon at 2:30.

A pre-retreat meeting was held in Bartlett hall Thursday evening to complete arrangements for going. Marvin Minear and Clara Dale Echols, co-chairmen of the steering committee, explained further the real purpose of Retreat, and a short devotional service was led by Harriet Barber and Vernon Lloyd.

Chaperones for the retreat will be Dr. and Mrs. Frank D. McClelland and Miss Susan A. Green.

Essay By McCurry Wins Strong Medal

It has been announced that the Rush Strong medal was unanimously awarded to Eugene McCurry for his essay on "The Value of Truth." It is the first time that the judges, who were town people not in connection with the college, have been unanimous in their decision.

Under provisions of the will of Mr. Benjamin Rush Strong of Knoxville, it was stipulated that a gold medal, valued at "not less than fifteen, nor more than twenty-five dollars," should be awarded annually to the member of the freshman class who submitted the best essay upon the subject of "The Value of Truth." This medal known as the Rush Strong Medal is given this year to Eugene McCurry. The runner-up is Thomas Woolf.

Proffitt Elected Head of Debaters

Louise Proffitt, prominent member of Maryville's forensic squad, was elected president of the Maryville chapter of national Pi Kappa Delta for the coming year. She will succeed Curtmarie Brown. Other officers elected at this meeting were Otto Pflanze, vice president; Sara Lee Hellums, secretary-treasurer; and George L. Hunt, reporter.

Pi Kappa Delta is a national honorary society with chapters in colleges and universities throughout the country. For several years Maryville has held a prominent place in the organization, and in the annual convention at Topeka, Kansas, this year the Maryville women's team composed of Helen Maguire and Curtmarie Brown was one of the 14 of 75 entries rated excellent. President-elect Proffitt and Arnold Kramer were semi-finalists in the extempore contest.

Prof. Verton M. Queener, Maryville debate coach is a member of the National Council of Pi Kpapa Delta.

300 Chilhoweans Distributed From Office Upon Arrival From Printer

Office Open This Morning; Final Distribution Wednesday

The 1938 Chilhowen arrived and the first three hundred copies were distributed Friday by Bruce Morgan, editor, and other members of the staff. The Chilhowean office was open this morning to fulfill further orders for the book, and the final distribution will take place on Wednesday.

The 124 page annual is bound in garnet leather with the College seal embossed in orange. An outstanding feature is the section of faculty pictures which is complete for the first time in several years. Two other new features are the new arrangement of candid campus shots, which are exceptionally good this year, and the section honoring those students chosen to represent Maryville college in the 1938 Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

This thirty-second volume of the Chilhowean is dedicated to Mr. E. E. McCurry, who has for 17 years been supervisor of men's residence. Tribute was also paid to President Emeritus Samuel Tyndale Wilson.

Despite the fact that the 1938 Chilhowean was limited in size by the constitution adopted at the beginning of the year, it is still large enough to include the following titles in its index, officialdom, the classes, fine arts, athletics, activities, and features.

Although published by the junior class the year book was backed financially by the seniors who put up a guarantee deposit of one hundred dollars.

Since the annual came out on the credit side, this deposit will be returned as soon as the books are audited and checked. The hundred dollars deposit by the members of the junior class will be returned at the same time.

Class Schedules To Be Made Mon.

Catalogs Will Be Available At Personnel Office On Monday

Registration for the fall term of 1938 will he held in Anderson hall next week, announced Dr. Frank D. McClelland, director of personnel today. Instead of the usual registration procedure students will have their schedule cards approved by their major professor and turn them in at the personnel office. The schedule for registration is as follows:

Monday—next year's seniors
Wednesday—next year's juniors
Friday—next year's sophomores

All registration must be completed according to this plan in order to avoid payment of the late registration fee.

The catalogs which have been delayed will be distributed from the personnel office Monday. Pending the arrival of the catalogs the schedule of classes has been posted in Thaw hall and outside the offices of the director of personnel and director of curriculum.

Students Attend State Convention

Six Maryville students are attending the Tennessee Student Volunteer convention at Fisk university in Nashville today. Harriet Walkup, Marion Kelley, Joy Pinneo, Donald Wilmoth, and Connie Oswald are accompanied by Lois Brown, a graduate of last year. Miss Pinneo, vice president of the local S.V. band is also vice president of the state organization and editor of the News Letter, publish three times yearly.

On the program will be Rev. William Faulkner of the University; Dr. Hawk, missionary to China, and Dr. Earl Moreland.

The group plans to return tonight, and some of them to go on to the Y retreat at Line Springs.

Maryville is one of the thirty colleges of Tennessee having representatives in the state organization.

Dramatic Students Will Entertain Club

Next Tuesday afternoon students of the Dramatic Art Department will give two one act plays at the closing meeting of the Tuesday Club, which is one of the leading women's clubs of Maryville. The first play to be given is entitled "The Purple Door Knob" by Walter Pitchard Eaton. The characters for this play are Emma Jane Kramer, Muriel Mann, and Lois Black. The other play is entitled "His First Dress Suit." The parts in this play are to be taken by Sara Bolton, Arda Walker, Jane Irwin, and Mary Frances Spurlock. Jane Irwin will also give a monologue.

Band Will Present Informal Concert

The Maryville college band will hold an informal concert tonight at 8:00 in Voorhees chapel. Originally scheduled to be held in the amphitheatre the program, consisting mostly of marches interspersed with a few other numbers, will have to be in chapel because of the weather.

Because of the numerous other activities of the music department this year, the concert will not be as elaborate as it was last spring. This concert climaxes the year for members of the band who have played at the football games and at the May Day exercises. It will be followed by a party for the members of the band.

This will mark the last appearance of Reba Blazer, band sponsor. Ralph R. Colbert will direct.

May Day Attendants Fail To Catch Snipe Despite Patient Wait

What are snipes? We don't know—there aren't any in the part of the country we come from. Of course there are the human snipes, and very unpopular people they are, too. But we refer not to them, but to a small bird.

Noah Webster says a snipe is a small shore-bird having a long beak, and esteemed as a game bird. Ruth and Sue think its a small bird like animal—looks something like a bird yet cannot fly, and that there are hundreds of them about in the college woods.

Anyway, it all sums up to the fact that Ruth Abercrombie and Sue Stevenson were left holding the bag. The others, who were attending a picnic of the people taking part in the May day procession, left the two girls while they all scattered around in the woods and rounded up the snipes. Ruth and Sue waited five minutes for the snipes to come into view so that they could catch them. Ten minutes! Twenty minutes! Thirty minutes! And yet no snipes!

After thirty-five minutes some of the others came back after the girls. But women will be women—and never have a joke on them too pointed. So Ruth and Sue put a stick in the bag, and tried to act if everything were on the up and up, and claimed that they had really caught a snipe.

UP OUR HALL

BY GEORGE HUNT

WE WERE AMAZED on Wednesday to find how extensive the circulation of this newspaper is. A few weeks ago this column ran an item on the "Birth of a Baby" photographs in Life magazine, saying that the consensus of opinion among Maryville men seemed to be that if it were a publicity stunt it was pretty bad publicity. Somehow Life got a copy of that column, and Wednesday we got a letter from an associate editor of the magazine, emphatically stating that the printing of the pictures was not a publicity stunt. Writes the executive: "We were merely continuing our policy of publishing significant articles of health and medicine, in cooperation with the various health campaigns of leading medical groups for better national health. I am sure that you will realize that publicity of the type received through banning of our publication is hardly the type of publicity we desire or that—quite frankly—circulation obtained from persons who purchased our publication in the hope of finding sensational material in it is not the type of circulation which would be of value to us for such people would be disappointed and soon cease to purchase copies." Since we hardly expected to have our doubts cleared on this point, we greatly appreciate this letter from Life magazine in which it is so well explained.

• • • • •

LIFE HAS ACHIEVED an enviable reputation in the picture magazine field. When it was first published not so long ago people said that it was a craze like miniature golf had been some time before. But Life is still going strong. 1903 is the date that opens the era of journalism when pictures became an important part of the daily newspaper. In that year a man named Harmworth in England transformed his newspaper, The Daily Mirror, into a daily with pictures instead of news as the principal attraction.

WHY THE JEWS HAVE THE NAMES of Goldberg, Rosenbaum, and such like is an interesting story. In the eighteenth century Austria was filled with Jews because of the religious toleration it then offered. Most of them only had two names, Isaac or Israel. Marie Theresa ordered every Jew to take a new name, one not used by Christians, in order to avoid confusion. So names were derived from minerals, flowers, and other such things, and that was the origin of such present-day surnames as Goldberg (gold mountain), Rosenbaum (rose tree) and Rothchild (red sign).

• • • •

WELL, IT DEPENDS ON how you look at it. We heard of the cannibal chief who wondered how we were able to consume so much human flesh during the last war. When told we do not kill men to eat, he was shocked that we would kill with no real object. Then we read the other day that Edward VII of England is supposed to have said as he was dying, "If this goes on much longer I shall be done for."

• • • • • •

THE SOPHOMORE COMPREHENSIVES showed us how much we didn't know, but in self defense we believe that not many students regardless of class could have answered some of the questions in the contemporary affairs test, things we should know but don't. For instance, who was Gabriel D'Annunzio, a prominent Italian who died last year? What South American country late in 1937 set up a totaitarian state? What is the new name of the Irish Free State? What kind of government is in Poland today? What is the meaning of the term Anschluss as applied to European politics? We think the tests were valuable as a reminder to us to read the daily paper more and keep up with the world.

THE ORCHESTRA WINS

The college Symphony in its music week concert Friday evening played some of the most difficult works ever attempted by a Maryville orchestra and did them well. Under director Colbert's leadership the orchestra bravely attacked the Egmont Overture and parts of Beethoven's Fourth Symphony. When all was said and done, the orchestra was definitely out on top.

Colbert in two years has done much toward building up an orchestra that is a credit to the college. The organization which heretofore had never attempted anything more difficult than waltzes and easy classical numbers has been raised to a level where it can be of real educational value.

The best performed work of the evening was the Egmont Overture with which the program opened. The impressive opening chords were firm and full, the difficult finale magnificent. However, the orchestra did not again attain such heights throughout the rest of the evening.

The flowing melodies of the Adigo and Allegro movements of the Beethoven Fourth were beautifully played. However, whenever the score called for pianissimo passages the result was uneven and rough. The orchestra seems to play forte passages well, but invariably fails to sections calling for the soft, even tones which are, after all, the true test of a musical group.

The orchestra's performance of Tales from the Vienna Woods was careless. Where the incomparable Strauss melodies should have been smooth and flowing, the performance of the orchestra was unpolished and frequently discordant. Mr. Colbert in conducting the work ignored many of the liberties of interpretation that add so much to the beauty of a Strauss waltz.

Zula Vance, soloist of the evening, played the beautiful melodic passages of the Mendelssohn concerto with nice feeling and expression. The more difficult phrases were sometimes hurried and not always clear and distinct, but nevertheless they were played, which is compliment enough for a student pianist attempting such a difficult work.

A PARADOXICAL SITUATION

The action of Mayor Hague last week in preventing Rep. O'Connel of Montana and Rep. Bernard of Minnesota from speaking in Jersey City is absolutely indefensible. "Dictator" Hague, through his command over American Legion members, who evidently haven't learned the war is over, has by the threat of open violence, denied American citizens one of the most fundamental of American rights—that of free speech and assembly.

Hague's position is rather paradoxical. He wishes to preserve America against the inroads of radicalism, and yet the methods he uses to accomplish that end destroy the very thing he is attempting to preserve. By some stretch of the imagination he thinks himself preserving American rights by denying them.

One of Hague's lieutenants, Col. George T. Vickers, Republican attorney and former commander of the Fourth New Jersey Infantry, made the statement, "let those that try to come to Jersey City and teach doctrines foreign to our Constitution take the consequences under the law, whether the malefactors be a former presidential candidate or a congressman not entitled to any more consideration than an ordinary citizen."

By what stretch of his law learning does attorney Vickers think 800 war veterans "each with two feet of rubber hose constitutes "the consequences under the law!" What is more "foreign to our Constitution" than the mob action threatened by the Legionaires. Mr. Vickers states that the congressmen aren't "entitled to any more consideration than an ordinary citizen." In Heaven's name, Mr. Vickers, just what are your ideas concerning the rights of an ordinary citizen!

Fits and Fizzles

By FRED RHODY

It just ain't fair! In all our years of weary toil for this column we've never yet received even so much as an offer of a $2,000-a-week contract from a news syndicate; and yet that upstart Hunt, hardly out of his journalistic baby clothes, so to speak, has been getting all kinds of fan mail already! The letters keep pouring in to him—requests for photographs and autographs, proposals of marriage—from Michigan, New York, and where-not. Any day now he is looking for one from Knoxville even.

• • • • •

And those fellows who write the sports column!! It's getting so that they have to use the window to get in and out of their room, because the mail is piled so high at their door every day. Practically every radio comedian on the air is after them to write gags for them, and Grantland Rice is tearing his hair out worrying over the loss of prestige. It's even rumored that Coach Honaker has offered the boys a good job (doing anything except writing a sports column).

• • • •

But what cuts us to the quickest, is that Pflanze's comic strip, Signs of the Times, has literally taken the humor-loving American public by storm. The benevolent readers have taken Otto and his tender quips into their very arms. Congress has even voted to urge Pflanze to retire from active life, and has offered him a comfortable pension.

Fifteen Attend "M" Club Outing

Fifteen members of the M club left this noon for a week-end in the mountains. Some of the girls planned to walk the fifteen miles to the cabin. Their destination was the Gamble cottage near Walland.

Mrs. Verton M. Queener went with the girls and took the supplies up in her car. They will return sometime late Sunday.

This is the annual M club hike. Plans for admission of the new members will be made during the week-end.

The M club is composed of all girls who have won their letter award by earning 400 points or more in point system. Edith Pierce is president of the club this year.

Rehearse Class Play

ruple murder, a trial, and plenty of laughs.

Malcolm Miller, in his column "Music and Drama" last Sunday in the Knoxville Journal gave an interesting sidelight on the title of the play. The title is drawn from Robert Burton, a 16th century writer, who established a saying, "Set a beggar on horseback and he will ride a gallop." This may be further traced to an old German proverb, "Set a beggar on horseback and he will outride the devil."

Despite the humor and satire of the play, Mr. Miller concludes, "With all its humor and satire, the play has a wistful quality that is quite arresting, and it drives home a lesson in idealism that lingers long in one's memory."

Dr. And Mrs. Lloyd Entertain Seniors

On Thursday of this week seniors received invitations to dinner at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Ralph W. Lloyd on Thursday evening, May 19.

It has been the custom of the president and Mrs. Lloyd for several years to entertain the graduating class at breakfast. This year they are extending their graciousness to make the occasion an informal dinner.

The invitations came as a nice surprise, and seniors are anticipating an enjoyable affair.

Highland Echo Staff To Hold Picnic Wed.

Instead of the annual banquet, members of the Highland Echo staff will hold a picnic in the college woods Wednesday afternoon from 5 until 8. Members of the committee in charge of arrangements are George Hunt, Ruth Abercrombie and Jean White.

Special guests of the staff will be members of the faculty committee on publications, Miss Almira Bassett, Prof. Verton M. Queener, Prof. Edgar Roy Walker, and Dr. Hill Shine.

Sodium Lights, etc.

As a result of some scientific experiments conducted by the physical science classes at F.S.G.W., it was predicted that it is only a matter of time until babies will sleep in sound-proof rooms, and old interior decorations will be changed simply by changing the quality of light, which changes the apparent color of the fabric. Sodium and ultra-violet lights were used also in the experiments, the latter showing up only the eyeballs, teeth, and fingernails in a dark room as a result of their becoming luminous.

THE SPORTS EDITOR

TRACK—

Maryville's supremacy in the state meet at Johnson City last Saturday was rather astonishing. With one of their best members out because of injuries, the Scotties still ran off with the honors by totaling up 67 points, more than 30 points above Lincoln Memorial who was runner-up in the meet.

Talmage pulled his leg while running the 100 yd. dash. Despite this injury, Talmage finished the event in first place. He was expected to pull down three or four first but his teammates carried on in excellent style.

Four old records were shattered by the Maryville runners. Two of the Baird brothers accounted for two of these records. Weldon set a new record of 1:58 in the half-mile, and Boydson shattered the old record in the mile with the time of 4:36.2. Don Rugh also came through with a new record in the two mile. The mile relay team set a new record when Lloyd, Steakley, Bill Baird (the other Baird brother) and Orr came in with a time of 3:27.

Despite the loss of Talmage, the Maryville team managed to pile up a goodly number of points. The question remains—what would have happened if Talmage had been in there?

TENNIS TEAM—

The tennis team will play the men from U-T this afternoon in case it doesn't rain. If it does they won't. But if they should happen to play, just in case it does not rain, the Scotties should come out well on top of the men from Knoxville.

All indications seem to point to the fact that the Scots will have a right handy win. If they do play and win, it will be the first time that the Maryville team has defeated U-T in quite a number of years.

After that show last night the tennis team should do something. They should win quite easily if they have the same inspiration that they had at the show.

BASEBALL—

The Scotties' baseball team continues to win, and despite everything it seems to come through all right. The pill chasers have just returned from a four day trip in which they did not lose a game.

Milligan, Emory-Henry, and Teachers all succumbed to the powerful Scots.

Collins bore the brunt of the mound work for the Scotties. Parker and Honaker relieved him of his duties in the second game, but Collins again took it up on the last day. "Ripper" allowed only one run in each game that he pitched. Wilburne and Hernandez sustained injuries of a minor nature when one forgot to duck and the other ran into interference in home.

TENNIS—

East Tennessee Teachers' college gave the Maryville team their second defeat when they trounced the Scots soundly on the Maryville courts with a score of 5 to 2 last Thursday The only players winning for the Scots were Van Cise in singles, and Gillingham and Morrow in doubles.

This last defeat definitely puts the Maryville netmen out of the running for the conference crown in tennis for tihs season.

Maryville Tennis Squad Starts On Journey Monday

Chattanooga, Birmingham Southern, and Ole Miss To Play Scotties

Monday morning the Maryville tennis team will start on its longest trip of the season. The Scotties will play the University of Chattanooga, Birmingham Southern, and Ole Miss in the course of the journey. They will end up at Memphis in time to take part in the state tournament there and will get home some time Saturday evening.

From all present indications those who will make the trip are Frank Morrow, Ed Gillingham, Russ Colombo, A. R. McCammon, and Kenneth Van Cise.

Chattanooga will not present much of an obstacle to the Scots for U.C. was defeated in Maryville by a score of 6 to 1. Chattanooga is expected to give a some what better account of itself at home, however.

Birmingham Southern presents a problem, for the Maryville team hardly nosed out the Southerners when they played here, 4 to 3. Ole Miss is an unknown, but it is certain that Mississippi has an above par team.

The state tournament at Memphis, where the tennis season of 1938 will be brought to a close, is an event in which every school in the state is invited to participate. The best tennis players in the state will be present, and Maryville's best chance will probably lie in the doubles tournament.

Women To Hold Meet In Pool Monday at 3:00

On Monday at 3:00 there will be a swimming meet between Mr. Fischbach's girls' beginners swimming class and Mrs. Queener's. There will be entries in diving, side stroke, crawl, float, and backstroke. Relay races will also be held between these two classes.

The semi-finals are nearly completed in the women's tennis tournament. Those already at the semi-finals are Nicely, Eddins, and Todd. Watson and Prince still have their match to play off. It is hoped that the tournament will be finished next week.

THETA WILL HAVE GAMES

Theta Epsilon will present a variety program of games in which everyone present will participate, this evening in Theta hall.

BAINONIAN HAS POETRY HOUR

A Poetry Hour will feature this evening's Bainonian program in Bainonian hall. Katherine Reed will read selections from Edna St. Vincent Millay and Mary Clarke Caldwell will sing.

Maryville Trackmen Win Smoky Mountain Conference Title With 67 Points—Nine New Records Made In Course Of Meet

Lincoln Memorial and Milligan Tie For Second Place In Meet With 35 2-3 Points Each—Over 30 Points Below Score of Scotties

SCOTTIES WIN SEVEN FIRST PLACES IN MEET

Weldon Baird, Boydson Baird, Don Rugh Shatter Old Records; Maryville Relay Team Establishes New Record In Mile Event of 3:27

Maryville college trackmen fairly walked off with the Smoky Mountain Conference track championship last Saturday afternoon. Maryville took a total of seven first places to win the meet easily. Maryville scored 67 points, Lincoln Memorial 35 2-3, Milligan 35 2-3, and Teachers college 22.

Records fell right and left as the Scotties broke four between them; a total of nine records were broken all together. Weldon Baird set a new record in the half mile with the fine time of 1:58 sec. Don Rugh crashed his own old record in the two mile, winning the race handily in the time of 10:8.2. Boydson Baird, one of the famous Baird boys, broke the mile record by running the distance in 4:36.2. The mile relay team composed of Lloyd, Steakley, Bill Baird, and Orr, smashed the former record by running the mile relay in 3:27.

Maryville suffered a serious blow when Roy Talmage pulled a muscle while running the 100 yd. dash. He won the race, but was unable to run any more that afternoon, and has been absent from practice most of the week. His injury will probably keep him out of the State meet being held in Knoxville today. If he is unable to compete, Maryville's chances to win the meet are very slim.

Weldon Baird was high point man for Maryville, winning the discus, 440 yd. dash and the half mile run for a total of fifteen points. Wallen, Teachers college, also won three firsts to tie for scoring honors with Weldon.

Today the Scots are at Knoxville at the State meet. There will be over six colleges at the meet, including the University of Tennessee, Sewanee, Milligan, Lincoln Memorial, and other colleges of the state. Without Talmage to run the dashes, Maryville will stand only a very small chance to place first.

CONFERENCE CHAMPS—

100 yd. dash: Talmage (M), Johns (L), Fleming (T), Burton (Mil); time 10.4 sec.

220 yd. dash: Roberts (Mil), Johns (L), Clary (L), Burton (Mil) time 23.1 sec.

440 yd. dash: W. Baird (M), Lloyd (M), Cook (L), Allen (L), time 50.8 sec.

880 yd. run: W. Baird (M), Bill Baird (M), Boydson Baird (M), Johnson (L) time 1.58 (new record)

Mile run: Boydson Baird (M), Johnson (L), McNair (L), Morgan (M), time 4:36.2 (new record)

Two mile run: Rugh (M), Gray (M), Childress (Mil), McNair (L), time 10:-8.2 (new record)

Scotties Scheduled To Play U. of T. At Two

The tennis team of Maryville will meet the net squad from the University of Tennessee this afternoon at 2:00 on the Maryville courts.

This match will be the second time that the two teams have met this season. Earlier in the season the Scots journeyd to Knoxville where they played the University with the results of a 4 to 4 tie. The third doubles match was not played for some reason.

This afternoon the Scotty team is seeking revenge for that tie, and from all indications the Maryville squad should be victorious.

U-T has been defeated by Tusculum and Birmingham Southern. Both of these teams were beaten when they met the Scots on their home ground.

This match will wind up the Scotties home schedule.

Scotty Nine Wins Three Conference Battles On Trip

The Maryville college baseball team clinched the conference title last week when they won two conference games, and one game against Emory-Henry. The baseball team has lost only one conference game, that being to Lincoln Memorial, and has won 16 out of 19 games this season. Next week they will complete the season with Teachers and Emory-Henry.

The Scotties have been on a four day trip the past week, playing Milligan, Emory-Henry and Teachers college. They won the first game against Milligan by the score of 11-1. Collins, ace hurler, pitched a fine game for the Highlanders to win the game easily with the help of his slugging teammates. Against Emory-Henry the score was 11-7 in the Scots favor. Honaker started the game, and was relieved by Don "Ace" Parker in the fourth. They were rained out of the second game with E-H. On Thursday they journeyd to Johnson City to play Teachers college. With Ripper Collins once more bearing the burden the Highlanders won the game 5-1.

In the Milligan game Wilburne, southpaw for the Scots, injured his leg when he ran into the catcher at home. "Lefty" Hernandez was hit in the face with a ball in the game against Teachers, and suffered a split lip.

Maryville 11 runs—Milligan 1 run.

Maryville 11 runs—Emory Henry 7 runs

Maryville 5 runs—Teachers 1 run.

Tennis Team Wins Match From L.M.U.

Maryville's tennis team has suffered one loss and has won one match this week. First against LMU, the Scotties won an easy match 5 to 2. But against East Tennessee Teachers they met a reversal when the Teachers turned the score around and defeated the Scots 5 to 2.

Coach Fischbach gave some new material an airing last Tuesday against the LMU squad, and even then the Maryville team was victorious. Van Cise, Akana, Stevenson, and Augenstein playing in the first four positions, won their matches with comparative ease. Gillingham, Morrow, McCammon, and Colombo were given a rest for the day while those in the lower ratings carried on.

Van Cise and Akana had an equally easy win in the number one doubles match. The LMU squad managed to take their two points when Felknor was defeated in number fiv eand when Stevenson and Smith were defeated in number two doubles. The Scots defeated the Lincolnites on their own courts some time ago by a score of 9 to 0.

Gilbert the Goat Goes Gallivantin' Bringing Confusion to Carnegians

Perhaps it was a bit late for conveniently receiving guests; but, nevertheless, Carnegie hall last Saturday night played host to a rather distinguished visitor. Gilbert the Goat, who is widely know as a conoisseur of rare old tin, picturesque window curtains, and ancient delectable manuscripts, dropped in unexpectedly just before midnight.

Gilbert comes from a long line of goats. Even as a tiny goatlet, Gilbert revealed his great hunger for knowledge. While the other young goats would swallow any trashy, cheap books and magazines which were put before them, Gilbert ate nothing but the very finest in the world's literature. He persuaded his mother to buy him the Book of Knowledge, and Gilbert faithfully ate a chapter every night before going to bed. So Gilbert grew up to be a fine, well-educated goat.

But Gilbert always cherished in his heart the desire to go to college. He didn't want to be just a goat all his life, and he thought that if he could only get a sheepskin and BA, he would no longer be a goat. Gilbert was uncertain as to where he should go to college. Many of his relatives were at U-T and other neighboring campuses, but Gilbert decided to take a look at Maryville before making his decision.

An obliging freshman saw Gilbert looking wistfully up toward the college last Saturday night; and, supposing that Gilbert wanted only the companionship of kindred spirits, brought him along home. "He looked lonesome," explained the freshman.

Having been invited inside Carnegie, Gilbert made a thorough inspection of the dormitory. The sleeping occupants of the rooms interested him much less than the contents of the waste-paper baskets.

Bob Brandriff, on the fourth floor, was awakened out of a sound sleep by the business-like bustling-around of Gilbert. Brandriff peered down into the bewhiskered countenance of the goat and mumbled, "Coit, I thought you were in bed."

On the third floor, Gilbert stopped in to exchange pleasantries with Jimmie Donaldson, who happened to be asleep. Undisturbed by his host's ill-manners in sleeping before company, Gilbert went right to work on the waste basket. When Donaldson woke he called, "What are you looking for at this time of the night, Ashby?" (He apologized to Gilbert later, for the mistake.)

Gilbert was induced to spend the night on the campus. Before taking his departure he was asked how he liked Maryville. "It's all right," he answered, "but I'd rather attend college where I'd get more attention; there are already too many goats here."

Confab Club Hold Banquet

The Confab club will meet Tuesday evening, May 17, at Cates Tea Room for its annual banquet. Members of the club will make after-dinner speeches, and Leland Waggoner will act as toastmaster. Mrs. Nita Eckles West has general supervision of the banquet.

Seniors To Give 1938 Class Play Next Saturday

Kaufman-Connelly Drama Is Distinctly A Satire On Americans

CAST INCLUDES VETS

Contains Elaborate Outlay Of Scenery; Seven Major Roles

Next Saturday evening, May 28th, at 8:00 the senior class will present "Beggar on Horseback," a Kaufman-Connelly production. The cast includes several of Maryville's veteran actors, who appear for the last time.

The play was adapted from a German play but has been so revised that it is distinctly a satire on Americans and American life. It contains an elaborate outlay of scenery, and besides the seven principal characters, there are a dozen minor roles. Some of the action will take place in the audience. This is something unusual and should be very interesting.

This production of Kaufman and Connelly is especially noted for its technical achievements. It concerns the technique of a dream. There is comedy blended with the serious meaning.

One of those making her last appearance in this play is Lois Black, who will play the role of the giddy Gladys Cady. Miss Black has already been seen twice on the Maryville stage this year in "Night Must Fall" and "Pride and Prejudice." Her part is that of the play-girl daughter of a self-made man.

Don Stevens, who made his debut earlier this year in "Pride and Prejudice," has the leading male role of Neil McRae, poet and composer. It is him about whose dream the whole play centers.

Cynthia will be played by Gloria Miller, who has played leads in such productions as "The Purple Mask," "Landy Windmere's Fan" and "First Lady." Her role is that of a sincere girl, devoted to any cause she serves.

Marion Lodwick, who played the part of the eccentric invalid in "Night Must Fall," will be Mamma Cady. Cast in the role of Dr. Albert Rice is George Brown who will appear as a quiet and studious doctor, although the poet's nightmare pictures him in many varied moods and poses.

Poppa Cady will be played by Lincoln Johnson, Homer Cady, the grouchy, asthmatic son of the wealthy Cadys, will be played by Walter West.

Some of the extras in the play are: Bill Young, Deane Brown, Evelyn Scott, John Guigou, Sam Fleming, Alice Whitaker, Roy Talmage, Janet Talmage, Bill Irwin, Don Rugh, Malcolm Brown, Grace Kerley, and Kathryn Adams.

Sara Bolton Elected Bainonian President

Sara Bolton, a junior, was elected president of Bainonian for the fall semester in the election held in Pearsons lobby yesterday.

Other officers elected were Lois Barnwell, vice president; Jane Law, secretary; Marguerite Justus, treasurer; Helen Bewley and Mary Orr opening week program secretaries; Ellen Sauer and Miriam Waggoner, program secretaries; Margaret Cloud, poster chairman; M. F. Spurlock and Helen Williams, house chairmen; Ruth Andrews, sargeant-at-arms; Mary Cornelius, pianist.

NOTICE

Refunds of deposits will be made at the close of school. Students rooming on the campus will receive tickets when the keys are turned in at the dormitories, and all students will receive tickets when textbooks are turned in at the Book Store. These tickets must be presented at the office in order to receive refunds.

After payment of any breakage or other charges, the deposit may either be withdrawn in cash or applied on a deposit for next year.

DON STEVENS

Lois Black and Don Stevens who will play the leading roles of Gladys Cady and Neil McRae in the senior play to be presented next Saturday evening.

Glee Club Concert Tonight In Chapel

Two Organizations Combine In Varied Programs Set For 8 p.m.

The combined men's and women's glee club will appear in joint concert this evening in Voorhees chapel at 8:00. The groups will be under the direction of Ralph R. Colbert, their instructor; and will feature Elizabeth Ann Huddleston and Alice Prime, sopranos; Richard Woodring and Carl Wells, tenors; and Harry Ferran, bass, as soloists.

The program will consist of negro spirituals and Italian, Czechoslavkian, Spanish, and English songs. Included are Schubert's Ave Marie and The Bells of St. Mary's by Adams.

One of the high points of the concert will be the singing of the Italian Street Song, from Victor Herbert's Naughty Marrietta, in which Elizabeth Ann Huddleston singing the obligoto role will hold high C for 16 counts.

The two organizations, numbering some 92 members, are presided over by Harriet Barber and Carl Wells. Louise Felknor and Gerald Beaver will accompany at the piano.

This concert ends a successful year during which the clubs have presented Iolanthe and the Messiah, and participated in May Day and the Easter service.

Morgan, Van Cise To Head Alpha Sig

Election of officers of Alpha Sigma for next year took place this week. The results were announced on Tuesday. Bruce Morgan, president; Kenneth Van Cise, vice president; Arthur Byrne, secretary; and Howard Davis, treasurer. Those elected to the program committee were James Donaldson, George Anderson, Otto Pflanze, and Douglas Steakley. Critics were Howard Disney and William Lewis. Eugene McCurry was elected sargeant-at-arms.

Miss Clemmie Henry Elected DAR Regent

Miss Clemmie J. Henry was elected to the position of regent in the Mary Blount Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution at a meeting on May 10. Miss Henry has been active in the chapter, and was on the book committee last year. Miss Henry's ancestors came from Virginia to settle in Tennessee, and she is a descendant of Patrick Henry.

Addresses, Seminars, and Banquet Included On Commencement Program For 119th Graduation On May 30-31

Dr. Jessie Halsey of Ohio Is Speaker For Graduation

IS UNION GRADUATE

Was In YM Work During War And Served As Chaplain

The Reverend Jesse Halsey, D.D., pastor of the Seventh Presbyterian church of Cincinnati, will address the graduating class at the annual commencement exercises to be held Tuesday, May 31, at 10 a.m. in Voorhees chapel.

Dr. Halsey was educated at Princeton Theological seminary and Princeton graduate school. He received his B.D. degree from Union Theological seminary and his Doctor of Divinity from Wooster college. From 1910-13, he was with Sir Wilfred Grenfell's Labrador Medical mission, after which he accepted his present pastorate.

During the war Dr. Halsey served with the YMCA and as American agent and chaplain of the British navy in Russia. He is a member of the Board of Pensions of the Presbyterian church, of the Advisory Committee of Union Theological seminary, and is prominent as a clubman and philanthropist. He contributes frequently to religious and secular periodicals. In 132 was published "A Living Hope," a work of his compilation.

The regular annual spring meeting of the directors will be held Tuesday morning, at 8:30, before the service.

The graduating class, one of the largest in the history of the school, will be introduced immediately following the precedent established last year. The order of services is as follows:

Processional

The choir, the directors, the graduating class, the facutly. Processional hymn, "God of our Fathers, whose almighty hand."

Senior Ceremony In Chapel Today

The chapel this morning was under the sponsorship of the senior class. The occasion was the annual ceremony in which the out-going senior class give their chapel seats to the incoming senior class.

Graduating seniors had arranged a program which consisted of a reading by Irene Browder; the reading by Don Stevens of some of his poetry written for Writer's Workshop; a piano selection by Garnet Manges, who also played the reccessional; the reading of the Scripture by Ray Nelson; and prayers by J. T. Hunt and Malcolm Brown. Jim Proffitt, president of this year's graduating class made a short talk giving the seats of this year's seniors to the incoming seniors, and Gene Orr, president of next year's senior class acknowledged Proffitt's talk and received the seats in behalf of his class.

The sophomores and freshmen did not exchange seats as they have formerly done did not take part in the ceremony.

Seniors Will Hold Banquet On Wed.

Climaxing a series of social events which the class of 1938 has held during the past year will be the Senior Supper next Wednesday evening. It will be held in the banquet room of Eslinger's resturant and will start at 7 p.m.

The program, in charge of Winnie Berst, will consist of talent from members of the class only. The whole affair is being managed by a committee of Martin Brynildsen, Jean Cross, and Jessie Cassada.

The chaperones will be Dr. and Mrs. E. R. Hunter, and Dr. and Mrs. R. W. Lloyd.

This year the seniors have had a more extensive social program than has been conducted in past years. Theatre parties during the year for members of the class have an outstanding feature of this program.

Eugene Orr Heads Seniors Next Year

Class Unanimously Ratifies Shakespeare Drama For Project

Eugene Orr was elected president of next year's senior class, at a meeting Wednesday morning. Other officers elected at the same time were Virginia Partridge, vice president; Catherine Pond, secretary; and Robert Martin, treasurer.

Orr, who won out in the balloting over Bruce Morgan, has been particularly outstanding this year as a track man. He is also a member of the YM cabinet.

Virginia Partridge, and Catherine Pond, have both been active members of their class. Miss Pond is on the YW cabinet , was secretary-treasurer of this year's student council, and is active in women's sports. Martin is president pro temore of the student council and a member of next year's YM cabinet. The new officers succeed Fred Rhody, Mary Chambers, Helen Bobo and Bill Alston.

Athenian Elects Rhody President

Fred Rhody, '39, was elected president of Athenian society for next semester at the election held Tuesday. Russell Stevenson was made vice-president.

Other officers elected at this time were Clifford Proctor, secretary; Samuel Cornelius, treasurer; William Baird and Glenn Young, program secretaries; Philip Evaul and Clement Hahn, critics; Kenneth Duncan and Henry Millison, sargeant-at-arms; John Thompson, editor; and Stanley Bird, pianist.

The new officers will be installed at the regular meeting this evening. The program this week also includes graduation exercises for the senior members.

Dr. James F. Cooke, Editor Of Etude Will Speak At Banquet

WILL HOLD SEMINARS

President And Mrs. Lloyd Will Hold Reception Monday at 3

Alumni Day at Maryville college will be observed Monday, May 30. The feature of the day, the Alumni Association dinner and meetings, will be held in Pearsons hall at 7:00, with Dr. James Francis Cooke, of Philadelphia, as the principal speaker. Listed in Who's Who, Dr. Cooke is editor of Etude, president of the Presser foundation, and holder of many other distinguished positions and honors. A short business meeting and election of officers for the year 1938-39 will be presided over by Joe C. Gamble, '26, president of the Alumni Association this year.

The day's program will open with the appearance of the college orchestra in the regular Saturday morning chapel services.

Other plans for the day include alumni seminars Monday morning. From 9:25-10:20 Professor Katherine C. Davies, head of the department of Fine Arts, and Athletic Director Lombe Scott Honaker, will conduct seminars in their respective fields. From 10:20-11:15 a seminar on the new Reading tests and Remedial Work will be conducted by Professor David H. Briggs, head of the department of Psychology and education; and a seminar on Microphotography as an aid to research, by Professor Hill Shine, of the department of English. These seminars will meet in rooms on the second floor of Thaw hall. All interested persons are invited to attend any or all of them.

The classes holding official reunions this year are: 1886, 1887, 1888, (the fifty-year class), 1889, 1905, 1906, 1907, 1908! 1913 (the twenty-five year class); 1924, 1925, 1926, 1927, 1928. Class reunion luncheons wil be held as arranged.

President and Mrs. Ralph W. Lloyd, Dr. and Mrs. William P. Stevenson are receiving alumni, parents, and other guests at the President's home from 3:00 till 5:00 Monday afternoon. Seniors are to be guests at the reception as well as at the Alumni dinner.

Plates for the dinner will be seventy-five cents. Reservations may be made by writing the Alumni office, Maryville college, and tickets obtained on Saturday and Monday, May 28 and 30, at the information table on the campus. The acting executive secretary is in the president's office, Anderson hall.

Professor Publishes Interesting Answer From Economic's Head

Following is a letter received by a Maryville student on applying for a graduate fellowship. Prof. Verton M. Queener, Maryville debate coach, has requested that this letter be published for two reasons. First, because he wants more people to try out for debate. Second, because many students, able to be on the debate squad, do not try out because they see no value in debate work.

Dear Mr.

"At the present moment I am giving serious consideration to your application for a graduate fellowship at

Your record and testimonials are all quite satisfactory and complimentary.

"However, there is one very important angle, from my point of view, which is nowhere covered. Have you had any experience in inter-collegiate debating or oratory. Have you done anything outstanding in the field of speech? One must be more than a good scholar. If you have had any definite experience or training along these lines I shall be glad to know about it."

Very cordially yours,
Head of the Department of Economics.

Remedial Readings Produce Satisfactory Results

By JESSIE CASSADA

The semester program of training in remedial reading for freshmen has been completed and Dr. D. H. Briggs, supervisor of the work, announces somewhat encouraging results. This training was undertaken in view of the generally recognized situation described in this statement from a bulletin by the American Optical Company: "Only 25 percent of students in school today can read with efficiency. Three-fourths are not more than 50 percent efficient readers. In the majority of cases of failing students, the chief difficulty is very often this inability to read rapidly and with comprehension." At the first of this semester the Iowa Silent Reading Test was given to all freshmen, and those with the lower 50 percent of score were required to enroll in one of three classes to meet for 30 minute periods. The ophthalmograph was used to make a photographic record of eye movements; the same was done at the end of the course. As soon as the last film is developed the two records will be compared to measure improvement in muscular control of the eyes. The total of time spent in classes practicing rhythm reading with metro-scope was about 15 hours. Reading was begun on high school material at the rate of 150 words per minute; at the end of the course college matter was read at 325-350 words per minute. Scores on daily quizzes showed better comprehension at the faster speed than at the beginning.

After the course was completed, Form A of the same Iowa Test was given to all freshmen. On comparing scores the trained group showed an increase in rate of reading equivalent to 1 1-4 grades advancement, while the undrilled half had lost one grade level. In comprehension of material read the drilled group gained 8 grade and the undrilled 7 grade.

As yet the loss of speed by the faster half is not explained. An interesting fact to note is that 40 percent of the training group, and 35 percent of the others, wear glasses.

This attempt has demonstrated its value sufficiently that the college is endeavoring to obtain a fund of several thousand dollars to begin a 5-year program of more carefully administered instruction during this time.

UP OUR HALL

By GEORGE HUNT

THERE WAS REALLY A CASEY AT THE BAT. Back in elementary school we remember the county contest when a bunch of scared, stammering younsters would get on the stage and recite poems to an audience of old maid school teachers, some male teachers who had been roped into the job, and proud mothers who had come to make sure that little Cynthia got first prize. The choice of recitations represented the school teachers' repertoire, and ranged from "Sheridan's Ride" to an ode to some flower. There was one girl in our school whose pride was "Casey at the Bat." She did it with gusto, and often won prizes with it. But we didn't know until we were reading Collier's for May 21 that there really had been a Casey at the bat. If you remember, Casey was pitcher and star batter for a team called Mudville—in the poem. The insinuation we don't like is that the real Casey was pitching for a team called the Phillies—students from the City of Brotherly Love will remember that there used to be a team there by that name.

• • • • •

THE REAL CASEY lives in Maryland now, and was last year given a life pass to all big league baseball games. He was on the radio some time ago and introduced as the real hero of the poem which DeWolf Hopper made famous.

• • • •

DR. STEVENSON'S REFERENCE to Richard Halliburton on Wednesday morning recalled to us the time we heard him speak. We have always thrilled at his stories of swimming in the lake at the Taj Mahal and doing other things that ordinary human beings don't do. The time we heard him speak he was wearing a double breasted suit and came out on the stage looking quite handsome. As he spoke, we discovered he was an actor as well as a writer, for as he described the thrilling things he did he acted them out with gestures and even had the tremor of excitement in his voice.

• • • • •

GLANCING THROUGH THIS WEEK'S TIME we saw a letter to the editor that hit right home. A subscriber wrote: "If that nasty article about taboo words is newsworthy, I'm a Chinaman." Now we know what somebody thinks of our English department's attempt to find out what we talk about. The editor replied to the subscriber, "Some Chinamen have funny names."

• • • • •

THERE WAS A PICTURE in the Journal on Wednesday morning of German youth burning books that had been ordered destroyed by the government. One boy was about to throw a volume by Heinrich Heine, a Jewish poet, into the fire. Hitler has ordered the large Austrian National library destroyed for all "seditious" literature, and several American colleges have telegraphed asking for some of the priceless volumes in the collection.

• • • • •

IT WON'T BE LONG NOW—and any freshman can tell you what we mean. What we'll be looking for is some of the good home cooking which we miss. We want to drop in at a little Italian resturant on Chesnut street and have a real Italian dinner—spaghetti covered with strong cheese, rye bread that you break off and eat in hunks, tomato sauce, and tiny meat balls without onions. It's served by burly but polite Italians and backgrounded with music by radio—it's our favorite "eating out" dish because the rest of family doesn't like it.

• • • • •

THIS COLUMN HAS SERVED its apprenticeship and enjoyed doing it. It wishes you a good summer, hoping all of you get jobs—which we hope for ourselves—and wanting you all (such a Southern accent) to enjoy yourselves. We'll probably bump into you in Atlantic City or on Market street and be glad we've seen one familiar face from old m.c. So long, and pax vobiscum.

Fits and Fizzles

By FRED RHODY

For the sake of those poor souls who are terrified at the prospect of having nothing to do during the long summer months, we have been persuaded to draw up a list of practical, worthwhile suggestions as to how you can profitably spend your vacation period:

Ten Good Ways To Pass The Summer

1—Wondering what you are going to do this summer.
2—Wondering what you are going to do next summer.
3—Wondering what you did last summer.
4—Wondering when the president of that big corporation is going to drop in to urge you to work for him all summer.
5—Wondering why you were gullible enough to believe those stories that Professor So-and-so would flunk you no matter what.
6—Wondering whether it wouldn't be a pretty good idea if you got a job one of these summers soon.
7—Wondering whether she meant what she said when you parted for the summer, or whether she has double-crossed you by dating—just as you've double-crossed her.
8—Wondering how many more days till school starts again.
9—Wondering whether those horrible final exams during the last week of school weren't really only a ghastly nightmare, after all.
10—Wondering.

• • • • •

Summer is that black-magic time when all the teachers skulk stealthily through the remote places of the earth and its depths, seeking out secret recipes for the concoction of new infernal poisons and punishments—in the way of more deadly tests; term papers which cause a slow, tortous, lingering death instead of the quick merciful type now in use—all, to use on their students in the coming year. And summer is also that time when students search the earth to discover better ways of taking life easy during the coming school year.

• • • •

The intrepid reporter does it again! In the early part of June, Maryville's own sun of the journalistic universe will embark on another adventure for the sake of fame, fortune and fun! Leland Waggoner, accompanied by Horace Brown and Tommy Woolf, plans to take a trip to Europe this summer. While there, Waggoner will write for a well-known Knoxville newspaper, whose name beings with a "J."

• • • • •

They expect to see the sights from the saddles of three tried and true bicycles. Leland, especially, is very apt to get violently homesick. So, for his protection, Horace and Tommy ask that lots of people write to Leland. Before August 1, address letters c-0 American Express Co., 11 Rue Scribe, Paris, France. After August 1, address all cakes, gifts, etc., c-o American Express Co., 25 Oxford St., Southampton, England. Foreign letters cost five cents postage.

The Year In Review

UNUSUAL ARTIST SERIES

A backward glance through the Echo's twenty-third volume reveals a variety of outstanding programs that would be a credit to any college whose purpose is to give a liberal arts education.

The high spot in the college music program, of course, was an unusual artist series with Moriz Rosenthal, Orlando Barera, and John Charles Thomas. Professor Geo. D. Howell has this year undoubtedly given us three of the greatest artists ever to appear in one series on the Maryville college stage.

The name of Rosenthal will always bring to mind an unforgetable interpretation of Lizt's "Second Hungarian Rhapsody." While Barera stands out because of his marvelous exhibition of technical skill in Paganini's "I Palpiti."

• • • • •

OTHER MUSICAL PROGRAMS GOOD

High spot of the high spot, to be sure, was the performance of John Charles Thomas and his accompanist, Carrol Hollister. That concert brings to mind not one work more perfectly done than the others but an entire evening of wonderful music. The thrilling encore, "O Du Mein Holder Abendstern," the opening song, "Widmung," and Hollister's "Clair de Lune" were only three pleasing numbers in a perfect concert.

The Fine Arts department gave its usual long series of consistently splendid musical programs. Before Christmas there was a faculty recital and the annual presentation of the Messiah. Since the first of the year there have followed in quick succession the light opera production, Iolanthe, the band and college symphony concerts, and student recitals too numerous to mention.

• • • • •

SPORTS AND DEBATE

As for sports the Highlanders have been signally successful, ending the year with three conference championships in their clutches. Maryville has Smoky Mountain conference wins in tennis, baseball, and track.

In football the Scotties had a thrilling season, ending just short of what would have been another conference championship. The wrestling and basketball seasons, however, were not so successful. The number of wins only balanced the losses in basketball, and in wrestling the Scots lost their first state championship in years.

The Maryville debate squad finished its season this spring with an enviable list of important championshps to its record. Most important perhaps, were the South Atlantic Women's debate championship and the Women's debate championship and the Tennessee state championship. Queener-coached speakers this year have accounted for seven firsts, eleven seconds, and two thirds in the various contests of five tournaments.

• • • • •

DRAMATICS AND CURRENT AFFAIRS

Mrs. West has made an unusual contribution to Maryville dramatics this year with three splendid plays: Pride and Prejudice, First Lady, and Night Must Fall. Their excellence bears testimony to the wisdom of cutting down the midwinters from four to two.

In connection with current affairs, the high spot of the year's activities was the visit on the campus of Dr. William E. Dodd. Though many could not agree with the main idea of his address, no one can deny that he gave one of the most instructive hours in the collegey ear.

Also worthy of note was the lecture of Lawrence E. Fernsworth, Newspaper correspondent of the New York Times, who gave a stirring defense of Loyalist Spain, and the address before the Peace Forum of Dr. J. Wesley Hoffman of the University of Tennessee.

• • • • •

BOUQUETS TO TWO EDITORS

Before closing this commentary of the year's activities recognition should be made of the splendid work of two Maryville college editors: J. T. Hunt and Bruce Morgan.

From his necessarily subjective viewpoint, the columnist thinks Hunt has done a good job editing the Highland Echo. He has kept the office floor swept clean and has put forth a magnificent effort to make the paper a leading factor in college life.

Bruce Morgan deserves commendation especially because of the handicap under which he has worked. The Chilhowean's income was cut almost in half last fall. And yet Morgan has succeeded in putting out a distinctive yearbook that is a credit to his class and the college.

Orr Heads Seniors

At the same class meeting, the members unanimously voted their approval of a suggestion made by Gordon Bennett concerning next year's senior play. For several weeks Bennett has been discussing with Dr. E. R. Hunter, head of the English department, and other interested persons, the possibility of the class of '39 presenting a Shakespeare play next year. In offering his idea to the class, Bennett said that Dr. Hunter had agreed to aid a group of seniors next year in interpreting and cutting a play, and that Mrs. Nita E. West had agreed to coach such an undertaking. If the suggestion is adopted by the senior play committee, which is to be appointed by President Orr, a group of interested students will work with Dr. Hunter during the first semester, preparing the play to be turned over to Mrs. West for rehearsals the second semester.

Bennett emphasized that only by devoting the entire year to the task could such a performance as a Shakespearean drama be successfully presented. A play of this nature, he said, would give a large proportion of the class some part in its preparation and presentation, would be inexpensive to produce, and would be a worthwhile contribution to the cultural life on the campus and in the community.

The decision as to whether or not this plan for next year's senior play is to be carried out rests with the play committee, which has the authority to make the choice of the play to be given.

"RIPPER" BILL

Bill "Ripper" Collins came through with the first no-hit, no-run game of the year, when the Scots whitewashed Emory and Henry here last Wednesday afternoon 4-0. There was some discussion as to whether or not J. D. Hughes comitted an error on that ball hit to him in the ninth inning. The rules leave it up to the official score keeper, and Born, manager and score-keeper, considered the ball too hot to handle, and thus considered it an error giving Collins his well-derserved no-hit game.

Whether or not you do give Bill the no-hit game, I certainly think you should give Collins plenty of credit for pitching such a fine brand of ball the past season. Bearing the brunt of the pitching assignments, he also did his share at the plate, coming through more than once with a timely hit. Orchids to you, Bill Collins.

WE WILL MISS THEM

This year has been a fairly successful one in the history of the world of sports at Maryville; we won two Conference championships, one in baseball and one in track, and we had a near champion football team, a fine basketball team, good wrestling team, not such a bad swimming team, and a strong tennis team. However, all good things must come to an end, and this year we are losing by graduation some of the finest athletes ever to be on the Hill. From the football team we lose Proffitt, and Renfro, two of the finest linemen in the conference this year. Junior Odell, one of the good all around athletes will also join the mortarboard parade. Guy Propst, one of the finest wrestlers in the south will also be gone from the ranks next year. One of the greatest track men to ever be on the college team will graduate thisyear: Roy Talmage and that is 'nuff said. In baseball we will lose a host of men. Collins, Black, Evers, Parker, Hernandez. Who will be able to replace these?

Maryville Second In State Meet

Tennessee First With 61 Points; Scots Score 48

On a soggy track, the Tennessee Vols last Saturday won the Tennessee Intercollegiate Athletic Association track championship by scoring a total of 61 points. The nearest team, which was the Maryville thinlyclads, garnered a total of 48 points.

Other teams and their scores were: Sewanee 20, Lincoln Memorial 15, Chattanooga university 11 1-2, Tennessee Poly Institute 6, Milligan 3 1-2. The wet track caused by heavy rains just before the meet, prevented any record breaking times being turned in.

The Tennessee trackmen completely dominated the events, taking eight first places, and placing in every event but the javelin throw. The Maryville Scotties copped three first places, winning the discus, the mile run, and the high jump. Fred Tulloch won the discus throw with a sail of 117 feet. Boydson Baird won a thrilling mile race, running third until the last lap, and then pulling up to whip Willard Richardson came through in the high jump to win of U-T. "Cousin Joe" James Etheredge with a jump of 5' 9 3-4".

Talmage's injury kept him out of the scoring except a fourth in the 220 yd. dash. If Talmage had been in shape, the score would undoubtedly have been very different, and probably Maryville woud have won the meet.

Juniors Are Named Interclass Champs

Arthur Peterson Selected As Best All-Round Athlete

The championship and the medals to be given by the Athletic Department of the YMCA in chapel on Award day sometime next week have been announced by the Athletic Director Roy Talmage.

The junior class was declared the interclass champions, with the sophomores running a close second. The juniors won the football championships, the basketball and volley ball championships. The sophomores won the swimming and baseball championships; while the freshmen won the track championship.

Arthur Peterson, freshman, was declared the best all-round athlete and will be awarded a special champion medal. The four men from the junior team to win champion medals are: Russ Colombo, Prestley McCaskie, Clifford Proctor, and Omer Judy. The other men to receive medals for being outstanding athletes in all the athletic contests are: Les Luxton (S), Russell Stevenson (S), Harold Wicklund (S), T. Etheredge (S), James Miller (F), Warren Van Blarcom (F), Reese Scull (Sr), James Bruce (Sr.), George Mrown (Sr).

Maryville Nine Clinches Conference Title; Has Won 20 Out of 23 Starts

Collins Pitches No-Hit, Game Against E-H

The Maryville baseball team turned in three more victories this week to clinch the Conference title. The Scots won from East Tennessee Teachers, and took two games from Emory and Henry. The Highlanders have won 20 out of 23 starts this season, and have 10 out of 11 Conference games, losing only to LMU.

Bill Collins, ace right-hander, finished his baseball career at Maryville by pitching a beautiful no hit, no run game. Collins had the ball under perfect control at all times, and was never in danger. His teammates bunched four hits, and took advantage of the errors of Emory and Henry to score four runs.

"Nig" Wilburne, southpaw, won the second Emory and Henry game, allowing his opponents six hits to one run, while Maryville had a field day at bat, collecting thirteen hits to score eight runs.

Craine Completes Study On Fossils

Eugene Craine, a junior, has recently completed a work entitled A Treatise On Fossils. He has dedicated his work to the late Dr. J. H. McMurray, who encouraged him in his work.

Craine used as a basis for his study the fossils which are in the college museum. He expresses as his purpose in writing the paper, "to bring a clear, brief, and concise, yet comprehensive study of geological history and of the world of fossils to those who are not technically interested in them."

The paper lists the way in which an organism may be presented, the kinds of mud, etc., in which fossils have been found. It discusses different fossil types, and the different ages, periods, and epochs with which fossils are associated.

Baird Is Elected 1939 Track Cap't.

Weldon Baird was voted the captainship of the 1939 track team by his teammates last Thursday. Baird was a star trackman this year, running the 440 yd. dash, the half mile run, and tossing the discus. At the Smoky Mountain Conference meet this year, Baird set a new record in the half mile. He already holds the Conference record in the 440 yd. dash, the discus throw, and the half mile run. He also holds the college records in those same events. Weldon was a consistent point getter this season, and was high point man for the team.

TRACK LETTERMEN

Sixteen men will receive track letters this year, the list has been announced by Coach Thrower and will be passed on this week by the Athletic Board of Control. The sixteen men are: Talmage, Weldon Baird, Boydson Baird, William Baird, Rugh, Gray, Orr, Morgan, Steakley, Lloyd, Rea, Chandler, Tulloch, Propst, Etheredge, and Odell.

Retired Consul At Peace Forum Friday Evening

Edwin S. Cunningham, '89 Will Speak On War In China

One of the best authorities in America on far eastern affairs will address Maryville students when Edwin S. Cunningham, for twenty-three years a United States Consul General in the Orient, speaks in the Philosophy classroom Friday evening at 6:45. Cunningham will lecture on the war in China in the first program of the year sponsored by the college Peace Forum.

Cunningham, a graduate of Maryville college in the class of 1889, has one of the most distinctive records of any man in the consular service. He has spent almost forty years as representative of the American government in such places as Arabia, Norway, South Africa, India, China, and the British port of Singapore.

Because of the fact that all but five years of that period were spent in unhealthy climates, Mr. Cunningham has to his credit 57 years in the service, 1 1-2 years having been added for each year spent in those countries. Only four other officials have spent as long a period in the U.S. Consular Service.

Since 1914 Mr. Cunningham has been a Consul General in China. He has spent five years in Hankow and sixteen in Shangai. While in the latter place he received the honor of being made a member of the Court of Consuls, on which each country is represented by only one of its consuls. In 1926 he became senior consul.

Another mark of his distinctive service is seen in his work on numerous committees negotiating on local matters with the Chinese authorities. He was chairman when such matters as the rendition of the Mixed Court, the Extra-Settlement Road question, Trade Marks dispute, and others were settled. Perhaps the most important work of his career came when he was appointed chairman of the joint committee, which implemented the important Sino-Japanese agreement of 1932.

Cunningham holds honorary degrees from Maryville college and the University of Michigan. The latter degree was conferred on June 21 of this year. In conferring the degree President Ruthven read: "For forty years and more, particularly during his service in Shanghai in 1927 and 1932 when grave issues confronted the nations of the world, he bore weighty responsibilities with clear judgment and unfaltering courage. Repeatedly did the stricken populace turn to him for safety and the representatives of other governments looked to him for leadership and never in vain. Wise in counsel, resolute in will, and energetic in action he won commendation from the department of State. Now in his retirement he deserves the grateful remembrance of his fellowmen."

In inviting Mr. Cunningham to accept the degree, President Ruthven wrote: "The university desires in this way to give public recognition of the outstanding achievements of one of its own alumni in a lifetime devoted to the skillfull and patriotic representation of this country in foreign lands."

Cunningham holds a law degree from the University of Michigan which he

YMCA Will Hold First Meeting Sunday at 5:00

The first meeting of the YMCA will be held Sunday evening at 5 o'clock in Bartlett auditorium.

Dr. E. R. Hunter will speak on "College Life with Christ." The freshmen will be welcomed into the association by Weldon Baird, YMCA president. Other welcome addresses will be made by members of the "Y" cabinet.

Eight Hundred Have Registered This Year

Nearly eight hundred students have registered this week for classes next semester. This is a slight increase over the registration of a year ago.

Registration of new students began Tuesday and both old and new students registred on Wednesday through Friday. The freshman class is, as usual, the largest of all four classes registered.

This year there seem to be more students from foreign countries than than in former years. These students represent Germany, China, Puerto Rico, Costa Rico, Japan, Syria, Persia, Canada, and South America.

Faculty Will Hold Annual Reception In Thaw, Monday

The annual faculty reception for students will be held Monday evening at 8:00 in the library, Thaw hall. This reception is planned each year by a committee from the faculty and the students.

The receiving line will be headed by the presidents of the YM and YWCA and President and Mrs. Ralph W. Lloyd. Weldon Baird heads the men's organization and Helen Bobo is president of the YW. In the line will be members of the faculty, officers of administration, and other college officials. Refreshments will be served following the reception.

Maryville To Have Exchange Student

German Student To Arrive Here On Monday

For the first time Maryville college is cooperating this year with the Institute of International Education in taking one of the foreign exchange students which the Institute brings to America on fellowships. The Institute is the principal organization in the world for the handling of exchange students and teachers between the various countries.

The student assigned to Maryville is Fraulein Ingeborg Jung, of Dusseldorf-Eller, Germany. She is today in New York attending a meeting of exchange students held by the Institute of International Education and will probably be in Maryville Monday.

Fraulein Jung graduated last February from what would be called here a junior college. It is the Stadtische Schuback-Schmidt-Schule, in Dusseldorf. Her father is a Protestant minister, being Rector of the Evangelical Protestant church in Dulleldorf. Fraulein Jung's study thus far, including her study in English, has been such as to qualify her to carry the general work of junior classification. She has attended lectures given in English and one purpose in coming to America is to acquire training in spoken English. She hopes to become an interpreter.

Doctors Will Begin Examinations Tues.

The physical examination of all students will begin next Tuesday, Sept. 20, in the athletic office in Bartlett hall. Following is the schedule of the examination by local doctors:

Men: Tuesday—9 a.m. to 12 p.m.; 1 p.m. to 3:15 p.m.
Wednesday—9 a.m. to 12 p.m.; 1 p.m. to 3:15 p.m.
Women: Thursday—9 a.m. to 12 p.m.; 1 p.m. to 3:15 p.m.; 7 p.m. to 9.
Friday—9 a.m. to 12 p.m.; 1 p.m. to 3:15 p.m.; 7 p.m. to 9.

Announcement will be made later of the groups that should go on each day.

Bobo Will Speak At First Y.W. Meeting

The YWCA will meet for the first time this school year at the YWCA reading rooms in Thaw Hall on Sunday afternoon at 1:15. Helen Bobo, president of the association will speak. Her subject will be "The Winning Hand." Special music will be given by Mary Alice Minear and Ruth Andrews.

Improve Campus, Buildings, Drive During Summer

Among the improvements made to the campus during the summer is the redecorating of Voorhees chapel. In the basement the Fine Arts studio was moved to larger quarters which have a seating capacity of one hundred and fifty. This has made necessary the moving of the room of the chapel caretakers and has resulted in two new studios and a closet for the chapel robes. The auditorium has been entirely repainted, and the practice rooms will be painted sometime soon. A new staircase has been built from Mrs. West's classroom to the attic of the chapel where a place was made for the storage of play costumes and properties.

Improvements in other buildings on the campus include painting and papering of rooms in Baldwin hall, and in Carnegie and Pearsons halls. The third floor of Anderson hall has been changed, enlarging the history classroom and making one new classroom. New floor coverings and a redecorated kitchen are the improvements that have been made at Lamar hospital.

New steel chairs have been installed in the library and three new tables have been ordered. The philosophy classroom has received new chairs.

The completion of the circle drive near the football field is an outstanding exterior improvement. It is planned to make a parking place where the road was behind science hall

Talks, Songs At Pow-wow Tonight

The annual pow-wow of the YMCA is scheduled for 7.30 this evening, in the amphitheater in the college woods. The officers and cabinet of the Y invite all men to hit the trail to the woods and join in this evening of fun, entertainment and refreshment.

In addition to a period of group singing, there are to be several brief speeches by Maryville athletic leaders, including Coach L. S. Honaker and the varsity captains. Following a developing tradition, each of the two men's societies, Athenian and Alpha Sigma, will put on a stunt for the entertainment of the men.

The main attraction of the evening, however, is likely to be the truckload of watermelons which is on hand. Men are advised to wear old clothes to the pow-wow.

Local Ministers To Lead Services

Next week the morning chapel services will be conducted by four ministers from the leading churches in Maryville.

On Tuesday morning Dr. John A. McAfee of the Presbyterian church will be the leader. Dr. O. R. Tarwater of the Northern Methodist church will lead the services on Thursday morning. Rev. R. O. Eller of the Southern Methodist church will be the leader on Friday morning, and on Saturday, Dr. P. B. Baldridge of the Baptist church will lead.

This is the same procedure as has been followed for several years during the first week of school.

Sophomores Choose '38 Class Officers In Meeting Today

In the final sophomore election held this morning in chapel Frank Brink was elected class president. Mary Darden was elected vice president; Lula Wade Diggs, secretary, and George Haynes, treasurer.

Bill Baird was elected as the fourth sophomore representative on the student council. In the first election held Thursday morning, Jean McCammon, Mary C. Caldwell and Gordon Findlay were elected to the council by a majority vote and a run off was not necessary.

Most of the Senior and Junior class elections were held last spring. Freshmen will not elect class offices until later in the semester.

Dr. Stevenson Will Lead First Vespers On Sunday At 7:00

The first Sunday evening Vesper service of the school year will be led by the college pastor, Dr. William Patton Stevenson. His theme for the evening will be "What Is Your Life?" Dr. Stevenson has been leading the Vesper services at Maryville college since May, 1917. He will continue his leadership in Vespers this year.

The choir, under the direction of Ralph R. Colbert, will open the Sunday evening service using "How Firm A Foundation" as a processional. During the service, the choir will sing an anthem by Christiansen, "Today There Is Ringing". The recessional will be "Saviour to Thy Dear Name We Raise."

Faculty, Students Wed Last Summer

Dr. Ralph Stokes Collins, professor of French and German, who was on leave of absence last year, was married in August to Miss Maria Johanna Zubiller of West Point, New York.

Mrs. Collins received her Bachelor of Arts degree from Alfred university, and studied German at Middlebury, Vermont. Dr. Collins received his B.A. degree from the University of North Carolina; his M.A. from the same university, and just last year his Ph.D. from Johns Hopkins university. He has also studied at the University of Munich, Germany; and is a member of Phi Beta Kappa.

Dr. and Mrs. Collins are now living in an apartment on High street, just across from the corduroy.

Several Maryville graduates and old students have married during the summer. George Brown, '38, and Lucille Roberts, '37, were married on September 2, at Miss Roberts' home in Soddy, Tennessee. They are now living in Buffalo, New York, where Mr. Brown is teaching.

Bob Cusworth, last year a sophomore, was married to Mary Evelyn Cooley of Knoxville the first part of the summer. They are now living in Knoxville where he is an insurance salesman.

Joy Pinneo, a senior, and Donald Rugh, '39, announced their engagement the firt part of the summer. Fred Jewitt, '37, was married six weeks ago to a Long Island girl. He and his wife visited Maryville Thursday, en route to a Texas seminary. Lucille Gillespie, a senior, was married to Robert Step, an electrician at the Aluminum plant, in July.

Sisk To Succeed Former Professor In Department of Math and Physics As Knapp Leaves Active Service

Bainonian Begins Rush Week Monday

Air Trip Theme of Program For Freshman Women

Bainonian Airlines celebrates its annual rush week from September 19 through the 26th with three important events. The first program is to be a travel tea Tuesday afternoon at 3:15 o'clock. Guests will meet at Pearsons at that time and start their travels through Italy, France, and England. In Italy they will travel through the best known cities and become acquainted with the interesting scenes and places thereabouts. Leaving France, the Bainonian Airlines will take their guests to England where they will have their afternoon tea.

Traveling at an immense rate of speed, on Thursday afternoon at 3:30, guests of the Bainonian Airlines will leave England (lobby of Pearsons) and arrive in Africa in time to join a group of treasure hunters about to pentrate the depths of the African jungle in search of hidden treasure which one group may expect to find in reaching the end of the hidden trail before the others. Then, there in the jungle, when all the hunters arrive, the choicest of African foods will be served by the Bainonian Airline guides.

Bainonian Airlines' formal opening will be held Saturday evening at 8:00 at which time their guests will find themselves traveling swiftly across the continent to the Orient. After some time spent in the Orient, the guides will continue toward America, the end of the around the world flight. The guests of the Bainonian Airlines will find that this last part of the flight will have a program that will be of interest to people of varied likes and hobbies; there will be something to delight everyone.

YW Stages Party For Little Sisters

"Backwards" is the YW watchword for Saturday evening, beginning at 7:30 on Thaw lawn. All big sisters and their little sisters are urged to attend this "backward mountaineers" party dressed appropriately. Upon arriving, each guest will receive a colored ticket, which will correspond to a color on one of eight surrounding trees, where group leaders will be stationed. Refreshments, games, and a short program will be the order of the evening. To climax the program, Louise Proffitt guarantees an original introduction to each of the Y officers—in wheelbarrows.

Katherine Ogilvie, Bernice Smith, Sue Lupton, Ruth Crawford, Lois Barnwell, Harriet Miller, Mary Mildred Hatcher, and Sara Bolton are the eight group leaders. Posters and publicity are handled by Marguerite Justice. Etta Culbertson and Virginia Boise have charge of the reception for the new girls.

Juniors Will Elect Chilhowean Heads After Chapel Wed.

The Junior class will meet on Wednesday morning after chapel to elect an editor and a business manager for the 1939 Chilhowean. This announcement was made by the class president, Russell Stevenson, after discussing the matter with Professor V. M. Queener, faculty sponsor of the annual.

The yearbook will be conducted on the same financial plan as was in effect with the 1938 Chilhowean. This plan was formulated last year by a large committee and proved successful enough to warrant its use again.

Following the election, the new editor and business manager will name their respective staffs, and work will be begun immediately on the book.

NOTICE

Any freshman or junior interested in work on the business staff of the Highland Echo will please make application in writing next week, giving past experience, qualifications, etc., or see Arthur Byrne, Business Manager.

Queener Will Act As Head Of Social Science Department

LAGERSTEDT RESIGNS

Hovel, Thompson, Campbell, Gillingham Among Other Faculty Changes

President Ralph W. Lloyd today made the following statement relative to changes in the faculty and staff for the coming year:

"Augustus Sisk, B.A., M.A., Ph. D., Professor and Head of the Department of Mathematics and Physics. Dr. Sisk has been called to succeed his own undergraduate teacher, Dr. Knapp, who has asked to be retired from active service. Dr. Sisk received his B.A. degree from Maryville college in 1917; his M.A. degree from the University of Kentucky in 1923; and his Ph.D. degree from Cornell university, in 1932; also he has spent one year in graduate work in the University of Chicago. He has been on the faculty of the University of Tennessee for the past fifteen years. Mrs. Sisk also attended Maryville college and in their student years both she and Dr. Sisk were prominent in the music of the college.

Verton Madison Queener, B.A., M.A., Professor of History and Debate, has been appointed Acting Head of the Department of Social Sciences.

Robert Caperus Thrower, B.A., for a number of years Instructor in Physical Training, has been advanced to the rank of Associate Professor. Mr. Thrower is also Assistant Director of Athletics and teaches two courses in Spanish.

"Ralph Martin Hovel, B.A., M.A., Instructor in German and French, to succeed Kenneth L. Lagerstedt, resigend. Mr. Hovel is a native of Ohio, and received his B. A. degree from Miami university, Oxford, Ohio, in 1935; he spent the year of 1935-36 in further study at Heidelberg university, Germany, to which he held a scholarship; he spent a year at Ohio State university and there received his M.A. degree in 1937. He has served as assistant teacher in German and French at the two American universities he attended, and as translator in the foreign department of a leading industry. The son of a music teacher, he has been active and interested in the field of music. Mrs. Hovel's home is in Germany where they met during his year of study; she has been in this country only since their marriage a year ago.

"Rev. John A. McAfee, B.A., B.D., D.D., Pastor of the New Providence Presbyterian church, Maryville, has accepted the invitation of the college to conduct this year the two courses in Principles of Sociology formerly taught by Dr. McMurray. Dr. McAfee received his B.A. degree from Park college, Missouri, which was founded by his grandfather after whom he is named; he received his B.D. degree from Presbyterian McCormick Theological Seminary, Chicago in 1917; and his D.D. degree from the College of Emporia, Kansas. Prior to coming to Maryville two years ago he was for 18 years pastor of Westminster Presbyterian church, Topeka, Kansas. On several occasions during his pastorate at Topeka he served on the faculty at Washburn college as he is to do this year at Maryville. Earlier in his career he spent a full year in teaching. He is the author of books and many articles on the Christian life and a Christian world.

"Ruth Katherine Thompson, B.Mus., B.Sch. Mus., Instructor in Music. Her appointment represents the addition of another full-time teacher of music. In recent years one of the trained musicians living in the community has served as a part-time teacher. Last year Miss Ethel Davis served the college in this way. Miss Thompson, whose home is in Ohio, spent five years at Wooster college and conservatory where she received her two degrees respectively in 1937 and 1938. Her training has been in piano, voice, and school music. She won attention in a radio music contest which took her to Chicago while still in high school. Her experience includes private teaching, service as assistant teacher at the Conservatory, and as soloist and accompanist in symphony

Students Tour Europe On Vacation

By Otto Pflanze, Jr.

Europe by thumb, train, and bicycle was the way three Maryville students spent vacation days. Tommy Woolf, Horace Brown and Leland Waggoner (a last year's graduate) went over the Continent with a fine tooth comb, peering into out of the way places, interviewing government officials, and in general finding out what makes the old world tick.

Among the dozens of interesting experiences they have to tell was a night spent in jail in Helden, Germany, near the Dutch boundary. Brown and Waggoner arriving at the borde: later than they expected one afternoon were out of German money. Only ten marks can be taken out of the country by each person, and they were faced with one of two alternatives; the cashing of a traveler's check and the loss of about forty marks or a park bench. They chose the park bench and got a jail bed. It seems that they have vagrancy laws in Germany, too.

After spending the night on the St. Bernard pass the boys are able to discredit entirely a last year's press dispatch telling of the discarding of the famous St. Bernard dogs. As the story went, the dogs grew vicious and attacked a small child, tearing her throat to shreds. But the dogs are still there and Brown has several pictures to prove it.

There is another "dog" story which Woolf delights to tell on Brown. They were riding on a train in Italy one night, when Brown grew tired of sitting on the crowded bench, and crawled underneath to lie down. The conductor seemed to object, but Brown raised his head up and mumbled, "Haven't I the same privileges as a dog?"

One of the most pitiful sights he ever saw, Brown says, was on Fish Street, an obscure section in Vienna, where a Jewish persecution was in progress. A shop front had been smeared with a red substance which apeared to be blood but later turned out to be only red paint. A small Jewish girl, with tears coursing down her cheeks, was

SATURDAY, SEPT. 17, 1938

To Every Freshman

This year Maryville college opened for its one hundred and twentieth year. In strange contrast with this year was the fall of 1819 when Isaac Anderson opened for the first time his school on what is now the main street of Maryville. Abe Lincoln was only ten years old and James Monroe was president. A short four years before the Duke of Wellington had defeated Napoleon at Waterloo and nine more years were yet to pass before Andy Jackson was to ride out of the rough South to become president of the United States.

Since that time our country has grown from a small unimportant nation into a first rate power—and Maryville college has grown from the handful of students forming Dr. Anderson's first class of five into an institution with more than eight hundred students, requiring over a million dollars worth of equipment and buildings.

Each of these years has brought a new class to "the Hill"; and on each class in its turn has rested much of the responsibility for what the college has become, or will become. Doubtless it still seems to these new students, as they come to take their place, that they have been thrust into an organization that has been running smoothly without them, an organization which does not need them, and for which in turn they feel no need, or toward which they feel no loyalty.

Yet, Maryville does need them. There are places on our athletic teams, on our forensic squads, responsible positions in our clubs and organizations that must be filled by these new students. To each new class perhaps the most surprising thing is the discovery that after a few weeks of working in and for the college they suddenly feel a loyalty to it and a desire to work for its success. Yet this discovery cannot be passed on; each class in its turn must discover the fact that Maryville needs every freshman—and that every freshman needs Maryville.

—O—

One View of Things

By OTTO PFLANZE

DO YOU REALIZE?

Today, more than twice as many men, women, and children as there are students in the college will be slaughtered by flying shrapnel, machine guns, and bayonets. Hundreds of homes will be shattered, their occupants cast out into a hell of dirt and filth and hunger. Cities will be destroyed and lie in smoking ruins. Millions of dollars of property will go up in smoke and flames.

In Europe the worst international crisis since the war grows deeper and more involved. Diplomats go scurrying away on secret missions that mean life or death to other thousands. The conflagration threatens to spread throughout the world.

All of this and more is going on while we sit placidly at home, engrossed in activities of more immediate concern and for the most part stupidly unaware of impending events that may mean the difference between life and death.

WHAT YOU CAN DO

Twenty-five years ago there were millions of others in a similar lethargy. Six years later 8,500,000 of them were dead; 21,000,000 more were scarred or crippled for the rest of their days. They too had sat placidly at home like you and I, stupidly unaware of the startling advance of military science and the machinations of power politics.

Their suffering stands before us as a powerful lesson. If we would avoid a similar fate, we must learn by their mistakes. We must become acquainted with world affairs and international politics. We must learn to seek for the hidden meanings and the import of events. New propagandists are clever enough to blind people who have an actual understanding of the principles of international affairs.

Next Friday evening Edwin S. Cunningham, former Consul General at Shanghai, will speak on the campus concerning the war in China. His address will be only the first of a series of lectures and open forum discussions sponsored by a student organization and lasting throughout the year. Here is your opportunity to cast upon the altar of peace your contribution for the saving of millions of lives, including possibly that of your own. That contribution consists not in any monetary aid, but only in the education of your own mind.

GREETINGS FROM THE PRESIDENT

The Editor of The Highland Echo has asked me to write a word of greeting to all who have come to Maryville college for the year of 1938-1939.

Those charged with the responsibility of administration and teaching have made every plan within their knowledge and power to insure a successful year. We extend our hearty good wishes.

We trust that residence at the College during the coming months may be an enriching experience. Living in a dormitory is not like living at home, but it can mean a pleasure and benefit found nowhere else.

We trust that this may be for each a year of intellectual inspiration, of enlarging friendships, and of deepening spiritual life. It is to give encouragement and assistance in these things that officers and teachers have been appointed to be here. Cooperative respect, courtesy, and study by students and faculty will make the college session of 1938-1939 a rewarding one.

Ralph Waldo Lloyd, President.

Merry-Ville Go Round

By FRED RHODY

This column is tempted not to add to the official and unofficial "welcoming" to which new students have been exposed; we're afraid they'll begin to think there is a catch to it.

* * *

Besides, when mid-semester report cards come out, a lot of freshmen are going to feel that they've been choked by the hand that shook them.

* * *

In case too many freshmen are getting the idea from these opening days that college life is nothing but a mad whirl of lawn parties and standing in lines, we have only to say that the first round of exams may cause a lot of disillusionment around here.

* * *

It's been suggested that the local U.S. Mail Truck Limited (to 3 1-2 miles per hour) should be placed opposite the bell on the other side of Thaw steps. That would be belittling the truck's vintage, however, 'cause the bell was in use a mere eighty years.

* * *

The Thursday evening Student Mixup may have a profound effect on the moral characters of the freshmen: some of the men who took a chance and won may be gamblers for life, while others are certain never to trust a raffle again.

* * *

To those freshmen who are disheartened by the rain these first few days, we should like to say truthfully that rain is really a very rare occurrence here. I repeat: we should like to say that!

This column wishes for new and old students alike a very successful year at Maryville.

"Mrs. Claude A. Campbell, B.A., M. A., Ph.D., is to conduct two of the courses taught by Dr. McMurray prior to his death last April. She has previously served in a similar capacity at the College. She received her Ph.D. degree from Vanderbilt university in 1936, where she also received her other two degrees.

"Edward Clinton Gillingham, B.A., Instructor in Tennis and Swimming. He will carry the work which, during recent years, has been in charge of Mr. Fiscbach, who is to be on leave of absence for the purpose of graduate study at George Peabody college for teachers, Nashville. Mr. Gillingham graduated last June from Maryville college where he was a member of the tennis team for four years. He holds a United States Red Cross life-saving certificate in swimming. He is the youngest son of Dr .Clinton Hancock Gillingham, who is a Maryville graduate and prior to 1929 was for 22 years an officer and professor of the college, and is now President of Tennent college of Christian education, Philadelphia.

"Dr. Frank D. McClelland, Director of Personnel, is to conduct one class in Sociology.

"Miss Geneva M. Hutchinson, for the past two years Assistant in the Personnel office, and for one year assistant also to the Head of Baldwin hall, is to be in charge of several functions formerly assigned to different offices. These include printing and mimeographing, and secretarial duties for the committees on publicity and recommendations and placements, and for the Alumni Association. She will maintain an office in Anderson hall opposite to that of the Director of Maintenance.

"Phyllis Fairfield Dexter, B.A., Assistant in the Personnel office. Miss Dexter graduated from Maryville college in 1935 and afterward attended Moser Business college in Chicago. She comes to Maryville from a secretarial position with a large business firm in the Chicago area.

"Mrs. Stella M. Evans, Assistant to the Head of Baldwin hall. Mrs. Evans is a native of New York state where formerly she was a teacher. Her brother-in-law is an official of the Aluminum Co. of America and she has spent some time in Alcoa and the Maryville vicinity.

"Eulie Erskine McCurry, B.A., M.S., Supervisor of Men's Residence, is to teach Education 215, Introduction to Education.

"Mary Matthews Hallock, B.A., M.A., Head of Baldwin hall, will teach one of the sections in Bible 101."

On The Bench

-With-

THE SPORTS EDITOR

SCOTS vs. 'CATS—

Well, here we are, back to the old grind again. I hope all you loyal sport page fans will forgive the slight appearance of the sport page. It looks as though our capable business manager, Mr. Byrne, has everything under control, and as usual leaves us no room. The first thing on our list is the Scottie-Kentucky brawl a week from today. The Kentucky Wildcats are going to meet some tougher opposition than they expect. With thirteen lettermen back this year, Coach Honaker is going to show us something. The Wildcats, always tough for Maryville, may be caught shorthanded this year. Up in Lexington they tell us that there is going to be a new system, and the Kentucky line is nothing to brag about. With those two things to the University's disadvantage, the Highlanders may pull a fast one and put something over on Kentuck'. Let's hope so. J. D. Hughes said he would give his right arm to score on the Cats, well J. D., we don't want you to lose an arm, but we sure do hope you score.

COACH GILLINGHAM—

A newcomer in the coaching staff this year, Ed Gillingham. Coach Gillingham, who was a student here last year, played number one man on the tennis team for two years, and is well qualified to teach our tennis team this year. Rather early for tennis, but we welcome you anyhow, Coach Gillingham. Lots of luck, and we hope you have a successful year.

Lowe Injured In Football Practice

Lawrence Lowe, a senior, who was one of Coach Honaker's best end prospects this year, had a leg broken in passing practice last Thursday night. He collided with one of his team mates, and the bone was broken just above the knee. His loss will be a serious one to the Scots this year.

Ed Gillingham To Be New Swimming And Tennis Coach

Ed Gillingham joins the coaching staff of Maryville this year to take the place vacated by the ex-coach George Fischbach, who is on a leave of absence. Coach Gillingham will have charge of tennis and swimming classes besides his extra duties as coach of both of these activities.

Coach Gillingham was a member of the class of '38 and comes from a long line of Maryville graduates who have been excellent tennis players. Gillingham held the school championship for the last several years and was one of the main stays on the college team.

Any predictions as to what kind of a tennis team will be in store next spring is rather uncertain, but things should line up during the fall tournament which is scheduled to get under way some time soon.

Thirteen Lettermen Report For Practice; Season Opens September 24, At U. of Ky.

Coach Honaker Preps Squad Of 44 Men For Smoky Mountain Conference Championship

Football practice has really gotten under way this week, with Coach Lombe S. Honaker having a squad of 44 huskies out for varsity berths. With thirteen lettermen back this year, Coach Honaker expects to have another successful season for the Highlanders.

Among the lettermen back, there is, first of all, Captain Al Burris. Burris, a stellar quarter-back, was injured last year during baseball season, but will be in there calling signals and leading the Scots to the Smoky Mountain Conference Championship. J. D. Hughes, sophomore halfback, is back again this year, and it looks like another big year for "High School" Hughes. Those of you who were here last year will remember how Hughes burned up the conference last season with his long runs and bullet-like passes, and J. D. looks like a sure-shot for all-conference honors this year. The right side of the line should be well taken care of by lettermen Etheredge, Kramer, and Burns. "Cousin Joe" Etheredge, junior end, one of the star offensive men of the conference last season, should be one of the conference's leading ends. That Hughes to Etheredge passing combination should really click this year. Arnold Kramer, who tips the scales at 190, is going to be some tough opposition for the Wildcats of Kentucky when they meet Maryville on the coming Saturday. Little Burns, who makes up in might what he hasn't in stature, will be able to take good care of that guard position this year.

Gene McCurry and S. K. Taylor, both lettermen, are fighting it out for tackle position on the other side of the line. With both of these 200 pounders back this year, there should be some real weight on that side of the line. Obie Jenkins, guard letterman, looks good in practice, and it appears as though Obie will have another successful season. Tommy Taylor, 165 pound end, another letterman, has the right end position well taken care of at present.

Bill Baird, just another of the Baird boys, will be with us again this year. Bill, who wasn't in school last football season, lettered the year before, playing in the backfield. Right now Bill is out for end, and looks like a good sub to have around. Scotty Honaker, diminutive quarterback who also lettered last year, will be right in there calling the signals again this year. Scotty is one of the best passers on the team, and is expected to do lots of the Highlander's punting this year. The two Georges, Morton and Garner, both sub backfield lettermen, are expected to see lots of service this season.

John Quincy Wilburn, more commonly "Nig" Wilburn, will probably receive the center assignment this year. Boydson Baird, sophomore, will be a good sub backfield man this year, playing either of the halfs, Smith and Dizney, two big bruisers, are sub linemen this year, and undoubtedly will see lots of service this season.

Eighteen freshman reported for practice, and there are some likely looking candidates among them. Hunt, a backfield man, DeWeese, another backfield man, and Tipton, lineman, are outstanding right at the present.

Short Shots From Football Practice

"Merk" McCurry sprained his ankle Thursday night, and may be out for a week . . . "Lil' Abner'" Barber should know how to put hip-pads on about now. Said he never used them in high school, and wasn't sure how to go about putting them on. Result—one sore hip . . . Two Dizneys on the squad now. Two worries for the coach instead of one.

Only three seniors on the squad this year. Looks good for next year, but what about this year? . . . H. Dizney has a brother on the Union squad. Wonder what will happen when brother meets brother? . . . .

The Peace Forum, which is sponsoring the lecture, is an organization formed for the purpose of inciting interest among college students in international affairs. A distinctive feature of the organization programs is the open forum discussions which follow the address of the evening and in which those present are allowed to question the speaker concerning various points which he has touched upon. The Forum is sponsored by the YWCA and YMCA.

attempting to scrape it off with a razor blade.

The Jews have no civil rights at all in Germany today, the boys found. Any person with a Jewish enemy can slug or kill him with impunity. The Germans justify their treatment of the Jew by drawing a parallel with American treatment of the negro.

One of the high spots of the journey was an interview obtained with the foreign minister of Czecholavakia. The official was very friendly, giving an hour of his precious time and much valuable information concerning the present Sudeten crisis. A scheduled interview with President Benes was dropped to their disappointment when Lord Runciman made his important visit.

The trip included two stops in Paris. Condtions there were shocking, the boys say. For further information see Mr. Woolf or Mr. Brown.

Of all the nationalities they became acquainted with the boys have different versions as to the one they liked the best. Woolf liked Italian hospitality, while Brown preferred that of Czechoslavakia. The Germans were friendly, they say, but rather scornful of Americans. The French were the best to get rides from, especially when aware of their American nationality.

Speaker Traces Chinese History Thru Invasions

E S Cunningham, Alumnus, Was Consul-General In Shanghai

CALLS CHINA UNITED

Forum Executive Council Discusses Affiliation With Nat'l. Group

Taking as his subject "The Invasion of China," Edwin S. Cunningham, retired consul-general, addressed an audience of approximately two hundred at the Peace Forum meeting last evening in Thaw hall auditorium. Mr. Cunningham traced the history of Chinese invasions by foreign powers for the last hundred years and ended his lecture with the present Japanese conquest.

The acquisitions of Japan in China have been prompted for reasons of protection, he declared. "The taking of Korea brought on the seizure of Manchuria, which in turn made necessary, in Japaneses opinion, the conquest of other provinces to the south."

The present war has united China, he said, for the first time in modern history. "Before the invasions, China slept—corrupted and disunited. Today the war lords and their subjects are cooperating in a frantic effort to defeat the Japanese."

Mr. Cunningham recounted some of the indignities which he said had been heaped upon the Chinese in the way of assaults upon non-combatants. The Japanese have carried out a general policy of frightfulness, he contended. The incidents reported in the newspapers are not isolated but have been prevalent everywhere.

In a short business session before the lecture it was announced that the Forum executive council was considering affiliation with the Carnegie Foundation for International Peace. If a faculty committee approves the affiliation, the name of the organization will be changed to "The International Relations Club" and the group will be one of 840 such clubs throughout the world. It will receive books and magazines free from the foundation to become a part of its library.

$400 Worth Of Books Are Being Cataloged By Library Staff

The widespread interest in European affairs and in political philosophy in general caused by the present crisis on the continent is reflected in the new four-hundred-dollar order of books being catalogued by the library staff this week. Of timely significance is E. E. Kellet's "The Story of Dictatorship," which is a comprehensive history of the totalitarian state from its first appearance. Other titles in this group include "Government in Fascist Italy" by H. Arthur Stenier, "The Government of the Soviet Union," by Samuel N. Harper, "And So To War" by Hubert Herring, and the monumental "History of the Modern and Contemporary Far East" by Paul H. Clyde. Two recent best-sellers in a related category are Elliot Paul's "Life and Death of a Spanish Town," and the much-discussed biography of President Roosevelt by Emil Ludwig.

Of first importance among the novels is Thomas Mann's epochal trilogy reconstructing one of the great figures of the Old Testament. The American edition, in the splendid translation of H. T. Lowe-Porter, is entitled "Joseph and His Brothers," "Yeung Joseph," and Joseph in Egypt." From the best-seller list also comes "Action at Aquila" by Hervey Allen, "Blow for a Landing" by Ben Lucien Burman, "RFD" by Charles Allen Smart, and "This Proud Heart" by Pearl S. Buck. Of somewhat older vintage is Steinbecks' "Of Mice and Men" and Brittain's "Testament of Youth."

An interesting item, although aimed at a relatively limited public, is "The Shortest Way to Pianistic Perfection" by Karl Leimer and Walter Gieseking, the latter being the famed concert pianist who is to appear on the Maryville college artists series late in March.

The Art Department is well represented with several standard works in the field of appreciation and instruction. In addition to "Raphael" by G. de Jacz and "The Spirit of Forms" by Elie

Council Members Chosen By Senior Class Wednesday

Meetings Planned To Aid In Producing "Hamlet" As Class Play

At the Wednesday morning meeting of the senior class held under the direction of President Eugene Orr, student council representatives were elected and plans were announced concerning the class play and college rings.

Eight seniors were elected to represent their class in the student council. The four women chosen are Zula Vance, Marguerite Justis, Hazel Eddins, and Curtmarie Brown. Three men were elected, and by reason of his holding the office of president protem of the council, Robert Martin was automatically elected for the coming year. The men are Fred Rhody, Albert Neil Rosser, and Horace Brown.

William McGill, production manager of "Hamlet," the play which was decided upon last year by the class, presented a plan whereby a group of interested seniors will meet every other Tuesday evening, at seven o'clock, to discuss problems in connection with the production. The first of these meetings will be Tuesday evening, in Dr. Edwin R. Hunter's classroom, when he is to talk to the group about problems to be met in producing the play.

At a later meeting of this group, Dr. Hill Shine will talk on the Shakespearean Theater. The play will be produced as accurately as possible in the Shakespearean manner, with appro-

Fraulein Jung, German Student, Likes Maryville

Fran Ingeborg Jung, "Zi Geuner" to her German friends, is glad the Institute of International Relationships "choose" Maryville college for her.

Her nickname, which corresponds to our "gypsy", originated from her ability to play the guitar and sing. Although Inga played her first game of tennis Wednesday, she swims and rides well. But her chief interest is art. On the walls of her Pearsons room are pictures representing art of the thirteenth century. "before Columbus discover America". When she leaves Maryville, she plans to get her doctor's degree in history of art at the University of Munich and later to join a publications staff.

Clear complexion, lovely coloring, naturally wavy brown hair, and laughing brown eyes make Fran Jung a very attractive young woman. A charming personality and a sense of humor complete the picture. She doesn't mind stopping the conversation to look up a word meaning in her dictionary.

One of the seventy exchange students to cross the ocean together, Miss Jung does not regret her decision. Even after suffering through a twenty-six-hour Greyhound bus ride from New York, she says, "It's very nice here; Tennessee is a very nice land. I like Maryville right from the beginning."

Salzburg Choir To Appear Nov. 1 On Artist Series

Tenor, Pianist Included On Year's Program Of Guest Artists

Professor George D. Howell today released the dates of the three recitals scheduled on this year's Maryville college Artist series. The opening number will be the appearance of the Salzburg Trapp choir on November 1. Jussi Bjoerling, Scandinavian tenor of the Metropolitan Opera association will sing on the night of January 9, and the series will close on March 21 with the recital of the famous concert pianist, Walter Gieseking.

The Trapp choir, and a cappela group of eight voices, comes with the warm personal indorsement of Lotte Lehmann who commends their interpretation of 15th and 16th century works, the lieder of the great masters, and modern compositions. Their appearance here will be one of the first after their American debut this October.

Jussi Bjoerling has already conquered the critics and music lovers of Europe and the United States. Enthusiastic press notices from even such conservative papers as the New York Times indicate that his position in the musical world is secure. In addition to his duties as leading tenor of the Metropolitan, Mr. Bjoerling is also on the regular rostrum of the Stockholm, Copenhagen, Vienna, Milan, and Chicago Opera Houses.

To the musically minded and to students of the piano the name of Walter Gieseking has long been a familiar one. Of distinctive technique and international reputation, he is a fitting climax for the year's series. Mr. Gieseking will appear this winter with the New York Philharmonic-Symphony Society orchestra in addition to his national tour. His book, "The Shortest Way to Pianistic Perfection," written in collaboration with Karl Leimer, has recently appeared.

Women May Direct Cheers This Year

Tryouts For Men and Women Tuesday Afternoon

This year for the first time in the history of the college, Maryville may have women cheer leaders. Frank Brink, member of last year's squad, has discussed this change with President Ralph W. Lloyd and on securing the approval of the pep committee the change will probably be put into effect. Members of the pep committee, who will pass on this change are Miss Jessie Heron, Dr. David Briggs, Lynn Tyndall, Frank Brink, and Harold Dysart.

During the week the Echo conducted a poll of student opinion on the subject. It was found to be very favorable towards the suggested change. On another page the results of this poll will be found.

Brink announced tryouts for both men and women on Tuesday afternoon. The candidates will then perform before all the students at next week's pep meeting, and four will be selected to lead the school's cheering during the coming season.

Barnwell Is Named Band Sponsor In Ceremony Thur.

Presented With Uniform By Former Sponsor, Reba Blazer

Lois Barnwell, senior and newly elected band sponsor, was presented with her uniform at the first pep meeting of the year, held in the Alumni gymnasium last Thursday evening. The identy of the new sponsor, kept secret until the pep meeting, was announced by Mr. Ralph R. Colbert, director of the band and Reba Blazer, retiring sponsor, presented her uniform to the new sponsor.

Miss Barwell, called from the stands, was helped into her new uniform by drum-major Dick Woodring after the short presentation speech by Miss Blazer, who expressed her appreciation of the honor that had been hers for the last two years. The new sponsor will begin her new duties at the next practice session of the band.

Other officers of the band elected last Tuesday were Ivan Elder, student director; Vernon Lloyd, manager; Nina Husk, secretary-treasurer; Richard Woodring, drum major.

The pep meeting, attended by a large crowd of enthusiastic students, was conducted by cheerleaders Frank Brink and Russell Stevenson. The program included speeches by Capt. Al Burris and Arnold Kramer and cheers for the two injured members of the squad, Larence Lowe and Gene McCurry. Several numbers were played and the meeting was closed by the singing of the alma mater.

Personnel Office Gives Statistics For '38 Session

Thirty Brothers, Sisters, Three Sets Twins Are Enrolled

As far as the figures of registration fo rthis year have been compiled, there are seven hundred and seventy-six regular students enrolled in college for this semester and there are sixteen special students. These figures are approximately the same as those of last year.

The freshman class this year, however, has a distinction which none of the other classes can claim. There are three sets of twins in the class of '42. Stewart and Frances Perrin are brother and sister to Frances Perrin who was graduated last year from Maryville. Margaret and Mary Proffitt are the sisters of Jim Proffitt, who also graduated last year. The other set of twins is Louise and Dorothy Osborne.

There are also about thirty sisters or brothers of students who are now attending Maryville or who have been graduated very recently. Lola Ball is the sister of Verna Ball; Donald Campbell is the brother of Aline Campbell. Jane Carter, sophomore, brought her sister, Margaret. Vernon Clark who was at Maryville two years ago has returned with his sister, Ina Mae

Thetas Provide Visit To Big City As Rush Program

Tour Of Great White Way And Other Sights Are Planned

Theta Epsilon invites all new girls to go American and be their guests for a week in that cosmopolitan city of New York. Many of the high spots will be touched in Theta's tour of the city.

Corrigan's reception by Brooklyn will seem mild beside the one the new girls will receive at the swimming pool of the St. George hotel Tuesday afternoon. The management has promised the women a most refreshing afternoon with novel recreation, entertainment, and refreshments.

From Brooklyn Theta invites the new women to an evening in the wilds of Greenwich village for a taste of the Bohemian life of New York's most arty section. Here all guests will be invited to partake in part of the life of a Bohemian, and be entertained by such artists as Gene Craine, master of the drums, Kitty Bennett, Theta's ballerina, and weird tales of the lives of artists.

To complete this week of entertainment offered in New York, Theta takes all guests to the Great White Way where her formal opening will be held. All women will first be entertained at the chapel theatre where they will witness, as the critics say, one of America's best loved plays presented by a four star cast and promising a four star performance. After the theatre the party will progress to the Merryville where refreshments will be served along with light entertainment.

Bainonian Closes Rush Week Tonite

Gym Is Scene Of Climax To Airline Tour

The formal opening of Bainonian society and the end of the air cruise which during the past week has taken Bainonian airline guests around the world will take place this evening at the Alumni gym at 8:00. Mistress of Ceremonies, Sara Lee Hellums, will introduce skits, tap dancing acts, impersonations, singing, and readings.

During the first part of the week Bainonian invited the new women to a travel tea, during which time they voyaged through Italy, France, and England. On Thursday the airlines left England for an African treasure hunt. This evening they pick up the thread of the program, and take their guests through Italy, India, China, Japan, and back again to the United States.

The officers of Bainonian are: President, Sarah Bolton; vice president, Lois Barnwell; treasurer, Marguerite Justus; secretary, Jane Law. The program secretaries are Mary Orr and Helen Bewley.

Phelps, Abercrombie, Hunt, Stevenson Named On Annual Staff

OTHERS TO BE NAMED

Each Page of Advertising Will Carry Snapshots Of Campus Life

Otto Pflanze, of Maryville, was elected editor of the 1939 Chilhowean at a meeting of the junior class Wednesday morning in the philosophy class room. At the same time, Clifford Proctor, of Reading, Vermont, was elected business manager.

Active for the past two years as a writer for the Highland Echo, Pflanze is at present chairman of the college peace forum, member of Writer's Workshop, and varsity debater.

Proctor, who came to Maryville last year as a transfer student, is also a varsity debater, a member of the Writer's Workshop, and is secretary of Athenian society.

Although the entire staff has not yet been selected, Pflanze has announced the following appointments: activities editor, George Hunt; feature editor, Russell Stevenson; art editor, Arlene Phelps; fine arts editor, Ruth Abercrombie. The other positions are to be filled soon.

Following the plan introduced by last year's Chilhowean staff, contracts for copies of the annual will be distributed in chapel, and orders will be taken in that manner.

One new feature of the 1939 year book will be a quarter page of sanpshots on each page bearing advertising.

Elect Council Members

The juniors also elected three men and three women to the student council at the class meeting. The new members of the council are Frank Morrow, Jim Etheredge, Dan McGill, Lynn Tyndall, Ruth Crawford, and Ruth Woods.

The new council members will assume their duties immediately and a new president of the student council to succeed president pro tem Robert Martin will be elected next week.

Tea Room Will Open Monday, Next Week, Meiselwitz Announces

Monday, September 26, has been announced as the opening date of the College Tea Room, by Miss Gertrude Meiselwitz, head of the Home Economics department. Luncheons will be served five days a week, each Monday through Friday.

The Tea Room is under the supervision of the Institutional Management class, a class of seven senior Home Economics students, and is located on the third floor of Fayerweather Science Hall. Members of the class are: Lois Barnwell, Lucille Gillespie, Alice Slifko, Ruth Dixon, Virginia Todd, Helen Ridenhour, and Helen Bobo.

Dr. Gamon, Director Of College Will Speak

Next Wednesday morning the chapel speaker will be Dr. Robert I. Gamon. Dr. Gamon is a resident of Knoxville, and retired in 1937 as superintendent with the Presbyterian Board of Missions, a position he had held for many years. He now lectures frequently for the board.

Dr. Gamon is a director of Maryville college and has spoken here on several occasions in the past.

Knapp Completes Fifty Years of Teaching

By George L. Hunt

In a white clapboard house just off the campus on Wilson Avenue, a slender, pleasant-faced, white-moustached gentleman is spending his days, closer to the nature he loves and with more freedom for the books he enjoys. For when school opened a few weeks ago, returning students did not see Dr. George Alan Knapp walk up the cinder path past the gymnasium to turn down the path to Anderson hall. Students walking through Anderson annex did not see him reading his morning paper in the familiar mathematics classroom, for Dr. Knapp this year has retired from teaching. He ends this year fifty-four years of being behind the desk, and fifty of these years have been before college classes.

The request that he be allowed to retire was granted with regret by the directors of the college and took effect at commencement, but Dr. Knapp did not want any announcement of it published until the students had all left the campus. He thus ended twenty-four years of professorship at Maryville, and at his retirement he was head of the department of mathematics and physics as well as a professor in that department. Until 1936 he had been in charge of the college book store.

Graduated from Hamilton college, New York, in 1884, he has had a distinguished career as an educator. He received his master's degree from his alma mater in 1886, and was awarded an honorary Litt.D. degree by Maryville in 1927. His first four years as a teacher were spent as superintendent of a high school in New York state, and his half century in college instruction was spent at three institutions: Park College, Missouri, two years; Olivet college, Michigan, twenty-four years; and Maryville, twenty-four years. Some years ago one authority classed Dr. Knapp among the half dozen greatest mathematicians of our country, but he has chosen to devote his time to students rather than publish his vast store of knowledge in book form.

The 1937 Chilhowean was dedicted to Dr. Knapp in appreciation of his years of service as "professor, counselor, friend." This was a concrete way in which the students showed the affection they have felt through the years for the kindly scholar, an affection which finds expression in the way all students who have known him call him "Daddy" Knapp. The strong, sincere, devout way in which he has led the chapel services has been an inspiration to the generations that have heard him. A few years ago he visited California and was there given a reception by the Maryville alumni of that state. A graduate of Olivet college visited Maryville recently and made the statement that "If ever I loved any man, it is Dr. Knapp; he is a wonderful person." And that represents the

Truly Grateful

Each fall old students returning to Maryville are pleased to find numbers of improvements to the campus and buildings that have been made possible through the generosity of friends of the college. Truly grateful for these improvements, the students seldom have a chance to meet face to face the persons who make them possible, yet through a number of years one name, that of Mrs. John Walker, has become associated with improvements around the college so often that almost every student feels that he must know her personally.

This year an especially appreciated gift of hers is the group of pictures that now adorn heretofore bare walls in the lobbies and halls of the dormitories. These gifts are truly appreciated and even if we do not know their donor except as a name we still feel the same gratitude we should feel if she were a personal friend.

—o—

Thoughts of a Senior

Who were those freshmen who were late for second period class, on account of waiting in their room for the nine-thirty daily room inspection? (Note: See Dormitory Rules.)

• • • •

Isn't it great to get back to a place like this, where there are no weather uncertainties? No guesswork is needed: just count on rain.

• • • •

It's rumored that an unusual number of freshmen are suffering from home-sickness this year in Carnegie, because of the new rule cutting the daily friendly visits of the pressing-shoe-repairing-and-laundry boys to only twice a week.

But Mr. Mac has promised to compensate by personally paying more frequent calls in the dormitory.

• • • •

While we are being statistical, we are reminded that there remains only a scant eighty-one days till Christmas vacation.

• • • • •

Numbers intrigue us; so let's keep on this subject. Wasn't it the Greek philosopher, Short-Order Spagetto, who made that famous statement: "Everything is numbers," and who was given five years for having a pocketful of them?

• • • •

To most of us proletarians, the new bell in Anderson tower is nothing more or less than the old one—a lethal instrument which wakes us much too early in the morning. But to Tommy Schafer, that dean of all bell connoisseurs, the new one simply does not have that certain tone quality which the broken one had.

Merry-Dille Go Round

By FRED RHODY

(News Item: "Swing will invade the gridiron this year, with football tactics set to swing time tempo, according to coaches of Maryville, and other leading teams of the nation. To quote one mentor: "Plays don't mean a thing, unless they have that swing!")

• • • •

"Good evening, ladies and gentlemen. We greet you from Wilson Field, where those Kings of Swing, the Maryville Scottie Swingsters, are about to open their home football schedule.

"The stands are jammed with music lovers, folks. The out-moded flood lights have been replaced by powerful spotlights, which will pick out and follow the spectacular plays as they are executed by the smooth Highlander swing eleven, to the accompaniement of Duke Colbert's swing band.

"And here come the cheer leaders, doing the Lambeth Walk. Let's listen: 'All right, gang! Let's give the old a-Tisket-a-Tasket!—Swing it!'

• • • •

"Now the teams are truckin' onto the field. They break up into groups, for a Big Apple warm-up before the game, their cute red dance programs dangling from their wrists. Coaches Honaker and Thrower, attired in yellow checked coats and green trousers, swing into a final demonstration of an intricate deceptive swing-play, while the boys truck around them, snapping their fingers in time to the music.

• • • •

"The referee and the linesmen are shagging out now, to give the field a last-minute waxing, and they are togged in the very latest cookie-pusher fashion.

"Now the teams line up, the referee puts his saxaphone to his lips, and the game has be-gun!

"Killer-Diller Etheredge lets a pass slip through his hands, and the stands chant in unison: 'He dropped it! He dropped it! On the way he dropped it, la de doody doo!'

• • • •

"Now the Jitter-Bugs are dancing with their backs to their goal posts. There's an attempt at the center of the line! Was it good? No, no, no, no!

"Oh boy! A Scot Bob-cat was in the clear, but was brought down from the rear. Here's Coach pulling him from the game, and let's listen to the stands singing 'Flat Foot Floogie.' He'll be sent back to dancing school for further seasoning.

• • • •

"And the game is over, ladies and gentlemen! The teams bow and dance off the field. Your nearest music dealer can furnish you with a phonograph recording of this evening's game, as only the Scotties could swing it; see him also for the musical score of the game. Glub glub, you-all Jitter-Bugs'."

UP OUR HALL

By GEORGE L. HUNT

After a very inactive three months, we were glad to come back to Maryville. It doesn't seem as if it has changed much, and already the novelty of the improvements has worn off. It seems as if we never went away from here, although certain familiar faces and couples from not-so-long-ago are lacking

• • • •

The first thing that struck us as unusual as the bus rolled around the sharp corners of Maryville to get to the bus station by way of a lot of side streets (probably to avoid all the traffic on the main street) was the sight of Frank Brink without crutches. The wooden sticks had become almost an inseparable part of him, but nevertheless it was good to see him without them.

• • • •

During the summer we were caught, along with many others, in a wave of quiz programs that we tsruck every time we turned the dial. Each time we felt like running upstairs and making out a list of five questions to win the twenty-five dollars, and we would open the encyclopedia to begin a search for these questions which would be worth the prize money. We never did send in a list, but we brought one along just in case our old urge returned.

• • • •

Two weeks ago, TIME magazine recorded the accident that all America had feared when a WPA worker fractured his jaw when the shovel upon which he was leaning slipped out from under his grasp. It is sad; but just think, the worker can now rest without having the impediment of a shovel.

• • • •

How certain words develop is a subject that has interested us a long time. The word "vaudeville" is an interesting one having come from the French of the 15th century. At that time there were two men composing drinking songs who lived in the little valleys (French-"vaux") near Vire in Normandy. At the same time, gay folk songs were called "voix-de-ville" (voices of the city.") A combination of these phrases produced the modern word "vaudeville."

• • • •

Ripley told the story on one of his summer broadcasts of the evolution of the modern song, "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow." It was discovered on a stone dug up in Egypt (not with that title, of course), became a song of the Crusades and was brought to the attention of Marie Antoinette many decades later. She sung it as a lullaby for the young prince, and it was adopted by the people as the national anthem of France until the "Marseillaise" replaced it. The Arabs sang a tune like it, and Beethoven used the air in a Battle Symphony in 1813. So today, when we gather around a banquet table and toast a fellow with that tune, we have at least one thing in common with Marie Antoinette.

Newzoddity: A Democrat mayor in the state of Washington last week proved his contention that "voters have no idea whom they support." Fifty one voters of a small suburb of Tacoma elected on the Republican ticket one Boston Curtis to the post of precinct committeeman. This pleased the mayor no end, for he had filed the papers for Mr. Boston and sponsored him: Mr. Boston is a large brown mule. What puzzles us is a mule on the Republican ticket.

Mrs. John Walker Donates Prints

Mrs. John Walker, a friend of the college, has given during the past summer a collection of forty-four German prints to the college. The prints were framed by Mrs. Walker before they were presented to the college.

Fifteen of the prints have been placed in the lobby of Carnegie Hall and there are also some in the lobby of Pearsons Hall. The rest will be placed in the various offices of Anderson Hall and then the remainder will be divided between Baldwin and Memorial Halls.

Hold Freshman Paper Tryouts

Annual freshman tryouts for the Highland Echo staff will be held during the next two weeks. Through the cooperation of Miss Jessie Heron and Miss Elizabeth Jackson of the English department the first theme assigned to freshman classes will be the paper tryouts.

From the themes of the entire class approximately fifty will be picked to try in the final contest. These fifty will be asked to submit newspaper stories of whatever type they prefer and from these the twelve freshman members of the staff will be picked.

Subjects for the first trials will be posted early next week.

"Daddy" Knapp loves nature. In the years past he has many times explored the Great Smokies, and there is probably no one in this whole area who knows so much about birds. He often rises early and walks through the college woods, and as he has met student he has shared with them his knowledge of nature lore. His interests have covered many subjects, in addition to those he has taught, among them astronomy, government, botany, biology, and literature.

Two of Dr. Knapp's children graduated from Maryville. His son was tennis champion at the college, and one of his daughters marrie dthe man who of his daughters married the man who Dr. Knapp has lived for a number of years at 114 Wilson Avenue.

SCOTTY SIDE SLANTS

By DOUG STEAKLEY
Sports Editor

Y.M.C.A. SPORTS—

The student body owes the athletic department of the YMCA a big vote of thanks. The YMCA has, in the past years, supported tennis tournaments, swimming meets, track meets, and various other kinds of athletics for the student free of charge. Last year the Y awarded twelve keys for outstanding interclass athletes. They gave a trophy for the winner of the tennis tournament. This year the yare planning a similar program.

There are quite a number of boys in the college who haven't time or the ability to make the varsity squads, and who really enjoy playing some of the sports. The YMCA offers a full program for these students, and it's up to the men of the college to get the most out of it. Thanks again, athletic department.

BULLDOGS—

There has been some talk of having a "B" team schedule for football scrubs. Last year they planned for the scrub team to have a couple of games, but as usual somewhere along the line the whole thing fell through. This column would like to see the Bulldogs get a break this year and have a few practice games with some of the high schools in this vicinity. You know that the scrubs go a long way toward making the varsity what it is, and they get little enough recognition. Not right now perhaps, but later on in the season, how about some "B" team games? A little support on the idea might bring about a schedule for the Bulldogs, so let's all talk it up.

SUPPORT FROM THE FANS—

You know that a lot depends on football fans. Their support on the field, and off the field, is really appreciated by the players. It's something easy to do, to support a team that is winning, but its another thing to back up a team that loses a few games. All this leads to the question of pep-meetings and cheering at the games. A good yell at a pep-meeting, and lots of noise and cheering at the game goes a long way with a bunch of tired players. Linemen play harder, backs run faster when they know that the entire student body is behind them. So lets all be on hand with lots of pep next Friday night, when the Highlanders open their home season with the Tusculum Pioneers.

Another thing that fans are apt to do is criticize the officials. Nothing marks a poor sport more than booing a decision that he thinks wrong. After all the official really knows the game, and is in a far better position to call the plays than the rabid fan. Let's be good sports and back up the officials. It helps in the long run.

WATCH HINKEBEIN!—

Don't anyone be disappointed if the Highlanders are beaten by a seemingly large score today. After all, the University of Kentucky is about five or six times as large as Maryville, and although we don't want to accuse anyone of subsidizing, the University naturally has a lot of good football players. For instance, their center, Hinkebein, is on the All-American list for this year, And Hinkebein, who captains the Wildcat squad, is truly a fine player, one to be watched this year.

Highlanders To Tangle With Kentucky 'Cats At Lexington This Afternoon

Twenty-five Men Entrain To The University. McCurry Has Fractured Ankle; Out for Month

By Doug Steakley, Echo Sports Editor

The Scotties are up in Lexington, Ky., today, having a tangle with the University of Kentucky Wildcats. Although the Highlanders are not favored to win, or even come close, the football squad left here Friday afternoon prepared to fight to the last ditch, and give Kentucky a tough afternoon. Twenty-five men are making the trip to Lexington, and they left by train from Knoxville at 12:55 p.m., Friday, and arrived in Lexington at 6:15 p.m.

Coach Lombe S. Honaker, faced with the problem of playing with an injury riddled squad, declined to say much about the game. He did say, however, that they would try to give Kentucky as good a game as possible, and that as far as the score was concerned, anything under 40 points would satisfy him. Captain Al Burris, who will start the game, but will be unable to see much service due to his bad ankle, stated that the squad was determined, and would try to tie the 'Cats' tail for them.

Another serious loss to the squad was announced late Thursday, when an x-ray showed that Eugene McCurry had received a fractured ankle in practice last week. McCurry, who was the regular starting tackle and letterman from last year, will probably be out for four weeks or more. His vacancy will be replaced either by S. K. Taylor, or Hal Henschen, both big boys; each of them weighing over 180 pounds.

Coach Honaker announced that the starting lineup would probably be something like this: At quarterback, Al Burris will start, with Scottie Honaker ready to relieve him. At full, George Garner will start, with Hunt, a freshman, held in reserve. J. D. Hughes will be at left-half, and George Morton will be at right half. On the line, Joe Etheredge will be at right end, and Tommy Taylor at left end, two fine boys, both fast and good pass receivers. At right tackle will be big Arnold Kramer, and either Hal Henschen or S. K. Taylor will start at left tackle. Little Harold Burns will be at right guard, and Obie Jenkins will handle left guard. "Nig" Wilburn will start at center.

The Scottie line will have to find replacements from Bill Baird, end; and Shelfer, end; Napier at tackle, Smith and Tipton at guard, and Dizney at center.

The men who made the trip to Lexington are: George Garner, J. D. Hughes, Al Burris, George Morton, Hunt, Honaker, Boydson Baird, Bill Baird, Sam Pickens, Cragan, Nicely, Shelfer, Napier, S. K. Taylor, Smith, Tipton, Dizney, Taylor, Etheredge, Kramer, Henschen, Jenkins, Burns.

Intramural Sports

By Gene Orr

The YMCA is again sponsoring a wide program of activities in which we hope all the fellows who are physically able will take part.

The tennis tournament is already underway. There will be a singles and a doubles tournament. As soon as the tennis is out of the way, the touch football season will be started, after that will come the cross-country run. We are not sure just yet when this will be; however, it will probably be at the East Tennessee Teachers game, which will be played here November 11. Next will come basketball, swimming, volleyball, ping-pong, pool, baseball, track and a spring tennis tournament. So you see that the athletic department has a very wide list of activities from which you may choose; and we hope that all of you will take part. The exercise will be good for you, and also there will be awards made to the winners of the tennis tournaments, to the winners of the cross-country race, and perhaps to the winners in ping-pong and pool.

In addition there will be awarded to the twelve outstanding athletes in interclass competition keys. The winners will be judged on the number of games in which they play and on their ability and sportsmanship. So let's see you out there working for your award.

Tennis Tournament Starts This Week

44 Men Signed Up For Singles. Morrow And Van Cise Are Favored

Fall tennis swings in this week in a big way with the opening of the annual fall tennis tournament sponsored by the YMCA. From all indications the whole story is going to be Morrow from the start to finish, but there will be four or five other fellows pushing all the way. Van Cise offers the most competition of any one, and the combination of Morrow and Van Cise all but eliminate any other chances in the doubles.

Forty-four men signed up for the tournament and the courts will be kept warm between now and next Wednesday with first round matches. The four seeded players: Morrow, Van Cise, Akana, and Stevenson, were ranked in the order in which they finished in last spring's tennis tournament and unless the dope bucket takes a beating, things will run pretty much to form.

Morrow ranked number one on the tennis team last year, and was runner up in the last two fall tournaments. As the next three players on last year's team are not back this year, Van Cise, who played number four, stands next in line to inherit the number two position. Akana and Stevenson ranked 6th and 7th last spring and are expected to give Van Cise a close race, and a general all around good account of themselves.

First round matches are posted on the bulletin board in Carnegie hall, and all first round matches are to be played off by Sept. 26.

240 SCHEDULE CHANGES

Approximately 240 schedule changes were made by students last Tuesday, announced Dr. Frank D. McClelland, director of personnel yesterday. Tuesday was the only day set aside for these changes and no others may be made this semester.

On The Q. T., Lowe Would Like To See These New Girls

By Bill Felknor

Four o'clock Wednesday afternoon a strange procession of six brawny Scotties started on their way toward the college campus carrying a strangely berigged cot, and among this assortment of pulleys and wires, was Lawrence Lowe. Staggering along behind with the sand weight was Miss Heron, bravely forming the rear guard.

It all started a week ago last Thursday when Lawrence and Bill Baird tried to catch different passes from different directions in the same place. Each had his eye on the ball he was to catch when they collided, and Lawrence received a broken leg in the melee.

For the first week, Lawrence was in the hospital in Little Town, and then last Thursday came the procession back to the "Hill." It seems that Lawrence had too many ornaments on his leg to get into the ambulance; so man power was called out to meet the emergency.

Lowe, a senior this year, was one of the main stays at end, and his loss will be serious to the Scottie squad. Bad luck seems to stalk Lawrence on the football field, for 'twas only two years ago that he had his chances shattered by a broken collar bone. But he came back and was all set to make a killing this year when hard-luck threw him for another loss.

Lawrence's humor seems undaunted, and his only worry seems to be that some of you guys and gals may quit coming over to the hospital to see him. Three months is a long time to be in bed.

On the Q.T., I think he would like to meet some of these new frosh he's been hearing so much about. And who wouldn't? Don't be bashful girls, just go on over to the hospital and introduce yourselves, and you won't be disappointed.

Goddard, Law Read In Workshop Monday

The Writers' Workshop will have its first meeting of the year Monday afternoon at 4:00, in Dr. E. R. Hunter's classroom. Ed Goddard and Jane Law will read manuscripts.

William Austin, chairman of the governing board, announced two vacancies in the workshop to be filled.

Eleven Men Report For Cross Country

The call for cross-country candidates was issued last Thursday, and a large number of candidates have reported to Weldon Baird, captain and coach. Although there has not yet been any definite meets planned with other colleges, the YMCA athletic department has planned a run for college students. The race is to be a regular cross-country run, and is to be run over the five mile loop through the college woods. For first place there will be a trophy awarded, and there will also be several other prizes in the form of medals for second, third, and other place winners. The meet will be held November 11, in connection with the East Tenn. Teachers football game, which will be held in the afternoon.

Coach Thrower has requested that all men interested in track, especially in running, report for the cross country practice. Several veterans have returned back to the team this year, including Weldon Baird, and Gene Orr. Anyone interested in coming out should report to either of these two men.

Women's Tournament Begins Next Tuesday

The annual women's tennis tournament which is sponsored each fall by the YWCA, will begin next Tuesday, Sept. 27th. This tournament is open to all girls on the campus who are interested. Papers have been placed in the dormitories for the girls to sign up on.

Those planning to go out for women's point system are reminded that points are awarded for entrance in the tournament. Play will begin on Tuesday.

Fellows who have reported so far for practice are: Weldon Baird, Doug Steakley, Vernon Lloyd, Gene Orr, Floyd Green, Bill Mooney, Gray, McAfee, Martin and Peterson.

Students Think Addition Of Women As Cheerleaders Would Improve Cheers

In order to find out just how the student body feels about the question of girl cheerleaders, the ECHO has undertaken a poll of a cross-section of the students living both on and off the campus, and some very startling facts have come to light.

The first conclusion reached was that hardly anyone seemed to be in favor of the women having full command of all the lung-power on the campus. At the same time a second conclusion almost unanimously reached was that there could be considerable improvement in the quality of the cheering, particularly if the leaders had better cooperation from the cheering section.

The question now remaining is whether or not we should continue with all men leaders or use a combination of men and women. The opinion of the students on this question seems to have been answered quite definitely by the poll, for out of 38 interviewed, only 10 have expressed themselves in favor of continuing to let the men control the cheering crowd. The final results of the poll showed these figures: For girls 28; against girls 10.

Here are some of the opinions of various students on both sides of the question.

HARRIET MILLER: I think girls would make just as good cheerleaders as boys.

DICK WOODRING: What the Maryville cheering section needs is four good cheerleaders—two girls and two boys.

LOUISE PROFFITT: Girl cheerleaders are too much like high school. I think boys are better.

ARNOLD KRAMER: All big schools have girl cheerleaders. Why shouldn't Maryville?

MARIANNA ALLEN: Girl cheerleaders would be a great help toward arousing more enthusiasm, particularly if they will really put some effort into their work.

DALE RUSSELL: A good girl cheerleader must be good-looking. If the right kind of cheerleaders are selected, they will be a great help.

MARY ORR: Girl cheerleaders look too amateurish.

CURTMARIE BROWN: Girls are always talking and making noise anyway. Why shouldn't they lead cheers?

Faure, S. Rocheblave's "French Painting of the Nineteenth Century" will soon be put on the shelves. This last is the most distinctive volume of the present shipment, being a buckram-bound folio copiously illustrated in color and half-tone.

T. S. Eliot's latest work, "Murder in the Cathedral," "The Philosophy of Religion" by the great German theologian Emil Brunner, George Santayana's "Three Philosophical Poets," and "The Crescent and the Rose," a study of England and Islam during the Renaissance by Samuel C. Chew, give some idea of the wide variety of titles included in the new acquisitions.

Triangle Club Has Guests At Meeting

The first of the several state clubs on the hill to organize this year was the Triangle club, which met last night in Bainonian hall. Students from the three states of New York, New Jersey, and Pennsylvania make this the largest of the state clubs. The meeting was called by last year's officers for the purpose of electing new leaders for the club.

Special guests at last night's meeting were Mrs. Stella Evans, matron at Baldwin hall, and Mrs. Lula R. Crawford, a Memorial matron, who are both Pennsylvanians.

Early in the year meetings are held to organize the students from the different states into clubs which meet for fellowship and fun.

priate setting and costuming.

Mr. Malcolm Miller, dramatic critic for the Knoxville Journal, is expected at still another meeting of the play group. His talk will be about the "Hamlet" productions which he has seen.

These meetings will be open to anyone interested in Shakespearean drama, and discussions will be held after the talks.

In addition to William McGill, members of the play committee are Katherine Warren and Gordon Bennett, chairman. Hugh L. Smith is business manager; Ellen Sauer is costume manager, and will have Miss G. E. Meiselwitz's assistance in making many of the costumes. The script for acting is being prepared by Robert Brandriff, under Dr. Hunter's supervision.

Try-outs for the play are tentatively scheduled to begin in October. McGill expects a large percentage of the class to take an active part in the production.

As chairman of the ring and pin committee, Hugh Smith gave the list of prices, and announced that orders would be accepted immediately. The price list follows: Large—Applique onyx, $11.50; ruby, $12.50; garnet, $13-.50. Large—Gold case onyx, $14.75; ruby, $15.50; garnet, $17.00. Large—10 karat onyx, $16.85; ruby, $17.60; garnet, $19.20. Small—Applique onyx, $9.50; ruby, $10.25; garnet, $11.75. Small—10 karat onyx $13.10; ruby, $13.85; garnet, $15.35. Pins may be ordered, also.

The other members of the ring committee are Ed Jussely and Lois Barnwell.

The invitation committee is made up of Horace Brown and Emma Probasco, chairman; one more member is needed.

Art To Be The Topic At The YWCA Meeting

Sunday afternoon at 1:15 the YWCA will hold their second meeting of the year. Miss Frances Rich, art instructor, will speak on art, particularly that phase of it concerning pictures of Christ.

YW welcomes all students new and old who would be interested in coming. Particularly are new students invited to come and find out just what YW meetings are and just what YW stands for.

Debaters Discuss Question For Year

Active Pi Kappa Delta members met Tuesday evening and Wednesday morning to discuss a debate question for this year. Five questions selected by a national committee were voted on Wednesday after the preceding discussion. Placed first by the chapter was the question: "Resolved, that the government should cease using public funds for the stimulation of business."

Orr Will Speak At Y On Sunday Afternoon

At the regular meeting of the YM CA Sunday evening at 5:00, Dr. H. E. Orr, Head of the Bible department and chairman of the YMCA advisory board, will speak on "All Things through Christ." This subject has been adopted as the "Y" motto for the year.

Appalachian State Teachers college at Boone, North Carolina, has just opened an ice cream plant for the school. Head of the plant is Walter West—of the University of Minnesota. Walter West

NOTICE

We, the officers of the Maryville college Young Men's Christian Association, hereby notify all concerned that no one will have authority to charge goods, service rendered, or the like, to the organization without a written order which must be signed by at least three of the four executive officers; namely, Weldon A. Baird, president; Bruce Morgan, vice-president; George L. Hunt, secretary; Edward M. Thomas, treasurer.

Over 400 Present At Reception Mon.

The annual faculty reception for students was held Monday evening, Sept. 19, at 8:00 in the library at Thaw hall. YMCA president, Weldon Baird, YWCA president, Helen Bobo, and Dr. and Mrs. Ralph W. Lloyd were at the head of the receiving line in which were members of the faculty and their wives, administrative officials, and other college officials.

During the reception music students played. Class officers wrote name cards at the door and special committees from the Y served ice cream. About 400 students attended this first formal event of the year.

Chilhowean Plans Pushed As Sophs Name Assistants

Juniors and Seniors Adopt Last Year's Financing System

Plans are shaping into definite progress for the 1939 Chilhowean.

In a sophomore class meeting Wednesday morning six representatives were elected to serve on the Chilhowean staff: Louise Wells, Sue Stevenson, Jean White, Phil Evaul, Charles Baldwin, and Tom Cragan.

In a joint meeting of the junior and senior classes Wednesday morning, all plans were considered and adopted. Contracts have been signed with the Benson Printing Company of Nashville, Tennessee, and with the Capper Engraving Company of Knoxville, Tennessee.

Last year's entire system, including the method of payment and the price, is being repeated. The payment of $4.00 will be made in one down payment of $1.00 which can be made on or before October 14, two $1.00 payments during the year at designated times, and one $1.00 payment on delivery in distributed Thursday morning in chapel.

A new feature being introduced this year is color on each page, in some form of a border.

The senior section will be opened within the next week. Further announcements will be made in chapel.

At a meetin gheld after chapel this morning the senior class voted to take the hundred dollar guarantee deposit for the Chilhowean from the class treasury instead of collecting it from each individual as was done last year. Editor Otto Pflanze announced that the senior section of the annual would open next week and urged all seniors to have their picture made as soon as possible.

The class considered the question of dues, but on the announcement by Prof. Verton M. Queener that the faculty had vetoed the suggested deletion of the section of the Chilhowean agreement setting class dues, no action was taken.

Dr. Hunter Speaks At Opening Meet Of Senior Players

Dr. E. R. Hunter, head of the department of English, addressed the first meeting, Tuesday evening, of the discussion group engaged on the production of Shakespeare's "Hamlet" as this year's senior play. Attended by a large number of seniors and dramatics students, the session was called to order in Dr. Hunter's classroom by William McGill, production manager of the play. Dr. Hunter gave a general introduction to the famous tragedy, touching on the problems involved in its presentation, the interpretation of the major roles, and the critical literature on the subject of Shakespearean drama as a whole.

Speakers at future meetings will include Dr. Hill Shine, who will discuss Shakespeare's theatre; Malcolm Miller, Knoxville dramatic critic, who will describe some of the famous Hamlets he has seen; Miss Gertrude Meiselwitz on the technique of costuming a Renaissance play, and Dr. Hunter, who will present the performance notes of John Gielgud's New York production.

Beethoven, Wagner For First Disc Club

The first regular meeting of the Disc club will be held Friday, October 7, at 4:30, in the Fine Arts studio. Appropriate to the occasion an all-overture program has been planned including Von Suppe's "Poet and Peasant," Beethoven's "Egmont," Wagner's "Tannhauser," and Tschaikowsky's immortal overture-fantasia, "Romeo and Juliet." Thomas Schafer will be commentator.

The Disc club, organized two years ago, is composed of both students and faculty who share the desire to hear fine music through the medium of modern recordings. The meetings are completely informal, and the only requirement for membership is a sincere interest in the works of the great composers.

Mr. Donald Grant Of Great Britain Will Begin Series Of Talks Monday

Mr. Grant, Lecturing Under Auspices of Institute Of International Education—Has Had Wide Experience As Lecturer

Mr. Donald Grant, of Great Britain, lecturer on the political and international situation, will be at Maryville college this Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday. Mr. Grant is on a lecture tour in America under the auspices of the Institute of International Education whose headquarters are in New York City. He has lectured in America in two previous years and is counted an excellent interpreter of international affairs. This is an especially significant time for him to come.

Mr. Grant was born in the highlands of Scotland. He is a graduate of the University of Edinburgh, where he majored in History and Modern Languages. Later he took four years of theological training at New College, Edinburgh.

Since the War, Mr. Grant has lived, worked and travelled for ten years in Europe, the Balkans and Soviet Russia, having attended important League of Nations assemblies, including the World Disarmament Conference. He was one of the organizers of the European Student Relief, later known as the International Student Service, and was the first editor of their magazine, "Vox Studentium". He was General Secretary of the Student Christian Movement in New Zealand, 1925-29, after having served previously as Secretary for the same movement in Great Britain. At one time he was Central European correspondent for the Christian Century.

Mr. Grant's lecture topics are "Post-War Europe, 1918-32," "Europe Fears War, 1933-38," "Will Japan Dominate Asia and the Pacific Basin?" "The Rise and Meaning of Fascism in Europe," "Soviet Russia, At Home and in World Affiars, 1916-37," "Vienna, post-war, created community, new housing, new schools and new type of life," and "The British Empire in 1938."

Mr. Grant will lecture on Monday at 10:20 a.m. and 3:00 p.m. in Bartlett hall and at the Faculty Club dinner at 6:30 p.m. On Tuesday and Wednesday he will lecture at 8:10 a.m. in the chapel and again at 10:20 and 3:00 p.m. in Bartlett hall. He will also lecture at 7:00 on Tuesday night in Bartlett hall, under the auspices of the college Peace Forum. Visitors are welcome at all of these lectures except that before the Faculty club. Limited space prevents guests at this dinner meeting.

Women Given Trial On Cheering Squad

Enthusiasm Shown At Trial Games Will Be Test

Women cheerleaders elected in chapel yesterday and leading the cheering last evening at the Tusculum game are to be given a trial for two games to see if the quality of the cheering is improved, announced Miss Jessie Heron of the pep committee yesterday. The amount of enthusiasm shown at the two trial games will determine whether the present set up will be continued, she said.

The complete list of cheerleaders elected in chapel yesterday includes Frank Brink, veteran of last year's squad, Betsy Gaultney, Lynn Tyndall, Bob Lamont, Frank Cross, and Peggy Carter.

Another feature at the game last night was the first appearance of the band in uniform this year. Miss Lois Barnwell, newly elected sponsor, was presented with a bouquet of dahlias in a ceremony conducted by representatives of the student council, before the game. The band paraded between the halves.

Parish Project In Second Year

Under the direction of the Rev. Floyd R. Watt, the Maryville college Parish Project has recently begun its second full year. Approximately thirty-five students volunteered for the work earlier in the week, and this Sunday they will be sent to points in the vicinity of Maryville.

The Parish Project began its first full year in 1937. Students go to the various points on Sunday morning or in the afternoon and conduct Sunday schools. They have been instrumental in organizing during the past year Sunday schools and missions at places where there were no opportunities for religious services. The project is financed by the Presbyterian Board of National Missions and the college, and is supervised by Mr. Watt and Dr. H. E. Orr, chairman of the Maryville Parish Committee.

Forty-One Musicians Report To Practice Of College Orchestra

Forty-one students have reported for the Maryville College Little Symphony orchestra announced the Director Ralph Colbert today. The orchestra has already held two rehearsals in beginning the year's activities.

There are still two vacancies in the orchestra personnel. Mr. Colbert would like any one with experience in playing the instruments to try out for positions playing the string bass and the cello. These two instruments are owned by the college.

Drama And Music Close Theta Rush

One-Act Play Stars Mann, And Bennett

Theta Epsilon closes its rush week activities with a program tonight in Voorhees chapel, which will be transformed into "Chapel Theatre" for the occasion. From the "theatre" the guests will go to the Merryville for light refreshments.

"The Return," an adaptation from the "Iron Woman," by Margaret Deland made by Bernard Boyatt, a Maryville grauate, will be presented in the "theatre." In the cast will be Muriel Mann, Katherine Warren, and Gordon Bennett. A string trio will furnish the music for this tragic romance as it is presented in one-act form.

Following the play, the guests will go to the Merryville, where they will be entertained by the Merry Madcaps orchestra; Theta's ballerina, Kitty Bennett; Peg Halsey, songstress; and Bernard Boyatt, fancy dancer. Refreshments will be served by Alpha Sigma waiters.

The rush week program which has been conducted all week is Theta's bid to the freshmen. The first part of the week the new women were entertained at a splash party at the St. George swimming pool. Later in the week, guests were shown the wild Bohemian life of New York's Greenwich Village, and this evening they are to be taken to the Great White Way. All these activities have been planned to carry out the theme of a visit to New York.

The rush week activities have been under the direction of Muriel Mann and a committee consisting of; Dot Quass, posters and invitations; Virginia Partridge, decorations; Kathleen Cissna, refreshments. This year the officers of Theta are Harriet Barber, president; Dorothy Quass, vice president; Kathleen Cissna, secretary protem; and Virginia Todd, treasurer.

Martin Elected Head Of Council By New Members

H. Brown, Crawford, Vance Made Other Officers At First Meeting

Robert E. Martin was elected president of the student council for 1938-39 at the first meeting of the year in Thaw hall last Tuesday evening. Other officers elected at the same time included Horace Brown, vice president; and Ruth Crawford, secretary-treasurer.

Martin, a senior from Claasboro, N. J., was named by the council last spring as president pro-tem. Besides being on the council he is active in Y work, treasurer of the senior class, and has served on the social and student-faculty committees of the college. Brown and Miss Crawford are both town students.

Appointments of student council members to various committees have already been made by the new president. They include: student-faculty, Fred Rhody, Horace Brown, and Bob Martin, James Etheredge, Ruth Crawford, and Jean McCammon; publications, Edward Jussely, Dan McGill, William Baird and Curtmarie Brown; social, Neal Rosser, and Ruth Woods; and pep, Hazel Eddins.

The social committee, meeting in the Personnel office Wednesday afternoon, elected Erwin Hitzman, junior from Reading, Pa., chairman for the college year. Other officers elected to serve with Hitzman are Ruth Woods, vice president; Ruth Abercrombie, secretary; and Zula Vance, treasurer.

Students and faculty members compose the committee which supervises all social functions on the campus. Students, other than the officers, on the committee include Wilbert Loolian, Neal Rosser and Bernice Smith. The faculty members are Dr. Frank D. McClelland, Dr. Edwin R. Hunter, Miss Jessie Johnson, Mrs. Grace P. Snyder, and Mr. Raymond J. Dollenmayer.

Discussion Groups Held For Freshmen

On September 21 the freshman class had its first discussion group meeting. These meetings, which are held after chapel on the first Wednesday morning of each month continuing through April, are a part of the orientation program for the new students.

The plan this year differs from that used last year and from the plan used in some other colleges. Several schools have orientation lectures for the freshman class as a whole, but those in charge of the program of adjustment for new students at Maryville favor the idea of small discussion groups or guidance groups of from twenty-five to thirty students. The students are divided alphetically, and meet in various class rooms.

There are eleven of these groups, six groups of women and five groups of men. Those leading the women's groups are, Mrs. Snyder, Miss Henry, Miss Keller, Miss Johnson, Mrs. Brown, and Mrs. Queener. Those leading the men's groups are Dr. Hunter, Dr. Orr, Mr. McCurry, Mr. Williams, and Dr. McClelland. These leaders are counselors for the individuals of their group for the remainder of the year. The meetings will continue to be held up to the time of the selection of major

President R. W. Lloyd Signs Contracts for Construction of New College Heating Plant

$40,000 Is Estimated Cost Of Equipment For New Project

TO BE BEHIND DORM

Work Has Already Begun At Site As Tenants Cooperate

On Thursday of this week contracts for two boilers were signed by Dr. Ralph W. Lloyd with Babcock and Wilcox Company. The signing of these contracts makes the new heating system for the college a reality. The new plant will be located next to the railroad tracks below Carnegie hall. The distributing point for the new system will eventually be under Anderson hall, although a line to the present distributing point will supply heat for a time. The new system will be connected this winter, though the actual date has not yet been announced.

For a number of years the college has been faced with the necessity of replacing the old plant. This plant has rendered excellent service in its time. When installed it was estimated that the old boilers were capable of one-fourth more radiation than was then used by the college buildings. Howveer, their load has been increased until they are now heating more than twice as much as when they were installed. The new boilers will have twice the capacity of the old, and are of the latest design. The new system will cost approximately $40,000. This sum has been finally secured by a legacy and a number of gifts, and with the approval of the directors, the work has been begun.

The plant will consist of a brick building, two boilers, and a brick smokestack. This smokestack will be 150 feet high, about twice as high as the tallest now in use. It will be monogrammed on the side facing Main street with an M.C. design. Because of its great height, it will have to be built by a firm specializing in such work, and it will cost between three and four thousand dollars. The boilers will be equipped with automatic stokers and smoke-consumers. The whole is designed to be as attractive as possible in appearance. The supervising architects and engineers are Barber and McMurry of Knoxville and their consultants. Contracts for the building, the smokestack, stokers, pumps, and other materials will be let immediately.

Already considerable work has been done at the location. The old rock-crusher has been removed and the concrete foundations blasted out, and the Southern Railroad has removed its loading track so as not to spoil the at-

Places In Choir Have Been Filled

Sixteen places have been filled in the college vespers choir since the beginning of the school year. The additions have been mostly from the freshman class, but a few upperclassmen have been added to the choir personnel.

The new members of the group are: sopranos—Ruth Lane, Charlotte Colby, Louise Marshall; altos—Ruth Mack, Margaret Knox, Mary Russ, Margaret Lodwick, Doris M. Smith; tenors—Stuart Perrin, George Vance, Charles Lovette, Charles Orr; basses—Ralph Reed, Jack Gilmore, David Hall, and Dean Stiles.

There are still three vacancies in the alto section, but Director Ralph Colbert emphasizes that it is important that those who try out be able to sight read.

Mr. Colbert plans to have tryouts for the glee clubs next week, and will announce the exact time in chapel.

Thirty-Six Freshmen Complete First Try For Echo Positions

Thirty-six freshmen met yesterday afternoon in Miss Jessie Johnson's class room in Thaw hall to receive assignments for the final tryouts for the Highland Echo staff. On the basis of stories turned in, twelve will be chosen for positions of freshman apprentices.

Pauline Cope, John Fisher, and Warren Ashby are now trying for the junior position which is open and one additional opening on the sophomore staff has been made by the resignation of Tommy Woolf. Any one wishing to apply for junior or sophomore positions may do so by leaving a written application in the staff office or by seeing George Felknor.

The freshmen entering the final tryouts are Elizabeth Badgett, Frank Cross, Charlotte M. Colby, Ruth Duggan, Dorothy Firth, Warren Culver, Worden Dubois, Arthur W. Gabb, Roger Graham, Bill Hedrick, Katherine Gunnels, Marian E. Jenkins, Johnny Sue Long, Louise Marshall, Melvin Johnson, Wilfred H. Johnson, J. Donald Kent, David H. Kidder, Charles McCammon, Jean Naberhuis, Phyllis Overton, Barbara Parsons, Mae Pershing, Helen Pratt, Dorothy Scholl, Martha Sherer, Doris M. Smith, Dorothy Smith, Bette Umbach, Harold McCurdy, Allan J. Moore, Charles D. Orr, Stuart Perrins, John H. Ross, Lloyd Shue and Harry Wick.

German Prints Are A Valuable Asset To College

The fine set of prints which Mrs. John Walker presented to the college this summer, and which now grace the walls of Carnegie, Pearsons, and the offices in Anderson, are definitely an artistic asset to the college, qualified judges tell us. This would be quite encouraging to that large group who "don't now anything about art, but who know what they like"—for the prints have become the objects of much interested scrutiny since their appearance here.

Forty-four in number, they include a comprehensive selection of late-19th century German pastorals, a genre of increasing popularity with collectors in this country. Mrs. Walker, herself a connoisseur in several branches of the arts, and a woman of unimpeachable taste in them all, originally purchased the present collection from a Pittsburgh importer for the decoration of her home in Canada.

One of the best examples hangs in the lobby of Pearsons hall. An unsigned harvest scene, its effectiveness depends on the simplicity of its composition and the particularly successful treatment of the third dimension. Shocks of wheat, in long golden rows converging in the middle distance, give a feeling of great depth, one of the most exacting problems of the strictly two-dimensionhl medium.

Interesting for its experiment in color is L. Gaivired's scene in the Hartz mountains. Done entirely in blues and greens, the result is an excellent homogeneity without the monotony or loss of contrast which might have rewarded a less-skilled hand.

One of the least typical of the prints is a small garden scene on the walls of Carnegie. Executed in a fine cross-hatch of pure colors, it relates in technique to the work of the French impressionists of the last century, who painted straight from the tube, and let light and distance produce the intermediate tones.

Another print of distinction, likewise in Carnegie lobby, is a sombre mid-winter landscape. The colors are unobtrusive—leaden sky and dull snow against a background of sienna and green. The anonymous artist was however, a master of forceful line, and the opposing diagonals of valley and moun-

Another Worthwhile Step

Mr. Donald Grant, lecturer, news correspondent, world traveler and student of Europe's current history, will bring his particularly timely knowledge of the international situation to Maryville college next week. In his lectures, which will begin Monday and continue through Wednesday, Mr. Grant seems excellently qualified to give a balanced view of these most vital present-day problems. As a correspondent and onlooker at Geneva and as an international student and traveler he may be expected to present a fairly unbiased viewpoint—something most desirable in any crisis.

In securing Mr. Grant, Maryville college is taking another worthwhile step in bringing outstanding personalities face to face with the students.

Although it is a privilege to study the work of such men as James Truslow Adams in the classroom, it is refreshing and enlightening and particularly impressive to see and hear such men as Dr. Frank Darvall, Institute of International Education lecturer of two years ago; Albert F. Murray, Philco television expert; Dr. Howard Moody Morgan, Christian leader; and William E. Dodd, former ambassador to Germany, as they develop subjects which are of vital importance to the world with which they are in close touch.

Dr. Dodd on his return from Germany last spring spoke to an entranced audience in the chapel; where, when his reputation is considered, he recorded current history. As Mr. Grant tells of the subsequent developments in Europe since Dr. Dodd's visit he will bring to students of Maryville college the unusual educational opportunity of viewing the tangled knots of world affairs in as nearly their true light as they can be shown by contemporary historians.

Girl Cheerleaders

The pep committee has announced that women cheerleaders will be allowed to try out for two home football games and whether, or not, they will become a permanent part of the cheering squad will be determined by the enthusiasm shown by the cheering section. Under these conditions a great deal depends on the cheering section as well as the women cheerleaders and if the students actually want them to become a permanent part of the squad they will have to support and cooperate with them.

A New Powerhouse

For a long time one of the most needed things around Maryville college campus has been a new powerhouse. It has been badly needed not only because the old heating system had been outgrown by the college and taxed beyond its limit for some years, but because of the inconvenient location and, shall we say, lack of beauty of the old one. To the donors of the new powerhouse present and future Maryvillians are grateful.

UP OUR HALL

By GEORGE L. HUNT

Something that came up our hall the first part of school is still here and we would like to get rid of it. Casting no reflection on the owner or the subject, will someone please tell E. B. Smith to come around and get the picture of his grandfather which has been in our room ever since we got back? He's a nice looking gentleman, Elbert, but we think you would rather acknowledge the kinship than us.

Maryville pulled a Satevepost in getting Mr. Donald Grant at such an opportune time. You know the Post is constantly remarking about how current events and its articles so often coincide; as, on August 2nd newspaper headlines read "Jap-Russ War On," and the Post that came out that day carried an article written four weeks before that time entitled "Second Russo-Japanese War is On."

Among our memories of Greyhound grabbing is the one that approximately one year ago a piece Les Luxton was singing as we rode next to him was called "Bie Mir Bist du Schoen." It passed away to be revived perhaps in a few years by a tune detective or a song writer in a dull moment. That is some encouragement, anyway, for those who put on ear muffs when someone starts "Tisk-taskbask" or "Fatfootfoojie." All of which reminds us to recommend to you Bob Martin's version of "Little Miss Muffett."

Our linotypist at least will enjoy the following item clipped from a weekly magazine:

A printer got slightly peeved at a letterhead from a doctor who wanted bids on several hundred letterheads, different sizes, different grades, and different colors, and wanted the printing form held standing. So the printer took his typewriter in hand and wrote:

"Am in the market for bids on one operation for appendicitis. One, two, or five-inch incision—with or without ether—also with or without nurse. If appendix is found to be sound, want quotations to include putting back same and cancelling order. If removed, successful bidder is expected to hold incision open for about sixty days, as I expect to be in the market for an operation for gallstones at that time and want to save the extra cost of cutting."

We repeat, the linotypist might like it, but he might never get to see it: the editor is a pre-med.

Pursuing our interest in word origins, we pass on to you the fact that the squirrel is so called because of his bushy tail. The word "squirrel" is from the Greek, skia and aura, which mean shade-tail. So the squirrel sits under the shade of its own tail.

Prayer of My Heart

Let all my life be music.
Let there swell one glorious harmony of contentment,
And let there beat one glorious discord of unrest.
Let there be crescendos of happiness
And soundless pianissimos of quiet tears.
Let there be soft notes of love so sweetly played
And booming chords of strength and mightiness.
This is my prayer, O Lord.
Let my life be music.

Music And Readings For Carolina Club

Last Monday evening the Carolina club met in Bainonian hall at 6:45. After the president, Harriet Walkup, had welcomed the new students and the new officers had been introduced, the program was turned over to Genevieve Metcalf, the program seceretary.

Eloise Zimmerman opened the program with a piano solo. Georgia Ingle gave several readings and Mary Catherine Patterson sang for the club. The humor of the program was supplied by Earl Tweed, after which the program closed with the singing of the club song, "Carolina Moon."

tractive appearance of the new buildings with piles of lumber and empty freight cars. The site of the new building was chosen to get it out of the center of the campus; to get the proper elevation, since it must be lower than the buildings; so that the condensed steam may drain back to the boilers by gravity; and to eliminate the hauling of coal by trucks, since a chute from the stacks will allow it to be dumped directly from the cars into the coalhouse.

When the new system is connected, the old building will be demolished, and the circular drive will be continued from Carnegie hall to Bartlett hall. The garage now standing next to the site of the new plant will be remodeled, and made a garage and shop for college use.

With the letting of the various contracts the work will progress rapidly, and the new plant will soon be in use.

FOOTBALL—

About the only thing funny that came out of the Kentucky game was a little bit of conversation between Hinkebein of Kentucky, and E. B. Smith of Maryville. Smith was across the line from the great Hinkebein, and Hinky looked at Smith real hard and then said, "Look out, son, this play is coming right over you."

Smith looked back at him and replied very meekly, "Yes sir."

O O O O

Union College of Ky., whom Maryville plays Oct. 22, has a squad of only 18 men. They had only one center, and he was injured when he fell in the shower room after their first game. They had to shift their left end into center. Lots of credit is due the Union squad.

O O O O

Did you see the look on Boydson Baird's face when he missed the ball on the kickoff in the third quarter. That's all right Baird, that was a beautiful kickoff the second time. Good for 50 yards anyhow.

O O O O

Those of you who saw Hunt run into the fence surrounding the football field last night, will recognize the need for taking thebarb wire off the top of the fence. Hunt cut his eye on the wire, and if he had hit the barbed wire, his eye could have been seriously injured. Surely there is no need for that extra strand across the top, why not remove it for the safety of the football players?

Point System Will Start October 4th

The point system in women's sports will start on October 4 with a meeting of all interested girls at Bartlett auditorium. This year the sports played will include soccer, basketball, speedball, baseball, aerial dart, track, swimming.

All women interested in going out for any one of these sports are urged to be at this meeting, during which the entire idea of point system will be explained. Generally speaking, point system is a way in which women may enter sports, and if at the end of the season they have earned enough points, they receive either a sweater, a letter, or a monogram, depending upon the number of points they secure.

Point system is conducted on Tuesdays and Thursdays throughout the year. Women are divided according to classes, and each class has a team in each sport. Hazel Eddins will take charge this year, under the direction of Mrs. Verton Queener.

INTRAMURAL SPORTS
By Gene Orr

The tennis tournament has not been coming along rapidly enough so far. If possible, we would like the singles and the doubles tournaments to be over by next Saturday. A few of you have been wanting to know when interclass football is going to start. The only thing that I can tell you now is: that, the sooner you get your matches played in the tennis tournament, the sooner it will be over, and football will start just as soon as tennis is gotten out of the way. The following are the class athletic directors. See them if you have any questions about intramural sports.

Maryville Falls Before 'Cat Onslaught. Kentucky Powerhouse Rolls Over Scots

Etheredge Scores Lone Scotty Touchdown on Sleeper Play Maryville Shows Power Despite 46-7 Defeat

By Doug Steakley

The Kentucky Wildcats tore all over the Maryville college Highlanders last Saturday afternoon, and took the Mountaineers over the ropes to the score of 46-7. The Scotties put up a stiffer opposition to the 'Cats than the score indicates, holding the larger team to two touchdowns in the first half, but weakening under the continual onslaught of fresh Kentucky huskies and allowing the University to score five more in the second half. The only Maryville touchdown came in the fourth quarter with six minutes to go, when Jim Etheredge, Maryville's stellar end, laid out on the sidelines on an old time "sleeper play", and caught a pass flipped from Scottie Honaker's able hands, and then proceeded to gallop 75 yards for a touchdown. The dash was really beautiful to watch; Etheredge, who had been playing a whale of a game, took the ball and ran past the whole astonished Kentucky backfield. Morton converted the extra point with a pretty place kick.

Combs of Kentucky was responsible for the first 'Cat touchdown when he ran 39 yards to the Maryville eight yard line late in the first quarter. Two plays later he took the ball on a wide end sweep and ran unmolested into the end zone for the first touchdown of the game. In the second quarter, Zoeller, a beautiful passer, heaved a long forward pass into the arms of Spears, who was waiting for the ball in Maryville's end zone. Zoeller also scored the third Wildcat touchdown in the third quarter, when he went over right guard on a power play to make the score 21-0. From this point on, the Kentucky coach, Ab Kirwan, kept shooting in fresh subs, and wore down the Highlanders defense, and they scored 25 more points before the final gun sounded.

Although the Kentucky team outclassed Maryville, the Scotties should have no remorse in their hearts, for they played a bang-up game. Kentucky scored 20 first downs to Maryville's five. Hinkebein, Kentucky's great center, looked every bit as good as pregame writers would have us believe. He continually broke up line plays, and made holes in the Maryville line a truck could have gone through. Combs, left half for Kentucky, starred in the backfield, scoring two touchdowns, and making most of the large gains for the Wildcats.

Etheredge looked plenty good for Maryville, making tackle after tackle, and was continually a thorn in Kentucky's side. J. D. Hughes, backfield, played fine ball for the Mountaineers. Morton was also outstanding in the backfield. Al Burris, although unable to play much of the game, looked good while he was in there. On the line, Jenkins was one of the toughest tackles on the field that afternoon. Shelfer, a reserve end, showed plenty of promise for a freshman.

Tennis Matches Progress Rapidly

Morrow, Akana, Van Cise, Stevenson Advance In Easy Wins

By Bill Felknor

Progressing as per schedule, the first three rounds of the tennis tournament have wound up without a single upset, and all of the four seeded players have come through without losing a set. From indications all will find berths in the seminfinal round.

The only player having advanced to the quarter finals thus far is George Webster, who obtained his place in the third from last round by defeating J. Burns, 6-2,6-3. Other players having advanced to the third round are Morrow, Kent, Manning, Lewis, Morgan, Kindred, Stevenson, Akana, Gastrook, Hoelzer, Felknor and Van Cise.

Three teams have reached the quarter finals in the doubles tournament. Morrow and Van Cise won over Hall and Mooney, 6-1, 6-1; Gastrook and Whitaker won over Lewis and Steakley, 6-2, 6-2; Akana and Stevenson advanced by means of a forfeit.

Unless something drastic happens, the squeigie board indicates that Morrow, Van Cise, Akana, and Stevenson will play it off in the seminfinals in singles and that Morrow and Van Cise will finish things off in the finals. The four will line up with Stevenson and Akana meeting Morrow and Van Cise in the doubles finals in all probability.

Located on the first floor of the Administration Building, the Treasure Island hospital will have thre wards and ten beds.

Scots Win Over Tusculum By 28-0. Maryville Wins First Conference Game

Scots Show Offensive Power in Downing Pioneers in SMC Debut. Sophs Hughes, Garner Star for Highlanders

By Doug Steakley, Sports Editor

The Maryville college Highlanders opened their Smoky Mountain Conference here last night by handing the Tusculum Pioneers a 28-0 setback. J. D. Hughes, stellar Scotty halfback, led the scoring spree by personally accounting for 20 points. George Garner, sophomore fullback, scored the other touchdown on a thirty yard gallop.

Tusculum kicked off and Morton took the ball on his fifteen and almost broke away from the Pioneers, being stopped on the fifty-five yard line by the Tusculum safety man. Hughes scored the first touchdown of the game a few plays later when he took the ball on his own 33 yard line and skirted around right end, and then cut back to the middle to truck on down for a seventy-two yard run for the first score.

There was nice blocking on the play by "Nig" Wilburn, who cut down one of the secondary men who was about to tackle Hughes. Hughes attempted to place kick the extra point, but the kick was blocked by Merrill. Tom Taylor, however, caught the ball in the air and carried it over the line, making good the extra point. Score—Maryville 7, Tusculum 0.

Hughes chalked up the second touchdown in the second quarter, when he ploughed through the Pioneer's left tackle. Hughes placement was good, and the score at the end of the half was Maryville 14, Tusculum 0.

On the second play in the second half, Tusculum fumbled and Maryville recovered deep in Tusculum territory. Hughes then took the ball over on a spread play to the right. Morton converted the extra point. Score Maryville 21, Tusculum 0. A few minutes later George Garner got loose on a wide end sweep around the left side and ran twenty-five yards for a touchdown. Hughes converted the extra point with a place kick and the score Maryville 28, Tusculum 0.

Tusculum threatened once in the first quarter, when Herbst tossed two successive forward passes to Heinz. The Pioneers reached as far as the Maryville thirty, but they were stopped there by the Highlander's line. Once more in the fourth quarter when a fifty yard punt to Maryville's ten, and a fumble in the Scotty backfield left the ball on the six yard line, Tusculum seriously threatened to cross the line. Morton, Scotty halfback, then intercepted a pass on the ten, and on the next play, Garner broke loose for a 45 yard run on a fake punt play to put the ball out of the danger zone.

Maryville threatened to add another touchdown near the end of the first half, when Tom Taylor caught a pass on the two yard line. Maryville, however, was penalized five yards for offside, and before the second team could push over the touchdown, the half had ended.

Maryville definitely proved last night, to be one of the contenders for the SMC championship. The team showed power on running plays, and the passes, although not clicking perfectly, gained plenty of ground for the Scots. With George Garner, J. D. Hughes, and Jim Etheredge in the lineup, the Highlanders will be something for the other teams to look out for. Garner played a beautiful game at fullback, making several long jaunts for thirty yard gains into the Tusculum secondary. "High School" Hughes, our All-Conference hope, played his usual fine game at half back. Jim Etheredge, who scored against Kentucky last week, looked good breaking up plays, and making tackle after tackle. Several freshmen, namely Hunt, Tipton, and Shelfer, looked good in their opening appearance here.

Next week the team will journey to Milligan college. Last year Maryville won by a 20-6 score. Those of you who remember the game will recall that the Scots faced a much tougher team than the score indicates. The game at Milligan promises to be a real battle, for the Buffaloes are out to avenge the defeat they suffered here last year.

Organ Fund Totals $1919 After Gift

The Class of 1936, through its president, M. H. Gamble, has given the balance of its fund on hand after graduation to the Organ Fund of the college.

The Organ Fund started last year now totals $1919. It is estimated that the cost of installing an adequate organ in the chapel will be about $3300. Thus, about $1400 must be secured this fall if the organ is to be built for installation at the Christmas vacation.

Some students have suggested that other classes, with balance available, might wish to incorporate them in this Fund.

ELDER PLAYS AT ALPHA SIGMA

Ivan Elder will play several selections on his clarinet at Alpha Sigma's meeting Saturday evening at 6:45. "Toots" Blazer, former Maryville college athlete, will also be present to give his football predictions and play several selections on his harmonica.

Dr. Green Talks On Smoky Mountains Park

Dr. Susan A. Green, presenting a vivid picture of the Smoky Mountains, addressed the initial meeting of the Nature club, held in Fayerweather science hall last Thursday evening. The geological history of the Great Smokies, as well as the variety and abundance of the flora, were discussed at length by the speaker.

Marguerite Justus, president of the club, announced that a bird walk, under the leadership of Dr. George Alan Knapp, is planned for Sunday morning at 5:45. The group will assemble in front of Fayerweather science hall and everyone interested in nature is invited to attend.

VOLUNTEERS HEAR JOHNSON

Miss Jessie K. Johnson, English instructor, will read religious poetry at the meeting of the Student Volunteer group on Sunday evening. The special music of the evening will be furnished by Ruth Andrews.

Baker Art Gallery To Be Open Daily

Collection Includes Fine Oils And Water Colors

The Elizabeth Gowdy Baker Art Gallery, located on the second floor of Anderson hall annex, is open now to students, faculty, and the public every afternoon from three to five o'clock. Maryville college is very fortunate to have so fine a collection of paintings, which includes both portraits and landscapes in oil and water color. The collection is so large that only a part of it is hung, but it is the intention to change it from time to time so that all the pictures may be shown during the year.

Mrs. Baker was one of the few artists to attain outstanding success in water color, a medium that is elusive and difficult to master. During her lifetime she executed many portraits commissions, as well as compositions of various sorts which are always the real and personal delight of the artist.

It is hoped that the students will take advantage of this opporunity to add to their general cultural growth, and will "get in the habit" of dropping into the gallery often for a few minutes observation of these fine pictures.

Pastor Will Discuss Authority Of Bible

Next Sunday evening, October 2, the Vesper service is to be led by Dr. William P. Stevenson whose subject will be "The Authority of the Bible." The choir will sing "Now all the Heavens Adore Thee" by Bach.

PROFFITT TO SPEAK AT YWCA

Louise Proffitt will speak at the YW CA meeting this Sunday at 1:15 p.m. in the Y room. Her subject will be, "Thy Kingdom Come—but not now." Ruth Mack will be in charge of the special music.

French Club Has Business Meeting

The first meeting of the French club was held last Wednesday evening in Alpha Sigma hall. Etta Culbertson presided and Ann Elizabeth Biggs, chairman of the program committee, acted as master of ceremonies. The "Marseillaise" by the group was followed by two solos: the "Berceuse" from Jocelyn sung by Edwin Goddard, and Saint-Saen's "Swan" played by John Guinter accompanied by Louise Felknor.

A business meeting was called after the entertainment, in which Margaret Peters was elected to serve as co-chairman of the program committee in place of James Hodges, who has transferred to another school. The officers of the society are Etta Culbertson, president; John Fisher, vice president; Sara Elizabeth Taylor, secretary; and Jean White, treasurer.

Prospective members are asked to see Miss Catherine Wilinkson, Miss Dorothy Hunter, or Jean White, concerning requirements.

MRS. STEVENSON BETTER

Mrs. William Patton Stevenson, wife of the college pastor, who has been suffering for several months from arthritis is improving a bit, and is able to be out for short drives.

Grant Concludes Eleventh Lecture With Open Forum

Well Received By Students, Members Of Faculty And Visitors

Mr. Donald Grant, lecturing under the auspices of the Institute of International Education, spoke in Bartlett hall last Wednesday afternoon on "The British Empire in 1938," and so concluded a series of lectures which began on Monday. During his short visit to Maryville college, Mr. Grant gave a total of eleven lectures; ten of these were presented at the college, and one was given in Maryville before the members of the Kiwanis club.

Friendly, informal, and a speaker of great force, Mr. Grant was well received by the many students, faculty members and various others who attended his lectures. Bartlett hall, estimated to seat approximately two hundred and thirty people, was filled to capacity at each of the seven lectures there.

Having traveled, lived and worked for seventeen years in many lands, Mr. Grant has studied closely the political and international situation and has written and lectured widely on the basis of his experience. His presentation of current world events was given in a scholarly and interesting manner, enabling his listeners to gain a clearer understanding of the European and Asiatic situation and a deeper insight into world affairs.

Speaking of the emphases in the lecture, Mr. Grant, in his pamphlet, "Discussion of International Problems with Students in the South," writes that he always places Europe first. He prefers his lecture "Post-War Europe from 1918 to 1938" because this provides a general background of fact and of conflicting interest and policy which it is necessary to describe and to make clear. Following this line of procedure he developed his first three lectures with this as a starting point. He concluded this topic in his first chapel program Tuesday morning with a detailed explanation of the current situation in Germany and Czechoslovakia, drawing the conclusion that although there has been a temporary alleviation of tension, Germany's strategic position in Europe has been strengthened and the collective stand of France, Great Britain and Russia has been broken. In discussing Europe's fear of war from 1933 to 1938, Mr. Grant showed that as a result of post-war failure the rise of Germany and Italy, with their aggressive policy and their use of power technique, disturbs and challenges Europe. They threaten ultimately "War against the West."

The title of Mr. Grant's next lecture, given Tuesday evening in Bartlett hall, was "The Rise and Meaning of Fascism in Europe", in which he explained the historical emergence of Fascism, it's challegne to civilization, and its various ramifications as found in Italy, Germany and pre-Anschluss Austria. After explaining in his Wednesday chapel lecture the vital world-wide importance of Japan's position in the Pacific basin and in Asia, the speaker proceeded in the next of the series to the rise and growth of Soviet Russia and indicated that many powers are inclined to minimize this great state which is rapidly expanding and which is highly endowed with natural resources.

Mr. Grant's final lecture dealt with the "British Empire in 1938", wherein

Committee Announces Sing On Wilson Field

There will be a moonlight community sing on the football field at 8:15 this evening, announced Irwin Ritzman, chairman of the social committee this morning. Singing will be led by Dick Woodring and the only illumination will be the full moon.

The sing was arranged by members of the social committee named last week. The committee, made up of both students and faculty has as its officers Irwin Ritzman, chairman; Ruth Woods, vice chairman; Ruth Abercrombie, secretary; and Zula Vance, treasurer.

Twelve Freshmen Elected To Echo From 36 Tryouts

Additional Chance To Make Staff Will Be Given In Spring

Tryouts for freshmen apprentices to the Highland Echo were concluded this week when 12 freshmen were selected to fill these positions. The students were winners in a series of eliminations which has been conducted during the past few weeks by the Highland Echo and the Publications committee.

Chosen from the entire freshman class, and judged on the basis of ability and originality shown in assigned English themes, the first group selected included thirty-six freshmen. These contestants underwent further elimination, having to write newspaper stories on any two of the following subjects: sports, news, and features. On the merit of these articles, the Publications committee has appointed the following freshmen to serve as apprentices for this year: Frank M. Cross, Worden Dubois, J. Donald Kent, Allen J. Moore, Charles D. Orr, John H. Ross, Charlotte M. Colby, Katherine Gunnels, Dorothy Scholl, Doris M. Smith, Dorothy Smith, and Bette Umbach.

The Highland Echo will hold additional tryouts in the spring for other freshmen who are particularly interested in journalism.

Debate Classes Start This Week

All upperclassmen interested in varsity debate will meet next Tuesday evening at seven o'clock in Professor Queener's class room to discuss plans for the coming year.

As in past years, a class will be held during the first semester, twice a week, for the purpose of studying the question and the principles of debate. This class will be under the direction of Professor Queener assisted by Louise Proffitt. Credit of two semester hours will be given those completing the course. An additional hour of credit will be given those making the team for the second semester's work.

The question for debate as selected by Pi Kappa Delta, national honorary forensic fraternity, is Resolved: That the United States should cease to use public funds for the stimulation of business. This question will be used by the varsity team throughout the year in all of its contests.

Fifty Men Leave Campus For Hike Into Smoky Mts.

Y Sponsors Week-End Trip To Laurel Falls And Cove Mountain

Fifty men left the campus today on the fall hike sponsored by the YMCA. They will take the Laurel Falls trail up Cove mountain in the morning after spending the night at the foot of the mountain. The men left in two groups: twenty-five in a bus at 10:30 this morning, and twenty-five more at 1:30 this afternoon. They will camp at a temporary camp ground about two miles from the foot of the trail. The afternoon and evening will be spent in short hikes and impromptu entertainment. In the morning two busses will take the hikers to the foot of the trail, and they will walk the four miles to the top. There they will have a worship service, according to custom, at which Russell Stevenson will give a talk. Returning to the busses they will go back to camp for dinner, and will reach the campus in time for supper tomorrow night.

Cove mountain is 4,091 feet high, and sits off from the regular range of the Smokies. Because of its isolated situation, it offers a splendid view of the great Smokies. From the fire tower on the summit all of the larger peaks can be seen. The busses were provided by the White Star line of Maryville. The total cost to each man was 35 cents, the Y making up the difference. Each man took his own bedding and cooking utensils.

Societies Pledge Freshmen After Rush Programs

Theta's Cosmopolitan City, Bainonian Airlines On Program

Theta Epsilon and Bainonian societies pledged new women on Friday afternoon at their respective meeting halls. A total of 79 women pledged; 56 to Bainonian and 23 to Theta. Following their initiation on next Saturday evening, the women will be active members in their societies.

The two previous weeks have been given over to the annual rush week activities. Bainonian conducted the girls on a world wide flight over the Bainonian airlines. During the trip the women visited all the foreign lands, and on the opening night were brought back to America. Theta had as its theme the cosmopolitan city of New York, where the new women were shown the gay life of such a center.

The officers which will head Theta for the first part of the year include: Harriet Barber, president; Dorothy Quass, vice president; Kathleen Cissna, secretary pro-tem; and Virginia Todd, treasurer.

The Bainonian officers are: Sara Bolton, president; Lois Barnwell, vice president; Jane Law, secretary; and Marguerite Justus, treasurer.

Dr. Shine Will Speak To Seniors On Tuesday

Dr. Hill Shine will address the members of the senior class in the YW rooms Tuesday evening at 7. His talk, on the Shakespearean Theatre, is the second in the present series of background studies being given in preparation for the presentation of "Hamlet" next spring. All seniors, dramatics students, and others interested are invited.

French Club Elects Twelve New Members

The admission of twelve new members was the most important piece of business before the French club at its meeting Wednesday evening, October 5. Etta Culbertson presided and brought up various issues in relation to the initiation of new members. After the business meeting French songs were sung and a French game played.

New members voted into the organization were: Arlene Barrett, Stanley Bird, Allné Campbell, Janie Corry, Louise Curtis, Everett Gray, David Kidder, Zillah McKenzie, Irma Sue Pate, Virginia Partridge, Frances Stewart, and Martha Wood.

Latin Professor Asks Leave For Indefinite Time

Dr. Davis, Mrs. Crawford, And Mrs. Campbell Take Classes

President Ralph W. Lloyd announced this week that Miss Almira C. Bassett, associate Professor of Latin, has been advised by her physicians to give up teaching for a while and spend a few weeks or months in complete rest. The college has granted her a leave of absence.

Miss Bassett became ill last spring, but recovered her health sufficiently to warrant the plan to carry on her regulaur work this fall. However, it has been decided that a longer period of recuperation is necessary.

Mrs. Dorothy Nethery Crawford, who graduated from Maryville college in 1935, will teach the Latin courses in Cicero and Livy. Mrs. Crawford graduated with magna cum laude honors, and until her marriage last year taught Latin in the St. Louis area.

Mrs. Bassett's classes in Greek history will be taught by Mrs. C. A. Campbell, and the course listed as Latin 3, Fundamentals of Language, will be taken by Dr. E. W. Davis, or by someone to be appointed later.

Miss Henry Gives Statistics On Help

$38,000 Used For Student Help In One Year

Of the eight hundred students enrolled this year, more than five hundred have applied for work during the college year, according to figures given out by Miss Clemmie J. Henry, Director of Student-help. Slightly more than half are women.

Over $38,000 was spent for student help from June, 1937 to June, 1938, Miss Henry states, and indications are that an equally large sum will be earned by deserving students in the course of the next year. A little less than a third of this amount will be received from the United States government in the form of NYA benefits. The remainder will be paid by the college.

If there are any students who want work who have not yet filled out the necessary applications, either for college or NYA help, they are urged to do so as soon as possible, so that their names may be put on file. Blanks are obtainable at the student-help office in Anderson hall.

Play Committee To Choose Drama

The Athenian-Bainonian play committee is considering six plays for this year's Midwinter. No choices have been made as yet, but the plays under discussion are: Idiot's Delight, Holiday, The Breadwinner, Petrified Forest, Ah Wilderness, and Drinkwater's Abraham Lincoln.

The committee, made up of Ellen Sauer, Mary Chambers, Carol Ward, John Wintermute, George Hunt, and William McGill, hopes to make some choice within the next two weeks. They also hope to have the play cast before the Christmas holidays. Athenian and Bainonian present their Midwinter first this year, each of the regular rotating plan. It will come some time in February.

"Tovarich" Cast By Director For College Players

Large Group in Modern French Comedy Of Russian Emigres

The College players, under the direction of Mrs. Nita E. West, associate professor of dramatic art, will present Jacques Deval's two-act hit comedy, "Tovarich," about the middle of November, in Voorhees chapel, it was announced today.

Muriel Mann and Gordon Bennett will be cast in the leading roles of Tatiana and Mikail. Katherin Warren and John Wintermute will play the parts of Fernande and Georges Dupont and the part of Gorotchenko will be taken by Frank Brink.

Other parts already cast are Olga, Barbara Anderson; Brikenski, William Felknor; Chauffourier, Bruce Walters; Martelleau, Vernon Lloyd; Louise, Mary Frances Spurlock; concierge, Vernon Lloyd; Madam Van Hemert, Sara Bolton, and Madam Chauffourier, Arda Walker.

The part of Georges Dupont has not yet been cast.

Curtmarie Brown and William Walton will act as business managers and Louise Allen as assistant stage manager. Properties will be under the direction of Ellen Losey and William Goin, and Arda Walker and Sara Bolton will be in charge of costumes.

The play will be seen here in one of its first amateur performances since its release for other than professional production. It will be staged by John Fisher, with reading rehearsals beginning next week.

"Tovarich" is a delightful comedy about an exiled Russian prince and his wife, who anonymously take situations in a wealthy Paris home. It was a smashing success in the capitals of Europe, running some eight hundred performances in Paris alone, and has been produced in virtually every city on the

Begin Classes In Remedial Reading

Under the direction of the department of psychology, remedial reading classes for 200 freshmen began this week. Students who fell below the normal reading rate in the Iowa silent reading test are required to take remedial work. Many others have asked permission to take advantage of this opportunity to improve their rate of reading.

Of the 287 freshmen who took the reading test this year, 66% were one or more years retarded in reading rate, and about the same percentage were ahead in reading comprehension. The comprehension grade level was .7 grade points above that of college freshmen throughout the country.

Maryville college began classes in remedial reading last year, and is one of the few colleges in the country that provides such training. The 125 freshmen who did twelve hours of remedial reading last year improved 1.7 years in reading rate.

Anyone wishing to enroll in a reading class should see Dr. David H. Briggs.

Collectors Stationed In The Dorms To Receive Payments

EDITORS TOLD DUTIES

Senior And Junior Classes Will Elect Sponsors Wednesday

Four hundred and forty students last Thursday morning signified their intention of purchasing a 1937 Chilhowean. The subscription contracts were distributed at the chapel service and collected at the chapel doors. The staff hopes to get more subscriptions before the drive closes, for a larger order will make a better book, according to Clifford Proctor, business manager of the annual.

Pay In Installments

The yearbook will be paid for in three installments made to the staff representatives. These installments will fall due on October 14, February 2, and upon receiving the book. Memorial and Baldwin subscribers may make payments to Jean White, in Baldwin; Pearsons women to Ruth Abercrombie; and men in Carnegie to Cliff Proctor or John Fisher; and town students to Louise Wells. Chilhowean representatives will be outside the treasurer's office on October 12, 13, and 14 to receive the down payments.

Holds First Meeting

Editor Otto Pflanze held the first complete staff meeting Wednesday evening, at which time work was assigned to the five junior associate editors and their sophomore assistants. Ruth Abercrombie has been named activities editor and is assisted by Sue Stevenson; George Hunt, assisted by Louise Wells, is feature editor; Russ Stevenson is sports editor with Phil Evaul as his assistant; Arlene Phelps is art editor; and Helen Bewley is fine arts editor. The other sophomores on the staff, Jean White, Tom Cragan, and Charles Baldwin, are assisting the various committees in general.

Election of the senior and junior class sponsors will be held next Wednesday morning after chapel. The class presidents have appointed committees to nominate candidates for the honor, and the list will be posted early in the week. Sophomores and freshmen will hold their elections the following week.

Eugene Craine Gives Baton of Swing Band To Charles Sullivan

The swing band, sponsored by Alpha Sigma, has begun preparation for this year's activities. Gene Craine, past leader, has turned over the baton to Charles Sullivan, who will have charge during the next two years. At present the band consists of about ten members, and it is hoped that this number will be increased. Although Craine no longer leads, he remains a feature attraction at the drums. Peg Halsey will supply the vocal numbers.

Alpha Sigma has sponsored a band for the past seven or eight years. Last year it entertained at the S & W Cafeteria in Knoxville; and its present program includes entertainment at the Lions Club in Maryville, formal dinners, and other social events on the campus. The first public appearance of the band has not yet been scheduled.

Women Filling Places In Glee Club Will Be Announced On Tues.

Fifty girls reported to Miss Helen Bewley, Wednesday, in the tryouts for membership in the Girl's Glee Club. There are twelve vacancies in the Club, the total membership being fifty. Results of these tryouts will be posted on the Fine Arts bulletin board, Tuesday. The Glee club takes part in the annual performance of the "Messiah" at Christmas, besides giving a concert and an operetta in the spring.

Boys wishing to try out for membership in the Boy's Glee club will report to Ed Goddard and Carl Wells, in the Fine Arts studio in the basement of the chapel, Monday, from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. The regular membership in the Glee club is about forty. There are twenty-five vacancies.

A Woman Is As Old As She Feels

By Sara Lee Hellums

"A woman is as old as she feels," says Mrs. Charles B. Moore, class of '42. So she came to college, this mother of four girls and three boys—the youngest in the third grade, a boy in Teachers' college at Johnson City, and a girl attending U-T.

Realizing the need for an education and its benefits, Mrs. Moore regrets that many people do not realize their opportunities. "It's opened up a whole new world for me," is her feeling about coming to Maryville. Taking Home economics as her major because of its practibility, she decided after some hesitation that English has been the most helpful so far.

At the time of her graduation from Knoxville high school, Bertha Moore wished to be an athletic director. She played on both the school and YWCA basketball teams, and recalls playing against Lois Wilson, daughter of President emeritus Samuel Wilson, of Maryville. She likes tennis, golf, and gardening, as well.

Rather than accept credit for her courage and nerve in beginning her college education now, Mrs. Moore declares that she is just being "selfish."

Expressing what probably every freshman has thought, Mrs. Moore says, 'College is splendid, but it certainly took down my opinion of my intelligence."

New Bell Is Oldest Freshie

By Worden Dubois

This year's freshman class is as fresh and green as ever, but it does have one distinguished member who is beginning the first year of higher education at the age of fifty—the new college bell. Unannounced and without ceremoney it has taken up its duties this year and already fills the place of its predecessor with all the dignity and regularity its ringers allow.

In 1888 this freshman was born in the Meneely bell works at Baltimore, Maryland. It's solemn tone and gentle manners must have appealed to the Quaker mind, for it was soon bought by the Society of Friends in Philadelphia and sent to their school here in Maryville, where it called and dismissed a little band of scholars for thirty years.

Then came the war years, and the school passed into the hands of a Mr. Henry, who had a flair for fine names. As a result, both the school and the bell enjoyed the added prestige of operating under the name of the Maryville Polytechnic school. This glory was not to last, however, and soon, under the auspices of the city of Maryville, it became just plain High school. And here, for more years than most of the freshman class have lived, our bell has been a faithful public servant.

The completion of the new high

Greatly Missed

During the years that she has been a member of the faculty, Miss Almira C. Bassett has held a high place in the estimation of all the students and faculty. Even those of us who have never had the opportunity of knowing her as a teacher, have caught the enthusiasm of the students in her latin and history classes.

Miss Bassett will be greatly missed during the period of her leave of absence from college duties. She has been not only one of the most capable members of the teaching staff, but also one of the most helpful supporters of campus activities. The YWCA, in particular, has long benefited from her interest and cooperation, and she has been a helpful member of the publication committee.

As she leaves the college for a time, to recuperate from illness, Miss Bassett has the very best wishes of the entire college personnel.

Why Not?

The most outstanding thing about East Tennessee, besides its rain, is its mountains. For nine months a year students gaze at them instead of listening to lectures and yet comparatively few ever get out into them to enjoy he beauty that seems so enticing from the depths of "Hamlet's madness" or the "manifestations of catatomic dementia praecox."

The YMCA, in carrying out its threefold plan of building a strong body, mind, and soul, helps to make these mountains more real to the men of the college by its annual mountain hike—but little opportunity is given to the women students to share such activities. Would it not be a good idea to have a hike for the YWCA and give the women of the college a chance to take home an idea of the vastness and beauty of the Great Smoky Mountains as well as the more formal learning of the college?

Of Especial Importance

This week the Highland Echo carries the announcement of the first meeting of those students interested in trying out for the varsity and freshman debating teams. This is of especial importance in view of the reputation that Maryville debaters have built for the college. Every year since state contests began, Maryville has won and invariably our teams have gone far in the national contests of Pi Kappa Delta. Much of this success is due to the tireless effort of the debate coach, Prof. Verton M. Queener, but most of the credit goes to those who have worked and studied as members of the team. This year the debating squad faces a big task in trying to live up to the reputation of past teams and the bigger the crowd of students that turns out and the harder they are willing to work, the better will be Maryville's chances of carrying on this traditional superiority of its debating teams.

GRAFTUITIES

Though I'm not penurious,
It makes me quite furious
To think of the tips that I've wasted
For haircuts right curious,
And shoeshines quite spurious
And meals that I've not even tasted.

It's far from hilarious,
And nearer nefarious,
This greasing each palm that appears.
Cab-drivers precarious
And parsons that marry us,
We must tip, or put up with their jeers.
The time is auspicious,
My friends, to be vicious—
Not two quarters to porters, but none.
This manner suspicious
May make them malicious—
So hang on your hat, pals, and RUN.

Life Study of the Development of a Dictator

Three days—makes faces at nurse.
Four weeks—makes grasping gestures toward everything within reach.
Three months—speaks one or two words, such as "gimme" or "mine."
Four months—throws rattle out of crib, and cries for daddy's hunting rifle.
Six months—without detection, removes father's watch from pocket while parent holds him.
Twelve months—leans over fence in yard and pulls hair of neighbor child.
Two years—kicks at every child he meets who differs from him in color of hair, number of teeth, political preferences, or favorite brand of milk.
Four years—makes other children walk in street when he approaches.
Five years—appropriates for himself all the blocks in kindergarten, by threatening to bring his big brother next day.
Six years—forces classmates to carry his books, prepare his lessons, and buy him gum drops.
Seven years—tells teacher he'll throw a brick through the the school window unless she gives him "A" in deportment.
Forty-five years—(Note: Peculiarly enough, at about this age our dictator enters his period of second infancy.)
Forty-six years—makes faces at everyone, indiscriminately.
Forty-seven years—combines the earlier grasping gestures and vocalized "gimme" with vigorous pulling of hair of neighbors.
Forty-eight years—ad infinitum.

EX LIBRIS

By JOHN FISHER

This column is dedicated first to the freshmen who are seldom allowed in the stacks, that they may realize that all good things are not hidden nor inaccessable. Second it is dedicated to the sophomores who glory in the fact that they have reached the age of discretion and may now be intrusted with stack cards, but who still rather wonder what the cards are good for. Last it is dedicated to all upper classmen who have nothing better to do than to read it. If it fills in two minutes on a Sunday afternoon, we will consider it thoroughly worth while.

* * * *

Those of us who were here last year can appreciate the way in which the reading room collection has grown. Miss Fortner was heard to say the other day that this collection is to show the undergraduate that all interesting books are not necessarily novels. This is doubtless to keep the freshman from all becoming English majors. However, the first two shelves to the left of the desk are filled with a miscellaneous collection of non-technical, non-fiction books. These are interesting books on various subjects; for specialized works, you will have to see the attendant. It is a collection well worth going through on a dull afternoon.

* * * *

We are not going to attempt to review books in this column, but we would like to mention from time to time various new and old reading materials which we have in the libarary, and to answer at least some of the Queeneresh questions concerning them ,such as size, colpr, number of pages and such essential data. Since we have just been hearing history, perhaps two of the histories would interest us most. Both are on the reading room shelf, and both are numbered 909.

"The Post-War World" by J. Hampden Jackson is one of the most readable histories we have seen. It was published in 1935, and carries on from where Mr. Grant had to stop at the 11:15 bell Monday. Besides discussing the effects of the War treaties on Europe, Mr. Jackson has taken the other continents, and described the post war events in each country. He handles his history authentically and authoritatively, and yet manages to do away with the text-book odor. His aim is "to make Post-War Europe intelligible to the newspaper reading man," and though you may never read anything but Joe Palooka, we are sure that you will find it interesting. It is a blue book of 415 pages.

"The World since 1914" by Walter Consuelo Langsan we would not recommend so indiscriminately. In the first place it is green and 791 pages long, and in the second it reminded us rather of history class. However, we realize that it is by far the more valuable of the two works for the student. It takes in the story of the war, the signing of the treaties, and then the results of the treaties in the world since the war. It was published in 1936, and the style is lucid, but so detailed as to scarcely make it enjoyable reading.

YM Advisory Board Has First Meeting

The first meeting of the YMCA Advisory Board was held Tuesday evening in the "Y" office. The programs of the various committees for the year were approved, and the budget for the year was adopted.

The Advisory Board is a committee composed of faculty and students which oversee the business and program of the YMCA. This year Dr. H. E. Orr is chairman of the board, and the other faculty members are Dr. Frank D. McClelland, Treasurer Fred L. Proffitt, President Ralph W. Lloyd, Professor L. L. Williams, and Associate Professor Raymond Dollenmayer. The class representatives are Fred Rhody, Warren Ashby, and Frank Brink, with the president and the secretary of the "Y" serving ex officio.

The two new pieces of furniture which complete the set in the "Y" reading room arrived Thursday. During the year it is planned to further improve the facilities of this room.

TRIANGLE CLUB WILL MEET MR. X

The Triangle club will meet in Bainonian hall Tuesday evening at 6:45. Helen Bewley, Bob Paul, John Ballenger, and "Mister X" will appear on the program. The high spot of the evening will be a surprise for all freshmen.

continent. It was especially successful in Berlin, where Adolph Hitler saw it three times.

In 1935 the play came to London, where it ran for over a year to capacity crowds at Plymouth theatre, and won the wholehearted praise of the Royal family. Strange to say, it has never found its way into Russia.

In America it was given wide acclaim both on stage and screen. Said the New York Post, this is "the most delightful play New York has had a chance to enjoy in many a blue moon." "A smash hit," said the New York Tribune. "A thoroughly delightful and vastly heart-warming comedy," said the Herald; and The News, "A three year success in Europe. Twenty-four capitals have given it cheering welcome." The English text is by Robert E. Sherwood.

"Tovarich" was presented for the first time, in Paris, in October, 1933. The author did not think much of the play, being interested in a tragedy he was writing, and put it into rehearsals before he had even decided how the last scene should end. Written as a farce about Russian emigres, Deval expected it only to be appreciated by Parisians familiar with the subject. However, performance has more than proved its worth.

Louise Proffitt Will Speak To Men At YM

Miss Louise Proffitt will speak to the men at a brief YMCA meeting in Bartlett hall tomorrow afternoon at 5. She will give the same talk that she gave to the YWCA: "Thy Kingdom Come, but Not Now." It has not been the custom to hold a service on the afternoons of the YMCA hikes in past years, but the program committee feels that enough men remain on the campus to justify holding a meeting here as well as on the mountain.

Thomas Shafer Leads Program Of Disc Club

The first meeting of the Disc club was held yesterday afternoon at 4:30 in the Fine Arts studio. Thomas Schafer was commentator.

The program of overtures included Von Suppe's "Poet and Peasant," Beethoven's "Egmont," Wagner's "Tannhauser," and Tschaikowsky's "Romeo and Juliet."

The next meeting of the club will be on October 21.

Confab Club Elects A. Haynes President

The Confab club, an organization of all students in the Dramatic Art department, met Friday afternoon in the Fine Arts studio and elected officers for the coming year. Anderson Haynes was elected president; Ruth Woods, vice president; Lula Wade Diggs, secretary; Horace Brown, treasurer; and Vernon Lloyd, program chairman. Plans for the year's programs and entertainments were discussed and a historian, Arthur Peterson, appointed.

SCOTTY SIDE SLANTS

By DOUG STEAKLEY
Sports Editor

INJURY JINX—

The injury jinx continued to hit the Maryville squad, when it was found out that Obie Jenkins, regular left guard on the Scotty line, will be out for a couple of weeks with a cracked rib. Jenkins received the injury when we played Kentucky, but had been playing right along with the sore rib. This is the second serious loss to our already none too strong line. Gene McCurry being the other. Gene will probably be back sometime around October 19, at least that is when he will be able to remove the cast from his ankle. Whether or not he will be able to play immediately is of course doubtful.

IDLE TALK—

Still talking about the Kentucky game . . . in reading over the University paper last night we came across the story of the Maryville-Kentucky game. According to the Kentucky Kernel, the 'Cats mauled all over an inferior team from Maryville . . . How unkind, but then we got some consolation in thinking of the game Oglethorpe tried to put up against the same team. In case any of you hadn't heard, Kentucky really whitewashed Oglethorpe 66-0. That doesn't make us look so bad, nor need we feel slighted either.

In the same column the sports editor paid us the compliment of telling us that we had a good passing team. Need he tell us . . . what about that old sleeper-pass? . . . Besides that we completed eight out of 17 attempts via the air route.

O O O O

Advance dope on the East Tennessee Teachers game tells us that they have 26 lettermen back this year. What are they trying to do, scare us?

J. D. Hughes, sophomore halfback, has played in every quarter of every football game played at Maryville in the two years he has been here. Hughes, who weighs only 165 pounds, is a regular dynamo of energy, and so far no one in the conference has been able to stop him.

Maryville Sweeps To Second Conference Victory By Trimming Milligan 15-0

Highlanders Score In Opening Minutes of Game As Result Of Buffalo Fumble. Hughes Scores First Touchdown After Burns Recovers Milligan Bobble

By Art Byrne

Two costly fumbles and three partially blocked kicks combined last night to slide the Milligan Buffaloes right out of the Smoky Mountain picture as the Highlanders played heads up football in a 15-0 victory over their second conference opponent.

Both teams exhibited a ragged style of play at times, but when the chips were down, whenever a loose ball bounced out of the pileup, the Scots were the better team; they took advantage of every break, made several of those breaks themselves, and rode in to a well-deserved triumph.

The Buffaloes were tough, too. Even after Burton's fumble led to a Maryville touchdown in the opening minutes they never let up. This same Burton was stopped on the Scot 25 after a 30 yard sprint, just as the whistle blew to end the first half. It was Milligan's only real scoring threat.

The second half was the same story as the first, with Scottie Honaker and George Garner shoving the Buffs back with coffin-corner kicks. Half a dozen times the Milligan team found itself backed up against the goal line by George and Scott.

The first break of the contest came when Burton, driving at the Scottie line on the first play after the opening kickoff, saw the ball bounce out of his grasp and into the protecting arms of Harold Burns on the Buff 25 yard stripe.

From there the Scotties rolled across. Hughes ,his usual battering-ram self, made eight at right tackle. Hunt made it first down on the seventeen. Garner reeled off four, and it was Hughes again at right end for another first down. And again at tackle, this time for no gain. Twice more the Buffaloe forwards held firm before their tackle gave way under the pounding and Hughes drove over for the first score.

His placement was right down the middle for a 7-0 lead.

From there on till the half the game see-sawed from one end of the grid to the other. Garner held a slight edge on Burton most of the time on punts. The Buff halfback was being rushed on every play. This didn't soothe his ruffled nerves. He waited only until the opening of the third frame to butter-finger another one. This time it wasn't fatal. Not yet. Maryville recovered and Garner sliced one out of bounds on the four yard line. It was on the next play that Burton, standing in his end zone, juggled the pass from center and was smashed in his tracks by Tom Taylor and Arnold Kramer.

The resulting two points made it 9-0, Maryville.

It also made the Buffaloes mad. They woke up and drove down to the Maryville twenty-five before the fumblebug bit again. This time it was James Etheredge, "Cousin Joe" himself, who fought the ball out of the pile and saved the Scots from a very serious situation. The Milligan backs were showing all their vaunted speed and slight of hand on this drive.

They never had a chance to show it again. With Tipton slapping punts down the kicker's throat, and Wilburn, Kramer, Taylor and the rest of the boys stacking every attempt at the line, it was just not Milligan night.

The next offensive was launched by the Honakermen. It started auspiciously when Scot Honaker and J. D. Hughes made connections on a layout pass for a fifty yard gain. The ball was hauled back from the goal line, however, and the Scots penalized five for offsides.

That didn't stop the Scotties long. Garner again found the corner and kicked out on the five. Milligan's attempt to kick out of danger was again messed up. The kicker was rushed, the ball glanced off a Scot linesman's hands, and was recovered on the 23. An eleven yard jaunt by "High School" Hughes and a five yard penalty placed it on the seven.

Three smashes, Hughes handling the ball each time, finally netted a first down on the one yard strip.

Running from spread formation, Honaker sneaked over on second down. This time the attempted conversion was low and the score remained 15-0, despite Milligan's last minute efforts.

It was Maryville's second Smoky loop win and kept their undefeated record against Milligan unspotted.

The Scots are not at their peak yet by any means. They made plenty mis-

Maryville Plays Tenn. Wesleyan Fri.

Next Friday night the Tennessee Wesleyan Bulldogs will be at Maryville. Coach Rube McCray's eleven is expected to give the Honakermen lots of trouble, having mopped up Milligan two weeks ago by the score of 19-6.

The last time the Bulldogs came to Maryville, they whitewashed Maryville 40-6. Tennessee Wesleyan is not a member of the Smoky Mountain Conference, being a junior college. However, they always have a strong football team, winning the National Junior College championship two years ago.

The game will be played at Wilson Field under the lights, and will start at 7:45.

Srs., Frosh Open Y Touch Football Season Wednesday

Interclass football, sponsored by the YMCA, is hitting a new high this year with the seniors and the freshies meeting in the first fracas next Wednesday.

Defending the honor of the class of '39 will be such stars as "Red" McCaskie, "Bruiser" Jussely, Jimmy Rich, Gene Craine, and Bob Martin. The senior line will be built around Jussely at tackle, Martin at guard, and Fred Rhody at end. The seniors won the championship last year, and are heavy favorites to repeat this year.

The Juniors, who were runners-up last year, have "Shorty" T. Etheredge to catch those slippery passes. Clifford Proctor to hold that line, and Dick Woodring to sling passes.

Art Peterson will lead a great sophomore aggregation into the league. The eleven will have as a nucleus Jim Miller, Van Blarcom, Gordon "Flash" Findley, Puncheon, Hulse, and Vernon "Red" Lloyd.

The Frosh are unorganized and inexperienced but may develop into a late season upset. There will be some good games played this fall with so much fine material and so much interest in the league this year. The Seniors are pre-season favorites but the Juniors and Sophs rank high, and beyond a doubt there will be some upsets before the season is over.

INTERCLASS SCHEDULE

Champs vs. All Stars—Nov. 24.

These games will be played at three thirty on the days scheduled the weather permitting. If the weather stops a game it will be played on the next day. Games rained out on Saturday will be played on Monday.

These games are for your benefit and pleasure, please help them to be so by being on time and being a good sport at all times.

Finals Reached In Tennis Tournament

Morrow and Van Cise Play Today to Determine Singles Champ

The YMCA intramural tennis tournament has finally reached the finals after many hard fought matches. Most of the matches have run true to form with one exception, that being Stevenson vs. Morgan encounter. Stevenson was one of the four seeded players, but was defeated by a close 7-5, 3-6, 6-4 score.

The two finalists are Frank Morrow and Ken Van Cise. Morrow had to defeat Bruce Morgan in the semi-finals 6-4, 6-3. He previously had whipped Whitaker 6-2, 6-0 in the quarter finals.. Morrow has had little trouble in reaching the finals, and is also expected to have an easy time with Van Cise in their match today.

Van Cise reached the final bracket by handing Paul Akana a 6-2, 6-1, defeat. Akana, was seeded number three in the tournament. Van Cise ran thru the semi-finals by whipping Haelzer 6-1, 6-3.

The only doubles team to reach the finals yet is the Morrow-Van Cise combination. In the quarter finals they easily breezed over Webster and Felknor 6-0, 6-0. In the semi-finals they took over Castrock and Whitaker 6-2, 6-0. Gastrock and Whitaker had whipped the Morgan and Proctor doubles team 8-6, 5-7, 6-3 in one of the longest matches of the tournament to reach the semi-finals.

WOMEN'S TENNIS

Great enthusiasm has been shown in the doubles tennis tournament for women which is being sponsored by the YWCA. Forty-eight women have entered and the playing began Friday. It is hoped that the first round will be played off as soon as possible while the weather is still fair.

The women's singles tournament was supposed to close its first round by Thursday, but as yet some of these matches have not been played off.

Athenians And Alpha Sigmas To Clash On Grid

The annual battle of the Athenian and Alpha Sig literary socieities as far as tough football is concerned, will be fought sometime next week on the practice field. Traditionally a genuine football game, due to the insufficient equipment and probable injuries, the conflict has been changed for the past three years to the faster and more interesting game of touchfootball. The Alpha Sigmas hold the edge on the series, having won two to the Athenians one.

Stephen "Jeep" Amos, the Alpha Sig manager and challenger, announced Thursday that the Alpha Sig eleven was nearly in shape, but would feel the loss of Ace Parker and Russ Colombo, who starred for the winning Sigs last year. The Alpha Sigma backfield will probably consist of McCaskie, the red topped bullet, Chuck Kindred, Jimmy Rich and Frank Morrow. "Shorty" Etheredge will be the star and for the Sigmas (they hope).

With the loss of spark plug Don Born, Athenian hopes lie chiefly in Weldon Baird, Fred "Glue Fingers" Rhody, Russ Stevenson and Cilff Proctor. Plenty of freshmen will probably see lots of service too.

The game is usually played in the rain, last year it was played in six inches of water and mud. Unless otherwise announced, the boys will continue in the custom and will play in the first storm next week.

Women Begin Work On Point System

Seventy-six women have signed up for point system for 1938-39, according to Hazel Eddins, this year's director of the program. Forty of this number are freshmen, seventeen are sophomores, and nineteen are juniors and seniors. The first meeting of the group was held Tuesday afternoon, at which time the girls were given the rules and out door exercise slips.

Point system is the official athletic program for women. Five hundred points are needed to be awarded a sweater, four hundred to receive an M, and three hundred for an MC. These points are earned in various ways, a certain number being awarded for scholastic achievements, participation in individual and group sports, observing of health rules, and hikes around the seven-mile loop.

The three different groups meet at stated times every Tuesday and Thursday afternoons. The freshmen meet from 3 to 3:45, the sophomores from 3:45 to 4:30, and the junior-seniors from 4:30 to 5:15. Practice began on Thursday with soccer, the first sport to be on this year's program. The rules followed have been especially adopted for an indoor gym; and after several weeks of practice, the first game will be between the junior-senior and sophomore teams on October 27.

College Maid Shop Has Been Success

By Katherine Gunnels

"The College Maid shop was really just an overgrown offspring of the home economics department," said Mrs. Katherine Romig McMurry who founded the shop eighteen years ago. Today, it is an industry in its own right, known throughout the United States, imitated, admired, and respected—and what the Maid Shop has become is chiefly due to the unselfish and persistent work of Mrs. McMurry.

Started in 1920 in a poorly equipped room in Fayerweather Science hall, the shop today it well equipped and modern. Its original ten machines have grown to forty-four and in addition it is equipped with two cutting machines, a button-holing machine and a machine for making covered button.

Fifty girls are employed throughout the summer and many more are given steady work during the school year.

The College Maid shop, originated to give girls a chance to work their way through college, still holds its same purpose though it is many times enlarged. At the present moment the shop has more orders than it can fill, including 840 nurses uniforms, 660 mill uniforms and numbers of choir robes and gym suits.

Too few students who do not come into contact with the Maid shop realize the opportunity for pleasant, profitable work it offers to the college students. To quote one of the women working in the shop, "Mrs. McMurry is cheerful and gay, and despite doing the work of ten people, is never too busy to greet visitors and show them through the shop."

When asked the future of the shop, Mrs. McMurry smiled, and shrugging her shoulders in a way that is characteristic of her replied, "Who knows, except that we are going on just as we are— and we must figure out some way to take care of all these orders that are swamping us."

Dr. George A. Knapp Leads Group On Hike

The Bird Walk which Dr. Knapp led last Sunday morning began at sunrise and lasted for about an hour and a half, the hikers going out through the college woods and into the neighboring fields. The party was composed of sixteen people, and despite the heavy foliage they succeeded in identifying starlings, robins, sparrows, bluebirds, flickers, and several varieities of woodpeckers.

SOCIETIES WILL NOT MEET

In order not to conflict with the hike to the Smokies sponsored by the YMCA, there will be no meeting of either Alpha Sigma or Athenian tonight.

Frosh Debaters To Meet Tuesday

Freshmen debaters will meet for the first time next Tuesday evening at 7:00 in Professor Queener's class room. All freshmen who signed for the freshmen debate course or who are interested in debating are to attend the meeting, at which time plans for the coming year will be discussed.

Courses in freshmen debate will probably be held at "d" period on Monday and at "e" period on Tuesdays. Freshmen trying for the team are required to take this course in debate instruction under Professor Queener. One semester hour's credit is given for completion of the course.

Queener Speaks To YW Sophomores Meet

The YWCA will hold a meeting Sunday afternoon at one o'clock featuring a talk by Prof. Queener on the economic outlook of the South, and a violin solo by Otto Pfianze.

Campus Improvements Include Golf Course

Work in progress on the campus this week has been of a very general nature according to Mr. E. C. Brown, college engineer. It has included the grading of the new walks, the reconditioning of the golf course, and the preparation of the site of the new power house. The garage now occupying the intended spot is in process of demolition.

Miss Marjorie Resides will speak to the Student Volunteers next Sunday night about the school Parish and her work in it during this past summer. Special music will be furnished by Edward Anderson.

Grant Gives Lectures

he talked of the symbollically bound Commonwealth of Nations, and the remainder of the empire which composes the greatest conglomeration of governments and systems existing in the world today. In a forum discussion, with which he closed several of his lectures, he qualified his earlier statement concerning the prospects for peace by saying that there remains the opportunity for Britain and France, with the help of the United States, to attempt to turn Hitler away from the use of the power technique and to return to the collective policy. Throughout the entire series of lectures Mr. Grant stressed the fact that the issue today in the conduct of international developments is between power policy, illustrated by Germany, Italy, and Japan, and collective policy, as shown in such countries as France, Great Britain and the United States.

Mrs. McTeer Will Give Two Demonstrations

Mrs. Minnie Eldridge McTeer, canning expert, will give demonstrations in the home economics kitchens on Wednesday, October 12, at 10:20 and again at 1:10. Several methods of canning in glass will be discussed at these periods.

Formerly at the University of Tennessee and Columbia university, Mrs. McTeer is now taking several courses as a special student at Maryville college. As demonstration agent for the Ball Jar Company, she has traveled extensively in the south and west. During the past summer she lectured in various universities, colleges and clubs in the southern states.

All students who are interested in the subject of canning are invited to attend these demonstrations.

Peppy Pep Meeting Held On Thursday

A greatly improved group of cheerleaders gave Maryville its peppiest pep meeting of the year last Thursday night on Wilson Field, where a large group of students told Frank Brink they were with him.

Over the public address system, Glenn Young gave a brief history of Maryville-Milligan football results during the past few years, which showed that Maryville had the upper hand, although, only by a series of hard-fought battles.

Music by the college band, introduction of the new yells, and the new swing pep song made up the rest of the program.

The meeting was concluded by the singing of the Alma Mater.

The subject of Dr. Stevenson's address for vespers Sunday night will be "Called to Service." Mr. Colbert has chosen the Cherubim song No. 7. by Bortniansky as the choir's offering.

SOPH CLASS MEETS

A meeting of the sophomore class was held Wednesday morning to consider the payment of class dues. Frank Brink, president of the class announced that the dues for this year will be one dollar. Payment should be made before October 31.

George Felknor will read at the next meeting of the Writer's Workshop, Monday afternoon, at 4:00, in Dr. Hunter's classroom.

Dr. Hunter Goes To Georgia Tech

Dr. Edwin R. Hunter, director of curriculum and head of the English department, is representing Maryville at exercises commemorating the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of Georgia Institute of Technology in Atlanta, on Friday and Saturday. In response to Mr. M. L. Brittain, Tech's president, delegates from many other southern colleges will attend the celebration. Highlights of the two-day program are a reception by Governor Rivers of Georgia, held last evening, and the Notre Dame-Georgia Tech football game this afternoon.

Cabinet Holds Initial Meeting

At the first YMCA cabinet meeting of the year, held September 25th, in Bartlett hall, final reports of plans for the year were presented by the committee chairmen.

These plans subject to the approval of the Y advisory board, provide for activity in the fields of worship services, fellowship work, community work, interclass athletics, artist series and maintenance.

It was announced that two new pieces of furniture have been ordered for the reading room, and plans for further improvement of the room are under consideration.

The meeting was presided over by Weldon A. Baird, president of the association.

Eugene McCurry and Don Calhoun are trying out for the sophomore vacancy on the Highland Echo.

Chairman Gives Details of Work By Eight Seniors

Senior Students Are Doing Honors Work in Six Departments

Eight seniors, including Bruce Morgan, Robert Brandriff, William Alston, Wilbert Looloian, Ivan Elder, Knox Colt, William McGill, and Etta Culbertson, are doing honors work in six different departments, according to an announcement made by Dr. E. R. Hunter, chairman of the honors work committee.

Morgan and Brandriff are both working in the English department under Dr. Hill Shine and Dr. Hunter. Morgan has as his subject "The Philosophy of Thomas Hardy"; while Brandriff is making a study of Ben Jonson.

Two students, Alston and Looloian, are in the biology field under Dr. Susan A. Green. They are studying "Protozoology" and "Histology", respectively.

Elder is working under Professor George Howell in chemistry on "Spot Tests in Qualitative Analysis."

"Scholastic Philosophy", particularly that of St. Thomas Aquinas, is the topic of Coit's research in the field of philosophy under the guidance of Dr. Horace E. Orr.

McGill is studying, in the departments of psychology and education, "The Democratic Philosophy of Education in a Liberal Arts College." Dr. Newell T. Preston, associate professor in the two departments, is McGill's faculty advisor.

Miss Culbertson is in the French department under Miss Margaret Wilkinson making an examination of Balzac's "Comedie Humaine."

As in other years, the eight honors work students for 1938-39 are those who have made a high enough scholastic record in their major subject to warrant them to make a research of some particular branch of that subject. The work will not be completed until a few weeks before graduation next May.

Elect New Members, Set Date For Trial At Law Club Meeting

Fourteen new members were elected into the Law club last Wednesday evening at the regular bi-monthly meeting held in Athenian hall. New members were H. F. Lamon, Jimmy Rich, J. N. Badgett, A. B. Waggoner, Edgar Meares, Otto Pflanze, James Montgomery, Thomas Stahl, Ralph Thompson, Francis McGaha, Hilton Wick, Horace Justus, Henry Wick, and Betty Jean Felix.

After the new members had been welcomed by president Hugh Smith, a lengthy discussion of business was taken up by the club. Plans for a club pin were submitted and bids considered and approved by the club. Consideration was given the club space in the 1939 Chilhowean, but no definite conclusion was reached. Plans for a mock trial were made by the club, and a tentative date set for the hearing of the first case. Counsels were appointed for the defense and the attorneys named to represent the state.

Following the business session, Tommy Woolf and Horace Brown gave talks on their travels through Europe this summer. The subject of their talks was "European Law, from the Inside Out." Brown and Woolf gave firsthand information as to the operation of the law in Europe today. Brown particularly seemed impressed by its efficiency.

Y Has Initiation For New Women

Installation of all new girls who desire to become active members of the YWCA will be held in Voorhees chapel Sunday evening immediately after vespers. The program will consist of the customary candle-light service, one of the most impressive ceremonies to be conducted during the college year. The YWCA pledge will be administered to the new members by the president, Helen Bobo.

In addition to the new students who wish to join the association, as many old girls as possible are invited to attend. It is asked that both old and new girls wear white dresses for this occasion.

Miller of Journal Will Address Drama Group Tuesday at 7

Malcolm Miller, well known dramatic critic for the Knoxville Journal, and director of the University of Tennessee Playhouse, will be guest speaker at the Hamlet group discussions Tuesday night at 7:00 in Thaw hall, it was announced today. He will be accompanied by seven members of the Playhouse.

Mr. Miller has witnessed many performances of Hamlet, among them those of Howard, Hampton, Mantelle, and Gielgud. He will compare these productions for the benefit of the group, Tuesday night.

This will be the third in a series of meetings held in preparation for the production of the Shakespearean play by the senior class on May 27, 1939. At the meeting last Tuesday evening, Dr. Hill Shine addressed the group on the general staging of the play during the Elizabethan era, giving summaries of the scenes and suggestions as to their staging. An open forum discussion followed.

The play is a project of the senior class, and as much of the responsibility for its preparation and production as possible, is being taken by them. Under the direction of William McGill, producton manager, they will be in charge of all script cutting, staging and costuming. Dr. Hunter is the chief faculty adviser, and Dr. Hill Shine, technical adviser. Miss Meiselwitz, head of the department of Home economics, will direct the costuming. The play will be under the direction of Mrs. Nita E. West.

"M" Club Leaves For Hike to Mt.

Athletic Group Goes For Week-end Trip To Look Rock

Twelve members of the M club, followed by a car full of provisions and blankets, left this afternoon at one o'clock for a twelve-mile hike to Look Rock, where they will cook supper and sleep in the open. They are taking Prof. and Mrs. Queener as chaperons, and a twenty-two rifle in case of bears. A worship service will be held tomorrow morning, and the entire group will return in time for dinner.

The hike was planned at the first regular meeting of the M club, which was held Tuesday night in the Y rooms. At that time, the president appointed Lynn Tyndall, Dorothy Quass, Catherine Davidson, and Catherine Pond as a committee to make further plans concerning the outing.

Several plans for the year were made at the meeting. Virginia Partridge was appointed chairman of a committee to raise money for obtaining new uniforms for sophomore members of the point system. Betsy Gaultney was appointed chairman of a committee to sponsor an aerial dart tournament.

The officers of the M club this year are Hazel Eddins, president; Jane Corry, vice president; Mary Darden, secretary; and Dorothy Quass, treasurer.

Freshmen Study Use Of Library

Approximately 300 copies of "How to Use the Library," by Martha S. and Edward F. Rowse were distributed to the freshmen in their regular orientation guidance groups on Wednesday morning. The book is a concise treatment of the scope and purpose of the library with special emphasis on the bibliographical method. Included are explanations of the Dewey decimal system, the relation between a book's index and the card catalog, and the arrangement and special usefulness of the various dictionaries, encyclopaedias, almanacs, and yearbooks.

Pasted on the inside cover of the books given to the freshmen was a page of rules and regulations pertaining specifically to this college library. Because of the nature of the book, the freshmen were advised to preserve their copies throughout their four years here, as its usefulness will become more apparent as their studies progress.

THETAS INITIATE FROSH

Theta Epsilon will have an informal meeting tonight. Initiation of new members will be held on October 22.

Juniors, Seniors Elect Sponsors For Chilhowean

Contracts Signed For Pages In 1939 Yearbook

The senior and junior classes, meeting Wednesday morning in Voorhees chapel and Bartlett hall, elected the sponsors of their classes for the 1939 Chilhowean. Nominations for the senior class sponsor included Hazel Eddins, Virginia Partridge, Marguerite Justus, Curtmarie Brown, Zula Vance, Catherine Pond and Ernestine Foulke. Junior class nominees were Helen Bewley, Ruth Woods, Patricia Kennedy, Louise Proffitt and Barbara Anderson. It is customary to withhold the results of these elections until the distribution of the yearbook in the spring.

At the meetings Wednesday morning, each class contracted for two pages in the annual. One page will make up a snapshot feature section; and the other, bearing a group picture of the class, officers and the picture of the class sponsor, will serve as the opening divisional page for the class sections.

Other contracts signed this week for space in the yearbook included Y WCA, with Nu Gamma Sigma, three pages; ministerial association, doubling last year's contract, one page; "M" club, one-half page; and Carolina club, one-half page.

Homecoming Day To Be Observed On October 28

Lenoir-Rhyne Ball Game And Barbecue Supper Are On Program

Annual Homecoming day will be observed on Friday, October 28 this year. This date was picked especially because it coincides with the meeting of the East Tennessee Teacher's association in Knoxville, where it is expected a large number of Maryville almuni will be present.

Registration of almuni and faculty will begin at 5 p.m. in the Alumni gym, and a barbecue supper on the baseball field at 5:30 is planned. After supper there will be a program in the gym, and the football game with Lenoir-Rhyne will top the evening's entertainment. The game promises to be one of the best of the year, since Maryville lost 0-2 in '36, and last year fought to a scoreless tie. Supper will be served free of charge, and the alumni will be given reduced rates to the game.

Saturday will be Founder's day. This is the fifth year in which an important person in the history of the college will be honored. There will be a visiting speaker, and a program for the almuni.

Novel Conference Planned For Forum

Actual motives behind the foreign policies of three world powers will be completely exposed and laid bare before the eyes of a Peace Forum audience Friday evening at 6:45 in Thaw hall auditorium. In a novel program arranged by the Forum executive council six speakers will take part; three will put forth the foreign policies of Germany, Russia, and the United States as presented through the mouths of their executives, and three others the hidden motives behind these official pronouncements.

The three speakers who will present the speeches and official messages of Hitler, Stalin, and Roosevelt are Clifford Proctor, Harriet Miller, and Tommy Woolf. Their "ghosts" who will literally take their speeches apart and reveal their innermost motives are Bruce Morgan, Louise Proffitt, and George Webster.

The program has been arranged in the form of a conference between representatives of the three powers. The speakers will sit around a table and present their views, while members of the audience will be given the privilege of sitting in and having revealed to them the machinations of diplomacy.

Forum officials have announced that this "exposure" program is the second in a series of programs the purpose of which is to educate college youth in world affairs with the idea of promoting the cause of peace. The first program was an address by former con-

Governor Gordon Browning Attends Maryville–Tenn. Wesleyan Ball Game

Governor Gordon Browning of Tennessee, who attended the Maryville-Tennessee Wesleyan football game on Wilson field last evening.

The brilliance of last night's football game was further enhanced by the appearance of the honorable Gordon Browning, Governor of Tennessee. He came as the guest of a committee of Maryville citizens who met him at the airport yesterday and entertained him at dinner before the game.

Between the halves the Maryville college band played the governor's alma mater and the band sponsor, Lois Barnwell, pinned a flower from her bouquet on his lapel. Maryville cheerleaders led fifteen rah's for Governor Browning.

The Governor arrived from Nashville yesterday as the only passenger in an army plane piloted by First Lt. W. G. Catron of the 105 Observation Squadron. The trip was made in an hour.

At the airport Governor Browning was met by a committee from Maryville, composed of D. W. Proffitt, J. C. Gillespie, Frank McNutt, and Steve Jett.

When Drum Major Dick Woodring asked the governor to pose for a picture after the game last night he inquired if the little girl who pinned the flower on his coat would be back.

When assured that Miss Barnwell would return the governor added, "Well, bring her along and you can have anything you want."

Glee Clubs Fill Vacancies After Week of Tryouts

Rehearsals For Handel's "Messiah" Will Begin Next Week

Thirty boys reported to Ed Goddard and Carl Wells Monday afternoon in the tryouts for membership in the Men's Glee club. Those chosen to fill vacancies, as announced earlier this week, were: Cyrus Scapellati, George Tibbetts, and George Vance, first tenor; Fred Brewer, Bob Fisher, Melvin Johnson, Horace Justice, Charley Lorit, David McDaniels and Charles Orr, second tenor; Paul Brown, Frederick Hedrick, Quentin Myers, and Bruce Walters, baritone; Jackson Gilmore, David Hall, Harlan Husk, Jim Montgomery and Jim Matthews, bass. The total membership of the club is thirty-four.

From fifty girls reporting for tryouts in the Women's Glee club, Helen Bewley has announced the following to have been selected for membership: Lois Barnwell, Ann Biggs, Charlotte Colby, Elizabeth Frances, Ann Gammon, Elsie Klingman, Helen Rose McWilliams, Louise Marshall, Eloise McNeeley, Frances Stewart, Ruth Sutherlin, Leah Voight, Arda Walker, and Sarah Youngs, soprano; Mary Boyer, Dorothy Buchanan, Mary Helen Caldwell, Ruth Duggan, Ernestine Foulke, Peg Hammond, Ruth Moore, Marjorie Orcutt, Virginia Partridge, Elizabeth Pascoe, Helen Pratt, Mary Russ, Doris Smith, Ada Summers, and Zula Vance, alto.

The Glee clubs, which rehearse jointly, under the direction of Mr. Ralph R. Colbert, instructor of music, had their first meeting Thursday night. Rehearsals for the "Messiah," to be presented at Christmas time, will begin next week.

Debaters Begin Work On Tuesday

Twenty-eight men and women reported for varsity debate class last Tuesday evening in Professor Queener's classroom. Of this number, nine have been members of the varsity squad in the past.

Following the usual schedule, the class will meet on Tuesday evenings from 7:00—8:00 and on Wednesday afternoons at "e" period. Speeches for next Tuesday evening will be given by Curtmarie Brown, Louise Proffitt, Otto Pflanze, Arnold Kramer, Clifford Proctor, and Sara Lee Hellums, with Warren Ashby acting as chairman, and Arda Walker, secretary. The subjects are based on the debate question, "Resolved: That the government should cease spending public funds for the stimulation of business."

The Tuesday evening class will be conducted by Miss Grace Graham Proffitt, a graduate of Maryville. Miss Proffitt, daughter of Treasurer and Mrs. Fred Proffitt, was a member of the varsity debate squad and a representative of the local chapter of Pi Kappa Delta, national forensic fraternity, to the national contest while a student here. Professor Queener will continue to conduct the Wednesday afternoon class of the advanced speech class.

Work On Campus Is Being Pushed

Build New College Entrance Brick Smokestack To Weight 223 Tons

Present plans call for the consruction of a new entrance on the west side of the campus at the corduroy, uniform with the two now in use. It will have a width of twenty-four feet, which is the same as the Court Street entrance. Locations for the posts will be staked out the first of next week, and work will then be started on the cement footings. It will require about thirty days for the stone blocks and caps to be carved out.

Work is progressing satisfactorily on the grading of the site for the new power plant. The exact location of the power house and foundations for the boilers will be staked out the first of the week. Contract for building the smokestack has been let to the Alphons Custodis Chimney Construction Company, specialists in the building of large smokestacks and chimneys. According to the contract, the smokestack will be round, with a total height of one hundred and fifty feet. The outside diameter at the base will be thirteen feet and four inches, while the outside diameter at the top will be five feet and three inches. The approximate weight of the smokestack above the foundation is estimated to exceed two hundred and twenty-three tons, all of which contribute toward making the new power plant quite an undertaking.

The old score board at the football field has been taken down and is being re-built, and new numbers are being made. This score board, supplemented by the public address system, is a valuable aid in keeping the fans informed as to the progress of the games. Due to the loss of the numbers and its general rundown condition, the board has not been used this season, but is expected to be ready for use at the homecoming game.

The shrubbery around Thaw hall has much improved in appearance since the recent pruning. The gravel walks around the building have had the grass chopped from the edges, lend-

Seashore Music Test Given To Thirty-Five

Thursday afternoon at 3:30 the Seashore musical aptitude test was given in the fine arts studio to thirty-five students doing work in the music department. The test is designed to determine the sense of rhythm, time, pitch, intensity, consonance, and tonal memory of the individual, and is given each year to all desiring credit in the department.

This same test will be given again later in the year for the benefit of those who were unable to take it Thursday.

Salzburg Choir To Open Series November First

Reserved Seats To Be Sold On Wednesday Morning After Chapel

This year's Maryville college Artist series will open on the evening of November 1, with the appearance of the famous Salzburg Trapp choir in Voorhees chapel at 8:15. Reserved seats for the concert will be placed on sale immediately after the chapel service Wednesday morning.

This unique group of eight young artists, the wife, two sons and five daughters of Count George von Trapp, form a vocal and instrumental ensemble that has won the acclaim of the severest critics in England and on the continent. Beginning as an informal family group singing for their own entertainment, they were discovered by Lotte Lehman, whose enthusiasm and endorsement led them to attempt a concert tour. Their excellence attracted the attention of Dr. Franz Wasner, distinguished German organist and director. Under his leadership they have won every important European singing competition within the last four years and this season make their American debut.

Play Block Flutes

The Choir is composed of four sopranos, two contraltos, a tenor and a bass, and their repetoire includes a-capella works from the fifteenth century to the present day. In addition they also program several numbers on "block flutes," five-hundred-year-old forerunners of the modern woodwind instruments. The revival of this old-time instrument is entirely due to the efforts of the members of the choir, and they are the only persons who perform on them professionally today.

The group has just completed a concert tour of Italy during which they gave performances in Milan, Turin, Rome, Assissi, Peruga and Florence, completely winning the heart of that musical people. While in Rome they gave a concert for the Crown Princess and another private audition for Mussolini in his office in the Palazzeo Venetia. Il Duce, when he learned of the forthcoming tour to America said, "You are sure to have a great success in the United States." In the preceding four months the ensemble enjoyed repeated successes in France, Belgium, Holland, Austria and England. When the Duke of Windsor visited Salzburg as King Edward VIII, the musical program that impressed him most was the recital of the Salzburg Trapp choir that was given in his honor. He invited them to sing for him in London, and when he returned to Austria a year later they sang for him again.

Has Large Repetoire

For their programs the choir draws from a repetoire of over five hundred selections, and long experience from many appearances all over Europe has resulted in a concert formula of wide appeal and fine music. In general the program is divided into three sections. The first consisting of a-capella choral works, the second of "block flute" numbers, and the third of the native folk music of their own Austrian homeland.

Especially noted for their sympathetic interpretation of the music of Bach, Handel, Monteverdi and Di Lasso, the choir is equally proficient in the presentation of the lieder of the Salzburg masters Mozart, Schubert, and Brahms.

The ancient flutes on which the octet play are interesting from an historical as well as a musical point of view. The instruments, which were popular in the church and home of the sixteenth century, produce a quaint, organ-like sound beyond the reach of any modern instrument. The music which will be performed on these instruments will be the pavanes, canons, chorales, marches and polonaises of the composers of the same period.

In conclusion the young singers will appear in the costume to reproduce the songs and mountain calls of their native Salzburg. These melodic and carefree songs and yodels are the pastoral music of the German people. A large number of those sung by the Salzburg choir are unknown to other singing groups, the Trapp family having gathered them from goatherds and shepherds of the surrounding country.

From Miss Molly

Editor of the Highland Echo—

Dear Sir:

May I express through your paper, to the Faculty and staff of Maryville College my sincere appreciation for the very kind reception tendered me at the Faculty Club dinner Monday evening celebrating my 75th birthday anniversary.

President Lloyd's very gracious paper giving a sketch of my life as it related to the college was a breathtaking surprise to me. This unexpected tribute swept me off my feet and out of my mind for the time being, and not being by nature or practice, an impromptu speaker, I was dumb, so I wish now to express my sincere thanks to all who contributed in any way to the very happy occasion. The books you gave, which I have wanted but could not afford, will be read with added pleasure because of the source from which they came. Gifts that come from home folks have a peculiar significence. Maryville College will always be home to me for home is where the heart is.

Very sincerely yours,
Mary E. Caldwell

THE WASTEBASKET

By SCOTTIE, THE OFFICE BOY

Sorry, we're afraid your guess was just a wee bit wrong. This column positively cannot promise to print EVERYTHING we find in the wastebasket. In fact, it makes no promises at all, and has no party platform. It will at all times endeavor to remain non-sectarian, non-orthodox, non-partisan, non-educational, non-classifiable, non-apprehensible, non-apologetic, and nonsensical. It absolutely does not ask for donations, love-offerings, or gifts of any sort. However, all advice, criticisms, suggestions, and comments will be carefully filed for future reference and will doubtless end up, as usual, here in The Wastebasket. This column is merely an ingenuous way of putting the blame for all useful junk on one poor sucker's shoulders. We are certain that if we could have forseen the many odd jobs that fall to Chief-cook-and-bottle-washer-getter-outer-and-putter awayer-cleaner-upper and runner-after-taker-and-liker-of-what's dished-outer, the office boy, we should have chosen another career.

• • • •

Seems "Colbert's Ragtime Band" was some stuff in the parade yesterday. Did our favorite swing tune up in fine style and it looks as if we shall live to see friend Rhody's prophecy come true. A swing band is the stuff, but please don't turn the team into jitterbugs until we are graduated, because we think football is complicated enough, rough enough, entertaining enough, and exciting in its present form. Nice goin' Friday, Scotties.

• • • •

Requests of the week include an urgent one or two for another community sing, even if we have to call upon one of the red-haired footlights of Saturday night's drammer to take the part of the moon. We found laughing until you're in stitches at a "Gathering of the Nuts," being pulled in two (well, practically) in a snake dance, bursting your lungs with sentimental whinings beneath the light of the moon, tra la, and running home in cold, crisp air an ideal recipe for a good night's sleep. Leader Dick Woodring put his whole heart into it, as he does in everything, including "Lord I Want to Be More Loving' at Glee club practice Thursday night.

• • • •

We never get you into anything without doing our deadliest to drag you out again in one piece, so here's how to recover from that good night's sleep. Invest in the newest wrinkle, introduced by a little freshman at Memorial. Clever little gadget, an alarm clock with a Swiss music box attachment, which wakes you up gently first to the tune of "Reveille". If "I Can't Get 'Em Up" becomes a reality then, and only then, does it disturb your dreamful slumbers with an ear-splitting clang.

You who never achieve the peceful sleep of the just, who dislike Morpheus and all his beguiling ways, or who have radiators that are still trying to popularize the ancient game of "knock, knock", may disregard the last paragraph, unless you wish to peruse it for its lasting literary value.

• • • •

The subject of clocks brings to mind a scoop that has unbelieveably managed to escape the notice of our most "nose-for-news"-sy reporters, even the freshman apprentices. We'll print it for your enlightenment.

"Hickory, dickory, dock.
Two mice ran up the clock.
The clock struck one—
And the other escaped uninjured."

Women's place may be at home, but the whole trouble with the theory is that they're at home anywhere. Take our new fem cheerleaders, for example. I wonder why we never invented them before. They have certainly shown us that women can be useful as well as ornamental in orange and garnet sweaters. Also that their strong right arms can wave gracefully and enthusiastically without benefit of rolling pin. And that coy, sweet, soft, voices may go to town too, if they so desire. Keep up the fine work, gals, and we'll have no cause to regret the day women took over half the cheering squad at Maryville.

• • • •

Latest informer from the Chilhowean ward reports "Doing nicely, thank you". Well, and why shouldn't she, we ask? After all, it stands to reason that if everyone, individuals and organizations, wants a bigger and better annual this year, all they have to do is to co-operate with the Chilhowean staff, sign up early for pages, and fork over the necessary dough on time. And that's easy enough to do; the more difficult part is to remember it. Let's try. Here's where I get off, as Proctor and Pflanze haven't come across yet. By jeepers, I wondered what this string around my finger was for! I forgot to send them a bill. Oh, well, it will all come out in the wash. Or in the 1939 Chilhowean.

Just to bolster up freshmen and juniors with inferiority complexes, if any, and to excuse seniors and sophomores with superiority complexes, if those there be who haven't already their own excuses, we close with this sage bit of fatherly advice from the proverbs of Confuse Us:

"My son, forget not this ancient truth, that thy way may guide thee in pleasant places. 'He that tooteth not his own horn getteth it not tooted'."

EX LIBRIS

By JOHN FISHER

One of the more interesting features of the library is the absentmindedness of some upper classmen. Warren Ashby asked for a book the other day. After searching for about ten minutes, in desperation, the attendant looked in the cardfile. Ashby leaned across the desk threatening physical violence to the man who had the book out. Finally the attendant showed him the card and the name on it was that of ——Warren Ashby.

And we parallel this with one of Bruce Morgan's discoveries. We found him roaming disconsolately about the library the other morning, wondering what class he had the next period. Then he noticed that he was carrying a Greek book. Light dawned upon his countenance as he murmered, "It must be Greek". Freshmen take note.

• • • •

And we wonder which freshmen have a harder time doing—checking books out or checking them in. The innocents join a group at the desk and stand stork-like for about fifteen minutes to hand the attendant a book.

• • • •

But we really should offer something of value this week. It is strange how few people know what books are in the four stands in front of the desk. In the first on the right are the encyclopedias, the Americana, the Brittanica, and what have you, though we are lacking the Asiatica. In the second on the right are the Bible commentaries, dictionaries, concordances, and encyclopedias, and the foreign language and English dictionaries. There is also a few chemistry encyclopedias on the side away from the door.

In the first stand on the left are the files of the various English journals and magazines, the Cambridge Histories of English and American literature, and specialized dictionaries of English proverbs, American dialect, and such. There is a Shakespeare concordance, and various other books of interest to the English teacher. The last stand on the left contains encyclopedias and sets of books on history and sociology. Here too, are found the "Who's Who's" and volumes containing sketches of the lives and acts of eminent men in the various fields.

These books may be used at any time without being checked out. However, they are on permanent reserve, and may never leave the library. We feel sure that fifteen minutes study of the four stands will, if it does not sound too trite to say so, open a new world of information, for here additional material may be found on almost any subject.

Cast of Tovarich Holds Rehearsal

Rehearsal for those taking part in the first scene, first act, of "Tovarich", to be presented by the College players on Friday night, Nov. 18, was held yesterday afternoon in the College chapel. The play is under the direction of Mrs. Nita E. West, associate professor of dramatic art.

Mrs. West has announced that the part of Georges Dupont, the only unfilled position in the cast, is to be taken by Charles Fish.

Ed Ciurzak, a sophomore who has studied the Russian language, will act as technical advisor to the cast in the pronunciation of Russian names and phrases.

Rehearsals for the first and second scenes of the play will be called for Monday and Tuesday afternoons of next week, John Fisher, stage manager, announced today. Further announcements of rehearsals will be posted on the central door of the dining hall.

Chemistry Dept. To Show Picture

"Steel, Man's Servant," a motion picture in full color will be shown to the students and faculty of the college next week, Professor George. D. Howell, head of the chemistry department, announced today. The picture, which is intended to create interest in the manufacture and usefulness of modern steel, will be shown during the second, fourth, and sixth periods of these days Anyone interested may attend at these periods. The United States Steel corporation sponsors the film.

Vesper Choir Sings Special Numbers Sun.

Next Sunday evening at the regular vesper service the college choir will present a special musical program under the direction of Mr. Ralph R. Colbert. They will sing "'When I Survey the Wondrous Cross" as a call to worship and their processional will be "O, God Our Help in Ages Past."

During the service, they will sing two anthems, "O, Praise the Name of the Lord" by Tschaikowsky, and an old Russian air, "The Vesper Hymn". They will use "Jesus, Thou Divine Companion" as a recessional. A special women's trio, Bernice Cathcart, Ruth Woods, and Mary Russ, will offer Mendelssohn's "I Waited for the Lord."

Dr. William Patton Stevenson, college pastor, will lead the Vesper service, using the theme "Something More Precious Than Gold."

ing much to the appearance of the building as well as the walks.

Dirt is being hauled from the new power house site and being filled in the low places, providing additional parking space at the back of Science hall. When dirt is available, the old road at the end of Thaw hall which has been abandoned will be filled in and made into a lawn, and a sidewalk to connect the parking space with the football field will be built.

It is very interesting to note that all work done in the buildings and on the grounds, with the exception of the administration, is done entirely by college students.

Initiation Friday For Bainonians

Bainonian initiated its new members yesterday afternoon at 4:30 with a session of interior decorating followed by a tea in the society room in Pearsons hall. The new girls, in response to individual invitations, were entertained by participation in a general housecleaning and redecoration of the hall, after which they were introduced to the upperclass members of the society.

Sara Bolton, president of Bainonian, announced a new ruling concerning the use of the hall which goes into effect October 14. According to the new regulation, no organization, club, or society other than Bainonian may at any time meet in the society room without the special permission of the president.

This precaution is taken to assure the women of Pearsons an attractive room for recreation and dormitory activities and to preserve the new furnishings.

Nu Gamma Girls Have Breakfast

At 6:15 on Monday morning, eighty new girls and their Nu Gamma leaders left Pearsons hall for the annual breakfast in the college woods. Mrs. Grace P. Snyder accompanied the group.

A short devotional service, conducted by Ruth Andrews and Mary Alice Minear, was held when the group arrived at the picnic grounds.

Fires had already been built and the groups gathered around these to cook their breakfast. They returned to the college in time for first period classes.

Sara Lee Hellums, Nu Gamma chairman, was responsible for the plans of the breakfast. This is the last meeting of the Nu Gamma groups.

"I like the American college very much" seems to be a mutual sentiment among exchange students in our country. Yvonne Laird, French exchange student to Dickinson college in Carlisle, Pa., stated that the American youth, on the whole, is younger and more spirited than the French student. Her principal distinction was that the American youth "knows how to enjoy himself."

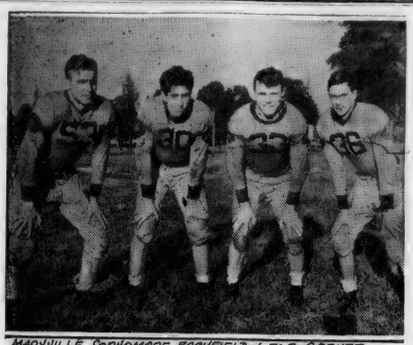
SCOTTY SIDE SLANTS

By DOUG STEAKLEY
Sports Editor

HAVE A REAL TEAM THIS TIME—



Last night the Highlanders looked like a real scoring machine. After the game, the congratulations were pouring in thick and fast and the majority of them seem to indicate that the boys were really clicking last night. In the opinions offered by the bleacher seat coaches. Mr. Honaker has turned out one of the hardest hitting and fighting teams they have seen in many a day. I was talking to last year's captain, Jim Renfro, before the game and he said that if our line would pick up a little, we would have a real team this year. Well, according to the way the line stacked up last night, we do have a real team. Line Coach Thrower seemed plenty satisfied after the game with the ways his proteges performed under pressure of a heavier line.

TOUCH-FOOTBALL—

Interclass football is finally here. And so is Theron T. Etheredge. If any of you happened to see the Sophs and Jrs. clash last week, you couldn't help but remembering how he snagged almost impossible passes out of the blue sky and tucked them under his arms to run away from the bewildered sophs. Well, that is just an example of what you will see at an interclass game. Thrills, chills, and excitement feature these annual battles and all of you should join in participating vocally or physically.

CONGRATULATIONS, FRANK—

Last week Frank Morrow won the YMCA singles championship. His winning the title signifies the climax of a fine tennis player's career. Morrow, who played number one man on the tennis team part of the past year's season, almost won the tournament last year, but was defeated in a very close match by Ted Gillingham. Frank is one of the finest sports on or off the tennis court, and deserves lots of credit for his conduct as well as his fine playing. So, here is our congratulations, Frank, and may you repeat again next year.....

Maryville Romps Over Tenn. Wesleyan; Scotties Show Power in 28-7 Win

Highlanders Upset Bulldogs As Morton, Hughes, And Hunt Show Way Scot Running Attack Clicks As They Avenge Two Year Old Defeat

By Doug Steakley

The Maryville College Highlanders really put on the pressure last night when they handed Tennessee Wesleyan a 28-7 whitewashing. The Scotties, although considerably outweighed, and distinctly the underdog of the contest, turned loose a barrage of running plays that left the Bulldogs bewildered and scattered all over Wilson Field. Wesleyan looked good only in the second quarter when they marched from their 25 yard line to cross the goal line scoring their only touchdown.

Maryville drew first blood in the first quarter when Joe Etheredge broke through the Bulldog line and blocked a punt, scooping up the ball, Etheredge then made a 60 yard dash down the field fir six points. From the first touchdown on, the game was clearly all for the Scotties. Time after time, Hunt would plough through left tackle for four yards, and then Hughes would smash the other side of the line for five more. If it wasn't Hughes or Hunt carrying the ball it was Morton, who would sweep through guard for an average of seven yards per play.

The Highlanders line play was particularly outstanding. Outweighed to the man, the linemen dug in and practically blocked the heavier team off their feet. "Nig" Wilburn looked plenty good, making tackle after tackle, and intercepting or knocking down passes. Kramer, Etheredge, Burns, Tipton, Taylor, and Smith all played heads up football to make the line look the best it has this year.

Play by play description of the game:

Tennessee Wesleyan kicked off to the Maryville 30 yard line where Etheredge received the ball and returned it to the 38. Garner then raced around left end for a 7 yard gain. Hunt then made a first down, ball now resting on the 50 yard line. Wesleyan off side. Five yard penalty. Ball now on Wesleyan's 45 yard line. Hughes thru tackle made 3 yards. Hunt ploughed thru center for 7 yards. First down,. Garner made one around end. Hunt made another first down. Ball on 30 yard line. Hughes then tossed a pass intended for Taylor, but was intercepted by a Wesleyan back, who ran the ball back to the 30 where he was downed by Hughes. Wesleyan punted to the Maryville 30. Hunt hit line for no gain. Hunt took ball again for four yards thru guard. Garner punted out to 50 yard line. Hollingsworth picked up 7 thru the center of the line. Hollingsworth tried again, no gain, tackle by Etheredge. Hollingsworth then made a first down on Maryville's 38. Baker thru line for one yard. Wesleyan tried a pass, incomplete, Hollingsworth thru tackle for 1 yard. Hollingsworth attempted to punt, blocked by Etheredge, who ran 60 yds. for Maryville touchdown. Score 6-0. Hughes placekicked extra point. Score 7-0.

Hughes kicked off to the Wesleyan 30, ball returned to 40 before being downed. Baker made 6 thru line. Maryville time out. Baker thrown for one yard loss, tackle by Hunt. Wilburn intercepted a Wesleyan pass on the Maryville 40. Garner made 3 thru tackle. Hunt picked up 3 more over the guard. Garner then faked a kick and ran 8 yards for a first down on Wesleyan's 45 yard line. Burris around end for no gain. Hunt picked up 5 thru tackle. End of first quarter.

Garner punted to Wesleyan's ten yd. line where ball went out of bounds. On a fake punt Hollingsworth made 5 yds. around end. Knox gained 2 thru center. Wesleyan punted to Honaker, who took the ball from 50 to Wesleyan's 30 before being downed. Hunt made 3 yards over guard. Hunt hit the guard for 4 more yards. Hunt again over guard, no gain. Hughes fumbled, Wesleyan recovered on their 25 yard line. Wesleyan then made it a first down on the 35. Maryville penalized 15 yards for unnecessary roughness. Ball on mid-field. Wesleyan picked up 8 thru tackle. Hollingsworth tried over tackle, no gain. Baker made first down thru center of line. Hollingsworth made 2 around left end. Baker then drove thru the right guard for a touchdown. Score Maryville 7—Wesleyan 6. Knox converted extra point with placekick, score Maryville7—Wesleyan 7.

Wesleyan kicked off to Morton, who lateraled to Hughes. Ball downed on the 40 yard line. Morton made 3 over tackle. Morton sliced thru guard for 10 yards and a first down on Wesleyan's 43. Morton made 3 more on line smash. Honaker made 1 around end. Garner faked a punt and made a first down on the 32. Hughes thru center for one yard. Hughes then fumbled and Wesleyan recovered. Kirksey was stopped for no gain. Baker faked a kick and made 5. Wesleyan made first down on 35 yard line. Three plays at the line, resulting in no gain. Wesleyan punted to Honaker. Half ended.

Maryville kicked off to Kirksey on his 20 yardline. Hollingsworth made 2 thru line. Baker made 2 around left

INTRAMURAL SPORTS

The freshmen may have been a little underestimated, for it seems as though they almost upset the seniors in a YM intramural touch football game Tuesday afternoon. The game opened the fall touch football season, and the two teams battled to a scoreless deadlock.

In the latter part of the second half, York, freshman end, took a long pass on a sleeper play and raced across the goal line, but all in vain. The headlinesman ruled that York was not in the game at that time, all of this resulting from the confusion of having spectators on the edge of the playing field, and the touchdown did not count. The seniors threatened to score a few minutes later, but the freshmen kept them out of the end zone, and the game ended 0-0.

Subs: Frosh: Scapellati, Fisher, McDaniel, Chandler Wilson.

The Juniors showed championship material this evening when they romped past the sophomores for four touchdowns. Morrow tossed two long high ones into the waiting arms of Etheredge and two more fell into the arms of "Junior" Herrich. Etheredge snagged pass after pass, even when surrounded by soph defense. Woodring stood out in the junior line, especially with his rushing that caught the sophs for several losses.

Maryville Leads Conference With 2 Wins, No Losses

The Maryville College Highlanders are leading the Smoky Mountain Conference with a perfect record, two wins in two attempts. The Scotties won from Tusculum at home and defeated Milligan at Milligan. This does not include this week's games. Appalachian Teachers and East Tennessee Teachers are tied for second place with one win each. App. State Mountaineers shook Carson-Newman's tail feathers, 26 to 0, last Saturday. Maryville is the only team that has played more than one conference foe. King will meet its first conference foe Saturday in Johnson City when they play E. T. Teachers. Tusculum plays Carson-Newman in Jefferson City Saturday evening. This game should give some hint concerning the comparative strength of a part of the conference.

Standings up to Oct. 14:

	GP	W	L
Maryville	2	2	0
E. T. Teachers	1	1	0
App. Teachers	1	1	0
Tusculum	1	0	1
Milligan	1	0	1
C-Newman	1	0	1
Cumb. University	1	0	1

TUG-O-WAR

A tug-of-war between the freshmen and sophomore men was the feature of the pep-meeting on last Thursday night. The contest was to decide which were mice and which were men, and the freshmen tugged rather too easily to victory, desipte some unorthodox help on the sophomore end. The winners and losers were cheered, and several cheers were practiced for the game, with particular influence on the new pep song. Glenn Young read Doug Steakley's weekly pep-talk through the public address system, and the meeting closed with the singing of the Alma Mater.

Highlanders Face Union Next Week

The Maryville College Highlanders go to Barbourville, Ky., next Saturday to play Union college. Maryville should win easily over the smaller team. Union has only eighteen on the squad with two regulars on the ailing list, an end and a stellar center. Union sports, however, one of the country's finest small college backs in Ralph "Fish" Stafura. Stafura was all-conference last year, and honorable mention on the little All-American. The Scotties will have some trouble with his 190 pounds at fullback. The game is out of the Smoky Conference, and the first one with Union for several years.

Morrow Takes Finals In Tennis Tournament

The YMCA intramural tennis tournament was concluded this week, when Frank Morrow breezed through to take the singles crown and the doubles with Ken Van Cise. He defeated Van Cise 6-2, 6-4, 6-4, in the singles finals, and partnered with him to win the doubles from Akana and Stevenson, 1-6, 6-1, 6-4, 7-5, 6-2.

The singles match was hard fought under a hot sun, and Morrow who was seeded to win, easily overpowered his smaller opponent. Van Cise gave ground grudgingly, however, winning eight of his ten services in the last two sets. The doubles match was the real climax of the tournament; a gruelling five set match which looked pretty even for a while. Morrow and Van Cise squelched the teamwork of the lower seeded pair finally in a very decisive set.

Morrow has won in the doubles for three years straight, teamed with Gillingham until this year. His victory in the singles, however, is his first in the Y tournament.

The YWCA will hold its next meeting in the Fine Arts studio, tomorrow at 1:15. Miss Ruth Thompson will speak on "Music In Our Everyday Life," and will supplement her talk with musical selections.

Committee Announces Swim In College Pool

At eight o'clock this evening there will be mixed swimming in the college pool and Chinese checkers in the lobby of Pearsons hall, announced Erwin Ritzman, chairman of the social committee this morning.

Students will be allowed to attend the football game on Wilson field between Maryville high school and Everett high. There will be a small admission charge to the game.

Jung Speaks To Alpha

A program of songs and talks picturing life in other countries will be the feature of entertainment at the Alpha Sigma Literary society meeting this evening. Ingeborg Jung of Germany, Ernest Casseres of Costa Rico, Julio Flores and Parker Santiago of Puerto Rico will head the list of entertainers.

Practically "nekkid" he was. Tearing down the hall with another freshmaniac behind, waving a broom at him. "Say, son," a senior says, "aren't you afraid of splinters?" "Sure, that's why I'm runnin'. Tryin' to save my head."

Lloyd Will Speak At Chapel Service

Dr. Lloyd will speak at the Wednesday morning chapel service. His talk will be on "Prerequisites and Perils of Popularity." Dr. Lloyd plans to speak once a month in these mid-week services, since Dr. Stevenson feels that he cannot take charge of them this year. Visiting speakers will conduct the other services.

Dr. Lloyd has had a number of speaking engagements this week. On Monday he spoke at the Ossoli Circle in Knoxville on "The College Student." On Tuesday night he spoke at the Park City men's banquet, at the Park City church. Wednesday night he talked to the Campfire Council at the First Baptist church of Knoxville, and today he spoke at the inauguration service of the new president of Mars Hill College on "The Essential Function of the Smaller Christian College in the Light of Current Educational Trends."

Knoxville Concert Attracts Students

Eighty-five students and members of the faculty will hear Helen Jepson and Nino Martini in joint recital tonight in the first number of the University of Tennessee Concert series, according to Mr. Ralph R. Colbert who has been in charge of the ticket sales here on the campus. Busses for those who live on the hill will leave at 7 p.m.

This concert, the first in the University's present series, will be held in the auditorium. Miss Jepson has included on her program for tonight two numbers which she sang at her recital here at Maryville three years ago.

Projects Considered By Volunteers Group

The regular meeting of Student volunteers tomorrow evening will be devoted to a discussion of possible missionary projects for the coming year. Special emphasis will be placed on Columbia, South America, and Costa Rica as prospective topics. Robert Lucero will play a cello solo on the musical portion of the program.

The Student volunteer picnic has been postponed until next Saturday, October 22.

sul-general Edwin S. Cunningham on Sept. 23. The program committee announced today that Ingeborg Jung, exchange student at the college, has been secured for the third program this fall.

At a Peace Forum executive meeting last week, plans were discussed for securing a faculty advisor and for the proposed affiliation of the group with the Carnegie Foundation for International Peace. Marvin Minear, representative of the YMCA, extended an invitation for the Forum to conduct two meetings of that organization and the offer was accepted.

Brahms Featured At Club Friday

The regular meeting of the Disc club will be held in the Fine Arts studio next Friday afternoon at 4:30. The program will consist of the Stokowsky recording of Brahms' Symphony number four in E minor. Robert Brandriff will comment.

The Fourth is one of the truly great works in the symphonic literature. Composed near the end of Brahms' career, it represents the mature and summary statement of a deeply thoughtful intellect and in this respect is somewhat analogous to Beethoven's Ninth. Although composed at the height of the romantic movement, it represents a definite reversion to classical forms.

Maryville Debate Fraternity Ranks Tenth In Nation

Debate Question Discussed At Second Meeting Of Class

Maryville's chapter of Pi Kappa Delta, national honorary forensic fraternity was ranked tenth in the nation for 1936-36-38 according to the report published in the October issue of Forensic. Teams were ranked according to the number of points made at national Pi Kappa Delta speech tournaments.

Maryville made a total of 64 points in the various fields of speech at the conventions. McAlester college at St. Paul, Minn., also made a total of 64 points, and so shared the honor with Maryville of tenth place in the United States.

Augusta college of Sioux Falls, S. D., was ranked first in the nation with 98 points. Hastings college was second with 96 points; Nebraska Wesleyan was third with 90 points; and in order came Baylor university, Redlands, Sioux Falls, Aberdeen Teachers, Gustavus Adolphus, William Jewell, and Maryville.

There were 148 schools that took part in the last national convention at Topeka, Kansas, which is the largest number in its history.

Members of the varsity debate class met last Tuesday evening in Thaw hall, and various phases of the debate subject were discussed by members of last year's squad. The debate subject as selected by Pi Kappa Delta is "Resolved: That the United States should cease to use public funds (including credits) for the purpose of stimulating business."

Otto Pflanze gave the "History in the United States of the Policy of Spending Money"; Louise Proffitt talked on the "Current Trends in the United States in Spending Public Money"; Arnold Kramer, "Policy of Spending Public Money from Viewpoint of Private Business"; Harriet Miller, "Policy of Spending Public Money from Viewpoint of Government"; Sara Lee Hellums, "Effect of Government Spending on Unemployment;" and Clifford Proctor finished the discussion with "Public Expenditure—the Santa Claus of the United States."

Arda Walker acted as chairman, and Miss Grace Proffitt, who is to assist Mr. Queener with debate coaching this year, criticized the speeches.

Student Vols Picnic Features Dr. Hunter As Speaker Tonight

"Conquering New Worlds" is the theme of the picnic to be given by the Student volunteers from 3 to 9 p.m. this afternoon at the college picnic grounds. Dr. Edwin R. Hunter will speak on the subject, "New Worlds to Conquer." "Passports" were obtained from Ed Thomas, John Thompson, Nell Yeck and Ruth Finne. The group left from in front of Pearsons hall at 3:00.

Projects were presented and voted upon at the Student volunteer meeting last Sunday night. The project selected for the coming year was presented by Miss Betty Seel, and will consist of helping to finance the education of Alfonso Lloreda, a young ministerial student of Bagota, Columbia. The project was suggested by Miss Seel's parents, missionaries in Columbia. A cello selection was given by Bob Lucero. Joy and Lily Pinneo will present a program on "India's Needs" next meeting, to be held at 8 o'clock Sunday evening in the YW rooms, at which time formal acceptance of the group's project will be made. Ruth Woods will render a vocal selection.

Chilhowean Managers Close Senior Section

The senior section of the Chilhowean closes today. All senior pictures as well as a list of the activities each senior is participating in must be turned in by this time.

The junior section of the yearbook will open Monday. Next week the publisher, and a representative of the engraving company will come to Maryville to consider preliminary plans for the books.

Snapshots of the members of each class should be turned in to the respective class presidents as soon as possible.

Come Join Cut Ups In Gymnasium Party

Are you feling mischievous? Do you feel full of capers? If you do you belong at the Cut Up social being held at 8 o'clock tonight in the Alumni gym. The social committee extends a cordial invitation for you to come and cut up with several hundred others in the sam emood.

If you have a date you may cut up, and if you haven't you'll be safer. But either way there will be cut up refreshments and a prize for the best cutter-upper of all.

And please wear soft-soled shoes so the gym floor won't be cut up, too.

Carson Of China Speaks In Chapel

Missionary of Pres. Church Visits U. S. Colleges

Dr. Arthur L. Carson, director of the Rural Institute at Cheeloo university, Tsinan, China, will speak in chapel next Wednesday. Dr. Carson, who has been in China since 1921 under appointment as a missionary of the Presbyterian church, is now spending some months visiting colleges and universities throughout the United States. He will be on the campus Tuesday evening and during Wednesday, and will be available for interviews with any students who would like to talk to him about missionary service, Christian work, or matters with which he is in touch in the Orient and in Europe.

A graduate of Pennsylvania State college, with a doctor's degree from Cornell, Dr. Carson has always been interested in agriculture and rural welfare. He has occupied a leading place not only in teaching, but he has been instrumental also in organizing work in public health, co-operative societies, agricultural extension, home making, and religious education. Before leaving China in the early summer, Dr. Carson lived for several months in territory occupied by the Japanese. During this period he was a member of a hurriedly organized police force of Americans, British, Germans and Russians, who protected the port city of Tsingtao from looters between the time that the Chinese officials had withdrawn and the Japanese soldiers had entered.

Returning to America by way of Europe, Dr. Carson spent several weeks in Denmark where he lectured at the International People's college and studied the development of agriculture and rural life in that country.

Juniors Make Plans For Hallowe'en Party

Plaid skirts, plaid neck ties, plaid jackets, anything plaid, will be worn at the junior Highland Fling to be held at the Maryville high school gymnasium on Halloween. The program will consist of games and entertainment which are to be arranged by the committee composed of Harriet Miller, chairman, Louise Proffitt, Helen Bewley, Howard Lamon, and Bruce Walters. The party will be for the members of the junior class only.

The sophomore and freshmen classes have, as yet, not made any plans for their Halloween parties. The senior class, however, is invited to any of the other class parties.

Matron Initiates Social Programs In Baldwin Hall

Plan For Tea, Open House, Christmas Program First Semester

In order to afford a pleasant year for the women in Baldwin hall, Miss Mary Hallock, head matron, appointed a committee of nine to arrange a social program for the dormitory this year. Members of the committee are Bernice Smith, chairman, Mary Alice Minear, Lily Pinneo, Ruth Andrews, Jean White, Mary Darden, Margaret Lodwick, Sue Stevenson, and Thelma Ritzman. The purpose of this committee is to increase the feeling of friendship among the women in Baldwin and to afford a means of discussing any problems that may arise during the year.

The program planned thus far consists of a tea, an open house, and a Christmas program. The first of these, the tea, was held last night in the dormitory parlor from eight until ten o'clock. A background of music was supplied throughout the evening by musicians living in the dormitory. Vocal selections were given by Ruth Sutherlin, Hettabell Whitehill, and Doris Smith. Sarah Hussey played a violin solo and Anne Abel, Margaret Halsey, Mary Helen Caldwell, Janice Graybeal, Bernice Smith, and Louise Wells played piano solos. The arrangements and the decorations for the tea were in charge of the house committee.

The date for open house is set tentatively for November 19 and the Christmas program for December 14. The plans for these events have not been formulated.

It is hoped that through these programs Baldwin hall will become more than just a building to the women and mean a place of unity, friendship, and understanding.

Freshmen Photos Returned Tuesday

323 New Students Receive Photos Tuesday

Copies of identification pictures of all freshmen and transfer students were returned on Tuesday morning after chapel. These pictures were taken during the first three days of the school year, when 288 freshmen and 35 new upper-classmen reported to the temporary studio in Voorhees chapel. Charles Sullivan, a junior at Maryville and an amateur photographer who has done some work for the Knoxville News-Sentinel, took the pictures.

The making and distributing of the pictures is under the direct supervision of the personnel office. A vicam camera which uses film that makes 500 individual pictures to one roll is employed, and the pictures are sent to the manufacturer of the camera to be developed. Eight pictures are made; one of these goes to the student himself, and one goes to each of the following: personnel office, the president's office, the treasurer's office, the student-help office, the director of curriculum, and the directors of men's and women's residence.

Forum Discusses World Diplomacy At Last Meeting

Dr. C. A. Campbell Chosen Sponsor of Group By Council

Exposure of the motives behind the foreign policies of Russia, Germany, and America was the theme of one of the most interesting programs ever presented by the Peace Forum last evening in Thaw hall. Actual statements by Roosevelt, Hitler, and Oumanasky, Russian diplomat, were read by Tommy Woolf, Bob Lamont, and Harriet Miller. The "exposing" was done by Louise Proffitt, Clifford Proctor, George Webster.

Miss Proffitt declared that the purpose behind Russia's peace policy is the need for time to build up a regime in Russia that will be able to inaugurate the World Revolution. She showed how the Comintern is in reality under the control of the Russian government and that it even now is preparing the way for the revolution. "We can see behind the peace program of Russia the red flag of communism still waving," she stated.

Proctor in showing the motives behind the statements Hitler made at Nuremburg recently, declared that Germany's wish for world power differs little in that of other powers except in its intensity. He declared, "The drang nach osten of the old German empire is still in a process of fulfillment. Germany is building a huge economic empire across the continent including the Balkan states and extending on to Asia Minor."

The statement of Roosevelt at Chicago that the 90 percent of the world powers who are "pure in heart" must quarantine the other 10 percent that are impure was the theme of George Webster's address. He showed how American imperialism has made itself felt in the past just as much as the ambitions of other powers today. "The United States has championed the open door in areas where she could not make her imperialism felt, but has repeatedly denied the open door to other powers in areas of her own domination," he stated. He went on to show how America has engaged in no less than seventy interventions in the Caribbean in the last fifty years."

In a short business session before the program began it was announced that Dr. Claude A. Campbell has accepted the invitation of the forum executive council to become the sponsor of the organization, and that affiliation with the Carnegie Foundation for International Peace will shortly be accomplished.

Last week the program committee announced that Ingeborg Jung, German exchange student at Maryville, would speak at the next meeting of the forum.

Class Visits School At Norris Thursday

Approximately thirty members of Miss Mary Keller's classes in methods of teaching visited the model school at Norris, Tenn., last Thursday. The group left the campus in the morning and spent the day observing the methods in practice at the experimental school where students learn by actual practice how to meet and handle situations of everyday life. The party also visited neighboring Norris dam before returning to Maryville the same afternoon.

Salzburg Choir Is Typical German Family

By ROBERT BRANDRIFF

The Salzburg Trapp choir, appearing here on November 1 as the opening concert of the 1938-39 Artist series, represents the happy cooperation of a large and talented family. Composed of the wife and seven children of a hero of the Central powers' submarine fleet in the World War, Count George von Trapp, the choir enjoys a sane and normal home life characteristic of the German family at its best.

Until five years ago when they began seriously to develop themselves as professional musicians, the Trapp family led an idyllic existence on their estate three miles from Salzburg. Located directly at the foot of the Gaisberg mountain in a big private park, their home became a year 'round center for every sport. The girls do all their own housework, but once that is finished they spend nearly all their waking hours out of doors. In the winter there is usually three feet of snow and the skiing is famous in the section. In the summer they go south to the Adriatic where they camp for weeks at a time in tents on a small island. Here they have a yacht in which they make long cruises, swim and fish. The entire family are "fold-boat" enthusiasts, and they frequently take long camping and canoe trips down the Danube. At Salzburg they play ball together and dance the folk dances native to the region. Often, too, in the summer months they take long hiking trips through the Austrian Alps searching for folksongs and mountain calls new to their repertoire, in this way they gathered from herdsmen and dairymaids many songs unknown even to the generality of Austrians.

During the long winter evenings at Aigen-bei-Salzburg, the von Trapps engage in varied pursuits. Each one has some special hobby to occupy the time that is left over from their formal studies. The choir practices for three hours each day, but in the evenings they gather around the fireplace to give book reviews and coach each other in English and French. The stepmother, Maria Auguste, is the very soul of both the choir and the family. She is

Homecoming, Founder's Day To Be Observed Next Week

All Events Listed On Office Calendar

Programs of public nature open to the student body in general are to be entered on the College Calendar in Dr. Hunter's office. Students and teachers responsible for such events are advised to schedule them as far in advance as possible.

Social events, parties, picnics, and the like are to be arranged for through Mrs. Snyder's office. Those responsible for the event are to secure an activities permit card from Mrs. Snyder, arrange for chaperons under her suggestion, and return the card to her, properly signed, five full days before the date set for the event.

Faculty Members Will Give Recital

All Members To Participate In Annual Program

On Saturday evening, October 29, the faculty of the Fine Arts department will give its third annual recital in Voorhees chapel. This program presents the teachers of music and dramatics in their only personal appearance of the year.

A newcomer to the program will be Miss Ruth Thompson. Miss Thompson is this year instructor in music and is a talented soprano and pianist. She will both sing and play in the recital. A violin solo by Miss Dorothy Horne, piano selections by Miss Katherine Davies, head of the department, and vocal solos by Mr. Ralph Colbert make up the musical part of the program.

Mrs. Annarine Atkins Hamilton, who joined the faculty last year, will represent the dramatic department. She will give two original readings. Mrs. Hamilton is a graduate of Maryville college.

YMCA Worship Service To Be Led By Rhody; Cabinet Has Meeting

Fred L. Rhody will lead the devotional thought at the Y Sunday afternoon YMCA worship service on the topic "One Thing I Do." The meeting, beginning at 5:00 in the Bartlett hall auditorium, will be shorter than the usual programs.

Also included on the program will be a baritone solo by Edwin Goddard, "Come Ye Blessed"; a violin solo by Carl Walton, "In a Monastery Garden" and a poem, read by George Hunt.

At the regular monthly meeting of the YMCA cabinet in Bartlett hall last Sunday approximately 165 members were voted into the Y membership for the coming year. The membership cards are now being distributed. According to an announcement made by Weldon Baird, president of the association, male students and faculty members may make application for membership at any time by obtaining from a cabinet member the card to be filled out.

French Club's Picnic Wednesday Afternoon Proves Huge Success

The annual French club picnic was held last Wednesday at Dr. W. P. Stevenson's picnic grounds in the college woods. Singing games were directed by Ed Goddard, and other types of recreation were enjoyed until supper was ready. After eating by firelight, initiation of new members was completed by the rendition of songs and stories, and by performance of forfeits.

In addition to twenty-five members, old and new, Professor and Mrs. R. M. Hovel, Miss Catherine Wilkinson, and Miss Dorothy Hunter were present. The program was planned by Anne Elizabeth Biggs and Margaret Peters, while the social committee, composed of Margaret Hamrick, Ruth Moore, and Margaret Hammond had charge of the refreshments.

Alumni Assn. Will Arrange Homecoming Program On Friday

PLAN FOR BARBECUE

To Honor Former Registrar In Chapel Program Founder's Day

The sixth annual Homecoming and Founder's day programs of Maryville college will be held on the campus Friday and Saturday, October 28 and 29, according to an announcement made public through the president's office.

In 1933 the first of these programs was held, and since that time the same general plan of the Founder's day program following Homecoming has been used. As in other years, the Maryville college Alumni Association, of which Orton L. Dugger, '12, is president, and Geneva Hutchinson, acting executive secretary, has charge of the Homecoming progaram on Friday.

The details of the program include the registering of the alumni in the gymnaisum at 5:00; a barbecue on the baseball field for all alumni and former students, at 5:30, followed by a program in the Alumni gymnasium; and the Homecoming football game with Lenoir-Rhyne college, of Hickory, N. C., at 7:30, on Wilson field.

At the Founder's day service in the college chapel Saturday morning the life and work of Professor Gideon S. W. Crawford will be commemorated. Professor Crawford was a member of the Maryville faculty from 1874 to 1891. During that time he was professor of mathematics for seventeen years and registrar for three years.

Addresses concerning Prof. Crawford will be given by his son, Judge John C. Crawford, of Maryville; by one of his students, Rev. Charles C. McGinley, D. D., of Independence, Mo., and President Ralph W. Lloyd. Dr. McGinley is a graduate of Maryville in the class of 1891. Dr. William P. Stevenson, the choir, and the student body will also participate in the program.

Wintermute, Fisher Complete Designs For Tovarich Sets

Work on the play, "Tovarich," to be presented by the college players on November 18, is progressing nicely, according to a statement released by Mrs. Nita E. West, associate professor of dramatic art, today. "I am especially pleased with the casting of the play," said Mrs. West. Rehearsals for the second act will start next week.

Sets for the play were designed early this week by John Wintermute and John Fisher. Stage work started last Thursday.

Because of its very recent release for other than professional performance, "Tovarich" will probably be seen here for its first time in amateur production.

Curtmarie Brown, business manager for the play, announced today that Hugh Smith will be in charge of publicity and the selling of tickets off of the campus, Stone Norton, Marie Jensen, and Arlene Phelps, will do poster work for advertising.

Colbert Announces Messiah Rehearsal

The first practice for this year's rendition of Handel's Messiah will be held Monday, October 30, announced director Ralph R. Colbert today.

The chorus will be built around the glee clubs and choir, but anyone interested in taking part is asked to be present at the first rehearsal. Both students and people from town are invited to participate in this year's Messiah.

MINISTERS TO HEAR TARWATER

The Ministerial association will have as its guests speaker Monday evening the Rev. O. R. Tarwater, of the Northern Methodist church in Maryville.

The complete program for the evening will be found posted on the bulletin board in Carnegie hall.

"There Will Be A Chilhowean"

"Yes, there will be a Chilhowean." Today there is no necessity for such a declaration to the students, since there is no accompanying dubious inquiry. A year ago, however, it was a declaration which no one was ready to make quite definitely. During the interim the 1938 Chilhowean became a successful reality, proving, financially at least, that the new, untried plan was practicable. The staff of that annual had a true advantage in being able to start with very known limitations and a full realization of the dangers to be encountered. The natural tendency, we believe, would have been for the staff of this year's annual, not possessing a background of financial fiasco, to let down and take its ease. Instead it is gratifying to note the well-organized planning and concerted action which have characterized the course of the 1939 Chilhowean thus far.

Working well within their financial bounds the management is planning for an improved annual, the ambition of every good staff. It will include, as contrasted with last year, color themes throughout, a revised feature section which will increase the number and beauty of the divisional pages, and an original innovation which will multiply the appeal of the advertising.

During the past two weeks, the Business Manager has successfully carried out a subscription campaign and the senior class section has been completed. The two upper classes and a large percentage of the campus organizations have contracted for page space while arrangements have been made for the final conference with the printer and the engraver on the tentative layout of the book.

With such prompt and sound preparation for the publication, we feel that the staff is doing its part and more toward a fine book. All that remains necessary, and this you will recognize as no new idea, is that the student body, recognizing the advantage of a distinctive yearbook, as they intelligently must, will translate this recognition into terms of cooperative action.

Reason To Be Interested

Although forensics is an extra-curricular activity which rarely attracts very much attention outside of the group actually taking part, Maryville students and faculty have real reason to be genuinely interested in the remarkable achievements of our debaters and public speakers.

Using the ratings of the Pi Kappa Delta convention contests of 1934-36-38 as a standard of comparison, Maryville ranks tenth in a field of 148 colleges from all parts of the United States.

Consistently, Prof. Verton M. Queener and his varsity debate class have produced debate teams and public speakers of the finest sort. As they begin work again, they have the congratulations of all of us for the past, and our best wishes for success in this year's competition.

For the dollar monthly fee,
We'll call time-out for serving tea.
We'll never let the referee decide a play.
For in our union brotherhood,
Of course you know it's understood
We're always working for the good——of our own way.

• • •

To make the player's life more bright,
We're giving him what's his by right:
He may stay out all night if he desire.
Candy, cake and lemon pie,
(We pay expenses if he die,
But there's no earthly reason why he should expire).

Whenever anything goes wrong,
(As when the other team's too strong),
We won't allow that very long; we'll call a strike!
We'll vote unanimous to quit,
And bravely on the goal post sit,
Until the union settles it the way we like.

• • • •

In the dark out-moded ages
Football players got low wages,
Often damaged fuselages was their only pay.
The brotherhood has changed the setting!
Now all football men are getting
Union wages, each one netting plenty hay.

• • • •

The union's fixed the salary rate
To different jobs commesurate,
So punters will appropriate the biggest share;
And next, the backs, who run berserk,
And then the line, (who do the work!)——
Oh boy! The coaches lose their cut: there's none to spare.

Why do birds fly south in the fall?

• • • •

They were discussing in class the furious pace of American life when a slow, easy-going Alabaman gave her opinion. "You know," she drawled, "Ah don't think Americans are so fast." Sure, in Alabama, they never heard of the era of speed. Considering the trouble it's causing in Knoxville, maybe it's just as well.

Table talk: Blotto—I wonder how old this coffee is? Ditto—I don't know about the water but the grounds were donated by the class of '37.

• • • •

Some of the smarties in the back row say that since they must attend chapel, the music shouldn't stop before they get a chance to march those two steps to the door. Taxation without regimentation is tyranny.

• • • •

One Yankee bets they fly south to feel the thrill of returning north in the spring.

• • • •

The frosh touch football fans waited all week for this afternoon to see their team vanquish the much-vaunted Juniors. What an upset!

An insignificant one thinks that new, macadamized road between Bartlett and Thaw would have come in handy past Memorial and Carnegie. What's the matter with the one there now, freshmen? Anyway, "Thou shalt not covet——"

• • • •

A southerner suggests that it would be just as well for the South if a lot of those birds stayed north. Maybe he's right.

• • • •

Anyway, this will make a nice flame:

TO OUR ROOTS

Though his hair was long and flowing,
And he had no way of knowing
Where his chin began his whiskers were so thick,
Yet each prehistoric pappy
Of the genus homo sappy
Was as happy as a slicker with a hick.
All his communistic leanings
Were confined to fistic beanings
Of his better half and other bushy brutes.
He was never driven frantic
By each Hitler Aryantic
Nor the military tactics of the Teuts.
Not equality of sexes,
But Tyrannosaurus Rexes
Were the only thing that ever worried him;
And the life that he was leadin'
Was almost an earthly Eden—
Yet it's nice to know your further up the limb.

Reporter Finds Interesting Items On Faculty Members' First Earnings

By J. EDWARD THOMAS

College professors, as popularized by modern humorists, are supposed to know little about practical business affairs, but a partial survey of the faculty shows that the theory does not apply to the professors at Maryville college. Many of them began business projects early in their careers. Their interest in their early economic accomplishments was indicated by the rapidity with which most of those questioned gave accounts of the tasks performed to earn their first dollar.

Professor Walker earned his first dollar by thinning corn on a farm near his home for twenty-five cents a day, at a time when the maximum farm wage for men was fifty cents a day—and that didn't mean a union eight-hour day either.

Dr. David H. Briggs had to work 3 days in a western North Carolina hay field for his first dollar. He was only eight years old, but farm work evidently did not discourage him, because he said that he worked on a farm until he finished college. Even now, he says that he has not deserted farm life, since he lives on a farm near Maryville.

Professor Verton M. Queener earned his first money on a Tennessee farm, but he received pay for his work at the end of each month. He earned $30 a month, and he continued working on a farm until he came to prep school at Maryville college.

Dr. Claude A. Campbell did not remember how he earned his first dollar, but he well remembered how he earned one dollar for which his employer received more than full value. He agreed to help a neighboring farmer haul 125 bales of hay from the field to the barn for a dollar. In order to keep the hay from being rained on they worked from 5:00 in the afternoon until 3:00 the next morning. Dr. Campbell said that he realized that his price was too low after he began the job, but he fulfilled his contract anyway.

It was by mental rather than physical effort that Dr. M. M. Rogers began earning money. His mother paid him five cents a question for learning the Westminster catechism. Miss Dorothy Hunter received one dollar from her father for each "A" she made in high school. She said that sometimes her income was nine dollars a month.

Dr. Griffitts, head of the chemistry department, began his economic career in the field of biology instead of chemistry. When he was seven years old, he raised a brood of chickens which he sold for three dollars.

Ivan Blake Elected German Club Leader At Meeting Tuesday

The first regular meeting of the German club was held last Tuesday night at 6:45 in the gymnasium, under the direction of Professor Ralph S. Collins and Mr. Ralph Hovel, instructors in German. Thirty-five persons were present. The main portion of the meeting was taken up with business, at which time, the following officers were elected: Ivan Blake, president; Warren Culver, vice president; Inge Jung, secretary; and Edith Gillette, treasurer. This was followed by the singing of German songs and the introduction of several German folk-dances.

The purpose of the club is to give those interested in the German language a glimpse of Germany thru its songs and folk-dances and thru the experience of those who have either visited or lived in that bountry. Regular meetings of the club are held on the first and third Tuesdays of each month. Announcement of the next meeting, which has been postponed because of the Artists series concert, will be made later.

Highland Echo Staff Plans Trip To Plant

The entire business and editorial staffs of the Highland Echo will go through the offices of the Knoxville Journal next Monday evening.

Members of the staff will meet at the college post office at 6:30 and go by car to Knoxville. After the trip through the Journal plant the group will return to the college YWCA rooms for an informal party.

All arrangements for the party were made by Jean White, Mary Orr, and Bill Felknor.

Publications Board Fills Echo Vacancies

Eugene McCurry, sophomore, and Warren Ashby and Pauline Cope, juniors, were chosen members of the Highland Echo staff at a meeting of the publications committee Thursday afternoon.

These three additions to the staff fill the vacancies left by the resignations of Otto Pflanze and Tommy Woolf and bring the number of staff members up to the full quota.

Triangle Club Program Will Feature Freshmen

The Triangle club will meet at 6:40 Tuesday evening in Bainonian hall, it was announced by Phil Evaul, president of the club, today. They will present an all-freshman program, featuring selections by a male trio and a women's quartet.

Further news concerning the coming picnic and straw-ride will also be given at that time. The Triangle club urges all students from New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania to be present.

Boys Made President In Pearsons Election

Virginia Boys, a senior, was elected president of Pearsons hall in an election held earlier in the week. Charlotte Moughton was elected vice president and social chairman, and Harriet Barber was elected secretary-treasurer.

These officers, under the direction of Mrs. Grace Pope Snyder, head of Pearsons hall, are planning to organize more fully the system of house government and social activities begun two years ago.

Arrangements for this week's election were made by Helen Bewley.

College Workers Make Campus Improvements

During the past week there has been a decided improvement in the appearance of the campus, which, is a result of the general cleaning-up of the grounds by the campus workers.

The outstanding improvement of the week is the new driveway to Thaw hall. Approximately twelve hundred square yards have been covered by rock, gravel, and asphalt, and be a part of the projected circle drive.

Work has also been done on the excavation for the 223 ton smokestack at the new power house site.

Students-Faculty Hold First 1938 Meeting

The student-faculty committee held its first meeting of the year in Dr. R. W. Lloyd's office Thursday afternoon. The committee will meet every other Thursday.

The sophomore class will elect its Chilhowean sponsor Wednesday morning after chapel.

SCOTTY SIDE SLANTS

By DOUG STEAKLEY
Sports Editor

INJURIES—

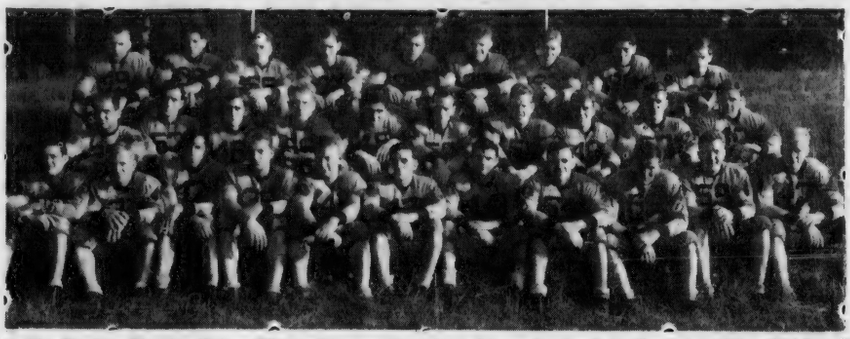
Today, when the Scotties are up in Barbourville, Ky., trying to tie the Union college Bulldogs up in a knot, the squad will probably be without the services of "Cousin" Joe Etheredge. Joe severely injured his ankle Wednesday afternoon while practicing kick-offs. He was unable to practice the remainder of the week, and will take a well-earned rest this afternoon. He expects, however, to be back in shape next week, and will be able to start against Lenoir-Rhyne Friday at the Homecoming game.

CIO—

Looks like this union business has hit the athletic side of life finally. At L.S.U., Bussey, a star backfield man, was released from the football squad for breaking training. Bussey, however, claims that the real reason behind his dismissal was that he tried to organize the football players into a football CIO, for the betterment of the spare time recreation for tired football players. What about organizing a CIO for tired sports writers? Hmm . . . . I wonder???

MUD—NO FUN!

Next Friday night we play Lenoir-Rhyne on Wilson Filed. Let's hope that the playing conditions will be a lot better this year than they were at Hickory, N. C., last fall. The Scotties played Lenoir-Rhyne to a scoreless tie in a sea of mud, and only the breaks of the game kept the Scotties from winning the game. A thirty-five yard run by Junior Odell brought the Highlanders to the Bear's five yard line but a fumble saved the Lenoir-Rhyners from defeat.



PLUG FOR ODELL—

Which reminds us, Junior Odell was in Maryville yesterday. Odell was one of the finest athletes on the hill for a number of years. Junior earned his letter in four major sports last year: football, baseball, basketball, and track. He was named all-Conference end, and was elected as alternate captain of this year's football team. But organized baseball lured Odell away from the football field, and he spent the summer playing in a minor league in Pennsylvania. He thinks Maryville has a fine team this year, and sees no reason why the Scots shouldn't win the conference.

BIG TIME STUFF—

A little about big time football is due about now. It seems as though our neighbor, the University of Tennessee has really put itself into national football spotlights by turning back the surprised Tide of Alabama. Last week's polls of outstanding coaches and football players, rates the Major of Tennessee and George Cafego, their star running back, among the upper-up of football coaches and players. Despite all this cain raised by the Volunteers, we still think Alabama has a fine team, but that Tennessee was just unbeatable last Saturday. Pitt is our choice of the greatest team in the country, and we think that Pitt will go through the season undefeated. Tennessee has a good chance of keeping their slate clean, but with LSU and Vandy, not counting Kentucky, the Vols will have a real job on their hands to get that Rose Bowl bid.

THEY BLASTED WESLEYAN . . . . CAN THEY DO IT TO UNION?

Scots Play Union Bulldogs Today

The Maryville college Highlanders play Union college at Barbourville, Kentucky, this afternoon.

The game promises to be an interesting one despite Union's small squad. The Bulldogs' record to date is not very impressive but shows plenty of offensive power. In the first game of the season, Union lost to East Tennessee Teachers 13-31. Later in the year they beat Georgetown and Rose Polytechnic Institute, losing, however, to the Carson-Newman Eagles. The entire team is built around Ralph (Fish) Stafura, their all-conference full-back. He was mentioned on the little All-American last year and is making even a better record this year. The Scotties will have to give plenty of attention to his 190 pounds at fullback.

The Maryville squad will be handicapped by the loss of Joe Etheredge and George Garner. Both are out indefinitely with injuries. Obie Jenkins may be ready to go in at left guard.

MAC REMOVES CAST

Gene McCurry, 200 pound sophomore lineman for the Scots, who had received a broken ankle earlier in the season, last week had the cast removed from the fracture, and is able to be around with crutches. Gene will be able to walk again in about three weeks, but will be unable to play anymore football this season. He will, however, be back again next year.

Sophs Maul Big Ol' Seniors 7-0, Juniors Vent Wrath On Hapless Frosh 25-0 In Interclass Mayhem

The Sophs won their first game of the season by defeating the Seniors 7 to 0. W. Baird dropped the Seniors great chance behind the goal line in the second quarter. After that the "big boys" didn't seem to get anywhere against the smooth clicking Soph defense.

Peterson, sophomore end, thrilled the side lines with seemingly impossible catches. Many of these desperate, but successful tries, found him sprawling on the ground with the ball held snugly under his arm.

Lineups:

SOPHS		SENIORS
Akana	LE	Orr
McGill	LT	Dysart
Selman	LG	Lowe
Swift	C	Judy
Husley	RG	Martin
Jockinson	RT	Jussely
Peterson	RE	Rhody

Kindred	B	Walker
Steakley	B	Crane
Puncheon	B	Baird

Spurred by Theron Etheredge and Frank Morrow the Juniors outpassed and out-ran the Freshmen. Burns and Birmingham stood out among the Frosh backs; Burns passing and Birmingham leading interference and blocking beautifully. Scapellati and York played good ball on the line for the Frosh; Woodring for the Juniors.

The Juniors scored on the first play on the old sleeper-pass, Morrow to Etheredge. The pass and run were good for 50 yards. The quarter ended with the score Juniors 6 and Freshman 0. In the third quarter little "T". Etheredge ran two punts back for touchdowns, one for forty yards, the other for fifty-five. Etheredge followed fine interference on both runs and showed some flashy broken field running. Morrow passed to Herrich to convert the extra point after the third touchdown making the score Juniors 19—Frosh 0. In the last few minutes of the game Morrow stepped off fifty yards around end for the final tally.

Score by quarters:

Frosh	0	0	0	0	0

Lineups:

Subs: Frosh—Kent, and Hodges. Juniors—Proctor.

Alpha Sig, Greeks Tie Another One

The exciting game between Alpha Sigma and Athenian literary socities ended in a 6 to 6 tie. "T." Etheredge opened a long series of spectacular passes with a catch on mid-field and a sprint to the ten yard line. McCaskie caught the scoring throw between the goal posts giving Alpha Sigma a six point lead.

W. Baird placed the ball in scoring position on a long pass and Stevenson passed to Rhody for six points, for the Athenians pass from Stevenson to Bard was incomplete making the score 6 to 6 in the third quarter.

In the fourth quarter Athenian perched on the five but the scoring threat was broken by Morrow who intercepted an Athenian pass, and raced twenty yards down the field. Alpha Sigma completed one pass for three yards and lost the ball on the next play when Stevenson intercepted the ball and raced to the Sigma's twenty-five yard line. The final whistle caught the Athenian on Alpha Sigma's twenty yard stripe.

Starting lineups:

ATHENIAN		ALPHA SIG
Rhody	LE	an Blarcum
Luloolian	LT	Hulse

Subs—Alpha Sigma—Meares, Akana.

Cross-Country Squad Schedules Meets With U.T. And Georgia Tech

The cross-country team, which has been practicing the past month, received invitations to engage in dual cross-country meets with the University of Tennessee, and Georgia Tech. The Maryville squad will hold a try-out run Tuesday afternoon to determine who will go to Atlanta next Saturday for the meet with Georgia Tech.

Five men will probably make the trip to Atlanta and six men will probably be used in the meets with the Volunteers of Tennessee. The date of the U-T meet has not been definitely announced but will be run sometime around the third of November. There will be two meets with Tennessee, one here and one at Knoxville. The Scotty squad will be built around Weldon Baird, Gene Orr, and Everett Gray, all letterment last year in track. The remaining men will be chosen from Vernon Lloyd, Arthur Peterson, Alfred Davies, Don Calhoun, Bob Martin, Charles Eble, Bill Mooney, and Dug Steakley.

"Y" Men Express Opinions About War After Peace Forum Members Debate

Men of the Y expressed their "Opinions about War" Sunday after listening to a four-cornered debate sponsored by the Peace forum. Before casting their ballots these "veterans of future wars" heard war discussed from every angle; they heard Sherman's opinion, the viewpoint of the protectionist, and the arguments of both, isolationists and war mongers.

Marvin Minear argued that war is justifiable as the chief cause of human progress. "War eliminates unemployment and promotes prosperity," he stated. "War is good from a sociological standpoint, for it relieves overpopulation and unifies the people." He went on to praise war from a psychological standpoint, because "it promotes bravery and courage in those whom it effects." Minear, however, lost his case when the audience voted forty-nine to two that war is unjustifiable as a means of progress.

"War is justifiable when waged to protect the property of private citizens on foreign soil" was the thesis of Warren Ashby. "The United States has a $12,650,000 investment abroad and the only possible way to protect it is to be willing to go to WAR," he said. "Moreover if we do not protect our investors abroad during war America will lose great prestige. Herbert Hoover has made the statement that America must protect these huge investments." But neither Mr. Ashby nor Mr. Hoover could persuade the men of the Y and the idea went down to a thirty-nine to four defeat.

Third speaker of the program was Alfred Davies with his plea that "it is justifiable when one nation invades another to prevent a likely invasion of its own soil." He based his argument that the nation must be prepared to defend itself on the fact that wars have been fought for centuries and will continue. "The rise of Fascism," he said, "has, in particular, brought the preparedness doctrine to the fore. China is a good example of an unprepared nation that has suffered huge losses for lack of foresight. In an uncertain world we must have security." Davies had a little more success than his predecessors, and came out with only a 26 to 21 defeat.

Final speaker of the evening was Bruce Robinson with his contention that "One should under no circumstances take part in war." Robinson's speech was based mostly on the theme that war is unchristian." In proving the point he showed how early Christians were forbidden to be soldiers. "The huge sums spent on war machines could better be used for social improvements that will be far more profitable to civilization," he said. Robinson won his case by a 31 to 13 vote.

Members of the audience wrote on their ballots two other conditions under which they thought war would be justified. Two believed themselves willing to go to war in defense of a weak nation, and five declared that they would go to war only if their country were invaded.

The program was arranged by Howard Davis and Ellen Sauer, program secretaries of the Peace Forum.

Fencing Class Is Begun By Clark

Twenty-three girls are enrolled in a fencing class which is being conducted by Vernon Clark, a junior. Clark has had experience in this line of sports and when he was at Maryville two years ago, he held a class in fencing for women.

The group has been meeting for several weeks on Wednesday andl Friday afternoons at 4:00. Instruction will be the important part for two or three months, and then the girls will begin the actual fencing.

Clark says that there are many in the class who show possibilities in fencing. Lynn Tyndall, who was in the class when it was conducted two years ago, is considered the best girl fencer on the Hill.

The class is evenly divided between lower and upper classmen.

Trio At Alpha Sig

Alpha Sigma will feature in its program this evening at 7 o'clock in Alpha Sigma hall a trio composed of Peg Halsey, vocalist, Gene Crain and Bob Paul, accompanists. Also J. Barrymore Ballenger and R. Valentino Findley will present a stirring drama in one act. Football scores will be given by the unknown "Mystery Picker" of Alpha Sigma. The critic of this unusual program will be Howard Dizney.

Confab Club

The Confab club met Friday evening in the college woods, a weiner roast featuring the evening's entertainment. A miscellaneous program, consisting of extemporeaneous displays of wit from each members, was arranged by Vernon Lloyd, program chairman. Anderson Haines, president, presided and alll new officers made contributions to the program.

Vespers

The theme of Dr. Stevenson's Sunday night vesper sermon will be "A Saved Soul, but a Lost Life." Tschaikowsky's "Forever Worthy is the Lamb" will be the choir's offering.

Symphony By Brahms Played At Disc Club

Brahm's Fourth symphony was given as the program for Disc club yesterday afternoon at 4:30 in the Fine Arts studio. Robert Brandriff was commentator.

The Disc club meets bi-weekly and is open to anyone who enjoys music. November 4 is the date of the next meeting.

BAINONIAN FORMAL INITIATION

Bainonian society will hold its formal initiation in Bainonian hall this evening at 7:30. All members are urged to be present and it is requested that the new girls wear white and the old members, green.

New members will be given the opportunity to pay their dues at this meeting.

LAW CLUB HAS PICNIC

Last Saturday afternoon, at 4:15, the members of the Law club left the front of Pearsons hall for the college woods where they enjoyed a picnic supper and baseball game. Chain stories, and songs led by Erwin Ritzman concluded the evening's entertainment.

President Lloyd Conducts Chapel

Wednesday morning in chapel, Dr. Ralph W. Lloyd spoke briefly on the subject "Popularity." Using as reference Proverbs 22:1 and Luke 16:26, he listed the three points popularity involves.

"First," Dr. Lloyd stated, "popularity is worth something." He then referred to Proverbs 22:1, "A good name is rather to be chosen than great riches, and a good reputation rather than silver and gold," as he paraphrased it. "The usual conception of a popular person," he explained, "is one of the 'hale fellow, well-met' type." He then contrasted this type with that referred to in Proverbs. The man or women of good name and good reputation is, in his opinion, much more deserving of popularity.

Dr. Lloyd's second point was that popularity costs something. Here he used several humorous illustrations to show what he did not mean by this statement. "Popularity cannot be purchased in book form," he stated. "Such books as '1000 Witty Sayings,' which are guaranteed to make you the 'life of the party', and other literature of the "How to Become Popular in Three Easy Lessons' class are not printed to make a popular person of you, but to make a wealthy person of the author. Popularity does cost something, but not money." A sincere interest in other people and a loyalty to other people is part of the cost. A pleasing personality is another. The blustery individual, the cynical person, the melancholy boy or girl may be well-known, but that person is not well-liked. A smile however, instead of a frown, has opened the gates of popularity to many.

The third point is that popularity endangers something. Here Dr. Lloyd referred to Luke 16:26, "Woe unto you, when all men shall speak well of you." He stressed the point that if one is popular, or would be popular, he must beware of two things, the lack of respect popularity often causes and the self-interest it often develops. To be popular, one must command respect and he must be of service to others. Without either, popularity is shallow and uncertain.

Dr. Lloyd closed his talk with the admonition to seek popularity, but not at the expense of one's good name.

LOWE IMPROVES

Larry Lowe, who has been confined to his bed for several weeks with a broken leg, is steadily improving. A number of the men of the college have been spending nights with him at the hospital, thus eliminating the service of a night nurse.

Sophomores Lead YW

Under the direction of Sue Stevenson, the sophomores will have charge of the YWCA program Sunday afternoon at 1:15. Carrying out the idea of God and nature, the theme will be "I Heard a Forest Praying." Special music will be provided by Ruth Mack, music director for YW.

THETAS PLAN INITIATION

Theta Epsilon will meet Saturday at 6:45 in the Theta club room. The formal initiation for the new members will be given at this time.

CHOIR IS TYPICAL

like an older sister to the girls who range in age from seventeen to twenty-three. She is a brilliant historian and student of arts and letters, and in these fields she has more than compensated for the lack of advanced formal studies of the girls.

Rupert, the oldest boy, and the basso of the choir, just completed his medical studies and took his final examinations in June, 1938. Werner, the tenor, is an excellent hunter and sailor and an expert on skiis. With Rupert he has taken college work at Innsbruck, but has chosen to study music rather than medicine. Agathe and Hedwig are the two housekeepers of the family. Agathe paints as a hobby, but to Hedwig has fallen the task of taking care of the two younger children. Both girls are skiing enthusiasts. Marie is very good at ornamental wood-carving as well as taking care of the auxiliary engine on the yacht when the family is cruising. Joan enjoys cooking, painting, and embroidery and is the best swimmer of the girls. Martina, the youngest member of the choir, is also the humor department. In addition to making fun for all the family, she does caricatures, keeps goldfish and looks after the gardens around the estate.

Franz Wasner may almost be considered a member of the Trapp family, too, as he has been working with them constantly for four years. This young clergyman is a doctor of philosophy and theology as well as a musician. He studied theory, piano, and organ in Rome and for some time held the post of organist at the Austrian national church there, Saint Maria dell' anima. Several of his compositions, notably a large choral work, have been performed in the famous old Cathedral of Salzburg.

Their informality and unpretentious stage presence, their quaint native costumes and the unparalelled loveliness of their voices have made the Salzburg Trapp choir concerts favorites throughout Europe.

Current Artist Series Opens Tuesday Evening In Chapel With Salzburg Choir

Family of Late German Count Presents Selections Of Native Austrian Composers, Folk Songs, And Instrumental Numbers on Program

The Salzburg Trapp choir, first number of the current Maryville college Artist series, will appear Tuesday evening at 8:15 in Voorhees chapel. This unique musical organization, the wife and seven children of the famous Austrian undersease hero and author, Count George von Trapp, is directed by Dr. Franz Wasner, noted young clergyman, organist and composer.

Their program, chosen from an extensive repertoire of over 500 songs, is widely varied and includes selections from the works of the old masters, representative lieder by native Austrian composers, folksongs and mountain calls, and instrumental numbers by the ensemble on "block flutes." The Trapp choir is the only professional group performing on these archiac instruments today. Forerunners of the modern wood winds, the block flutes were most popular during the 16th century, and these versatile young artists have not only mastered the technique, but have revived the contemporary music composed for them.

The introductory group will consist of chorales and motets by Bach, di Lasso, Purcell, Gibbons, and Greaves, most familiar of which is Bach's "How Beautifully Shines the Morning Star." In the following a-capella group will be heard music of the famous Salzburg masters including a Mozart "Ave Maria," and Schubert's "Linden Tree." Many of the songs of Schubert and Brahms have been especially arranged for this choir by their director, Dr. Wasner, the choral settings having been derived from the original piano accompaniments which, as in the case of Schubert, were an integral part of the song.

The music for the block flutes has been selected from among the many pavanes, canons, chorlaes, marches, and polonaises composed for these popular instruments in the 16th century. The composers are almost entirely unknown in the present day because of the disappearance of the instrument for which they composed from the modern orchestra.

For the concluding section of the program, the young singers will appear in costume to reproduce the folksongs and mountain calls of their homeland, authentically and with all the spirit of native Austrians. These carefree songs and melodies tell of the inborn gaiety

Frosh Elect Moore, Stringham, Wilcox, Hunt New Officers

Dudley Moore, of Lorain, Ohio, was elected president of the freshman class Wednesday morning after chapel. Jean Stringham of St. Louis, Mo., was chosen vice president.

Other officers elected were Martha Wilcox, secretary, and Troy Hunt, treasurer. Samuel Pickens and Linda Robinson were selected to represent the freshman class in the student council.

In high school the new president was manager of the basketball and track teams, a member of the band, and was appointed to several senior committees. He graduated in June, 1937, and since has been employed by the Sears, Roebuck Co. in Lorain as clerk.

In opening the nominations, Robert Martin, president of the student council, stated that nominations would be made from the floor instead of by the nominating committee. "In other years," he said, "politics has played too prominent a part in the choosing of the freshmen officers. To avoid that, the student council thought it best to use this system of nominating your candidates." Charlotte Colby acted as secretary of the meeting.

Juniors Plan Party At High School Gym

Plaid skirts or shirts, and ten cents in change will be the ticket of admission to the Highland Fling, junior class Halloween party to be held in the Maryville high school gymnasium Monday evening at 7:30.

Folk games in charge of Miss Geneva Hutchinson and Ed Goddard will be played against the orange and black background of the decorations. Dick Woodring will lead the singing. Dr. and Mrs. Ralph Collins and Professor and Mrs. Verton M. Queener are the chaperones. All juniors and seniors are invited.

Many Alumni Get Teaching Posts

Raymond Anderson, '23, Is Head of Music At Birmingham

Some of the most interesting new jobs obtained by the alumni of Maryville college are those of Jonnie Sue Lewis, Clara Dale Echols, Mary Kate Anderson, Alice Badgett, and Raymond Anderson.

Jonnie Sue Lewis '38, is teaching in the schools of Puerto Rico, and Mary Kate Anderson '38 and Alice Badgett have opened a private kindergarten in Maryville. Raymond Anderson '23, has been appointed head of the music department of Birmingham Southern college in Birmingham, Alabama.

Clara Dale Echols '38 is working with the Frontier Nursing service in Wendover, Kentucky.

Other alumni who have new jobs are listed in the following release by Miss Geneva Hutchinson, executive secretary of the alumni association.

Elworth Black '38 is teaching in Sweetwater, Tenn.; Charles B. Blair '38 is teaching in Gates, N. C.; Reba Blazer '38 and Evelyn Scott '38 are teaching in Townsend, Tenn.; Lilian Borquist '38 is working in the office of Westminster College, Salt Lake

Sandburg Reads To Association

Dr. Hunter Talks To Group On "Objectives in The Study of Poetry"

Maryville college was well represented by students and members of the faculty at the Carl Sandburg lectures given today in connection with the East Tennessee Education association convention being held this week on the campus of the University of Tennessee. Mr. Sandburg gave two lectures, the first at ten o'clock this morning, when he spoke before a general session of the convention in the Alumni Memorial auditorium on the subject "A Morning with Carl Sandburg." The second lecture was at 2:30 this afternoon, when he spoke before the English section of the ETEA on the topic, "Hyacinth Biscuits, or What is Art and When?"

Carl Sandburg is one of the foremost writers in America today. Born in 1875 of Swedish parents, he received his education in Lombard college, Galesburg, Illinois, where he worked his way by ringing bells, sweeping floors and doing other kinds of janitor work. He later enlisted for the Spanish-American war. His work first received attention in 1914, when his poem, "Chicago," appeared in the magazine, "Poetry." Sandburg is a modern poet, writing on contemporary life and social problems and is known primarily for his composition in free verse. However, one

Noted Alumni Feted By California Club At Monthly Meeting

Adjutant-general Raymond O. Smith of Nashville, Miss Mae Nuchols, an employee of the Treasury department in Washington, D. C., Mr. Walker Johnson, president of the Maryville school board and his wife, all Maryville alumni, were guests at a banquet of the Southern California Maryville college club in Los Angeles on September 22.

The features of the program for the evening were talks given by General Smith, Miss Nuchols and Mr. Johnson.

Others attending the meeting were Dr. Ethel Fanson, president of the club, Reverend and Mrs. Lester Bond, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Law, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gardner, Miss Corrine Tetedaux, Mrs. Isabell Brown Yearout, Mr. and Mrs. Tex Middleton, Mr. and Mrs. Lamar Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. William Phillips, Dr. Robert Belt, Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Sheffey, Mr. and Mrs. Erskine Painter and daughter, Janice, and Professor and Mrs. Johnson.

Lenoir-Rhyne Game Ends Today's Program For Alumni

CHOIR SINGS ANTHEMS

Pres. Lloyd, Dr. McGinley, J. C. Crawford Speak Tomorrow

The football game this evening with Lenoir-Rhyne college, and the chapel service tomorrow morning commemorating the life and works of Professor Gideon S. W. Crawford, member of the Maryville faculty from 1874 to 1891, mark the highlights of the sixth annual Homecoming and Founder's Day programs held on the Maryville college campus.

The Founder's Day service, which begins at 8:10 Saturday morning in Voorhees chapel, will include introductory remarks on the "Place of Professor Crawford in the History of Maryville college" by President Ralph W. Lloyd; and two speeches, "Professor Crawford Through the Eyes of a Student" by Dr. Charles C. McGinley, and "Professor Crawford Through the Eyes of a Son" by Mr. Jonh C. Crawford.

Dr. William P. Stevenson, college pastor, will give the prayer of invocation; and the college choir, under the direction of Mr. Ralph R. Colbert, will sing "O Morn of Beauty," written to the tune "Finlandia" by Jan Sibelius, and "O Praise the Lord" by Tschaikowsky.

Dr. McGinley, the second speaker, is traveling from his home in Independence, Mo., for this service. He was graduated from Maryville college in 1891, the same year that Professor Crawford died. The third speaker, Judge Crawford, is a resident of Maryville and a graduate of the class of 1897.

The registration of alumni this afternoon at 5 o'clock in the Alumni gym begins the Homecoming program. At 5:30 there is to be a barbecue on the baseball field for all alumni and former students. This is to be followed by a program in the gymnasium; and the Homecoming football game with Lenoir-Rhyne college of Hickory, N. C., at 7:30 on Wilson Field, climaxes the Homecoming day celebration.

According to an announcement made through the president's office visitors are cordially invited to attend the Founder's day program tomorrow morning.

Sixty-Five Maryville Alumni Earn Degrees In Last Five Years

Fifteen Employed In Printing Program

By PAULINE COPE

Tuesday is not merely the day after Monday, but brings with it the enormous and weighty responsibility of filling out an honor report in chapel. And incidentally those little white, blue and yellow printed slips in the library are not made for decorative purposes, but are placed there for a definite reason. Of course, you know these things; they are quite obvious. The point at hand, however, is not concerned with the purpose of such printed matter, but rather with the fact that this material is printed here at Maryville college.

The printing press, one of the most interesting and beneficial agencies on the campus, is at the same time one of the least publicized and acknowledged. Indeed, few students are conscious of the fact that such an agency exists here and are even less cognizant of the importance of the work performed.

Located on the first floor of Anderson hall, the printing equipment consists of a multigraph machine and a mimeograph machine. This work in typing and printing is one of the most important phases of the student help program and now employs approximately fifteen students. Last year 852 jobs of printing were done for the various departments in college, and although only twelve students were then employed, the payroll in the printing department alone reached $598.

The printing and mimeographing done by this department is varied and extensive in scope. Programs—for commencement, plays, and Founder's day—are printed; tests and examinations are mimeographed; syllabi are made for the history, Bible and home economics departments; and tickets, letterheads, office forms, library slips, honor reports, copy work and time sheets have also been done by this department. In addition to such general work, the printing agency has copied music and has printed mountain ballads which Miss Horne and a few students have been collecting and which, after the printing, are put into the college vault for preservation. Perhaps the finest and most delicate work of this agency has been done for the class in costume designing, and for the biology department. In these two, some very nice stylus work has been done in cutting stencils of costumes, diagrams, and maps—work which requires infinte precision and painstaking care.

Although the work in printing was done formerly through the student help office, it is being carried on this year through the Alumni office, under the able supervision of Miss Geneva Hutchinson.

Welcome Back, Homecomers!

Welcome back, Homecomers! And we wish you a happy visit with us!

We feel proud that you have taken the time and the trouble to come here to spend a short while at Maryville again. Your coming makes us feel that there is something here worth the effort you made in coming.

We undergraduates cannot know exactly why you left the affairs which concern you at home or elsewhere to visit Maryville today. But we believe that it is because Maryville is a vital part of you; that the years you spent here were years of a developing attachment between you and everything that is Maryville college. We hope that the experiences of this Homecoming day will give you all an even greater affection for and interest in your Maryville college.

In Appropriate Climax

In appropriate climax to the sixth annual commemoration of the founding of the college, the faculty of the Fine Arts department is presenting this evening its third annual formal recital. At this one time during the college year the teachers of music and dramatics demonstrate to the students and their fellow faculty members their intimate knowledge of the theory and practice of their respective arts.

The two previous concerts of this series have been outstanding artistic successes. At the recital two years ago Maryville was introduced to its new music faculty in a manner highly conducive to future benefit. Last year concert-goers were given the added privilege of witnessing the talented performance of a Maryville alumna, Mrs. Annarine Atkins Hamilton, returning to the college as an instructor in dramatic art. This year also there is a newcomer to the program, Miss Ruth Thompson, instructor in music, who will sing and play the piano during the recital. On the basis of their training and experience, a typically representative performance is expected from her and from the other members of the department. Many alumni, visiting on the campus during the Homecoming program, will find the recital worthy of their interest, attention, and approval.

Merry-Dille Go Round

THE WASTEBASKET

By SCOTTIE, THE OFFICE BOY

Know how they welcomed the prodigal son on his return home? We of this column aren't going to welcome home-coming alumni in any such expressive fashion. We aren't even going to "take this opportunity to express to you our most hearty welcome." We think it's a waste of time and open arms when every other column in this publication will doubtless do so anyway. We are sure that when we are old grads, knowing the friendly and home-like atmosphere which has always been a Maryville tradition, we shall take our welcome for granted. You will no doubt find other things besides the atmosphere unchanged. Some institutions such as moonshining, orange and garnet, and the night watchman are enternal. Others will be different, as witness: our tower bell, injured last spring beyond all hope of recovery and now retired from active service.

If you were to stick around these parts until exam time we might be tempted to put you on exhibit as specimans of miracle men who lived through the battle and came out unscathed. As you probably won't, we shall merely gaze at you curiously, trying to learn in one easy lesson just How to Succeed When Handicapped by College Education. At any rate, we shall do our dead level best to make you wonder "Those kids. Did I ever act like that?" (Dignified seniors not included, naturally).

* * * *

Chapel awards by this column are as follows:

For most attentive expression—to Robert Brandriff, who keeps right hand over mouth, legs crossed, eyes listening.

For thoughtiest attitude—to Professor Howell, with elbows on arms of seat, head tilted back, eyes dreamily focused on chandelier.

For greatest enjoyment—to Harriet Barber, who completely turns her back to the person on her right and her face toward the speaker, listens with twinkling eyes and frequent smile or low laugh.

For perfect poise—to Inge Jung, who is the picture of grace, ease, and understanding attention.

For blessed comfort—to Quentin Myers, who with arms on balcony rail, head on arms, and feet sticking from under the curtain, sleeps blissfully through it all.

These awards were made only after hours of deep deliberation by the capable judge, even the casual observer. They are absolutely with malice toward none and prejudice toward same. We are confident that the Founder's Day service, though promising a new and varied program, will in no way disqualify the winners or necessitate the revoking of their prizes. Besides, the judge happens to be the type who never changes his mind, even when it needs it.

* * * *

All Hallows Eve may be be truly "hallowed" to those souls (and their name is Legion) who find expression for their personalities in such amusing and varied ways as soapng car windows and changing the abodes of our friends, the Keep Kampus Kleans. But to us it is merely a time to see that all removables are secure, to fear the ghosts of our past sins, and to observe that pumpkins fill a much greater and more appreciated place in the world's work as pies than as lanterns.

However, since we shall doubtless be out celebrating with the worst of them instead of burning the midnight oil in pursuit of learning, we are strangely tempted to wish that some witch or goblin would see us through that French test that is assigned for the next day. "The goblin'll git you if you don't watch out." Yes, but they couldn't possibly hurt us or haunt us any more than that exam already has.

* * * *

Scene (or heard) on Tuesday night:

At Carnegie—"Hey, when are you guys going to let a fellow in that shower? What you tryin' to do, wash yourself away?" "You know, Bill, there's one time when a woman comes in handy and that's when you gotta fix a tie like this." "Yeah, well kindly wait a minute before you go callin' any in." "Anybody seen a ticket to the concert? Had it in my pocket just the other day." "Did you try lookin' in your other pants?"

At Memorial—"Say, what do they do at these formal dinners, anyway? I wonder if theyll have a mile of silver at your place." "No, darling, they don't own that much. You'll survive." "Do you honestly think we'll get our money's worth at this Sallysburg Trapp thing?" "Silly, it's Salzburg, and it's a choir, and it sounds super to me."

At Baldwin—"Gee, sweet, you're a knockout." "Hope Jack thinks so." "Hey, kid, you got an extra hairpin? How about lending it? I'll pay interest." "Sure thing. Anything else I could lend your highness, such an an ermine wrap, a diamond ring, or some orchids." "Somebody please come and sew me into this; I'll get out of it by myself."

At Bartlett—"Some of you dopes better get a wiggle on. Formal or no formal, dinner still starts sometime before midnight." "Oh, what's your hurry? No matter when you go you can count on waitin' ten minutes for your girl to get rigged up." "Not mine!" "Say, somebody help me out. I gotta date for the concert and can't go." "Well, if you're not the jealous type you might be able to sell Smith a little moonshine." "No, on the contrary, you'll have to pay me to take her."

At Pearson's—"Say, who ran off with those priceless scissors?" "Do you honestly think we're going to have enough crepe paper?" "Where's the guy with the candles? Who does he think he is, holdin' up the whole performance like this?" "Boy, is that swing band the stuff! Wonder if we're going to hear from them tonight on the program." "Kindly remove your feet from my eye, young lady, and I'll attempt to assist you in beautifying these sacred walls." "Please may I borrow the hammer and my hand for just a minute." "I'll hold and you hit hard. And be sure you aim at the tack."

* * * *

And now, just in case that homecoming, a big football game, Founder's Day, dinner out on Sunday, more good food at the formal dinner, Halloween, moonlight, cold mornings, a heavy date for dinner and the concert, too much good music, fancy clothes, and the week-end in general should foster too little wise and too much otherwise perhaps we had best consult our ancient sage, Confuse Us, who says:

"Yea, if thou criest after knowledge, and lifest up thy voice for understanding, remember thou this eternal truth, 'A merry heart maketh a cheerful countenance, too much merry heart maketh a hopelessly low report card, and a hopelessly low report card changeth the cheerful countenance beyond all recognition'."

Triangle Club To Have Old Hayloft Program For Hicks On Nov. 5

The Triangle club, composed of students from Pennsylvania, New York, and New Jersey, is planning a hayseed party for November 5. A straw ride, farm games, and an old hayloft program in the evening are part of the program.

The wagons will leave from the campus for the college farm at 2:30 and 3 o'clock. The persons going will dress as country hicks and will play games in the pasture of the farm. In the evening there will be supper around the campfire to be followed by an entertainment carrying out the farm idea. The committee announces that "Grandpappy, Lulu Belle, the Hay-Seeders, and all the farm hands will be there."

Tickets for the party are fifteen cents and are being sold by Marie Jensen, Margaret Knox, Vaughn Lyons, and Phil Evaul. All students from the three northern states are invited to the party.

Topics Chosen By Freshmen Debaters

Forty-one freshmen are enrolled in the debate classes conducted by Prof. Verton M. Queener, debate coach at Maryville.

The class meeting the third period on Tuesday has fifteen members, and the afternoon class, meeting at the sixth period on Wednesday, has twenty-six.

The topic for freshman debate for this year will be chosen from the following subjects: the reduction of the number of counties in Tennessee, an alliance between England and America, and an average wage for industry in America.

of his outstanding works, "Abraham Lincoln," is in prose. "Chicago Poems," "Smoke and Steel," "Good Morning America," and "Slabs of the Sunburnt West" are among his books of verse.

Following the Sandburg lecture this afternoon, Dr. Edwin R. Hunter, head of the department of English at Maryville, spoke before the group on "Objectives in the study of Poetry." Last Thursday afternoon, Dr. Frank D. McClelland spoke before the Teachers of Education and Psychology on "The Maryville College Guidance Program."

A highlight in the general program of the convention came Thursday night when Osa Johnson, wife of the late African explorer, Martin Johnson, showed the pick of 500,000 feet of hitherto unseen film in the picture, "Jungle Calling," filmed by Mr. and Mrs. Johnson in their last trip into the heart of Africa.

The convention will close on Saturday.

Sophomores Plan Hallowe'en Party

Plans for a Halloween party and the election of a sponsor for the 1939 Chilhowean was the business before the sophomore class meeting held Wednesday morning after chapel. The party will be held Monday evening at 7:15, and will include a picture at the Capitol Theatre followed by swimming in the college pool. Refreshments will be served. Dr. and Mrs. Frank D. McClelland, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Dollenmayer, Miss Viola Lightfoot and Miss Phyllis Dexter are to be chaperones.

Those nominated for class sponsor were Louise Wells, Elizabeth Ann Huddleston, Louise Darden, Betsey Gaultney, Anne Abel, and Lula Wade Diggs.

Dr. Lloyd Gives Talk On Christian Youth

President Ralph W. Lloyd will speak at the New Providence Presbyterian church in Maryville next Sunday in connection with the special Sesquicentennial Day being observed by Presbyterian churches throughout the country.

Special emphasis is being placed on Christian education and Dr. Lloyd's theme will be "Christian Youth and Higher Education."

Former Professor Studies At Harvard

Kenneth R. Lagerstedt, former associate professor of French and German at Maryville, attended Harvard university this past summer and is now working on his doctorate there. His address is Drayton Hall, 48 Boylston Street, Cambridge, Mass.

Mr. Lagerstedt, a Phi Beta Kappa from Duke university, also attended the University of Tubingen and Heidelberg university in Germany. He taught in Maryville for seven years.

Dr. Susan A. Green Speaks On Nature At YMCA Service Sunday

Dr. Susan A. Green, head of the department of biology, will speak at the Sunday afternoon YMCA worship service in Bartlett hall on the subject "Health and Service". On the same program Ruth Andrews and Mary Alice Minear will sing a duet, "Remember Now Thy Creator."

Last spring Dr. Green was one of the chaperons at the annual YM-YW retreat at Line Springs; and, at the present time she is a member of the advisory board of the women's Christian organization.

Among the speakers to be on the programs before the Christmas holidays is Dr. Robert B. Hamilton, pastor of the Fourth Presbyterian church of Knoxville, who was the main speaker at last spring's retreat. It is likely that the meeting at which Dr. Hamilton will speak on November 27 will be a combined one with the YW.

Trueblood To Speak

Dr. W. O. Trueblood, minister at large for the Friends Church in America, will speak at the regular chapel service next Wednesday. Dr. Trueblood was for 12 years a pastor of the largest Friends church in the world in Whittier, Calif. He spent last year traveling in Europe, Palestine, and Africa on a special advisery mission of the Society of Friends.

THE BIG BAD BEARS??

It looks as though Maryville's line is going to be outweighed again tonight. In looking over the lineup of the Bruins we find that they have a pair of ends both tipping the scales at over 170 pounds; they also have a couple of bruisers at guard, one tipping the beam at 180 and the other at 192. Their tackles weigh well over 180 pounds each. And their center is about the smallest man on the line, he only weights a mere 170 pounds. Well, you know the old saying that "the bigger they come the harder they fall."

Razzle-Dazzle, Maybe!

So far, most the Highlander's football has been straight, hard pounding, line plunging football. They haven't had to take to the air yet, except in the Union game, which we hope is past history by now. Tonight, playing against a big line, the backs and ends may be forced to fill the sky with a few bullets in the form of passes. The aerial attack should click, with either Tom Taylor or Joe Etheredge on the receiving end of some of Scotty Honaker's pitches. And believe you me, he can really sling them when he has to.

So be on the lookout tonight, fans, for some razzle-dazzle football, that we may have under our hats in case of an emergency.

LOWE RECUPERATING—

Tonight, Lawrence Lowe will be on the sidelines watching the game between the Bears and Scotties. Lowe, who broke his leg earlier in the season, had his leg set last week, and it is now in a cast, and special arrangements will be made for him in the stands. Lot's of luck Lawrence, and we sincerely hope you enjoy the game.

A VOTE OF THANKS—

Last night at the pep-meeting we noticed a distinct improvement in our cheerleaders. We haven't said much about them yet this year, feeling that perhaps they had received enough publicity; but their fine work this year, we think, really deserves some praise. We had our doubts at the beginning of the year, about this matter of girl cheerleaders, but their showing in the last games and at the pep-meetings has convinced us. As far as that goes, the band has added a lot to the spirit at the football games and the pep-meetings, too. It makes a lot of difference to the team wheher or not the crowd is with them vocally or not.

MORE TOUGH LUCK—

It seems as though hard luck dogs us at every crossing, and by that we mean Union last week. Maryville certainly received a tough blow when J. D. Hughes was injured in the Bulldog game. He probably won't be able to be in the lineup much tonight, and believe me, worthy fans, we certainly will miss him.

Union Hands Maryville 13-7 Set Back Sat.

The Union Bulldogs edged out the Scotties 13-7 last Saturday at Barbourville, Kentucky, in a hard-fought upset.

Maryville, handicapped by injuries was pushed far back in their own territory by the big team's punting end, time and again. It was probably this, and the fact that Garner was unable to return the stellar Farmer's punts that lost the game for Maryville. Stafura also aided in the setback by living up to his little All-American rating in blocking and fancy running. Little Scotty Honaker and "High School" Hughes played good ball for the Highlanders.

Maryville played the game to Union in the first half staying deep in Bulldog territory. In the last minutes of the second quarter, after Hughes and Hunt alternated on line plunges, Honaker swept around a flank from the ten yard line to score for Maryville. The half ended: Maryville 7, Union 0. The Bulldogs came right back, however, in the second half to set the Scotties on their heels with a gain of thirty yards on an exchange of punts and finally scored by air after they blocked a kick on the 15, Stafura tossing to Eliot. Farmer, the big right end who averaged practically 60 yards per boot, again showed his skill to convert the extra point with a place kick. This tied up the ball kame. The Scots staged a comeback fighting down to the thirty, but lost the ball on downs. With the series of end runs and reverses, the Bulldogs charged back down the field to the 2 yard line and plunged over for the final counter. The game ended as the Scots lost the ball deep in Union territory.

Score: Maryville 7, Union 13.

Cross-Country Team Leaves For Ga.-Tech Meet Today

This afternoon six members of the Maryville college cross-country team left for Atlanta, Georgia, where they will have a meet with the cross-country team from Georgia Tech.

The race will be about three and a half miles in length, and will be run Saturday afternoon at two o'clock. The team will arrive Friday afternoon, and will spend Friday and Saturday night in Atlanta and will return Sunday morning. The men who will make the trip are: Weldon Baird, Everett Gray, Gene Orr, William Mooney, Vernon Lloyd, and Al Davies. They will be accompanied by Professor Smith.

Maryville Faces Tornadoes Friday

The Maryville Highlanders tackle the King College Tornadoes next Friday night at Wilson Field in what promises to be their hardest conference game.

The huge King team will meet Maryville with a perfect conference record. They have defeated so far this year, East Tennessee Teachers 37-0, Cumberland U. 12-6, Tennessee Wesleyan 25-7, and in their only out-of-conference game held Emory and Henry to a scoreless deadlock. Emory and Henry is rated this year, as one of the country's best small teams.

King college is one of Maryville's traditional enemies. They have not beaten Maryville, however, since 1928. In 1936, they held Maryville to a 7-7 tie, but last year the Scotties rolled over them 20-0.

The King team is unusually large, boasting a 190 pound line from end to end, and a 185 pound backfield. This is a considerable advantage when put up against Maryville's 165 pound line. They also have a fine triple-threat back in Claybaugh. The Scotties should have Joe Etheredge and Garner back in the lineup for this game.

JUNIORS VS SENIORS

INTERCLASS SPORTS

The Juniors are leading the interclass touch football league, and it looks as if they might stay there. They won over the Seniors, Tuesday, 14 to 0. The Seniors held the game scoreless in the first half but the Juniors scored early in the third quarter on a pass from Morrow to Herrich. "Junior" made another, and very difficult catch, and the extra point was good.

In the fourth quarter Etheredge made the greatest run of the year for 6 point. "T" intercepted a Senior pass and followed his interference through the entire Senior team. His race lasted across three-fourths of the field and carried the ball through holes that didn't appear large enough for the pigskin without "T." Stevenson caught a pass for the extra point.

Walker brought the Junior kickoff back on a fast and shifty run that looked as if it might duplicate Etheredge's jaunt, but he was tagged by the alert Juniors. Later the Seniors headed for a sure score with five successive complete passes, Meares snagged three and Walker two, but the touchdown and the game were lost when Morrow intercepted for the Juniors.

Hughes Out With Ankle Injury; Etheredge And Garner To Start

Tonight the Scotties will be stacked up against some real opposition when R. M. (Pat) Shores will bring his Lenoir-Rhyne Bears to Maryville from Hickory, N. C.

Last year, the Highlanders went to the Bruins den, and in a sea of mud the two teams played to a scoreless tie. The year before the Scots were barely able to eke out a 2-0 victory over the Lenoir-Rhyne boys. From the indications of these two games, the teams should be ready to battle it out tonight in a big way. Maryville may have the slight edge, but since her defeat at the hands of Union college last week, it looks as though no one will be the favorite, and the two teams will probably enter the fray on even terms. Maryville will be seriously handicapped by the loss of J. D. Hughes, one of the stellar backs of the conference. Hughes injured his ankle at Barbourville last week, and will not be able to see very much service tonight, if any at all. George Garner and Joe Etheredge may be back however, and they may spell the difference between victory and defeat for the Highlanders. Both were on the sidelines at the Union game due to injuries.

Maryville will be considerably outweighed tonight, but their work against a heavier Tennessee Wesleyan team two weeks ago proved that she could be capable of taking a heavier team without too much difficulty.

Staff Members Journal Guests

Student members of the Highland Echo staff and faculty members of the Publication committee were guests of the Knoxville Journal force in Knoxville, last Monday evening. Tommy Woolf, reporter for the Journal and ex-member of the Echo staff, arranged the tour through the Journal plant. The staff was shown every step in putting out a daily newspaper from the copy desk to the press room.

On returning to the Hill, the staff met in the Y rooms for an informal party and refreshments. Dr. and Mrs. F. A. Griffitts, Professor and Mrs. Verton M. Queener, Dr. Hill Shine, and Professor E. R. Walker were guests.

Arrangements for the trip and party were made by Jean White, Mary Orr, and Bill Felknor.

Law Club Elects 7 New Members

At the bi-weekly meeting of the Law club held last Wednesday evening at 6 o'clock in Athenian hall, seven new members were elected into the club. Those accepted for membership were Harold Austin, Catherine Walters, John Astles, Ed Thomas, Farrel Millsaps, and Barbara Anderson.

Prices for a club pin and key were presented by the chairman of the pin committee, Ed Jussley. By action of the club the first order for these new pins is to be sent not later than November 8. All members of the club desiring pins are to give their money to Jussley before that date if the pin is to be shipped with the first order. Reports were also heard from the picnic committee and the mock trial committee.

Mr. Hugh Delozier of Maryville, was introduced by Gail Hedrick as the speaker of the evening. Mr. Delozier spoke on the various phases in the life of a lawyer, and he closed his talk with an article written to advise any who might fall into the toils of the law.

VOLUME 24 — MARYVILLE, TENN. NOVEMBER 5, 1938 — NUMBER 8

"King's Dilemma" Is Scheduled For December Sixth

Social Committee Sponsors Professional Troupe In Comedy

The Coffer-Miller players, a professional troupe, will present a three-act comedy, "The King's Dilemma," here on December 6, as a benefit for the activities planned by the social committee. Tickets will be thirty-five cents.

"The King's Dilemma" is a three act comedy which deals with one of Henry VIII's marital difficulties. Martha Miller takes the part of Lady Anna von Cleves, the fourth wife of Henry the Eighth. Henry the Eighth is played by Jess Coffer. This historical duo drama is not only said by the critics to be a good play, but also is an interesting bit of history as well.

The dilemmas of Henry VIII were many, but his most serious ones were centered about his wives. He married six times. Each wife he used as a stepping stone politically. So, whenever Henry took a wife the political wind changed. His marriage to Anna von Cleves, daughter of a German duke, is the one chapter in his recorded marital life that affords a hearty laugh. Henry was completely outdone by the little German princess, Anna. Though he divorced her he paid for the privilege handsomely in money, estates, clothes, jewels. It was no small trick for a girl to save her head from the block in playing the marriage game with Henry. But Anna did it. When she died, they buried her in Westminster Abbey.

There are many laughable situations in the play. Both Anna and Henry are difficult roles to play, but Martha Miller and Jess Coffer come through with high honors.

Varsity Debate Class Hears 1939 Question Discussed At Meeting

Members of the varsity debate class met last Tuesday evening in Thaw hall for their usual weekly meeting. Arlene Phelps introduced the speakers of the evening who talked on various phases of the debate subject, Resolved, that the United States should cease to use public funds for the purpose of stimulating business. Speakers were Ruth Kort Kamp, Bob Lamont, and Bill Felknor.

Following the custom of devoting a part of each meeting to some type of speech other than debate, Warren Ashby and Albert Rosser made extemporaneous speeches. Rosser spoke on the prospective Democratic candidates for 1940, and Ashby spoke on the Republican possibilities.

Judge Hugh L. Smith Summons Donald Kent To Appear In Court

Donald Kent has been summoned to appear before the District Court of Blant County on November 9 to answer charges instituted by Edward A. Jussley of theft and attempt to defame character. The trial will take place at the usual fall term of the court and will be held in Athenian hall, unless the court designates some other place for this particular trial.

The summons was issued on October 28, 1938, by his Honor Hugh L. Smith, judge of the court, and Louise Proffitt, as clerk.

Kent is ably represented by A. Kramer, G. Young, and J. Ballenger. Kramer's reputation as a defense attorney is known throughout the nation for the part he took in the trial which resulted in the dismissal of Killer-Diller Gunner last December from the fifteen counts of fratricide instituted against Gunner in this county.

Young is likewise a nationally known figure, and his ability to win hopeless cases is known to every school child. J. Ballenger, although a newcomer to the local bar, is gaining rapidly in fame, and this case is expected to bring out all of his powers.

Representing the commonwealth will be H. Brown, G. Findley, and E. Jussley. This combination is known for its part in the breaking up and conviction of the "Black Band Gang" that held all Maryville in its toils last year. These men are fearless individuals

Faculty Nominates Twelve Students For Election To Scholastic Who's Who

Character, Scholarship, Leadership, Main Considerations As Committee Selects Students For Honorary List

Twelve Maryville college upperclassment, including Weldon Baird, Helen Bewley, Helen Bobo, Curtmarie Brown, George Felknor, Sara Lee Hellums, Arnold Kramer, Marvin Minear, Bruce Morgan, Clifford Proctor, Louise Proffitt, and Fred Rhody, have been nominated for membership in the Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges, according to letters received this week by the nominees from the University of Alabama.

The "Who's Who" publication, issued annually by the University of Alabama, includes students who are selected on the basis of the nomination made by the individaul colleges. Last year the student-faculty committee made the Maryville nominations; but this year the matter was handled by the faculty alone.

Four things are taken into consideration in electing members for this group: character, scholarship, leadership in extra-curricular activities, and potential future use for business and society. Nomination by the colleges is tantamount to election by the "Who's Who" headquarters at Alabama.

Baird, senior from Kilbourne, Ohio, is taking his major work in mathematics, is a member of Athenian Literary society, president of the YMCA of which he has also been treasurer. He has been on the cross-country team for four years, and on both the track and basketball teams for three years. Last year he was president of the Athletic board of control and captain of the Smoky Mountain Conference champion track team. On the 1938 Chilhowean he worked as business manager.

Helen Bewley, Bellfontaine, Ohio, is an English major; treasurer of the Y. W.C.A., president of the women's glee club; member of the college choir; member of Bainonian and Writer's Workshop; Fine Arts editor of the 1939 Chilhowean; and is an English assistant and secretary to the dean of women's residences.

The president of the YWCA, Helen Bobo, Clarksdale, Miss., is concentrat-

Col. Charles B. Wood, Civil Engineer, Speaks Wednesday In Chapel

Col. Charles B. Wood, of Cincinnati, Ohio, will be the speaker at the chapel service Wednesday morning. Col. Wood was formerly a member of the engineering firm that built the first street railway system in London, England, as well as other railways in England and South America. He was also one of the engineers who aided General Gothals in the construction of the Panama Canal, and has been associated with a prominent New York firm for several years.

Since his retirement from active service in his profession, Col. Wood has served as Boy Scout supervisor for Ohio, Kentucky, West Virginia, and parts of Virginia and Tennessee. He is now spending several weeks in southern Kentucky.

Dr. McAfee To Speak At YW Meeting Sunday

Dr. John A. McAfee, pastor of New Providence Presbyterian church, will be YWCA's guest speaker Sunday afternoon at 1:15. His topic has been announced as "Lord, Teach Us To Pray." With Ruth Andrews directing and Bernice Smith accompanying, the YW choir will furnish special music for the service.

Joy Pinneo, vice president of YW, asks that all new girls wishing membership cards obtain them from their Nu Gamma leaders before next Wednesday evening, at which time they must be returned for the signature of the president.

Wintermute Reads Play

An original play, "The Dawn Arose," a religious drama, will be read by John Wintermute, as the highlight of the Athenian Literary society program, to be held at 6:45 tonight in Athenian hall. A trio composed of Stuart Perrin, David Hall and George Vance will give a musical number. Also scheduled for the program is the report of the Athenian-Bainonian play committee on their selection for the midwinter play. All old and prospective new members are urged to be present.

Alpha Sig Hears Kidder

David Kidder, son of a missionary to China, will be the featured speaker of the evening at the Alpha Sigma literary society meeting, this evening. Kidder, who has lived in the present war-torn area of China, since childhood, will tell of his experiences in the Far East and explain briefly developments in the conflict. Prior to his entering Maryville college as a freshman this September, Mr. Kidder spent a month traveling in Europe.

Another feature on the program will be a violin solo by John Guinter.

Junior Pictures Due By Nov. 12

Frosh Elect Class Sponsor From Eight Nominees

Representatives from the Benson Printing Company of Nashville, Tennessee, and the Capper Engraving Company of Knoxville, Tennessee, are expected to be here sometime this week to confer with Otto Pflanze, editor, and Clifford Proctor, business manager, as to the type of binding, printing, and other important features for the 1939 Chilhowean.

At a meeting of the junior class Wednesday morning it was disclosed that only fourteen members had pictures in the class section. Since this section closes November 12, and absolutely no pictures will be accepted after that time, all members who do not have pictures in are urged to attend to this at once.

The sophombre section will open immediately upon the closing of the junior section on November 12.

The Chilhowean staff is attempting to have all copy in by February 1, with the exception of the wrestling and basket-ball sections. According to the new plan of introduction, each class section in the Chilhowean will have at the beginning of its section a group picture of the officers and below will be the class sponsor.

At a meeting held Wednesday morning, the freshman class selected a sponsor from the following nominees: Phyllis Heaton, Lois Thorson, Martha Wilcox, Marian Northup, Linda Robinson, Marie Caldwell, Peggy Carter, and Martha Shearer.

Medical Tests Dec. 2

Medical aptitude tests, supplied by the Committee of the Association of American Medical colleges, will be given here on December 2, at 3:00, Dr. E. R. Hunter, director of curriculum, has announced. The test, which lasts about two hours, is one of the important factors considered in the acceptance of applicants by medical schools, and it is imperative that all planning the study of medicine take the examination.

A fee of one dollar is charged.

Forum In Charge Of Peace Service Friday Morning

Organization Will Conduct Sunday Services At Local Churches

World peace will be the theme of the chapel service Friday morning. The end of the Great War will be commemorated in a special Armistice Day program by the college and participated in by the College Peace Forum. The two Y organizations on the campus, which are sponsors of the Peace Forum, will also be represented in the program.

The service will be built around the Kellogg Briand Pact for the outlawry of war. This pact was signed by more than sixty nations who renounced war as an instrument of national policy. Although repudiated today by many of its most important signers, the treaty still stands as a pacifist ideal.

The most significant parts of this Peace Pact will be read to the audience. Mimeographed copies of parts of the service will be handed out for responsive reading. The college choir will sing a hymn appropriate to the theme of the service.

Those participating in the program will be President Ralph W. Lloyd, Otto Pflanze, Peace Forum chairman, Helen Bobo, YWCA president, and Weldon Baird, YMCA president.

Other plans of the Peace Forum for the observance of Armistice Day concern speeches in three local churches. The Presbyterian church will devote an entire evening church service Sunday to a program planned by the Forum. This program includes four speeches on different "Opinions About War." The speakers will be Hal Lloyd, Jack Proffitt, Ernest Crawford, and Otto Pflanze.

The Northern Methodist Young People's League will hear an address by Fred Rhody. Rhody will speak on "The Way to Peace" and will be under the auspices of the Forum. Bruce Robinson will address a young people's meeting at the Baptist church on the subject "Is War Ever Justifiable?"

These church programs were arranged by Bruce Robinson, member of the Peace Forum executive council.

Class Entertainments Held Monday Evening Celebrating Halloween

The junior, sophomore, and freshman class parties were held Monday evening at various places on and off the campus. Scotch plaid costumes and Halloween decorations were carried out at the junior party, which was held in the gymnasium of the Maryville high school. Dick Woodring, wearing a full Scotch outfit, led the class in group singing. Harriet Miller was chairman of the party committee.

The sophomore class entertained with a theater party which was followed by a swim and refreshments at the college swimming pool. The chairman of the sophomore committee was Charles Baldwin.

Members of the freshman class gained admittance to their party at the college gymnasium by wearing a hillbilly costume; Harry Wilson was awarded the prize for the most unique attire. Mountain music and square dancing were enjoyed during the evening. Jean Stringham, vice president of the freshman class, acted as chairman of the social committee.

Teachers Drill Squad, Band To Attend Game

Plans for the attendance of the band and drill squad of East Tennessee Teachers college at the football game on Wilson field next Friday are being made today, announced Mr. Ralph R. Colbert, who is in charge of the arrangements. Final plans are not complete yet but are being worked out with Mr. Fred Proffitt, college treasurer.

A telegram was received late yesterday from Mr. M. E. Butterfield of the music department of East Tennessee Teachers requesting the admission of the band and squad to the game but final arrangements had not been completed by noon today.

Play To Be Given Tonight In Chapel

One-Act Comedy Staged By Theta Alpha Phi

On Saturday evening at 8 o'clock, Theta Alpha Phi dramatic fraternity, will present a one-act comedy entitled "The Bride Wore Red Pajamas."

The setting for the play is the Richter house on Beacon Hill in Boston, and the time is the present. Sarah Bolton will portray the character of Mrs. Richter, described as a "delightfully irresponsible" person; and the role of her daughter, Virginia Richter, will be taken by Muriel Mann. Benson, the butler, will be played by Gordon Bennett; Lord Percy, Mrs. Richter's choice for Virginia, by Bill McGill; and Gerry Wilson, "a newspaper person," by John Wintermute.

The play is being presented under the auspices of the social committee and all students are invited to attend.

Faculty Club To Hear Dr. W. P. Stevenson On Recent World Cruise

Dr. William Patton Stevenson, college pastor, will speak at the meeting of the faculty club on Monday evening in the home economics rooms. Dr. Stevenson will tell of his trip around the world early this year. Dr. H. E. Orr will preside at the meeting.

Dr. and Mrs. Stevenson made a four months trip around the world, leaving January 9, 1938 on the S. S. Reliance from New York harbor. During their travels they stopped at the Maderis Islands, Morocco, the French Riveria, Italy, Egypt, the Holy Land, and Australia. From most of these places the Stevensons made side trips.

From San Francisco they flew to Maryville, arriving at the airport on May 11. They were met by 200 students and fellow faculty members and the college choir singing the alma mater.

War Is Vesper Topic

Dr. William Patton Stevenson, college pastor, will speak on "What Should be the Christian's Attitude Toward War?" at the vesper service this Sunday. He will be assisted by Ernest Enslin, president of the Ministerial association and Edward Thomas, president of Student volunteers. "In to the Woods My Master Went" by Peter Lutkin, will be the selection offered by the choir.

Plans Are Ready As Tovarich Set Nears Completion

Difficult Russian Comedy To Be Given By Large Cast Nov. 18

Much of the work for the play "Tovarich" to be presented by the College Players on Friday evening, November 18, has been completed and the remainder is progressing rapidly, according to a statement released today by John Fisher, stage manager.

The play calls for four sets. The first, an attic scene, laid in the heart of the slums of Paris, will show the characteristic broken, gray plaster, revealing red brick walls. The second scene, a boudoir, will consist of white walls and brown paneled wainscoating. The drawing-room set will be done in oak paneling. The last set, the kitchen, will have white walls, set off by three feet of black tiling. The three latter scenes are laid in the home of M. Charles Dupont, a wealthy Paris banker. The sets were designed by John Wintermute and John Fisher. William Gehres is in charge of the painting of the sets.

The costuming of the play is under the direction of Arda Walker and Sarah Bolton. Curtmarie Brown, business manager of the production has also announced an extensive advertising and ticket selling campaign to begin next week. An announcement of the play was made during the half of the Maryville-King football game. Posters and signs will be placed through the main portion of town.

Tickets will go on sale during the early part of next week and will be sold each night after supper in Pearson's lobby. They may also be purchased at the Y store, at all local schools, and at Rickett's, Chandler & Singleton's and Proffitt's department store.

The play, under the direction of Mrs. Nita E. West, is judged by Malcolm Miller, Knoxville Journal dramatic critic, to be one of the most difficult productions ever to be undertaken by a Maryville college cast.

Two Book Shipments Received By Library To Be Ready Nov. 15

Two shipments of new books have recently been received by the library and are being catalogued by the staff. They will be available to students by November 15.

The books cover a variety of subjects. There are a large number of specialized works, and about forty books for general reading. From this group especially notable are Margaret Halsey's "With Malice Towards Some," Foster's "An American Dream," and Eve Curie's life of her mother, Madame Curie.

Margaret Halsey accompanied her husband to England recently when he was appointed an exchange professor to a British university. Her experiences on the Atlantic trip and with the English are recorded in an inimitable style in "With Malice Towards Some," which has been called by the Atlantic Monthly "the most hilarious reading of the year."

"The American Dream," by Foster, is the story of a young newspaper man who discovers some old family letters and diaries which take him back three generations. Bit by bit he builds up a picture of his family, and, as he builds this picture he discovers the American dream which had been the guiding spirit of his forefathers.

The Eve Curie biography of her mother, "Madame Curie," was first a successful magazine story before it was published in book form. It was one of the most widely-acclaimed non-fiction volumes of last winter's season, as it tells an intimate story of the struggles which this Nobel prize winner endured in her search for radium.

Josephus Daniels, a Virginian and American Ambassador to Mexico, had published during the summer his account of a trip through the southern states. "A Southerner Discovers the South." A copy of this book is included in the recent shipment.

Other books received at this time are Dorothea Brande's "Wake Up and Live;" Marjorie Hillis' "Live Alone and Like It;" the mystery novel "The Wall," by Mary Roberts Rinehart; and the hilarious "My Sister Ellen," fourteen episodes in the lives of two girls who get into many awkward situations during their early years.

Large Audience Hears Trapp Choir Tuesday

By ROBERT K. BRANDRIFF

The Salzburg Trapp choir was heard last Tuesday evening by an enthusiastic audience of almost a thousand persons. To most of them the spectacle of eight members of a single family, welded by their spirited conductor into an instrument of the flexibility and emotional appeal possible only with the human voice must have been a unique experience, for such organizations are uncommon. Composed not of individual stars or great artists but of unsophisticated young people possessing that rarest of qualities—inherent musicianship, one cannot imagine an organization more peculiarly fitted to present the vocal and instrumental music of the 15th and 16th centuries.

The Trapp family does more than merely entertain; it is performing the inestimable service of preserving and revitalizing great music that for the want of qualified performers is practically unknown to the general public today. This is true not only of their work with the block flutes, but of the early chorales and canons which they present with the freshness and simplicity that must have characterized their contemporary performances, and which is largely in present day arrangements for larger groups.

For all the interest aroused by what was recognized as the Trapp choir's outstanding contribution on this American tour, probably the greatest acclaim was reserved for the folksongs and mountain calls; and their position in the program and the obvious enjoyment with which they were sung indicate that the choir, too, recognized its strength in this genre. None but native Austrians could have sung these folkliedes of the Tyrol as they were sung Tuesday evening.

The appeal of this charming vocal ensemble was considerably heightened by their appearance in native costume which brought a little of the color and pageantry of a Salzburg festival to our own stage. Added to their unstudied stage presence and delightful voices, the result was musical fare of a quality and variety for the most discriminating. And in this appreciation it is impossible to forget the man whose unimpeachable good taste and unerring judgment is responsible for a long line of artist series successes, Professor George D. Howell.

A Setting For Pageantry

During the Autumn season a trip to the mountains is a glorious experience: at no other time of year are the views so beautiful and those who have the opportunity of going and seeing the changing colors and the falling leaves in the Great Smokies are fortunate, indeed.

But most of us stay here at college, with little or no chance to enjoy the beauties and pleasures of mountain-hiking these Fall days. For us, our college campus provides the setting for Nature's Autumn pageantry.

Few colleges anywhere in the country have grounds superior to ours in beauty. Particularly during this Autumn season do we appreciate the loveliness of our campus. Improvements—such as the removal of the present power plant, the building of the new entrance, and the circle drive—all help greatly in making our naturally attractive campus even more beautiful.

A Real Pleasure

It is a real pleasure to hear that negotiations are pending for the attendance of the entire band and dirll squad of East Tennessee Teachers college at the 1938 nenewal of the Teachers-Scotty football series next Friday afternoon on Wilson field.

We count this a pleasure because we feel that such an event is only too rare in the history of our intercollegiate athletic relations. Many are the benefits which accrue from such courtesies—benefits in finer intra-conference understanding and better individual understanding of the students of the schools. Thus we can say with true warmth that Maryville and its students will treat the visiting students and band with whole hearted hospitality during their stay on the campus.

But sometmes such relations lapse for want of two sided cooperation. Participation of Maryville students in such trips is not unprecedented—for example the Maryville students and band visited the University of Tennessee for the U. T.-Maryville game two years ago. Would it not be conducive to a fitting fulfillment of our gridiron tradition for us to make more frequent these visits to other schools?

Merry-Ville Go Round

By FRED RHODY

SHORT, SHORT, SHORT STORIES

The Day of the Big Game dawned Bright and Crisp. The whole Campus buzzed with Excitement: Would Yippyville defeat its old rival, Yappyvale? One hour before Game Time, the President called into his Office "Flash" Swift, Yippyville's star back, and Only Hope to win the Game.

"Flash," said the President in a Kindly yet Firm Voice, "Flash, you're failing Poetry Appreciated 201. I'm going to be White and give you a Special Examination right now. If you Pass, you play today against Yappyvale. If you Flunk—I'm s-sorry, old man. Remember, Yippyville is counting on you, boy!

Coach McGurk looked nervously at his Watch: Two Seconds till game time, and Flash Swift, Yippyville's Only Hope, hadn't made his appearance! Just as the Opening whistle blew, and McGurk looked around Hopelessly for someone to put in Flash's place, a Running Figure rushed Breathlessly through the crowd which overflowed the stands onto the field: it was Flash, struggling into his moleskins! "I've Passed!" he shouted Reassuringly, yet Modestly, to the hysterically joyous Throng

P. S. Flash played a Rather Poor game. He broke his Nose in the last quarter, but Otherwise he did Nothing Outstanding. Yippyville lost.

Oscar looked Very Insignificant in Comparison with the Rest of the Class. To watch him during a Lecture, One would surely get the Impression that he knew Nothing about the subject. Oscar never Volunteered an Answer to a Question, and when the Professor asked him something, he Nervously Mumbled an incoherent Response. Consequently, Everyone just naturally Assumed that Oscar wasn't very Intelligent, and that no one in the class need Worry about making the Lowest Grade so long as Oscar was in the class. Finally, the Day of Examinations came. The Next Day, the Results were announced. Naturally, No One had even Dreamed that Oscar would make the Highest Grade. He didn't: he was at the Very Bottom of the List.

But there was Another Man who was Also in Love with Marge: Jasper! Jasper didn't Seem at All the Kind of Man Marge would be Atracted to. He was very Homely, had a poor Personality, and a Worse Job, and was always in a Sullen Mood. If you had even Suggested that Marge might Marry Jasper instead of Bill, everyone would have Laughed at you. Anyhow, One Day the Papers across the Country carried the News in Screaming Headlines that Marge had Eloped by Night! A Stunned Nation read the Astounding Story while It Sipped its Morning Coffee. No one had even Dreamed for one Moment that Marge would Give Up Bill and All he Meant for Jasper, who had Nothing to Offer. She didn't: she married Bill.

FRESHMUN FUNN

By CAP'N BELLS

With the election of Dudley Moore to the presidency, it looks like the freshman class will be getting a social New Deal (without the debt).

Treasurer Hunt has found his friends have increased tenfold now that he handles the freshman funds. Bet he's heard, "Let's split it two ways and skip town" so many times, he wonders if there is anybody honest in the world. We two are still here, Troy. Ahem, do you suppose we could work it? Are you a man or a sophomore? We could always claim we were kidnapped by a Man from Mars.

Who thinks "Joe" Holman is the "cutest little thing"? Just ask him. I double dare ya!

Fifteen "RAH's" for Captain Wilson, who was injured Tuesday in the frosh-senior touch football fracas. The frosh will win you a game yet, Wilson. Perhaps, if some of the freshgirls would sorta inspire some of the freshboys, they might even beat those big ol' juniors.

Re: last week's Wastebaskitem about Quentin Myers sleeping through chapel. Sir Myers insists that he wasn't asleep. He claims he was just "resting his eyes." And exercising his tonsils?

That formal dinner was a bit of all right. Candlelight, soft music, you and I alone at a table with six others—ah, romance. The Penn-Jersey-York club deserves a big hand for their decorations and the atmosphere they helped to create, (and the dandy advertising they're giving the World's Fair).

DANN CUPID

Now the fly in my soup
Is the guy in my group
Who wants to arrange for my dating.
First he "rates" the whole crop,
Then picks me the "top".
His weakness, I've found, is his "rating".
There's never a beauty,
Or stunner, or cutie;
Perhaps he believes I don't "rate" 'em.
But whether or not
I've deserved what I've got,
I don't just dislike 'em, I hate 'em.
When my appetite sinks,
It's my buddy who thinks,
"It's nothing, I'm sure, that is chronic.
Diagnosing his case,
From the look on his face,
He needs a romance for a tonic."
But strictly between us,
I'll find my own venus;
To let my old friend would be stupid.
He's all right in his way,
But he is, I must say,
A bum imitation of Cupid.

First Formal Dinner Has World Fair Theme

On last Tuesday evening Pearson's dining hall was the scene of the year's first formal dinner. The Triangle club, in charge of decorating the hall, used a New York World's fair theme, employing the orange and blue colors of the fair in gay streamers, bows and flags. The decorating committee from the club was headed by Catherine Davidson.

Recorded music, including favorite orchestral selections and Stephen Foster melodies, was planned by Glenn Young.

Play At Student Vols

A one-act play, "The Lord's Prayer" will be presented by members of the religious drama class at the meeting of student volunteers Sunday evening. The cast includes Carol Ward, Mary Frances Spurlock, Muriel Mann, Gordon Bennett, John Wintermute, and William Goins. Sarah Bolton will read a scriptural prologue and Ralph Reed will sing Malotte's "Lord's Prayer."

Members of the play production class of the dramatic art department are staging the play. Arda Walker is costumer.

Arias Heard By Club

Arias from the standard operatic repertoire were presented at the program of the Disc club on Friday afternoon in the Fine Arts studio. Included were the "Prize Song" from Die Meistersinger, "Elsa's Dream" and "In Distant Lands" from Lohengrin, "Elizabeth's Prayer" and "Evening Star" from Tannhauser, the "Habanera" and "Toreador Song" from Carmen and the "Jewel Song" from Faust. Ernestine Foulke was commentator.

TARWATER SPEAKS TO YMCA

Dr. O. R. Tarwater, pastor of the First Methodist church of Maryville will speak at the Sunday worship service of the YMCA, tomorrow at 5 p.m. on the subject "Secrets of Victory." On the same program Dave Kidder will play a piano solo on variations of "Adeste Fideles" by Thomas Marritt.

QUEENERS GO TO NEW ORLEANS

Professor and Mrs. Verton M. Queener left Wednesday morning for New Orleans, where they are attending a meeting of the Southern Historical association until Sunday. The association meets in different cities of the south each year.

BAINONIAN TO HAVE MUSIC

A secret musical program will be the offering at the regular meeting of Bainonian tonight. No information has been released as to the nature of the program, but it is supposed to be on the order of a radio variety show. All members are invited.

French Club Meets Wednesday Evening

Three new members were elected at the meeting of the French club held last Wednesday evening in the Baker art gallery. The new members are Ruth Gordon, Margaret Hodges, and Marcia Thompson. Plans for a picture for the Chilhowean were discussed. After a short business meeting the Marseillaise was sung. Aline Campbell read a paper entitled "The Life of Daudet" and Miss Dorothy Hunter read "Life in Provence," showing pictures of that section of France. At the close of the program refreshments were served.

Initiation Held Thursday

The new member of the women's glee club were initiated last Thursday evening. The program was in the form of a radio musical quiz. The new girls were welcomed into the organization by its president Helen Bewley and its director, Mr. Ralph R. Colbert. Harriet Barber led the informal group singing. Curtmarie Brown, Margaret Knox, and Marianna Allen were in charge.

Stack Base Laid

During the past week cement was poured for the foundation of the new power house. Previous to this sixty-two cubic yards of concrete was poured into the eighteen foot square excavation for the foundation for the 223 ton smokestack.

The foundation for the gate posts at the new entrance from College street was also laid. This, and the clearing of the walks, and gathering of leaves was included in the program of the campus workers this week.

CAROLINA CLUB HAS PICNIC

Members of the Carolina club left for a "trip to the moon" picnic this afternoon at four o'clock from Pearsons hall in their special rocket. Upon their arrival on the "moon," the College Woods, they will be entertained by the moon-dwellers who will tell fortunes, read palms, and reveal several other lunar attractions seldom seen by earthly eyes.

Now, wed, (they tread that selfsame street;
She trips. He growls, "Pick up your feet."

Think So?

Dean William S. Taylor, of the University of Kentucky, has attacked the admission standards of American colleges and universities as "far too lenient" and declared himself in favor of a selective program whereby "the thirty percent who cannot hope to succeed" will be eliminated.

SCOTTY SIDE SLANTS

By DOUG STEAKLEY
Sports Editor

LAST NIGHT—

"The wind blew and the rain fell." Amen . . . the wind did blow, in the form of a King College Tornado, and the rain did fall, in sheets and torrents. Personally I would much rather have had the rain alone than both together. Those boys out there in those red suits last night incidentally were more than just an idle wind. They were a real tornado. They tackled hard, hit the line hard, and in general played hard. But to our knowledge they played clean and hard football. They brought to Maryville one of the best running attacks seen this year. They opened holes in the line a truck could have driven through, let alone that little halfpint Clabaugh, who we think, was outstanding both defensively and offensively.

The rain drove away a few of the spectators but there was one loyal fan who was rather adept at making up rhymes and reasons, urging the boys on. One of them ran something like this:

"Hickory, dickory dock,
Get in there boys—and block!"

Another of his best ran like this:

"There was an old lady who lived in a shoe . . .
There goes Smith and Taylor, too!"

There were many more too, but we regret we cannot at the moment recall any of them.

We don't want to say much about the defeat last night, but if you will recall last week's column, you will remember our saying that the Scotties would probably take to the air in the next two games. Whether or not you realize it, the two touchdowns in the Lenoir-Rhyne game and the one last night were both made possible by passes. Maryville has one of the keenest potential pass receivers in the conference in Joe Etheredge. With Tom Taylor on the other side of the line to help receive those passes, and with Hughes and Honaker to toss them, can you blame Maryville for using them?

Homecoming Fans See Scotties Tie L-R Bears, 12-12

The Maryville college Highlanders held the Lenoir-Rhyne Bears to a 12-12 tie last Friday night in the Homecoming game played on Wilson Field. The Scotties' running attack was greatly handicapped by the loss of Hughes, who is on the shelf with an injured ankle, and they were forced to take the air for both touchdowns. Two long passes paved the way for both Scot tallies.

Lenoir-Rhyne outgained Maryville, making 22 first downs to Maryville's 5, and the Bruins practically dominated most of the play in the first half with a bewildering set of spinner plays. Lenoir-Rhyne scored first, early in the game after a series of runs by their flashing back, Sigmon, who frequently hit the Maryville line for gains of five to ten yards.

Morton scored the Scotties' first touchdown on a drive through left guard, after a forty yard pass to Etheredge was ruled complete due to interference on the one yard line. Maryville scored again in the third quarter when Scot Honaker tossed a long pass to Tom Taylor who ran the ball 35 yds. to the Bruin's five yard line, where he was dumped by the Lenoir-Rhyne safety man. Two plunges at the line failed, and Garner took the ball over on the third try around right end. J. D. Hughes attempted to convert the extra point, but the injured backfield man missed for the second time this year and the score was Maryville 12—Lenoir-Rhyne 6.

The Bruins turned loose their running attack again in the fourth quarter, with Quinn and Sigmon leading the way they battled their way down the field on a 50 yard drive to score near the end of the quarter.

They failed to convert the extra point and the gun went off with the score tied 12-12.

Although Maryville was outgained and outplayed many times, she showed a powerful passing attack that may bring lots of grief to the Conference this year. Etheredge, Garner, and Hughes were all playing under wraps, suffering injuries of one sort or another.

Lineups:

MARYVILLE		LENOIR-RHYNE

INTERCLASS SPORTS

FROSH-SENIOR GAME

The seniors crushed the Freshmen last week 20-0, in one of the best played games of the intramural season.

The Seniors showed plenty of teamwork in their first victory. McCaskie and Baird sparked the scoring plays for the winners; Wilson and Birmingham played fine ball for the Frosh in the backfield, matching a steady forewall.

After kicking off to the Freshmen, the Seniors took the ball and immediately scored. McCaskie to Baird on the old sleeper pass. McCaskie tossed to Rhody for the extra point. In the second quarter the seniors again scored via air-route, this time Jussley receiving. The Seniors led at the half, 14-0. In the closing minutes of the game, McCaskie again threw a touchdown pass to Meares far into the end-zone to end the scoring for the day. Seniors 20—Frosh 0.

FROSH-SOPH

The sophomores beat out a crippled freshman squad 9-0, Thursday, in a scrappy game.

The soph line stood out in both offensive and defensive play, keeping the freshmen back in their own territory and blocking for Kindred's passes and runs. Kindred was the outstanding back of the afternoon.

The sophs scored in the first quarter with a beautifully executed pass, Van Blarcum to Kindred, good for 30 yards. Peterson caught a pass to convert the point. Again in the third quarter Evaul rushed in to tag Burns, attempting to pass behind his own goalline, adding two points for the sophomores. Final score: Sophs 9,—Frosh 0.

Scot Runners Lose To Tech, Face Tennessee Wednesday

The cross country team is planning a meet with the University of Tennessee this Wednesday afternoon at Knoxville. Although the team suffered defeat at the hands of Georgia Tech in Atlanta last Saturday, they are expected to be in better condition for the meet Wednesday. A return meet will be run at Maryville on November 18, over the college course, with the Tennessee Vols. The men who will probably run against the University are: Weldon Baird, Everett Gray, Gene Orr, Alfred Davies, Vernon Lloyd, and Bill Mooney.

Scottie Honaker's Kicking Is Wasted As Shockey And Breaks Cost SMC Lead

King Rallies To Knock Scots From Loop Pinnacle, 13-6 With Crashing Last-Half Offensive

The King college Tornado blew over Wilson Field last night and left the Maryville College Highlanders on the tail end of a 13-6 score. King flashed a smooth running attack that blasted hole after hole in the Maryville line letting Clabaugh or Shockey drive through for gains of five to ten yards.

Maryville's only hope seemed to be in their passing offense, and they scored their lone touchdown on a pass from Hughes to Etheredge. Maryville was in King territory most of the game and practically all of the first half was spent deep in the Tornado ground. Maryville scored first in the second quarter when Honaker booted one out on the King 15 yard line, and on a badly angled King punt which went out on the King 30 yard line, Maryville was in scoring position. On the first play Morton hit the line for four yards. Hughes then tossed the touchdown pass to Etheredge who was on the two yard line and had merely to step over the line for the first tally. J. D. Hughes' attempted place kick for extra point failed. Maryville lost another opportunity to score in the same quarter, when she fumbled on the King 15 yard line.

In the third quarter King drove 55 yards to score their first touchdown. Decker started the parade off with a 25 yard jaunt around right end, bringing the ball to the Maryville 35 yard line. Hawkins then drove through to the fifteen for a first down. Two more right end runs brought the ball to the seven yard line, where Shockey smashed through left tackle for the touchdown. An attempted left end run for the extra point failed.

The Tordnadoes then kicked to the five yard line, where Al Burris made a beautiful run back of 45 yards. Garner then booted the ball down to the ten yard line and King punted back to their 45 yard line. Another of Maryville's passes, a lateral from a forward pass, Hughes to Etheredge, who lateraled to Burris, netted the Scotties 20 yards. On the next play a 15 yard penalty was imposed on the Highlanders for holding and thus another scoring opportunity was lost. Garner then punted to the 20, and the third quarter ended.

Shockey then started another, Tornado touchdown drive with a fifteen yard run, but King lost the ball on downs deep in Maryville territory. Maryville, however, fumbled on the first play and the ball went back to King. Hawkins then ran, unmolested, around right end to score standing up, and when the extra point was converted with a placekick, the score was King 13 and Maryville 6.

In the remaining few minutes of the game Maryville threw passes in all directions attempting to score, but the game ended with King in possession of the ball on Maryville's forty-five yard line.

Scot Honaker, quarterbacking for Maryville most of the game, played a fine game of ball, punting and passing with accuracy in both cases. "Nig" Wilburn was a tower of strength on defense, broke through many times, and in general succeeded in giving King plenty of trouble. Cousin Joe Etheredge looked like he was back in the form which has been threatening the Conference this year. Etheredge, despite his injury, played the whole game, and was in every second of the 60 minutes.

The loss to King was the first conference defeat suffered by Maryville this year, and although we are not alone in first place, we are still on top of the heap, with King and Carson-Newman there too.

FORMER COACH VISITS

Among the many visitors on the college campus during the summer months were Coach Z. Jay Stanley, former coach at Maryville college who is now practicing law in Richmond, Ind., and Luther Thompson who is now head of the Aluminum Company of Canada.

Women's Soccer Title Won by Jr.-Sr.

Thursday the junior-senior soccer team of the women's point system won the soccer championship by defeating the freshmen team 5-0, in a well contested game. The junior-senior team had defeated the sophomore team, 3-2, in a game played a week ago Thursday.

The freshman team receives honorable mention in the tournament, having defeated the sophomore team on Tuesday, 6-2. There are so many freshmen out for the point system this year that two teams were chosen for soccer and each girl on the two teams had her opportunity to play. The freshmen should be commended on the good fight that they put up.

All the games were fast, but were not as rough this year as they have been previously. Hazel Eddins, director of the point system groups, says that this is due to the penalty which was enforced for not keeping the hands behind the back.

The winning team, that of the junior-seniors, was captained by Jane Corry, and the manager was Dot Quass. The team is as follows:

Halfbacks: Jane Corry, capt. Joy Corrigan, Barbara McCutcheon.
Forwards: Virginia Partridge, Elizabeth Stone, Lyn Tyndall.
Fullbacks: Marianna Cassady, Dot Quass, manager.
Wings: Louise Allen, Catherine Davidson.
Goalkeeper: Maude Smith.

Meares Pinch-Hits On Mat

Wrestling practice started last week under the coaching of Edgar Meares, while Coach Robert Thrower is working on football. Practice is held every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, and every one interested in coming out for wrestling should report for practice Monday.

The team suffered several losses by graduation last year, but a good season is anticipated with lettermen Jenkins, Meares, Everett, and Hahn back again this year. There are many open vacancies however, and they will be the headache for Coach Thrower this winter. Approximately 14 men have reported for the first practice but more are expected out after football season gets under way.

Swimming Team Practice

Nineteen men turned out to Coach Gillingham's first practice for the swimming team Tuesday.

With four letter-men back for the team and nine freshman prospects, Mr. Gillingham's first practices proved rather favorable for a good year. In the first meeting Coach discussed training rules and general requirements for the swimming squad. Wednesday, Thursday and Friday the squad was put through light practice; Monday regular training will start.

The captain this year will be elected next week from last year's squad: Findley, 50 and 100 yard free style; Ritzman, breaststroke; Akana, all-around; Gene Crane, diving; and Felknor, 440 yard free style. Ed Ciurczak will assist Coach Gillingham and manage the team.

WHO'S WHO

ing in the field of Home economics. A member of Bainonian; two years a member of the glee club; and secretary of her junior class last year constitute her major activities in Maryville.

Curtmarie Brown, of Brooklawn Manor, Morris Plains, has done most of her extra-curricular activities in speech. For two years she has been a member of the varsity debate team; and of Pi Kappa Delta. She was president of the honorary fraternity for the year 1937-38. She has been on the Chilhowean staff two years; the Highland Echo three years; the YW cabinet three years; and the women's glee club for three years. Majoring in history, she is also secretary to Professor Verton M. Queener, head of that department.

Felknor, editor of the Highland Echo, has been on the staff for four years, two of them as managing editor. He is a member of Writer's Workshop; Athenian, and was on the '38 Chilhowean staff, and a member of the varsity swimming team last year. For three years he has been an assistant in his major subject, chemistry. Felknor lives in Meridian, Miss.

Also a chemistry major and assistant in the department, Sara Lee Hellums, junior from Rotan, Texas, is Nu Gamma leader for the YWCA; and a member of Bainonian. On both the freshman and varsity debate teams, she is a member of Pi Kappa Delta. In 1936-37 she was vice president of the class of '40. For three years she has been a reporter on the Highland Echo staff.

Kramer, a town student, is a political science major. He is a varsity debater and member of Pi Kappa Delta. For two years he has been on the varsity football team. He was president of his class his sophomore year; and was elected to Writer's Workshop at the end of the year.

Minear, also a Maryville student, is a member of Athenian, majoring in sociology. Treasurer of the YMCA, in 1936-37; he was president in 1937-38, and is now a member of the cabinet. For five years he has been in the college choir and assistant in the Treasurer's office. He was elected to Writer's Workshop, from which he resigned in the spring of this year.

Alpha Sigma president, Morgan, from Bloomsbury, N. J., is also vice president of the YMCA. Majoring in English, he is also doing honors work in that department this year. His other activities include editor of the '38 Chilhowean; member of the Writer's Workshop; member of the track team for two years; and member of the student council and Highland Echo staff his freshman year.

Proctor, a transfer student from Bridgewater Teachers college last year, is a history major and assistant in that department. Last year he was a member of the varsity debate team. At the present time he is the secretary of Athenian; and business manager of the 1939 Chilhowean. Proctor is a junior from Reading, Vt.

Louise Proffitt, Maryville junior, has been a member of Pi Kappa Delta since her freshman year and is now president of that organization. She is also a member of Writer's Workshop and Bainonian. Her major work is in the department of history.

Rhody, president of Athenian, is from Philadelphia. He has been on the YMCA cabinet for two years; the Highland Echo staff for three years; and, on the '38 Chilhowean staff, serving as sports editor. Last year he was junior class president; and a member of the Writer's Workshop, from which he resigned last month. At the present time he is on the student council and student-faculty committee. Rhody is doing work in sociology for his major.

Seven of the twelve "Who's Who" students this year are seniors. The four juniors who were elected last year to represent Maryville in the "Who's Who" publication were renominated for the 1938-39 edition of the book. They are: Baird, Minear, Rhody, and Helen Bobo.

Maryville Scrubs Beat Porter High School 20-0

The Maryville Scrubs showed their stuff Thursday afternoon by taking Porter high school 20-0 on Wilson field.

The Porter high school squad uncorked a nice flurry of passes, though several times during the game, the Maryville sub-Scotties pulled some nice running plays with Deweese carrying the ball. Maryville, however, never had any trouble during the game, and easily outplayed the high school boys. Deweese and Nicely shone in the backfield; "Lil' Abner" Barbour played a bangup game at center. Cook and Davis pulled down plenty of passes for Porter.

The third stringers scored in the first quarter when Spiers cut around end from the Porter ten. The half ended with the score Maryville Scrubs 6—Porter high 0. In the third quarter Deweese caught a lateral on the first bounce and lit out twenty-five yards and over the goal line standing up. Hahn converted the extra point. The Scrubs marked up their last tally in the last quarter when Deweese cut off tackle for a thirty yard dash along the sidelines. Hahn converted and the score stood 20-0, in favor of Maryville when the game ended.

Captain J. T. Hunt, former editor of the Highland Echo and now a member of the faculty of Castle-Heights Military Academy, is visiting the campus this week end.

A brief business meeting will be held by Theta at 6:45 this evening. Because of the Theta Alpha Phi play, no program has been planned.

Teachers Game

The Scotties are anticipating, rather anxiously, next week's game with the Johnson City Bucaneers. Coach J. G. McMurray's team is featuring Fleming, one of the best ball carriers and passers in the conference, on a program of dazzling offenses. This week they are attacking Carson-Newman at Jefferson City. By looking at past scores, the Teachers have a good chance of giving the Scotties a real battle.

The Teachers are strong on the unexpected. Last week they sprang into the conference picture with a 14 to 6 win over King and will be looming rather large if they win over Carson-Newman. Last year the Bucaneers nosed out Maryville 13-10, and 2-0, in '36.

HAYSEEDERS HAVE PARTY

The hayseed party of the Triangle club began this afternoon at 2:30. In wagons packed with hay, the members rode out to the college farm where they spent the afternoon playing games.

They are to have an old-fashioned country dinner down in the pasture this evening. Following dinner, there will be a surprise program.
